Former Secretaries of Defense to keynote speakers' forum

Former Secretaries of Defense Dr. Robert M. Gates and Leon Edward Panetta will be the featured speakers at the Chicago/Midwest Chapter of the Turnaround Management Assoc. (TMA) Executive Speaker Forum on Monday, November 23 at the Radisson Blu Aqua Hotel, 221 N. Columbus Dr. The Forum will begin at 5 p.m.

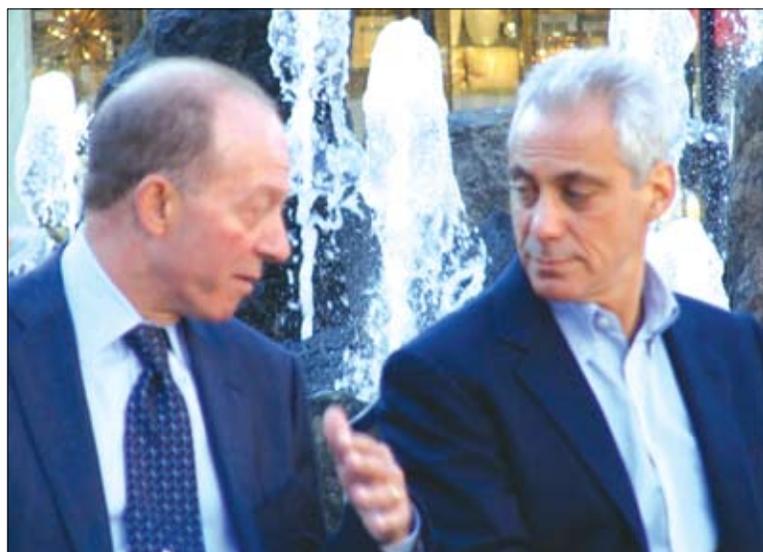

with a VIP Reception. A formal, sit-down dinner follows at 6:30 during which Gates and Panetta will speak.

Individual tickets and table package options are available, including a premier event table for $20,000, an event table for $9,000 and a corporate table for $5,000. Individual tickets can be purchased by members for $325 each. Cost is $400 for non-members.

Sec. Gates served as the 22nd Secretary of Defense (2006 - 2011) and is the only secretary of defense in U.S. history to be asked to remain in that office by a newly elected president.

He has been awarded the National Security Medal, the Presidential Citizens Medal, has twice received the National Intelligence Distinguished Service Medal, and has

Mayor congratulates NEWCITY developers at opening

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY PATRICK BUTLER

A performance by grade schoolers from the Chicago British School, mascots dressed as bowling pins, a stilt walker, face painters and a flight of balloons launched by Mayor Rahm Emanuel heralded the Oct. 30 grand opening of the NEWCITY residential and retail development at 1457 N. Halsted St.

The project is located in the white hot North and Clybourn retail district, which is second only to the N. Michigan Ave./Oak St. area for retail sales in Chicago. In fact, even before NEWCITY was built the retail offerings lining the area's streets offered more retail square footage than does Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

Two years earlier almost to the day, John Bucksbaum of Bucksbaum Retail Properties and Mike Drew of Structured Development ignored the doomsayers after struggling through what many felt was the worst economic crash since the 1930s and broke ground on the 8 1/2-acre site, including 360,000 square feet of retail space, 36,000 square feet of medical offices, 40,000 square feet of restaurants, a one-acre landscaped plaza, 1,000-space parking garage, 200 rental apartments, the city's largest Mariano's supermarket, a 14-screen movie theater, and 22,000 square feet of bowling alley.

"NEWCITY has the space and is the space for Chicago," Bucksbaum said.

Mayor Emanuel called the $275 million development "a signal" investors are once again "ready for major developments."

It's an example of how the public and private sectors can work together with the city providing support, but not financial assistance, he and Drew agreed.

Drew said he and Bucksbaum filled the gap left after the New City YMCA was razed when membership dwindled after the Cabrini-Green CHA housing project was phased out. Building the new NEWCITY generated between 800 and 1,000 construction jobs — and $90 million in wages and benefits.

"The incremental tax this facility will produce for decades to come should exceed $18 to $20 million annually. And the mayor will appreciate that this was done without a single TIF dollar," words that prompted the mayor to jump up and shake Drew's hand.

"One of the things we're proudest of are the 1,200 permanent jobs, many of them for community residents," Drew said, estimating that the wages and benefits are expected to exceed $50 million a year.

"The incremental tax this facility will produce for decades to come should exceed $18 to $20 million annually. And the mayor will appreciate that this was done without a single TIF dollar," words that prompted the mayor to jump up and shake Drew's hand.

Drew said 60 apartments have already been rented. The 19-story tower offers studio, one-, two- and three bedroom units, with studios starting at around $1,800 a

Community input on Wanda Tower proposal still being accepted

Earlier this week, the city hosted a second community presentation for the proposed development at 381-383 East Wacker Dr. The first public meeting for this proposal was held April 13. Representatives of the Magellan Development Group presented their revised plans for a new hotel and condominium building in the New Eastside neighborhood.

The slideshow presentation from the meeting is available for download at <https://dl.dropboxusercontent.com/u/31451100/20151029%20Community%20Meeting.pdf>.

Those residents who were unable to attend the October 26 meeting, and would like an opportunity to share their thoughts on the proposal can write to Ald. Brendan Reilly [42nd] as he is still accepting comments and feedback on the proposal. They can be sent to: development@ward42chicago.com.

It takes an entire year for Chicago to grow as much as Nashville does in one day

BY CRISSY MANCINI
NICHOLS

Metropolitan Planning Council

I read a stat that Nashville grows by 80 people a day. Of all the stats I read on a daily basis, this one stuck with me since Chicago only grew by 82 people in all of last year!

The Nashville region is expected to grow by almost 40% over the next 15 years, adding roughly 500,000 people, while Chicago—a region currently four times the size—will only grow by seven percent, or 640,000 people. Nashville built 14,944 new housing units in 2014 to Chicago's 15,679.

So what makes Nashville a place people want to live? What can Chicago learn?

We know that Chicago is a slow-growing city and region, that over the next decade Houston may overtake Chicago's place as third most populous city and that places like Nashville and Minneapolis are where everyone wants to be.

I went to Nashville, talked to local leaders, dined in its hip new restaurants, ate delicious popsicles and spent lots of time trying to find out what makes Nashville so great.

The first thing I noticed about Nashville was cranes. They are everywhere. More than 100 new projects—$2 billion in development—are being constructed in Nashville. I counted six in a few-block area of the Gulch neighborhood, adjacent to downtown Nashville and Music Row, alone. The second most noticeable thing about Nashville? Cars. There are almost no transportation options other than driving.

Overall my research points to seven reasons Nashville has become so popular, but also cautions that sustainability is a real concern and could stymie future growth.

Nashville grew an average of 1.6% each year from 2011 through 2014, while Chicago only grew 0.3% annually.

In the past few years its population has surged. In 2014 alone the city of Nashville grew by almost 5,000 people and the region 34,000, compared to Chicago's 82-person growth and the Chicago region's 4,735-person growth.

Breaking down the demographics, Nashville is much less diverse than Chicago, mainly because its Latino population is not as big.

1. Low cost of living

A cost of living comparison offers the first glimpse of why Nashville is an attractive option for people. Nashville and Chicago have about the same median household income, but housing is less expensive in Nashville, with the median value of a home averaging $50,000 less than in Chicago. Add to that

Local artisans gather for weekend market

The Seventh Annual Streeterville Artisan Market will take place this weekend in the main lobby and atrium at the Lurie Medical Research Center on the Chicago Campus of Northwestern University's Feinberg School of Medicine, 303 E. Superior St.

The event features 58 artisans from the Chicago area, with 12 local food vendors including some new faces and flavors. Residents are invited to look for gift ideas and items for friends, family, home and table during the market 2-8 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Proceeds benefit the Streeterville Organization of Active Residents [SOAR]. For more information call the SOAR office at 312-280-2596.

Local student stars in upcoming play

Elizabeth Brahin of Lakeshore East, a student at Ogden School, is one of six middle schoolers who will star in "Six Stories Up in the Art Institute" Nov. 6-15 at the Athenaeum Theatre, 2936 N. Southport Ave.

The Tellin' Tales Theatre production brings together middle school kids, adult mentors and artists with mental and developmental disabilities from Bridgeport's Project Onward to answer the question, "What constitutes a masterpiece?"

The result is a look at the lives of six great masters—Rousseau, Picasso, Toulouse-Lautrec, Basquiat, Kandinsky, Kahlo and Van Gogh—whose struggles and art work mirror the lives of the Project Onward artists as well as the young apprentices.

The show is written, performed and produced by children and adults with and without disabilities, incorporating original artwork created by Project Onward artists.

Brahin's focus is on Toulouse-Lautrec with adult mentor Mike Herzovi.

Tellin' Tales artistic director Tekki Lomnicki also is from Lakeshore East.

Challenge

The annual mentoring program was developed to provide an opportunity for middle school children and their mentors to write and star in a full-length play with a new theme every year.

Earlier this year, ADA25 Chicago challenged Tellin' Tales to change the game to more fully realize the Americans with Disabilities Act's promise of inclusion, equality, independent living and full participation for people with disabilities. In August, storytellers were paired with middle school students with and without disabilities. Each team was given the mission to explore the life and work of one great master and compare him or her with a Project Onward artist.

In early September, mentors and their apprentices came together to link the six vignettes and draft a final script.

"Six Stories Up in the Art Institute" is geared toward adults and children age 10 and up. The show lasts about 90 minutes with one intermission. Tickets are $22 for adults and $17 for students. The cost includes a $2 Athenaeum Restoration Fee. Group rates are available by calling 773-935-6875.

Shows are at 7:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays. Sunday's show will incorporate sign language and audio descriptions.

Ruins III (left) has been taken down. It has been replaced by Allium (right), created by Chicago artist Carolyn Ottmers in 2004.

Ten-foot aluminum flower replaces often-vandalized riverfront sculpture

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

A bronze and limestone sculpture titled Ruins III, that had been on the Chicago Riverwalk for at least four years, lived up to its name and was taken down this year after repeated vandalism.

According to a spokesperson for Chicago Dept. of Cultural Affairs & Special Events, the sculpture "will be restored and placed in a more secure location yet to be determined."

The 10'-tall cast aluminum sculpture was installed on the Riverwalk between Columbus Dr. and Lake Shore Dr. on September 14, but was created in 2004.

"My sculptures often reflect my genuine interest in and love of nature and its processes, which includes our intervention," says Chicago artist Carolyn Ottmers. "The recurrent use of multiples reflects a combined interest in the variation and diversity of nature as well as the industrial production of objects."

Ruins III was created in 1978 by Peoria artist Nita Sunderland, now 88 years old, who is professor emeritus of art at Bradley Univ. Inspired by her travels through Italy and England, the figures, which were occasionally toppled, reflected Sunderland's interest in parallels between medieval and contemporary society. Before moving to the Riverwalk, the sculpture was located on the northeast corner of Clark St. and Jackson Blvd.

Grassroots coat drive brings warmth to those on streets

BY RYAN CONNELLY
Medill News Service

A few feet from the traffic passing under the I-90/94 overpass on Fullerton sits a mattress. Beneath the covers of the mattress on the ledge, a man and a woman lay resting, their belongings close by. On the other side of four lanes of traffic, a few people congregate, their possessions filling shopping carts.

It's about noon on Sunday, October 18. This area is popular for individuals on the streets to seek shelter, even during the heaviest traffic times of the day.

By 8 p.m. on October 19 the city has totally cleared out the underpass. It looks like no one has been there. Such is the transient world of life on the streets.

This is the world and these are the people that Ira Coleman vowed to help when he started Button & Zipper in 2013.

"My mom has instilled in me giving back to the community, helping out people in need whenever possible," Coleman said.

Button & Zipper is a coat drive that collects donated coats from 19 local partner businesses and brings those coats to people on the streets and at-risk youth to organizations that help those on the streets. The grassroots drive, operated solely by Coleman, started collecting donations last month and ends Feb. 29, 2016.

Service trips to Nicaragua with his company, TransNational Payments, helped spark the idea for a tangible way of assistance in a city where more than 30 people have died due to cold weather since 2013, according to the Illinois Dept. of Public Health.

"Serving down there really opened me up to understanding how can I give back to the Chicagoland community, so I decided to start a coat drive."

The first year Coleman ran the coat drive, he collected 845 coats. Last year he received about 1,400 donated coats. In 2015-2016, he is confident he'll pass the 1,500 coat mark and hopes to get about 2,000. So far he is bit over 200.

Coleman said he spends 20 to 30 hours per week running Button & Zipper in addition to his full-time job at TransNational Payments.

He collects coats from cardboard bins placed in storefronts that serve as drop-off sites. Some of the businesses are owned by friends like Sarah Gutierrez, who runs Nichole.Beck Hair Boutique on Diversey in Lakeview.

Other participating North Side businesses include Knife & Tine, Pressbox Cleaners, Tabula Tua, Roscoe Village Chamber of Commerce, Subterranean, Kevin Greco – State Farm Agent, The Lock Up Self Storage, Beat Kitchen, Immediate MD, and Burger Baron.

the fact that annual expenses for a family of four are roughly $15,000 cheaper. And Tennessee's per capita taxes are some of the lowest in the country. With no state income tax, combined state and local per capita tax burden is only $2,777 in Tennessee compared to $4,658 in Illinois. Comparing property tax bills between similar properties in the two cities would make Chicagoans ill.

2. It's good for families

Data shows that between 2009 and 2014 Chicago grew by 23,000 people and Nashville by 41,000 people. However, both grew by the same number of households—about 17,000 households.

The makeup of those households was significantly different—Chicago's household growth was almost all small, non-family households, meaning either singles or people living together that are not related or not married. Meanwhile, Nashville's growth was majority family. It's likely that Chicago is experiencing household changes where larger families move out and are replaced by a single person or a non-married couple with no children, while in Nashville household growth is families with children—and that means more people.

3. Stress—less of it

Also on par with the low cost of living that makes Nashville an attractive place is a few phrases that kept coming up in my conversations—Nashville “is easy” or “simple” and “a less stressful place to live.” In a comparison of the most stressed-out cities, Chicago ranks sixth and Nashville 33rd. While sitting at Barista Parlor Golden Sound, a coffee house located in an old recording studio in the Gulch neighborhood, I overheard a conversation that sums up that sentiment. A woman in her 20's was visiting from New York City and talking on the phone about a potential move to Nashville. Her reason? I can work anywhere, why am I killing myself trying to pay rent in NYC when there are cool things in Nashville and it's so much cheaper?

She went on to say “I don't have a desire to leave New York, I have a desire to not have a heart attack by the time I'm 30.” And the clincher: “I have another friend moving here from San Francisco and can rent a beautiful one-bedroom loft overlooking downtown Nashville and be less stressed.”

4. Jobs

Named one of Gallop's top five cities for job growth, over the past decade Nashville grew nine times more jobs than Chicago as a percent of total jobs. Taxes and the regulatory environment could play a role in that growth—Tennessee's corporate income tax rate is 6.5%, compared to Illinois' combined 9.5%. Tennessee's business tax climate is ranked 15th overall, compared to Illinois at 31st. There's also no personal income tax.

While Chicago's gross regional product dwarfs Nashville's at $610 billion compared to $107 billion, Nashville's per capita gross regional product is just slightly less than Chicago's at $55 million and $58 million respectively. And it has grown at double the rate of Chicago's since 2001. Nashville has only two companies in the Fortune 1000 compared to Chicago's 22, but office growth is on the rise. Office vacancy in Nashville is at 7.5% compared to Chicago's 13.3% and Nashville has 1.7 million square feet of office space under construction, which is huge considering Chicago's 2.2 million square feet of office space under construction. Lower office rents, combined with a lower cost of business and living, are attracting companies such as Lyft, which recently announced it was moving its customer support headquarters from San Francisco to Nashville and hiring 400 new employees. Lyft cited “San Francisco's increasingly unaffordable rents” ($70 per square foot compared to Nashville's $18-$22 per square foot) and that they “...chose Nashville as the home of our newest office because it is a great city with a lower cost of living and a growing talent pool.”

With few transit options, restaurant and bars in Nashville shuttle patrons home in golf carts—that are permitted to drive on the road.

5. Government Efficiency

With no state income tax, combined state and local per capita tax burden is only $2,777 in Tennessee compared to $4,658 in Illinois.

A universal theme I heard attributed to Nashville's growth is that the city “removes hurdles to make it happen.” One of these hurdles is layers of government. In several of my conversations with Nashville leaders, the discussion turned to the fact that Illinois' tangled web of 7,000+ government units results in a highly fragmented governance system that does not directly improve our economy or quality of life. Businesses have said they located in Nashville because there were less layers of government to deal with in the region and Nashville was perceived as an easier place to do business. For example, a call center was awarded a building permit in one day.

6. Planning

Nashville recently adopted Nashville Next, a comprehensive plan that will guide the city's growth for the next 25 years. The three-year engagement involving more than 18,500 participants in the planning. The plan is “...a strategy for what the city should do. Where to build homes — and what kind. How to improve transportation. And the best ways to spend city tax dollars.” There is an overall consensus on focused development downtown. The plan's four strategies are: create more walkable centers; create opportunity through abundant housing; build a high-capacity transit system and increase the community's resiliency.

In creating the four strategies, planners considered changes in demographic trends, poverty and environment, and aligned those trends with the plan's goals.

For example, Nashville will have an older population with the aging of the Baby Boomer generation and a younger Millennial generation, both of whom will want smaller, attached homes rather than homes on large single-family lots. Further, demographic trends “...point toward a future where demand for walkable neighborhoods outstrips the supply...”

Nashville Next has a preferred future shaped by six factors: protection of sensitive environmental features; a complete transit network; household affordability across income levels; focus on activity centers—places with transportation access, abundant housing and amenities; strategic infill that supports transit lines and activity centers, and protection and enhancement of the character of different parts of the county.

Their goals are to develop standards that guide the design, location and construction of affordable housing across all neighborhoods. Target infill development along mobility corridors to provide more housing choices that support walking and transit use and to transition gracefully between residential neighborhoods and more intense mixed use and commercial centers and corridors. And ensure jobs, education and training opportunities are located close to transit service, in centers or in high-need areas.

These goals will guide how the Metro government regulates land use, zoning and other development decisions as well as capital spending through policy maps.

A few doggone awesome veterans' efforts

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

the vets—just like the vets take care of us.

Tomorrow, Nov. 5, Fifth Third, along with City Clerk Susana Mendoza and The Anti-Cruelty Society, will host the second annual "Pets for Vets" animal adoption day, in honor of Veterans Day. That means that starting at noon, veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces can adopt a pet FREE, without paying pet adoption fees, thanks to the bank and Mendoza at the Anti-Cruelty Society, 57 W. Grand Ave.

Also joining in is the local veteran's organization War Dogs Making it Home, a fabulous group based in Roscoe Village that pairs veterans with Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) or Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) with rescue dogs who are trained as their service dogs. It was this particular group that caught the bank's eye and was the catalyst to starting Pets for Vets, said Robert Sullivan, a Gold Coaster who is CEO

I don't want to sound like a commercial for Fifth Third Bank, I don't even bank there. But I can't help but be impressed by what the bank is doing for veterans. They're taking care of and regional president of Fifth Third Bank. Several years ago, the Fifth Third Bank folks "met and fell in love" with War Dogs Making it Home, said Sullivan.

"This nonprofit rescues dogs from high-kill shelters in the Midwest, and trains them to become support dogs for veterans with PTSD and traumatic brain injury," said Sullivan. "To date, we've sponsored over six dogs and have seen first-hand that this program is saving the life of both the veteran and the dog. This inspired us to help other veterans connect with available dogs and cats in area shelters, and our Pets for Vets program was born."

Owning a dog can be "extremely therapeutic" for a veteran, just as it can for anyone else, said Dr. Robyn Barbiers, president of the Anti-Cruelty Society. (All I know is, right now as I'm writing this, my bulldog Brucie is snuggled up to me with his head on my leg. Most definitely therapeutic!)

And our four-legged friends can also be useful to vets in other ways too.

"Dogs can be trained to perform certain tasks such as being a buffer in public places or waking a person suffering a nightmare..." said Barbiers.

She said studies have shown that owning a pet can improve your health by decreasing blood pressure, cholesterol and triglyceride levels, and feelings of loneliness. Pets also help reduce stress, increase our opportunities for exercise and socialization, and give us a sense of responsibility and optimism.

Plus, "They give us unconditional love and what is better than that?" asked Dr. Barbiers.

Besides the pet adoption, there are also a few other notable things the bank is doing for vets: Its employees and local contractors will help refurbish the homes of two vets, upgrading bathrooms, kitchens, with paint and other needs, and winterizing. They're also raising funds through Nov. 14 to benefit the Illinois Patriot Education Fund, which provides educational scholarships for vets and their families. (Stop into any Fifth Third Bank and make a donation. Every dollar raised is donated. To date, more than $500,000 has been raised.

And on Nov. 10, Fifth Third will host a Hiring Fair for veterans, Active Duty and their families at Union Station's Great Hall, 500 W. Jackson St. There'll be 30 local employers with open positions that they're seeking to fill with veterans and their family members. (Last year, 250 vets attended, with 11 receiving on-the-spot job offers).

Helping spread the word about these events is the best way to help, Sullivan said. (There are also upcoming adoption days at Noah's Ark Shelter in Rockford and Lakeshore PAWS in Portage County, Indiana. Call for specific details/dates). If you know a veteran, encourage them to consider pet adoption or to share news of the efforts with other vets they know, he said.

I asked Sullivan why it's so important for Fifth Third Bank to honor vets the way it does.

"First, we are grateful for the freedom and civil liberties we enjoy and we know that these are directly the result of the service of men and women throughout our country," said Sullivan. "Secondly, part of our company culture is rooted in positively contributing to all the communities in which we live and work.

"To that end, we are passionate about helping our veterans and active duty, reservist families, with our annual Hiring Fair for Veterans, the pet adoptions, and the fundraising we do to support educational scholarships that benefit veterans and the families of soldiers lost or wounded in action," said Sullivan.

Like I said, I currently don't bank at Fifth Third. But after hearing about all they do for our soldiers, I'm thinking maybe it's time to switch.

Elevation of immigrants ignores needs of natives

I have a question for U.S. Rep. Jan Schakowsky (9th) after her "Immigration and Community" Austin Wyman Lecture for the Edgewater Historical Society Oct. 19.

When will you take action in Congress to force employers to let all U.S. citizens take our most productive places in the workforce, by ending discrimination against our unemployed, and against our underemployed college graduates trying to start our careers?

Politicians who want a more welcoming policy for immigrants promote the immigrants' exotic contributions to our economy, alleging the immigrants have more "outside-the-box" creativity than native-born U.S. citizens who have been excluded from "the box" for years by job discrimination.

Many immigrants come here to make sure their children have better lives. The problem with policies which elevate immigrants and belittle native-born citizens is that they defeat the desire of immigrants to ensure their U.S.-born children have better lives.

My father was an immigrant, brought here legally while a little boy. He sacrificed a lot to make sure I got a good college education. I did. But I have been prevented, by job discrimination, from beginning the career I got my education for. He died without seeing his daughter have a better life - in fact, not even a life as good as his was.

I asked the above question during the October event. When Rep. Schakowsky responded to my question, I told her I wasn't blaming immigrants for the unemployment crisis. I was pointing out the internal contradiction of her welcoming all immigrants - many of whom want their children, including those born in the U.S., to have better lives - but belittling native-born U.S. citizens.

When I had finished speaking, several people in the back let the room know, with sound, that they liked at least some of what I had said and asked. A few people spoke with me afterwards.

I fully expected the Congressman and her colleagues to praise immigrants to the skies, but I wanted to point out the contradiction, as well as ask about the jobs crisis. She, like every other one of my elected representatives, does not understand or appreciate the pervasiveness of job discrimination of all kinds, and the huge harm it is doing to the American workforce. They all think, naively, that "more jobs" are necessary and sufficient to solve the problem of job discrimination. It is neither.

Conlon real estate executives sued for cutting partner out of deal to redevelop St. Dominic church

JONATHAN BILYK
Cook County Record

One of the real estate groups behind the plan to build new luxury apartments on the site of a demolished 110-year old Roman Catholic Church not far from where the Cabrini-Green Public Housing Projects once stood has landed in court under a lawsuit brought by a purported business partner who claims his former associates cheated him out of commissions and fees from the sale of the church after he had given them the inside track to buying the site from the Archdiocese of Chicago.

The complaint stems from the ongoing effort to redevelop the site of the former St. Dominic's Church at Sedgwick and Locust streets on Chicago's Near North Side.

On Oct. 27, Thomas J. Tully Jr., through his company TJ Tully LLC, filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court against Sean Conlon and Benjamin "Benjie" Burford, the men at the top of Chicago real estate company, Conlon & Co., alleging they, through a corporate entity identified in the complaint as Conford Investments LLC, "breached every conceivable fiduciary duty" to Tully in essentially cutting him out of the deal Tully asserts he brokered.

Developers Belgravia Group are building a new 45-unit condominium building on the site of the church, which was demolished earlier this year. The church had been vacant since the Archdiocese closed it in 1990.

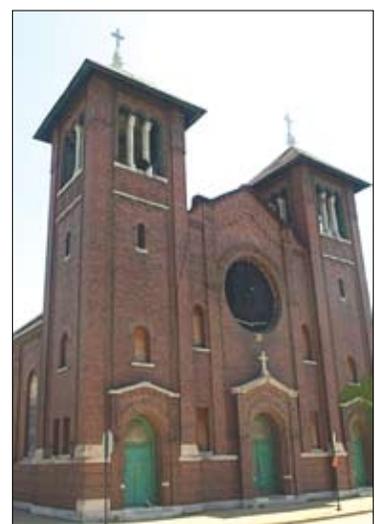

The development was fostered by the Conlon company, which facilitated the acquisition of the land from the Archdiocese.

However, in his complaint, Tully said Conlon's role in the deal only came about through his work for which he has yet to be paid.

According to the complaint, Tully first approached Conlon, for whom he worked at the time as a broker, concerning the old church building, saying he believed he could tap personal contacts within the Archdiocese to facilitate the sale of the church building, which had yet been publicly listed for sale. The complaint said Conlon agreed, saying if Tully could land the property, Conlon could "tap buckets of capital" to redevelop the site.

Tully and Conlon then entered into a joint partnership, known as 873 Sedgwick LLC, to handle the purchase of the property. Tully then approached the Archdiocese, and his efforts resulted in an agreement to sell the site for $2.1 million in the fall of 2013, the complaint said.

In 2014, however, Tully's complaint alleged Conlon and Burford, who serves as CEO of Conlon's Chicago company, and who Tully describes in his complaint as Conlon's "lackey," began working to alter the arrangement, inserting "a one-sided and never-agreed upon LLC operating agreement into the partnership," allowing Burford to serve as manager and resolve disagreements in Conlon's favor.

By the summer of 2014, Tully said "it became clear ... Conlon intended to flip the church property from the outset," rather than develop it himself, as Tully had understood the arrangement.

By the fall, Tully said the relationship had become "contentious," with Conlon and Burford refusing to provide him with documents pertaining to the purchase and development of the site, and Conlon complaining to Tully that city officials were pressing for "affordable housing" as part of any redevelopment of the site.

Yet, Tully said Conlon claimed to have found a third-party buyer willing to take on the project, who he identified as "Messner," according to the complaint. Tully said Conlon told him "Messner" would pay them enough to generate a $100,000 profit for the 873 Sedgwick partnership.

When Tully demanded to see documentation to back Conlon's claims, Tully said Conlon refused.

"Tully believes Messner was a fictional buyer designed to defraud Tully, whereby defendants (Conlon and Burford) would then sweep commissions and other hidden fees out of a higher scale," the complaint said.

Within weeks, Tully said Burford produced a letter from Belgravia regarding their intentions to purchase the property for $2.6 million.

In the months since, Tully said Conlon's group has refused to pay Tully what he believes he is owed, and has instead paid companies and others associated with Conlon to provide services "not in the interests of the (873 Sedgwick) LLC but solely to benefit the defendants and harm Tully."

He claimed, for instance, while paying Conlon's associated companies more than $157,000 from the 873 LLC, the defendants "failed to obtain upzoning (as they had promised Tully) that would have increased 873's return. They also failed to obtain a parcel adjacent to the church as they had promised. They nonetheless paid themselves generous commissions and other fees and expenses without any approval or authority."

Tully has asked the court for an injunction preventing Conlon from exercising any further control over the 873 Sedgwick LLC, and ordering an accounting of the LLC's books.

He has also requested compensatory damages and punitive damages at least three times any amount awarded to him in compensation.

Chicago leads the metro area in sales of $1M+ homes

BY DON DeBAT

Led by an extremely strong $1-million-plus home market in downtown Chicago and the Near North Side, However, RE/MAX noted that luxury-home prices softened in the city in the third quarter. The median sales price of a luxury resale home in Chicago was $1.4 million in the quarter ending September 30, down four percent from the same period in 2014.

Meanwhile, luxury home, condo and townhome inventory in Chicago grew to a hefty 403 units at the end of the third quarter, a 57% gain over two years ago.

“Demand remains strong, but new construction has helped swell the inventory of luxury homes for sale, so the market is more competitive than it has been for several years,” said Jim Merion, regional director of the RE/MAX Northern Illinois network.

Here are details of the RE/MAX survey:

- Lincoln Park. The luxury detached-home market was especially active in Lincoln Park in the third quarter. Sixty-four $1-million-plus properties changed hands, up from 43 units in the second quarter of 2015 and 49 units in the third-quarter of 2014.

- Lincoln Square. This family-friendly neighborhood continued to emerge as a growing location for $1-million-plus detached home sales. Eleven properties sold during the third quarter, which increased the 2015 year-to-date total to 25 units. Only 11 homes were sold in Lincoln Square through the first three quarters of 2014.

A RE/MAX analysis of condominium and townhome sales in Chicago revealed that 140 units changed hands in the third quarter, matching sales in the same quarter in 2014. However, the median sales price rose two percent to $1,392,500.

- Gold Coast & Near North Side. A total of 85 luxury condos and townhomes were sold on the Gold Coast and the Near North Side in the third quarter of 2015. This amounted to 61% of the entire Chicago luxury residential market.

- The Loop. However, luxury condominium sales in Chicago’s Loop posted the strongest increase of the survey during the third quarter of 2015. Twenty-six units priced at more than $1-million-plus were closed. That is 62.5% more than the total number of units sold in the third quarter of 2014.

RE/MAX reported that the median sales price for all luxury homes in the metro area was $1,309,478 in the third quarter, two percentage points lower than during the same period last year. Luxury homes sold during the third quarter spent an average of 121 days on the market, compared with 123 days during the same quarter in 2014.

The RE/MAX survey covered $1-million-plus home sales in Cook, DuPage, Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry and Will counties. It was compiled from data gathered by Midwest Real Estate Data (MRED).

- Low home-loan rates continue. The benchmark 30-year fixed mortgage rates averaged 3.76% in late October, down from 3.79% a week earlier, reported Freddie Mac’s Primary Mortgage Market Survey. A year ago at this time, the benchmark rate averaged 3.98%.

Sean Beckett, chief economist for Freddie Mac, noted that while the Federal Reserve Board held interest rates steady at its October meeting, the Fed “kept a December rate hike as an option.”

existing luxury homes, condominiums and townhomes continued to sell at a strong pace this autumn in the metropolitan area, analysts say.

The quarterly RE/MAX Luxury Report on Metro Chicago Real Estate noted that a total of 739 existing homes priced at $1-million-plus were sold during the third quarter of 2015 in the seven-county metro area.

The total topped the 737 luxury home sales posted in the second quarter of 2015 in the metro area, and bettered the 736 units sold during the third quarter of 2014, RE/MAX analysis reported.

Sales of luxury homes, condominiums and townhomes in such hot Chicago neighborhoods as the Loop, Gold Coast, Near North Side, Lincoln Park and Lincoln Square sparked the market.

A total of 202 luxury units were sold in Chicago in the third quarter of 2015—a solid 12% gain over the same period in 2014, and a whopping 30% increase over the 2013 level.

month. The 19th floor penthouse units with spectacular views of the North Lakefront and Loop are going for $4,700 a month. Amenities include a pool, workout room, a movie theater room and a tech/business center.

The residential building will have 20 “affordable” units and another 20 CHA apartments, as requested by Ald. Walter Burnett [27th] when he agreed to the development’s zoning changes.

“Our goal is to make sure we bring opportunities to this community,” Ald. Burnett said.

“We also installed a new public street and two new traffic lights. And we have a piece of public art in the pedway which tells the story of this site,” Drew said. Those art pieces - sculptures really - are sections of the exterior brick walls from the once-brightly painted old New City YMCA.

Food stamp use is down

Some reluctant to get off SNAP, unsure of employment future

BY KEVIN HARMON

Kerri Davis never wanted to use food stamps to begin with, but the fact that she only makes $8.50 an hour working at McDonald's and that her hours are not consistently regular, The Ravenswood single mom did what she had to do.

"I needed to swallow my pride and supplement whenever I could and the little money that I got from SNAP benefits kept me going until I was able to get another job," said Davis, who was one of many protesters at McDonald's headquarters this past Spring making her voice known for an increase in wages to $15 an hour.

"I'm hoping that McDonald's sees the light. Being at that two-day demonstration I think will have an effect in the future. I'm glad I was able to get another job however because my hours at McDonald's are never consistent. Sometimes I work 15-18 hours and other times I work 24-30 depending on how busy" they are.

Davis is one of many people who have gotten off food stamps, which is formally called the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). Officials locally and nationally say that less people are receiving SNAP benefits.

There were 46.2 million Americans on food stamps in May, the latest data available, down 1.6 million from a record 47.8 million in December, 2012. Some 14.8% of the U.S. population is on SNAP, down from 15.3% last August, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture data show.

Several reasons have been cited as the cause – a slowly improving economy, seniors who qualify but have elected not to get benefits, an increased pride in working and taking jobs that some previously wouldn't take.

Of course with large numbers of legal and illegal immigration into the U.S. that number is likely to grow in the near future.

Davis said she knows people who qualify but have preferred to not apply for benefits.

"I think it depends on your situation," she said. "It would be different for me if I was living by myself. If McDonald's would have gotten on board and increased its wages when the campaign for $15 an hour started back in 2012, then

I would not have had to use SNAP benefits. To be honest, if you have an increase in the minimum wage, that would probably drop the numbers of SNAP users even more."

In Chicago, statistics from various sources differ, but the consensus is between 10-15% less people are using SNAP benefits over the last year. Most of the benefits that have stayed consistent are for single parents and young and older adults who have fallen on hard times in recent years, studies indicate.

"For me, it was all about getting a second job that paid me a higher wage," said Davis' friend Carlos Ruiz, another Ravenswood resident who recently got a job as a banquet hall supervisor at a hotel in the Loop. "There are opportunities here in Chicago if you have a good attitude and are willing to keep trying. There is some pride associated with not asking for help and being able to be the captain of your own ship. I had benefits for a while until I got on my feet."

Kevin Concannon, the undersecretary for Food Nutrition and Consumer Services, said the downward trend in people using SNAP is an encouraging sign that the economy recovery is satisfactory.

"During the recession when unemployment was high the number of eligible people increased and the federal government dumped more into the program to maximize benefits," he said. "I think that in Chicago, and nationally, there is an increase in job training programs, job placement assistance and other factors. I agree that an increase in minimum wages would go a long way in helping out more people to the point that they wouldn't need SNAP benefits."

Ruiz said he knows of people who have been reluctant to get rid of their SNAP benefits over fear that an improved job situation might drastically change.

"With some of these low-wage, unskilled worker positions, they could be downsized or have those hours reduced in an instant, so it's nice to know you have that little bit of help," he said. "That's basically what SNAP is... assistance to help you out. I think sometimes people look at food stamps as something to live off of."

Davis said she hopes to never go backwards, but knows the SNAP program did what it was suppose to do for her, provide her a little cushion when she needed it.

"It's all about being self-sufficient for me," she said.

Authors visit library center for One Book, One Chicago

Throughout November the Chicago Public Library will welcome several award-winning writers as part of its Authors @ the Library Series and the One Book, One Chicago [OBOC] program.

All events will take place in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium on the lower level of the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. Books will be available for purchase, and the authors will sign books at the conclusion of the programs. Admission is first come, first served; reservations are not required.

Award-winning author and third generation Chicagoan Thomas Dyja will have a conversation with Booklist senior editor Donna Seaman at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The two will discuss "The Third Coast," and Dyja will address the ways this season's OBOC theme "Chicago: The City That Gives" can be found in the growth and shaping of Chicago in the past and present day.

Acclaimed author and physicist Lisa Randall will make a return appearance to discuss her new book "Dark Matter and the Dinosaurs: The Astonishing Interconnectedness of the Universe" at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 10.

John Irving will discuss his new book "Avenue of Mysteries" at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 11. The novel explores fate and memory.

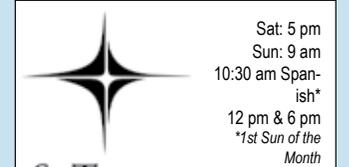

Lyric Opera of Chicago creative consultant and Bel Canto curator Renee Fleming will join Bel Canto author Ann Patchett for an intimate discussion at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18, about the journey involved in transforming a bestselling novel about an operatic diva into a Lyric Opera world premiere. Registration for this event is required. For more information call 312-747-4050.

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY JIM MATUSIK

On August 6th, 2011, 25 year old Jacqueline Marie Michon was riding her bicycle home from a night at Lollapalooza. She had moved to Chicago a year earlier from California and some of her West Coast friends were in town to visit. They had all met up at the festival.

It was about 10:45 p.m. when she rode between a dump truck and a four door sedan that were both stopped for a light near Wacker and Wabash.

Reports reveal that she lost her balance and fell near the rear of the truck. Before she could get up, the light went green, the truck moved forward, and she was crushed under its rear wheel.

She died a short time later at the hospital.

A citizen flagged down the truck driver who was totally unaware of the accident.

According to a post on Mybikeadvocate.com, "Michon was no wobbly newcomer to cycling. She was a passionate cyclist, spinning instructor, hiker, and rock climber."

She was well loved and the story received much publicity and as a remembrance she got a Ghost Bike that still stands today near where she fell.

It is just across the street from The Christian Science building on Wacker Dr. and in the morning reflected sunlight shines across the white bones of the bike and creates a subtle and sublime glow that speaks not so much of tragedy, but of memory.

A Ghost Bike is a white painted, inoperable, and permanently affixed bicycle that is placed as a memorial to the victim near their accident site, but perhaps more importantly, it is a vivid reminder to passing motorists to stay alert and share the road safely with bicycle riders.

This phenomena began in St. Louis in 2003. Patrick Van Der Tuin witnessed a motorist striking a bicyclist in a bike lane on Holly Hills Blvd. He placed a white painted bike at the spot with a big sign reading, "BICYCLIST STRUCK HERE."

The effect on motorists was immediately noticeable and so Van Der Tuin and some friends placed 15 more bikes in prominent spots in St. Louis where cyclists had recently been hit by cars. They often used very damaged bikes to create the desired "mangled effect."

This strategy caught on fast and a similar project began in Pittsburgh in 2004. In the following years Ghost Bikes appeared in New York City, Seattle, Albuquerque, Toronto and Chicago.

London Ghostcycle was launched in 2006 and from there the program became a worldwide mobilization..

The Ghost Bike organization in Chicago is almost as ephemeral as the spirits that they so reverently honor.

There is no office or phone number to call. It is made up of a small group of concerned citizens with varying amounts of time. It is a truly independent effort that bridges the sub communities of the Chicago bike scene and attends to the placement and care of local Ghost Bikes.

A good place to get an idea of how it all works is to go to Thechainlink.org, which is Chicago's main website for connecting cyclists to all things bicycle, and put "Ghost Bikes" in the finder.

There you will find years of posted correspondence from individuals with questions like, "I had a friend who was killed on his bicycle years ago near Ridge and Fargo. How come he didn't get a Ghost Bike?"

To which the reply post answers "Anyone can make a Ghost Bike and in terms of how it comes to be that a bunch of people who didn't know a rider decide to make a ghost bike, the biggest factor is the awareness level of the tragedy."

These days, as Chicago hustles to improve its Biker Friendly ambience with miles of new highly visible and protected bike lanes, any cyclist accident is heavy on the web radar and in the news media, but unfortunately, Ghost Bike numbers are increasing.

In 2010, then Gov. Pat Quinn proclaimed in an executive order that May 19th would be "Ride of Silence" Day, an event where hundreds of bike riders would follow a prescribed route through the city past many Ghost Bikes, and stop at each one for a mo-

GROW from p. 4

The policy maps give geographic guidance for decision-making, such as priorities for transit or new greenways. Progress will be tracked annually.

7. Culture

Chicago is a cultural capital. Architecture, museums, the lakefront, the best restaurants in the country; it is unbeatable. But Nashville has many of those amenities for a mid-size city. Its restaurant scene is, growing exponentially and a new $623 million downtown convention center complex is demonstrating that the center of gravity is now moving downtown.

And this may be anecdotal, but more than one person told me that Nashville's growth is due to the TV show Nashville, Taylor Swift making country music more mainstream and Jack White.

What will limit Nashville's growth: Sustainability

1. A lack of transportation options

The first thing I noticed when setting up meetings in Nashville was that everyone sent me driving and parking directions. Nashville does have a bus system, which has about 30,000 daily riders, but it is difficult to use for commuting because there's no real time information. If you just miss the bus (and you wouldn't know if you did) the next one doesn't come for 45 minutes and you'll be late to work. Most people—81%—drive to work alone, and less than two percent take transit. Virtually no one walks or bikes to work. In fact, the city doesn't even have a department of transportation. Compare that to Chicago, where 30% of commuters take transit, rather than cars, to work every day. And eight percent of Chicagoans do the healthy thing and walk or bike to work.

Nashville Next states, "Nashville is primarily built for car drivers, with few places that support different ways to get to work or services."

However, "by 2040, 45% of the population will be older Americans or youth too young to drive." There's clearly a need for transportation options. The city does have a small bike share system and entrepreneurial bar and restaurant owners even will pick up and drop off patrons in golf carts, because there are few other reliable options to driving.

They did have a chance to build bus rapid transit. The project, known as the Amp, called for a seven-mile bus rapid transit system linking growing East Nashville to downtown and parts of the city's west end. Former Mayor Dean believed it to be an important city asset that would make Nashville more attractive and competitive and induce development along the line. It even was promised a $75 million federal grant. But the project was killed. The opposition group "Stop Amp" was led by local car dealership and limo company owners with funding from Americans for Prosperity that worked to pass legislation in the Tennessee legislature outlawing bus rapid transit in Nashville.

In response to the Amp's demise, former Mayor Dean said, "We've never come so far in bringing this level of mass transit to Nashville, and we have to continue the conversation to make it a reality." In fact, transit was one of the foremost issues in Nashville's recent mayoral race. Just about everyone I spoke with said transit was an important part of Nashville's growth.

And there is a lot of opportunity. With all the development that's occurring, Nashville could institute a ale capture for transit district to fund new and better bus and rail service.

I also saw very few parking meters during my visit and since Nashville is lucky not to have privatized the parking meters it does have, the City could install new meters in commercial corridors to both enable visitors the ability to quickly find a parking spot and use the revenue to help fund transit. Newly elected Mayor Megan Barry ran on a transit platform and vowed to create a department of transportation and put transit at the top of the City's agenda.

Nashville Next calls for a 200-mile units be affordable.

Demand for housing has sparked another trend—building two homes on one lot. I saw signs all over Nashville stating "We will buy your home." Nashville zoning code allows developers to buy an unwanted older home in a hot neighborhood, demolish it and build new to accommodate multiple households under two separate roofs.

For example, one developer "...tore down a 1,500-square-foot home. In its place he is constructing a three-story, 3,200-square-foot structure that is connected to a 3,400-square-foot companion home through a breezeway. His asking price is $599,000 apiece."

What makes Nashville a successful place? Growing employment, low cost of living, ease of doing business and growth that will be guided by data and planning all contribute to a strong, desirable region.

The Nashville Next plan will ensure Nashville continues to thrive by building transit and affordable housing, investing in culture and open space and having an efficient government.

Nashville's success—and recognition it must become less auto-oriented for that success to continue. Cities like Nashville are redefining themselves to keep and attract people. Because both Chicago's 3 million and Nashville's 650,000 residents want the same amenities—transportation options, walkable neighborhoods and housing that doesn't break the bank.

Nashville is grappling with these challenges, but Chicago—we have many of these systems in place.

So is Chicago competing with Nashville? Yes. But Chicago can learn from a planning process like Nashville Next to guide development and be successful.

With hundreds of miles of rail lines, new bus rapid transit routes and a huge passenger base—2 million riders a day—the Chicago metropolitan area's public transportation network is one of our greatest attractions. Transit access is not only attractive to businesses and developers, but also connects residents to jobs, amenities and recreation.

Yet for decades, the region's growth trended away from the transit system and toward roads. Just eight percent of the region's population now lives within a quarter-mile of a rapid transit station. Our region's economic competitiveness will suffer as a consequence, hindering our ability to attract jobs and grow. Chicago must focus growth near transit. Development near transit helped double Chicago's downtown population between 2000 and 2010—even as the city as a whole lost population.

But increasingly, places with excellent transit access price out low and even middle-income residents. This trend bodes poorly for the city. A study from Harvard Univ. has shown that commuting time—in essence, how easily or not a person can get to work—is the strongest factor in determining whether a person escapes the cycle of poverty. The proportion of families living in poor neighborhoods in the region, where median income is less than two-thirds of the metropolitan area median income of $75,475, or affluent neighborhoods, where the median income is more than one-and-a-half times the metropolitan area median income, has increased steadily since 1970.

If the Chicago region wants to grow, it must work to improve opportunities for all people. People stay in places where they see opportunity, instead of looking elsewhere for a chance at success. More people means more tax revenues, transit riders, home sales, construction jobs, purchases at local businesses, a better economy and a stronger region. Chicago already has many of the pieces of the growth puzzle, it just needs to continue to build on them by making the infrastructure and community development investments that draw people to a place—and keep them.

Property Index No. 14-21-307-047-1033.
The real estate is improved with a condominium.
The judgment amount was $163,443.18.

Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the sale payable to The Judicial Sales Corporation. No third party checks will be accepted. The balance, including the Judicial sale fee for Abandoned Residential Property Municipality Relief Fund, which is calculated on residential real estate at the rate of $1 for each $1,000 or fraction thereof of the amount paid by the purchaser not to exceed $300, in certified funds/wire transfer, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. No fee shall be paid by the mortgagee acquiring the residential real estate pursuant to its credit bid at the sale or by any mortgagee, judgment creditor, or other lienor acquiring the residential real estate whose rights in and to the residential real estate arose prior to the sale. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in AS IS condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information. If this property is a condominium unit, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale, other than a mortgagee, shall pay the assessments and the legal fees required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/9(g)(1) and (g)(4). If this property is a condominium unit which is part of a common interest community, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale other than a mortgagee shall pay the assessments required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/18.5(g-1).

IF YOU ARE THE MORTGAGOR (HOMEOWNER), YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN IN POSSESSION FOR 30 DAYS AFTER ENTRY OF AN ORDER OF POSSESSION, IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 15-1701(C) OF THE ILLINOIS MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE LAW. You will need a photo identification issued by a government agency (driver's license, passport, etc.) in order to gain entry into our building and the foreclosure sale room in Cook County and the same identification for sales held at other county venues where The Judicial Sales Corporation conducts foreclosure sales.

ment of silence. This ride has become an annual event and the date and travel map is always published on Chainlink.org.

Sometimes a post will announce that certain bikes are dirty and need cleaning or painting and then individuals will volunteer to take on each project. They are requested to show up with some cans of spray paint, some cleaner to clean the memorial placard, and some newspaper and masking tape, and then to post a photo when the job is done.

Usually a memorial service is organized when a new bike is installed and friends and relatives are invited to take part. Sometimes a family will grow weary of the mourning process and ask that a bike be taken down. Organizers will verify this request, as the family's wishes are always honored, and the bike will be removed.

Will Ghost Bikes Haunt a Killer? This online conversation was in reference to the fact that some of the bike fatalities are hit and runs, and the driver has not yet been identified or apprehended.

One post theorized that the "hitter" may have fabricated a series of events where he or she has become the victim and the slain cyclist the bad guy. Humans are always great at rationalizing their own behavior, even the most abhorrent.

Another post likened a possibility to Edgar Allen Poe's, The Tell Tale Heart where the guilty motorist will be forced to drive by the Ghost Bike daily because it is on his daily route and slowly he will be driven insane from guilt.

This is probably wishful thinking, but it has creative possibilities. Discussions like these make this website a great reference source for the range of ideas that are discussed from safety to tragedy.

There was a website in New York City called Ghostbikes.org, that was dedicated to cataloging all memorial bikes in the country. The most recent count listed over 800 placed bikes in more than 100 U.S. cities and a staggering 100 of them were in NYC.

As of 2012 the site was unable to post numbers nationwide.

"I was one of those people who thought that bikers have the right of way," says volunteer Ryan Kuonen. "But now I just slow down and let that truck go because I know how many people have been killed. The law may be in your favor, but I tend to be safe, not sorry."

Feelings about Ghost Bikes vary from city to city. Austin, Texas, is a very bike friendly place and has begun to cement bikes permanently into the ground. On the other hand government workers in San Diego systematically remove them stating a violation of city ordinance.

Whatever the sentiment, bikers and motorists have to learn to co-exist in peace and safety because neither one of them is going anywhere else than the roadways that they share daily.

Local Ghost Bike organizers spoke with guarded optimism when they said, "This groups goal is to make this group unnecessary."

Lets hope that this can become a possibility.

DOGGONE from p. 5

blue steel sculpture, Chevron, which a few years back had Lincoln Park neighbors up in arms when it was placed outside a private home?

The sculpture is by internationally-claimed artist John Henry, who lived on Diversey and taught at the School of the Art Institute. The artwork was recently installed at the north entrance to Diversey Harbor and it looks magnificent there, whatever it is.

“I just hope that it gets people to look at modern art again and not be looking for something that is so easily understood,” said Barb Guttman, executive director of the Chicago Sculpture Exhibit, which has placed 32 pieces of art around the city. “It has that Picasso kind of ‘what is it, what do you think.’ It’s interpretative.”

“Is it a windmill, columns for a building, are they masts from boats?, asked Guttman, as we stared up at the mammoth work one day last week when I met her at the site.

“It requires you to look and think for yourself,” said Guttman. “It’s up to everybody to decide, which I think is the best part.”

Controversy erupted when Chevron was originally installed in the front yard of John Novak of Novak Construction, near the corners of Armitage and Halsted. The sculpture was removed and has remained in storage since that time. Its new location couldn’t be better, and it allows Chevron to be seen in its entirety both from land and sea.

I’m told that 44th Ward Alderman Tom Tunney was instrumental in making this happen. The piece is on loan to the Chicago Sculpture Exhibit for a minimum of one year with renewal options.

“We hope to have it longer,” said Guttman.

Meet the new boss... SOAR, the Streeterville Organization of Active Residents, has a new commander in chief. Its board of directors recently elected Deborah (Debby) Gershbein as new president, the 15th to serve in the four decades since SOAR was founded in 1975. David Lewin was elected vice prez; Howard Melton, treasurer, and Bob Levin, will assume the secretary post. I look forward to working with Gershbein as I have with the organization’s immediate past president, Gail Spreen, who was always a pleasure.
