Does Chicago take gun cases seriously? You decide

Police found this gun on twice-convicted felon Martise Lewis' floor-board in November. His $20,000 bail means he only had to pay $2,000 to stay out of jail.

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

When someone is accused of illegally possessing a gun in Chicago, do Cook County Judges take the matter seriously? One way of measuring the seriousness with which the court is taking a case is by looking at the bail amounts set for defendants.

Our non-scientific review of seven gun possession cases on the North Side found that judges were more than happy to let defendants out of jail for as little as $120.

A twice-convicted felon was pulled over in Uptown on Nov. 19, 2017, after police said he ran several stop signs and evaded their attempts to stop him. Martise Lewis, 29, crashed his car, jumped out and ran away, police said. Officers soon located him and took him into custody.

Cops say they found Lewis in possession of cocaine, $2,317 cash, a ski mask, and—on the driver's side floorboard of his car—a 40-caliber handgun with 22 rounds of ammunition.

Lewis has previous convictions for robbery of a person over the age of 60 and for being a felon in possession of a weapon. He has been on probation for DUI since June.

In court on the latest incident, Lewis was charged with being a felon in possession of a weapon—second time; aggravated unlawful use of a weapon; possession of a controlled substance; leaving the scene of an accident; and attempting to flee police.

Judge David Navarro set bail at $20,000, meaning that Lewis could get out of jail by posting $2,000.

Late on Dec. 2, 2017, police said they saw a white Trailblazer run a red light near Western and Division. When they pulled it over, Galo DeJesus bailed out of the passenger side door and took off running while “holding a bulge on his waistband.”

DeJesus dumped the bulge—allegedly a 9-millimeter handgun with 15 rounds loaded into its magazine—into a garbage can and continued to run away, officers reported. He was eventually caught and charged with aggravated unlawful use of a weapon and possession of ammunition without a valid firearm owner ID card (FOID). Police said in court papers that he's a member of the YLO Cobras street gang.

Judge David Navarro established a $3,000 deposit bond for DeJesus, meaning he would be released if he posted 10% or $300.

Lewis has previous convictions for robbery of a person over the age of 60 and for being a felon in possession of a weapon. He has been on probation for DUI since June.

On Nov. 18, 2017, Amtrak police alerted Chicago authorities to a man who was believed to be in Chicago to commit robberies during a short stay. Cops began searching the area around Union Station and soon came upon Khalil Lites, 18, of Wisconsin, who matched the Amtrak officers' description of the suspect.

Police searched Lites' backpack and found a 10-millimeter handgun that was later found to have been stolen from a gun store in Madison, WI, according to court records.

Lites was arrested, charged with aggravated unlawful use of a weapon and being a fugitive from justice due to a weapons violation in Wisconsin.

Judge David Navarro set bail at $10,000, which would allow him to go free by posting a $1,000 deposit if Wisconsin waives its warrant.

Police rushed to Waveland Bowl, 3700 N. Western, around 2:15 a.m. on Nov. 28, 2017, after someone reported a disturbance and a man with a gun inside. At some point, prosecutors alleged Travis Washington, 21, took out a 9-millimeter handgun, threw it under one of the bowling alley's pool tables, and charged after some customers.

At the police station, Washington told police that he carried the gun “in case they jump me.”

Asked if he had a FOID card, Washington allegedly replied, “What is that? I don't have one and I don't need one.”

The next day, Washington was released on a recognizance bond without appearing before a judge—a process known as having bond set “by rule of the court.”

On Dec. 22, Cook County Judge Marvin Luckman sentenced Washington to 12 months of court supervision and ordered the handgun to be destroyed.

Court records show that he was charged with aggravated unlawful use of a weapon and possession of a weapon with a defaced serial number in February 2017. The outcome of that court case was not immediately available.

Around 5 p.m. on Dec. 17, 2017, officers working in Old Town received a tip that someone wanted for questioning by investigators working a suburban homicide was in the 1300 block of N. Hudson.

At the scene, officers noticed a car with two people sitting in the back seat—one of whom matched the description of the man wanted by suburban cops.

When police opened the vehicle's front door, one of the men in the back seat “made a sudden movement toward the front passenger side.” That allowed officers to see distinctive tattoos on the man's arms that positively identified him as the wanted person.

The man was detained and police say they found a loaded handgun with an extended magazine under the car's passenger seat near where he was sitting.

Cobe Underwood, 18, of West Garfield Park was charged with aggravated unlawful use of a weapon in a vehicle by someone under age 21; possession of marijuana; and possession of cocaine.

Underwood was released on electronic monitoring with a $10,000 I-Bond set by Judge John Lyke. That means he went on electronic monitoring and he could face a $10,000 penalty if he skips court.

He has not been charged in connection with the suburban case.

On Jan. 5, Kelly Hoard of Anderson, IN, was arrested at Chicago's downtown federal building after she allegedly tried to enter a passport office with a handgun in her purse, court records show.

Charged with unlawful use of a weapon and possessing a firearm without a valid FOID card, Hoard was released on a $1,500 deposit bond by rule of the court. That means she walked out of jail by putting down $150.

Master Plan for Clark St. unveiled

More density, bike lane and new TIF included

The Rogers Park Business Alliance (RPBA) released their big plans last week for the future of Clark St. north of Devon and it includes a dramatic increase in the number of high density Transit Oriented Developments [TOD] near the Rogers Park Metra Station, and another new Tax Increment Financing district [TIF].

With the unveiling of their Vision Clark Street Master Plan, the RPBA hopes to strengthen the vitality and bring more security to one of Rogers Park's major commercial streets.

The major parts of the plan call for using TIF funds to modernize the Lunt/Ravenswood Ave. intersection as a gateway intersection; adding a bike lane to Clark St. by removing parking on one side of the street; looking at multiple mobility options for public transit, biking and car sharing; reversing the flow of buses at the Arthur and Clark Bus Terminal to make it safer for pedestrians and motorists; adding more security cameras; creating a community land trust; establishing lease guarantee and adaptive use programs, and create design guidelines to try and create a new brand for the corridor they claim will “build on its identity.”

Many residents have come to understand that a TIF district is a mixed blessing as it drains property taxes away that would otherwise go to schools, parks, library's and other governmental bodies. Those diverted TIF funds are controlled by the Mayor's Office. The funds lost to the taxing bodies would then have to be made up by increased property taxes on properties not located within a TIF district.

There are now 180 TIF districts scattered across the city including a ‘Super’ one-mile-wide TIF District running along the Red Line tracks from Lincoln Park north to Devon Ave.

TIF legislation was initially created to help raise money to fund development in poor and blighted communities. But like everything else in Illinois, loopholes in the law meant wealthy areas such as the Loop, River North, Near North, Lincoln Park, and Ravenswood also were eligible for a TIFs.

The plan says this new Clark St. TIF would be for the District Core (Pratt to Touhy), and North Gateway portions of Clark St. (Pratt to Howard), as well as other unnamed portions of the corridor. The plan's that meant all schools were closed, maybe just the parochial schools. Who knows. Sixty years ago our pastor could have given us the day off by monsignorial edict. My mother, Eileen, my sister, Mary Regina, and I were invited to our aunt, Peg O'Connor's, house for lunch and to view the swearing in of the first Roman Catholic in the White House. It was really something. JFK and my mother were the same age. A new generation had come of age and you could feel it.

The early days of a new year

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

We watched with interest and pride, the oath he took. While only in the seventh grade, I could name everyone JFK had placed in his cabinet. And I had a comfortable knowledge of who sat on the US Supreme Court. It wasn't strange to have such knowledge then. After the oath, we had lunch, leg of lamb, a favorite, with an herby succulent gravy.

It was Inauguration Day after all. Baked potatoes and asparagus, too. We had a homemade fruit salad that Aunt Peg was famous for. She was a good cook. Even in wintery January our fruit salad was memorable. There was shredded coconut in it. Dessert was also memorable. Today I would call it "Flotante." Floating island. Meringue spheres in a custardy vanilla sauce. I remember saying that I thought we were getting a better lunch than the Kennedys. My sister and I still laugh about it. That was 57 years ago. And none of the excitement or details seem to have been lost.

Aunt Peg died last month at 89. Right when I had my pneumonia. I felt badly. Younger than my mother, she was married to our mother's brother, Robert Emmett, who was one of the funniest men we knew. He was a superb tickler and a keen jokester, inventing Irish brogues that made any story funnier.

I thought of that day back in 1961 and how warm and cozy we were having our leg of lamb lunch as JFK raised his right hand and swore to uphold our Constitution. He fascinated us with that Boston accent and youthful demeanor. We didn't know that in 1000 days he would die and break our hearts.

That's the poignant thing about the future. It's connected to so much of our present. It unfolds a little at a time. Keeping most people, places and events in order. But when you least expect it, things do unravel. And unwind. All we can do, then, is savor our good fortune to have been around to see what is possible. And then try to rebuild things for everyone's good. That's what Januarys are for. Remembering.

MILESTONE BIRTHDAY: The very popular Jackie Holsten turns the corner on 60 years on Jan. 23. A trustee of Loyola U., she is executive vice president of Holsten Real Estate Development and chair of the Non-profit Holsten Human Capital Development. Take my word for it, she enhances life in Chicago big time. Happy Birthday, dear lady.

RIP FRIEND: This column mourns the passing of the singular Dr. Milton Rosenberg whose Sunday evening radio programs on WGN were the best in town. I was often a guest. He was a gent.

MISS PEACHES: She was the face of Gibson's. You met Miss Peaches when you came in with your coat. Norletta Knighton was her real name. I never went to Gibson's that I did not get a hug and a smooch coming in and going out. She died New Year's Day at 67 watching her favorite film, "Dirty Dancing." She had the singing voice of a Bluesy Angel. She's been on my mind for a while.

Hearts are breaking. "Always a pleasure," she use to say. She was at Gibson's for 25 years.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED: Chicago veteran journalist, Sun Times columnist, WFLD Fox TV reporter and, formerly, this Skyline columnist, Bill Zwecker, and real estate executive Tom Gorman, just revealed that they wed on Jan. 11. Friends, family and fans are delighted.

OPAH! WEDDING BELLS: Over the holidays Tim Foufas and Kelly Decker just became engaged, making family and friends delighted. This was after their great journey to Viet Nam and Bhutan. Kelly is full of adventure, energy, beauty and wit. Tim is lucky. Gold Coasters, especially the Astor St. crowd, all adore Tim's very chic mother, Teddy Foufas. Papa, Plato, is pleased with the match. Tim's Latin School buddies are cheering. It was just January 2016 when Tim climbed Mt. Kilimanjaro. But this is way bigger. Congrats.

The late Dr. Milt Rosenberg.

FRANK, WE HARDLY KNEW YE: The arts lost a major figure in the death of Frank Crowley, Art Director at Chicago's Irish Heritage Center, and hands-on artist who's elegance and style transformed the center's very large facility through his paintings of ancient Celtic art throughout the halls and public rooms, in addition he had the ability to use his re-

DEBUTANTES BOW: Bravos to all Chicago debutantes who "bowed" just before Christmas

Eve at the Passavant Ball or the Catholic Charities' Presentation Ball, each at the Chicago Hilton on different evenings. The debts were received by Cardinal Blasé Cupich and Monsignor Michael Bolin. And many were in high social attendance, including Sophia Du Brul, Lisa Bjornson Wolf, and Brad Cue. High elegance all around.

BEAUTIFUL: Was that the Robert Currans and the Edward Currans catching the tunes and sweet storyline in Carole King's "Beautiful" at the Cadillac Theater?

GOLDEN: Yes, that was our own Irene Michaels front and center at the Golden Globes, she

Local artist's paintings a Hollywood hit

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

In an unpretentious, splattered-with-paint storefront art studio in West Rogers Park, a touch of Hollywood magic is being created by artist Nancy Rosen.

Art is somewhat imitating life for Rosen, whose paintings are the only ones gracing the walls as works done by "artist" Lily Tomlin on the set of the Netflix series "Grace and Frankie," which launches its fourth season on Friday night.

If you haven't yet caught the show, here's the gist of it: Grace and Frankie, played by actresses Jane Fonda and Lily Tomlin respectively, began as rivals, two women in their 70s who very clearly hated each other. Because their lawyer husbands, Robert and Sol, (played by actors Martin Sheen and Sam Waterston) were business partners, the pair simply tolerated one another. Although they share a beach home, they never vacationed there together.

Well, one evening, the foursome hung out and Grace and Frankie's husbands announced that they were in love with each other, had been for the last 20 years, and they were getting married. Grace, a "WASP-y woman," and Frankie a "hippy, dippy artist," develop a very unlikely friendship and eventually become besties.

"When they were looking for Frankie's art, they threw mine in," said Rosen. "I sent a bunch of stuff. They picked mine."

This newfound fame and definite career boost all started for Rosen thanks to a friend she grew up with, who also happens to work for Marta Kauffman, co-creator of the mega hit TV show "Friends." Apparently Kauffman, also co-creator of "Grace and Frankie," was looking for an artist to paint all of Frankie's art. Rosen's lifelong friend and the friend's family had been collecting her art since the 1970s; her buddy's dad had actually bought her first piece of jewelry.

So Rosen packed up 60 pounds of various pieces of her work and sent them off to Hollywood. Who'd have thought a local little art studio would be beckoned by Hollywood?

"It's been such a trip and every season there's just more stuff going on," said Rosen.

Since Season One, Rosen's art has been commissioned, rented and leased by the show. Even Frankie's art studio is modeled after Rosen's, who has also provided supplies that are used as props such as paint brushes/cans, clips, and "drawing boards that I made from my blood, sweat and tears."

"It's really fking cool," said Rosen. "It's my soul."

Among the many, many paintings Rosen has created are a portrait of Frankie and her hubby (Martin Sheen) and their two children. She also created a fun portrait of the four main stars -- Fonda, Tomlin, Sheen, and Waterston -- which was printed on a towel and given out to everyone during a season wrap party.

Rosen's art is Frankie's art. For example, during Season Three, Frankie had a solo art show.

"So that means Nancy's having an art show," laughed Rosen. "Figuring that out was a big deal. It was like being in the 'Twilight Zone.'" Rosen even got to play an extra during the exhibition. "I was paid $10 an hour to look at my work and watch the people look at my work," she chuckled.

She calls the gig, which she loves, "really challenging." Sometimes she'll get a call that something needs tweaking, or needs to be more "vagina-ish." Or, a painting of a poodle is needed. Rosen has painted cars, kites, and even a portrait of "Count Drinkula," which is actually Jane Fonda because her character likes to belt down a few.

Drawing both actresses, who she describes as "lovely," and "inspiring," -- not to mention they both look "amazing" -- is not so easy, said Rosen, who stays close to home during filming in case she's contacted for last minute projects.

"They never call me to tell me how great I am," laughed Rosen. "They call to tell me they need a painting done in three days. But millions of people are seeing this, so I'm like 'bring it on.'"

When Tomlin was in town performing in Skokie in November, she even visited Rosen's studio to see where "her" art is made. "She's awesome," said Rosen. "She's as sweet and kind as you would think."

Rosen said thanks to the show and its "great cast of characters," her art business has "changed dramatically." (Her art is specific, she said, and people "either like it or they don't like it.")

"People find me now," said Rosen. "They see the art in the show and they're like 'Who's the artist?' So people have found me and they've come over and bought art."

She has been drawing since she was five and she's now 61, so Rosen's newfound fame is well-deserved after a lifetime of hard work.

"I paint every day," said Rosen, who would love to work with other TV shows too. "I would be doing what I'm doing with or without this."

But this sure is a nice bonus, she said.

"It's a great way to enter my 60s and it's really lovely that my work is getting exposed. I would have been thrilled to have one painting in it and now I'm part and parcel with the character."

NOT WITH A BANG, BUT A WHIMPER: Was there a massive ruckus on New Year's Eve when a land-lubbing, aging debutant snuck her way into one of the stalls (prearranged) in the gents head (loo)? The problem was they waited until 11:55 p.m. to do it. Too much Champagne made the lady depressed and weepy (she had her reasons). When some club members heard the deep moans coming from the gent's stall they raised an alarm. In addition to spouses, many club members were made aware. So under rockets red glare and the sound of Auld Lang Syne, much mischief was afoot in the first seconds of 2018.

Peeping Tom may be working Lakeview East windows

Police haven't informed the community about it (yet), but officers are paying particular attention to a small strip of Belmont Ave. in Lakeview where a Peeping Tom has been rattling residents for over a week.

The Peeping Tom reports have come from the 700 block of W. Belmont, a police source said. The lurking pervert has been popping up inside and outside of apartment buildings on the block since roughly New Year's Day.

Most of the 911 calls about the man have been made around 11 p.m.

On Jan. 12 a man reported that a suspicious person was covering his peephole while holding "something" in his hand in a multi-unit building near Belmont and Halsted. Police believe the incident was related to an on-going peeping Tom issue.

The suspect was described as a white man in a black striped shirt.

Sunday night, a few doors east of Friday's incident, a woman reported that someone was shining a flashlight into her bedroom window. She was unable to see the person because of the light.

According to Health24, "voyeurism is a form of sexual perversion which involves 'peeping' at other people who don't know you're watching them."

"The sexual gratification stems from the secrecy of the act, and the suspicions of the victim," according to Dr. Eugene Viljoen.

In a piece of good news, the site says that voyeurs are unlikely to try to make contact with their victims. Peeping Toms rely on fantasies about what they see rather than trying to turn those into reality, Health24 reported.

Loop: man robbed victim at gunpoint on CTA train

A 21-year-old CTA passenger was robbed at gunpoint on a train in the Loop the afternoon of Jan. 14, and police managed to track the offender down outside of the Cadillac Palace Theatre moments later.

Around 4:40 p.m., the man was sitting on a train as it approached the Washington-Wells station when John Peralta, 20, came up to him and demanded money while displaying a handgun, police said.

Peralta collected the victim's cash and ran off of the train when it stopped at the station, police said. Just a couple of minutes later, officers took him into custody on the corner of LaSalle and Randolph, across from City Hall.

He is charged with two counts of robbery with a dangerous weapon. A judge ordered him held without bail. Police said the victim was not injured. Robberies in the Loop are up 132% since 2014, according to city data.

ATM skimmers found at Lakeview Jewel and CVS Locations

Two more ATM skimming devices were found in Lakeview last week, police said. The riggings have included a substitute swiper to capture card information and a camera to record victims' fingers as they entered their PINs on the keypad.

Most recently, a device was removed from a cash machine at CVS Pharmacy, 3033 N. Broadway, around 11:50 a.m. on Saturday.

On Thursday, a skimmer was found on an ATM at the Jewel-Osco store, 2940 N. Ashland, around 4:15 p.m.

Police are encouraging ATM users to inspect the machines, looking for any irregularities or loose parts, before using them. The card reader slot and PIN pad should not wiggle or have extra pieces visible.

Give everything a good pull. Real ATM parts are built to take a beating. Nothing should move or pop off.

"If there is any type of irregularity or issue in placing the card into the card slot, do not use the ATM," a police alert warned. Investigators also suggested covering your hand when you enter your PIN so hidden cameras cannot pick up your secret code.

Anyone with information about skimming incidents is asked to call the Police Financial Crimes Unit at 312-746-9661.

GPS leads cops to Boystown bank robber Sunday

A suspect is in custody after a Sunday morning bank robbery in Boystown, police said.

Officers responded to the TCF bank inside of Jewel-Osco, 3531 N. Broadway, shortly after 10 a.m. Within seconds, they learned that a GPS tracking device located within the bank's stolen money was moving southbound on Broadway.

Cops quickly caught up with a black Hyundai being driven by a man who matched the offender's description outside of the Mariano's store at 3030 N. Broadway.

The car was pulled over and the driver was identified by the bank teller as the man who passed a note demanding all of her money during the hold-up. No weapon was implied or displayed during the robbery. The suspect was taken into custody.

No further information was available about the suspect as charges were pending.

Chicago still corrupt, find out how on Jan. 24

BY PATRICK BUTLER

A former North Side alderman who once called Chicago the nation's most corrupt city will discuss his latest book, The Good Fight: Life Lessons From a Chicago Progressive, at the Sulzer Library 7 p.m. Jan. 24.

Dick Simpson

Now a political science professor at the Univ. of Illinois Chicago campus, Simpson estimated the annual cost of corruption comes to about $500 million a year including everything from payments to victims of police brutality to ghost payroll, phony contracts, kickbacks, graft and bribery.

Although he describes the "front-row seat" he had while serving as 44th Ward alderman from 1971 to 1979, Simpson was often a minority voice during a tumultuous period of scandals and social upheavals.

"I know how the sausage is made because I've been a sausage maker," said Simpson, who recalls for the first time his "never ending struggle" to balance the demands of his teaching job, political life, and the demands of his three marriages.

In The Good Fight Simpson recounts 50 years of stories of his encounters with sometime nemesis Richard J. Daley and colleagues and friends ranging from Mayors Harold Washington and Jane Byrne, and State Sen. Dawn Clark Netsch to political strategist Don Rose and author/radio personality Studs Terkel.

Besides The Good Fight, Simpson has written or co-authored some 20 books including Winning Elections in the 21st Century, Rogues, Rebels and Rubber Stamps, and produced seven films and video documentaries on political action that have earned him a variety of awards as well as an Emmy nomination.

Simpson's book will be for sale after the program, which is being sponsored by the Ravenswood/Lake View Historical Assoc.

Help Wanted

HIRING NOW! Snow Removal Crews
TSI, a regional, grounds care and snow and ice removal company, is looking to fill multiple, seasonal positions for the upcoming winter season at our Wheeling and Chicago offices. This work is available for employees who are able to attend mandatory pre-season training sessions, are reliable, available to work when there are snow and/or ice conditions, have dependable transportation and a strong work ethic. These positions are best for those looking for supplemental income as hours are not guaranteed; work is dependent on the weather. Applicants have the ability to transition in to year round work provided they have the proper skill sets. TSI offers significant pay incentives to applicants who possess industry specific certifications and those who successfully complete the TSI Training Program.

neighborhood for a traffic violation on New Year's Eve, but the driver would not stop. Then, the passenger reached out of the car and dropped a loaded 9-millimeter handgun into the street as the car's driver continued to try to evade police.

The car was eventually stopped in the 2200 block of W. Morse and passenger Erick Cervantes, 27, was detained. Cervantes told police that a passenger in the rear seat handed him the gun, which he tossed out of the car.

Judge John Lyke released him on a $10,000 I-Bond, meaning that Cervantes walked free.

Police later learned that the gun had been reported stolen.

Cervantes was charged with aggravated unlawful use of a weapon in a vehicle and possession of a stolen firearm.

Judge John Lyke released him on a $10,000 I-Bond, meaning that Cervantes walked free and could be held responsible for a $10,000 penalty if he no-shows for court.

The study area for this project includes the stretch of Clark St. from Devon Ave. north to Howard St.

supporters want to use these tax dollars to help "underwrite financing on new development, facilitate reuse of auto-related sites in the future, incentivize inclusionary housing, improve public spaces, and encourage under-utilized properties to be put into productive use."

The plan is the culmination of a study over the past year by the RPBA, who hired city planners from the The Lakota Group to interview local businesses and residents and come forward with this new plan. The study area for this project includes the stretch of Clark St. from Devon Ave. north to Howard St.

The 143-page plan describes the vision for the corridor, and are the results from a series of community meetings, open houses, a project website, and one-on-one interviews with local business owners, property owners, residents, neighborhood organizations and Ald. Joe Moore [49th].

"Clark St. is a critical arterial running through the center of our community." This plan "supports local businesses and residents by enhancing the public and private spaces and building upon Clark's assets, such as public transportation," says Beth Demes, RPBA Board President.

The complete digital version of the final plan is available for download at rpba.org/planning-for-the-future. Hard copies of the complete final Vision Clark Street Master Plan are available for reference at RPBA, 1448 W. Morse Ave.. For more information call 773-508-5885.
