Bullet-Proof Vests Cost $120

ANN GERBER

A NEW AGE OF TERRORISM has dawned. Since the slayings in Paris, the need for guards and guns and a bedrock feeling of safety are on people's minds. Will our lives ever seem simple and safe again?

REMEMBER BOMB SHELTERS? Do we need them again? Will protective drones become the norm?

BEST VALENTINE GIFT, a friend insisted, would be a bullet-proof vest you can buy on the internet for $120. These Kevlar vests are also stab-proof if someone comes at you with a knife or machete. How romantic. Instead of candy and flowers Feb. 14, monogrammed bullet-proof vests will be desired by chic women who want to feel well dressed and well guarded.

GIFTS OF SECURITY, actual caretakers and escorts will become a new norm, if reality picks up the frightened cries of shocked citizens who are still digesting the terrorism that surfaced where Chicagoans flew for love affairs with people, fashion, food. Ah, Paris. Many Chicagoans own apartments within your heavenly boundaries -- the David Hamiltons, Paul Episcopo, the Norman Bobins, the Hubert Brommas to name a few.

Virginia and Norm Bobins

WILL CHICAGOANS and Parisians be walking around with bullet-proof vests? Chicago has know gun violence since its founding. Paris not so much.

STROLLING THE CHAMPS ELYSEES may never be the same.

WHO ARE THE MOST ELIGIBLE men in the world? The February issue of Town & Country lists 50 starting with super rich Stavros Niarchos III of the Greek shipping dynasty. Challengers vie for 44th Ward aldermanic post, name crime, taxes and traffic cameras as big issues

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY PATRICK BUTLER

Ald. Tom Tunney (44th) pointed to a dozen years of accomplishments including a drop in crime, few vacant storefronts, ever-improving schools and even notice by CNN/Forbes as "the best neighborhood in the Midwest."

"Conde Nast even called Halsted St. 'the best gay district in the world,'" Ald. Tunney told a Jan. 21 candidates forum sponsored by the Hawthorne Neighbors at the Annoyance Theater, 851 W. Belmont Ave.

"We also got 22 additional police officers in the 19th district in the past year. We're working very hard to keep Lakeview the safe neighborhood it is," said Ald. Tunney, who said he's often out on the streets at 3 a.m. "checking things out. We're moving in the right direction."

"And we've done it without TIFs or charter schools," he added.

He agrees the ward has its problems, but adds "they're the problems of success. A lot of people can't afford to live here anymore."

But at least two local residents think it's time for Ald. Tunney to take early retirement -- challengers Scott Davis, a project manager and Statements made by both aldermen Tom Tunney [44th] and James Cappleman [46th] in recent campaigning stops appear to contradict Chicago Police Dept. [CPD] documents showing that the 19th district's manpower is very close to its all-time low.

According to CPD records, there are a total of 343 officers now assigned to the 19th district, that's down from 347 in December, 2014, and the 345 who were posted there in January, 2014.

Uptown block club limits questions then votes to approve Clark St. pot dispensary

BY PETER VON BUOL
AND BOB ZULEY

At a meeting of the Winnemac Foster Carmen and Winnemac block club Monday, Jan. 12, club members voted to support an application by The Cannabis Group to open a medical marijuana store at 5001-5003 N. Clark St.

Appearing before the group was Zachary Zises, a locally-based venture capitalist who is the principal of Local Government Regional Center of Illinois (LGRCI), a company which claims to help wealthy foreign-investors obtain Visas allowing permanent resident status in the U.S.

During the meeting, questions were limited to operational questions. No questions were allowed on the propriety of the business or it's choice of locations. After someone raised concerns about a recent shooting nearby, the club's leadership replied the cannabis store would have its own security and the meeting had to move on to other operational questions.

Questions about the company's political clout and connections to Ald. Ameya Pawar [47th] also were not allowed.

Uptown Neighbors to discuss new pot shop

The North Uptown Neighbors Assoc. will be holding a meeting about the proposed special use variance for the medical marijuana store at 5001-5003 N. Clark St. at its next meeting 6 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 4, at the Bezazian Library, 1226 W. Ainslie.

While the block club's meeting was open to neighboring residents, only members in good standing were allowed to vote.

Zises' foreign investors come from the small group of wealthy foreign nationals who are seeking what is officially known as the Fifth Employment-Based Visa [or EB-5].

Through this program, foreign investors enter the U.S. as conditional residents. After they make an initial investment of $500,000 in an American business, visa restrictions are lifted. Those investments can be made into many kinds of businesses such as ski resorts, real estate or even charter schools. Eighteen months later, applicants are able to receive permanent resident status.

Zises and his brother, Bryan Zises, are well-known in local and state government circles. Bryan

BY PATRICK BUTLER

The first thing Troy Kane and Samantha Owens usually have to tell a new volunteer at the National Runaway Safeline [NRS] at 3080 N. Lincoln Ave. is not to give too much advice.

The callers they'll be trying to help "have already been surrounded by people telling them what to do," Owens told a recent Lake View Kiwanis Club luncheon last week at Ann Sather's Restaurant, 909 W. Belmont Ave.

"You want them to come up with solutions they themselves thought up."

Day in and day out, a handful of NRS' 120 available volunteers are manning a 24-hour hotline, calming down some of the estimated 250,000 teens and 20-somethings who call them each yes, said Kane, who admits it's not a life for everyone.

It's not just a matter of referring a kid to a shelter where he or she can spend the night. The truth is, there are only four shelters (with a total of about 200 beds) in all of Chicago (and only 727 in the whole country) set up to handle

Troy Kane and Samantha Owen of the National Runaway Safeline tell the Lake View Kiwanis Club what it's like working on a crisis hotline for homeless or runaway youths. A lot of the 1.2 to 2.8 million homeless youth don't look like people think homeless people should look like. "They do their best to hide it because they're embarrassed," Kane said.

the young and the homeless, said Owens.

NRS was established in a Wrigleyville-area storefront in 1971 to fill a need for comprehensive crisis intervention for young people in Chicago. It was conceived as a centralized organization with free 24-hour services, expertise in all youth-related issues and as an information clearinghouse of youth services.

At one period the Dunkin Donuts store at the corner of Clark St. and Belmont Ave. was ground zero for youth homelessness in Chicago. It is still a magnet for homeless youth today.

In 1974, the agency received an eight-month federal demonstration grant to establish a national hotline. During this time, 11,000 calls were received demonstrating the need for this type of service. They have survived mostly on government grants since then. Beginning as the National Runaway Switchboard, and now as National Runaway Safeline, NRS' capabilities and services have since grown considerably.

NRS serves as the federally designated national communication system for runaway and homeless youth with services provided through funding from Family and Youth Services Bureau in the Administration for Children and Families, U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services. They also depend on the generosity of private, individual donors, corporate part-

AN EXCITING EXHIBITION OPENS FEB. 14 AT THE DRIEHAUS Museum -- art jewelry from the 20th century. Featured will be 250 works of art made, worn and inspired by women. Collector Richard Driehaus began acquiring art nouveau and arts and crafts jewelry in the 1990s and has never shown his treasures before.

RENOWNED ARTIST AND PRINTMAKER ELDZIER CORTOR will be honored with the 2015 Legends and Legacy Award at the Art Institute Feb. 20. A tireless innovator, Cortor worked in Chicago and New York devoting much of his seven-decade career to depicting African American women.

AUTHORS OF ARTICLES in the January issue of the Illinois Bar Journal are Nicholas Owen McCann, Caroline Ackerman and Shawna Boothe.

WITNESSING A SAVAGE BEATING of a young homeless man while riding the red line car, prompted a reader, Darryl Grant, to send us details of the sickening event. Victim and assailant were both African American, he related, and the attack was so vicious the beaten man was thrown off the train at the Fullerton station. The assailant taunted onlookers who were shocked and showed it. The conductor did nothing. “This incident was horrible to witness. Something must be done to protect riders from violence, no matter who they are.”

ONE SWEET CUBBIE was our Ernie Banks, a perpetual joy for fans and colleagues. We dined with him several times at parties hosted by his close friend, Shirley Marx of Water Tower Place, and he loved being the celeb everyone wanted to meet. CHICAGO AUTHOR GERA-LIND KOLARIK startled Winnetka residents when Lifetime Movie Network launched its fourth season of “Killer Kids” Jan. 14 with “The Assassins: The Matrix Kid,” based on her 1995 book, “I Am Cain.” Kolarik, who once wrote for this newspaper and serves as narrator for the movie, reveals there is a possibility that David Biro, killer of a newlywed Winnetka couple when he was 16, will have a parole hearing, originally denied when he received a lifetime sentence. Biro, currently serving time in Pontiac, IL, Correctional Center, is expected to appear before a parole board soon.

HOTTEST DESTINATION IN NYC is Ralph Lauren’s Polo Bar, an RL-clone at 1 E. 55th St. around the corner from the swank new Ralph Lauren Polo Fifth Avenue store. It opened just a few days ago and has attracted the movers and shakers in the Big Apple. The clubby atmosphere, the posh, understated decor, the comfort food, bode well for this latest addition... ITS 132 SEATS have been filled with the classy rumps of Martha Stewart, Jamie Tisch, Charlie Rose, Ivanka Trump, George Stephanopoulos, Donna Karan, Calvin Klein, Brooke Shields, Tom Brokaw, Graydon Carter, Michael Bloomberg, Hoda Kotb and other NYC celebs. Some cheered for the huge corned beef sandwich and the tasty all-American burger is a big seller... Rich Varnes and the staff of our popular RL eatery guided this new “Big Sister.”

FRIENDS OF MURDERED GOLD COASTER SHEILA VON WIESE MACK are reminded that accused killer Heather Mack, 19, her daughter, took acting classes at Second City. Current gossip has Heather “acting like a sweet, loving daughter in front of others after she brutalized Sheila and broke her arm in one confrontation.”

“Heather could be a little darling, than strike like a snake,” one longtime friend insisted. There isn’t any sympathy for pregnant Heather from most of her mother’s mourning pals. Heather’s boyfriend, and the father of her unborn baby, “Stella,” Tommy Schaefer, 21, will stand trial separately in Bali. Heather

Feeling groovy at Funk Trunk Records

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

today, I have about 400 of them boxed in my basement. Somehow it seems as if they were from another lifetime ago.

I've given my kids some to frame as wall art, and I was at an art fair once where there was a young girl selling albums she'd turned into eye-catching artwork. She had glued tiny rhinestones onto the albums in the colors and design of the cover's artwork. So if there was a purple guitar and red rose on the cover, the guitar was covered in little purple rhinestones and the rose was covered in red ones and green for the stem. I didn't buy any for the $125 she was asking, thinking that I could easily make my own. Of course, I haven't done that. Yet.

Being a music/album lover is something I have in common with Quinn Cunningham, who recently opened a tiny storefront record shop around the corner from my house, Funk Trunk Records, 6960 N. Sheridan Rd. The place may be small, but it made a big impression when I stopped in last week, especially because the Rolling Stones' album "Hot Rocks" was in the window!

Cunningham, who originally hails from Louisville moved to East Rogers Park a few years ago. Like me, music has been his life-long passion.

"It started when my mother bought me a walkman along with my first cassette tape -- Kris Kross - Totally Krossed Out -- as a birthday present and I remember not putting it down," recalled Cunningham. "I would try to sneak it to school and would always get caught. From there I was really fascinated with music.

"I gravitated towards hip hop mainly," said Cunningham. "By time I got into my early 20s I began getting bored with hip hop, so I started doing research on the roots and origins of it. This lead me into funk and deeper into soul music through the samples that were used to create hip hop."

An album collector, Cunningham noticed East Rogers Park had no record store. He also loves the "eclectic, quirky" neighborhood. So for his 30th birthday he opened Funk Trunk, where prices range from $5 to $30.

"Traveling to another neighborhood to buy records becomes a hassle after a while, so I wanted to change that," said Cunningham, who also has a very cool piece of artwork hanging in the store created by Whitney Young teacher Rayshawn Nowlin. "I knew that if I felt that way, other vinyl collectors in the neighborhood or nearby felt the same way. It didn't make sense, that a neighborhood rich in musical and artistic talent didn't have a record shop."

Funk Trunk is mostly stocked with soul, disco and funk records from the 1960s through '80s but you can also find rock, blues, reggae, jazz and hip hop. "So you may find Marvin Gaye, The Beatles or Miles Davis," said Cunningham, who some Saturdays has DJ sessions called Funk at Da Trunk, to enhance the experience of his shoppers.

I asked Cunningham what he'd like to tell people who are thinking about stopping in.

"It's a different record store than any other in the city," he said. "It's a small space that feels cozy and not overwhelming. It's a record store that you're not judged on your taste in music or doesn't have a pretentious vibe about it."

"I'm a music lover first and business owner second, so I'm always interested in what my customers say about music or any recommendations they may have about artists to carry in the store or just to check out," said Cunningham. "I consider myself knowledgeable, but never will I claim to know everything about music. It's also quirky and eclectic just like the neighborhood it resides in, but I think a spot you must check out if you dig vinyl."

Generosity abounds... Entertainer John Vincent started 2015 learning a valuable lesson. Vincent -- who performs three times a week at Ditka's, 100 E. Chestnut St. -- was walking down Clark St. recently in Lincoln Park and he passed a Subway sandwich shop.

Inside an older gentleman with a long white beard and worn clothes was sitting down, with no food in front of him. So Vincent went inside and asked if the man was eating. "No, I just wanted to come in from the cold," replied the man. When Vincent offered to buy him lunch, he accepted.

"As I'm getting his stuff in line I find out he's homeless and that he just got out of the hospital," recalled Vincent, a generous guy who sings the national anthem at various sports events and regularly gives tickets away to those who might otherwise never get to a game. "He asked me if I have any gloves on me. The first thing that came to my mind is I'm buying this man lunch and now he wants gloves and I have to go buy some! I judged him without even thinking about it. Before I could say a word he opens up his coat and says, 'I have a pair if you need.'

John Vincent and Mike Ditka at Ditka's.

"I was stunned and ashamed of myself," said Vincent. "I asked his name and with a beautiful smile he said Jack, but my real name is John. I told him that is also my name and he laughed so beautifully with so much joy. He was amazing."

The wonderful world of Disney... has never ceased to enchant me, and "Frozen on Ice," is no exception. The music is awesome and the vibrant costumes are a must-see for any "Frozen" or Disney lover. The show heads to the United Center on Jan. 28. Catch it if you can!

Letter to the Editor

Leave the park as it is

I read with great interest the article concerning Mariano Park (Jan. 23). My husband and I are weekend residents a block north of the park. We strongly agree with Peter Spiros. The park does not need a large structure or a liquor license. In fact we agree that it is perfect just the way it is.

Should a liquor license be issued, we think it would become another Cedar Hotel. There are plenty of places to get a cocktail in the area, but no where else to enjoy the outdoors like you can in a park. Please let us know how we might help to support Mr. Spiros and his efforts.

Now is a great time to buy a home if you can qualify for a loan

BY DON DeBAT

If you can qualify for a mortgage now is a great time to buy a home or a condominium, experts say.

Benchmark 30-year fixed mortgage rates fell to 3.63%—near a 65-year low—last week amid declining bond yields and sinking oil prices, analysts said.

The average rate on a 30-year loan fell to 3.63% on January 22, the lowest level since the week ending May 23, 2013 when it averaged 3.59%, reported Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey.

On November 21, 2012, the benchmark rate hit a record low of 3.31%, reported Freddie Mac. A year ago at this time, the 30-year fixed loan averaged 4.39%.

Meanwhile, 15-year fixed mortgage rates averaged 2.93% on January 22, down from 2.98% a week earlier. A year ago, the 15-year loan averaged 3.44%.

"Mortgage rates continued to fall, while housing starts picked up, coming in at a seasonally adjusted 1.089 million-unit pace in December and beating market expectations," noted Frank Nothaft, vice president and chief economist for Freddie Mac.

Mark Zandi, chief economist for Moody's Analytics, noted that experts were surprised how gracefully the financial markets and the economy digested the Federal Reserve Board's recent quantitative easing of interest rates.

"Long-term rates, including mortgage rates, ended the year much lower than they began the year," Zandi said.

However, Zandi said the Fed likely will begin raising short-term rates by mid-2015 and long-term mortgage rates are expected to follow.

The Home Front

Laurence Yun, chief economist of the National Assoc. of Realtors, expects 30-year mortgage rates to average around 4.9% in the second half of 2015.

"This year marks what appears to be a turning point for the Illinois housing market," said Jim Kinney, president of the Illinois Assoc. of Realtors and vice president for luxury home sales at Baird & Warner in Chicago. "We saw strong and sustained median price gains and sales volumes remained healthy throughout the year. The showing we had in 2014 sets the housing market up nicely for a strong start to 2015."

In December of 2014, home and condominium sales in the nine-county Chicago area totaled 7,971 units, down 3.7% from sales of 8,278 homes in December, 2013. Year-end 2014 home sales totaled 104,379 units, down 6.5% from 111,672 homes sold in the nine-county region in 2013.

The median price in December of 2014 was $184,000 in the Chicago area, up 4.2% from $176,500 in December, 2013. The year-end 2014 median price rose to $194,000, up 9.3% from $177,500 in 2013.

In Chicago, home and condo sales declined 6.8% in December of 2014 to 1,992 units, compared with 2,137 units sold in December, 2013. Year-end 2014 home sales totaled 25,414 units in Chicago, down 6.7% from 27,242 units in 2013.

The median price of a home in Chicago in December of 2014 was $229,250, up 9.2% compared with $210,000 in December, 2013. Year-end 2014 median price reached $245,000, up 11.4% from $220,000 in 2013.

"Significant employment gains declines in the unemployment rate and gas prices have all contributed to enhancing consumer expectations that hopefully will turn into more housing sales in 2015," said Geoffrey J.D. Hewings, a Univ. of Illinois economist.

Chicago elections heat up

Expect controversies between campaigns to increase as voting nears

BY DICK SIMPSON

In less than a month we vote again. Voter registration for the upcoming February 24 election closed Tuesday. Early voting begins February 9 while applications for mail ballots are due by February 19. So it is time to decide who to vote for.

In hotly contested wards, like the 2nd and the 43rd, candidate debates are already underway. Five televised mayoral debates begin on different TV channels the first week of February. For many voters it will be their first close look at Rahm's challengers. Already voters are meeting both aldermanic and mayor candidates at CTA bus and "L" stops. Soon precinct workers will be at your doorstep and look for a flood of election mailers to hit your mailbox, if they haven't already.

Political news conferences, charges, and counter-charges are a daily occurrence. Expect controversies between campaigns to increase as voting nears.

In the meantime, various organizations are making endorsements. For example, IVI-IPO last week endorsed Jesus "Chuy" Garcia for Mayor; Stacy Pfingsten (Bob Fioretti's former staff member) for 2nd Ward Alderman. They endorsed Amy Crawford and Denice Davis over 46th Ward incumbent Ald. James Cappleman but endorsed incumbent Ald. Joe Moore for reelection in the 49th Ward. But what matters more is who you endorse and if you vote.

The hot button issues in this election continue to be crime, schools, local ward developments, and a rubber stamp city council. Current aldermen voted with Mayor Rahm Emanuel on average 93% of the time even on controversial divided roll call votes. Do we want that to continue?

Referendums on an elected school board are on the ballot in many wards. Citizens to Abolish Red Light Cameras have signed three mayoral and 42 aldermanic candidates to a pledge to abolish the hated cameras. Expect more candidates to sign on even though red light cameras are not likely to be banned. New rules governing them are being introduced into the city council, however, so voter outrage is being heard.

I hope to focus voter attention directly on political corruption. Next week, Tom Gradel and I publish Corrupt Illinois with the Univ. of Illinois Press. In our book we spend an entire chapter on aldermanic corruption alone. Bribery, extortion, and tax fraud has put 33 aldermen in prison since the 1970s. Some folks place bets on who will be the next to be indicted and convicted.

But corruption is no joke. Aldermanic and City Hall thefts have led to Chicago being the most corrupt city in the nation. And corruption costs us taxpayers more than $500 million a year. We could make a big dent in problems like the pension crisis if we could just curb corruption.

I hope our book will cause voters to look closely at all the candidates and ask: "What is their ethical track record? Are they part of a corrupt machine or political organization? Who gives them their campaign funds and will they control these aldermen after their election?"

To cure Chicago's and Illinois' corruption we must begin by electing candidates running on a platform of ethical reform. Then we must demand that they live up to their promises once they are elected.

So a lot is at stake in these mayoral and aldermanic elections. Whether we get the services we need, economic recovery in our neighborhoods, lowered crime, and better schools for starters. Whether we get clean or crooked city government. A true legislature or a rubber stamp council.

It is time to fish or cut bait. In early months, voters don't pay attention to candidates' campaigns. But with the debates coming to TV sets and community meetings near you, it is time to focus. The old slogan was to vote early and often in a Chicago where elections were stolen all too frequently. Now, you can choose to vote as early as February 9 or wait until Election Day on the 24th.

You can choose to throw the rascals out and support good candidates where they are running for election or reelection. Or you can fail to vote and bemoan how unresponsive city government is. I recommend you vote.

TIF money to be given to CTA for Grand Ave. Blue Line station renovation

Improvements to the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) Blue Line Grand Ave. subway station, 502 W. Grand Ave., would be assisted with Tax Increment Financing (TIF) funds collected through property taxes under a proposal introduced to City Council last week.

The $13 million rehabilitation of the Grand Ave. subway station would be supported with $4 million in tax funds. Planned improvements include canopies over two street-level entrances, new finishes on the mezzanine and passenger platform, new stairs, a new escalator, improved lighting, signage and furniture. The station, which hasn't been significantly renovated since opening in 1951, serves about 700,000 riders annually.

Property Tax Bills due March 3

The latest property tax bills have been mailed out and show a due date of Tuesday, March 3, the Cook County Treasurer's office reports.

Taxpayers can pay by check, cash or online at cookcountytreasurer.com, and noted that county offices will be closed on Monday, March 2, for Casimir Pulaski Day. Taxpayer can also pay up all Chase Bank locations and and at some 200 participating community banks. Partial payments are accepted and taxpayers must reference their 14-digit Property Index Number (PIN) located at the top of each tax bill for all payments and must write their PIN on the face of each payment check.

If paying by mail, bills should show a U.S. postmark no later than March 3, 2015. Payments received or postmarked after March 3 will be charged 1.5% monthly penalty.

The First Installment bills for tax year 2014 now show every unit of government (taxing district) that has levied a tax on a home or other real property. The money owed by your taxing districts; pension and healthcare amounts promised by those taxing districts, amount of pension and healthcare shortages and the percentage of pension and healthcare costs taxing districts can pay.

Later this year all North Side townships will be re-assessed by the County Assessor's Office.

Disabled losing choices for communications

FCC rules changes limits deaf and those hard of hearing to one provider

BY ROBERT KINGETT

For most Americans, the process of using the telephone isn't even considered. It's as natural as putting on clothes or shoes. Most People don't have to worry about their speech or articulation. For the 600,000 Chicago residents with impaired hearing or speech, however, they have to rely on telephone relay services to make calls.

The ADA defines relay services as telephone services that enable people who are deaf or hard of hearing, or who have a speech impairment, to communicate with a person who can hear in a manner that is "functionally equivalent" to the ability of an individual without a disability to communicate by telephone. The relay user dials 711, the national number, and is connected to a communications assistant [CA]. The CA then places the call and assists with the call depending on the type of call. There are a vast array of relay methods, including video relay and text relay services. One of them is dwindling in Illinois, and across America. That service is IP Relay.

IP relay is an Internet Protocol Relay service for people with a computer or other web-enabled device who communicate using text. IP relay is becoming less available in the U.S. because many providers are discontinuing their IP relay services. Just a few of these providers who have discontinued their IP relay services in the past 10 years are Purple Communications, Hamilton Relay, Inc, Sorenson Communications, Inc, and AT&T.

IP Relay is beneficial to people who are deaf, have a speech disability, or who are deaf blind. Jean Modry, a deaf user of IP Relay in Edgewater, says that IP Relay can become very useful when there isn't enough light to use VRS, the video relay service.

"You need background light for the operator to see the deaf person signing. If you were outside or in the car at night, the lack of light was an issue. With the IP Relay, lack of environmental light was not an issue. The cell phone backscreen lit up and you could read the print easily in the dark," said Modry.

Modry says IP Relay are also useful in other ways. "Last summer, I had an old cell phone that did not have enough juice to do video relay calls. I had enough power to type messages back and forth which is why on the road I could only use IP Relay Services."

Users who want to use the service still have one option left. At the time of this writing, Sprint is the only remaining IP relay provider because they were able to work out a deal with the FCC.

"A few weeks ago, after several discussions with the FCC, we were able to agree to terms that would allow Sprint to continue offering IP Relay services," said Marci VerBrugge-Rhind, a spokesperson for Sprint. "We knew how important it was that we remain in this business – the outpouring of support we've received from the deaf community and the deaf and blind community asking that we stay is a testament to how critical this service is to many."

Andrew Phillips, the Policy Counsel at the National Assoc. of the Deaf said "IP Relay is a valuable service for many deaf and hard of hearing individuals. In fact, IP relay is the only accessible relay service for many Deaf-blind individuals as well as many who are unable to use VRS or IP CTS. IP Relay is also an important backup relay service for VRS users who due to poor network conditions, cannot connect to VRS."

The providers who are shutting down the service claim it is due to the actions by the FCC. They state

The Sounds of the South Loop concert series is performed in the church's acoustically perfect sanctuary.

Innovative 'Sounds of the South Loop' concerts presented in historic setting

BY BOB KITSOS

The historic Second Presbyterian Church, 1936 S. Michigan Ave., continues its long tradition of offering extraordinary music to the neighborhood as the season heads into 2015.

The Sounds of the South Loop music series invites musicians and listeners to come together in the building that was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1974, designated a Chicago Landmark in 1977 and a National Historic Landmark by the U.S. Dept. of the Interior in March 2013.

One of the founders of this music series is Howard Tiffen. "What sets Sounds of the South Loop apart from many other performances groups in many ways is that our calling card is our focus on the musicians," he said. "Often it's the piece of music or the famous composer that gets all the attention. Our attitude is that none of those beautiful, intriguing, simply great sounds can be created with-music specialists."

Milwaukee native Maestra Kim Diehnelt, established her craft as conductor, composer and artistic coach in both Finland and Switzerland where she led Baltic, Russian and European ensembles.

Concerts in the church's sanctuary are 60 minutes long with no intermission. The high quality music ranges from classical, to modern, to exotic. Pastor David

Neft said that the church is a natural place for the arts. "It has an acoustically perfect sanctuary with Tiffany stained glass windows and a warm Arts and Crafts interior."

Upcoming concerts are Feb. 6 and Feb. 25. Information is available at soundsofthesouthloop.com. Artistic Director Kim Diehnelt arrived at Second Presbyterian a few years ago. The Milwaukee native was captured by the spectacular interior of the church's sanctuary, which is one of America's best examples of an unaltered Arts and Crafts church interior, its acoustics and the opportunity it provided to musicians to perform in a space that could accommodate several hundred people.

Second Presbyterian Church is a Gothic Revival building designed by architect James Renwick in 1874. It is Chicago's only National Landmark church.

As a professional composer, conductor, chamber music coach and music teacher, Maestra Diehnelt has an expansive network to draw from based on her work in the U.S., Finland and Europe. While in Europe, she worked with musicians and ensembles from various countries, including the South Bohemian Chamber Orchestra, Russian chamber ensembles and soloists from Estonia, Sweden and Poland.

The church also collaborates with Columbia College students who produce studio-quality recordings of each event as part of their master's program in recorded music.

Pastor Neft said, "The Sounds of the South Loop concert series is an amazing offering to the community. We hope it will add to becoming a neighborhood center for arts and music; a destination place for people who love good music."

Expert panel addresses Chicago's mental services, gives mixed reviews

Illinois' cut of $113M in mental health services cost state $131M

BY MARTHA ROSENBERG

How well is Chicago providing mental health services for its poor, homeless and those with mental illness and addictions? A panel of legal, mental health and correctional professionals speaking at Columbia College in the South Loop on Wednesday night gave the city a mixed report card. The event was sponsored by the Community Media Workshop, which has sought to diversify the voices that shape the news and public issue debates since 1989.

Certainly the closing of six of the city's mental health clinics in 2012 has added people with unmet mental health needs to Chicago streets said the panel. Some $113 million was cut from Illinois' mental health services between 2009 and 2011 and at least 2,000 of Cook County Jail's 8,800 detainees need mental health services not the incarceration they are receiving.

But, Illinois is one of 27 states which has adopted Medicaid expansion, a provision under the Affordable Care Act, also called Obamacare, that expands Medicaid to uninsured and poor Americans who have historically not been served by the health care system.

Before Medicaid expansion, only children, the elderly, pregnant women, people who are disabled and those with extremely low incomes could get benefits, said panelist Heather O'Donnell, vice president of public policy and advocacy for Thresholds Illinois Behavioral Health Advocates. Medicaid expansion will open up mental health services for the first time to people with mental illness who did not fit into these groups.

Medicaid expansion has already had an effect at Cook County Jail said Dr. Nneka Jones, first assistant executive director of the Cook County Dept. of Corrections within the Cook County Sheriff's Office. "Discharge plans" are extremely important when people leave the jail said Dr. Jones because without mental health and other services in place, many will end up back in jail, repeatedly. The advent of Medicaid expansion has allowed people to be enrolled in Medicaid when they first enter the jail system so services are firmly in place when they are discharged. So far, 6,000 have been enrolled this way, said Dr. Jones.

Panelist Mark Heyrman, J.D., clinical professor of law at the Univ. of Chicago called Illinois' adoption of Medicaid expansion "one of the best things" that has happened in his years of teaching law and advocating for the rights of people with mental illness. In the 1960's, at least 35,000 people with mental illness were "de-institutionalized," said Heyrman yet "we did not invest in affordable housing" and other social structures to support them in the community. The problem exists to this day.

What is needed, agreed the panelists, is a "crisis intervention" center other than a hospital emergency room or jail where people with apparent mental illness can be assessed and "triaged" and given the help they need. Too often a person with mental illness who has committed a minor or "survival" crime is first taken to the or the federal government and the entities "don't play well together" said Heyrman.

Especially important to people with mental illness, struggling to remain in the community, is housing. Lack of affordable housing, especially for someone who is newly discharged from jail, is almost an assurance that person will return to a correctional institution and/or hospital emergency room said the panel. In November, Inside Publications reported on a Chicago conference, called "The Cost of Doing Nothing," in which experts, including Cook County Sheriff Tom Dart and former U.S. Rep. Patrick Kennedy expressed the same concerns. The event was sponsored by the Kennedy Forum.

Moreover, being threatened with homelessness will, understandably, cause someone with mental problems to worsen, said Dr. Carolyn Vessel, CEO of the I AM ABLE Center for Family Development. The faith-based group provides families and individuals with counseling, educational and wellness services.

Housing is so important, agreed the panel, that it is considered part of "treatment." Mental health service providers used to weigh whether a person showed enough psychological improvement to be "house ready," said the panel but housing, along with meaningful relationships and vocational prospects, is now considered an early and important therapy in and of itself. When it comes to factors that predict a positive outcome for a person with mental illness, "housing is as important as medication," said Heyrman.

Providing mental health services also makes economic sense, said O'Donnell. When the state of Illinois cut $113 million in mental health services, emergency room visits rose by 19% which cost $131 million, an additional $18 million.

In the 1960's, at least 35,000 people with mental illness were "de-institutionalized," said Heyrman yet "we did not invest in affordable housing" and other social structures to support them in the community. The problem exists to this day.

hospital and, if not admitted, goes to jail. But is a person who is told to leave a restaurant because he is panhandling, really a hardened criminal asked the panel? Should he be sent to jail where he will likely deteriorate?

"Once you're in jail, it is hard to get the heck out," said Heyrman.

Even private insurance has made mental health services a "stepchild" panelists said, severely limiting and capping in-hospital stays, residential care and therapy sessions. The good news is that 35 states, including Illinois, have passed "parity laws" which require that the mental health coverage in health insurance policies be comparable with physical health coverage.

While Medicaid expansion and parity laws represent a bright note in mental health services in Chicago, all of the panelists lamented the lack of coordination between different service providers and government bodies. Depending on the service, demographic and location, mental health services can be funded by the City of Chicago, Cook County, the state of Illinois

Chicago Taxi fares likely going up under State's new 'surge pricing' law

Taxi fares may be going up soon. Just before leaving office former Gov. Pat Quinn signed a bill into law aimed at car services such as Uber and Lyft which could mean higher Taxi fares for cab riders.

The law could allow taxis that are contacted via a smartphone app to start using the same "surge pricing" as Uber and Lyft in times of high demand.

The new law requires that transportation network companies have $1 million insurance policies in place for each driver, as well as $50,000 policies for collisions with uninsured and underinsured drivers and for personal injury to passengers and drivers.

The taxi cab and car-ride service companies must pay for the insurance if the driver's insurance doesn't cover commercial use and sets basic statewide standards on insurance coverage and driver background checks that the city of Chicago must now observe. Those costs will surely be passed onto the consumer.

The state law also extends "surge pricing" to taxis, if they're hailed through a ride-booking service during periods of high demand. The surge pricing trend was created by ride-service providers like Uber and Lyft so that they could charge higher rates when taxis are in greatest demand. Previously taxis had been held to fixed rates in the city.

CTA Warns of pick pocket on North Side Red Line trains

The CTA and Chicago Police have issued an alert to warn CTA riders of a pickpocket who has taken wallets on a North Side Red Line train this week.

According to the alert, the man stole the woman's wallet from her purse as she prepared to exit a southbound train at Chicago Ave. 1:30 p.m. Monday. After taking the woman's wallet, CTA officials say the man returned to a seat on the train and exited at Lake St.

Surveillance review by CTA found that the man boarded the train at Uptown's Wilson Ave. station.

Police are asking for anyone with information about this incident or the suspect to call the CTA's 24-hour hotline at 312-745-4443.

46-year-old fellow passenger's head and took the man's Samsung Galaxy phone and wallet as the bus neared Irving Park and Damen. He had boarded the bus at Cicero. Police took Hernandez into custody at Damen and Belle Plaine and armed robbery charges are pending. Bond has been set at $300,000.

At 11:50 p.m., a man was robbed at gunpoint at Clark and School streets by two men who closely matched the descriptions of the offenders who shot at the sheriff.

Two black men dressed entirely in black produced a handgun and took the victim's coat and a book bag before fleeing eastbound on Belmont from Clark.

Police are asking anyone with information on these crimes to call the Bureau of Detectives – Area North at 312-744-8263 and refer to RD#s HY123960, HY123974, and HY124034.

Woman reports man for groping in dog area at Pottawattomie Park

Police say a woman reported a sex offense that allegedly occurred Jan. 16 in the dog area near the north-end of Pottawattomie Park on the 7400 block of N. Wolcott Ave.

The 22-year-old stated that about 11 a.m. she was approached by a man calling himself "Trey" who began aggressively flirting with her while she walked her dog. The offender had commented on a college name on her sweatshirt and said he had a "baby's momma" in the same state, according to police.

Then, the woman said, he began groping one of her breasts and eventually pinned her against a fence where he continued to grope her. The woman screamed for help and the man fled west through the park.

Several units responded to the call but did not make any arrests. The victim described the man as a black male approximately 6-feet 4-inches tall and between 38 and 42-years-old. At the time of the incident he wore a black skull cap and a green-brown camouflage-style jacket.

Two delivery drivers robbed at gunpoint at far north end of Rogers Park

Two delivery drivers from a Rogers Park restaurant were robbed at gunpoint during consecutive nights Jan. 17 and 18 in the same small section of turf near the city's northern boundary.

The first driver was hit about 10:45 p.m. in a vestibule in the 7700 block of N. Paulina St., police said. The driver had been waiting on a door buzzer when three men in hooded sweatshirts and masks appeared on the stairs and confronted him with a handgun in the small space.

The victim had given the men $186 cash, a $400 Samsung cell-phone along with the food order before they returned back inside the building, police said. The driver was not injured during the robbery.

The second driver was delivering to the 7700 block of N. Marshfield Ave.—one block east of the incident the previous night—when he entered a courtyard shortly after 8 p.m. There, he called the phone number on the ticket and was met moments later by two men who emerged from a walkway alongside the building, police said.

One of the offenders pointed a black handgun and ordered the driver's money, wallet and phone. The gunman took the man's driver's license along with the rest of his property. The amount of cash taken during the robbery was not specified.

The offenders fled the courtyard and were not arrested that night. The driver was not injured during the robbery.

Two robberies in Uptown

Two people were robbed within minutes of each other in Uptown early last Wednesday.

In the first case, two men attacked a victim from behind, then beat and robbed him in a parking lot at 4525 N. Sheridan around 2:10 a.m. The offenders fled eastbound on Montrose with the victim's phone and wallet.

Another victim flagged down police at Sheridan and Sunnyside who were canvassing for the first robbery, about a half-block from the first crime scene and reported being robbed. Officers were not immediately sure if the same two men were responsible for both muggings. The offender are described as a male, white, 20 to 30 years old, either 5'7 and 150 lbs or 6' and 200-220 lbs.

The second was a male, black or Hispanic, 20 to 30 years old, 5'10 tall, 150-180 lbs.

Police are asking anyone with information on this case to call Area North detectives at 312-744-8263 and refer to cases HY122815 and HY122817.

Woman says she was robbed at gunpoint near Schreiber Park

A woman allegedly was robbed at gunpoint the night of Jan. 20 several blocks north of Schreiber Park.

The 24-year-old victim had been walking home about 9:25 p.m. in the alley east of 6500 N. Bosworth Ave. when two men approached her. One of the unidentified offenders pointed a black handgun at her and said, "Shut up, give me your stuff" the victim told police.

Police say the offenders took a bag with two Apple devices, a Sony camera and $300 cash. The victim was attempting to track her phone with a GPS application and said she would contact police with any information. No arrests were made that night.

Residential Burglaries reported in Lakeview

Chicago Police are alerting Lakeview area residents of recent burglaries taking place during afternoon hours. The offenders entered by forcing entry through the rear doors 2:50 p.m. Jan. 14 at a residence on the 1000 block of W. Altgeld and then 3:45 p.m. Jan. 22 at a home in the 3000 block of N. Greenview.

In the Jan. 14 incident, three offenders enter from the alley before breaking through the rear door. One offender was described as being 5'07-5'10 tall, 170-210 lbs, wearing a black hooded sweatshirt under a ¾ length jacket, with gray Adidas gym shoes with a white stripe. A second offender was described as being 5'07-5'10 tall, 190-220 lbs, wearing a baseball hat with white cursive writing on the front.

Lakeview car jacking

A long-time Lakeview resident told police that he was carjacked at gunpoint outside of his home in the 800 block of Oakdale 11:15 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 16.

The 55-year-old victim told police that two men pulled a gun on him and drove off in his older model, dark blue BMW 528i.

The victim describes the offenders as two white males. The first about 6'4" tall wearing a jogging suit. The second is balding, about 5'9" tall, and he wore a black jogging suit.

Police vice unit arrests three for prostitution on Clark St. in just over an hour

A tactical team made three prostitution-related arrests in just over an hour Jan. 18 on the 7000 block of N. Clark St. in Rogers Park.

A 49-year-old man was taken into custody around 10 p.m. after he offered an undercover officer $30 for sexual intercourse, police said.

A 43-year-old male was arrested about 10:40 p.m. after he reached a $25 agreement with an undercover officer for sexual intercourse, police said.

A 37-year-old man was charged just after 11 p.m. with solicitation after picking up an undercover officer and offering her $50 for multiple sex acts, police said.

Zises (prior to working for the state, he had been a partner in his brother's EB-5 business) is the chief operating officer for the state's Illinois Housing Development Authority. Earlier, he had been spokesman for Rev. James Meeks, the newly-appointed chairman of the state board of education. The pair are also owners of a film company.

Also listed as a co-operator of the proposed cannabis store is Kristie Zises (who co-owns a building with Bryan Zises). Lastly, the group includes Paul Lee, who worked at a lucrative cannabis business in Colorado. Lee grew up in Uptown, where his parents owned the Sheridan "L" liquor store for more than 40 years.

In an email sent to 47th Ward residents, Ernie Costantino, an aide to Ald. Pawar, wrote that Zises' experience will provide him with "a unique advantage point of overseeing strictly regulated entities." In the same email, Lee is described as a one-time legal marijuana worker in Colorado and Kristie Zises is described as a Chicago real-estate veteran (although her license is no longer active).

Bryan Zises was an early supporter of candidate Pawar's first run for alderman. At that time, Zises hosted coffees to introduce him to 47th Ward residents and actively promoted him on social-media. He also wrote letters to the editor to Chicago newspapers in support of his favored candidate.

Club members voted to support an application by The Cannabis Group to open a medical marijuana store at 5001-5003 N. Clark St.

The nascent medical marijuana industry has drawn interest from many quarters. The city's zoning board of appeals has already approved nine marijuana shops. In addition, the board also denied one applicant and postponed a review on six others. Among those approved to operate is Perry Mandera, who owns and operates a near north strip-club and is a local trucking magnate.

The Cannabis Group has hired Daley & Georges, Ltd., one of the city's most powerful law firms. Partners include Michael Daley, a brother of former Mayor Richard M. Daley and Mara Georges, a former corporation counsel for the city.

The Cannabis Group will be a tenant for the storefront location owned by longtime North Side businessman Mansour Rayan.

According to information released by Ald. Pawar's office, Lee will be responsible for the day-to-day operations of the shop. Previously, he had worked at The Herbal Center (THC) one of Colorado's legal cannabis cultivation and dispensing facilities. The Colorado shop's web-site does not disguise what makes the shop profitable. The brand names of the cannabis offered for sale promote their mind-altering properties. In Illinois, marijuana stores are described as "dispensaries" to remove the stigma associated with illegal drugs. To legally receive medical marijuana, patients in the state are required to have a medical doctor's certificate to document they have one of 40 chronic and debilitating diseases, including cancer, glaucoma, HIV/AIDs, Crohn's disease, Alzheimer's Disease, Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis and Multiple Sclerosis.

Medical marijuana store operators are required to pay a $30,000 license fee and to prove they have $400,000 in liquid assets. Patients must pay a $100 annual fee. The fee is cut in half for veterans and social-security recipients.

Death of two pets run over during Edgewater drive-by shooting leaves two lives at a loss

BY MARK SCHIPPER

A Jeep that came skidding and sliding through the wet grass at a broad strip of Edgewater parkland last Wednesday at 5:10 p.m.—firing gunshots from the windows as it turned and accelerated onto the pedestrian path—then ran over two dogs before careering out of the park, killing one of the animals.

The incident occurred on the east side of the 5300 block of N. Sheridan Rd., police said. The vehicle left the park several blocks north when it turned west onto Bryn Mawr Ave. The two human victims, a male who asked not to be identified, and 51-year-old Cathy Castro, were not injured.

Both said the incident was an almost surreal “blur” that they struggled to comprehend in real time. The Jeep had slid wildly onto the grass with bangs and flashes coming from the windows. Each had believed they were hearing fireworks until they turned around. Castro said she saw multiple weapons stuck out of the windows.

“He yelled ‘duck!’ that’s all I remember,” she said.

“There was nothing we could do, it was all a blur, it happened in like 10 seconds,” the man said. “[The driver] had no regard for anyone, or any animal or anything. He just barreled as fast out of that park as he possibly could.”

The vehicle involved in the drive-by shooting left the park several blocks north along these tracks when it turned west onto Bryn Mawr Ave.

A stray bullet shattered a glass panel on the patio section behind Breakers, an independent senior living center at 5333 N. Sheridan Rd., police said. Officers collected multiple bullet casings near the scene.

The three dogs had been off their leashes and playing in the park when the bedlam began. One of the man’s two dogs had run in front of the vehicle as it swerved onto the path but dropped into a little ball just before the Jeep zipped over the top, and was unhurt, he said. The woman’s dog, a small, white guide-and-therapy terrier, could not get out of the way.

In the moment, each person initially had been worried about the others’ dogs.

“I’ve been tearing up about it, I can’t stop, I was maybe a couple of feet ahead of her and said, ‘oh my god, they hit your dog,’ and I just heard her wail,” said the man.

“I had to go chase my other dog and I was just sad that I couldn’t be there for her.”

With the help of a passing bicyclist, the man found his second dog a short time later hiding beneath a shovel-plow near the lake-front, he said.

“I was screaming bloody murder and thinking that poor man lost his dog, but it was my dog that must have turned around and...”

said Castro, who did not finish the sentence.

Many locals call that particular ribbon of grass parkland “the meadows.” It runs alongside the Drive west from the pedestrian viaduct near Berwyn Ave. to the ramps at Bryn Mawr, and includes a paved walking path winding up its interior boundary. It is filled in the mornings and evenings with walkers, joggers and families pushing strollers. Castro and the man had been out just before the area normally fills up, they said. “So many other people could have gotten hurt or killed with their dogs,” said Castro.

The incident was especially reckless because of the large tract of land next to the walking path that the driver of the vehicle could have used, instead of the path itself, where the dogs happened to be running.

“There is [no] way he did not see those dogs—he ran over the dog—there’s no doubt about it,” the man said. “The park is huge—they call it the meadows for a reason: It’s big, it’s expansive. He could have gotten out of the way.”

“They had the whole park to drive through but the dogs were on the path—they just ran right over [the dogs],” said Castro.

Castro said her deceased five-year-old terrier Skruffi had been her companion. Castro has fought cancer that began on her foot as melanoma, spread to her organs and eventually her brain over the last seven years. She is still recovering from a recent surgery against tumors in her brain, she said.

Skruffi was a rescue animal, an intuitive dog who knew to guide her when her face and part of her body became paralyzed. Castro took her to treatments, to the grocery store, to the coffee houses. She has no doubt that the dog gave her a reason to fight and helped her heal.

“Three times they said I’d be dead,” said Castro of the cancer that kept spreading. “Everybody said ‘Skruffi is your angel.’”

Castro had not kept Skruffi to herself. Most of the dog walkers in the neighborhood knew the dog by name, and the various places she volunteered—cancer centers, homeless shelters, programs for rehabilitating the disabled at the beach—had been given Skruffi to use just as she had: to play, for assistance and as a companion.

“This is such a simple way to give back, and this is such a terrible loss to a lot of people,” said Castro.

As for herself, she is “beyond devastated.”

“I’ve seriously been pent up for three days crying my head off and I don’t know if I have any tears left in me,” she said.

But beyond her own loss, it has given her a new perspective on the instantaneous, irrevocable appearance of senseless tragedy.

“This has made me grieve for all those poor parents out there,”

Skruffi, the five-year-old terrier.

said Castro. “It really makes you think—what if your kids are playing in your living room and a [stray] bullet hits them?”

The man, for his part, has had enough of life in Chicago. When his lease ends this spring he is headed back to Upstate New York, where “things like this just don’t happen,” he said.

“This is just the nail in the coffin. Everybody says this area is getting better and safer and this is up and coming, but I can’t even take my dogs from my house to the park, you know ...”

the alderman if only because Ald. Tunney voted with the mayor in favor of bringing in the traffic cameras. Davis also wants to stop a threatened property tax hike, favors an elected school board, and wants a reformed pension system for new city employees.

Davis said one traffic camera at Irving Park Rd. and Lake Shore Dr. “brings in more than $1.5 million in moving violation tickets every year.”

“We’re a city living beyond our means. Tom Tunney wants your money. And he’s going to raise your property taxes,” Davis said.

The 19th District may have gotten 22 more police officers over the past year, but the 19th District is still “down somewhere around 120 officers, depending on which count you look at. And we need a full-time beat officer on Belmont. All three shifts,” Thomas said.

[Indeed the veracity of Ald. Tunney’s claims - and statements made by Ald. James Cappleman [46th] - are questionable, see sidebar.]

He added that if he’s elected, Ald. Tunney wouldn’t be the only alderman remembered for being out in the wee hours looking for miscreants. “Since the 1870s, when an alderman was sworn in he was also given a badge as a peace officer (with the authority to carry a weapon and make arrests). I would take that part of the job very seriously and be out there with the police,” Thomas said.

He’d also use the latest technology to promote his own version of space-age democracy by using a website that would let ward residents vote on issues like the proposed “Belmont Flyover” or even routine zoning matters.

“When I go vote on controversial issues, I’ll be voting the will of my community,” said Thomas, who would also like to build a “circulator trolley” around the ward to make people less vehicle dependent.

“We need to go compete against Millennium Park and the Mag Mile. The city has become too Loop Centric,” Thomas said.

sis of CPD crime statistics also reveals that the notoriously crime-rich areas of Wrigleyville and Boystown in Lakeview remain among the top crime areas in the entire city for reported street robberies.

The sobering statistic, gleaned from data obtained from the City of Chicago data portal by Crime in Wrigleyville and Boystown [CWB], reveal that police beat 1924 ranks as the third highest beat in the city for reported robberies and is the only such high-robbery beat North of Madison St. The beat is bordered by Addison, Belmont, Southport, and Lake Michigan. It has been the top-ranked beat city-wide for reported robberies in the recent past.

The study notes that after three consecutive years of record-high reported robberies, Wrigleyville and Boystown suffered 157 reported robberies last year, a 34% decline from 2013 and almost the same number of reported robberies robberies reported in 2001, the first year of which such crime data was publicly reported.

In comparison, neighboring police districts saw reported robberies decline by 45% to 54%. And the citywide robbery rate declined by 39% during those years. The rest of the 19th District saw a 44% decline in reported robberies.

This comes despite renewed questions concerning the veracity of CPD crime statistics amid troubling evidence that the department is again downgrading serious felony offenses to less serious misdemeanor charges.

The effort to combat criminal predators by police is led by 19th district Commander Elias Voulgaris who has long sought to do more with less.

The 19th district is 25-27% below peak strength when the old 19 district and former 23rd district were merged by CPD Supt. Garry McCarthy. The district’s understaffing is highly disproportionate in relation to the staffing shortage experienced by CPD overall. The 19th district had lost 121 police positions over the last three years - a 26% reduction in police officers.

Voulgaris openly acknowledged that CPD crime stats were often not believable and he has stopped using them for the basis of community meetings.

District staffing is further hampered by protecting the residence of Mayor Rahm Emanuel. His Hermitage St. home drains a full five percent of district officers to provide officers outside the mayor’s front and rear doors, roving patrols, and a supervisor.

DISABLED from p. 5

“As a result of FCC action, IP relay was forced to shut down the service effective November 14, 2014. We apologize for the inconvenience.”

Sorenson Communications also says that the shutting down of IP relay is in direct response to the new IP Relay compensation rates determined by the FCC. “The rates are too low to provide you with the high-quality IP Relay service you deserve.” Sorenson regretted having to exit the IP Relay business, but explained in a July 8, 2013 letter to the FCC that rates set by the FCC in its order of July 1, 2013, “left Sorenson no other alternative. Those rates are simply too low to sustain a high-quality service, and they are further scheduled to be reduced by six percent in each of the following years.”said Ann Bardsley, Director of PR at Sorenson. “For Sorenson to be able to again provide IP Relay service, the FCC would have to make substantial changes to its outmoded approach to rate making.”

“The current rate-of-return methodology (used to compensate for IP Relay) is based only on “allowable costs,” a subset of actual costs,” she said. “The FCC’s current model allows for no margin on expenses in the labor-intensive IP Relay industry and, since July 2013, consistently generates rates that are unsustainable. The FCC would have to raise the compensation rates to the levels that they were prior to July 2013 for Sorenson to even consider re-entering the IP Relay market.”

Mike Snyder, Deputy Chief of the Web and Print Publishing Division of the FCC says that the reason IP relay is shutting down is because of all of the fraud that has been happening. In an Email, he wrote, “IP Relay service has been subject to significant fraud and abuse in recent years, totaling millions of dollars. The FCC’s efforts to protect these services for all consumers by eliminating this fraud and abuse has resulted in several providers terminating their provision of this service.”

The fraud isn’t new to the FCC or the providers, though. Cases date back to as early as 2004. All parties are well aware of these types of frauds, such as users from thorough.

The general public are well aware of the IP relay scams and have been for years. AT&T says that they are aware that these scam international locations calling businesses in the U.S. to fraudulently purchase goods.

In 2012 the FCC mandated that all people who wish to use the IP Relay services must sign up with a geographic 10-digit number. This process has been different depending on the providers but all required some form of identification such as a U.S. ID and proof of address that needed to be faxed in or sent via Email, where a team would verify the information.

Sprint’s operation is no different. A user must submit proof of ID and proof of address. A customer service agent will manually verify identification. This may take several business days to complete because the team want to be an email to Chairman Tom Wheeler and copied Maria Kirby of the Chairman’s Office, Kris Monteith and Karen Peltz Strauss of the Consumer & Governmental Affairs Bureau, and Gregory Hlibok of the Disability Rights Office expressing concerns about the shutting down of Purple’s IP Relay service, asking why the FCC would diminish the services to only one provider. The letter stated: “As you know, Purple Communications is leaving IP Relay and has informed the community that they are leaving because the Commission has required them to monitor the content of IP Relay calls. Consequently, many of our consumers are asking why the FCC would diminish their choice of IP relay service to only one provider and would require an invasion of their privacy during such calls?”

In response, Wheeler said “the value of this service for the consumers who truly need it has declined considerably in recent years because many businesses and individuals have come to routinely reject all IP Relay calls, even legitimate ones.”

Later Wheeler said that “our efforts to provide a multi-vendor IP relay environment has been hindered by the failure of some providers to effectively verify the identities and eligibility of such fraudulent callers. In fact, several IP Relay companies have paid millions of dollars to settle investigations of their practices. Although there is only one Relay provider still offering these services, the departure of the other providers was not our choice. It is unfortunate that most IP Relay providers have chosen to terminate their IP Relay service rather than work with the Commission to eliminate fraudulent calls.

This service is valuable to many, however, and the diminishing is a huge hindrance to those who need the service.

The balance, including the Judicial sale fee for Abandoned Residential Property Municipality Relief Fund, which is calculated on residential real estate at the rate of $1 for each $1,000 or fraction thereof of the amount paid by the purchaser not to exceed $300, in certified funds/wire transfer, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. No fee shall be paid by the mortgagee acquiring the residential real estate pursuant to its credit bid at the sale or by any mortgagee, judgment creditor, or other lienor acquiring the residential real estate whose rights in and to the residential real estate arose prior to the sale. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in "AS IS" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information. If this property is a condominium unit, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale, other than a mortgagee, shall pay the assessments and the legal fees required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/9(g)(1) and (g)(4). If this property is a condominium unit which is part of a common interest community, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale other than a mortgagee shall pay the assessments required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/18.5(g-1).

IF YOU ARE THE MORTGAGOR (HOMEOWNER), YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN IN POSSESSION FOR 30 DAYS AFTER ENTRY OF AN ORDER OF POSSESSION, IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 15-1701(C) OF THE ILLINOIS MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE LAW. You will need a photo identification issued by a government agency (driver's license, passport, etc.) in order to gain entry into our building and the foreclosure sale room in Cook County and the same identification for sales held at other county venues where The Judicial Sales Corporation conducts foreclosure sales.

OPTIMISM: A PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE

As a philosophy of life, optimism is a choice one makes in response to uncontrollable circumstances.

The world isn't coming to an end, contrary to what you may have heard. But the media's near-exclusive focus on conflict and disaster means that the progress and everyday acts of brilliance taking place across the globe go unnoticed. In The Intelligent Optimist's Guide to Life (Berrett-Koehler Publishers, Inc., 2014), Jurriaan Kamp shows that optimism — intelligent optimism, not a rose-colored-glasses brand of wishful thinking — is good for not only your mind but your body too. The following excerpt comes from chapter 1, "The Best Way to Live."

In high school, my week revolved around the field hockey game on Saturday. Back then, we still played on real grass. Hence, as the week progressed, a striking parallel arose between my mood and darkening skies. Too much rain would force the game to be canceled, which routinely happened in the fall and winter. My grumbling started well in advance. If it were raining cats and dogs on a Friday afternoon, my dear mother would try to cheer me up by looking out the window and pointing at a random piece of sky. "Look," she'd exclaim, "it's already clearing up over there!"

That unfounded optimism always infuriated me.

Yet she had a point. After the rain there will always be sunshine. Yes, bad things happen. But it is our choice to accept the rain and look beyond it to the coming sunshine. We create pessimism by our focus on the bad. At the same time we create optimism by focusing on the good. And, as we shall see, optimism is a much more rewarding strategy.

Optimism doesn't mean denying reality. According to the dictionary, the everyday meaning of optimism is "hopefulness and confidence about the future or the success of something." But the root of the word comes from Latin (optimum) and the more precise definition of optimism is "the doctrine that this world is the best of all possible worlds."

Optimism is a fundamental attitude. It's not an opinion about reality; it's a starting point for dealing with reality. At every moment, you can decide that you're in the best situation to handle a given challenge. That is optimism. Optimism is searching for the yes in every situation and finding it. Or as someone once aptly described that attitude: "If there's no solution, then there's no problem."

PESSIMISM: A GIANT ROADBLOCK

"This pessimism is lying across modern civilization like some enormous fallen tree and somehow we've got to get a bulldozer and shift it out of the way," said the English writer and "the first philosopher of optimism in European history" Colin Wilson.

According to Wilson, the roots of the pessimism epidemic go back to the Romantics of the early nineteenth century whose message was that humans could only briefly experience "exquisite happiness," but it was not meant to be forever and life was supposed to be miserable. "Most people still don't understand what has happened in Western culture over the past two centuries. How the long defeatist curve that originated in the early 19th century continues to cloud our way of thinking," said Wilson.

Human beings have a unique capacity to find new answers through the expansion of their consciousness. That's why optimism, the art of finding solutions, is a more logical way of life than the, in intellectual circles, still dominant—pessimistic—worldview that was "invented" by a few poets 200 years ago.

Life will inevitably deal us some bad hands from time to time. Life is not simple. That it should be is a contemporary misconception fed by modern consumerism, which offers a quick solution for every inconvenience. An increasing stream of gurus have extrapolated from that material prosperity to claim that life can be, should be, an effortless affair.

All those messages seem to have made us less of a match for life. Our ancestors trekked across the steppes and savannas. They knew they were continually in danger. They didn't know life could be anything but challenging. Our reality consists of hospitals, insurance policies, and benefit payments when things go wrong. The welfare state has strongly influenced our expectations, but it still doesn't preclude bad things from happening.

In 1978, psychiatrist M. Scott Peck wrote The Road Less Traveled. The book begins like this: "Life is difficult. This is a great truth, one of the greatest truths. It is a great truth because once we truly see this truth, we transcend it. Once we truly know that life is difficult—once we truly understand and accept it—then life is no longer difficult. Because once it is accepted, the fact that life is difficult no longer matters."

Every religion and philosophy of life teaches that the meaning of life lies in our responses to the challenges we encounter. Our life lessons are the essence of our existence. That's why the way we face those lessons is so important. "Pain is inevitable, suffering is optional," Buddhists say. Optimism turns out to be the most promising and fulfilling strategy, because the optimist accepts reality and then does something about it.

RESILIENCE IS MORE USEFUL THAN SUSTAINABILITY

In more and more environmental dialogues the word resilience begins to replace the word sustainability. Sustainability means keeping things intact. It means avoiding causing damage. It's about preventing change. Sustainability is a static concept.

Resilience, though, is dynamic. "The capacity to recover quickly from difficulties," says one definition. Resilience is part of ongoing change. The world today is not the same as the world of 5,000 years ago. Nor will the world of the future much resemble our current reality. That's why sustainability is not a helpful concept in a world of continual and rapid change.

The same applies to our daily lives. They will never be sustainable in the static sense. We can only frustrate ourselves by not accepting the changes we cannot escape. That frustration is at the root of much pessimism. The optimist is resilient. She evolves with circumstances and times.

Bad days will come. But the point is, they will go as well. So the challenge is to go as untouched as possible through the bad days. That's where resilience comes in. But untouched does not mean "disconnected." Resilience means remaining part of the circumstances and adapting, taking the fact in,

WE'RE DOING OUR PART

A brand new, state of the art clinical research center, located at 5149 N. Ashland Ave., has opened its doors in Andersonville in October 2014. The 10,000 square foot research unit is the brainchild of owners Steve Satek and Dean Hervochon. Satek is a well-known business development specialist in the field of clinical research, particularly mental health studies. He has worked as a consultant to many of the largest and most successful research centers in the country. Over his distinguished 25-year career he has paid close attention to the critical factors that have promoted success at these other research sites and has incorporated these features in the design of Great Lakes Clinical Trials.

While strolling the halls of his sprawling world-class facility Satek comments, “There is a widely held tenet of clinical research that is at the heart of this new center. A research unit is only as good as the people who run it, and our people are some of the best in the industry. I brought together a team of seasoned professionals with over a quarter century of experience conducting clinical research.

Many of the staff have been around since the earliest days of human testing.” Included are medical director and principal investigator, Dr. Jeffrey Ross, who began his research career at Rush University and who has conducted more than 150 mental health studies during his 25 year career as a board-certified psychiatrist. Dr. Ross supervises several other physicians who assist him in conducting the clinical trials, including Dr. Bruce Gober, a veteran psychiatrist in the community mental health system of Chicago, Dr. Emily Lindner, a board-certified internal medicine specialist, and Dr. Kiran Chekka, a board-certified Pain Management physician. Directing the daily management of the site is neuropsychologist is Dr. Donnell Carmichael, who will preside as Vice President of Clinical Operations. She is a veteran researcher with more than 15 years of experience running research sites and oversees a burgeoning staff of research coordinators, research assistants, and recruitment specialists.

Great Lakes Clinical Trials is located at 5149 N. Ashland, and invites volunteers wishing to participate in a clinical research trial to call 773-275-3500 to inquire about current studies or to visit the web page at www.greatlakesclinicaltrials.com. The clinic has more than a dozen currently enrolling studies testing new treatments for a wide variety of illnesses, including generalized anxiety, post-traumatic stress disorder, schizophrenia, memory impairment, healthy aging and pain syndromes. Volunteers who qualify for a clinical trial are provided a stipend at the completion of each study visit, and are reimbursed for travel costs to and from the site.

Seeking healthy seniors for clinical research study on cognitive health

Mild cognitive impairment (MCI) due to Alzheimer’s disease (AD) refers to the early phase of AD in which an otherwise healthy-minded person experiences a gradual, progressive decline in thinking ability. This decline is significant enough to be noticed but not severe enough to interfere with daily life or the ability to function independently.

The TOMMORROW study seeks to learn more about the genetic risk for developing MCI due to AD and whether an investigational medication might prove effective in delaying the first symptoms of this condition.

You may be eligible to participate in this important study if you are:

- 65 to 83 years of age
- In good physical and mental health or visit: www.TOMMORROWStudy.com

Great Lakes Clinical Trials is an independent, phase I-IV clinical trial center. Specializing in the study of investigational medications for the treatment of a variety of diseases.

Located on the north side of Chicago, the Great Lakes team have managed more than 300 clinical trials over the past 25 years and are committed to providing quality research for both study volunteers and the pharmaceutical industry.

Healthy seniors: help us shed light on Alzheimer’s disease.

Despite progress being made in our understanding of Alzheimer’s disease (AD), there’s still a lot we don’t know. Currently, there is no cure for Alzheimer’s...and no way to delay its symptoms.

The TOMMORROW study seeks to learn more about the early phase of Alzheimer’s—a phase referred to as mild cognitive impairment due to Alzheimer’s disease (or MCI due to AD).

This important clinical research study is now seeking healthy senior participants between the ages of 65 and 83.

If you are selected as a study participant, you will not have to pay for your investigational medication, study visits, or any tests that are part of the study. Transportation assistance may also be available.

75-YEAR OLD RESIDENT OF THE CLARE RETIREMENT COMMUNITY REACHES NEW HEIGHTS DESPITE PARKINSON'S DISEASE

Clare resident Larry Pirovano with trainer Zach DeCoster. "Once I had moved up to twenty flights I knew I could do all 53 stories," said Larry.

Larry Pirovano is limited only by the number of stairs at The Clare. The 75-year old, who is determined to regain the strength and balance that he's lost due to Parkinson's disease, has been working with The Clare's personal trainer Zach DeCoster.

In a few short months, Larry has mastered climbing all of the stairs at The Clare, 53 flights' worth, in under 20 minutes.

On January 25, he participated in the AON Step Up For Kids fundraiser, an 80-floor stair climb at the AON Building to benefit K.I.D.S.S., an affiliate of Lurie Children's Hospital. "I like the challenge of it," Larry said. Larry, who has thus far raised $1,700 for the event, is among its top ten fundraisers. His efforts were recently featured on NBC News in an interview with Art Norman.

Larry and his wife Dorothy moved to The Clare eighteen months ago. "We're getting a bit older and we thought going to a retirement community would be a smart move," said Larry. "We looked around. We liked The Clare. The location and amenities were far and above what we saw elsewhere."

Being in the heart of the Gold Coast made it easy for Dorothy to keep working as a public relations executive. Larry, who retired from real estate a couple of years ago, likes city living. "It's easy living here. There's everything you need close by," he said. "There's an excellent chef here, our meals are provided, we don't have to worry about maintaining our home, and we've met some nice people."

Larry was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease 17 years ago. "Fortunately I think it's progressed slowly," he said. The most significant impact, he added, has been on his balance, energy and mobility. Prior to moving to The Clare, Larry would occasionally go to physical therapy. As he read about the positive effects of exercise on the progression of Parkinson's, he decided to up his commitment.

Larry started working with Zach, a fitness specialist at The Clare. "I work with individuals for health-related exercise," Zach said. Several months ago, Larry and Zach started getting together three times weekly. "Our initial goals were for me to be more mobile and stronger," said Larry. "I've felt a significant difference and people notice a big improvement in how I walk and move. I know I'm better." Larry said that he also falls less often than before he started exercising.

Initially, Larry and Zach worked on the exercise equipment in The Clare's Athletic Club. Gradually they decided to tackle the hallway stairs.

"One of the most approachable ways to focus on leg strength, stability and balance is through stair climbing. It hits all of the major muscle groups," said Zach. "We started with about ten flights. Given Larry's Parkinson's, I thought that was great. But what I love most about working with Larry is that he has no limits. Once ten flights were done, he said, 'Let's make it twenty, and up'," said Zach.

"Once I had moved up to twenty flights

I knew I could do all 53," said Larry. He added that if he'd attempted to climb all of the stairs before he began working out with Zach, it would only have been accomplished "if I had two days and packed a lunch." Now Larry can scale the entire building in approximately 20 minutes."

"He has absolutely met my expectations," said Zach. "He has five pound ankle weights attached on each leg, and goes all of the way up. Now we're working on getting a faster time. He's met my expectations but he's never satisfied and is always on to the next milestone."

Larry said, "Part of my inspiration is to be able to stay healthy and do what I want, like traveling." Larry is also a photographer and takes classes at Northwestern University.

The Clare at Rush and Pearson is a LifeCare retirement community in the heart of Chicago's Gold Coast with incomparable lifestyle, amenities and the financial stability only a debt-free community can offer. The Terraces at The Clare, which partners with Northwestern Memorial Hospital, provides assisted living, memory support, rehabilitation and skilled nursing. LINK BETWEEN VITAMIN D AND DEMENTIA RISK CONFIRMED Researchers suggest that in older people, not getting enough vitamin D may double the risk of developing dementia and Alzheimer's disease. The study was published in the online issue of Neurology®, the medical journal of the American Academy of Neurology.

The study looked at blood levels of vitamin D, which includes vitamin D from food, supplements and sun exposure. Dietary vitamin D is found in fatty fish such as salmon, tuna or mackerel, and milk, eggs and cheese.

"We expected to find an association between low Vitamin D levels and the risk of dementia and Alzheimer's disease, but the results were surprising—we actually found that the association was twice as strong as we anticipated," said study author David J. Llewellyn, PhD, of the University of Exeter Medical School in the United Kingdom.

For the study, 1,658 people over the age of 65 who were dementia-free had their vitamin D blood levels tested. After an average of six years, 171 participants developed dementia and 102 had Alzheimer's disease.

The study found that people with low levels of vitamin D had a 53% increased risk of developing dementia and those who were severely deficient had a 125% increased risk compared to participants with normal levels of vitamin D.

People with lower levels of vitamin D were nearly 70% more likely to develop Alzheimer's disease and those who had severe deficiency were over 120% more likely to develop the disease.

The results remained the same after researchers adjusted for other factors that could affect risk of dementia, such as education, smoking and alcohol consumption.

"Clinical trials are now needed to establish whether eating foods such as oily fish or taking vitamin D supplements can delay or even prevent the onset of Alzheimer's disease and dementia. We need to be cautious at this early stage and our latest results do not demonstrate that low vitamin D levels cause dementia. That said, our findings are very encouraging, and even if a small number of people could benefit, this would have enormous public health implications given the devastating and costly nature of dementia," said Llewellyn.

"Means I'm gonna fix up some tuna salad, boil some eggs, and have some cheese along with a big glass of milk & of course some Jay's Chips!"

2015 NEW YEAR’S RESOLUTIONS FOR CAREGIVERS

More than a third of U.S. adults care for someone with a significant medical issue. Even with the help of a professional home caregiver or family members, primary caregivers face significant strain.

The time and energy commitments caregivers make to their loved ones often result in a lack of care for themselves. If you are responsible for a family member, resolve to also honor your responsibilities to yourself in 2015.

As a caregiver, you should not feel guilty about attending to your personal needs. Whether or not they can easily express it, your loved one wants to see you healthy and happy. Moreover, keeping yourself healthy contributes to your ability to care for your loved one and sustain other relationships, and you deserve to care for yourself to the best of your ability.

To protect your own mental and physical health, make sure that you get enough sleep, exercise and mental breaks from the difficult task of caregiving. Avoid skipping meals, and do your best to maintain a healthy diet. It may help to set yourself a regular schedule to make sure that you allot enough time for sleep. To sleep more soundly, try setting a regular bedtime and spending some time with a book or calming music before bed.

While caregiving may limit your ability to travel or stay out for long periods of time, take up a hobby you can do at home to help you relax. Similarly, you may choose to invest in exercise equipment for your home, or plan an exercise routine you can complete out of the house while a home caregiver or other family member is present.

It’s also important to keep up your connections with loved ones near and far. If you feel isolated, set up a regular time each week to call a friend or family member, or invite them to visit in person if they live nearby. By building this time for yourself and your other relationships into a schedule, you are more likely to commit to it.

Consider joining a support group. CMSS offers a monthly support group for those who have a loved one with Alzheimer’s or another dementia. Forums like these offer caregivers a chance to meet others dealing with similar circumstances. They provide a place to share strategies for dealing with the day-to-day challenges of caregiving and learning to find and appreciate the moments of joy in a difficult time.

If you are unable to attend a support group in person, you may want to explore one of the many online communities for caregivers, such as CareGiving.com. The Alzheimer’s Association also provides a collection of online resources, including a social networking community and online workshops.

Caregivers provide a vital service to their loved ones, but one that is physically and emotionally taxing. In 2015, take time to recharge yourself and respect your own needs.

LAUGH MORE SO YOU WILL LIVE MORE

Have you ever laughed so hard your cheeks hurt? When that happens we in the South call it “getting the cheeks”. Have you ever laughed so hard that once you could catch your breathe, you say “that felt so good to laugh”?

Everything about laughter is a positive. I’ve even read you burn more calories when you’re laughing, your blood pressure goes down, and stress levels reduce. Unfortunately, it seems to me that people are not laughing enough these days. Needless to say, the daily news does not bring us a lot to laugh about, but as human beings we need to find the humor in our lives more often. If you have a friend who makes you laugh, be with them as much as possible. Try to read books that have humor in them. Try not to look at life so seriously all the time.

Finding time to just sit and talk with dear friends and tell great stories that make us bend over in laughter is absolutely the best medicine, and something senior citizens should definitely be doing more often. You would be amazed how much better you feel after a good laugh. Maybe that smile will actually creep back on your face when you think about what made you laugh in the first place.

OPTIMISM from p. 15

learning the lesson—understanding and accepting—and moving on.

The focus of the optimist is on the potential change. She embraces yes and fights against no. The optimist makes the conscious choice to endure in times of hardship. It is illuminating that the Chinese use the same character for endurance as for patience: the patience required to wait for the moment when you can once again act effectively. That wise patience is also evident in theologian Reinhold Niebuhr’s famous prayer: “Grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference.”

Optimism, persistence, and resilience go hand in hand. You can’t find answers or solutions if you aren’t prepared to keep searching and digging. At the same time, you can’t find them if you don’t first accept the truth at the deepest level. That’s often a painful process. Optimism isn’t always fun and happy.

You don’t want to sustain your life as it is; you want it to be resilient an adaptable to the ever-ongoing change around you.

The Intelligent Optimist’s Guide to Life: How to Find Health and Success in a World That’s a Better Place Than You Think, by Jurriann Kamp and published by Berrett-Koehler Publishers, Inc., 2014.

BABY BOOMERS GET OLDER AND HAPPIER

I have been reading a good book titled "Older And Happier!" by Dag Sebastian Ahlander. He has 109 handy ideas for living life to the fullest. It's about living the good retirement life from his perspective as a happy old man.

As a retired person and a student of retirement, I could relate to so many of Dag's ideas. They are simple but effective. Here are some of my favorites.

1. KEEP IN MIND THAT TIME IS SHORT BUT LIFE IS LONG

He reminds us that we have had a long life and seen so many changes and events. It is not that life is short, but the time remaining is short.

He reminds us to grab hold of life right now and make something great of what is left. The road doesn't go on forever and we are on the homestretch.

2. FIRST AND FOREMOST: BE A HAPPY OLD MAN!

The most important is to accept your age and enjoy it's many opportunities. Greet each morning with smile. Everything depends on your attitude and health. Let your perspective expand. Accept life's terms and make the best of them. Forget all the bad things that have happen in your life and just move on.

3. DON'T DOWNSIZE

This is an interesting one to me since I just bought a retirement home the same size as my current home, so I must agree. He says you will need a bigger space now, because you can finally enjoy it for guests, hobbies, computer room.

4. DON'T BECOME A MICROMANAGEMENT GURU

I like this one. He says don't dwell on the small things like you did for years at work. Try to see the bigger picture. Throw out old papers and things that never gave you pleasure. Don't hoard.

5. LIVE IN THE PRESENT

Nothing says old age like living in the past. Don't fight the times. Everything didn't used to be better.

6. LET GO OF FORMER PRESTIGE

Men especially have identified too heavily with their careers. Give it up. The hierarchies are gone, how liberating! Talk with each other on a level field and you will have a more active social life.

Wow, that is only 6 of the 109 ideas in Dag's book about being happy in retirement. Of course he goes into more details about the above points and others in the book. Any baby boomer leading up to retirement should read his boomer book to pick up on some of his helpful ideas. Those of us who are already in retirement can nod in agreement and be reminded of what we have learned on our own and to BE HAPPY.

Presented by Rainbow Hospice and Palliative Care Studies show that touch reduces pain and blood pressure, especially following strokes. A study evaluating the effectiveness of massage found that those who received massages had a significant decrease in Parkinson's tremors. Massage therapy also decreased pacing, wandering, and combative behavior—all symptoms associated with Alzheimer's disease. A 2012 study in Supportive Care in Cancer showed that cancer patients, after being given a massage by their caregivers, reported reductions in pain, stress, nausea, fatigue, anxiety, and depression. Learn how compassionate touch and massage therapy are being integrated intom.

DON'T LET YOUR POSSESSIONS POSSESS YOU!

BY PAMELA BARDO

We all know that we are only the caretakers of our possessions; we're not going to take them with us into the next life. People are surprised when I tell them that property moves in a life cycle in our lives, too, but it's true. In our earlier years we do more acquiring. In our mid-life we tend to maintain what we have. And in our later years, we think about letting go of our possessions.

Through each of these phases—from acquiring to disposition—it's important to be both shrewd and SMART.

The Acquiring Phase:

When wise collectors go to all of those garage sales, auctions, art and antique galleries, or shop and bid online, they buy things because they are interesting or unusual or well-made or historically important and in good condition. It's a pleasure to collect with a sense of building future value as well.

Of course, there is also property that is acquired through inheritance, which can have both sentimental and monetary value. Possessions usually descend through the female line. Women often get the jewelry, crystal and china while men usually get the real estate, cars and boats.

Whichever way you acquire your possessions, it's important for you to assess their value, be it sentimental or monetary value (or both!), and continue to assess the importance of retaining them.

You would never buy a stock without first knowing about the stock. And you would never keep that stock if it didn't have value, would you? Acquire and keep what has benefit to you – AND have fun with all of the beautiful things God has given you to enjoy while you are on this earth.

The Maintaining Phase:

After you have acquired well, you must protect your portfolio by safeguarding it well through maintenance, which includes insurance, conservation and restoration, appraisal and security.

So, who knew that you have to produce an appraisal itemization in order to insure your one-of-a-kind artwork? Who knew that polish and lemon oil are death to fine furniture...and that plastic wrap is curtains to silver? Don't be tempted to cut down the legs on that old dresser and table or use a refinishing kit on that worn antique. And remember: all the insurance in the world without a proper alarm system and dead bolt locks is pointless.

The contents of your home are often more valuable than the real estate itself. Take good care of your possessions and they will serve you well.

The Disposition Phase:

One day, after having acquired smartly and maintained your possessions carefully, you will realize that you no longer give buffet dinners for 24 nor do you need two sterling silver tea services...or whatever possessions are sitting unused on the shelf.

The undeniable truth is that if you don't deal with your possessions, someone will have to do it for you and it may very well not be even close to the way you would have liked it. What if your daughter-in-law likes Danish modern and wouldn't want your traditional china? What if she ruins your crystal in the dishwasher? What if movers just show up with paper and cartons to cart it all out?

Before that type of scenario unfolds, think about sharing your possessions on your own terms. Pass them on in a happy, responsible, financially savvy and productive way when the time is right—when you feel like doing it.

Your etchings, silver flatware, oriental rugs, engagement ring... that is your money.

10 – 20% of all estates are eaten up in expenses. On a three million dollar estate, there can be $600,000 in expenses.

When it comes time to downsize, why not do what's best for your life and your heirs? Think of what you may have foregone for nothing—a sable coat, a fancy trip to Russia, or the creation of a legacy.

For maximum financial advantage, you may want to consider using an experienced and savvy consultant for disposition. Consultants can take care of directing the downsizing process through the appropriate approach or combination of approaches, such as house sale, consignment, auction, donation, or Internet.

The winning strategy is to combine your feelings and sentimentality with financial shrewdness.

NOTICE OF SALE
 PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on November 17, 2014, an agent for The Judicial Sales Corporation, will at 10:30 AM on February 20, 2015, at The Judicial Sales Corporation, One South Wacker Drive - 24th Floor, CHICAGO, IL, 60606, sell at public auction to the highest bidder, as set forth below, the following described real estate:

Commonly known as 448 E. 46TH PLACE, #444-F2, Chicago, IL 60653
 Property Index No. 20-03-421-032-1011 VOL. 0252. The real estate is improved with a condominium. The judgment amount was $119,840.92.

Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the sale payable to The Judicial Sales Corporation. No third party checks will be accepted. The balance, including the Judicial sale fee for Abandoned Residential Property Municipality Relief Fund, which is calculated on residential real estate at the rate of $1 for each $1,000 or fraction thereof of the amount paid by the purchaser not to exceed $300, in certified funds/or wire transfer, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. No fee shall be paid by the mortgagee acquiring the residential real estate pursuant to its credit bid at the sale or by any mortgagee, judgment creditor, or other lienor acquiring the residential real estate whose rights in and to the residential real estate arose prior to the sale. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in AS IS condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information. If this property is a condominium unit, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale, other than a mortgagee, shall pay the assessments and the legal fees required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/9(g)(1) and (g)(4). If this property is a condominium unit which is part of a common interest community, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale other than a mortgagee shall pay the assessments required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/18.5(g-1).

IF YOU ARE THE MORTGAGOR (HOMEOWNER), YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN IN POSSESSION FOR 30 DAYS AFTER ENTRY OF AN ORDER OF POSSESSION, IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 15-1701(C) OF THE ILLINOIS MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE LAW.
