Landlords organize to fight anti-gentrification ordinance

BY DON DEBAT
The Home Front

A donnybrook is shaping up on Chicago's Northwest and West sides as hundreds of "Ma and Pa" rental apartment landlords are organizing to fight the so-called "anti-gentrification" ordinance. Enforcement started on March 1.

Now, owners of appreciating rental properties in a six-square-mile area—including Avondale, Logan Square, West Town, Humboldt Park, Hermosa, and part of the Pilsen neighborhood on the Northwest and West side—are being urged to send opposition emails of disapproval to all Chicago City Council members, said the Neighborhood Building Owners Alliance [NBOA].

"This message should be delivered not only to the aldermen who represent the impacted areas, but to all Chicago aldermen so they do not expand the ordinance to their wards," the NBOA urged.

Mike Glasser, president of NBOA, which represents 11 real estate organizations, said it will be "aligning all affected property owners to communicate updates to advocacy efforts with additional calls for lobbying action."

The NBOA said the organization is developing both legislative and legal strategies to fight implementation of the "Northwest Side Housing Preservation Ordinance."

According to NBOA, Mayor Brandon Johnson—an avowed Democratic Socialist—and his backers in the City Council, through the Northwest Side Preservation Ordinance have launched an attack on apartment owners' private property rights. And, that could cost owners money and loss of control over their property.

The ordinance grants rare powers to renters. Only three aldermen opposed the ordinance—Brian Hopkins [2nd], Bill Conway [34th] and Bennett Lawson [44th].

"Your Alderperson just made it harder for you to sell your building," Glasser said.

The ordinance—which allegedly is designed to protect housing in the gentrifying neighborhoods of West Town, Logan Square, Avondale, Humboldt Park, Hermosa

This six-story hotel may be going up on Halsted St. in Boystown.

Ald. Lawson adds his support to hotel development on Halsted

Boystown is one step closer to gaining a new hotel on Halsted St. after Ald. Bennett Lawson [44th] announced his support for a proposed boutique hotel development at 3257 N. Halsted St.

Planned by Infocus Builders Inc, the project is located at the southeast corner of the intersection of N. Halsted St and W. Aldine Ave. Two existing buildings at the corner would be demolished to make way for the new hotel.

The developers plan to preserve the Yoshi Katsumura Memorial Tree, a Japanese lilac tree located on the site, planted in memory of the late chef, Yoshi Katsumura.

The proposed development aims to erect a 6-story, 51-room boutique hotel with a focus on serving the LGBTQ+ community. As part of the project, the developers are requesting a zoning change from C1-3 to C1-5.

The project will include a basement speakeasy and a restaurant on the first floor accessed from N. Halsted St. On the top floor, the hotel will feature a rooftop bar in addition to an outdoor roof deck with a pool and cabanas.

Hotel guests will enter through the hotel lobby that fronts W. Aldine Ave. Two parking spaces and a loading zone will be accessed via the alley, and the owners are expected to contract with nearby parking lots or garages for an additional 20 spaces.

The hotel rooms overlooking the corner of N. Halsted St and W. Aldine Ave will feature private balconies.

Two charged after drivers spin donuts around ring of fire in Lincoln Park

BY CWBCHICAGO

It doesn't happen often, but Chicago police managed to arrest two drivers during a night of widespread street "takeovers" earlier this month. And, as usual, both of the accused men don't live in Chicago.

Cops were busy early on March 2, as donut-spinning drivers and hundreds of their fans blocked intersections across the city. On the Far South Side, a takeover took an ugly turn when a participant threw a large firework into a passerby's SUV, causing an explosion that set the vehicle ablaze.

But that's not where the arrests occurred. Instead, the two men were arrested around 1:20 a.m. in Lincoln Park, during a large takeover of the intersection at Fullerton and Cannon Dr., just north of the Lincoln Park Zoo.

According to a CPD report, between 50 and 100 cars were involved, and police from the local Town Hall 19th District surprised everyone by approaching the crowd on foot instead of rolling in with their blue lights and sirens activated.

The officers placed a tire deflation device in front of the tires of a black Chevy Camaro that was allegedly seen spinning donuts in the intersection simultaneously with a white Dodge Charger.

According to the report, the Charger struck some spectators who had gathered around the intersection to watch, but no serious injuries were reported.

Cops arrested the Camaro's driver, 26-year-old Oshea Rosenthal of Kankakee, and impounded his vehicle. He's charged with reckless conduct, reckless driving, drifting, and various registration infractions, all of which are misdemeanors or ordinance violations.

They also impounded a 2013 Genesis Coupe belonging to Elija Perez, 18, of Oswego. He spun donuts "accompanied by a crowd blocking the intersection and a ring of fire," CPD said.

He also faces misdemeanor charges and ordinance violations, including mob action, reckless driving, reckless conduct, drifting, and registration-related matters.

DePaul Prep was crowned state champions again on March 15. The team has gone 70 and 5 in the last two years.

DePaul Prep wins third straight State Championship 55-52 over Brother Rice

BY JACK LYDON

The toughness and heart of DePaul Prep cannot be overstated. Down by nine with under six minutes to play, the Rams rallied to defeat Brother Rice 55-52 in a thrilling double overtime game, to win their third straight state championship. This was a heavyweight boxing match between fighters that know each other well.

The game was practically a mirror image of their first meeting in January when the Brother Rice Crusaders (31-6) defeated DePaul Prep 53-52 after grabbing an early lead. The Crusaders survived a late comeback by the Rams, but just barely.

That would not happen again.

With the weight of two state champions pressing down, and behind 33-24 with 5:42 to play, the Rams had to dig deep. Senior leader Makai Kvamme, a veteran of the two preceding state championships, stepped up big time.

Kvamme was struggling. He had not scored in the game to that point. Despite getting good looks, his shots were just not falling.

At 5:42, Kvamme got a layup, his first points of the game. He would score nine more in the fourth. It wasn't just Kvamme. Rashaun Porter had a bucket.

With the Rams trailing 40-37 and 43 seconds on the clock, Junior guard and transfer into DePaul Rykan Woo, who was not on the prior championship teams, surely had the biggest free throw shots of his life. He made the first, the second and then the third. Score tied, going to overtime.

It would take two overtimes but the Rams would close out the win with big buckets by AJ Chambers, Rob Walls, Porter and five more from Kvamme in the second overtime.

"That was a fist fight of heavyweights. All great whistles. They let us play. Points were at a premium. Things got loose a little in the second half," said Rams coach Tom Kleinschmidt.

"These seniors that are up here have been on the varsity for three years. They are 70 and 5 in two years. The culture was built on the guys before them," Kleinschmidt added.

"We knew that we had experience. We wanted to use that experience to the best of our ability. We stayed poised, stayed relaxed and started pressuring them to make them turn it over. We got that result," said junior center Porter.

"When we took the program over [in 2013], we had two goals: win the [Chicago Catholic] League and win the state championship. We hadn't won a league game in five years and people looked at us like 'ya, whatever.' We attended one of the goals and won the League. Now we've

Disruption for Brown Line service next week

Parts of the Brown Line will be under work 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. March 21 - 24. That work will create boarding changes and delays between Southport and Belmont; additionally, Loop-bound trains will bypass the Wellington and Diversey stops.

Trains in both directions will operate on the same track between Southport and Belmont, resulting in delays.

Trains are being rerouted to accommodate track and signal construction for the Red and Purple Modernization project.

'All men having power ought to be mistrusted'

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Have bullies ever been a concern or problem in your life?

In your childhood, or your adult professional life, or in your marriage, have you ever suffered from threats or violence, damage to your reputation or economic bullying? Such as those who threaten others with the violence, or bone-crushing rage, or psychological trauma? Or perhaps the threats that arise in the violent vocabulary of those who seek to control others through their speech, comments, or profanity of soft-spoken passive aggression. Or even denied another person the right to make a living?

My own childhood was pretty free of such threatening controls. My parochial school, today, appears to have been a safe haven for me. Pretty free of the threats and cursed lingo of the violent ways of others.

My schoolmates and I always prided ourselves on being able to get along with each other. We were never frightened of others. Most of my friends were swell playmates, a childhood gang made up mostly of nextdoor neighbors and cousins. We all trusted one another. We did not have time for the rougher levels of neighborhood social life. I only had two fist fights that I recall, the last one in 6th grade, after which I considered fist fighting beneath me. I only consented to those two because I was pretty sure I could end the conflicts quickly. Which I did.

Well, actually, some neighboring moms did, when they heard all the commotion.

Best to forgive, and reject forever anymore slugfests with opponents. No time for battling neighborhood urchins in the dirt. Next time, I thought, I'll use car bombs.

I had too much living to do and bigger fish to fry.

Although, now I recall how I tired of my first cousin who was my traveling companion as we sailed to Europe on a Cunard ocean liner for the summer, and the ways in which we annoyed each other.

Fisticuffs actually broke out mid summer while staying with very fancy cousins. A battle waged in a drawing room. When order was restored we were separated for the remainder of the summer.

Yes, we needed space, but there went my canasta partner. I learned a lesson.

Today I am appalled at the number of victims of bullying I know. It appears to be a contemporary plague. Threats and extortions have ripened. And the adolescent behavior behind it can be reasoned from any number of behavioral and social conflicts. From too much social media to an overabundance of violence in our culture, and not enough nuns in the classrooms.

During my two decades at City Hall, I had a bird's eye view of folk who used ripened threats and mayhem to get their way. Usually the less talented and skilled the person, the more prone they were to bullying as an operational stance. From aldermen on down the line. Especially the big shots who were often dumb as a rock. They were used to bossing people around. Being grumpy, tough and rude. Not a great way to get votes. But as their brain power diminished, so did their human understanding of others.

Many didn't last long. To my luck, my own boss was powerful, but a gentleman. He was generous and thoughtful of others. A man of deep intelligence. He was self-confident. To me that was the secret. It was people who were deeply frightened of many human situations that were the bullies and authors of mayhem, threats and violent warnings.

They were bullies because they were insecure.

Negotiating with people of conflicting positions is largely outside the scope of some people's ability to reason. Their force of sheer will, bluster, perceived - or real - leverage becomes their ally in bending the will of others.

They rely on the fear within others to subdue their reason and common sense. Fear is a real emotional motivator.

Whether that means physically hurting their children, slapping up their spouse, emotionally wounding another or psychologically abusing the emotions or safety of others.

Bullying from start to finish is an unequal battle with a person without the conscience or soul of moral action. An imbalanced struggle. Never an engagement of equals.

No wonder our president threatens to annex Canada as our 51st state. Or with bellicose bluster seeks to usurp Greenland. Rename the Gulf of Mexico. And threaten to confiscate the Panama Canal. Making demands of legitimately elected leaders of allied nations, and conducting the pub-

Beef. The Hernandez family's fortune recently invested in their own American dream? Just an unfortunate victim of bullying.

Further south is another case of bullying, that of the Irish Nobleman Pub, 1367 W. Erie, and their owners Candace and Declan Morgan. Declan is a first generation Irish immigrant who is being targeted with bullying by 1st Ward Ald. Daniel La Spata. Last week he told us that this year will be the third year in a row where a bully is preventing him from setting up a licensed outdoor dining area. This newspaper did extensive coverage of this bullying the last two years. Our reporter was a first hand witness to the alderman's bullying.

In 2022, city inspectors were sent to the small establishment more than 16 times on busy nights and days to count patrons at tables, pull out tape measures and measure the distance between customers. They were never cited or fined for any violation. This too was aldermanic bullying, they were being singled out for political reasons.

Irish Nobleman needs the extended patio, it saved the business during the pandemic and the young couple are now worried about being forced to close if they can't open the patio this summer. But La Spata and his staff have stopped taking calls or responding to emails from the Morgans, forcing them to now file a discrimination suit against the alderman and city. And if they win, it will be the taxpayers who will pay. These public displays of bullying disfigure our national ethos. Bringing the sad despair of nations with rational leadership and lic business of our nation with little regard for public manners, human dignity or rational intelligence. All that in two months. Let's not forget to look up and down the block. When it's your own neighbors it hits even harder. In January this newspaper reported on the owner of a long-time, beloved Broadway St. anchor restaurant whose owner has expressed dismay over what many community members perceive as bullying by City Hall, which plans to amend the zoning on Broadway between Devon and Montrose. Patio Beef restaurant owner Bernardo "Carlos" Hernandez and his wife, Joanna, bought the 48-year-old neighborhood favorite at 6022 N. Broadway from longtime restaurateur Leo Diantzikis on Sept. 1, 2024.

Carlos had worked for Leo at Patio Beef for the past 17 years learning the ins and outs of the restaurant before the opportunity arose to purchase it himself. He can be found at the restaurant six days a week along with his wife and their two sons helping out. The city's recent upzoning decision could hurt Carlos and his family. Their business location has been targeted for redevelopment for the sin of being operated in a one-story building with a parking lot. And sadly, this newspaper's reporter was the first person to alert them of the pending change on Dec. 26, months after the idea bubbled up in City Hall.

Retail strip malls with off-street parking would not be allowed under the new zoning plans. The city today is a bully at war with vehicles and commercial parking, and on Broadway they intend to discourage, and even zone out of existence, auto-related businesses and businesses like Patio

Neighborhoods pick up the tax slack for Loop vacancies

Empty downtown stores, offices shift the pain to residential properties

BY BOB ZULEY

“Downtown used to be the most valuable property between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans,” former IL Gov. Pat. Quinn told the Chicago Sun-Times of the troubled real estate market downtown. “Residential is bearing more of the burden. They’re getting enormous property tax increases because the commercial owners are paying less, or they moved away.”

The COVID-19 global pandemic and government-imposed economic lockdown left the heart of the Loop with vacant offices and stores as workers and customers stayed home, working remotely and shopping online. Now, citing the impact of that lost business and empty commercial space, the owners of those vacant offices won huge tax breaks from Cook County officials.

Those are key findings of a recent analysis of tax bills sent to the city’s 830,000 property owners over the past five years in a report authored by Tim Novak at the Sun-Times. Following the 2024 reassessment cycle, the Cook County Assessor reports that the total assessed value in Chicago is $50.8 billion. This represents an increase of $9.5 billion, or 23%, over total assessed values in 2023.

While the assessed value of both residential and non-residential property types grew, non-residential grew more than residential property.

“A strong market for multifamily apartments and industrial properties helped boost commercial property values in 2024, and offset more modest growth in the office sector,” said Cook County Assessor

Fritz Kaegi. “The residential housing market also grew, but at a slower rate.”

Downtown, the property taxes paid by the once-bustling, but now-struggling Water Tower Place plunged from $16 million annually to $6.8 million last year. On LaSalle St, kitty-corner to City Hall, the property taxes from a Loop skyscraper fell from $8.5 million to $5.1 million as city agencies and other remnants vacated. Robert Morris Univ. merged with Roosevelt Univ. abandoning its classrooms in the former flagship Sears, Roebuck and Co. store, which fell into foreclosure as property taxes dropped from $3.2 million to $1.8 million.

As our local governments have not cut spending or reduced budgets, this means that residential property owners and small businesses must pick up the slack to cover the shortfall to meet the comfortable salaries, pensions and benefits of police, firefighters, school teachers and all city agencies.

Depending where you live in Chicago, an individual property owner might not see much change. But collectively, residential property owners are having to pay a larger portion of the total property taxes burden collected in Chicago.

Areas like the Near West Side, Logan Square, Pilsen, Medical Center, and Bronzeville have been particularly hard hit by rising taxes, much of that as a result of new commercial and residential developments. Since the onset of the pandemic, all but four of Chicago’s 63 ZIP Codes have seen increases in property tax billings, reports Novak.

Such a fate may soon befall Edgewater and Uptown as City Hall and local Ald. Leni Mana-Hoppenworth [48th] recently obtained a new rushed-through upzoning change along the Broadway corridor in order to attract new buildings offering

In Streeterville’s ZIP Code of 60611, taxpayers paid 7.1% of Chicago’s total property taxes last year, down 0.8 percentage points from five years ago. Areas west of downtown are paying larger shares of the city’s overall tax burden, due in part to soaring vacancies in office buildings in the Loop.

Source: Cook County Treasurer’s Office.
Graphic: Justin Myers/Sun-Times greater height and density.

ZIP Codes in the readership areas of this newspaper saw lesser increases in 60601 [North Loop] 60618 [Irving Park], 60625 [Lincoln Square], 60626 [Rogers Park] 60640 [Uptown], 60642 [Goose Island], 60654 [River North].

City Hall and other government agencies have been asking property owners to pay more taxes overall, with total property taxes in Chicago rising from $6.8 billion five years ago to $8.3 billion last year. That’s a 22% increase in taxes citywide in those five years.

City spending has also skyrocketed, with the budget ballooning by $6.6 billion, or nearly 62%, since 2019. While property taxes have doubled since 2014, pension costs have increased nearly six-fold during that time, up from $478 million in 2014 to $2.75 billion in 2024.

“The fallout of office vacancies is reverberating everywhere,” says DePaul Univ. professor Joseph Schwieterman, an expert on public policy, transportation and urban planning. “There’s simply no way to have office building owners pay the same property taxes when building values fall in such a draconian fashion.”

A little more than two years ago, aiming to breathe life into empty offices along the LaSalle St. corridor, then-Mayor Lori Lightfoot came up with a plan to convert some of them into residential apartment units, a plan that Mayor Brandon Johnson has embraced, although the city has yet to issue any building permits.

“This is a phenomenon in a lot of cities,” says Christopher Berry, a professor at the Univ. of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy. “The question is: How do we get more people downtown? It was work that was the catalyst. [Now] most people are not going downtown five days a week.”

That’s bad news for residential property owners, who pay about 58% of all property taxes in Cook County. Declining real estate values have been widely blamed on the pandemic and riots and looting that followed the death of George Floyd in May 2020. That civil unrest, riots and days of looting of Chicago’s priciest stores, followed by fears over downtown violence continues unabated to this day. These new cultural and economic trends, and fears over crime and security have stifled the desire for locals and visitors alike to spend their days downtown. That spark used to be one of Chicago’s best assets.

and a large section of Pilsen—was overwhelmingly approved by the City Council on Sept. 18, 2024.

The ordinance gives apartment renters in the targeted neighborhoods a right of first refusal on the sale of their building—adding up to a whopping nine months of transaction delay.

A 60-day notice is required before listing the property and tenants may have up to 90 days after receiving an offer to decide to exercise their right of first refusal.

“During the process, building owners must turn over detailed information about their operations and finances, and even share their rent rolls,” Glasser said.

The legislation seeks to protect renters in 2-flats, 3-flats, 4-flats and apartment buildings with 5 units or more from being priced out by higher rents and/or displaced by gentrification by giving tenants a first right to buy the building.

Veteran North Side Realtor Sara Benson, president of Benson Stanley Realty, explained that the ordinance especially will impact sales of buildings with 5 units or more because it gives tenants 120 days to exercise their first-right-of-refusal to buy.

Michael Glasser

The proposed anti-gentrification ordinance would give apartment renters (in the area above) a right of first refusal on the sale of their building—adding up to nine-months of transaction delay.

“The 120-day window may severely impact real estate values due to the historic seasonal and cyclical nature of market rents and sales activity,” Benson said. “And, if mortgage interest rates rise during the required months-long waiting periods, both buyers and sellers could be financially harmed.”

Landlords and managers say that the ordinance was rushed through the City Council with virtually no input from apartment owners and the real estate industry.

The ordinance purports to “preserve naturally occurring affordable housing” by requiring owners of rental apartments who wish to sell their buildings to give tenants a right-of-first-refusal to buy. However, the ordinance also allows tenants to “assign this right to outside third parties.”

The sweeping ordinance was sponsored by seven aldermen—Carlos Ramirez-Rosa [35th], Daniel La Spata [1st], Jessie Fuentes [26th], Byron Sigcho-Lopez [25th], Ruth Cruz [30th], Felix Cardona [31st] and Rossana Rodriguez-Sanchez [33rd].

“The goals of the ordinance—preserving naturally occurring affordable housing in multifamily buildings and preventing displacement of longtime residents—are both laudable,” Ald. Hopkins said.

“Chicago is blessed to have a large quantity of what experts call ‘middle housing,’ especially compared to cities that saw the majority of their residential development happen in the post-automobile era,” Hopkins said.

Ald. Hopkins voted “no” because he had concerns about the challenges that will be placed on owners of buildings, particularly smaller buildings owned by middle-class families. Many of these buildings have been owned by the same families for generations, Hopkins said.

Ald. Brian Hopkins

“At least some of the increase in property values is the result of the buildings being meticulously maintained by those families for decades, and they should not be penalized when it is time to sell,” Hopkins explained.

“Furthermore, the greatly lengthened runway now needed to sell a multifamily building in the pilot area, without a requirement of any tenant organization to show evidence of financing to purchase the building, is fundamentally not fair and is government overreach,” Ald. Hopkins concluded.

INSIDE PUBLICATIONS

Ald. Conway, another alderman who voted against the anti-gentrification ordinance, said: “If the city wants to cut red tape and encourage investment in our neighborhoods, we should not be constricting the supply of housing. I believe this will have the opposite effect on housing affordability.”

Glasser noted that the restrictive ordinance also significantly increases the demolition surcharge on new multifamily builds to $60,000 from $15,000, providing a disincentive for developers or property owners to replace an aging two-flat with a new single-family home.

The ordinance also encourages apartment renters who exercise their right-of-first-refusal to form tenant organizations and work together to place a 5% down payment and buy buildings.

Realty groups fighting Anti-Gentrification Ordinance

The Neighborhood Building Owners Alliance represents and advocates for the following Chicagoland neighborhood building owners associations: Edgewater Uptown Builders Assoc., Greater Austin Development Assoc., Lakeview Developers Assoc., Latino Real Estate Investors Council, Lincoln Park Builders of Chicago, Northwest Side Building Coalition, Rogers Park Builders Group, South Side Community Investment Assoc., Southside Builders Assoc., Southwest Housing Providers, and the West Suburban Building Owners Assoc.

If the entity purchasing the rental property uses any public funds, they must adhere to a 30-year covenant keeping the rents at or below 60% of Area Median Income.

“Particularly appalling is the provision in the legislation allowing assignments of the tenant’s right-of-first-refusal,” noted Benson. “Allowing assignment opens the flood gates to all kinds of potentially unscrupulous and unethical practices.”

Veteran real estate investors believe that gentrification is a natural process that renews inner-city neighborhoods and helps build middle-class family wealth, while expanding the real estate tax base.

“This ordinance punishes owners of affordable housing, devalues their property, and makes it harder to invest in neighborhood housing,” said Glasser. “The result is scarcer housing and higher rents. We need to stop this ordinance now, before it hurts us all.”

Illinois legislators want to allow sex offenders to move 249 feet closer to schools and playgrounds

BY CWBCHICAGO

Illinois lawmakers have been hard at work, developing legislative proposals that would, among other things, legalize “magic mushrooms,” give killers and rapists sentenced to life in prison the right to apply for parole, and allow registered child sex offenders to move 249 feet closer to grade schools.

The Illinois Sheriff’s Assoc., which opposes the bills, has highlighted these proposals.

House Bill 2764, which would give all prisoners, even those sentenced to life in prison for murder or rape, the opportunity to apply for parole after 35 consecutive years of imprisonment. Two years after passage, parole would be available to anyone imprisoned for 25 straight years. And on its third anniversary, the bill would allow anyone imprisoned for 20 consecutive years to apply for release. Applications would be considered by the Prisoner Review Board, and the law would apply retroactively.

Rep. Carol Ammons introduced the bill, which has six co-sponsors.

In a similar proposal from Rep. Justin Slaughter, House Bill 3509 would allow anyone except people convicted of sexual assault to apply for release after 25 years in prison.

As many know, state law currently prohibits sex offenders from living within 500 feet of schools, playgrounds, and daycare centers. But the proposed law in Senate Bill 2254 would allow all child sex offenders to move 249 feet closer to those facilities. It would establish no limit for daycare homes and group daycare homes. And, if the law passes, registered sex offenders and convicted murderers who don’t have a “fixed address” will no longer need to report weekly to the local police department.

Sen. Kimberly Lightford noodled up this idea. Sen. Adriane Johnson and Sen. Mary Edly-Allen have signed on as co-sponsors.

House Bill 3518 would decriminalize prostitution and give prostitutes the same rights and protections as any other worker, whether they are “employed, contracted, or self-employed.” The law would also bar prosecuting prostitutes who engage in consensual sex work, and it would bar law enforcement from arresting, charging, or prosecuting someone for performing in sex work.

Rep. Will Guzzardi introduced the proposal. Rep. Kelly Cassidy and Rep. Theresa Mah joined as

Magic mushrooms would be legalized under Rep. La Shawn Ford’s House Bill 1143. It allows for the manufacture and delivery of psilocybin products and for providing “psilocybin services.” The law outlines parameters for growing “psilocybin-producing fungi” as a crop and, of course, it imposes a tax on psilocybin.

Confessions would be inadmissible in court if a police officer used “deception” during the interrogation under House Bill 2596. The burden would be on the state to prove that any confession given in “deceptive” interviews was “voluntary.” Rep. Curtis Tarver II introduced the bill.

And, House Bill 3458 would legalize physical attacks of police officers if the officer should have reasonably known the assailant was having a mental health episode.

Edgewater pet shelter seeking donations

Edgewater’s Felines & Canines is seeking donations after weeks of structural, plumbing, and electrical issues at their shelter at 6379 N. Paulina.

Winter weather wrecked havoc on their building. Their HVAC system, original hot water heater, and sump pumps have all given out. They are looking to replace both sump pumps, the water heater, and kennel flooring in dog isolation, totaling more than $34,000 in repairs.

The shelter has been in the neighborhood since 1977. It started as a no-kill cat shelter and in 2012 expanded to accept dogs. The shelter currently cares for about 16 dogs and 90 cats.

Those who would like to donate can do so at <https://donatenow.networkforgood.org/FelinesAndCanines>. For people who want to help in ways other than money, the shelter needs paper towels and bleach for cleaning.

Wanted Lakeview man facing new charges following Sheriff's Fugitive Task Force arrest

Jorge Mondragon-Bahena (center) getting arrested.

The Cook County Sheriff's Police Fugitive Apprehension Unit, in collaboration with the U.S. Marshals Task Force, located and charged a fugitive March 10 who was wanted for escaping from electronic monitoring while awaiting trial on a criminal sex assault case involving a child, Sheriff Thomas J. Dart.

In Oct. 2022, Jorge Mondragon-Bahena, 48, was court-ordered on the Sheriff's Electronic Monitoring Program after he was charged with Predatory Criminal Sexual Assault of a Minor under the age of 13. In March 2023, Mondragon-Bahena removed his GPS tracking device and left his assigned residence in the 3500 block of N. Southport Ave. At the time, Sheriff's investigators made multiple attempts to locate him.

Mondragon-Bahena was declared a fugitive, and a Cook County arrest warrant was issued for Escape - Violation of Electronic Monitoring and for the underlying Predatory Criminal Sexual Assault charge.

In January, Fugitive Task Force investigators learned that Mondragon-Bahena was living in Chicago under multiple aliases and working as a cook in an unknown local restaurant.

Last week, they developed additional information that he was residing in the 4500 block of S. Talman Ave. Investigators traveled to that location where they found him and took him into custody without incident.

On March 7, the State's Attorney's Office approved felony escape charges.

South Loop murder, woman gave partner 'prearranged signal' to start shooting during drug deal

A man and woman are charged with murdering an 18-year-old woman and injuring her companion during a drug transaction in the South Loop March 9. Prosecutors Jeremiah Jordan, 24, and Shanna Walton-Smith, 19, had a prearranged signal that Walton-Smith used to indicate that it was time for Jordan to start shooting.

Chicago police initially believed that Deshaunte Holly and the 38-year-old man she was with were shot in a drive-by. But further investigation revealed that was not the case, according to a proffer filed by Assistant State's Attorney Mike Pekara during a detention hearing for Jordan and Walton-Smith on March 10.

Holly and Walton-Smith agreed to meet near the intersection of Michigan Ave. and 21st St. to complete a narcotics transaction, according to Pekara. He said Jordan and Walton-Smith arrived first.

When the victims showed up, Walton-Smith, wearing a sweatshirt with the number "88" on it, got into their back seat while Jordan waited in the driver's seat of a red SUV.

After a couple of minutes, Jordan pulled the SUV next to the victims' car, blocking it in. Then, as Holly reached into the back seat, Walton-Smith nodded at Jordan, their "prearranged signal" for him to start shooting, according to Pekara.

Jordan allegedly began shooting from the SUV, firing rounds through the victims' windshield. Holly was struck several times and died. The man suffered a gunshot wound to his hand.

Pekara said the male victim threw his car into reverse to try to escape, but he crashed into a parked car and had to run away on foot. He hid behind nearby cars until Jordan and Walton-Smith fled in the SUV.

The man immediately ran to a nearby intersection and flagged down a passing patrol car.

Using CPD surveillance cameras and the city's license plate reader network, the police identified the gunman's car, determined it was registered to Jordan's mother, and located it in less than an hour near 59th St. and Wells, Pekara's filing said.

Patrol officers caught up with the SUV, which sped away from them and tried to escape until it became disabled. The police arrested Jordan, who was driving, and Walton-Smith, who was still wearing a sweatshirt with the number "88" on it, according to Pekara.

A 9-mm handgun in the SUV's center console was sent to a lab for testing. Preliminary results indicate it is the weapon that expended four shell casings found at the shooting scene.

Pekara said GPS records show that phones recovered from Jordan and Walton-Smith were in the area of 21st and Michigan around the time of the shooting.

During questioning, Walton-Smith admitted to being in the victims' car to complete a drug transaction, but she claimed Holly pulled a gun on her, according to Pekara. But, the veteran prosecutor said, the police did not find any weapons inside the victims' car or in the area around the vehicle where the male victim fled after being shot.

Jordan, Pekara said, also made a phone call from the police station in which he admitted to firing a gun. He is on first-time weapon offender probation for a 2023 gun case.

Judge Antara Rivera ordered Jordan and Walton-Smith detained pending trial.

They are both charged with first-degree murder, murder, and attempted murder. Jordan is also charged with aggravated unlawful possession of a weapon and misdemeanor fleeing.

109 years for former Boystown security guard who recorded himself having sex with 13-year-old boy

Ronald Lye

A suburban man who patrolled Boystown's bar district for years as a contracted security officer has been sentenced to 109 years in prison for recording himself having sex with a 13-year-old boy.

Ronald Lye, 54, must serve half of the prison time, making him eligible for release sometime around his 109th birthday.

Officials said Lye met with the boy repeatedly during five weeks in April and May 2020, driving to the teen's home and taking him to Lye's house in Aurora. Lye recorded his sexual contact with the boy and knew the victim was 13, prosecutors claimed during a bench trial that ended earlier this year with Lye being found guilty on 44 felony counts.

In May 2020, shortly after CWBChicago published a story about the sexual assault allegations, Lye submitted a lengthy email through our website in which he accused the 13-year-old boy of "lying...while being on a[n] adult dating website that requires you to be 18."

Lye continued: "This person I was with is mature, manipulative [and] charming and he has been with multiple people NOT just me and lying [sic] about his age etc again there is proof of that and will come out in court but unfortunately because he is a minor they have put all the blame on me."

"He is very sexually active/experienced and he kept reaching out to me with his pushy manipulations, believable charm and lies during my week [sic], depressing state of mind from social isolation/distancing/lack of work," Lye wrote, referring to the COVID lockdowns that were in place during the spring of 2020.

None of those arguments held water in January when, after years of pre-trial maneuvering, Lye put his fate in the hands of Kane County Judge David Kliment. The judge found Lye guilty of 13 counts of criminal sexual abuse, 13 counts of manufacturing child pornography, and 19 counts of possessing child pornography, according to the Kane County State's Attorney's Office.

Those charges carried a minimum sentence of 81 years, but Kliment gave Lye 28 years on top of that. The judge also fined Lye $14,536.66, according to court records.

"This sentence will not make the victim whole, but ensures Ronald J. Lye will be locked behind bars for a very long time and he will be unable to prey on children," Assistant State's Attorney Morgan Wilkinson said in a media statement provided by the state's attorney's office.

The Northalsted Business Alliance in 2015 said it was "reviewing its hiring process" when we revealed that Lye was not authorized to work as a security guard after he was accused of taking people's money while posing as a police officer in Kane County in 1999.

Lye pleaded guilty to impersonating a police officer and illegally using flashing blue lights in the case. Other charges, including armed robbery and armed violence, were dropped, according to his former attorney.

Lye and a co-worker allegedly extorted money from victims they encountered while posing as police when, in fact, they were security guards for a suburban motel.

One of Lye's alleged victims was an underage man from out of state who was caught drinking. The Beacon News, citing police reports, said the victim had been handcuffed and was told that he would be released in exchange for $100. An adult who was accused by the cop impersonators of buying the 20-year-old's beer also paid a "fine" to the guards, the paper reported.

After CWBChicago's report, Lye asked the state to reissue his license to work as an unarmed security guard. The Illinois Dept. of Financial and Professional Regulation agreed to give Lye a probationary permit the following year. Lye then returned to the Halsted St. patrol operation.

Two men robbed, body slammed, and whipped Red Line passenger with a belt

Two men face felony charges, accused of robbing, body-slaming, and whipping a Red Line passenger with a belt downtown.

The victim, 27, was riding a northbound train when two men confronted him near the Chicago-State station early on March 8, according to a Chicago police report.

Prosecutors said Jordan Frizell, 21, snatched the man's phone and headset, then threatened to shoot him. No gun was seen. When the victim asked for his phone back, Dijon Pope, 24, allegedly pushed him against the train doors and began hitting him in the head and face, sending the man to the ground. Pope continued to strike the man while he was down, prosecutors claimed in a detention petition.

Once the man returned to his feet, Frizell "body slammed" him, the petition said.

At one point, Frizell tried to take the man's book bag while Pope struck him in the face and body with a belt, according to Frizell's detention petition.

The victim fought with both men on the train and Clark-Division platform before the pair fled, leaving the man with a bloody nose and bruises on his face, officials said.

Cops arrested both men when they returned to the platform after the robbery. Prosecutors said Frizell had the victim's iPhone when the police arrested him.

Both men are charged with robbery and aggravated battery of a transit passenger. Judge Deidre Dyer rejected Pope's detention petition, opting to release him on an ankle monitor instead. However, he is not eligible for immediate release because he's being held on an unrelated warrant, according to court records.

The judge did detain Frizell, noting that he was on pretrial release for two other matters at the time of the robberies.

Court records show he was arrested on March 5 for allegedly threatening to kill two CTA canine security officers at the Howard CTA station.

The guards asked Frizell to get off the train because it was at the end of the line, prompting him to reply, "I'll kill one of y'all" while brandishing a knife, according to the CPD arrest report.

"I've killed 11 people already," Frizell allegedly claimed.

The report said that the security guards chose not to pursue felony charges.

Frizell was arrested on March 3 for trespassing at the Wit Hotel, 201 N. State, and on Feb. 24 for misdemeanor shoplifting at Walgreens, 151 N. State, according to court records.

Man shot outside Lakeview mini-mart is 'uncooperative'

A 40-year-old man is recovering after someone shot him outside a Lakeview mini-mart on March 14. Chicago police said the victim was uncooperative with investigators.

A 911 caller reported shots fired in the 2800 block of N. Clybourn at 11:06 p.m. Responding officers found the victim with a gunshot wound to his leg near Clybourn Market, 2807 N. Clybourn. He was taken to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center in good condition.

An officer who reviewed surveillance video said the gunman fled west after the shooting. They described the gunman as a Black male wearing black clothing with a navy blue backpack.

The shooting is the second of the month for the Roscoe Village area. On March 8, a 53-year-old man was shot by a "known offender" inside his home in the 1900 block of W. Roscoe, according to CPD.

A 911 caller reported that the shooter was her ex-boyfriend and that he came to the house and shot her roommate in the shoulder, according to police radio traffic. The suspect, who has two felony gun convictions in Cook County, fled the scene on foot.

No arrests have been announced in connection with either shooting.

Two more armed robbery crewmen arrested after Roscoe Village mugging

Hours after police announced that a 16-year-old boy has been charged with being part of a prolific armed robbery crew responsible for more than 20 holdups in the past month, there is more positive news to report.

Chicago cops arrested two more robbery offenders on March 15 after another robbery was reported in Roscoe Village. A source familiar with the investigation said they believe the teens arrested Saturday are also part of the crew police have been looking for.

Witnesses called 911 to report up to five younger males with guns attacking a man in the 1900 block of W. Cornelia. Officers arrived quickly and summoned an ambulance for the 55-year-old victim, who was suffering from chest pains and shortness of breath.

Meanwhile, cops scoured the neighborhood looking for the robbers. They caught a break when another 911 caller reported suspicious activity near an abandoned white Hyundai behind the 1900 block of W. Wolfram.

Officers detained three suspects nearby and two, one arrested in the 1900 block of W. Diversey and the other in the 2700 block of N. Leavitt, are now charged with robbery and illegal possession of firearms. They are 16 and 17 years old.

They are also charged with misdemeanor trespassing to a vehicle because the white Hyundai they bailed out of had been reported stolen from the 2000 block of N. Hamlin, according to CPD.

Unfortunately, police believe another carload of robbers who participated in yesterday's robbery got away. Cops hope to rope them in soon.

Man dead after shooting at Old Town apartment

Police are investigating a shooting at an Old Town apartment complex March 16. The victim, initially listed in critical condition, has died.

Officers responding to calls of a person shot found the 44-year-old victim in the courtyard of a building in the 1300 block of N. Hudson around 2:31 a.m. He had a gunshot wound to his stomach and police administered CPR while awaiting an ambulance response. The man died about two hours later, according to medical examiner records.

Cops seek four in connection with shooting of tourist in Streeterville during 'teen trend'

BY CWBCHICAGO

Here they are. The four people Chicago police want to speak with about the March 9 shooting of a tourist in Streeterville. Area Three detectives released CTA surveillance photos of the foursome on March 13, asking anyone with information about them to call in or submit an anonymous tip.

CPD said the four "were involved in discharging a firearm" near Illinois and McClurg around 8:12 p.m. One of the bullets flew Chicago police released these images of four people who were allegedly involved in an altercation that ended with a tourist being shot in Streeterville last weekend.

down the street and struck a 46-year-old woman who was walking with her 11-year-old son near Columbus Dr. She and her son ran across the bridge for safety and sought help. Officials said a bullet struck her in the arm.

Tips can be shared with investigators by calling 312-744-8261 or going to CPDTIP.com. Refer to case number JJ-175279.

The shooting occurred during an altercation between a group of people who were involved in a relatively small "teen trend." Ald. Brian Hopkins (2nd), who has called for an 8 p.m. curfew for juveniles after previous "trends," is renewing his efforts to get that done. Mayor Brandon Johnson has already spoken out against the idea.

Domestic Violence topic for next Levy meeting

The NE Levy Center Village will be holding a Zoom virtual meeting 9 a.m. Wednesday, March 26. The guest speaker will be Megan E. Goldish, a Circuit Judge in the Domestic Violence Division, who will be presenting on domestic violence and its impact on older adults.

To join the meeting by phone call 312-626-6799. The meeting ID is 886 8091 2480, and the passcode is 142325.

Letters to the Editor

Keep brazen creeps with guns out of Streeterville

The Chicago Sun-Times reported the shooting of a tourist outside McClurg Court's AMC theater a day after it appeared in Skyline.

No, the theater's "history" has not been one of violence. It used to be peaceful before it became a target layabout for brazen creeps with guns.

Deborah Gershbein of a Streeterville Organization and the Sun-Times said these "minors," "children," "juveniles" would be welcome if they learned to behave. Minors with guns and the concept of behavior are inapposite. Ditto the presumed responsibility of their undisclosed parents.

Are flash mobs coming by bus? Put out a 3 p.m. curfew on the buses so far as busing them into Streeterville. They have cars as well as guns? Pat them down as they exit the cars. Search the vehicles in the parking lots and on the streets.

For this, the AMC and Streeterville require responsible private guards. It's apparent that Mayor Brandon Johnson is too preoccupied with the trimming of his grotesque goatee.

Brenda Rossini

Chicago politicians want to release sex offenders

Yes, folks, you read that right.

Your Chicago Machine Democrats want to make the City of Chicago a Sanctuary City for sex offenders (story page 5).

So call your State Reps and State Senators and tell them HELL NO! Over their dead bodies!

House Bill 3509 wants to allow persons convicted of serial assault to be able to apply for parole after serving 25 years.

House Bill 2764 wants to allow persons convicted of rape to be paroled after serving 35 years. It drops to 25 years the second year and 20 years in year three. And they want to make it retroactive!

But the Democratic Party numbskulls and Neanderthals in the Illinois Senate want to even out-evil that.

Senate Bill 2254 wants to allow convicted sex offenders to move 249-feet closer to schools, playgrounds and nursery centers.

All while they virtue signal about reproductive this and gender affirming that, the devil worshippers that run their cult want to make it easier for criminals to victimize women, teen girls and children.

They really want to make Chicago a welcoming city for criminals. Will you let them set your family up to be victims?

Mike Sullivan
Avondale

Field of Dreams or Malfunction Junction?

Don DeBat [March 12] has done us all a service by pulling back the curtain on Bally's Chicago casino project, exposing its financial hurdles and construction challenges. This is a high-stakes development—big money, lots of contractors, and yet the biggest question remains: where are the customers coming from?

This feels like another "Field of Dreams" gamble—build it first, and they will come. But with Medinah Temple underperforming and Bally's revenue projections looking shaky, that's a big assumption.

My late father-in-law worked as a pressman at Freedom Center, where Bally's permanent casino is now rising. He and his coworkers had a nickname for the place: "Malfunction Junction."

The high-speed presses were a lot to handle to get the paper out the door every morning. Something tells me this construction project—and the operation of a billion-dollar casino—will be just as challenging.

So thanks for helping us get a handle on it. But remind us again—what were the projected annual tax revenues? The economic multiplier effect? The total number of construction and permanent jobs? The Traffic study? Big-ticket items, all of them.

One thing's for sure—Bally's took on a lot of risk. But as always, the big boys will be just fine. And Ald. Walter Burnett will be there for the ribbon cutting.

Tim Carew
Old Town

Old Town neighbors still seek better deal

Many of us in the 2nd Ward do not support the Fern Hill development at North Ave. and LaSalle as it stands.

This development includes the North & LaSalle Dr. parking lot (used by Moody Bible Institute), plus air rights over Walgreens at 1600 N. Wells and a historic three-story building at 1620 N. LaSalle.

We're asking Ald. Brian Hopkins to postpone the Zoning Committee hearing and communicate the new date to the community. Give the community at least a month, before rescheduling, time to host a live town hall meeting with residents before any decision is made.

Old Town residents, condo owners, and neighborhood groups—including the Old Town Triangle Assoc., Old Town Residents and Merchants Assoc., and multiple condo boards—have made it clear: the height and density of this project are overwhelming for the site and the neighborhood.

Your "compromise" with Fern Hill is not a real compromise—it's a quick fix to push this project forward. The only true winners are Fern Hill and Moody Bible Institute, who stand to profit, while Old Town inches closer to becoming a gateway for a River North-style high-rise zone.

Why not a reasonable alternative? Why not consider a project comparable to 1550 N. Clark, an eight-story building that fits with existing zoning? Why override zoning laws implemented to protect Old Town?

This development will shape Old Town for decades. Residents deserve a real voice before it's too late.

Wing Studio grand opening celebration, March 22

The Chicago Printmakers Collaborative [CPC] is entering a thrilling new chapter with the grand opening of WING, a long-awaited expansion that promises to further solidify its place in the city's artistic landscape.

From noon to 5 p.m. in March 22, guests will gather at 4883 N. Lincoln Ave. to celebrate the culmination of years of vision, dedication, and creative ingenuity during a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 1:15 p.m., with a host of key supporters who helped bring this dream to life.

From its earliest conception, WING's goal was to be more than just an extension of CPC; they hoped to represent a commitment to sustaining and expanding Chicago's vibrant printmaking community. With the support of a Community Development Grant from the City, this space hopes to contribute to the cultural revitalization of N. Lincoln Ave., as part of the Lincoln Ave. North Arts District. Guests at the grand opening will have the opportunity to tour the new studio, participate in hands-on printmaking activities, and enjoy refreshments alongside fellow artists, collectors, and supporters of the arts.

This is a new era for Chicago's printmaking community. With its blend of tradition and innovation, mentorship and experimentation, WING is poised to become a cornerstone of artistic expression for years to come. The March 22 celebration is a new beginning of what promises to be an exciting

POLICE BEAT from p. 6

An officer at the scene said the man's wife told them that a man wearing a ski mask came into their apartment and started shooting. Police found a bullet and one shell casing inside an apartment at the complex.

Less than 10 minutes before the man was found, a 911 caller reported a man and woman were arguing in a nearby apartment and the 911 caller heard a gunshot before the call disconnected.

Area Three detectives are trying to figure out if the 911 call and the murder are related.

The shooting is the third of the month for the Near North Side. On March 9, a 44-year-old tourist was shot while walking with her 11-year-old son in Streeterville. Police are looking for four suspects. Earlier that day, a man was shot and killed in the 500 block of N. Franklin. No arrests have been announced.

CPC Founder and CoDirector Deborah Maris Lader.

future for CPC, WING, and the artists and supporters who make it all possible.

For Deborah Maris Lader, the founder and soon-to-be outgoing director of CPC, WING is the realization of a dream decades in the making. As she prepares to pass the leadership baton this summer to Co-Director Lauren Steinert, Lader says she remains deeply committed to printmaking education, artist salons, and community engagement.

The opening of WING will be a testament to her enduring dedication to the craft and to the community she has built over the years.

The celebration of printmaking continues beyond the grand opening, with CPC offering a new class, Printmaking Techniques for the Curious, on May 17, led by Lader herself. This one-day demonstration will introduce participants to etching, lithography, screenprinting, and collage, allowing enthusiasts to experience the magic of printmaking without the pressure of getting their hands dirty. Scholarships are available for those facing financial hardship, ensuring accessibility to all who wish to learn.

Lader's artistic journey extends beyond CPC. Her own work, spanning printmaking, sculpture, and mixed media, continues to attract audiences. Recently, she collaborated to produce large-scale woodcuts, resurrecting old Steamroller blocks and bringing them to life on exquisite mulberry and gampi paper. These new works will be unveiled at the WING open house, offering visitors a glimpse into this ever-evolving creative process.

At 6 p.m. March 28, the latest issue of LitBop Literary Journal, featuring Lader's artwork on the cover, will be unveiled at The Book Cellar. Meanwhile, CPC prepares for its return to EXPO Chicago from April 24-27, at Navy Pier, where it will showcase an exceptional lineup of artists in the Editions + Books section. Attendees can expect to see striking new etchings by Tony Fitzpatrick, an immersive woodcut installation by Raeleen Kao, and whimsical etchings by Kumi Obata.

History museum is calling all Chicago artists

The Chicago History Museum [CHM] is looking for original works of art that respond to one of four important documents in U.S. history—the Declaration of Independence, U.S. Constitution, the 13th Amendment, or North-west Ordinance.

To mark the 250th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, the Museum is refreshing its first-floor exhibition Facing Freedom in America and is looking for artists to support this project. Local artists can submit their proposals, and four original works will be selected to be displayed in the CHM lobby alongside facsimiles of these four notable documents. Proposals are due Monday, March 31.

Each work will be on display for three months. The CHM is open to proposals from Chicago-based artists (or collectives) for the creation of original works of art in any medium that can be safely displayed within its lobby.

The four awards of $10,000 each will be given to four Chicago-based artists. The award is intended to cover the artist fee, production, and any costs associated with the installation and deinstallation of the work. All proposals should go to Paul Durica, Director of Exhibitions, by email (durica@chicagohistory.org) with the subject line, "America 250 Proposal." Direct any questions to Paul by email or phone (312-799-2170). For more information visit <https://www.chicagohistory.org/america-250-request-for-proposal/>.

Fundraiser for CA wildfire victims March 27

Stand Up Together, a comedy benefit in support of artists impacted by the Los Angeles wildfires, hosted by Second City and SNL Alum Katie Rich, will be held 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 27 at Laugh Factory Chicago, 3175 N. Broadway.

All ticket sales, raffle proceeds and donations will go to Motion Picture & Television Fund [MPTF], an organization that offers a variety of services that provide emotional and financial relief to entertainment industry members and their families during times of need, including financial assistance, supportive counseling, and assistance navigating insurance needs for entertainment industry members and their families impacted by the wildfires.

Comedians Pat McGann, Katie Rich, Megan Gailey, Marcella Arguello, Kristen Toomey, Calvin Evans, Matty Ryan, Chris Bader and more will take the stage to raise funds for artists and industry professionals impacted by the Southern California wildfires.

Since Jan. 7, MPTF has received over 530 fire-related calls, including over 150 clients who have suffered complete loss of home. Over 200 clients have already received financial assistance.

MPTF has been receiving significantly higher requests for assistance now due to the industry contraction and wildfire relief, with industry members also still in recovery from the impact of the pandemic and dual strikes.

The event is produced by Artists First and Laugh Factory. Tickets, priced at $35, as well as raffle tickets for purchase are available at <https://bit.ly/standuptogetherevent>. This is an age 18+ showcase.

MPTF is a nonprofit, tax-exempt charitable organization supported by the philanthropy and volunteer services of fellow entertainment industry members.

Spring trout season opens statewide April 5

Many people may not realize that trout fishing is available right on Chicago's North Lakefront during the spring. While the lakefront offers diverse fishing opportunities, including salmon, steelhead, and trout, the best trout fishing in the Chicago area during spring may be in stocked streams and lakes in the wider Chicagoland area, particularly in areas like the Fox River, Loon Lake and Busse Reservoir.

Every spring, Coho and Chinook salmon, Steelhead, Rainbow and Brown Trout can be caught right on our North Lakefront shores.

With 13 stocked park lagoons, a number of ponds, a reviving Chicago River, 22 miles of shoreline along Lake Michigan, and access in nine harbors and along the North Side of Navy Pier, Chicago offers many opportunities for year-round fishing. The types of fish to pursue are varied: Coho and Chinook salmon, Steelhead Rainbow and Brown Trout, Yellow Perch, Smallmouth, Largemouth and Rock Bass, Bluegill, Crappie, Sheepshead, Carp and Channel Catfish.

The 2025 Illinois spring trout fishing season will open Saturday, April 5 at 58 ponds, lakes, and streams throughout the state.

An early opportunity at select trout sites – the spring catch-and-release fishing season – opens Saturday, March 22. No trout may be kept during the catch-and-release period, but anglers can keep trout after the opening of the regular season beginning April 5. The daily harvest limit for each angler is five trout.

The Illinois Catchable Trout Program receives funding support by those who use the program through the sale of trout stamps.

CHAMPIONSHIP from p. 1 won a championship," said Kleinschmidt.

It's three championships now actually. The Rams defeated Bloomington Central Catholic 65-41 in 2023 to win 2A. Last year they defeated Chicago Catholic League rival Mount Carmel 49-41 to win their second state championship in a row, that time in 3A. It will have to be said that the DePaul Prep Rams have entered the rarified air of multiple consecutive championships in IHSA history.

"We are a defensive culture

The Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources stocks more than 80,000 rainbow trout each year in bodies of water where trout fishing is permitted during the spring season. An additional 80,000 trout will be stocked for the fall trout season, which begins in October.

For the 2025 spring trout season, no trout may be taken from any stocked sites between March 15 and the season opening at 5 a.m. April 5. Anyone caught attempting to harvest trout before the legal harvest season opening will be issued citations.

All anglers, including those who intend to release fish caught before April 5, must have a fishing license and an inland trout stamp unless they are younger than 16, blind or disabled, or are an Illinois resident on leave from active duty in the Armed Forces. Fishing licenses and trout stamps can be purchased by using a credit card at www.ifishillinois.org.

For the 2025 spring trout season, no trout may be taken from any stocked sites between March 15 and the season opening at 5 a.m. April 5.

Besides the Chicago River and Lake Michigan, trout lakes in Cook County include those in the Cook County Forest Preserve District: Axehead Lake, Belleau Lake, Green Lake, Horsetail Lake, and Sag Quarry East. Trout can also be found at Wolf Lake, William W. Powers State Recreation Area, in Chicago.

lead all scorers in the game with 24 points. Senior forward K. J. Morris had 11 points for Brother Rice. Senior guard Jack Weigus added 10 points.

It was a total team effort for the Rams, offensively as well as defensively. Kvamme lead the team with 16 points, all coming in the fourth quarter and the overtime periods. Porter added 14 despite suffering injured fingers. Rob Walls and Woo had seven each. AJ Chambers had five. Jonas Johnson and Gus Donohue each added a three-pointer. The Rams had 10 steals and only nine turnovers.

Park cleanup set for April 26

This year marks the 40th anniversary of Friends of the Parks' citywide Earth Day cleanups in partnership with the Chicago Park District, and may be their most impactful yet. On Saturday, April 26, they hope to expand the efforts and are actively seeking volunteers and site captains to lead cleanup teams at parks across the city.

For more information visit www.fotp.org/earth-day.html.

As usual, the organization will partner with volunteer groups and provide gloves and garbage bags as well as an online event sign-up. In addition, they are accepting requests for mulch, woodchips and fiber.
