Four public libraries to offer mental health care referrals

Edgewater Branch library in pilot program

BY BOB KITSOS

In a move to expand mental health access to communities, Chicago Dept. of Public Health [CDPH] recently partnered with Chicago Public Libraries [CPL] to offer mental health care referrals one day a week in four branch libraries. This pilot program is part of the recent expansion of mental health services by CDPH and partner agencies to all 77 community areas in Chicago; it's known as the #All77 campaign.

"Offering care in libraries opens a new world of access beyond our own clinics and those of our partner agencies," said CDPH Cmsr. Allison Arwady, M.D. According to Anna Dolezal, public information coordinator, CDPH, the library initiative came from Mayor Lightfoot's 2019 Framework for Mental Health Equity in which one of the pillars focused on expanding mental health services outside of traditional, brick-and-mortar clinics.

Mental (behavioral) health disorders, or mental illnesses, affect the way you think and behave. They change your mood and can make it difficult to function at home, work, school or in your community.

Clinicians will provide immediate therapeutic interventions to individuals with mental concerns and will carry a small caseload of regular behavioral health clients. Counselors will not act as social workers or general case workers for patrons but will provide outside resources and referrals. Counseling will not include couples therapy or intensive outpatient services.

"Chicago Public Libraries are community anchors for our city's diverse neighborhoods," said CPL Cmsr. Chris Brown. "At CPL we are constantly striving to make our services, programs and spaces more inclusive and relevant to Chicagoans." He said this new initiative will offer mental health services to residents who may not have known how or where to access this type of care for themselves and their loved ones.

Edgewater Branch

The Edgewater Branch at 6000 N. Broadway is one of four branches in the pilot program. Others are the Mt. Greenwood Branch on S. Kedzie, the Beverly branch on W. 95th St. and the Blackstone Branch (in Kenwood) on S. Lake Park Ave. CDPH anticipates expanding the program after collecting information over the next couple of months.

Danielle Pertiller, licensed clinical professional counselor, is assigned to the Edgewater Branch library on Tuesdays to offer mental health referrals.

Joanna Hazelden, Edgewater Branch manager, said she and her staff are grateful to be included in the new initiative as it will fill a need to take care of people in the community. She said, "The service is needed because there has been an uptick of need in the city overall and having therapy places where people come regularly or feel comfortable is important."

Licensed Clinical Professional Counselor Danielle Pertiller is assigned to the Edgewater Branch. She has counseling experience in teen issues, bullying, depression and anxiety, among other men-

Lightfoot leaves successor with major crime hitting new highs, no clear plan to fix it

BY CWBCHICAGO

It's hard to believe that the first quarter of 2023 is already behind us. Perhaps slightly easier to believe is this: Reports of major crimes in Chicago were up 46% during the first three months of the year compared to the same period in 2022.

That's according to the Chicago Police Department's latest official crime statistics summary, known as CompStat.

Of the seven major crime categories tracked by CPD, only murders are lower this year, down 15% compared to 2022. They are still up 33% from 2019, though. Every other crime is up: criminal sexual assault, robbery, aggravated battery, burglary, theft, and motor vehicle theft, the report shows.

Robberies, up 15% across the city this year, are also up 30% compared to 2019. That number is being driven up in part by holdup crews that commit up to a dozen robberies in a narrow window of time.

Much of the year-over-year and longer-term increases can be attributed to motor vehicle thefts, up 133% compared to last year—nearly 4,300 additional cases. Auto theft reports are up thanks to the "Kia boys" fad that has swept Chicago since social media videos taught young people how to exploit a design flaw to steal Kia and Hyundai vehicles with little more than a USB plug.

The thefts skyrocketed last July, with CPD sometimes taking more than 100 auto theft reports daily, a virtually unheard-of number. Both car companies are now offering a software update for cars with turn-key ignitions that were made between 2015 and 2019.

CBS2 reported that 10% of Kias and 7% of Hyundais registered in Chicago had been stolen in 2022. And we reported that some insurance companies refused to issue new policies for the affected models earlier this year.

Year-over-year comparisons will become more favorable to the police department's public relations office this summer, so we expect to hear a lot about "auto thefts are down" in a few months.

Model railroad club looking for places to set up portable village

The Garfield-Clarendon Model Railroad Club may be one of the least known and yet most unique experiences on the North Side. Located in the Clarendon Park Community Center it is one of Uptown's hidden gems. The model railroad set you could have only dreamed about in your youth. And it really exists.

They have built a large scale layout that is not possible in smaller city dwellings. There's a track that's so large, ornate, and detailed that trains take 25 minutes to make a complete loop. Unfortunately with the upcoming construction to the Clarendon Park Fieldhouse, that means nobody can experience the model railroad in Uptown for a while.

But they're taking the village on the road with a portable setup, and they're seeking public suggestions for events or locations to host public displays.

While the rehab of the old building may be good news, the model railroad club will not be available to the public in its home Uptown location until sometime in early 2024, when reconstruction will be finished.

The Garfield-Clarendon Model Railroad Club have put together a portable model village that they will display in a series of free open houses. The next one will be held at the Lincolnwood Town Center, 3333 W. Touhy Ave., Lincolnwood, 5 p.m. April 29.

The Garfield-Clarendon Model Railroad Club have put together a portable model village that they will display in a series of free open houses. And they are now seeking community input on additional places where to take their mobile unit.

For more information, call 773-609-2788 or visit garfieldcentral.org/open-houses

The club would like to do more open houses throughout the year, and they are now seeking ideas on where to find local venues with a large enough space. Model railroading requires many skills and covers many topics. A layout needs electrical, painting, creativity, carpentry, planning, electronics know-how, and more. Those who have a suggestion may write to yardmaster@garfieldcentral.org.

The club was originally founded in 1947 in the Garfield Park Fieldhouse, before moving to Uptown's Clarendon Park, in 1963. So that explains the club's name. The fifth and current layout of the railroad began in 1974 and has been growing ever since.

Community meeting April 18 over proposed closure of Catalpa Ave.

With Catalpa Ave. set to close between Clark St. and Ashland Ave. the Chicago Dept. of Transportation is hosting a community meeting on the plan at 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 18, at St. Gregory Catholic Church, 1609 W. Gregory.

The project calls for removing that section of street, and all the public parking, in favor of a public plaza.

It's time for Chicago to rediscover a sense of humor

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Just embraced a true life-changer.

By which I mean my sister, Mary Regina, and bro-in-law, Steve, just gave me an early birthday present. A new bed. The works. All the trimmings.

I'm now on day three with it. Old bones are already mending. The mattress is beyond firm. So high I almost can't climb aboard. But it won't leave the station without me.

The delivery men took the old mattresses with them, after a hearty "farewell."

I conduct a lot of business on my mattress. It's the center of my executive office complex. That's where many writers really write. Not in a bubble bath. Or in a library. Or sitting behind a desk.

Jackie Kennedy was my all-time hero when it came to beds. Hers was regularly piled high with about 25 books, a couple of paintings, and piles of correspondence. All strewn across her mattress on Fifth Ave. Crowded chic.

For some of us, the environment of the mattress is rich and most cozy. That's where ideas happen. Where your noodle best works.

Where do you think I am writing this right now?

My new mattress must be 15 inches high. Luxurious. The Mercedes of bedding. I haven't yet measured the new box spring. And my red and black check flannel sheets and pillow cases from the Vermont Country Store are keeping me calm and cozy. Perfect place to write about what's unfolding.

While testing out my new office, I find myself re-entering the magical political world of President Jeb Bartlett's White House of "The West Wing."

You know it's a political comfort zone for me when I'm anxious. Distressed. And politically tense.

Like now. Watching President Bartlett and his White House staff govern America always restores calm and confidence. More so than any Trump indictment.

Every time I return to "The West Wing" I find fresh storylines whose emphasis further restores my weary political balance. In fact I just need to hear the theme music.

Looks like I have hit all the right episodes of the show on my new mattress. I am glued to the unfolding of how everyone, later members of the White House staff, wound up on former New Hampshire Gov. Bartlett's election campaign team.

How they fit in with each other.

What they gave up. Like successful silk-stocking law firm careers.

And how they came to the White House ready to serve the new president. But even more importantly what they brought to the Oval Office's life.

Of course, they bring that most sacred of all gifts with them, the lost faculty of brilliant, glib thought. And the ability to express ideas with some easy wisdom, style and grace. All the while maintaining a sense of civility that is classic, old-fashioned American.

Nothing is handier for them when they have to deal with an opposition-heavy Congress. A feisty, snoopy press corps, and the turbulent international world in which America is building its new style of post-Cold War identity.

Remember, the show began back in 1999. A quarter century ago, in the Clinton era. Before we lost five wars and spent $25 trillion we didn't have.

We know from the start that President Bartlett is up for the task because we know and trust the caliber of humanity that his staff is ripe with.

No matter what crisis drops on 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., we get to watch this team of fresh-faced political stars apply that glib thought and stylish civility to a sense of resolution. Uncovering not just a solution, but an "American" solution. We feel the spirit of Thomas Jefferson throughout the process. Experience the humble heroism of Abraham Lincoln at play, or the cogitation of Franklin Roosevelt.

Even the unbridled courage of FDR's cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, that knows no limit. And the enormous youth and hope that spills from the promise of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Leo, Toby, Josh, CJ, Charlie and Sam, all members of the senior White House staff, may not apply that stew of past presidential wisdom evenly at first, but they all have the ingredients within them. Especially when they see the president display them so brilliantly. After all he has a PhD in Economics from Harvard and a Nobel Prize. And he's an alumnus of Notre Dame.

But what we do see unfold in every episode is American civility. The ingredient only we can add.

We've never needed it more than now. Especially in Chicago as we await the arrival of a new mayor.

I hope Chicagoans, especially those whose candidate was not elected, will be able to reach deep within themselves to discover the source of pride and wisdom that is so much a part of our Chicago citizenship.

Whatever candidate received a majority of votes, that candidate has a lot of work to do. A long road to journey. We need no repeat of the past four years. We need everyone's gifts. Everyone's civility to lift our city out of the present brokenness.

We need clarity.

Less emotion. More sacrifice. Less lawlessness. More reasoned intelligence. Less selfish fear. More courageous hope.

Less demagoguery. More urban heroism. Less complaints. More efforts to succeed.

Maybe we just need a better mattress? A firmer bed.

Perhaps it's time for Chicago to rediscover a sense of humor, and the lost faculty of brilliant, glib thought. Old-fashioned American all the way. So try to watch a few oldies of "The West Wing" when the ballots are finally tallied and the election hoopla is over.

Proposed 'mansion tax' will sink luxury-home values

BY DON DEBAT

Chicago's 2023 Mayoral election is over, but the negative impact on the luxury real estate market is just beginning.

Mayor-elect Brandon Johnson's proposal to more than triple the transfer tax that buyers of residential or commercial properties priced at $1 million or more is not being well received by the Chicago's Gold Coast, Streeterville, Old Town, Lincoln Park, Lakeview, North Center and Lincoln Square real estate brokerage communities that strongly backed election competitor Paul Vallas.

Dubbed the "Mansion Tax," the Johnson proposal would hike the city of Chicago's portion of the buyer's transfer tax on a $1-million property to 2.65%—or a hefty $26,500—from the current $7,500, which is .075% of the sale price. The tax would translate into buyers of $1-million properties having to pay $13.25 for every $500 in sales value, up from the current $3.75 in value.

The $3,000 transfer tax sellers now pay per $1 million would not change under the current proposal.

Under Johnson's "Bring Chicago Home" proposal 100% of the additional buyer taxes reportedly would be earmarked for the fight against homelessness.

The buyer's tax bite would grow incrementally the more expensive the home. For example, if the sale price were $1.5 million, the transfer tax would jump to $39,750 from the current $11,250. The buyer of a $2 million mansion would pay a whopping $53,000, up from the current $15,000.

The Mansion Tax would have to be approved both by the Chicago City Council and the Illinois General Assembly. If approved, the earliest it would go into effect is this fall, experts say.

In addition to the threat of a possible luxury tax looming over the market, "values of $1-million-plus properties already have dropped 10% to 30%," said Jim Kinney, former president of the Illinois Realtors Assoc. and a veteran Gold Coast broker for Baird & Warner.

The Illinois Assoc. of Realtors, a trade association that represents agents across the state, feels that the luxury tax would further lower prices and reduce volume in the high-end market. "Realtors are not for progressive candidates," Kinney said.

Prices already are falling because of soaring mortgage interest rates and looming tax increases. In the past 12 months, 2,391 Chicago homes sold for $1 million or more, reports Midwest Real Estate Data. That's down 14.5% from the previous 12 months.

A seller of a 2-bedroom condominium at the plush Ambassador West in the Gold Coast recently cut the asking price $750,000 to $1.25 million from the original $1.875 million purchase price, Kinney noted.

Experts estimate that in only 12 months the new tax could generate $158.5 million in new taxes.

That's on top of the roughly $62.6 million in annual transfer taxes $1-million-plus sales actually pumped into city coffers under the existing tax structure in the past year.

Jim Kinney

"If luxury property values keep dropping, soon there will be no $1-million properties being sold, so the Mansion-Tax threshold may have to be lowered," Kinney surmised.

Kinney believes buyers will ask: What does the Mansion Tax do to my choices? A buyer either pays the tax in the city or moves to a suburb where there is no Mansion Tax and the schools are infinitely better.

"High taxes and crime already are causing people to vote with their feet. Some 60,000 people have left Illinois in recent years," Kinney said.

If the City Council passes the Mansion Tax proposed by Mayor-elect Johnson, experts say Cook County Assessor Fritz Kaegi may have to institute a new model for assessing $1-million-plus homes to compensate for falling market values and the hefty burden of the added layer of taxes.

As of January, a recent count of the homeless in Chicago showed the number actually declined to 3,875 people over the past two years. However, up to 1,278 homeless people still are living in streets, parks and under viaducts.

Is rent control coming?

Kinney also believes the next Chicago housing crisis will come in the ongoing battle over rent control between progressives and conservatives in the Illinois General Assembly.

"Rental inventory will decline under rent control," Kinney predicted. "There will be more live-in landlords, and fewer investors."

If landlords are not allowed to pass along increased costs be-

Movement to unionize cultural institutions spreads

Science Museum voting to unionize

With government unions playing a critical part of Brandon Johnson taking the Mayor's office, Chicago is again proving it remains a strong union town. Now a wave of unionization is rolling over its cultural organizations.

Employees of the Chicago Academy of Sciences Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum [CAS] in Lincoln Park, and its off-site collections facility, filed union representation petitions with the National Labor Relations Board [NLRB] in Chicago on Tuesday, March 28.

Nineteen employees signed a letter expressing their intent to form a union hoping for better wages, benefits and safer working conditions.

Nearly 300 employees of the Field Museum were unionized with AFSCME Council 31, after an election administered in February by the National Labor Relations Board. Additionally, more than 600 non-tenure-track faculty of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago [SAIC] voted to form their union with AFSCME. The SAIC adjunct professors and lecturers voted 377 Yes to 33 No to join Art Institute of Chicago Workers United, formed last year by staff of the school and museum.

The CAS joins the Field Museum, the Art Institute of Chicago, staff and non-tenure-track faculty of the School of the Art Institute and staff of the Newberry Library as part of the wave of cultural workers who have recently formed unions with AFSCME.

The filing will trigger a union election in the coming weeks in which the employees can vote to formally certify their union, Chicago Academy of Sciences Workers United [CASWU], as part of AFSCME Council 31.

The NLRB filing comes just one week after the CASWU/AFSCME organizing committee launched the public phase of its organizing campaign—an indication of the overwhelmingly strong support for the union among museum employees.

"We're forming our union because we want to work with our colleagues and leadership to ensure that our institution is always becoming an equitable, inclusive, and safe workplace. That can't happen unless we have an equal say in the decisions that affect us," Anabel Hirano told afscme31.org. She is a member of the CASWU/AFSCME organizing committee and is volunteer and intern coordinator at the CAS, 2430 N. Cannon Dr.

Mail theft ringleader who 'spent his entire adult life stealing' gets nine years

BY CWBCHICAGO

A federal judge in Chicago sentenced the ringleader of a sprawling mail and identity theft operation to nine years in prison last week. In court filings, lawyers from the U.S. Attorney's office in Chicago said Davey Hines, 29, "has spent his entire adult life stealing from others or committing fraud to support his—at times—lavish lifestyle."

Between June 2018 and December 2019, Hines spearheaded an identity theft operation fueled by postal service employees who stole credit cards and personal information from the mail, federal officials said.

Hines and ten co-conspirators "stole more than 657 credit cards and made more than $462,719 in fraudulent purchases" during the life of the scam, according to a press release from the U.S. Attorney's office in Chicago. Officials said the personal information of over 1,000 mail customers across Chicagoland, including birthdates and Social Security numbers, was also compromised.

Prosecutors said that Hines and the mail carriers often communicated through Snapchat because they believed their messages would disappear after a while. Hines collected stolen credit cards and personal information from mail carriers and used the cards to buy electronics and other merchandise. He rewarded the postal workers with cash and other valuables, according to prosecutors.

In a pre-sentencing memorandum, federal prosecutors said Hines' first conviction was for retail theft at the age of 18. A year later, he was convicted of altering credit cards to purchase money cards. While on probation for that, he was convicted of aggravated assault of a peace officer. And the following year, he was convicted of bank fraud and sentenced to 30 years in prison, the government's lawyers wrote.

While on supervised release after that sentence, Hines was convicted of two more identity theft charges for using stolen credit cards. And the mail theft scheme was carried out while he was on supervised release for those charges, said the prosecutors.

According to Hines' federal probation officer, "nothing can deter the defendant. He appears to be driven by greed as, with no significant history of legitimate employment, he was driving luxury vehicles and living off of illegally obtained funds, without any desire to repay the victims from whom he previously stole."

Federal officials asked U.S. District Court Judge Edmond E. Chang to sentence Hines to 212 months in prison, arguing that the total of the stolen cards' credit limits was $3,681,337. But Hines' attorney, Beau B. Brindley, argued that only proven losses should be considered. He recommended a sentence of 41 months.

The scam participants "made a few fraudulent purchases on each card before moving on to the next," Brindley countered as he tried to temper the federal attorneys' damage estimates.

Hines pleaded guilty to conspiracy, receipt of stolen mail, unauthorized access device fraud, and aggravated identity theft.

Judge Chang ordered Hines to reimburse the card-issuing banks for their losses. But the firms may be in for a long wait.

"To date," the government's sentencing memorandum said, "Hines has repaid only $275 towards the restitution he still owes in his first federal case."

North Side mail thief busted with checks, credit cards, and fake IDs

Prosecutors say a man with a history of forgery and identity theft crimes broke into a Lincoln Square condo building's mailroom four times last fall. And when Chicago cops arrested Alex Petik last week, they allegedly found a host of fake IDs, checks, and credit cards in other people's names.

Petik burglarized the mailboxes of a multi-unit building in the 4800 block of N. Bell on Oct. 23, Oct. 30, Nov. 1, and Nov. 5, prosecutors said during his bail hearing on April 4. Two days after the last break-in, one of the residents learned that someone was trying to open multiple credit card accounts in their name.

Chicago police detectives collected video of the burglar and asked other agencies to help identify him, Assistant State's Attorney Sarah Dale-Schmidt said. A Lincolnwood Police Dept. sergeant and a U.S. Postal Inspector both recognized the thief as Petik, she said.

Alex Petik

A backpack that Petik was carrying when police arrested him on Monday contained a Russian passport, two fake IDs with his photo but other people's personal information, four credit cards with different names, five checks issued to various businesses and individuals, and 14.2 grams of suspected crystal methamphetamine, according to Dale-Schmidt.

Petik's felony background includes convictions for forgery in 2019 and 2017, identity theft in 2019, possession of a controlled substance in 2015, and fraudulent title registration in 2015.

Judge Susana Ortiz released Petik on electronic monitoring with no monetary bail required. He is charged with three counts of burglary and manufacture-delivery of methamphetamine.

Dump those old drugs at Northwestern

Northwestern Medicine is hosting a "discard those drugs" collection site for National Prescription Drug Take Back Day.

Northwestern will be collecting unwanted medication 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, April 22, at 250 E. Superior St.

The event provides a safe, convenient and responsible way to dispose of unused opioids and other prescription medications. If you throw unused medications in the trash, they can be retrieved and abused, or illegally sold. If you flush them, they can contaminate the water supply.

Every day, more than 130 Americans die after overdosing on opioids. Proper disposal of unused drugs saves lives and protects the environment.

New at this spring's event will be the addition of Naloxone training and distribution at all collection sites.

Please note, sharps and liquids will not be accepted, and Take Back Day is for community members, not for commercial organizations.

To find other collection sites near you, visit <https://takebackday.dea.gov/>.

Chicago 16-inch softball HOF beat NASCAR in Grant Park

The Home Front
by Don DeBat

Chicago, the “City of Big Shoulders” does have some clout when it comes to respect for the game of slow-pitch softball.

The Chicago 16-inch Softball Hall of Fame, a group of HOF-inductees, and media people, may have rescued the Grant Park softball season from the clutches of NASCAR, which earlier cancelled the 2023 season.

“We will have a softball season in Grant Park after all,” said umpire and player/manager Michael Stern, who alerted media to the cancellation. “The official word is that the Chicago Park District [CPD] and NASCAR have agreed to allow softball to be played while race preparation is going on.”

The NASCAR event is scheduled to take over the park from June 22 through July 5 on Columbus Dr. and the Outer Dr.—forming a loop around Grant Park for the race on July 1-2.

Earlier, Paul Rowan, president of the 16-inch Chicago Softball Hall of Fame, said: “I think what made it more disappointing is they pushed it aside for the NASCAR event, which is not part of Chicago, where this game is known as Chicago’s Game.”

“I know this change would not have happened without the 16-inch softball community speaking out,” Stern said. “Thanks to HOF inductees Bob Sirott, Don DeBat, Al Maag and Paul Rowan for helping get the word out.”

“Regardless of the CPD/NASCAR deal, we’ve lost the ‘free’ use of Grant Park for the majority of the summer,” said Ron Roenigk, publisher of this newspaper, and a player-manager who participated in the Chicago Advertising and Media Coed Softball League for decades.

“Grant Park is our front yard,” Roenigk said. “It is supposed to be ‘forever clear, open and free.’ Isn’t that our motto? This is not what Montgomery Ward had in mind when he saved Grant Park.”

“We are under a lot of scrutiny. The names of the leagues are confidential. Teams are under a legal contract with CPD. For more information you must file a Freedom of Information Act request,” said a woman at CPD headquarters.

What? Suddenly, a chat with the CPD, a body that is handsomely supported by our real estate tax dollars, seemed to have escalated into a conversation with the CIA. Had Rose Escareno, CPD’s general superintendent and CEO, put a staff “gag order” in place?

Eager for the details of how the 2023 Grant Park softball season will shape up, this writer called the CPD headquarters for the scoop. Unfortunately, I was put on hold, then switched to various extensions for 33 minutes while listening to cheerful Muzak.

Finally, I was connected to a pleasant woman named Jackie, who informed me that five leagues are scheduled to play on Grant Park’s 16 diamonds on Monday through Friday starting in late April through late July.

Pressed for more details, she said: “We are under a lot of scrutiny. The names of the leagues are confidential. Teams are under a legal contract with CPD. For more information you must file a Freedom of Information Act request.”

What? Suddenly, a chat with the CPD, a body that is handsomely supported by our real estate tax dollars, seemed to have escalated into a conversation with the CIA.

Had Rose Escareno, CPD’s general superintendent and CEO, put a staff “gag order” in place?

Next, I was referred to Jackie’s supervisor, Merrill Malone, the Area Manager of the CPD’s Central Region. Her direct phone line rang. No answer. “This mailbox is full and can’t accept messages at this time.” It was 3 p.m. on election day. What do you expect?

Searching for more information, I called the Chicago Sport & Social Club [CSSC], “the largest organizer of adult sports leagues, social events and tournaments nationwide.” Apparently the CSSC now is the unofficial softball diamond managers at Grant Park.

“We have a limited window for 16-inch softball games at Grant Park starting May 2,” said Brian Irving, who schedules leagues for CSSC. “Our season runs for five weeks, plus playoffs.” Each team will play a guaranteed six games on two to four diamonds starting at 6 p.m.

“CSSC offers both 16-inch Men’s Leagues and Coed Leagues on Monday through Thursday, and we charge a fee of $1,175 per team,” Irving explained. The fee includes a new Clincher softball, a certified umpire, bases, team jerseys, schedule and standings, and champ shirts.

The CPD collects their cut of the fees, and provides public park diamonds. The CSSC organizes, administers and pockets the profit from Men’s and Coed recreational and competitive softball leagues.

The CSSC also administers play seven days a week in more than a dozen city parks, including Lincoln Park South, Hamlin, Waveland, Union, Brands, Oz/Jonquil, Clarendon, and Wrightwood. For the 2023 season of seven games, each team pays an entry fee of $1,285.

However, Kevin Kwiatt, co-commissioner of the Chicago Advertising Coed Softball League [CACSL] says his group did not receive the red-carpet treatment when requesting 2023 diamonds for the 13-team Tuesday league, which has played at Grant Park, Lincoln Park and Waveland since 1980. (Pre-pandemic CACSL had 36 teams.)

“Grant Park officials told us we could play a six-game season starting Tuesday June 6 through July 18, but we were not allowed to play between June 27 and July 4 because NASCAR fencing will be installed,” said Kwiatt.

“Their schedule has us playing three double headers in three consecutive weeks and

FBI looking for Uptown bank robber with ‘messy penmanship’

The FBI said this is the robber who held up Chase Bank, 5134 N. Clark, on April 6. Photos courtesy FBI

The FBI is looking for a bank robber with sloppy handwriting who held up a Chase Bank branch in Uptown on April 6.

Around 2 p.m., the person seen in these bank surveillance images walked into the bank at 5134 N. Clark and handed over an envelope with a demand note written on it, according to an FBI bulletin. A police dispatcher said the note had “messy penmanship” and ordered the teller to put their $50 and $20 bills into the envelope.

In a media release on Thursday evening, the FBI did not say if the robber was male or female. But the agency said they are White, thin, in their 20s, and about 5'6" tall. The agency said the robber may have had long hair tucked into their hat.

Tips can be shared with the FBI's Chicago field office at 312-421-6700 or tips.fbi.gov.

Earlier on Thursday, the FBI offered a $1000 for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of a serial robber who has targeted four banks since late February, including two on April 5.

Man shot while walking in Rogers Park

Police are investigating after a 33-year-old man was shot in Rogers Park on April 6. It's the second shooting on the same block since March 21.

Officially, CPD said the man was walking in the 7600 block of N. Sheridan when he “heard shots and felt pain” around 7:43 p.m. He drove himself to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston for treatment of a gunshot wound to his left arm.

But witnesses told police that they saw a woman wearing a pink sweatshirt shoot the man, who was hiding behind a trash receptacle.

He is the 10th person shot in Rogers Park this year, compared to six at this point last year and three as of April 7, 2021. Officials concluded that one of last year's victims was shot by someone acting in self-defense, so that event is not included in the city's official statistics.

Among other recent shootings in the neighborhood:

- A 20-year-old woman received a graze wound to her back while walking up the stairs of an apartment building in the 1300 block of W. Columbia on March 29.
- A 23-year-old man was shot in the 1500 block of W. Jonquil Terrace on March 26.
- A 57-year-old man was shot while sitting in a car in the 7300 block of N. Greenview on March 25.

• Quentin Pruett, 45, of Madison, Wisconsin, was shot and killed during a home invasion in the 7600 block of N. Sheridan on March 21. His family believes he was not the intended target.

• On March 3, a 37-year-old man was found fatally shot inside an apartment in the 7500 block of N. Damen. Police initially detained a woman inside the apartment, but she was later released. Investigators did not find a weapon at the scene, and the medical examiner's office has not determined the cause and manner of the man's death.

Parolee robbed eight convenience stores

A man who's on parole for illegally possessing and firing a handgun helped rob eight convenience stores in Chicago and the suburbs last week, prosecutors said April 6.

Chicago police said five 7-Eleven stores were robbed at gunpoint on March 29 in a crime spree that stretched from the West Loop to Boyston to West Rogers Park. Now, prosecutors say Terrance Thomas, 19, was involved in those crimes and more.

Thomas and an unnamed accomplice entered the 7-Eleven at 560 W. Grenshaw in the South Loop around 2 a.m. that morning, pointed guns at the cashier, and took money from the registers, Assistant State's Attorney Sarah Dale-Schmidt said during Thomas' bail hearing.

The duo went on to carry out similar robberies of 7-Eleven stores at 3700 N. Broadway, 6801 N. Western, and 2741 W. Touhy within the next 90 minutes, according to the allegations. All of the crimes were caught on video.

Thomas and an accomplice robbed two Thornton's locations early on March 31, taking either cash or entire registers from the stores at 2229 S. Cicero and 3450 S. California.

Police almost caught Thomas the following evening. Officers pulled over a car in the 6700 block of S. Maplewood and allegedly watched as Thomas switched seats with the car's driver. Once he settled in behind the wheel, Thomas reversed into a squad car, struck a second vehicle, and sped from the scene, according to Dale-Schmidt. She said an officer suffered a knee injury during a “scuffle” with Thomas.

Two days later, Thomas robbed a Pilot gas station in Bridgeview and another Thornton's in Summit, Dale-Schmidt alleged. She said police arrested Thomas April 4 after a traffic pursuit that reached 102 mph on the expressways. The car he was driving, a 2020 Hyundai Tucson, had a stripped steering column and a broken rear side window covered with a plastic bag, suggesting it may have been stolen.

Police found a handgun with a purple laser sight attached lying under the car's passenger seat, Dale-Schmidt said. A similar weapon was used during some of the robberies.

Prosecutors charged Thomas with seven counts of armed robbery, possession of a stolen motor vehicle, three counts of aggravated fleeing, and criminal damage to property.

Judge Susana Ortiz held Thomas without bail.

18-time felon gets time served for stabbing CTA bus driver in Old Town

An 18-time convicted felon received a sentence of time served for allegedly stabbing a CTA bus driver who confronted him about stealing another passenger's wallet.

Daniel Pelt, 64, pleaded guilty to aggravated battery of a transit employee in exchange for a sentence of two years, according to court records. By law, his sentence was reduced by 50% for good behavior, and credits for the time he spent in custody before pleading guilty offset the balance. He was released from Stateville Correctional Center on Feb. 16, the same day he arrived.

In Nov. 2021, prosecutors said the bus driver confronted Pelt about stealing another passenger's wallet from a cart while riding an eastbound North Ave. bus near Sedgwick St. in Old Town.

The driver stopped the bus and held Pelt by the shoulders to keep him from leaving while another passenger called 911, officials said. But Pelt pulled out a knife, stabbed the driver in the hand, and fled. CTA surveillance cameras captured the entire incident, and one bus passenger recorded a video of Pelt escaping through the rear door.

Chicago police arrested Pelt on the Sedgwick Brown Line platform a few minutes later.

The CTA case is Pelt's 19th felony conviction in Illinois, according to state records. His first prison sentence was a six-year term for robbery in 1983. Since then, he has been convicted of narcotics, theft, aggravated battery, burglary, and attempted robbery.

Boys, ages 13 and 15, robbed and carjacked five victims

Two boys, ages 13 and 15, are charged with participating in a series of armed robberies and carjackings in Logan Square on April 5, Chicago police said. At least seven people reported being robbed by two carloads of attackers who circled the area for about an hour, and police said between six and eight offenders were involved in some of the crimes.

On April 5, members of CPD's Vehicular Hijacking Task Force arrested two of them in the 4300 block of W. West End Ave., police said.

The teens are accused of being part of the group that carjacked a 38-year-old man as he walked to his Ford Fusion in the 2100 block of N. Whipple at 5:59 a.m.

A few minutes later, they were allegedly involved in robbing a 55-year-old man in the 2600 block of W. Altgeld. Police said three vehicles blocked an intersection and tried to rob the driver, who lives nearby. The man locked his car door, and the crew fled the scene empty-handed, according to CPD.

They were among six attackers who used two cars to box in a 53-year-old man as he sat in his car in the 2700 block of N. Mozart at 6:14 a.m. The group opened the man's car door, punched him in the face, robbed him, and ordered him out of the vehicle. He complied, and they drove away with his car.

At 6:30 a.m., about eight attackers pushed a 27-year-old man to the ground and beat him in the face on the 2600 block of W. Cortland, a CPD spokesperson said. The crew, including the two teens who were later arrested, took the victim's property and escaped in two cars.

Around the same time, a 50-year-old man was allegedly attacked by the boys and up to six other males who exited two cars in the 1800 block of N. Talman. They hit the man in the head with an object, took his valuables, and fled in the vehicles.

Chicago police said both boys are charged with two counts of vehicular hijacking, two counts of robbery, and one count of attempted robbery. The 13-year-old is also charged with felony counts of unlawful possession of a debit or credit card and criminal damage to government property.

Police said the 15-year-old also had an outstanding warrant, which suggests he has other criminal matters pending in the juvenile justice system.

Two men sought after Red Line passenger is robbed near Morse CTA station

Chicago police are trying to identify these men in connection with a robbery aboard the Red Line near Morse.

Mass transit detectives need help identifying two men who Chicago police say robbed a passenger at knife-point on the Red Line. It happened on a northbound CTA train near Morse around 3 p.m. April 4.

Police said one of the men in these CTA surveillance images “verbally confronted” the victim while sitting across from him on the train. When the victim responded, the second man threatened him with a knife and took his backpack and phone, according to a bulletin released by CPD on April 9.

The victim exited the train at Morse to get help, but the two men continued riding northbound, according to a related police report.

Anyone with information about the suspects can call detectives at 312-745-4706. The case number is JG-210840.

Accidental firearm discharge inside Uptown classroom results in probation for boy's mom

The mother of an 8-year-old boy who took her gun to school and accidentally fired it in a classroom last year has been sentenced to 24 months of probation. Tatanina Kelly, 29, received the sentence after pleading guilty to child endangerment before Judge Megan Goldish, according to court records.

Last May, officials said that Kelly's son took a 9-mm Glock from under her bed and took it to class at Walt Disney Magnet School, 4130 N. Marine Dr. The gun fired as the boy showed it to a classmate, and a bullet ricocheted off the floor, causing graze wounds to a 7-year-old boy's stomach area and upper lip, according to a CPD report documenting the incident.

Prosecutors said Kelly is licensed to own firearms.

“Anytime we see a gun coming into our schools it's very troubling, especially when it's an elementary school,” Chicago Public Schools CEO Pedro Martinez Martinez told the Sun-Times. “It was in a backpack, so it wasn't that it was somebody trying to purposely use the gun in some way.”

During a bail hearing last May, Judge Michael Hogan remarked, “We are inches away, possibly centimeters away, from a very different case and a very different tragedy.”

Hogan called the incident a “supremely negligent act.”

We have filed Freedom of Information Act requests with several city departments for records related to the incident. The Office of Emergency Management and Communications refused to provide the 911 call that brought first responders to the scene. The agency relented after the Illinois Attorney General's office ruled that their refusal to release the materials was in violation of state law.

Businessman shoots burglar at Lincoln Square tobacco shop

A smoke shop employee shot a would-be burglar who tried to break into the Lincoln Square business after closing time April 9, officials said.

Chicago police officers who responded to calls of a person shot in the 4700 block of N. Talman around 11:45 p.m. found an 18-year-old man with gunshot wounds to his legs. The man initially told officers that someone shot at him from a black car.

But officers said the man clammed up after police received another 911 call about a burglary attempt at a business in the 2600 block of W. Lawrence Ave. Police determined that a 40-year-old man inside the business shot the 18-year-old, who was trying to enter through the back door, according to a CPD media statement.

A CWBChicago reporter saw a bicycle lying in the alley behind Big Lou's Tobacco Shop, 2617 W. Lawrence Ave., as police spoke with someone outside the store.

The 18-year-old was taken to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center in fair condition with gunshot wounds to both legs. He is in police custody as detectives investigate the shooting, the CPD statement said.

Federal prosecutors charge four men with armed robbery, carjacking spree

A federal grand jury has indicted four Chicago men on carjacking, gun, and other charges for a string of robberies they allegedly committed last fall. Two of the men were previously charged in state court, and at least one of them recently served prison time for similar crimes.

Damandre Henley, 25, Dwight Hasberry, 29, Tyler Oates-Nelson, 27, and Devario McDowell, 21, are all charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States, carjacking, interfering with commerce by force or threat, and gun charges. Cook County prosecutors charged Hasberry and Henley with some elements of the crimes in October.

The federal complaints accuse the men of carjacking a 21-year-old man late on Sept. 28 in the 1400 block of W. Erie. Chicago police said the victim was sitting in his black Volkswagen Tiguan when a group of masked men walked up to his car

Jazz jam session taking root at Borelli's in Lincoln Square

There is a hot new weekly jazz scene growing in Lincoln Square, with shows every Monday night. That jam session started in Nov. 2022, and is now getting noticed by fans from around the region.

Every Monday at Borelli's, 2124 W. Lawrence Ave., at 7:30 p.m., the Tom Muellner jazz trio and different guest artists take the stage for a jazz performance.

After the initial set, the evening moves onto a jazz jam session with some of Chicago's best sitting in to perform.

The house band is Muellner on piano, Phil Gratteau (drums) and Rob Kassinger (bass). All three are stalwarts on the Chicago jazz scene. (Kassinger is also long-time bassist with the CSO.)

Jam sessions are part of the long, rich history of jazz music. Whether in Chicago, New York, New Orleans or Kansas City, jam sessions typically happen on Monday nights when the professionals are not working.

The main North Side jam session had been hosted at the Serbian Village, 3144 W. Irving Park Rd., for about 15 years, when just before Halloween 2022 the owner said he was selling the building.

That left the Chicago jam session without a home.

That's when jazz fan Chris Carani spoke with Mark Borelli - owner of Borelli's Pizza - and on Nov. 21, 2022, the session officially moved to its new home Lincoln Square.

while brandishing firearms.

They ordered him out, and one of the men went through his pockets and found the victim's handgun in a sweater pocket, police said. After losing his gun to the robbers, the man took his child from the back seat of his car before the hijackers drove away with it.

About 30 minutes later, the men arrived in the carjacked Volkswagen at 7-Eleven, 2900 W. Montrose, officials said.

Henley, who was paroled in late August for two armed robberies, allegedly grabbed the store's clerk by his shirt and took him to an office where he asked for money. But state prosecutors said the victim does not speak English well, and he tried to explain that there was no money in the office.

Henley tapped him on the forehead twice with a handgun, then led him to the register, state officials said. The clerk opened the registers as Henley and Hasberry held guns to him. Meanwhile, one of the other men loaded liquor and cigarettes into the bags and boxes.

Prosecutors said Henley then led the victim back to the office, where he pistol-whipped him, causing him to fall to the floor with a head wound.

About 20 minutes later, Chicago police located the hijacked Volkswagen on the West Side and took Henley and Hasberry into custody.

Federal records said the FBI suspects the four men were responsible for two more street robberies and six carjackings that day.

In 2018, Oates and another man were charged with robbing two 7-Eleven stores in Lincoln Park. At the time, Chicago police said the duo's getaway car had been taken in an armed carjacking. A cop at the scene when Oates was arrested said the vehicle was "filled" with 7-Eleven merchandise. Oates pleaded guilty in 2019 and received two concurrent six-year sentences. He is still on parole for those convictions.

Man shot after fishing at North Side park

A 23-year-old man was shot as he returned to his car after fishing at a North Side park on April 5.

The victim and his younger brother were returning to their car in the 3100 block of W. Carmen when several men approached them around 10:30 p.m. Police said at least one man in the group began shooting, and one round struck the victim in the face.

Investigators found bullet holes in the victim's car and shell casings lying on Carmen Ave., just west of River Park.

The group of men ran from the scene after the shooting, police said. No arrests have been made.

Chicago police said the man is in critical condition at St. Francis Hosp.

Why on Irving Park Rd?

Letter writer Roger Weissenberg makes insightful comments (April 4) about the merits of speed cameras. He correctly noted that the cameras do not target specific groups; rather only speeders.

However, one camera nearby my home in Lakeview seems to defy any logic. I would be interested to hear a city official explain why cameras are posted on Irving Park Rd. between Clark St. and Sheridan Rd.? Specifically, what is the need for speed cameras on that stretch of Irving with Wunders Cemetery on the south side and Graceland on the north?

Fair enough; I have been nailed with tickets for "speeding" there at least two or three times. So, since I'm fully familiar with consequences of going over 35 mph, a case can be made I should shut up and slow down. But I'm nonetheless curious to learn why the cameras were posted. Is there somehow a danger to deceased folks being struck by a speeder?

Defining moments

With the election now over how will future history, civics, and political science classes discuss and analyze both the 2019 and the 2023 mayoral contests?

The most significant moments of both have to do with words and body language. In 2019 a little known federal prosecutor in a debate, Lori Lightfoot, sternly looked at her opponent and asked: "Why are you in bed with Ed Burke?"

That question and the way it was delivered was a defining moment for the election.

Just a few days before the 2023 election over 4,000 people attended a Brandon Johnson rally held on the U of I campus. Among those speaking with Johnson included Bernie Sanders and Martin Luther King III. A beaming Johnson personified optimism and confidence for the two hour affair. He and Sanders twice walked hand in hand on the stage while alternately thrusting their arms in the air while smiling and laughing.

MLK III dramatically reminded the audience that the coming election would be held on the anniversary of his father's assassination. Johnson and Sanders delivered passionate, enthusiastic, and rousing speeches. The words delivered by these progressive speakers, and their positive and confident body language, was a defining moment for the election and an event that Paul Vallas had been "bracing" for.

Classes discussing these two elections in the future will make note of these significant and strong election highlights.

The Lakeview Roscoe Village Chamber of Commerce is hosting their 2023 Aldermanic Business Forum 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. Thursday, May 11, at the Peace School, 3121 N. Lincoln Ave. This forum is an opportunity to learn more about how the city is working with local business and ask elected officials questions. Expected to attend are aldermen Scott Waguespack [32nd], Bennet Lawson [44th] and Matt Martin [47th].

Registration is required for this event, to RSVP visit https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSc0lQLcnIupi6cwmUI1INTSjrb4wdLqBUXFBy-7g5GDg_KBA/viewform.

SOFTBALL from p. 5

we are required to fit the games into a 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. time slot,” Kwiat said. “We are being squeezed on both field availability and game time. It is impossible to play two 7-inning softball games in an hour and a half, even starting with a one-and-one ball-strike count,” said Kwiat, a veteran player for the “Bad Apples,” the current league champion.

Grant Park officials told the league it could book July 11 for rainouts and makeups, and July 18 for playoffs, but they had to shut down by July 19 and get out because the fields had to be prepared for the Lollapalooza event on Aug. 3 to Aug. 5.

Each team in the advertising league, including Leo Burnett, BBDO, Foot Cone, Fleishman Hillard and the Publicist Group pays the park a $120 reservation fee for diamonds and bases.

The league hires and pays its umpires $45 a game, and buys its own Clincher softballs in bulk at about $16 each. The $1,200 per team registration fee includes a season-ending league party at a North Side saloon.

Impossible parking is another issue at Grant Park, especially with the NASCAR race and giant concert events. Imagine parking for $20 in a Wabash St. garage and lugging bats, balls, bases and coolers two blocks to the fields at Columbus Dr. and Balbo Ave.

Time for Mike Royko Field?

Pulitzer-prize winning newspaper columnist Mike Royko, who was inducted into the Chicago 16-Inch Softball Hall of Fame in 2000, played hundreds of games at Grant Park between 1974 and 1983. Royko won many championships while promoting softball, managing and pitching for the HOF Chicago Daily News and Sun-Times teams in the Industrial League.

After Royko passed into softball heaven in 1998, in his honor the Chicago Park District created the Mike Royko Softball Tournament, which was played at Grant Park for more than a decade.

Now, 25 years after Royko’s death, Robert Egan, a HOF Sun-Times player and manager, whose elite team was a five-time Royko Tournament champion at the park in 2001, 2002, 2006, 2007 and 2009, wonders—along with many of his teammates—why the historic diamonds are not renamed “Mike Royko Field”?

That suggested future honor for Mike Royko and his family—complete with a City Council proclamation and installation of Chicago's oldest museum to be able to afford to own a home in the city that we love and serve. We should feel safe and supported by our employer," said Jessy Rose Williams, an exhibit fabricator/technician who's also an organizing committee member. "In our union we can make things better for ourselves and for the public."

Upon winning their union election, Nature Museum employees will be certified, and CASWU will represent nearly 50 employees who work in the museum's guest experience and engagement, education, biology or collections departments.

AFSCME is the largest union for cultural workers nationwide, including more than 10,000 museum workers at more than 90 cultural institutions in the public and private sectors, and more than 25,000 library workers at 275 public and private libraries.

"Cultural work is work, and all work must have dignity," AFSCME Council 31 Executive Director Roberta Lynch said.

The CAS was founded in 1857 by a group of nature lovers and amateur scientists who wanted a space to study and share the specimens they collected. The academy became Chicago's first cause of rent control, there likely will be an economic dark side, experts say.

Landlords eventually could cut back on maintaining their buildings causing deterioration, followed by lower rents to fill vacancies and higher evictions for low-credit nonpaying tenants.

Higher rents ultimately are the result of decisions made by property owners based on county tax assessors, taxing bodies, utility companies, legislators and increased maintenance costs.

INSIDE PUBLICATIONSHarold Washington College to unveil new mural of Chicago's first Black Mayor*New eight-foot by 40-foot mural revealed April 13

In 2022, Harold Washington College celebrated the 100th birthday of its namesake, and Chicago's first Black Mayor — Harold Washington — with plans for a new mural commissioned by artist Judith Mayer. The mural hopes to create a visual piece that would capture the spirit and essence of the former mayor.

The Loop college will present the official unveiling of a new eight-foot by 40-foot mural at 11a.m. Thursday, at 30 E. Lake St., showcased on the heels of his 101st birthday.

Some 16 different colors of paint were used, and about 43 volunteers helped to paint the mural including Harold Washington College students, faculty, staff and administrative leaders. The painting took several weeks and dozens of hours to complete.

"Mayor Washington's breathtaking 40-foot mural is complete and on behalf of our entire family, we are thrilled," said Karen Stone, niece of Harold Washington. "The bigger than life tribute rivals our Uncle Harold's altruistic personality [as an] active crowning glory to his legacy through education and inclusivity. He was a unifier and the mural and its messages to Chicago are now more important today than ever before."

Mayor Washington was a historic and significant municipal leader. The political environment at that time was racially charged but despite that, Washington was elected in Feb. 1983 and served until his death on Nov. 25, 1987.

"Harold Washington College core values closely align with the late Mayor's vision of a unified and better Chicago and we hope this mural captures his work in government, and his charismatic personality," said President Daniel Lopez, Harold Washington College. "He broke barriers and inspired generations to lead and that's why we are proud that his image and the entire work of art graces the walls of our college."

Following the film, there will be a group discussion led by a guest speaker.

The Big Sick is a romantic comedy based on the real-life courtship of Chicago comedian Kumail Nanjiani, and his wife Emily Gordon.

Free parking is available on Schreiber Ave. just south of the station, and parking restrictions will temporarily be lifted during the event. Medical interpreter / translators needed

Due to the large numbers of foreign migrants arriving in Chicago, the Heartland Alliance has launched a medical interpreter training program. This course is free to eligible participants and is a first step to prepare for work as an interpreter. Participants can complete this independent medical interpreting course with support provided by Heartland Alliance.

New enrollees need to be completely fluent in both languages they will use for interpreting. Students and practitioners will learn to understand the basics of interpreting, and help comprehending the ethics of interpreting.

The course materials are in English, and the training is done completely online and independent.

Basic computer skills are necessary as participants will need to navigate through the online materials independently. No medical experience is needed.

For more information, contact Dionn McDonald at 708-943-8664 or dimcdonald@heartlandalliance.org.

Lineups for three of the city's most iconic music festivals

The City of Chicago has announced the lineups for three of Chicago's most beloved free music festivals taking place at the start of summer.

The Chicago Gospel Music Festival starts June 3 in Millennium Park. This year's lineup features Choir Nation opening for multiple Grammy Award winners Karen Clark Sheard and Tye Tribbett on the Jay Pritzker Pavilion stage.

The Chicago Blues Festival is June 8 through 11 in Millennium Park will include four-time Grammy winners Los Lobos; Blind Boys of Alabama, will perform with two-time Grammy winner, Bobby Rush; multi award-winning artist and eldest son of Muddy Waters, Mud Morganfield; three of Chicago's own living Blues legends John Primer & The Real Deal Blues Band, Lil' Ed & The Blues Imperials, and the Jimmy Burns Band; B.B. King Entertainer Suga-ray Rayford, and many more.

Guests will enjoy a Blues-inspired food and drink pop-up in the Park, titled "Wally's BBQ Pitt", in addition to a large-scale, historic Blues photography installation.

The Chicago House Music Festival and Conference is June 23, at the Chicago Cultural Center; and June 24 at the Humboldt Park Boathouse. Chicago's favorite dance party will take over the Humboldt Park Boathouse lawn, celebrating the genre born in Chicago that has gone on to revolutionize dance music internationally.

The House conference also returns to the Chicago Cultural Center, June 23, with panel discussions relating to the culture, art, and business of House Music. As part of additional programming citywide throughout the weekend, the festival brings local DJs to spin at the historic Maxwell Street Market, June 25, noon to 2 p.m.

Among the local police districts that CWBChicago monitors closely, the Lincoln (20th) District is the worst-performing area this year. Major crime reports in the area, which includes much of Uptown, Lincoln Square, and Edgewater, are up 74% compared to last year and 93% compared to 2019. A persistent problem with business burglaries is combining with auto thefts to drive numbers up.

The best performer? That's the Central 1st District, which includes the Loop and South Loop. Major crime reports are up just 1% this year, thanks to a tempering of auto theft reports and declines in burglary and robbery. Longer-term performance, though, is not as good. Crime this year is up 155% compared to 2021 and 35% compared to 2019.

Here are links to the latest CompStat reports for Chicago police districts in our primary coverage area: Central 1st District is up 1% — Roughly the area between the lake, the river, and 31st Street. Near North 18th District is up 11% — The area between the lake, the river, and Fullerton. It includes Streeterville, the Magnificent Mile, River North, the Gold Coast, Old Town, and the south end of Lincoln Park.

Town Hall 19th District is up 43% — The area between the lake, the river, Fullerton and Lawrence. Town Hall includes Lakeview, North Center, the north end of Lincoln Park, the south end of Uptown, and the south end of Lincoln Square.

Lincoln 20th District is up 74% — The Mental health: Know the warning signs

BY BOB KITSOS

A mental illness is a condition that affects a person's thinking, feeling, behavior or mood. These conditions deeply impact day-to-day living and may affect the ability to relate to others.

According to the National Alliance on Mental Health [NAMI], one in five U.S. adults experience mental illness each year and one in 20 U.S. adults experience serious mental illness each year. One in six U.S. youth aged 6-17 experience a mental health disorder each year.

About half of all lifetime illness begins by age 14 and 75% by age 24. In 2019-2020, almost 21% of adults were experiencing a mental illness. That's the equivalent to over 50 million Americans.

Each specific illness has its own symptoms, but some common signs of mental illness in adults and adolescents can include excessive worrying or fear, confused thinking or problems concentrating and learning, and avoiding friends and social activities.

Other common signs are changes in sleeping habits or feeling tired and low-energy, changes in eating habits such as increased hunger or lack of appetite, the inability to carry out daily activities or handle daily problems, and thoughts of suicide.

Diagnosis, treatment

NAMI advises that knowing warning signs can help let individuals know if they need to speak to a professional. For many people, getting an accurate diagnosis is the first step in a treatment plan. Unlike diabetes or cancer, there is no medical test that can accurately diagnose mental illness.

After diagnosis, a health care provider can help develop a treatment plan that could include medication, therapy or other lifestyle changes. Treatments for mental illness vary by diagnosis and by person. Treatment options can include medication, counseling, (therapy), social support and education.

According to the prestigious Cleveland Clinic the risk of mental illness increases for individuals who use alcohol or recreational drugs and don't get proper nutrition. Other factors include a family history of behavioral health disorders, a sleep disorder, a traumatic brain injury or extreme stress.

Andrew Scull, a professor of sociology and science studies at UC San Diego and an expert on the history of mental illness, said, "If matters are to improve, we need to develop a multifaceted approach to understanding and dealing with the problems posed by serious mental illness. This requires a major commitment to housing, supporting and sheltering people who are incapable, for the most part, of providing for themselves. It means serious engagement with research about the best ways to provide these services."

tal health issues. Her background includes counseling in residential, community mental health, hospitals and private practice.

"I hope to aid in providing quality and accessible healthcare to those in the community that otherwise may not be provided to see a clinician long term," Pertiller said. "Being immersed in this community offers me insight and understanding into the culture and specific needs that will positively impact rapport building and continuity of care."

"I feel that Danielle was a great choice because she knows our community well and has the experience to help patrons who are in crisis," Hazelden said.

Pertiller will be at the Edgewater Branch on Tuesdays from noon to 8 p.m. Counseling is available to anyone age 13 and older and all services are free to any Chicago resident. Appointments may be made by calling the Edgewater Branch at 312-742-1945 or the CPHP mental health resources line at 312-747-1020; walk-ins also are welcome.

area between the lake, the river, Lawrence, and Peterson. This includes Edgewater, the north ends of Uptown, and Lincoln Square.

Rogers Park 24th District is up 37% — The area between the lake, the North Shore Channel, Peterson, and the north city limits. It includes Rogers Park and West Ridge.

Albany Park 17th District is up 49% — The area between the river, Cicero and Belmont avenues, and the north city limits. Includes Albany Park, Irving Park, North Park, and the north end of Avondale.

Shakespeare 14th District is up 48% — The area between the River, Central Park, Belmont, and Division. It includes Logan Square, West Town, Bucktown, Wicker Park, and parts of Avondale and Humboldt Park.

Near West 12th District is up 46% — These boundaries are easier to see than to describe. In general, it's the area south of Division St. between the river and Western Ave. It includes parts of West Town and the Near West Side, much of the West Loop, Fulton Market, and Pilsen.

Jefferson Park 16th District is up 35% — West of Cicero, north of Belmont, with the city limits to the north and west. It includes Jefferson Park, Dunning, Portage Park, Norwood Park, Forest Glen, and O'Hare.
