Medi Marijuana industry needs recreational use

Dispensary 33 - Chicago offers locals safe environment, knowledgeable staff

BY BOB KITSOS

Dispensary 33 - Chicago is proud to stand as Chicago's first medical marijuana dispensary, according to co-owner Zachary Zises. Located at 5001 N. Clark St., the dispensary's focus from the beginning has been the use of top quality products and its patient's health and happiness.

Open since Dec. 2015, the dispensary serves about 1,100 patients. On average, about 65% of registered patients make a purchase in any given month.

For those who do not know, the "33" in their name is part of urban slang. It is a code-word for "weed" that can be used anywhere without

Sneak preview: projects on this year's 49th Ward Participatory Budgeting ballot

BY ALD. JOE MOORE
Special to News Star

We're entering the home stretch for this year's Participatory Budgeting Election where 49th Ward residents decide how to spend $1 million in tax money on ward improvement projects.

About 50 community representative volunteers worked over the past four months to narrow down all the ideas offered by neighbors at last November's neighborhood assemblies and other venues into a great set of proposals to improve our library and parks, replace trees and install new street lights.

On this year's ballot, residents will be asked to vote on the percentage of the ward's infrastructure budget that should be spent on street and alley resurfacing and sidewalk repairs. Then they will be asked to choose how to spend the remainder of the budget from among eight proposed neighborhood improvement projects.

Election day is Saturday, May 6, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Chicago Math and Science Academy, 7212 N. Clark St.

For those who prefer to vote early, early voting starts Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the 49th Ward Service Office, 7356 N. Greenview. The early voting will continue throughout the following two weeks at the Ward Service Office and other early voting sites. Look for future announcements of the early voting times and locations.

Residents will also be able to vote online from a home or office.

More details will be coming soon. Below are the proposed projects up for consideration:

1. More trees for Rogers Park: Plant 100 trees throughout the 49th Ward (estimated cost: $50,000).

2. Update Clark Streetlights: Repaint all light posts, install new energy efficient LED bulbs and attach ornamental piggy-back lighting to each light post on Clark Street from Albion to Howard (estimated cost: $150,000).

3. Benches and Picnic Tables: Install seven benches and two picnic tables in Loyola and Touhy Parks and Sherwin Beach (estimated cost: $45,000).

4. Water Feature at Langdon Park: Install a new water feature to allow for fun play and cooling off in the hot summer months (estimated cost: $150,000).

5. Pratt Bike Lane Extension: Provide striped bike lanes on Pratt from Clark to Ridge (estimated cost: $30,000).

6. Murals at Sullivan High School: Paint four murals at Sullivan High School on boards to be posted on school's exterior south wall (estimated cost: $19,200).

7. Heat Lamp Shelter with Benches at CTA Red Line stations: Install benches inside existing heat lamp shelters at Jarvis, Morse, and northbound Loyola platforms (estimated cost: $9,000 for three benches).

8. Learning Garden at Gale Academy: Install a "Learning Garden" at Gale Academy, designed to be an innovative model of urban outdoor education (estimated cost: $130,000).

The 'sad' State of the State

Cullerton offers bad news, more bad news and dire warnings

BY PATRICK BUTLER

The only people who should no longer care about the desperate straits Illinois finds itself in these days are those who have already fled.

Addressing an April 13 "State of the State" breakfast, Illinois Senate President John Cullerton told a group of local business and community leaders something everyone knew:

"This is going to be bad news and bad news," Cullerton warned the assemblage sponsored by the Lincoln Bend, Lincoln Square/Ravenswood and Northcenter chambers of commerce. "We still don't have a balanced budget after two years" and the effects are starting to be felt.

"High school counselors in Illinois are telling students not to go to the (state run) colleges and universities here because they might close," Cullerton said.

"We have the two worst-rated bonds of any state in the nation. We're two (points) short of junk bond status," he added.

"It's really something I don't think the general public is aware how urgent this is," he added.

"Currently the amount of tax money coming into the general revenue is $31.4 billion. Our expenses are $38.7 billion, so we're obligating ourselves to spend $7.3 billion more than we have. Right now, we owe about $13 billion to our vendors. And we're paying our vendors two years late," Cullerton said.

That state also has somewhere north of $130 billion in unfunded pension liabilities with no discernible plan to overcome those massive liabilities. As that money is not currently there to be invested, Illinois is losing the interest income it would otherwise gain on its pension investments. Those interest payments now total an estimated loss of $9.1 billion a year, or $25 million per day.

"Part of the proposed 'Grand Bargain' involves borrowing $7 billion to pay down a $13 billion debt, which costs us $1.7 billion a year to pay off that loan. If we don't do anything this year, we'll owe $24 billion next year," he said.

On top of that, many local communities like Chicago have government pension problems that are even more severe than the state's problems.

"We need to do something now," Cullerton warned, adding that with legislative elections coming up next year, "it's unlikely we'd have any tax increases then."

Joining Cullerton were two other Democratic lawmakers – State Sen. Heather Steans (7th) and State Rep. Greg Harris (13th) – who didn't have much good news either.

For the first time in memory, the state won't be able to expect much help from Uncle Sam or Illinois' own Gov. Bruce Rauner, Harris said.

"At a time when we're actually working on a (property) tax freeze for longtime homeowners, veterans and people with disabilities, we're trying to defend our state from changes in laws and regulations coming from Washington that would take away rights we've taken for granted for years," Harris said.

Illinois now has the second highest property taxes in the nation after New Jersey.

"We're also trying to end this hostage crisis in our schools, colleges and our safety net system," he added. "Two years ago this week the governor eliminated the autism program" and a lot of other programs.

"We called it the Good Friday massacre," he said. "We're working to find a way around this guy."

In the current economy "we know we have to make cuts, but every time we negotiate, the other side wants to make one more change, then two or three more changes," Steans said.

The stalemate between the democrat-controlled legislature and republican Gov. Rauner started almost from his first day in office.

In the meantime, more and more residents and businesses are moving out of state, the three agreed. Indeed Illinois is the only state in the Midwest now with a declining population. People are voting with their feet and leaving the dysfunction behind.

Both sides need to get serious, the local lawmakers warned.

One part of the solution is to make Illinois more "business friendly" by paying our bills on time, Cullerton noted, adding "the state has a bad reputation."

On the other hand, Illinois is doing some things right, said Cullerton, adding "We have an educated work force. Our state salaries are only about eight percent of our total budget. We have the nation's second lowest ratio of state employees per population."

"We just have to pay our bills on time," he added.

Listen to urban conversations run amok

By Thomas J. O’Gorman

Have you ever nailed your colors to the mast? Or sailed under false colors? Or pulled the wool over someone’s eyes or thrown down the gauntlet?

Well, if you have you’ve used some pretty swank military jargon from the past to do it. So descriptive are these terms, in fact, that they have become a common part of everyday English.

When you “nail your colors to the mast,” you have used an old naval term to declare that you will never surrender. Your flag cannot be lowered. Permanently placed for all to see. It’s been fixed in full view with a spike. You’re ferocious, and courageous, your intentions are clear. You will never give up. You can’t backdown.

“Sailing under false colors,” once again, has nautical roots. The only way you could tell to what nation a ship belonged was by the flag it flew. Devious sea captains could maneuver their frigates alongside their enemy by merely flying someone else’s flag. Such false flags have, ever since, opened the doors to liars, cheats, pirates and quick thinkers who might mask their true identities and cause mayhem. But it was also a way to escape plunder another day.

In olden days in England, the fashionable wigs worn by gentlemen during the 18th and 19th centuries were often elaborate, growing to towering proportions. Such wigs were a distinct liability at times, especially when you fought a duel. It was not very difficult for opponents in a sword fight to grab at the woolen wigs and pull them to obscure a foe’s sight and ability to fight. So dueling folk often discarded their wigs during combat. No one wanted their “wool pulled over their eyes.” Many were more comfortable bald than sightless.

And when knighthood was in flower, the code of chivalry demanded no knight could strike another outside the arena of combat. So a knight with a grievance was obliged to throw his gauntlet, his armored glove at the feet of his foe. Thus “throwing down his gauntlet” as a way of challenging his opponent to a duel of honor.

Military life and protection of one’s country was a full-time duty that was a part of life for many throughout history. So it is not unusual then for military terms to be popping up in the language of ordinary people.

Today it is normal to use such vocabulary. Like the one-eyed Admiral Lord Nelson, we can “turn a blind eye” to some business we have no interest in. Or when conditions go berserk and everything is falling apart, like frenzied Malaysian warriors known as Amoks, panded life by its ability to adapt through inclusion and evolving meaning. There is nothing comparable to the French Academy for us whose job is to root out new words that are not native in origin. We find significant bits and pieces of our history woven into the evolutionary richness of our language. This bucks us up and ensures that our language will continue to be a servant to our citizens.

We don’t speak the language of George Washington or Thomas Jefferson in quite the same way that they would have recognized. They would find our vocabulary much more fluid and peppery. They would likely be amazed at our regional accents and with the power of electronic broadcast media with its profound impact on our national culture. Americans are far less regional today than they used to be thanks to Cheers, Friends, CSI and reruns of Seinfeld.

Our language has grown to be colorful and expressive, giving room to many ethnic groups to make English their own. The massive waves of immigrants who have made America their home have also added poetic nuance and vibrant color to our vocabulary.

America is a unique land, a nation shaped by “blood, sweat and tears,” to use Sir Winston Churchill’s wartime term meaning everything the people can give. Immigrants arrived here and spread out finding the climate and conditions of the U.S. well-suited to their needs.

Chicago is a metropolis that prides itself on the configuration of our neighborhoods. Many communities have their own unique style and sound of speaking. Bridgeport on the South Side has its own unique cadence and accent. Words and phrases treasured by locals as the inheritance from ancestors arriving long ago from Ireland endure. Many continue the comforting sound of the familiar that has been a part of the vast laboring throng that dug the Illinois and Michigan Canal in the 1850s.

Surrounding communities still echo the sounds of the children of Eastern Europeans whose families first worked in the Stockyards and mills that made Chicago the capitol of the American heartland. Learning the language became the most critical achievement for any newcomer.

New waves of African Americans came to Chicago after World War I taking advantage of opportunities for employment offered in the railroads and other industries of expanding commerce. A new vocabulary carried with them from the South became a part of Chicago life.

The culture and idiom of Hispanic life has further expanded the urban vocabulary. Chicago’s ability to evolve and grow reflecting population change is critical and significant. It demonstrates the city’s capacity to thrive and endure, two elements of municipal vitality that ensures our humanity and civilized living.

This is no “flash in the pan,” or need to “go ballistic” or “go off half cocked.” Instead we need more confidence in the America that has opened its arms to the world. We should be more “Gung-Ho.” The future of Chicago is too important for us to “pass the buck.” No one wants a “pyrrhic victory.”

Chicago’s success comes from our ability to listen to the urban conversation and and the rhythmic vocabulary of its people. A language rich in the history of accommodation and hope from Rogers Park to Lincoln Park, from Ravenswood to the Gold Coast. Awash in the accents of urban American and the syntax of everyday life.

JOE MANTEGNA WAY: No Chicago actor has made the city prouder than Joe Mantegna, who gets an honorary street named for him at 4 p.m. on May 3. The star of the hit TV show “Criminal Minds,” and the Chicago classic theater production of “Bleacher Bums” back in 1979, Mantegna touches every base in show business. Rush Street’s Lyn McKeaney will salute her good buddy with a reception at River Shannon following the street sign’s unveiling.

IS THAT KOSHER?: Concerns are being expressed for the Loop Synagogue, a recent victim of vandalism. Now there is further concern over the dwindling congregation size. Some see it tied to a swing to the more orthodox traditions which seem to have replaced the busy, urban consciousness that was responsible for bringing in many savvy downtown corporate types who were hungry for some spiritual nourishment. Life was exciting in the more conservative community. Then, eight years ago, the more orthodox influenced Rabbi Sidney Kroll called in some orthodox financial assistance and formed a partnership of sorts. Very soon, orthodox synagogue traditions began to replace those that had been so much a part of the long-standing Loop Synagogue tradition. Some see this as the cause of the decline in the congregation’s numbers. Just when the residential make up of the Loop was growing, Rabbi Kroll retired last year, and in December the synagogue’s long-time president retired as well. There is a new president, a woman who recognizes the heartache of declining numbers. There is as yet no Rabbi. And there was no plan this year for Passover. And Rabbi Kroll is and we are said to “run amok.” That often happens when you encounter a ‘barrage of flak,’ like British pilots did in World War II on bombing missions from anti-aircraft guns better known as flak. So when you’re under attack and taking lots of criticism, the flak is thick. Sometimes you have no option but to “face the music,” and accept your punishment, as American and British military did when they were thrown out of the military and stood with the drums beating away.

Unlike other languages, English is infused with fresh words and ex-

Get yer ya-yas out at the Rolling Stones' "Exhibitionism"

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

Who says you can't always get what you want? I know I did at last week's media preview of the Rolling Stones' "Exhibitionism," an amazing display of the band's more than 50-year history running though July 30 at Navy Pier.

For every moment good and bad in my life, for as far back as I can remember, the music of the Rolling Stones has been there to soothe, inspire and heal me. They've been with me for better or for worse, through thick and thin, and in sickness and in health.

And as I struggle with dealing with battling breast cancer, a night of "Exhibitionism," is just what the doctor ordered. Because anyone who has been reading this column for a while knows that I'm more than just a fan, I'm a life-long, Rolling Stones freak. So being taken on a trip down Memory Lane was more than therapeutic as I stumble through my "19th Nervous Breakdown," (OK, it's really my first, not 19th) thanks to having cancer.

Albums covers and artwork abound at Exhibitionism.

Wandering from room to room was like walking decade by decade through my life.

"Exhibitionism," is the first time in history the band has unlocked their vast private archive exploring the very beginning of their history to their superstardom of today. The show allows fans to experience first-hand the band's incredible journey from their early days of living together in a London flat that Mick, Keith and Brian shared in 1962, to headlining the biggest stages in the world.

On display are more than 500 rare and original items from the band's legendary career, and they have been put together in an amazing manner. Walking in, there are about three dozen screens playing vintage videos from years gone by. From there on, each space in the exhibit is filled with extraordinary artifacts.

Wandering from room to room was like walking decade by decade through my life. Dozens and dozens of posters and pieces of artwork line the walls, including a series of Andy Warhol sketches and paintings of Mick Jagger. Albums sit in a display case, including the original "Some Girls" cover, which thankfully I still have my copy of. (The cover had female celebrities pictured but was later withdrawn due to legal issues when the women, which included Lucille Ball and Liza Minnelli, threatened to sue). At times I was silently kicking myself, if only I still had all my Rolling Stones paraphernalia, which included, among other things, a life-sized poster of Mick Jagger.

A guitar gallery brings together examples of some of Keith, Ronnie and Mick's prized instruments, including a rosewood Fender Telecaster and a Maton that Keith played on "Let It Bleed," which famously disintegrated as he reached the final notes of "Gimme Shelter." (Legend has it that during the recording of the song, the neck fell off of the guitar on the very last note). Very cool also was a 1963 Gibson Hummingbird belonging to Mick.

And a 1957 Gibson Les Paul custom guitar, hand-painted by Keith, told the following story next to it: "Yeah, I painted that. I was bored, waiting to go to jail. They'd come out with these paints, you know? Like a pen thing. A couple of dob, dob, dobs. Actually, I started with a pair of shoes and then went onto the guitar. I mean, I wouldn't have done this to a guitar if I hadn't known that the stuff was working. I did it first to a pair of white boots I had. And after I'd taken enough acid and finished the boots, -- 'Ok, what's next? The guitar.' It was a hell of a trip. But yeah, I certainly did personalize it, didn't I?"

From their most cherished instruments like the one whose tale Keith just told, to the onstage and offstage costumes/clothes, the valuable works of art and hand-written lyric books to personal diaries, recordings, unseen film and photos, the exhibit is a private peek into the world of the Rolling Stones. And I loved that there was a small mixing table, where you could pretend to be a pro and interactively mix songs like "Angie," and "Miss You."

I saw a recreation of a Stones' recording studio, complete with their original instruments, plus a backstage area to give fans a sense of what it feels like just before the band heads out on stage. There was a set of Charlie's drums, songs lists, fan club notes, sketches for album cover ideas, and the London flat set up was complete with garbage, dirty sheets, cigarette butts and all. I read Keith's diary from 1963. And as I walked through each room, Stones tunes were rocking and stories were being told by the band via speakers. And this is just a small sampling. There's so much more.

I completely agree with photographer Paul Natkin, who exclaimed of the show, "It's fantastic!" (Natkin, a Northsider who has been up close and personal with the band for the more than 40 years, has a photo exhibit called All Access on display with about 30 of his impressive Stones pictures. Look for it on Navy Pier's first level).

"Exhibitionism," is being produced locally by JAM Productions. "It's amazing that they started keeping artifacts early in their career," said JAM founder Jerry Mickelson, who saw the show in London and New York. "It's the greatest rock 'n' roll ever and you get to experience it through the years from the early days to now."

I think my favorite part was seeing the 70-plus costumes, which are colorful, flamboyant, and over-the-top. (I was pleasantly surprised to see an animal print shirt that I photographed Keith in hanging among them). Some of the capes and garb used for performances of "Sympathy for the Devil," had a video of the song playing as its backdrop, which made for a stunning visual.

Oh, and be sure to bring lots of cash because when you've finished your tour, there's a gift shop chockfull of awesome stuff, of course ranging in price from inexpensive to extremely expensive.

A colorful sampling of the more than 70 costumes.

A recreation of the London flat that Mick, Keith and Brian shared in 1962.

Cheapo me bought a Stones PEZ dispenser, an Exhibitionism pin and some tongue buttons, which were all like $8 each. But so many other items, including the $315 silk pajamas, were calling my name. If I were a rich man...

The exhibit fittingly ends with a 3D film of concert footage from an encore performance of "Satisfaction," and that's exactly what I got at "Exhibitionism." I needed an "Emotional Rescue," badly, and as they have for more than 50 years, the Stones provided that for me.

And I know, it's only rock 'n' roll but I can't help but like it. Don't miss this event. It's a gas, gas, gas.

Unexpected dip in home-loan rate sparks strong home sales

The Home Front

By Don DeBat

Strong home-buying demand and an unexpected dip in mortgage rates generated hefty existing housing sales in March, Realtors report.

Existing home sales in the seven-county Chicago metropolitan area jumped 14.8% to 9,556 units in March compared with March, 2016. The median sales price rose to $234,000, a gain of 10.4%, according to the RE/MAX Northern Illinois network.

A total of 21,584 homes were sold in the first quarter of 2017, a 5.6% gain over the same period last year. Sales data used by RE/MAX is collected by Midwest Real Estate Data, the regional multiple listing service.

"We expected a fairly robust early spring market, but the March results definitely surprised on the upside," said Jack Kreider, executive vice president and regional director of RE/MAX Northern Illinois.

"Mild winter weather certainly helped bring out buyers, as did an improving job market and the expected outlook for gradually rising interest rates," Kreider said.

An actual four-week dip in home-loan rates also likely played a role in the spike in home sales, experts say.

Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey reported that benchmark 30-year fixed home loans hit 4.08% on April 13 — a new low for 2017. Rates averaged 4.10% a week earlier. A year ago at this time, 30-year loans averaged 3.58%.

"Following a weak March jobs report, the 10-year Treasury yield dropped about five basis points," noted Sean Beckett, chief economist, Freddie Mac. "The 30-year mortgage rate fell two basis points to 4.08%. Not only did the average 30-year fixed-rate mortgage decline for the fourth consecutive week in our survey, it also fell to a new 2017 low."

Earlier, Metrostudy, a real estate research firm, reported that 6,800 newly constructed homes were sold in the Chicago area in 2016. That's a 13% increase over 2015, and a huge improvement over the 2007 through 2014 Great Recession period when new home construction virtually stopped. Some 36,000 new homes were built in 2006.

"March existing home sales were the highest they've been since 2006, and the same is true for total first-quarter sales, Kreider said. "I'm optimistic that the market can maintain this momentum at least through the second quarter."

Homes sold during March spent an average of 100 days on the market before going under contract, 10 days less than the prior March. For the entire quarter, average market time was 102 days, eight days faster than the same quarter last year.

March home sales activity rose in six of the seven metro counties, led by gains of 33.4% in McHenry, 25% in Will and 24.4% in Kane. Other gains were 17.9% in DuPage, 11.8% in Cook and 9.5% in Lake. Sales in Chicago were up 17.7%.

Sales of detached single-family homes in the metro Chicago area rose 15.8% in March to 5,994 units and 4.6% during the first quarter to 13,604 units.

The metro median sales price for March was $250,000, an 11.1% increase over March, 2016. Median prices rose 9.3% in the first quarter.

Single-family home sales activity and the median price rose in all seven counties in March, but it was Chicago that delivered especially strong results. Sales there rose 16.3% to 957 units, and the median price was up 14.6% to $235,000.

The market for condos, townhomes and co-ops was slightly more subdued in March than its detached-home counterpart due in part to an extremely low inventory of units for sale. Still, sales activity rose a robust 13.2% to 3,562 units, and the median sales price gained 5.3% to $195,000.

In Cook County, which accounted for 69% of attached sales, activity rose 11.2%, including an 18.5% increase in Chicago.

Lakeview Learning Center to be sold

The City Colleges of Chicago board has authorized selling the property housing the Lakeview Learning Center, 3300 N. Clark St., for $7 million to BlitzLake Partners, a private real estate acquisition and development firm.

The Center is an off-campus satellite of Harry S. Truman College in Uptown that offers adult education classes, including literacy and English as a second language. All of their programs will transfer to Truman College this Summer.

The sale was undertaken to help raise critically needed cash at a time of state budget cuts.

The lightly used 14,200 square foot Center is located in the white hot Wrigleyville real estate zone. Ever since the Cubs won the World Series last Fall interest in real estate near Wrigley Field has exploded.

City Colleges have not received over $70 million it had expected from the state during the past two years of this historic -- and embarrassing -- budget battle in Springfield. This fight also may result in Chicago Public Schools shutting down 20-days early. Yes, embarrassing.

German history on the North Side

One of first immigrant groups to establish themselves as a political force in Chicago

BY PATRICK BUTLER

Some of the old-timers still call it “German Town,” but its’ last vestiges are fading fast, says North Sider Joseph Heinen, author of “Germans in Chicago.”

While there’s still the DANK Haus cultural center at 4740 N. Western Ave. and eateries like Resi’s Bierstube, Laschet’s Inn and the relatively new Prost, Lincoln Ave. is no longer “Lincolnstrasse.”

Nevertheless, the folks who gave us the Easter Bunny or osterhase aren’t going away anytime soon, Heinen assured a recent Lake View Historical Assoc. event at the Sulzer Library, 4455 N. Lincoln Ave.

After all, few other ethnic groups have made as deep an imprint on Chicago’s political, economic and cultural scene, said Heinen, an artist and longtime Lincoln Square resident whose book was a companion piece to the DANK Haus’ “Lost German Chicago” museum exhibit featuring artifacts and newspaper clippings starting with the 1855 Beer Riot, Chicago’s first major protest.

There’s even a picture of Levi Boone, who became possibly the most unpopular mayor Chicago ever had when he shut down the saloons on Sundays and raised the cost of an annual liquor license to $300.

Of the 675 tavern owners in what was then still a relatively small town, 625 were owned either by Germans or Irish, said Heinen, noting that 200 saloonkeepers were tossed in the slammer for violating the new ordinance.

Not surprisingly, those Cromwellian laws were quickly repealed and Boone – a distant relative of the famed frontiersman – decided not to seek another term, Heinen added.

The Germans, meanwhile, established themselves as a political force to be reckoned with and went on to become solid backers of President Lincoln. During the Civil War, they formed more volunteers than any other ethnic group, he noted.

Monuments to German soldiers in both St. Boniface and Rosehill cemeteries on the North Side honor those “who fell fighting for their New Fatherland,” Heinen added.

After backing the Union cause, they went on to work for another kind of union, leading the charge for an eight-hour-work-day and decent pay, Heinen said.

But strangely enough, only one German-American – Fred Busse, elected in 1907 – ever became a Chicago mayor, even though they represented one fourth of the city’s population at that time,” he added, noting “the Germans were a fractious bunch.”

But they did leave their mark, Heinen added. “Michael Diversey, an Alsatian German, went into the brewing business and soon had the city’s largest brewery. He used part of his profits to help build St. Michael’s Church in Old Town and donated five acres of land to help build McCormick Theological Seminary at Halsted and Fullerton, now part of the DePaul Univ. campus.”

Ironically, we can thank German-American candy maker and onetime Confederate ferryboat crewman Charles Gunther for giving Chicago so many Lincoln treasures, including the bed our 16th president died on and the table Robert E. Lee signed the surrender papers effectively ending

Vintage Garage opens Sunday, offers season pass for ‘early birds’

Die hard vintage fans of Vintage Garage Chicago [VGC] can now buy a season pass that offers early bird access to all shows this year, including any pop-ups like the Holiday Market and their new Chicago Vintage Clothing & Jewelry Show.

The VGS season kicks off this Sunday with their biggest show of the year.

VGC is literally a parking garage -- at 5051 N. Broadway -- in Uptown. Each month 75 to 100 vendors of vintage and antique goods set up on the first three levels, and ramps, of the structure.

It’s covered, so vendors don’t need tents and customers won’t get rained on.

All categories are represented: vintage clothing, art, jewelry, vintage furniture, home decor, Midcentury modern, lots of 1940’s through 1980’s, vintage lighting, industrial decor, vintage music, and vinyl records. Most items you find are at least 25-years-old. From noon to 4 p.m. VGC does verbal evaluations on vintage items.

Vintage fans can buy their season pass online and pick up at the will call table at the front gate starting at 9 a.m. at the season opener Sunday. Visit www.vintagegaragechicago.com/seasonpass/. There will only be 150 season passes sold this season.

Police Beat....

Bold burglar at work on far North Side
A brazen burglar has recently broken into two Rogers Park residences while his victims were present, police said.
The offender has entered through the front door and taken money, credit cards, keys, and other valuables while occupants of the homes were steps away, according to an alert from Area North investigators.
One incident was reported at 10:55 p.m. on March 29 in the 2400 block of W. Morse Ave. and another occurred in the 6800 block of N. Kedzie at 7:10 p.m. on April 4.
Only one of the victims caught a glimpse of the burglar, who is described as a male of unknown race who stands about 5'9" tall and weighs between 140 and 170 lbs. He was wearing a black hoodie and black pants at the time of the incident, police said.

River North car-jacking
A parking attendant acted quickly and tried to prevent a carjacking at his lot in River North but was outvoted by the carjacker's knife.
No one was injured but a 2014 Mercedes-Benz ML350 was taken from Mid-City Parking on W. Huron St.
The incident happened on March 20. At 4:48 p.m., a 53-year-old woman was getting into her car when a man approached from behind and shouted "gimme your keys" three times. According to Chicago police, she threw a water bottle at him and, fearing for her life, gave him her keys.
The 49-year-old parking attendant, who police did not identify, heard the woman screaming and saw the man get into the Mercedes. The attendant opened the door on the front passenger side and tried to take the keys out of the ignition but the carjacker pulled out a knife and tried to stab the attendant. He jumped out and the man with the knife drove away with the vehicle.
He turned west onto Huron St., south on Orleans St., and took the Ohio Feeder Ramp toward the Kennedy Expy.
Also taken was an Apple MacBook Pro in a Tumi briefcase.
A witness who was walking west on Huron St. told police the carjacker jumped over a fence, stood between two parked cars, and watched the victim walk to her car.
The suspect is described as a male black, 6'-2" tall, 175 lbs., and 30 to 45 years old.

Armed robberies of taxi drivers
Police have warned about a rash of armed robberies that occurred on the North Side. In these robberies, the victims (taxi drivers) picked up the offender as a fare and once at the destination the offender announced a robbery by placing the victims in a headlock and placing what the victim believed to be a handgun to their head demanding money in two instances and producing a large knife in the other.
The offender took money and cellphones from the victims.
Incident times and locations include on the 2000 block of W. Webster on April 14, at 1:25a.m.; the 3500 block of W. Melrose on April 14, at 3 a.m. and 3:20 a.m., and on the 3700 block of N. Clark on April 15, at 1:20 a.m.
The offender is described as a male Hispanic, 5'-7 to 5'-9 tall, 150-160 lbs., clean shaven, wearing a black baseball cap, black hooded sweatshirt, and blue jeans.
Anyone with information on these robberies are asked to call police at 312-744-8263 and Alert #P17-N-090(CA).

Nine years for robbing, beating cabbie with bike lock
A Near North Side man has been sentenced to prison for his role in an armed robbery that left a taxi driver beaten with a bike lock in Lincoln Park.
Steven Meadows, 29, was sentenced to nine years for armed robbery and five years for aggravated battery with a deadly weapon. The sentences will be served concurrently, and Meadows is scheduled to be paroled after he serves 50% of his sentence in March 2021.
Detectives used the taxi cab's surveillance video to identify Meadows as the man who repeatedly struck the cabbie in the head with a bike lock while an accomplice held a gun to the victim's head in the 2100 block of N. Lincoln on Aug. 21, 2016, according to court documents.
Court records show that the alleged accomplice was never charged.

Boystown: man robs third North Side bank in 21 days

Suspect

A robber held up his third North Side bank in three weeks the afternoon of April 14, according to the FBI.
The man walked into the East Lakeview Jewel-Osco, 3531 N. Broadway around 3:30 p.m. and presented a robbery note to a teller at the TCF Bank branch that's located inside.
Witnesses said he fled from the store and jumped into a taxi cab heading north on Broadway.
The FBI describes the offenders as a white man between 25- and 35-years-old, 6' tall, 190 lbs. with blonde facial hair. He was wearing a gray hoodie and khaki pants during Friday's hold-up.
The same man robbed the TCF Bank inside of the Jewel-Osco store at 2940 N. Ashland on March 30 and the TCF Bank located inside of the Jewel-Osco store at 4355 N. Sheridan on March 24, the FBI said.
A reward is being offered for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of the robber. Tips can be shared with the Chicago FBI office at 312-421-6700.

Three years for burglarizing neighbor
A Lincoln Park man received a three-year prison sentence after pleading guilty to burglarizing his neighbor's apartment last year.
Brian Bieler, 38, broke into his neighbor's apartment in the 800 block of W. Lill on Sept. 7 and admitted to the crime during an interview with detectives three weeks later, according to court records.
His parole date had not been established at press time.

Two shot in separate Uptown incidents
A 26-year-old man was shot in the leg Thursday afternoon, moments after getting kicked out of the Uptown McDonald's at 1004 W. Wilson. He is in good condition.
The victim is a documented gang member, convicted felon, and drug dealer who is known to the neighborhood, according to a source.
McDonald's management barred the man from the restaurant's property due to his conduct, but he returned April 13 around 3 p.m. After a security guard asked the man to leave, he stepped outside and was shot.

Less than a month ago, the man was charged with being a felon in possession of a firearm, Category I armed violence, and manufacture-delivery of cocaine in Uptown. He is free on bond.
Then, around 11:55 p.m. on Saturday, a 15-year-old boy suffered a gunshot wound to his face in the 4400 block of N. Racine, police said.
Witnesses said the gunman fled with three other individuals into a building on the same block.
The victim was transported by a relative to Weiss Hospital where his condition was stabilized.

Garage burglaries in Lakeview
Chicago police are warning citizens of an increase in garage burglary incidents that have occurred in Lakeview during March and April. In these incidents, offender(s) used unlawful entry and removed personal property, specifically bicycles. Incident times and locations include: 2000 block of W. Warner Ave. on March 17, 2017 at approximately 9:00 a.m., 3700 Block of N. Hermitage Ave. on March 22, 2017 between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.; one the 4000 block of N. Western Ave. on March 30/31, between 6 p.m. and 5:00 a.m.; the 1400 block of W. Henderson St. on April 9/10, between 7:30 p.m. and 7:00 a.m.; on the 3100 block of N. Orchard St. on April 9/10, between 9:30 p.m. and 11:30 a.m.; and on the 4100 block of N. Greenview Ave. between 9 a.m. April 7, and 9 a.m. April 11.

One in custody after Lakeview sexual assault
Alexander Carter, 46, of the 200 block of W. 47th St., is in custody after a 23-year-old Lakeview woman reported being sexually assaulted and robbed early Sunday by Carter, whom she says she met in a bar.
The woman was attacked in an apartment in the 500 block of W. Oakdale around midnight by the man that she had reportedly met recently.
After the rape, Carter fled with valuables, including the woman's cellphone. She used a neighbor's phone to call police minutes later.
Cops followed the phone's pings to the Englewood neighborhood and took an offender into custody after a short foot chase in the 5500 block of S. LaSalle around 1:20 a.m.
The victim's phone was recovered from the suspect, police said.
Carter has been charged and is now being held in Central Bond Court.

Partiers wrestle, disarm gunman after Lakeview shooting Charges have been filed in connection with a shooting at a late-night house party in the 2900 block of N. Sheffield on Sunday.
James C. Warren IV, 24, of the Auburn Gresham neighborhood is charged with attempted murder and aggravated battery with a firearm, according to court records.
A judge set his bail at $800,000.
Witnesses told police that Warren was asked to leave a party that was being held in an apartment at 2943 N. Sheffield around 1:15 a.m. Sunday.
Warren left, returned with a gun, and shot a 21-year-old man in the legs before bystanders wrestled the weapon away and held Warren for police, according to records.
The victim was reported in serious condition at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center yesterday.
Warren was treated and released from Presence St. Joseph's Hospital after receiving a head injury during a fight for control of the gun, police said.
Two shell casings were recovered at the scene along with one live round that witnesses removed from the weapon before police arrived, according to a source.

Letter to the EditorPaying attention to boundaries

Barbara Byrd-Bennett, former Chicago Public Schools CEO, is facing a possible seven-plus-year prison sentence because of her kickback crime of several years ago. Her situation is as pathetic as it was preventable. What a superb role model she might have made.

She took money from firms that her former employers owned and to whom she sent no-bid contracts for business.

Regardless of the details in her lamentable debacle, one is reminded yet again of the following age-old profound wisdom: If one does not pay meticulous, scrupulous attention to one's boundaries (whether personal, political, professional, occupational, or other), all relationships will be ruined.

POLICE from p. 6

The shooting was Lakeview’s first of the year.

Warren is due back in court on April 24.

Man charged with weekend robbery, beating in Boystown

A Valparaiso, IN, man repeatedly punched a 22-year-old man and stole the victim’s wallet and other items this weekend in Boystown, prosecutors said.

Delonte Sawyer, 19, battered and robbed the Humboldt Park man in the 800 block of W. Roscoe St. around 1:30 a.m. on Saturday, according to charges.

Malik Brewer, 21, of the South Side’s New City neighborhood is charged with battery in the case.

Police arrested Sawyer and Brewer after the victim’s friend notified police that the two had fled into the Belmont Red Line CTA station.

Brewer is less than a year into a three-year probation sentence that he received after pleading guilty to two burglaries last May—one in the 1100 block of W. Oakdale and another in the 1500 block of N. Hudson, according to court records.

Lakeview hold-up

A Lakeview woman told police that she was robbed at knifepoint in the 3900 block of N. Broadway around 9 p.m. Sunday.

The offender pulled out a knife and took the victim’s credit cards, cash, keys, and Firearm Owner’s Identification Card, according to the police report.

He is described as a 5’-11” tall black man who was wearing a black hoodie and denim jeans.

19th District Police staffing still 18% below promised level

When city officials announced that the 19th and 23rd police districts would be merged in Oct., 2011, they promised that there would be no reduction in officers on the street and no cutbacks in service.

Despite those promises from Mayor Rahm Emanuel to aldermen Tom Tunney [44th], James Cappleman [46th], Michele Smith [43rd], and Ameya Pawar [47th] and their communities, the joined district’s staffing level remains 18% lower than before the merger.

The merged 19th District spans from Fullerton to Lawrence avenues and from the Chicago River to Lake Michigan.

While that area was protected by 468 cops in Oct. 2011, only 384 officers patrol it today, according to data from the Chicago Police Dept.

While off of its low-point of 326 officers in Oct. 2015, the area is still significantly understaffed, according to police who work the district.

Most officers on day shifts patrol alone as do about half of the evening shift officers, according to patrolmen who spoke with this newspaper recently on a promise of anonymity.

Applications now open for local apprenticeship and internship programs

12,000 positions available to teens this summer

After School Matters [ASM] is now accepting teen applications for its summer 2017 program session. More than 600 programs in the arts, communications, science, sports and technology will be offered at more than 60 Chicago public high schools, as well as Chicago Park District, Chicago Public Library and community organization locations throughout the city, and downtown at the Gallery 37 Center for the Arts.

In total, more than 12,000 paid apprenticeship and internship opportunities will be available to Chicago high school teens this summer – the biggest session ever. Summer programs will meet four-to-five days a week for three-to-four hours per day over the course of six-to-seven weeks. Advanced apprenticeship programs will begin the week of June 26, and all other programs will begin the week of July 5.

Participating teens will be eligible to earn a stipend of up to $725 (depending on the program level), and interns can earn $10.50 per hour. Teens can search and apply for summer programs online at afterschoolmatters.org.

“This summer, [we are] providing more opportunities for teens in a single program session than ever before,” said ASM CEO Mary Ellen Caron. “Chicago’s teens deserve safe, productive and inspiring opportunities that will encourage them to explore and develop their talents while gaining critical skills for college, careers and beyond.”

ASM’s programs offer teens an opportunity to develop their current skills while incorporating critical 21st Century skills like collaboration, problem solving, social awareness and more. Multiple independent studies and recent data have confirmed that teens who participate in ASM programs have higher Freshmen On-Track rates, improved school-day attendance and higher high school graduation rates than their peers.

Some of the programs offered this summer include:

- Adler Planetarium Counselor-in-Training at the Adler Planetarium.
- Blocks Together Peace Ambassadors in Humboldt Park.

- Deejaing Foundations at Gallery 37 Center for the Arts in the Loop.
- Empowerment Tales at the Sarah E. Goode STEM Academy in Ashburn.
- Learn to Code at Robeson High School in Englewood.
- Ring Leaders at the Chicago Youth Boxing Club in Little Village.

All ASM programs are free and open to Chicago teen residents who are at least 14 years of age (16 years of age for internships) and are high school students, including rising high school freshmen and recently graduated seniors. As part of the application process, teens interview with program instructors to discuss their interests. Teens are encouraged to apply early, as program opportunities fill up quickly. Application features include an interactive map to help teens search for programs and a full Spanish translation on a mobile-friendly platform. For more information call 312-742-4182 or email applications@afterschoolmatters.org.

GERMAN from p. 5

the Civil War, said Heinen.

For years, the Germans were viewed as the most successful of the various immigrant groups – until World War I when they almost overnight became “a community under siege,” Heinen said.

After all, until the U.S. finally entered the war in 1917, many German-Americans did support the Fatherland, Heinen added, noting how a German angry with Cardinal George Mundelein for not supporting the Old Country poisoned the prelate’s food at a banquet.

Soon, he added, all Germans became suspect. Germans who weren’t citizens were barred from going into war plants or even shopping in the Loop. The Goethe statue in Lincoln Park was vandalized.

The “German Hospital” in Lincoln Park became “Grant Hospital” and the Germania Club in Old Town (formed by members of a choir that sang at Lincoln’s funeral) became the Lincoln Club.

And just as our French fries recently became ‘freedom fries,’ sauerkraut was then christened “liberty cabbage.”

Ironically, the war was still raging when the Davis Theater opened as the Pershing, named for the American general with a German name who led the American Expeditionary Forces that defeated the Kaiser.

Steans, Cassidy to host environmental and marijuana forums

Community input wanted

BY BOB KITSOS

Sen. Heather Steans (7th) and state Rep. Kelly Cassidy (14th) will hold two town hall meetings this week. One to discuss legalizing marijuana 7 p.m. today at the Broadway Armory, 5917 N. Broadway; and the second 7 p.m. Thursday to discuss environment policy.

The second meeting will be held at the Galvin Auditorium, Sullivan Center at Loyola Univ., 6339 N. Sheridan Rd.

Both events are free and open to the public, but reservations are suggested.

“Legalizing recreational marijuana would be a big policy change in the state,” Steans said. “I know many of you have feelings and opinions about this legislation and as your state senator, it is important to hear your feedback on this legislation. I do not plan to move forward with this bill hastily.” A recent poll shows that 66% of Illinoisans support the idea.

Steans explained that she wanted to ensure that there is ample time for organizations and individuals to voice their opinions and for her and Cassidy to adjust the legislation based on that information.

The environmental meeting will see guest speakers talking about policy issues related to clean energy, solar power, enviromental justice, recycling and composting.

There also will be a Meet and Greet on April 23 at the Rogers Park Social Club, 6920 N. Glenwood Ave. Steans and Cassidy will be available to update guests about legislation and the current state of affairs in Illinois.

Visit the senator’s website to make reservations or call 773-769-1717 or 773-784-2002.

Community residentsinvited to Edgewater Village events

BY BOB KITSOS

Community residents are invited to hear how Edgewater Village is supporting and engaging older adults at a Meet and Greet Brunch on Wed., April 26. This event is the first of two activities to help bring adults together to socialize and provide free, useful information and resources that will enhance their quality of life as they age in community.

The Meet and Greet Brunch will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Uncommon Ground, 1401 W. Devon.

with California and Colorado medical marijuana professionals and offer the best of the marijuana industry’s medical advances to patients in Chicago and beyond.

The staff helps patients find the best cannabis products for their needs, discussing their symptoms in detail and guiding them to their best starting points for their cannabis medication. The staff works with patients to track what specific medical marijuana products they use and what strains or delivery methods work, using trial-and-error to find the optimal medication for their needs and adjusting as needed.

“We believe it’s our duty to use our knowledge and experience to curate the selection so that we are offering the best of every class of product,” Zises said. “Our system keeps a record of each patient’s history, so once a patient has been in a few times we can have a very informal discussion about how different products have worked for them in order to guide their future purchases.”

The Chicago dispensary staff always is ready to listen, offering a non-judgmental and safe environmental and safe environment for patients to access quality cannabis medicine, he said.

But Northsiders should not take their decision to use medical marijuana lightly as trafficking in marijuana remains a federal felony. Should the clinic’s records end up in the hands of Federal law enforcement this paper trail could lead to serious legal issues.

The light brunch is $10, including tax and gratuity; pay at the door with cash or a credit card. There also will be a cash bar featuring mimosas and Bloody Marys. Free parking is available, and reservations are required. Email edgewatervillagechicago@gmail.com or call 773-382-0764.

When clutter becomes hoarding

Clutter is common to many people – not just older adults. But clutter can be a problem, particularly for individuals who need to downsize. For some, having too

Dispensary 33 - Chicago sets its products apart from other dispensaries by displaying all its marijuana goods to their patients. By doing so, patients benefit from physically inspecting their choices. The dispensary also offers its patients a hand-selected range of flower, edibles, concentrates, oils, topicals and more, with lab results included with each marijuana product.

In addition, the staff will help patients register with the dispensary as well as guide them to a medical marijuana-certifying physician. The dispensary partners with Ataraxia (a company in southeastern Illinois dedicated to the science of medical cannabis) to offer patients a Cannabis Compassion program, where one percent of sales is donated to patients with financial hardships.

State support

Plowing through red tape and adhering to the state’s rules and regulations can be confusing and time-consuming. Zises said the head of the Illinois Dept. of Public Health is opposed to medical cannabis.

“Last year, 33,000 Americans died due to opioids, but in localities with broad cannabis access those death rates drop by a fourth,” Zises said. “The epidemic continues unabated in Illinois by not allowing the expansion of the program for people suffering from chronic pain and other ailments for which cannabis has been shown to be safe and effective.”

While the state doesn’t act with a single voice, Zises praised the work of those at the state level who much can turn into a serious problem of hoarding.

Whether you’re a pack rat or know someone who is, you can learn about clutter and hoarding at a workshop on Thursday, April 27, at 12:30 p.m. at the Edgewater Senior Satellite Center, 5917 N. Broadway. The event is free and open to all. Reservations are not needed.

Co-sponsored by Edgewater Village and CJE SeniorLife, this workshop will feature Barbara Sarasin, an anti-clutter expert from CJE SeniorLife. Sarasin will are in charge of administering and regulating this program and who he contacts on a regular basis. He cited the Illinois Dept. of Financial and Professional Regulation, the Illinois Dept. of Public Health and the Attorney General’s office as departments that are committed to helping the program succeed.

Zises said, “In general, I think that the cannabis issue, like gay marriage before it, wins over everyone who comes in contact with people impacted by it and that it is on an unstoppable path to full national acceptance. The pace at which public opinion is moving toward a pro-cannabis position is astounding and, from that, laws will quickly follow.”

Twenty-eight states currently allow marijuana for medical use, and over 18,000 people in Illinois have enrolled in the medical marijuana program since the state legalized its use.

But the struggling marijuana industry in Illinois clearly needs help. The budding medical marijuana industry has gotten off to a slow and unprofitable start in Illinois.

Enacted in 2013, the pilot program in place now allows persons who are diagnosed with a debilitating medical condition to obtain access to cannabis only for medical uses. The qualifying patient must obtain a written certification from a physician specifying their debilitating condition and register with the Illinois Dept. of Public Health [IDPH].

Early studies pointed to a need to have some 75-80,000 patients for the industry to generally break even in Illinois. Unfortunately, explore why people accumulate too many possessions and when that becomes a problem. She also will provide a resource and reading list.

Edgewater Village is seeking input on what older adults want and how the Village can help. An online survey is available in the April 14 issue of the 48th ward newsletter; paper copies are available at Ald. Harry Osterman’s office, 5533 N. Broadway, and at the front desk of the Broadway Armory, 5917 N. Broadway.

according to state numbers, those 18,000 registered patients are not enough to support the industry.

Legislation to change some of the state’s rigid marijuana regulations, and help salvage Illinois’s struggling medical marijuana industry by allowing recreational drug use, was introduced in Springfield late last month on two fronts.

State Rep. Kelly Cassidy (14th) filed an amendment to House Bill 2353 that would legalize people 21 and older to buy and consume cannabis. Under the legislation, it would then be taxed and regulated like alcohol.

The bill allows for the purchase of marijuana from a licensed retail facility. Becoming one of those retail facilities, or a growing/cultivation facility, will require a rigorous licensing process to be determined by the IDPH. This mirrors the current framework for medical marijuana, which businesses have had no problem operating within.

The bill stipulates that Illinois residents over 21 will be able to grow up to five plants on their private property, but they have to do so away from public view and with safety precautions to prevent anyone under 21 from accessing the plants. Also, they would be prohibited from selling anything they grow. It would be for private consumption (or free transfer to other adults) only, much like home-brewed beer, according to Rep. Cassidy.

Senator Heather Steans [7th] submitted a bill to legalize possession of up to 28 grams of marijuana for Illinois residents and 14 grams for non-residents. “We decided to limit marijuana possession in Senate Bill 316 to 28 grams because it is approximately the same amount that other states that have legalized recreational marijuana allow. Only Washington, D.C., allows residents to possess more than an ounce of marijuana,” said Sen. Steans.

The senator has cited the state’s dire fiscal crisis and Gov. Bruce Rauner’s $5 billion budget gap and the need to look at all revenue sources and state spending. “Not only would regulating and taxing marijuana create a new revenue source for the state without taxing residents, but legalizing recreational marijuana also has broad citizen support. A recent poll shows that 66% of Illinoisans support the idea,” she said.

“We have wasted an obscene amount of taxpayer dollars investigating, prosecuting, and incarcerating Illinoisans for minor marijuana offenses. This bill would be a win on both ends; we would save law enforcement money while also bringing in a massive new revenue stream.”
