Party Vibes on Cedar St. Worry Residents

ANN GERBER

NO RULES. NO REGULATIONS about parties, noise, vacation rentals have residents of swank Cedar St. concerned and determined to “save our community,” as buildings are converted. At the May 15 zoning board hearing the “party vibes” will be examined. The new owner of the 67 E. Cedar wants a permit to operate the building as a vacation rental as some nearby sites are already enjoying, and neighbors are irate.

A BED AND BREAKFAST or vacation rentals can draw tourists and college kids looking for maximum beds at a lower cost. These are not the quality visitors that belong here, said one condo resident.

CHICAGO IS A HOT TRAVEL DESTINATION and bargain rooms and apartments are money-makers. In New York, some buyers of old buildings move mattresses in and set-up dormitory housing. Chicago is following the trend. Rentals lure a party crowd that can drink and dance and cavort all night, say detractors. Who needs that “party vibe,” protest neighbors.

CEDAR ST. IS IN THREE WARDS, with three aldermen calling the shots. The May 15 zoning board meeting should be well attended. GOSSIP, GOSSIP, GOSSIP

TEARS IN HER CHAMPAGNE... Who is the faded beauty who now tells her daughter to get financial security before giving in to love and passion? “If only I had married one of the super-rich suitors who proposed when I was young and at the top of my mating game, I wouldn’t be broke and unloved today.” Her goal was to marry one of her wealthiest but his wife would never give him up and he didn’t want to split the family fortune in a divorce settlement. (What’s love got to do with it?)... He died suddenly and she had nothing in writing. Today memories just don’t pay he bills. However, we were privy to one golden day. After she complained to him about his “stingy ways” we saw the brown bag stuffed with $100,000 in cash that he dropped off at her Lake Shore Dr. condo.

Schubas, Lincoln Hall sold

Two of the North Side most noted music venues – Lincoln Hall, 2424 N. Lincoln Ave. and Schubas, 3159 N. Southport – changed hands last week, sold to Audioteaf / Audiotree and a Michigan business called the Greenleaf Companies. The sale price was not disclosed, but as profitable going concern with highly desirable locations in LincolnPark and Lakeview, the transaction was surely in the millions.

The clubs’ management will retain their names, says former co-owner Mike Schuba, who will remain as chief operating officer for the two venues. His brother and partner Chris Schuba will be debarring the business entirely.

Mike and Chris Schuba bought Schubas in 1988 and Lincoln Hall in 2009 and quickly established both as some of the most desirable

Illinois Criminal Justice in for dramatic changes

Gov. wants to reduce prison population by 25% in next decade

BY PATRICK BUTLER

Where you live and what you look like will no longer determine whether you get arrested or ticketed for possession of small amounts of marijuana under a bill sponsored by State Rep. Kelly Cassidy (14th) that just passed the House 62-53.

The proposal must now be voted on by the State Senate, where the North Side lawmaker expects smooth passage.

Under Cassidy’s law, those caught with 15 grams of pot would be ticketed and get a maximum fine of $125 and avoid a criminal conviction.

Right now, police in more than 100 Illinois towns and cities have the discretion of either writing a ticket or making an arrest for possession, Rep. Cassidy told about 35 local residents at an April 25 town meeting at Willye White Park Fieldhouse, 1610 W. Howard St.

“It’s a fairer, more logical, more thoughtful approach people told me would never get passed,” said Rep. Cassidy, who admitted being surprised by who ended up supporting the measure.

Backers not only included groups like the ACLU, but Sheriff Tom Dart and even the Illinois Policy Institute, which is a conservative think tank. “They were very instrumental. I don’t think this would have passed without a coalition with conservative input,” she said.

“While they were frankly looking through a fiscal lens, I don’t care why they come to my party as long as they dance. I don’t care if they want to get on board for fiscal reasons than human rights concerns. As long as they’re dancing at my party, it’s all good with me,” she said.

Rep. Cassidy now expects easy passage through the Senate. “The Senate has always been more progressive than the house. The heavy lifting on this bill was in the house,” she noted.

But from a progressive standpoint, that wasn’t the only good

Pride Parade returning to Boystown

BY CRIME IN
WRIGLEYVILLE BOYSTOWN

The 2015 Chicago Pride Parade will once again be held in Uptown and Lakeview, not downtown, according to multiple city sources who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

How organizers will address concerns of overcrowding, brawls, medical response difficulties, and persistent post-parade quality life crimes remains to be seen. Parade organizers and local politicians had been surveying the community and a variety of city departments about a proposal to move the parade downtown.

But sources who spoke with reporters from Crime in Wrigleyville Boystown [CWB] stated unequivocally that virtually every city department involved in the parade, including all emergency services, have expressed their beliefs that the parade should be moved to a more manageable location.

As first reported on March 31, the city’s Office of Emergency Management and Communications cited fears of “terrorism” in denying a Freedom Of Information Act request seeking Pride Parade related documents. The Chicago Police Dept. is in violation of state law for failing to respond to a similar request. Both departments’ handling of the document requests are now under review by the Illinois Attorney General’s Office.

2011	$ 52,656.69	$ 4,426.50	$ 11,964.50	$ 69,047.69

2013	$ 93,078.62	$ 18,039.73	$ 9,550.00	$ 120,668.35

The Chicago Dept. of Streets and Sanitation alone has seen its Pride Parade expenses double in recent years. Parade organizers paid a “city services” invoice of $20,000 in 2011; $35,000 in 2012; and $40,000 in 2013 and 2014.

While those issues play out, CWB has secured hundreds of pages of Pride Parade documents from city sources that offer many interesting tidbits including a couple documents titled “Parade Marshal Plan.”

According to those documents, filed with the city each year by parade leader Richard Pfeiffer, organizers have actually reduced the number of safety marshals and monitors they’ve promised to provide in recent years. That despite the fact that the parade has drawn increasingly large record-setting crowds each year.

The Pride Parade’s troubles seemed to grow after large crowds packed Halsted St. to watch the event in 2011. According to reports on ABC News “...It was really bad, packed, too crowded,” said Val Tompkins. “We couldn’t see it, there were 10 rows of people.”

Tompkins and and Trisha George drove to Chicago from Coldwater, MI, to see the parade. They said that they thought some areas were dangerous. “There were kids getting pushed,” George said.

In 2011 this newspaper also reported that things got out of hand when a combination of large rowdy crowds and lack of crowd control led to a series of mishaps including the diversion of an estimated 50 floats off the parade route.

The tires on 51 floats had been slashed hours before the parade that year and streets become overly jammed with people. Some parade goers fainted and/or passed out from drugs and alcohol abuse. Even with police and parade marshals present many verbal altercations turned into physical ones.

On the west side of Halsted St. that year the crowd grew so thick that some onlookers were being GROUNDHOG DAY is coming back to haunt us. The fine Bill Murray movie will become a Broadway musical in 2017. We all loved the ‘93 film starring our hero Bill as a man forced to live the same 24 hours over and over. Scott Rudin is producing. The cast has not been chosen and there’s only one Bill Murray. He was ideal as the narcissistic weatherman Phil Connors. The songs could be a lot of fun. The movie script was penned by Harold Ramis with Danny Rubin. It tells the story of his relationship with this charming young widow who nurtured her son “unforgettably.” Scott’s father was Ernie Simon, comedian and pioneer talk show host.

When Ernie died, Patty was mother and father to him and they had many adventures. In this book Scott tells the lessons his mother taught him about life, death and love. Patty married Lincoln Scholar Ralph Newman and was always the prettiest mother at the PTA meetings. When Patty was dying, Scott slept on the floor of the hospital room and never left her alone. Patty adored Scott’s two adopted Chinese daughters. Simon’s first book “Home and Away” was published in 2000 and second book “Jackie Robinson and the Integration of Baseball” was published in 2002. Simon has written “Baby, We Were Meant for Each Other: In Praise of Adoption” about his family’s experiences. He is also the author of two novels: “Pretty Birds” (2005) and “Windy City: A Novel of Politics” (2008). MYRA AND JOHN REILLY, honored at the benefit for the Stanley Paul-Raelene Mittelman Foundation, are a respected part of Chicago’s social scene.

Myra Lombardi was a native Chicagoan, raised in Lake Forest and an alumni of Barat College as an Art Major. For a time, she thought small art projects was as far as it might go. But art was her passion, leading to a first job in a gallery in Long Grove and then her own store, “The Write Idea,” in Lake Forest, which incorporated interior design concepts. Along the way, Myra took on the most important job in her life, “Mom” to four children and now seven grandchildren.

John Reilly resided on both the East and West coasts and graduated from San Jose State Univ. in California. He studied in Paris at the Sorbonne and lived across Europe, before finally settling on a life and career in Chicago. In the 1970’s, John received a teaching position at the Univ. of Illinois, as a graduate assistant professor of history. While teaching, John began puttering around with the camera as a hobby. State's fiscal mess taking its toll

Years of mismanagement finally paying 'dividends'

BY PATRICK BUTLER

Everyone's playing "a very dangerous game of Chicken" that has Gov. Bruce Rauner refusing to raise any kind of taxes, forcing beneficiaries of various state programs to go after one another "like hungry dogs fighting over scraps," State Rep. Kelly Cassidy (14th) told local residents last week.

Social services agencies across the state are now seeing the dividends that decades of mismanagement and malfeasance by the state's political leaders has wrought.

But what everyone seems to forget, Rep. Cassidy warned, is that "you can cut, but you pay elsewhere. When we made the Medicaid cuts earlier and we eliminated adult dental, there was an increase elsewhere. People just went to the emergency rooms for dental care."

One obvious source of additional revenue would be a progressive income tax instead of the current flat rate, Rep. Cassidy said, noting that Illinois is not only one of the few states that still has a flat rate, but one of even fewer to mandate it in our constitution.

"To change that would require a super majority (two thirds instead of 51%) in the General Assembly to get it on the ballot and another super majority of voters to approve it," she added.

"But that's unlikely in the current political climate," she said, adding there are even a few Democrats in the legislature who won't vote for any kind of tax increases under any circumstances.

Also unlikely in the current political climate is House Speaker Michael Madigan's suggested surcharge on annual incomes over $1 million.

As a result of Gov. Rauner's budget cutting proposals, funds for autistic children were cut – on World Autism Day yet. And the Teen Reach program at the Howard Area Community Center, 7646 N. Paulina, was ordered to shut down immediately, staying open only one day longer to allow the staff and the kids to at least say goodbye to one another, Rep. Cassidy said.

"On Good Friday, the governor's office pulled $200 million in grants from programs statewide, yet a few days later magically found $100 million (to cover) corporate tax breaks. The governor used his budgetary authority to use some of that money (saved by the cuts) to create those tax breaks," she explained.

Even well-established agencies considered "too big to fail" – like the Community Counseling Center of Chicago, 4740 N. Clark St. – recently announced plans to shut down at the end of May, though most reports show that the closure had more to do with poor management than state funding cuts.

Perhaps the one bright spot is that the state Senate is holding human services budget hearings all over the state and getting a fantastic response. "We've never really done that before, making the budget a living human document. They're bringing agency heads to those hearings, making them show up to defend their budgets in front of the people they serve," Rep. Cassidy said.

In the meantime, she added, time is running out for everyone. July 1 is the beginning of the State's new fiscal year and Illinois has to have a budget by May 31. "Anything approved after that would require a super majority for passage."

Access Living aiding people with disabilities

Navigating life made easier

BY ROBERT KINGETT

Access Living has a wealth of programs and services that assist consumers with living independently, happily and prosperously. There are advocacy groups. There are events held to spread awareness and to provide a place for others to network. They also host programs that provide direct supports, offering a lot of justice for the individuals they serve.

Governed and staffed by people with disabilities, Access Living's goal is to promote the inclusion, empowerment and independence of people with disabilities so they can pursue independent and satisfying lifestyles.

Their programs are run by passionate advocates. One of these diligent individuals is Chicagoan Larry Hamilton, 64, who is the first program coordinator of what's known as a "Deflector" in the Illinois Balance and Incentive program, a program for people who are hospitalized.

The Access Living Hospital to Home program helps eligible patients avoid a nursing home placement after a hospital stay by offering flexible supports and funding. The goals of this program are to decrease long-term admission into nursing facilities and allow participants to age comfortably in their own homes. The program decreases long-term admission into nursing facilities thanks to a partnership with Rush Hospital.

Through funding from the Illinois Dept. on Aging, Access Living staff can assist eligible patients through the transition process from hospital to home by connecting them with flexible supports and funding. Patients can expect help with finding payment for workers who help them keep their body and home clean, products to increase independence in the home, contractors who can renovate portions of their home to increase accessibility, and subsidies to cover housing or relocation costs.

Time is of the essence for the people involved in the program. Each case has to be secured within 90 days with a mandate to help 12 people a year.

Access Living is the pioneer of the Deflector role and the program. The Deflector role in this program is sponsored by ADRC, the Illinois Aging Disability Recovery Centers.

Being a Deflector is no easy task. Everyone must be on point, ready to spring in to assist with a client. Hamilton has many duties from start to finish, prepping patients who have been hospitalized in order to transition them to their own apartment. Hamilton assesses hospitalized patients and records their history as well as secures a Section 8 Voucher for the clients while trying to find an apartment that fits their needs. He meets with the screening team, who then evaluates all information before seeking services or a voucher. Hamilton retrieves all of the needed information for the client.

"My job is to work with the screeners from Rush Hospital and Thresholds, they're the clinical 'hands on' people. Assessing people. They refer their patients over to us," Hamilton said. "I'll retrieve information or someone from the screening team... or several people from the screening team might go personally to a landlord so that's the individual I'll be hearing from."

Hamilton is used to the quick pace of the task, having just acquired his second degree from Malcolm X College after obtaining his Associates of Science Degree in 1985.

"This is the first time I've been able to serve others with disabilities, other than serving myself with my own disabilities. I found, if it's challenging, then when you're passionate about what you do it's not really work, it's exercise," said Hamilton.

Hamilton started at Access Living under a seniors program called SER, or the Seniors Education Employment Recovery Jobs Program.

"I was under Bhuttu Mathew's tutelage. And that was on the first floor. And I was helping with disability resources. Making calls, sending housing lists to people that wanted them, and telling people about our services. Asking what kinds of things they were looking for at Access Living, and referring them to Bhuttu."

Bhutto is a Disability and Human Rights Advocate and service provider with a wide background in outreach and human rights advocacy.

Sneak attack on the lakefront

It is deeply troubling that Mayor Emanuel and state public officials are trying to use the Obama Library as a shield to sneak the Lucas Museum on to Lake Michigan.

In any case, HB 373 will not solve the legal problem for Lucas museum or the Presidential library. Placing either of them on public trust land will remain just as illegal, with or without HB 373. Under the leading case of Illinois Central v. Illinois - which is still good law - even the General Assembly of Illinois cannot convey a property interest in land recovered from Lake Michigan - such as a 99 year lease - if that land is to all intents and purposes in the exclusive control of a private individual.

This Bill not only authorizes the Park District to build the Lucas museum or a Presidential library but any other building that anyone might call a museum. It allows the virtual "mall" of the Lake and is inconsistent with the fiduciary obligation of the State to weigh a specific use of public trust land against the value of keeping it free and clear for the public. It basically authorizes the City to run a mall up and down the Lake so long as they call it a museum. It is a complete blank check to abdicate the legal duty of protecting the Lake for the people of this State and for generations to come.

We note that this bill was introduced on Earth Day of all times - hardly the occasion to make sure that there is not a blade of grass left on the Lake front. Apparently it is the idea of some to pull in the President to defend the Lucas Museum. We hope that the President makes clear to Springfield that he has no intention of doing so.

Rebounding home & condo prices puts cash back into owner's pockets

BY DON DeBAT

Thousands of Chicago homeowners are slowly regaining real estate value lost during the Great Recession, expert says.

Single-family homes in the Chicago area lost an average of 28% of their value between 2007 and 2012 when the market hit rock bottom.

However, the rising resale values of 2015's spring market has stuffed some hefty amounts of cash back into many beleaguered homeowner pockets, reported the Illinois Assoc. of Realtors, which noted "sharp gains in year-over-year home sales and median prices" in March.

"When adjusted for inflation, median home prices have recovered to 79% of their 2008 levels statewide and 74% of the prior levels in the nine-county Chicago area," noted Geoffrey J.D. Hewings, an economist at the Univ. of Illinois, who predicted it would take another one to three years for values to fully recover.

A total of 2,118 single-family homes and condominiums were sold in March of 2015, up 13% from last year when 1,875 homes were sold. What's more important is the median price of a home in Chicago jumped 11.9% to $263,079 over March of 2014 when the median price was $235,000.

"Chicago's spring market is showing bounce with back-to-back months of sales increases signaling strengthening demand," said Hugh Rider, president of the Chicago Assoc. of Realtors.

Chicago Realtors noted that hot city neighborhoods this spring include: the Near West Side, Albany Park and Dunning on the Northwest Side, and West Lawn and Ashburn on the Southwest Side.

"Even with fewer homes on the market, we're seeing determined buyers finding their ideal home," Rider said. "This increased demand is moving median sales prices higher, offering homeowners an incentive."

Rock-bottom home loan rates also helped buyers get off the fence. Freddie Mac reported that benchmark 30-year fixed mortgage rates averaged 3.65% in late April, compared with 4.33% a year ago.

In the nine-county Chicago area, homes and condo sales in March of 2015 totaled 8,158 units, an increase of 11.5% from the 7,314 sales in March of 2014. The median home and condo price in March in the Chicago area was $204,000, up 16.6% from $175,000 in March of 2014.

"Buyers are becoming quite aggressive when it comes to shopping for a home this spring," said Jim Kinney, president of the IAR and vice president for luxury sales for Baird & Warner in Chicago.

"The surge in sales and median prices throughout the state in March clearly shows consumers know they have to be willing to pay more as they face a slightly smaller number of homes on the market this year versus last," Kinney said.

Bargain-hunters shopping for foreclosures may receive a boost from a new Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac pilot program that plans to sell thousands of vacant, foreclosed homes in Chicago and suburbs.

The two agencies plan to offer about 3,800 homes, condos and two- to four-flats for sale to qualified nonprofit groups and their developers.

The worst of the blighted properties will be offered for as little as $1. Other residences that can be rehabbed likely will be sold at a discount of up to 20%.

news in criminal justice reform in the past week or so, Cassidy noted.

A bill currently working its way through the General Assembly would resolve the dilemma of what to do about hundreds of juveniles who may not be covered by a Supreme Court prohibition against life without parole for juveniles.

That ruling only applied to future cases, "but what about those who are already in the system right now, serving life sentences?" she asked.

Rep. Cassidy added that her bill "doesn't mandate they can't be held for life. It just means the possibility of parole has to be back in the thought process."

Gov. Bruce Rauner wants to reduce the population in Illinois prisons by 25% over the next 10 years, she noted. "That can't happen without changes in our sentencing laws."

Another bill that passed the House lifting lifetime bars to employment in schools, health care, the Chicago Park District and even mass transit and "has a pretty good prospect in the Senate," she said.

That doesn't mean anyone has to hire an ex-convict, she explained, but just puts the decision in the hands of the prospective employer rather than flatly prohibiting hiring someone just because of their criminal record.

Rep. Cassidy said she knows one prisoner who is going to graduate in June with a master's degree in social work. "His dream is to help keep other kids from making the same mistakes he did. Absent passage of this bill, this dream is impossible. I plan on being at his graduation, hopefully with a signed bill."

Dunn done at 18th

New police commander has fought organized crime, found stolen art

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

Two and a half years ago, when he took the job, William Dunn said police commanders are rotated for various reasons but it is “the natural course.”

Over the weekend, Dunn himself was among 19 high-level transfers at Chicago Police Dept. [CPD]. He is now North Area Commander in CPD’s Bureau of Detectives, reporting to the bureau’s chief and deputy chief. He will oversee a property crimes section and a violent crimes section.

Dunn, who has been with CPD for 30 years, was promoted to 18th District police commander in Sept. 2012, replacing Kenneth Angarone, who had been commander since Sept. 2009. Headquartered at 1160 N. Larrabee Ave., the district stretches from the main branch of the Chicago River north to Fullerton Ave. in Lincoln Park, and from the north branch east to Lake Michigan.

In December, Dunn said River North is “one of the safest neighborhoods in the city,” with total number of crime incidents down last year from the previous year.

Before that, he was a lieutenant in the narcotics division of CPD’s Bureau of Organized Crime.

In 2008, Devereux was investigating gun trafficking by Chicago-area gangs when his team found a van on the South Side that contained eight stolen paintings worth $100,000.

In a federal lawsuit filed in 2010, he testified on behalf of the City of Chicago against police officers who claimed they were owed overtime for monitoring their Blackberry devices while off-duty. Devereux told the court he monitored his Blackberry while off-duty without expecting to be paid because he did “whatever I have to do to get the job done.”

Devereux has a master’s degree in public administration and since 2013 has been an adjunct professor at Calumet College of St. Joseph. He teaches a course on Public Safety Environment and Organization.

C4 to close at end of May

Mental health services in Chicago take another hit

A large provider of mental health services on the North Side and throughout Chicago says it will have to close its doors at the end of May.

Community Counseling Centers of Chicago [C4] served over 10,000 people each year, many from the Uptown and Edgewater neighborhoods and many of then children. The organization’s president, Eileen Durkin, blames the closing on the botched implementation of a new billing system at the organization, as first reported by WBEZ. They are headquartered at 4740 N. Clark St. on the border of Uptown and Ravenswood.

The threatened closing came to light in a letter sent to state legislators which was leaked to the media. In it C4 asks for an additional $1 million in order to continue operations. Reportedly they will not be able to meet payroll this Friday without it.

The Illinois Dept. of Human Services says that the state’s budget crisis has nothing to do with the closing of C4, claiming it has to do with internal matters. The state has proposed an $82 million cut in mental health services, a 15% reduction from last year.

Multiple staff have suggested the organization has been mismanaged under Durkin. They point to poor communication and financial choices as the reason for the crisis.

Counselor Max Beshers told WBEZ that he suspects the closure will have a ripple effect in the community. Indeed they may have already started transferring their patients to other service providers.

“It’s going to lead to more substance abuse, more conflict and violence in families, definitely more people going to the emergency rooms that are already overloaded and unfortunately more people being arrested and incarcerated.”

Durkin says the staff will be working hard to place all their current clients in new services at other organizations. But the closing happens as the Chicago mental health infrastructure is already in crisis.

Last week WBEZ reported skyrocketing ER visits by the mentally ill over the last six years. According to state records, from 2009 to 2013, 37% more patients were discharged from emergency rooms for psychiatric treatment. The biggest jump came in 2012, the same year the city of Chicago closed half of its mental health clinics.

The emergency room spike has already forced some emergency departments to make big, costly changes, just so they can keep these patients safe. Including literally rebuilding parts of their hospitals.

Sheri Richardt is the manager of Crisis and Behavioral Health at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center, 836 W. Wellington, where construction is underway on a new behavioral health unit.

Richardt told WBEZ that when a psychiatric patients come in to the emergency department they need special examination rooms. She pointed out how the pipes under the sink and toilet are covered.

As visits climbed Advocate needed more spaces like this. The new rooms will be designed for safety, but also to give the patients a more quiet and private space, away from the rest of the ER.

“There is nothing on the walls you could hang yourself with or hurt yourself with,” she said.

Richardt told WBEZ she would see the same patients rotate in over and over again. So she pulled one patient’s files and found that woman had visited their ER 750 times over the course of about 10 years.

She said the patient was picked up by an ambulance or police officer almost daily. Sometimes the ER would discharge her, only to have her appear back a few hours later.

“The cost of that for us was $2.5 million,” said Richardt. “And that’s only at our hospital. This an individual who went between multiple hospitals and so we don’t have the true cost.”

C4’s Rebecca Lorentzen said transitions are particularly hard for mental health services. She works with youth at C4. “We may be one of the only stable, consistent adults in their lives, and now for reasons out of our control we are saying we have to end that,” she said.

Lorentzen said it will be difficult to connect clients immediately with community services, “I’m not hopeful. That’s what’s frustrating.”

Gang member on parole arrested

Police arrested a paroled gang member April 17 after he allegedly threatened a man on an Uptown street with a handgun.

In addition to being on parole, the 16-year-old Lawrence/Winthrop Gangster Disciple was on the department’s Strategic Subject List that identifies people with a high likelihood of either being the victim or perpetrator of a violent crime.

The 29-year-old victim had been walking on the 1000 block of W. Ainslie around 10 p.m. when the gunman approached and pointed the weapon at his head, according to police. When the victim said he was just walking to his car, the gunman pointed the gun at his leg and threatened to shoot him.

The victim shouted he was going to call the police and the gunman ran, according to the report. Officers touring the area detained a man matching the gunman’s description and returned him to the victim, who made a positive identification. The gun was not found in his possession.

CTA pickpocket nabbed

Chicago police arrested a prolific CTA pickpocket suspect who is believed to be responsible for a number of thefts - many on the North Side - from commuters since he got paroled last Summer.

A CTA canine patrol officer at the Garfield Red Line station early Sunday recognized Matthew Green as being wanted for allegedly stealing a man’s wallet on a CTA train by cutting the victim’s pocket with a razor knife. Green, apparently realizing that he had been identified, fled onto the Red Line tracks, forcing the CTA to shut down power and service in the area, police said.

The security guard quickly caught up with the 58-year-old paroled thief and held him for police.

Bail is set at $250,000 for Green, who is now charged with three counts of Theft and Trespassing.

Man robbed by pair as he leaves apartment

A man and woman robbed a 48-year-old as he stepped out of his Rogers Park apartment the evening of April 21.

The man said he’d reached the sidewalk in front of his residence about 5:30 p.m. when the pair confronted him, according to the police report. They did not show a weapon or imply they had one, but the man allowed them empty out his pockets.

The pair removed a cell-phone and wallet with multiple credit cards, a LINK card and around $70 cash. They quickly fled the area and were not in custody at the time of the report.

Police question Latin Kings, release them at victim’s request

Officers detained three known members of the Latin Kings gang April 21 on Devon Ave. in connection with an attempted robbery before turning them loose at the request of the victim.

The driver of a vehicle allegedly used during the robbery was issued multiple traffic citations for illegally using an alley as a throughway and failure to stop at a traffic sign, police said.

The victim, 23, had been punched in the face about 2:30 a.m. after leaving a restaurant on the 2300 block of Devon Ave. A group of males flashing gang signs and asking if he was a Latin King had attempted to rob him, the victim said.

When he refused to surrender his cell-phone, one of the men had punched him in the face, according to the victim. He had run from the confrontation and sought safety back inside the restaurant, where he contacted police.

Officers found two of the men matching the victim’s description in a vehicle near the scene. The driver said he had dropped off two friends in an alley of Claremont Ave. while the third man had remained in the back seat of the vehicle when police made the stop.

The victim said the driver and vehicle had been used during the attempted robbery but the man who had punched him in the face was not present. Officers filled out contact cards and released the group, according to the report.

Man arrested after throwing kicks and slashing with a boxcutter

Police arrested a 21-year-old man April 20 after he was identified as the person who’d thrown a roundhouse kick and cut two men with a boxcutter inside California Food & Liquor, 6345 N. California Ave.

The man was taken into custody about 11:15 a.m. after the victims and several witnesses said he was the aggressor in the fight within the convenience store. He had claimed to officers that he’d been defending himself from three men who attacked him inside the store, according to the report.

Officers charged him with two counts battery and one count assault, though felony charges were declined by the state’s attorney’s office.

The store’s clerk, 46, said the man began a verbal argument after his request to buy cigarettes without and identification was refused. He had thrown a roundhouse kick at the clerk when two men inside the store stepped in to stop the attack.

The man had then pulled a box cutter with a straight-edge blade and began slashing at them, eventually striking both during the course of the fight. Officers found the boxcutter in the man’s pocket and he admitted using it during the fight, according to the report.

Both victims, 36 and 51-years-old, took themselves to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston for treatment against minor cuts. One of the men had been cut across the back while the second had a small cut to his hand.

Armed robbery in Rogers Park

Three men in a black SUV allegedly robbed two men at gunpoint April 19 in Rogers Park.

The victims, 21 and 26-years-old, were confronted around 1:40 a.m. on the 3000 block of W. Jerome St. The men surrendered an HTC cell-phone and $20 cash to a man who’d pointed a handgun and threatened to shoot them, according to the report.

The SUV had circled the block several times before cutting in front of the pair and slamming to a halt, police said. Two men jumped out and ran at the victims, though only of the men was carrying a gun. Afterwards, the pair got back into the vehicle, which was driven by a third man, and fled the area. No arrests were made.

Waukegan man robbed on Western

A Waukegan man said he was robbed in the hallway of a Rogers Park apartment building April 21 on his way to meet a woman he met on the internet.

The 32-year-old victim said he’d been buzzed into a building on the 7600 block of N. Ashland Ave. that matched the 19-year-old woman’s address he’d met online. But while waiting in the hallway for the woman to appear he was confronted by a man carrying a handgun. He was told to “give up” whatever he had as the man stood pointing a handgun at him.

The victim lost a $600 iPhone 6 and $25 cash, according to the report. The robber fled the building and the woman never appeared, the victim told police.

Men fake work orders and attempt to rob a condo building

Three men were taken into custody April 16 for allegedly falsifying work orders in order to rob a condominium building in Rogers Park.

Three South Side men, two 23-year-olds and a 36-year-old, were each charged with burglary, criminal damage to property and criminal trespass to land after being found by officers in the 6400 block of N. Hoyne Ave., according to police.

Officers investigating a burglary in progress call around 9:15 p.m. spotted the three men attempting to hide from view near the entrance to one of the units. The men, who had set out equipment including picks and drills in front of the unit, presented officers with a packet of paperwork claiming to show they had been hired to change the locks on a unit and clean it out.

But officers said the paperwork did not include actual work orders or any corroborating notices from the condominium’s management association. The association, when reached by the officers, said there was no work scheduled and that all work is to be completed before 5 p.m. with supervision from the association.

Officers collected a bag of burglary tools and a power drill with the bit, and noted that a hole had been drilled into one of the doors with part of the door lock on the ground beside the men. The group was taken to the 24th District lockup.

National Runaway Safeline recognizes 2015 Volunteer of the Year

The National Runaway Safeline (NRS), a Lakeview-based organization that helps keep America's runaway, homeless and at-risk youth safe and off the streets, is honoring Carolyn Smigla as its 2015 Volunteer of the Year. Smigla will be recognized for exceeding her commitment to assisting youth and their families across the country at NRS' Volunteer and Community Recognition Event taking place on April 22 at Blackfinn Ameripub, 65 W. Kinzie.

"Volunteers like Carolyn are the lifeblood of our organization. Without them we wouldn't be as effective in providing the prevention and crisis intervention resources needed by youth, families and community members today," said Maureen Blaha, NRS executive director. "We congratulate Carolyn on this honor, and sincerely thank her for giving selflessly of her time and talents."

Since 2013, Smigla has volunteered more than 215 hours of service in the crisis hotline call center, 3080 N. Lincoln Ave. Over the past two years, she has logged more than 160 crisis calls, which includes reconnecting youth with their families through NRS' Home Free program done in collaboration with Greyhound Lines, Inc., and handling numerous calls advocating and searching for available resources.

"I'm honored to have been chosen as this year's Volunteer of the Year," said Smigla, a resident of the South Loop. "I stand in awe of our brave callers and sincerely admire the compassionate, dedicated and selfless volunteers I serve with."

More than 120 NRS volunteers handle crisis calls in the 24-hour call center, as well as help plan activities. Approximately 495 Street Team members promote NRS services across the states.

The NRS makes more than 250,000 connections to help and hope through hotline, online, texting and offline resources. NRS provides crisis intervention, referrals to local resources, and education and prevention services to youth, families and community members throughout the country 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. More than 15,000 youth have been reunited with their families through NRS' Home Free program done in collaboration with Greyhound Lines, Inc. For more information, visit 1800RUNAWAY.org.

Award event to honor small-scale architects

The Chicago Chapter of the American Institute of Architects [AIA] will recognize the year's best architecture for small-scale residential and commercial projects during the Small Projects Awards party 5:30 p.m. Friday at Architectural Artifacts, 4325 N. Ravenswood Ave.

The free event features kitchen remodeling projects, home additions, architectural design objects, weekend retreats and office renovations by Chicago-area architects. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet area architects who specialize in residential architecture and small-scale commercial projects.

"With the improved economy, home and business owners are getting back to expansions, or thinking about tackling improvement projects— and it pays to hire an architect," AIA Chicago executive vice president Zurich Esposito said.

For homeowners in particular, an increasing desire to incorporate sustainable measures promoting energy-efficiency and water conservation—as evidenced by findings in the AIA's latest home design trends survey—can be accommodated most successfully by using the services of a licensed architect, Esposito says.

AIA Chicago is a chapter of licensed architects, architectural interns and allied professionals offering continuing education programs, lectures, award programs, specialized committees, advocacy for architects and information for consumers. For more information call 312-376-2745.

ACCESS LIVING from p. 3

The “exercise” Hamilton proudly pursues every day is worthwhile because it’s what he likes to do. He has a fierce desire to help others.

“It’s been comforting because I do have passion for serving people in general,” he says proudly.

That determination comes from boisterously navigating and living with his disabilities in addition to his various other accomplishments such as becoming a leader of the black student union in high school.

Hamilton is extremely proud of his accomplishments and the program because for the clients, this is life changing. Many disabled individuals who repeatedly end up in hospitals are, eventually, placed in nursing homes. While a nursing home is certainly a stable place to stay, Hamilton asserts that it’s not enough. This is why the Deflector is here, to prevent living in a nursing home where patients are forgotten.

“There are different trash bins and garbage in our environment outside. And you know there are stray dogs. And a stray dog or cat seeks shelter in one of those types of environments. It doesn’t necessarily say that he’s better off because he has a roof over his head.”

For many, a nursing home is a place to be. Access Living, however, demonstrates that people don’t have to be in a nursing home with the possibility of being ignored when there are programs ready and waiting for people to reach out and seek greater independence in their communities and lives.

Before the Boomers

Eight reasons “war babies” were crucial in remaking America

Everyone is familiar with Tom Brokaw’s “greatest generation,” whose grit and determination saw them through the Depression and World War II.

People also are familiar with the baby boomers, who are credited with “remaking” postwar America.

But what about the generation born in the middle, between 1939 and 1945?

As far as the history books and documentaries are concerned, this generation has slipped through the cracks—and wrongfully so, according to 20th century American cultural historian Richard Pells.

“As it turns out, this ‘lost’ generation is actually responsible for shaping the United States as we know it—far more than the boomers,” says Pells, author of the new book “War Babies: The Generation That Changed America.” “In fact, it is difficult to conceive of a generation that had a greater effect on America’s music, movies, journalism and politics than those born during World War II and the early postwar years.”

In his book, Pells (a war baby himself) looks closely at this generation, focusing on individuals who were instrumental in shaping the country’s culture and politics during the past half-century. Readers will recognize names including Bob Dylan, Joan Baez, Martin Scorsese, Faye Dunaway, Tom Brokaw, Jesse Jackson, John Kerry and Nancy Pelosi, among others. In particular, Pells shows how elements of American life influenced these figures as they were growing up in the 1940s and 1950s and explains how they used those influences to change America once they reached adulthood.

Here, Pells spotlights eight ways in which war babies were instrumental in creating the America we live in today:

—They led the civil rights movement.

Through the lens of hindsight, the civil rights movement seems right, moral and necessary. For some younger Americans, it’s difficult to imagine living with segregation and Jim Crow laws. Pells says the war babies—not the boomers—are to thank for initially championing equality, and for making America a different kind of nation than it was when the 1960s began.

“The boomers were too young to organize and speak at the March on Washington in 1963,” Pells said. “Boomers were also too young to endanger their lives in the summer of 1964 traveling to Mississippi to register African American voters. And it’s certain that the civil rights movement could not have prevailed without the efforts, oratory and bravery of war babies like John Lewis and Jesse Jackson, each of whom drew on their exclusion from the public institutions of a segregated America.”

They sparked educational and social reform

Prior to the mid-1960s, American universities operated as “training grounds” to produce students who excelled in science, technology, government, and more—whatever America’s current needs and policies required. That didn’t sit well with war babies like Mario Savio, who led protests at Berkeley.

“This discontent with the bureaucratic model of university education, and the need to intervene to challenge the notion that universities were merely servants of the government, the corporations and the military, led to social reform, too,” Pells said. “For instance, Tom Hayden’s Port Huron Statement convinced many war babies of the need to personally undermine the apparatus of racism and war. While boomers certainly rode and prolonged these societal waves, they didn’t start them.”

They transformed popular music

Almost all of the music associated with the 1960s and early 1970s was created not by baby boomers but by war babies: Bob Dylan, Paul Simon, Art Garfunkel, Joan Baez, Judy Collins, Barbra Streisand, Janis Joplin, Carole King, Jim Morrison, Jerry Garcia, Grace Slick and many more.

“What was remarkable about war babies’ music was how much it differed from the classic American songbook of the 1920s, ‘30s and ‘40s,” Pells pointed out. “War babies’ tunes were more dissonant, more complex, and less melodious—both in sound and substance. Many singers and songwriters used music to deal with private tensions and pain and, in doing so, were able to connect intimately with a mass audience who often felt similarly. Their songs continued to give meaning to boomers’ lives as they, in turn, struggled to comprehend the upheavals in 1960s and 1970s society.”

They created a new Hollywood

It’s no coincidence that a renaissance in American filmmaking coincided with the political and cultural upheavals of the 1960s and ‘70s. While movies did not always deal directly with such issues, the characters in these films often seemed ambivalent and more rose, and the movies themselves were ambiguous and confusing, as if they were commenting on a country whose people could no longer agree on a definition of a good life. This was in contrast to films of the 1940s and ‘50s, which were designed to appeal to entire families, not just segments of the audience.

“Thanks to war baby directors and actors, movies became more personal and idiosyncratic,” Pells said. “Directors like Francis Ford Coppola, Martin Scorsese and George Lucas, and actors Faye Dunaway, Al Pacino and Robert De Niro helped convert films from mass entertainment to personal works of art. Think of movies like ‘Bonnie and Clyde,’ ‘The Graduate,’ ‘Easy Rider,’ ‘The Godfather,’ ‘Taxi Driver,’ ‘Raging Bull,’ ‘The Deer Hunter’ and ‘Apocalypse Now.’ These were films people argued about and remembered, that spoke directly to their social concerns and private predicaments.”

They changed the way America related to the rest of the world

As they faced an unpredictable, rapidly changing world, war babies determined how America related—and still relates—to the international community. For instance, opposition to the Vietnam War might have been more fragile had it not been for the efforts of Tom Hayden to challenge the configuration of power in America. Nor would Richard Holbrooke’s own encounter with the failures of American strategy in Vietnam have persuaded him in later wars like Iraq and Afghanistan to question Washington’s efforts to remake other societies in America’s image.

“And, of course, we can’t overlook the role of journalists in informing Americans about what was happening abroad, and often, shaping public opinion about what America should and shouldn’t do,” Pells said. “Figures like Tom Brokaw, who was the first American television journalist to broadcast live in front of the Berlin Wall when it began to fall, and George Will, who was skeptical of America’s desire to spread its brand of values, democracy and freedom with the rest of the world (particularly the Middle East) come to mind.”

They were (and continue to be) instrumental in America’s political destiny

Pells points out that no boomer—even one graduating from college in the early 1970s—had the opportunity, like Bob Wood-

Renaissance Saint Luke celebrates 10 years of ‘elegant’ senior housing

Renaissance Saint Luke [RSL] opened its doors 10 years ago, offering a new choice to Chicago seniors. No longer did seniors have to live in substandard housing in order to buy food and other essentials, or stay in difficult familial situations because they couldn't afford to move.

RSL represented a significant departure for Lakeview by making luxury senior housing available at affordable rents. The group also marked the pioneer venture of The Renaissance Companies [TRC] continuum of care, offering an elegant yet comfortable lifestyle allowing aging in place with Greenview Place (Lakeview) and Saint Paul's House (California & Grace).

Fifteen years ago, there was a dearth of affordable senior housing in Lakeview. Developers Nancy and Jeanmarie Kapp were connected with Lakeview pastor David Abrahamson by then-alderman Ted Matlak, bringing together thought leaders and decision makers to solve Lakeview's challenge: Where did its seniors go when they could no longer afford the rising costs associated with the high-end neighborhood? With the changing economy, many area seniors found it financially difficult to stay in their homes.

"We wanted a place for seniors who were being forced out of Lakeview," said Abrahamson, a neighborhood activist who has been the pastor at the church since 1974.

With the church and Abrahamson acting as sponsors, and Matlak providing leadership for the city of Chicago, TRC embarked on a 16-month construction project to build 90 rental units.

The layered financing crafted to develop this project included $7 million in housing revenue bonds issued by the city of Chicago, along with $2.4 million in low income housing tax credits, plus $750,000 in trust fund dollars from the Illinois Housing Development Authority. RSL now sits on the north third of a city parking lot; that section was sold to the project by the city for $1.

"If we would have had to go out and purchase the land in that neighborhood, the project would have been financially prohibitive," said Richard Monocchio, first deputy commissioner at the De-

6 tips to get mentally ready to retire

According to an Ameriprise Financial survey of the first wave of baby boomers, some common concerns among retirees include:

- Missing out on daily social interaction with colleagues (37%)
- Getting used to new routines (32%)
- Finding ways to give meaning and purpose to the days (22%)

Many retirees know that the change from a full-time job to a life with less structure and purpose can be challenging, especially emotionally.

Six tips to get mentally ready to retire:

1. Celebrate with a party

There's been a celebration for every other milestone in life – new home, birthdays, weddings and so on. Why not celebrate retirement? It's an achievement, especially for those who have saved enough to live comfortably.

2. Realize you don't have to be anywhere

Gone are the days of waking up early, sitting in traffic and drinking bad cafeteria coffee. Retirees are free to lounge in their pajamas and take their time with errands. They can seize the day and focus on doing what they love, whenever they want.

3. Enjoy aging gracefully

Want to be 18 again? Probably not. With age comes wisdom, self-realization and satisfaction. Enjoy every age. Check out the Advanced Style blog for inspiration and proof "from the wise and silver-haired set that personal style advances with age."

4. Spend more time with family and friends

Retired or not, this is the No. 1 wish for most people. Who doesn't want to spend more time with the people they love? See children and grandchildren more often. Plan a trip!

5. Adopt a dog

Share life with a dog in exchange for unconditional, tail-wagging love. Besides the emotional benefits, research shows that dog-owners also need fewer doctor visits, have lower cholesterol and blood pressure, and have a lower risk of heart attack compared to those who don't.

6. Stop obsessing about retirement

Many people are anxious about retirement. Once they achieve retirement, they should stop worrying and instead learn to live for the moment and enjoy being the master of their own schedules.

Even if retirement seems a long way off, start on some of these ideas to prepare for an easier transition. When it's time to retire, embrace the newfound freedom and make the most of it.

SHARING OUR STORIES AND OUR SONGS: THE NEXT 125

A Capital Campaign for Bethany Retirement Community

Bethany Methodist Communities' mission to provide faith-based exceptional health and housing programs began 125 years ago when we opened our first Bethany Home – Bethany Retirement Community (BRC).

In faithfulness to our history and to expand our mission in this community, we have initiated a capital campaign: "Sharing our Stories and Our Songs: The Next 125."

Contributions to this campaign will support renovations at BRC, allowing us to serve a growing number of our neighbors with affordable, accessible senior living in the heart of a great neighborhood.

Our commitment is ongoing for providing the kind of home that nurtures a sense of belonging, as well as expanding our role as a neighborhood center for hospitality and learning in the Ravenswood/Andersonville area. We need your help to do this.

Phase I of the BRC renovations is anticipated to begin in early spring 2015, thanks to the generous donations of early campaign supporters. We will initially focus on the community's first floor common areas.

Creating "a place to call home" – an atmosphere where residents and neighbors can thrive in a family setting for years to come – will require updates to the following areas:

- A new entryway and lobby
- Enhanced open spaces for community gatherings
- A chapel for people of all traditions
- Improved handicap accessibility
- Technological upgrades for entertainment, media and internet

We are very excited to begin these renovations and look forward to expanding our Call To Care mission for everyone that comes through our doors.

Retirement community delivers life-enriching program & events

Retirement community living offers an array of benefits that add to the quality of residents' lives. At The Clare, the high-rise retirement community on Rush and Pearson Streets near the historic Water Tower, residents enjoy a full schedule of programs and events every week—including lectures and discussion groups, concerts and performances, movies, exercise classes, social hours and clubs, cooking demonstrations, and more. Being involved and engaged is always an option.

Duplicate Bridge Group Scores High

"We really started thinking about creating a duplicate bridge group when Mr. and Mrs. Chinn moved into The Clare. He would play eight hours a day if he could!" Chris Lyon, Clare resident and bridge organizer, laughed when she talked about Mr. Chinn's passion for the game.

"You have to have at least 12 people for a sanctioned duplicate game, and we were concerned we wouldn't have enough interested people. Were we ever wrong to worry about that; we had 32 players last more skill and less luck than most card games. That's what makes it so fun. And it makes good brain exercise too."

In duplicate bridge, every table is playing the same cards, and players are competing not only against the people at their own table, but also trying to keep all other opponents from scoring high. Every week, scores are posted online at the Chicago Bridge Center web site so everyone can evaluate their success...or their less-than-competitive performance.

"We have about a 50/50 mix of Clare residents and non-residents participate in our bridge game. Most of the non-residents are friends, colleagues, and acquaintances of our Clare residents. It's become a really popular weekly event that everyone looks forward to. I think we'll continue to grow until we run out of room for tables!"

Susan Merdinger

Food for the Soul

Every week, Clare residents enjoy top caliber music performances in the building's public spaces.

One of the area's most sought after and versatile entertainers, Rob Cunningham, appeared at The Clare in April, upon his return from the Broadway production of Stephen Sondheim's Company. Another special treat in March was a preview of the 2015 Rush Hour Concert series, which featured violist Anthony Devroye, pianist Kuang-Hao Huang, and cellist Brant Taylor, all of whom also contribute to the artistic direction of the renowned series.

Susan Merdinger, a visiting artist of the Chicago Symphony for the past three years, made her debut at The Clare April 27, performing Saxon Variations, a composition by Elbio Barilari. The piece, named in honor of Clare resident Joyce Saxon, was recently broadcast live on WFMT. Merdinger related that she has spent her life in pursuit of "Lux et Veritas" – "Light and Truth" – as a concert pianist, striving to discover the meaning of music to transform lives.

Resident Engagement Creates Community

Residents of The Clare have unique and engaging stories to tell, and oftentimes programs will be developed by residents themselves.

At an April meeting of the Friars, The Clare's men's organization, resident Jay Tunney told his tale of ice cream entrepreneurial adventures in Korea during the 1980s. At that time, Tunney had observed the recent rise in ice cream popularity in Japan, and he thought he could promote the same idea in Korea.

He started selling Hobson's ice cream from a kiosk at the 1988 Seoul Olympics, and it was an immediate hit. With the close of the games, Jay moved his business into an elaborate ice cream parlor outside of a U.S. military base and in the "red light" district of Seoul, where, according to Tunney, soldiers and their girlfriends, Western tourists, Korean civilians, and Western expats would go shopping for food, clothing, and other things...like ice cream. The locals seemed to take to the cold treat until winter set in. Business fell off but he carried on developing several business relationships that helped grow his business, including a partnership with "Uncle Joe," a Korean businessman who owned a very popular 'hole in the wall' hamburger place in the diplomatic area of Seoul. Tunney Jay added Hobson's ice cream to Uncle Joe's menu and the synergy worked.

Tunney then introduced a new concept to Korea: the Kimcheeburger. Kimcheeburgers and ice cream became so popular that Tunney soon had 60 stores throughout the country.

Tunney is the son of prizefighter Gene Tunney and author of the book, The Prizefighter and the Playwright, the story of his father and his friendship with George Bernard Shaw. "The Koreans are wild about boxing," Tunney said, "so I didn't think Pop would have minded my prominently displaying a huge picture of him in a 1920s fighter pose near the counter."

Tunney said that having trained many Koreans in entrepreneurship and business was an incredibly rewarding period in his career.

As an extra treat during the program, Tunney's popular Korean ginseng flavor ice cream was re-created by The Clare's executive chef Hagop Hagopian.

ward and Carl Bernstein, to work for the Washington Post and help unravel the most important political story of the 20th century. And it is unlikely that any boomer would have spent enough time in Congress to emerge as the first woman Speaker of the House (like Nancy Pelosi), or served as the most powerful vice president in American history (like Dick Cheney).

“And just as was the case with foreign policy, war babies also used the media to transform both American culture and American politics—mostly by bringing their own personalities to bear on the issues they were probing,” Pells noted. “Pundits and news executives—none more so than George Will and Roger Ailes—employed their personal allegiances to shape political debate in America.”

As a generation the war babies experienced and accomplished “quite a bit” for which they aren’t credited.

They shook up gender roles

Not all the war babies who influenced modern America were men. Besides the female singers and actresses of the 1960s and 1970s, Pells points to two specific women who changed the way gender roles were perceived.

“Billie Jean King maximized her individuality, and not just as a tennis player, to bring about more financial and athletic equality for women,” he said. “And Nancy Pelosi took advantage of her background and instincts as the daughter of a politician to become Speaker of the House, and thus a model for other women with leadership ambitions. Pelosi has been as influential a politician as her male contemporaries like Dick Cheney, Joe Biden and Barney Frank.”

They introduced an enduring skepticism about political and social institutions

The war babies’ parents believed in the beneficence and honesty of the American government, as well as in the virtues of other pillars in American life. The Great Depression and World War II had taught them the advantages of working together for communal ideals—building labor unions in the 1930s, cooperating on the home front to help win the war and remaining loyal to the postwar organizations that gave them employment, affluence and a sense of collective identity.

“The war babies, however, saw the world much differently,” Pells said. “They were entertained by satirical comedy. They watched movies like ‘Rebel Without a Cause’ that dramatized a mistrust of authority figures of all types. And they were reading novels like J. D. Salinger’s ‘The Catcher in the Rye,’ or works of social criticism like David Riesman’s ‘The Lonely Crowd.’ As a result of these influences, the war babies lacked their parents’ faith in the integrity and intelligence of the American government. This view was reinforced by the Vietnam War and Watergate, and later Iraq and Afghanistan. This disillusion with the wisdom of people in power was the most notable contribution the war babies made to the overhaul of modern America.”

As a generation, Pells says the war babies experienced and accomplished “quite a bit” for which they aren’t credited.

“They played crucial roles in the liberation of African Americans from a century of segregation, the opposition to the Vietnam War, Watergate and the destruction of a presidential administration, and later American wars in Iraq and Afghanistan,” he said. “Along the way, they revolutionized America’s music and its movies. And they invented a culture and politics that were more personal and individualistic than those of their parents. So while the greatest generation and baby boomers shouldn’t be dismissed, it’s only fair to recognize that war babies are a special generation whose contributions to American life we have all come to share.”

Pells earned his bachelor’s degree from Rutgers University in 1963 and his doctorate in history from Harvard in 1969, where he taught for three years. Subsequently, he was awarded fellowships from the Rockefeller Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars and the Guggenheim Foundation, as well as six Fulbright chairs and lectureships for teaching abroad, particularly in Europe and Asia. Currently, he is professor of history emeritus at The University of Texas at Austin.

Wicker Park Choral Singers
“in time of”
FREE CONCERT

Wicker Park Choral Singers, directed by Mark Tomasino, is a 40-member all-volunteer group dedicated to building community through choral music.

This concert features the world premiere of “how little time we have: tweets from the ICU” by Florida-based composer Rob Redei. Redei’s piece sets eleven tweets made by Scott Simon, host of NPR’s Weekend Edition Saturday during his mother’s final days in the hospital. The tweets reverberated across social media, being called “Twitter at its most compassionate, loving, and human.”

The program also features another premiere by Chicago composer Eric Malmquist, entitled “Cast Out of Iron” and Steven Sametz’s setting of an e. e. cummings poem “in time of.”

Retirement isn't a curse

Seven fulfilling activities to stay active, healthy

BY KIMBERLY AARDAL

When people talk about senior citizens, they may use words like “retiree,” “middle aged,” “empty nester” and “baby boomer.”

All of the phrases are used to describe people who have moved from the working portion of their lives into a more sedentary, relaxed lifestyle.

This phase of life means the retirees can choose for themselves what they would like to do each morning, instead of getting up and tending to obligations like family and work.

Retirement, for some people, may seem like a curse, but it doesn't have to be that way. Anyone who sees retirement as “the end” will be glad to know that there are at least seven activities available to get life moving again.

Seven activities to avoid boredom in retirement

Travel

Many retirees have dreamed of the day they could actually relax on vacation without the hassle of having to go back to work. Well, the time has arrived for baby boomers. It's time to explore the world and all it has to offer. Whether it's close by or halfway around the world, traveling is a grand way to stay active in both mind and body.

Expand the mind

Travelers have the opportunity to explore new surroundings, see new sights and understand different cultures. It's important to learn as much as possible through the experience, bearing in mind that traveling isn't the only way to learn new things – an interest in a new language or instrument also can be explored. New activities keep the mind sharp, and keep people from getting bored.

Whether it's close by or halfway around the world, traveling is a grand way to stay active in both mind and body.

Mingle

When working, it can be difficult to stay in touch with friends and loved ones. But in retirement it's time to get into touch with these folks and reconnect with them. Mingling can do a world of good; take this opportunity to go meet new folks, whether in a cooking club or an art class. Consider hosting a party and bring together old and new friends and neighbors.

Bring a pet home

Another wonderful way to stay active is to get a pet. Regardless of what kind of animal (bird, cat, dog, hamster, lizard), nothing is better than taking care of something living that offers unconditional love. Unable to bring home a pet but still want to be around animals? Then volunteer at a local animal shelter. There are all kinds of cats and dogs waiting to be adopted, and while they wait they need love and care. Retirees also can take care of a neighbor's pet if the neighbor is ill or out of town.

Good cause

Get involved with a good cause. Many people are involved with causes that include children's rights, eco-friendly movements, animal rights and so much more. Work with people who share the same vision about how the world should be. Being involved with a good cause gives life a purpose.

Take up mentoring

Baby boomers have a lot to say and show the younger generation. Share this information with grandkids, be surrogate grandparent to neighborhood kids, or sign up with a mentoring program to make an impact on children's lives. Why not coach a team full of kids? There are many things to do with children to be a positive influence on their lives.

Keep moving

Stay active. Join a gym that has state of the art equipment, swim in a pool or join a dance class. Or, consider taking a walk around the block or riding a bike. It's always best to speak with a doctor before beginning an exercise program. Other activities involving motion include planting a garden or doing some home improvements. There is something out there for everyone.

Remember, this is the time in life not to worry about the issues that consume people in their 20s, 30s, 40s and 50s. So, take time out to enjoy what life has to offer. Do any one of these activities, enjoy the experience and feel energetic about life.

Brookdale residents celebrate 100-plus years during party

Twelve residents ages 100-105 at Brookdale Lake Shore Drive senior living community in Chicago commemorated the 100th day of 2015 on April 10. More than 75 family and friends joined the residents in the Oakdale Room of the community center where they enjoyed a cake from Dinkel's Bakery as well as live music and refreshments and vintage photos of the residents. The event featured a display of milestone events from April 10, 1915 – a century ago.

partment of Planning and Development. “We want to make sure there are affordable housing opportunities in the neighborhoods for seniors.”

Today, RSL is home to more than 100 seniors with a wide range of income levels.

RSL is part of Renaissance's Lakeview Senior Campus and offers easy access to a variety of restaurants, shops and entertainment options. Transportation, banks and supermarkets are close by, making this a desirable and fulfilling environment in which to live and grow young. This beautiful 90-unit building has studio, one-bedroom, and two-bedroom apartment homes where residents enjoy an outdoor garden terrace, club room, library and computer center, on-site laundry, garage parking and secured entry. On-site wellness and social programming is abundant and ongoing, with an enthusiastic resident social committee. Concerts, holiday meals and fun inter-generational events with Saint Luke Academy are open to residents throughout the year. Residents celebrated the community's 10th anniversary with a gala event April 25 showcasing these creative seniors with songs, music, poetry, visual arts and storytelling. SCHUBA'S from p. 1 music venues on the North Side.

Located at Belmont and Southport, most locals see Schuba's as more than just an upscale bar in a Yuppie neighborhood. It is considered one of the best small rooms in town and has been a destination for rising acts. But long before it was a popular music venue Schuba's was a Schlitz "tied house" [a brewery-owned bar where it exclusively sold its own drinks]. In a nod to the past, they still serve Schlitz on tap.

The building itself is a designated city historical landmark. It is one of 44 remaining Schlitz "tied house" taverns remaining in town.

Mike and Chris Schuba say that they both felt that it was a good time to sell the two properties. They say that the new ownership group plans to retain most of the 70 employees now working at the two clubs.

Bucktown-based Audiotree began operating in Chicago in 2011. They claim to be an artist-centric music company, best known for their in-studio concert series, Au-diotree Live. They also provide artist management, concert promotion, concert filming/recording, and various à la carte music industry services. "We love music, and want to use that love to positively impact the lives of as many people as possible," notes their web site.

It is also involved in artist management and promotion, and in the last two years has staged a festival in Kalamazoo, MI. Founders, Michael Johnston and Adam Thurston, grew up in Kalamazoo, and Johnston's father, William, is president of Kalamazoo-based Greenleaf Companies, which owns restaurants, hotels and a minor-league hockey team. They also do financial planning and offer asset management for trusts, estate settlement, and comprehensive trust administration services. They act as sole trustee, co-trustee, agent for trustee, or successor trustee for virtually every type of personal trust.

Michael Johnston and his father are reportedly partners in the Schubas and Lincoln Hall new ownership.

smashed against barricades that some people began to yell for help.

Despite attempts by police to hold off crowds, the sheer number of people pushing from behind forced many to jump the fence barricades and stand in the streets along the parade route. Police continued to add barricades to create a divide between fence-jumpers and the parade itself, but eventually the crowd overtook the route, and officials with the Office of Emergency Management and Communications re-directed about 50 floats off the scheduled route, south on Clark toward Diversey.

After the dust settled from that 2011 parade, Pfeiffer told the Windy City Times newspaper that the parade had tripled the number of marshals leading up to 2011 and had "produced 120 marshals for this year's event." But Pfeiffer had assured the city that there would be 135 marshals that year, but even those 120 marshals didn't appear to be enough.

Despite the crowding and safety concerns in 2011, the parade inexplicably slashed the number of parade marshals it promised in 2012 to "at least 60." And only 60 marshals were promised again as the parade continued to grow in 2013. Information on the parade's 2014 marshaling plan was not provided to reporters.

The number of parade monitors—responsible for keeping parade entries moving and orderly—has also been reduced since 2011, according to Pfeiffer's letters to the city. After promising "at least 650 monitors" in 2011, the number of monitors promised has been reduced to 450.

Pfeiffer did not respond to an email last week questioning the apparent reduction in marshals and monitors.

Organizers and the city responded to 2011 mess by lengthening and changing the route in 2012, hoping that spectators would spread out.

"We are asking people to come to the beginning of the route [in Uptown]" said Pfeiffer at the time. "Halsted will be busy with the bars. Come to the first few blocks."

But most people still wanted to watch the parade in the heart of Boyston section of the parade route.

During the 2013 parade, observers in a Chicago police helicopter repeatedly warned resources on the ground that overwhelming crowds were about to break through the barricades at Addison and Halsted.

"It's bulging out. You might be losing it," the airborne officer said in a recording secured by CWB. The helicopter went on to warn of more potentially dangerous overcrowding along barricades at Roscoe and Halsted.

Ultimately, the police lines held.

Police became concerned about Pride Parade crowds last year, too, according to other recordings:

"You got a problem at Halsted and Aldine. They're coming in off the side streets," the pilot says in audio reviewed by CWB. "You got at least 100 people smashed in that area and they're still coming."

That crowd eventually swelled and crushed a Chicago police squad car. "Every [CTA] train brings another 100 people" to the Belmont station, the helicopter crew reported. Thirty minutes later, CTA closed the Belmont terminal by police order—for the fourth year in a row.

Sources within Chicago's emergency services who've spoken with us about the parade are hardly surprised by the decision to ignore pleas to move the parade.

"What can [you] do?" one source shrugged. "We can only do so much."
