Do you really own your home?

Scammers putting liens on Chicago homes in attempt to swipe them from rightful owners

Think you own your house? Better check out your deed. You could be in for a rude awakening.

There may be claims against your property you might never know about until you're getting ready to refinance or sell that home, Marto Reed and Brian Cross of the Cook County Recorder's office warned Lake View Kiwanis Club members recently.

Speaking at a May 6, luncheon at Ann Sathers Restaurant, 909 W. Belmont Ave., Cross said there have been cases of million Dollar liens filed against properties and filed against stunned homeowners – homeowners who had no idea someone else owned their home, at least on paper.

Some of these scammers are brazen enough to seize a home when the homeowner is away, change the locks and occupy the property as happened last year to a $1.6 million home in Sauganash. "They literally barricaded themselves inside and we had to call in a police swat team to get them out," said Reed.

Even former Chicago City Treasurer Stephanie Neely was at her wits' end on learning a dead imam from an obscure Muslim sect and his mosque "owned" the South Side home she lived in since 2002.

Rezoning request for proposed auto repair facility raises concerns

Sabir Makdoom, owner of OK Auto Repair and Body Shop, 1712 W. Pratt, purchased the property at 7238-40 N. Rogers.

STORY AND PHOTOS BY BOB KITSOS

An April 29 community meeting dealing with the rezoning of a proposed auto repair and body shop has raised some hackles from the Rogers Park community. Sabir Makdoom, owner of OK Auto Repair, 1712 W. Pratt, purchased the vacant property at 7238-40 N. Rogers last year and hopes to move the business to this location. He has been at his current location for 23 years.

In a recent posting on EveryBlock, a website for neighborhood discussions, local resident Jackie Alvarez raised issues related to exhaust venting, impact on traffic and noise from the shop (from pneumatic wrench, lifts, tow trucks and hammers).

Following up on the posting, Ald. Joe Moore [49th] said, "I'm not going to respond point by point, especially as I have not made a decision on the proposal. I am listening to and considering all opinions on the proposal, including those expressed by the members of my 49th Ward Zoning and Land Use Committee, my constituents who sent emails to my office and the residents who attended the community meeting."

The building historically has served as a private garage, first for a school bus company and then later for medical transportation companies Jay Medicar and, most recently, Supreme Medicar, which closed its doors in 2011. The property has been shuttered ever

New chief-of-staff in 49th Ward office

BY BOB KITSOS

Ald. Joe Moore (49th) announced on Monday that long-time Rogers Park resident and community activist, Kevin O'Neil, has been named his new chief-of-staff. O'Neil's first day on the job will be May 18, the alderman's first day of his new term as alderman.

Ald. Moore has served as 49th Ward alderman since 1991. O'Neil replaces Betsy Vandercook, who held that post for the past seven years.

O'Neil's general responsibilities will include office management of staff, interns and volunteers, media requests, schools and education information, participatory budgeting oversight and recycling expertise.

"I've known Kevin for 25 years," said Ald. Moore. "His record of community activism and thoughtful leadership in Rogers Park is unparalleled."

Ald. Moore worked with O'Neil in a successful effort to bring community policing to Chicago. When the city named the 24th Police District as one of the city's four community policing pilot districts, O'Neil immediately volunteered to be the beat facilitator for Beat 2431, centered around the Morse Ave. business district.

As a CAPS facilitator, he since.

“The property originally was zoned for commercial uses, allowing for a garage, but at some point prior to my election as alderman 24 years ago, the property was changed to a residential zoning district,” Ald. Moore said. “Because the property was used as a garage when the zoning change occurred, the garage use was ‘grandfathered.’”

“When Supreme Medicar went out of business and the property remained vacant for a year, use of the property for a commercial garage was no longer grandfathered and only residential uses were permitted,” he said.

Therefore, the proposed use of the property as an auto repair and body shop would require a change in the RT4 Residential Zoning District C1-1 Neighborhood Commercial District, which would allow for the licensing of an auto repair facility.

Addressing some concerns, Ald. Moore said, “The repair and auto body industry is strictly regulated. If the proposed repair shop were to receive a zoning change and their license, the public would be protected from any fumes, vapors or loud noise emanating from the establishment.”

Makdoom is a little puzzled by the initial opposition to the rezoning request. “If approved, the neighborhood will be getting a good facility,” he said. “All the work will be done inside the facility and it will be properly vented.”

If the proposed rezoning is approved, Makdoom has agreed to make significant improvements to the bow-truss warehouse’s exterior. This would include cleaning, tuck pointing and painting the brick façade, repairing the clay tile roofing feature, installing garage doors with clear glass windows and replacing the glass block windows and boards with clear glass windows. He said he will sell the facility if the rezoning request is not approved.

The 49th Ward Zoning and Land Use Advisory Committee met on May 12 to consider the feedback from the community meeting and from other sources such as emails, phone calls and comments on the Ward’s Facebook page. No additional community meetings are planned.

focused on bad buildings in his area. He played a key role in transforming 1528 W. Morse from a crack house to an affordable senior housing building.

Among his other CAPS accomplishments, O’Neil organized the first “positive loitering” campaign in Rogers Park, in which ordinary community residents gather to form a positive presence on neighborhood streets, thus discouraging criminal activity.

He also served for many years on the board of directors for DevCorp North, the predecessor agency to the Rogers Park Business Alliance. During his tenure as board president, O’Neil and DevCorp worked with the alderman to bring the Gateway Centre Shopping Center to Rogers Park.

“Kevin has chaired my 49th Ward Zoning and Land Use Advisory Committee,” said Ald. Moore. They are “the committee of neighborhood residents and community leaders who advise me on zoning and land-use matters that come before me.” O’Neil will resign from that committee when he assumes the chief-of-staff position next week.

O’Neil worked at the American Medical Assoc. for almost 30 years, first as editor for its weekly newspaper for physicians and more recently as its director of internal and external communications. He also writes CTA Tattler, a popular blog about things seen and heard on the Chicago Transit Authority.

Applesauce, Amazon, amazing attitude and another birthday for a local hero

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

My mother always told me, “When life gives you lemons, make lemonade.” To me, no one has done that more beautifully than former Chicago cop Jim Mullen.

Next year, it will be 20 years since Mullen was critically-injured in the line of duty after answering the Rogers Park call that forever changed his life and

Yet instead of giving up and lying down to die, Mullen took his mom’s old recipe and started making applesauce. Officer Mullen’s Apple Sauce is marketed as “Like apple pie without the crust.” He speaks the truth when he describes the delicious sauce that way.

Mullen tells me that the applesauce is now available on Amazon by the case and in a three pack. If you’re a prime member, it will ship to you for free anywhere in the country. You can still also find it locally through most grocery stores including Jewel, Mariano’s, Whole Foods, as well as independent stores like Treasure Island and Sunset Foods.

“I would like people to know that we are a local product and a little something about my story and my sacrifice to the City of Chicago,” said Mullen. “Really the most important fact about my applesauce is that it is a 100 percent fruit product and there is no added water.

“Most other applesauces on the market are much cheaper, but you are just paying for water,” he said. “This is the best product on the market today and has the taste and consistency of apple pie without the crust.”

Besides the applesauce news, Mullen also just turned 51, so happy birthday to him! It was a day that he actually never, ever thought he would see. It should be a lesson to us all in the power of a positive mental attitude.

“Today I am 51 and I never thought I would see 40 or 35 for that matter,” Mullen told me on his birthday, May 3. “I must tell you I am quite surprised that I have lived as long as I have.

“I don’t feel 51, and still think I’m in my 20s or early 30s,” said Mullen. “Denial can be a very positive influence. Quite frankly, I never thought I was going to live to see age 40.”

“Most people with my condition do not seem to fare very well,” he said. “I have the attitude of looking at it that I really have received an extra 19 years at this point and every day afterwards is a bonus because I really should have been dead after I was shot. That may seem strange to some people, but it helps me keep going from one day to the next.”

Mullen spends most of his time pushing applesauce, but now, with the warmer weather in sight, he said he’ll be out cruising around in a convertible. “I can hardly wait to get on the road, especially down Lake Shore Dr.,” he said.

Everyone from his family is also doing well, Mullen reported when I asked for an update. His lovely wife, Athena, is still working for the city and his daughter, Margaret, is a freshman at DePaul Univ. “I’m very blessed because I still have my father with me who is going to turn 93 in the next couple of months,” said Mullen. “He still feels good and looks great and people would swear he was in his 70s.”

It so good to know that things are going well for Officer Mullen. I like checking in with him from time to time to find out how he and his applesauce are doing. Start spreading the news, please, that Officer

Jim Mullen’s applesauce is now being sold on Amazon.

Mullen’s Apple Sauce can now be bought on Amazon. It’s the least we Chicagoans can all do for someone whose life was changed so drastically while serving and protecting us.

“Please ask your readers to share a jar with a friend,” said Mullen, who donates a portion of proceeds to the Chicago Police Memorial Foundation. “So far, word-of-mouth advertising is really our best form of advertising. I would like to ask everyone a favor that has tried the applesauce and ask them to buy one for a friend.”

Tim Egan hit the dance floor at the Stan Mansion to raise funds for A Ray of Hope on Earth.

Tangoing Tim... Last month, former Chicago Bears cornerback and A Ray of Hope on Earth founder, Ray McElroy, hosted the first “A Ray of Stars,” Celebrity Dancing with the Stars fundraiser, which raised money for Chicago youth, and was held at the historic Stan Mansion in Logan Square. The event was hosted by former Chicago Bear Anthony Adams, and featured contestants such as “Chicago’s Best” host Brittney Payton; V103 On-Air host Consuella Williams; Misty McMichael, wife of the Chicago Bear’s great Steve McMichael; Winiecki Wealth Management’s Kurt Winiecki; and Roseland Community Hospital CEO/Near North Sider Tim Egan, who cut some rug with a fierce tango. Although Brittney Payton walked away as the “A Ray of Stars” first celebrity Mirror Ball Award winner, we just had to run a shot of that oh-so smooth Tim Egan out on the dance floor, tackling the tango for a good cause.

“It was an experience definitely outside of my comfort zone,” said Egan. “While I played basketball in college all over the country in front of big crowds and played rugby all over the world - along with being in the Chicago political spotlight - this was my first live arts performance. It was all for Ray of Hope and the great work Ray does with underprivileged kids in Chicago.”

Hats off to American Theater Company (ATC)... for doing something very cool with its special community tour of “The Project(s),” a world premiere, documentary play about the history of Chicago’s public

Luxury home sales on a roll, but interest-rate creep is on the way

BY DON DeBAT

Million-dollar-plus homes and condominiums sold at a fast clip in Chicago in early 2015, but the threat of higher mortgage interest rates hangs like a cloud over the housing market, experts say.

The RE/MAX Luxury Report on Metro Chicago Real Estate, a quarterly analysis of $1-million-plus home sales, shows the luxury housing market in Chicago enjoyed a strong January-through-March first quarter in 2015. However, prices for posh homes, townhomes and condos slipped a bit.

“We saw a slight decline in median sales prices in the luxury category during the first quarter, but in our view that isn’t a negative,” said Jim Merrion, regional director of the RE/MAX Northern Illinois real estate network. “Instead, it indicates that sales accelerated most rapidly in the $1 million to $1.5 million segment of the luxury market, which is what you would expect to see as consumer confidence rises.”

Transaction volume was 18% higher than in the same period of 2014, with 209 luxury homes and condos changing hands. The median sales price for all luxury units was $1,373,750, about 2 percent less than a year ago. Average market time fell by 10 days to 115 days.

Sales of $1-million-plus detached single-family homes increased to 105 units. That’s a gain of 30% over the first quarter of 2014. Detached homes had a median sales price of $1.411 million compared with $1.425 million a year earlier.

Unfortunately, news of strong first-quarter luxury home sales was tempered by an early May Freddie Mac report that said home-loan rates are beginning to rise.

Freddie Mac’s Primary Mortgage Market Survey reported that benchmark 30-year fixed home loans rose on May 7 to an average of 3.80% from 3.68% a week earlier following a rise in 10-year Treasury yields. A year ago at this time, the 30-year fixed loans averaged 4.21%.

RE/MAX noted that three city neighborhoods showed particularly sharp gains in luxury detached home sales in the first three months of 2015:

- North Center. Luxury home sales skyrocketed 69% to 22 properties. The median luxury home price in North Center rose 10% to $1,387,000.
- Lake View. Twenty luxury homes were sold, an increase of 82% from the same period in 2014.
- West Town. The neighborhood recorded 13 luxury home sales in the first quarter, up 86% from the same period last year.

A similar scenario played out in the city market for attached homes, or condos and townhomes. Sales for the quarter rose eight percent to 104 condo and townhome units. However, the median sales price slipped two percent to $1,342,500. Market times for condos and townhomes shortened considerably, falling 28 days to an average of 112 days.

The RE/MAX report analyzes the sale of $1-million-plus homes in seven Chicago-area counties—Cook, DuPage, Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry and Will.

Luxury homes in all seven counties sold at a faster pace during the first quarter of 2015 than they did a year earlier in the seven-county metropolitan Chicago real estate market.

Transaction activity was 16% higher for the period, with luxury home sales totaling 378 units. Luxury properties sold during the quarter were also finding buyers more quickly, requiring an average of just 144 days, compared to 158 days during the same period last year, according to RE/MAX.

The median sales price for those homes was $1.35 million during the first quarter, down from $1,372,500 a year earlier.

Over the course of the last two years, luxury home sales in metro Chicago during the first quarter of the year have grown by 37%, and the lion’s share of that growth has been in Chicago, rather than in the suburbs. First-quarter city luxury sales rose 54% over that period, while suburban luxury sales gained 21%.

Local government units trying to become less accountable, less transparent to taxpayers

BY DENNIS DEROSSETT
Illinois Press Association

As state government scurries to fill a projected $8 billion deficit in the 2016 fiscal year budget, it would seem to make sense to move beyond successful compromises and proven solutions already in place and instead focus on issues that truly have a significant impact on the state's finances.

At least you would think so given the seriousness of the fiscal crisis.

But that's not the case with some elected officials and local government lobbyists that represent the more than 7,000 taxpayer funded units of government in Illinois. Behind-the-scenes efforts are currently taking place that would reduce their obligation of accountability and transparency to taxpayers, all under the guise of the state's financial crisis. It's a "smoke-and-mirrors" attempt by local governments at a time of fiscal crisis where Illinois taxpayers would end up on the losing end.

One successful compromise and proven solution that is now in its fifth year of operation is the PublicNoticeIllinois (PNI) website, or www.publicnoticeillinois.com. PNI is a centralized, aggregated website for all public notices from the state of Illinois, units of local government, and the Illinois court system. It's a free-access website that is updated daily. It's an example of a proven, successful public-private partnership that is already saving taxpayers money and should be supported by elected officials at all levels of government.

Public notices, or legal notices as they are often referred to, are a fundamental component in the foundation of our democracy and of our legal system. For more than 200 years, newspapers have been paid to print public notices and to serve as the critically important independent third-party between units of local government and taxpayers, and have functioned as the official notification system of our court system. Notice of publication in newspapers provides the proven and necessary verification, certification and archiving solution that ensure individuals and taxpayers rights are protected and preserved.

Frankly, it's a process that has worked so well and for so long that those wanting to eliminate it or change to another process rarely consider the chaos and disruption to government bodies and to the court system that would take place without this proper verification, certification and archiving of public notices and notices of the courts. PNI was created by state law in 2011 and was approved unanimously by both chambers of the Illinois General Assembly. Yes, u n a n i m o u s l y . Key components of the law called for the creation of a centralized website for public notices that would be managed by Illinois newspapers. It requires newspapers - including this one - to upload all notices to PNI after the notices appear in print. All of this is done at no additional cost to government. No taxpayer money goes towards supporting or managing the public notice website.

Commentary

With each new session of the Illinois General Assembly, local government lobbyists -- whose paychecks are funded largely by your tax dollars --repeatedly push bills to eliminate public notices or remove them from newspapers and PNI in favor of their own individual websites. These bills rarely make it out of committee because, frankly, state lawmakers understand that forcing citizens to attempt to locate notices across 7,000 websites doesn't make sense.

(Actually, it would be about 4,000 websites as many units of local government do not yet have a website.)

Such legislation was introduced and failed again earlier this session. However, local government groups are now using behind the scenes tactics to remove public notices from print and from PNI and, instead, have the notices placed on their individual websites. But, this time they have a new twist: They are claiming that having to be accountable and transparent through the current public notice process is an "unfunded mandate" and they want to do away with it.

The simple fact is this issue is not about money, it's about reducing transparency and accountability to the taxpayers.

Every year Illinois citizens dutifully fulfill their obligation of paying many types and amounts of taxes to support these thousands of local government units throughout the state. Each of these units has an annual operating budget that ranges from tens of thousands of dollars to hundreds of millions and even billions of dollars. Taxpayer dollars, that is.

It's not at all about "saving the taxpayers money" because that has already been done successfully through the 2011 legislation and PNI. Local governments will still try to sell it that way, however. Local government officials should focus on the big-impact issues, allow the proven public notice solution in our state to keep on working, and not spend so much time and taxpayer dollars on how to be less accountable and less transparent.

American Revolutionary: The Evolution of Grace Lee Boggs to be screened May 23 at Bezazian

The Bezazian Branch of the Chicago Public Library, 1226 W. Ainslie St., will screen American Revolutionary: The Evolution of Grace Lee Boggs, 3 p.m. Saturday, May 23. Boggs is a 98-year-old Chinese American activist, author and philosopher in Detroit with a thick FBI file and a surprising vision of what an American revolution can be.

Active for 75 years in the labor, civil rights and Black Power movements, she challenges a new generation to throw off old assumptions and redefine revolution for our times.

Born in 1915 to Chinese immigrants who moved to New York and prospered in the restaurant trade -- Chin Lee's opened in Manhattan in 1924 -- Lee grew up relatively privileged and attended Bryn Mawr and Barnard Colleges. But after finishing her doctorate, she found herself blocked by signs stating "We don't hire Orientals." So she took a train to Chicago, where she found a job at the Univ. of Chicago's philosophy library and an apartment on the South Side and began organizing her new neighborhood against rat-infested housing. The rest is a people's history of the American left.

Directed by Grace Lee, the film received the Audience Award for Best Documentary Feature at the Los Angeles Film Festival and the Woodstock Film Festival. This event is a collaboration with POV, PBS' award-winning nonfiction film series.

Orlando's Dream A Consort of Clarinets

Perhaps Orlando Gibbons was dreaming of clarinets when he composed his miraculous Fantasias for viols in the early 1600s. The clarinet, invented years later, suites this mysterious consort music perfectly! Orlando's Dream brings together three inspiring clarinetist, covering the gamut of the clarinet family: Kurt Bjorling, basset-horn and E-flat (alto) clarinet; Don Jacobs, soprano clarinet; and Jeff Kimmel, bass clarinet. The trio presents a feast of early music of the 16th and 17th centuries, with special appetizers and desserts by J. S. Bach and Scott Joplin.

Zoo announces first-ever sculpture show, runs now through October

For folks looking for a more intimate experience, the monthly evening sculpture stroll will provide an opportunity for exclusive after-hours tours.

Move over Michelangelo, there are new sculptors in town. The Lincoln Park Zoo is revealing its first-ever temporary garden sculpture show, Nature in Motion, highlighting 15 sculptures from 16 local artisans beginning Friday and running through October.

Ranging from 50 to 4,000 lbs., the works of art will be divvied around the zoo’s luscious gardens. Guests can stroll from sculpture to sculpture independently or join a free guided tour Fridays-Sundays at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tours will visit each sculpture, provide additional information about both artist and the work and have an open discussion about various perceptions of the art and how it relates to the nature in motion theme.

For guests looking for a more intimate and in-depth experience, the monthly Evening Sculpture Stroll will provide an opportunity for an exclusive tour after-hours. The stillness of the zoo offers a perfect palate to appreciate the art and flora without distractions. Evening Sculpture Stroll cost $13 ($10 for zoo members) and will take place six times over the Summer.

“The Nature in Motion sculpture show is another exciting way for guests to enjoy the zoo, in addition to our beloved animals and historic architecture” said Troy Baresel, a zoo spokesman. “The size, intricacies and colors of the sculptures really seem to pop and bring new life to the zoo’s unique gardens.”

Guests who experience Nature in Motion during their visit will also have an opportunity to win tickets to the July 29 Wine & Wildflowers series or an Evening Sculpture Stroll by sharing a photo of their favorite sculpture on either Twitter or Instagram. Winners will be randomly selected.

Just as the art form itself, sculpture has a rooted history at the zoo – from the lion-sized Adolor statue that welcomes guests through the main entrance, to The Fountain for the Young at Heart drinking fountain made of bronze animal figurines to Sunform, the larger-than-life sundial in the heart of the zoo at Park Place Café.

Local hotel first on North Side to team with Tesla Motors

The Guesthouse Hotel, 4872 N. Clark St.

The Tesla High Power Connector adds 58 miles per hour.

Tesla Destination Charging now offered as new amenity for guests
BY SHEILA SWANN

The Guesthouse Hotel, 4872 N Clark St., has teamed up with Tesla Motors to provide an increasingly desirable amenity; Tesla Destination Charging.

The Guesthouse Hotel in Andersonville is currently the only property on the north side of Chicago to be awarded membership in Select Registry. The North Side hotel joins a rapidly growing network of resorts in Tesla Destination Charging, including more than 160 other Select Registry properties throughout the U.S. This new program provides hotels, resorts, and restaurants around the world with charging equipment, and gives Tesla drivers the freedom to charge wherever they want to travel by replicating the charging convenience owners are accustomed to at home. (The Guesthouse Hotel has one 80A Tesla Wall Connector and a universal wall connector available free of charge to hotel guests)

“We are continually exploring new ideas in order to enhance the guest experience,” said Rick Verkler, General Manager of The Guesthouse Hotel. “Partnering with such an innovative company like Tesla, made possible by our membership in Select Registry, further exemplifies that commitment by offering guests the very latest in modern conveniences.”

Tesla’s growing Supercharger network (now 400 stations along frequently-traveled highways) has inspired Model S owners to hit the road in increasing numbers. Owners can drive all day, charging for 30-40 minutes at Superchargers and then stop at night to stay at The Guesthouse Hotel, other quality-assured Select Registry properties, and other locations that have installed Tesla High Power Connectors. Tesla’s High Power Wall Connectors add 58 miles of range per hour, topping off Model S’s full 265 miles of range in just a few hours on a single charge.

The Tesla 80A Wall Connector.

Select Registry properties and other Tesla Destination Charging locations are hosted on Tesla’s interactive webpage and will soon be GPS located on Model S’ navigation through a free software update sent wirelessly to the car. In coming months, Tesla owners will be able to use the Model S 17” touch screen to easily plan trips and locate the property.

For all her financial expertise, Neely had to hire a lawyer to sort out the mess, according to the recorder’s office. It turned out even the sect’s grand Sheik had no knowledge of the transfer, but said there had been other organizations using the sect’s name claiming ownership of Chicago properties said to be worth more than $10 million.

Laying claim to other people’s property is easier than most people think, said Reed and Cross, noting that all someone has to do – if they have no legal claim to the property – is to fill out a blank deed indicating the property is being transferred to someone else. Once the papers are notarized and a registration fee is paid, the bogus deed is part of the official record.

Fortunately, it’s never been easier for homeowners to nip this kind of fraud in the bud, Reed and Cross said. Just fill out the recorder’s free property fraud alert which notifies homeowners by phone or e-mail anytime a document is recorded against the property owner’s Property Index Number (PIN), Cross said. Property owners can sign up by visiting www.CookRecorder.com or by calling 800-728-3858.

“We don’t want people trying to sell you the Brooklyn Bridge when they don’t own it,” Cross said.

Heightened public awareness of the problem has helped arrest and prosecute more than 20 offenders in the past few years, said Cross. He added that a growing number of these incidents appear to be linked to the so-called “Sovereign Citizens” and “Moorish American National” movements, anti-tax, anti-government groups whose members are sometimes linked to financial schemes, including taking over people’s deeds without their even knowing it. It’s happening all across the U.S.

Last July a woman in Chesterfield, MO, attempted to steal a $4.7 million home by filing false paperwork and claiming to be a sovereign citizen. Another group tried to swipe 10 homes all at once last year in Cincinnati.

In 2011 Marshall Edwin Home of Arizona thought big and filed documents in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court seeking to place the U.S. itself into bankruptcy, claiming that he personally had a $3 billion claim against the federal government.

Lane Tech charity carnival coming Memorial Day weekend

Lane carnival will be held in the school campus parking lot on Western Ave. just south of Cornelia Ave.

BY DEBAT MEDIA SERVICES

Carnival enthusiasts are invited to attend the eighth annual “Lane Tech Century Foundation Memorial Day Carnival,” a charity event to celebrate 107 years of excellence at Lane Tech College Prep High School on Memorial Day weekend, May 22 through 25.

The carnival will be held in the high school campus parking lot on Western Ave. just south of Cornelia Ave. (3500 North). Visitors may park in the Lane Tech lot for a $5 fee.

“The four-day festival will attract hundreds of alumni, students and friends, along with thousands of Lakeview, Roscoe Village, North Center and Lincoln Square neighborhood residents to help celebrate the school’s 103rd anniversary and raise funds to restore Lane Tech’s campus,” said John H. Schwan, chairman of the Lane Tech Century Foundation.

The Memorial Day Carnival will present Windy City Amusements’ famed rides—the Carousel, the Tilt-A-Whirl, Tea Cups, Speedway and other attractions, games of chance and food.

“Windy City Amusement will provide carnival rides for teens, tweens and kids and hopefully bring back some of the nostalgia of Riverview,” said Schwan. “The carnival menu includes everything from cotton candy, funnel cakes and elephant ears to hot dogs, corn dogs, soft pretzels, caramel apples and lemon shake-ups.” ATM machines will be available for both cash and ticket purchases.

“The Foundation’s continuing charity efforts are to raise more than $2 million for the school’s Centennial Celebration. The money is earmarked for restoration of Lane Tech’s 81-year-old building and campus,” Schwan said.

“With the centennial celebration now in its seventh year, we invite the more than 80,000 Lane Tech alumni, their friends, family and neighborhood residents to participate in these historic events,” Schwan said.

Hours of the event are: Friday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m. and Memorial Day, Monday from noon to 8 p.m.

For more information call 773-534-5400 or visit www.lanetech.org.

Century Foundation

The Lane Tech Century Foundation was established in March of 2004 by Lane Alumni to raise money to restore Lane’s building and campus. The foundation’s centennial charity efforts already have generated more than $2 million for restoration of the Lane Tech campus.

Through donations and grants, the Foundation’s accomplishments include the restoration Lane Tech’s 25,000-square-foot Memorial Garden and two historic fountain statues. The cast-stone statues were designed and erected in 1935 by Charles Umlauf, a renowned WPA artist.

The foundation also supported the $250,000 Hewitt College and Career Center (HCCC) which replaced an old, unused print shop. The center is equipped with a state-of-the-art computer lab, projector, screen and Promethean Board, classroom, small library and a Board Room.

The Century Foundation also supported the “Fields of Dreams” committee proposal that resulted in a $200,000 National Football League grant to install field turf in Lane Stadium.

Community Day provides opportunity to engage neighbors, share ideas

About 300 area residents participated in the 48th Ward’s first Community Day on May 2. “It was a great opportunity for neighbors to learn more about the Edgewater-Uptown-Andersonville communities and share their own experiences and knowledge,” said Ald. Harry Osterman [48th].

At the event, which was held at Senn High School, community leaders conducted a total of 19 workshops related to economic development, sustainability, community building, education and public safety.

Workshop topics ranged from art in the community and block clubs to gardening, green living, gang awareness and how to support your local school. Participants were encouraged to share their ideas, offer suggestions and ask questions about particular issues.

Attendees also had the opportunity to meet the Alderman, Senn High School Principal Susan Lofton, other local school principals and 20th District Police Commander Cornelia Loft.

Representatives from various community groups provided information and resources to individuals who wanted to learn about the organizations.

Ronald Sparks, 34, of 7700 S. Throop St., was arrested at 1:45 a.m. Monday in the 800 block of N. State St. An Action K9 Security Agent observed Sparks smoking inside a CTA railcar. That agent observed that Sparks also matched the description of a wanted criminal sexual assault offender from Sunday.

Sparks was detained until Police arrived. Sparks was identified as the offender who attacked a 27 year old female CTA passenger on a southbound Red Line train. The assault occurred just south of the Fullerton stop in Lincoln Park

Sparks was arrested and charged with one felony count of Aggravated Criminal Sexual Assault/Bodily Harm; One Municipal count of Smoking on the CTA.

Man holds up Dollar Store with plastic cup

Police arrested Joseph Ellis May 6 for felony armed robbery after he allegedly held up a Rogers Park Family Dollar store with a fake weapon.

Ellis had jammed his hand into a black plastic cup and held it inside a jacket pocket to simulate a handgun, police said. The cashier told police he'd pointed the fake gun at her and yelled, "I got kids to feed, give me everything in the register!"

Officers investigating the armed robbery call found Ellis still inside the store standing at the register. The cup was found in his pocket, according to the report.

Woman has car hijacked during conversation

A 24-year-old woman told police that her vehicle was hijacked at gunpoint the morning of May 6 in the 2100 block of W.

Pratt Blvd. Officers from the Near North District (18th) found the vehicle abandoned about an hour later after it was involved in a traffic accident at an unspecified location. An evidence technician was sent to inspect the vehicle.

The victim, who was visiting Rogers Park from Dunning on the West Side, said she was standing outside her car around 3 a.m. talking with a friend when a man with a handgun approached. He'd threatened her at gunpoint and demanded the keys to her vehicle, which she handed over.

The man took the vehicle and sped off west on Pratt Blvd. The woman lost a purse, $200 cash and a new iPhone 6 Plus that were inside the vehicle at the time, police said.

Group claims they were robbed at gunpoint at Loyola

Two gunmen allegedly robbed three people on the campus of Loyola Univ. early the morning of May 6.

One of the male victims was forced to pull down his pants and stand still before the gunmen escaped on foot, according to police.

The victims—a 21-year-old woman and two 22-year-old men—were in the 1000 block of Sheridan Rd. around 3 a.m. when the men attacked. The gunmen had crossed over from the south side of the street and threatened to shoot the group.

The victims handed over an unspecified amount of cash, credit cards and an iPhone 6, police said. The robbers escaped running west on Sheridan Rd. No arrests were made.

Jerome Jackson

Son stabs mother just before Mother's Day

Jerome Jackson, 24, was arrested and charged with First Degree Murder in connection to a stabbing incident which occurred on the 6200 block of N. Bell Ave. 4:20 a.m. May 5. James became involved in a domestic dispute with his 53-year-old mother during which he fatally stabbed her.

Teen shot in Rogers Park, suffers minor injury

A 14-year-old suffered a minor bullet wound May 3 after an unidentified gunman began firing out of an alleyway in Rogers Park.

Officers investigating a shots fired call were told by multiple citizens that the teen was hit in the 1900 block of W. Birchwood Ave. but had fled afterwards to the 7500 block of N. Wolcott Ave. The victim, who officers found on Wolcott, said he'd been walking with friends around 2 p.m. when a gunman stepped out of the alley and began firing with a semi-automatic handgun.

The teen was hit in the hand and wrist and taken to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston. He was released later that day in good condition with injuries to the wrist, police said.

The gunman fled west on Birchwood Ave. with a second man. He was not located or arrested. Detectives are still investigating.

Gang member shot early morning in West Ridge

Officers investigating a report of shots fired March 2 in West Ridge found an 18-year-old gang member with a bullet wound to the thigh.

The officers drove the teen, who they'd found bleeding on the street, to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston so the leg injury could be dressed. He was released a short time later in good condition, police said.

The victim, who told officers he was a member of the La Raza gang, had walked from his house in the 2200 block of W. Touhy Ave. around 4 a.m. and was accosted by three men in hooded sweatshirts who claimed to be Latin Kings. They'd shouted "King love" from down the street, causing him to turn around and run back to his house. As he ran, several gunshots popped off behind him, according to the report. When he stepped inside he realized he'd been struck, police said.

Officers toured the area afterward but did not find anyone matching the descriptions of the shooters.

Police looking for man accused of sexual abuse

Chicago police are looking for a man who has been accused of multiple sexual abuses.

The offender is described as a male Hispanic or Asian/Pacific Islander, 30 years of age, 5'-8 to 6' tall, 190 lbs. with a light complexion. The offender was wearing a black hooded sweatshirt, black pants and black boots.

On May 5 around 7:15 a.m., an 18 year old female was walking in the vicinity of the 2600 block of W. Granville. The female was approached from behind by the offender who touched the victim inappropriately. Then at 7:30 a.m. May 5, a 16 year old female was walking in the 6100 block of N. Talman. She was approached from behind by the offender who touched the victim inappropriately.

At 8:10 a.m. May 5, a 16 year old female was walking in the 6000 block of N. Mozart when she observed the offender exposing himself to her.

Anyone with information on these crimes is asked to call Chicago police at 312-744-8200 and reference RD# HY-247643, HY-249102 and HY-247767.

Man charged in multiple North Side burglaries

Marcus Jones, 57, was arrested at 1:37 a.m. May 7 in the 1500 Block of W. Morse Ave. after police officers responded to a burglary in progress call and located Marcus Jones inside.

Jones had a shopping cart filled with various pieces of office equipment and was in possession of a pry bar. Jones was arrested and charged with five felony counts of Burglary One and one felony count of Burglary-Possession of Burglary Tools.

Further investigation by detectives revealed Jones to be the man wanted in connection with several condominium burglaries in the area. An alert with his photo was sent out on April 29.

Marcus Jones

Woman says male acquaintance threatened to kill her

A 36-year-old East Rogers Park woman told police a male acquaintance threatened to kill her with a knife and handgun during a May 6 altercation.

Officers investigating an assault found the woman around 1:50 a.m. in the 1300 block of W. Chase Ave. She said a war of words inside an apartment had escalated until the man called her a derogatory name and threatened her.

The man had menaced her with a kitchen knife, stating, "B—, I'm going to kill you," before revealing he was carrying a handgun and repeating the threat, police said.

He escaped out the backdoor before officers could arrive and was not found that night. The woman said there had been at least two documented incidents of violence between the pair in the past, according to police.

Two banks robbed in Lakeview

A man who passed a note and implied that he had a weapon robbed the Chase Bank branch, 3032 N. Clark St., around 2 p.m. Saturday. No one was injured in the $900 heist.

Witnesses describe the offender as a black man in his mid-30's, about 6' tall, 160 pounds, wearing a shiny black du-rag, reflective sunglasses, a black jacket, and silky "narrow cut" gym pants.

Standard Bank and Trust at Broadway and Irving Park Rd. was robbed May 2 by a man who implied that he had a weapon. That offender was described as a black man, possibly in his 30's, wearing a skull cap, red hoodie, and khaki pants.

Teen shot in front of Kilmer Elementary

A teenager was shot in the leg May 4 in front of Kilmer Elementary School, 1504 W. North Shore Ave., in an incident that also damaged a parked vehicle.

Security video showed the 17-year-old had been hit by a volley of handgun shots from one of two vehicles driving against one-way traffic on North Shore Ave. just after 8 a.m. The vehicles, which approached side by side, had passed the victim driving west with the flow traffic before both made an immediate u-turn at N. Bosworth Ave. and headed back against the flow to encounter the victim again, according to police.

The victim had turned back to face the oncoming vehicles a moment before the shots were fired. After being hit by a bullet fired from the vehicle to the north, he'd sprinted west, turned north into an alleyway, and then west again across a play lot before jumping a fence and ending up on Bosworth Ave. Officers investigating the shots found him limping along the sidewalk one block north on W. Pratt Blvd.

He initially said he'd walked a sister to school but knew nothing of the shooting. After noticing the teen had skinned-up, bleeding hands in addition to the limp, officers brought him back to the scene where an eye witness identified him as the one who'd been fired on before running away.

The victim then told officers he'd been "skanked," which meant he'd been hit by one of the shots, police said. He was treated at St. Francis Hospital in Evanston for a minor injury to the right thigh and released the same day.

Police recovered six bullet casings at the scene, according to the report. A stray shot broke the windshield of a car parked on North Shore Ave. and the bullet was found lodged in the dashboard.

Man who mugged widow arrested again after early release from jail

Robert Vacha, who received probation after mugging a widow in Lakeview the day after the woman's husband died last August, was arrested May 7 on a probation violation warrant as he left the Center on Halsted, 3656 N. Halsted. A Town Hall 19th District police officer on foot patrol recognized Vacha and arrested him. Confronted by officers, Vacha allegedly identified himself as "Steven Lapinskas," which earned him an additional criminal charge of obstructing identification. Vacha is a self admitted escort according to arrest report.

Vacha is accused of violating the terms of his probation, testing positive for marijuana (twice) and failing to make any payments toward court-imposed fines and fees.

Last August, Vacha mugged a 61-year-old woman at Halsted and Roscoe as she walked to have dinner with her family the evening after her husband died.

Officers tracked the woman's cell phone pings and arrested Vacha moments later inside the Brazilian Bowl restaurant at Broadway and Belmont.

First time strong arm robbery offenders like Vacha generally receive a three-year prison sentence in Cook County, but Vacha was given a break, receiving only six months in the Cook County Jail and 30 month's probation.

Man robs Subway to pay Potbellys

A man was arrested April 26 at Potbelly's on the Loyola Univ. campus after robbing the Subway across the street.

Officers said the man's gold jacket was thrown over a bench and he was eating a sandwich when they arrived to arrest him.

A cashier at Subway said he'd entered the store with a knife around 4:40 p.m. and robbed the store. A witness who walked in during the robbery told police she'd seen him sprawled over the counter emptying the cash register, according to the report.

Officers watched surveillance video with Loyola Police at the campus safety office just down the block. They saw the man leave Subway, walk south, cross the street and enter Potbelly's, one of Subway's prominent competitors in the sandwich-making market.

He was arrested with $186 cash and the knife allegedly used during the robbery in his pocket.

See Chicago through the original photographic lens at DePaul’s ‘Liminal Infrastructure’ exhibition

A massive shipping container rolled through Chicago last Fall and into Lincoln Park, but instead of carrying cargo, it was taking stunning photographs of the city and its surrounding waterways.

The resulting images are part of the exhibition, “Liminal Infrastructure,” that will be on display at the DePaul Art Museum, 935 W. Fullerton, beginning Thursday. Organized in collaboration with the Chicago Humanities Festival, the photographs were created using one of the world’s largest pinhole cameras, the Liminal Camera, by artists Lauren Bon, Richard Nielsen and Tristan Duke during their exploration of the Great Lakes region last October.

“The Liminal Camera breaks down the photographic process to its most basic and raw elements,” said Greg Harris, curator of the exhibition. “It makes people step back and think about how photographs originally came into the world, and that is really important in a time when our lives are inundated and saturated with digital images.”

The exhibition will include large-scale photographs of the Chicago landscape, measuring up to eight feet on the longest side, according to Harris. The dramatic proportions are uniquely suited for extreme horizontal and vertical photos. Perfect for the prairie city that gave birth to the skyscraper, he said.

The photos on display are part of the latest chapter of the Liminal Camera’s expedition across the Great Lakes region. During the Chicago Humanities Festival last fall, the artists invited people inside the Liminal Camera to experience the camera obscura technique in action and to see how they perform the photographic process.

The technique involves fashioning a hole on the side of a darkened box to produce images inside of it. It’s a centuries-old practice that led to the creation of photography and the modern camera. When the image is projected in the box, a photograph can be made when that image is transferred to photographic paper and processed in a darkroom.

Anticipating the need to make the Liminal Camera portable for their expedition, the artists made the shipping container completely self-sustained; it produces its own solar energy and even doubles as a darkroom.

Since 2010, the artists, who are part of the Optics Division of the Los Angeles-based Metabolic Studio, have canvased the continent to document issues of water resources from the dry West to New York’s waterways. The topic is pertinent to Chicago since it is built around waterways, and reliant on a network of transportation that moves around water. “Even for those who are familiar with the city of Chicago, ‘Liminal Infrastructure’ is a truly unexpected and rare way for people to see the city’s infrastructure and historic locales,” said Harris.

At 4:30 p.m. Thursday, the artists will recount their experience and unveil the photographs they took with the Liminal Camera in and around Chicago last fall. A public reception will follow beginning at 5:30 p.m. The event is part of the Chicago Humanities Festival 2015 spring schedule and is free and open to the public through Aug. 9. For more information call 773-325-7506. The Museum is open Wednesday and Thursday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

Book details activist history of American Indians in Chicago

The authors will share select readings during an event this month

University of Montana professors Rosalyn LaPier and David Beck will read from their new book, “City Indian: Native American Activism in Chicago, 1893-1934,” during an event at noon Saturday, May 23, at the American Indian Center, 1630 W. Wilson Ave.

In the book, LaPier and Beck tell the story of American Indian men and women who migrated to Chicago from elsewhere in the United States. Between the 1893 World’s Columbian Exposition and the 1934 Century of Progress International Exposition, American Indians in Chicago voiced their opinions about political, social, educational and racial issues.

During the Progressive Era, more than at any other time in the city’s history, American Indians could be found speaking out in the company of politicians and society leaders, at Chicago’s major cultural venues and events, and in the press. As they struggled to reshape nostalgic perceptions of American Indians, these men and women developed new associations and organizations to help each other.

The book will be available for purchase at the event. For more information call the Ravenswood Community Council at 773-975-2088.

Performances of ‘The Project(s)’ free for public housing residents

A documentary play about the history of public housing in Chicago will tour the Cabrini-Green and Wentworth Gardens neighborhoods this month.

Free performances of “The Project(s)” will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday at Edward Jenner Elementary Academy of the Arts, 1119 N. Cleveland Ave., and at 5 p.m. May 24 at Wentworth Gardens Fieldhouse, 3770 S. Wentworth Ave.

Additionally, a select number of free tickets are available for all former and current public housing residents interested in seeing the show during its regular run through May 24 at American Theater Company [ATC], 1909 W. Byron St.

“We wanted this story to return to the places where it was born,” ATC artistic director PJ Paparelli said. “I am very grateful to the generous individuals who are making this tour possible.”

Paparelli created and directs “The Project(s),” which he co-wrote with Joshua Jaeger.

From 2010 to 2014, Paparelli and Jaeger conducted over 100 interviews with scholars, city officials and former and current residents of public housing, including Chicago’s Cabrini-Green, Wentworth Gardens, Robert Taylor Homes and Ida B. Wells Homes.

The material generated through the interviews was combined with a cappella music, body percussion and stepping choreography by Jakari Sherman – artistic director of the Washington, D.C.-based “Step Afrika!”

The ensemble cast of “The Project(s)” includes Linda Bright Clay, Omar Evans, Kenn E. Head, Joslyn Jones, Stephen Conrad Moore, Penelope Walker, AnJi White and Eunice Woods. The regular run includes shows at 8 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturdays and noon Sundays. Single tickets are $48 and are available by calling 773-409-4125.

How Chicago became the top “fair trade” city in the U.S.

Over 300 outlets sell fair trade goods in Chicago

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY MEGAN KRAMER
Medill News Service

Rich Troche, manager of Everybody's Coffee, 935 W. Wilson, in Uptown knows everything about the shop's medium-roast “Coffee of the Month” – who roasted it, where it was grown, how it was processed and even what different processes do to the beans.

In March the featured coffee came from the San Ignacio farm in Peru and was roasted by the Metropolis Coffee Company in Edgewater. The coffee has a tangy lemon undertone and is served in purple ceramic mugs.

Alternative rock plays unobtrusively throughout the large, open space at the cafe. Baristas serve specialty drinks to customers who are chatting or working on laptops amid stacks of books. To care for both its patrons and the farmers who grow the beans, Everybody's Coffee serves fair trade and direct trade coffee from around the world.

According to the Washington-based, nonprofit Fair Trade Federation, fair trade is “an approach to business and development based on dialogue, transparency and respect that seeks to create greater equity in the international trading system.” In a fair trade agreement, farmers and artisans in developing countries negotiate fair prices for their products, which usually result in a better payout.

The U.S. Food and Drug Admin. regulates fair trade labeling, while nonprofits including Fairtrade International and Fair Trade USA certify and set standards and minimum prices for products.

Direct trade is similar to fair trade, but buyers negotiate directly with sellers rather than through a fair trade middleman. While some see direct trade as more efficient, there are disadvantages for sellers and consumers if buyers don't set their standards very high.

Fair trade farmers and artisans also aim to pay their workers a fair wage, avoid sweatshop conditions and child labor and attempt to engage in environmentally friendly practices.

With the help of Chicago Fair Trade, Chicago became a fair trade city in May 2011, making it the largest such city in the U.S. and the third-largest globally after London and Toronto. Founded in 2006, Chicago Fair Trade comprises 70 member organizations including businesses, nonprofits and universities.

In order to gain fair trade status for the city, Chicago Fair Trade and volunteers created a campaign through Fair Trade Campaigns, a global organization dedicated to increasing consumer awareness about fair trade, and met the required goals. These included reaching out to retailers and community organizations and getting them to offer fair trade products.

Today over 300 outlets sell fair trade goods in Chicago, and Chicago Fair Trade is working to establish fair trade institutions (such as schools, universities and hospitals) in each of the city's 77 neighborhoods.

In an attempt to offer social justice in a mug, Everybody's Coffee opened in Feb. 2014. “The idea when we opened was that we could brew coffee that was ethically sourced and bought,” Troche said. “A lot of the coffee we buy is roasted here in Chicago. We work with roasters who buy direct and fair trade coffee and bring it here to the city as a green bean, and then they roast it here.”

The shop offers dark roast and a different medium, single-origin roast each month with the aim of appealing to a range of coffee drinkers' tastes.

“Someone who just wants a dark roast coffee, like my grandfather, can come in and buy that,” Troche said. “Somebody who enjoys fair trade organic and direct trade coffee, and wants to hear the story of where the coffee came from and how it was processed, can come in as well.”

Everybody's Coffee emphasizes relationships, whether between farmer and roaster, shop and customer, or even customer and customer.

“Coffee is very much about relationships,” Troche said. “That's why people go to coffee shops a lot of times, to meet people and talk with people.”

He added that the shop wants be the “third place” for its customers. “The first place is your home, the second is your work and the third place is where you hang out,” he said.

In 2011 the Latino Union of Chicago and the Chicago Coffee Confederation, a group of small-batch coffee roasters, teamed up to create their own fair trade endeavor, Café Chicago, which takes the fair trade model and applies it locally. The company buys coffee beans from La FEM farmers, a farming cooperative in Esteli, Nicaragua, that is run entirely by women and focuses on women's rights and empowerment.

Café Chicago then roasts, packages and sells the coffee to local restaurants, grocery stores and directly to consumers from its website. All proceeds go to the nonprofit Latino Union of Chicago, which works to improve social and economic conditions for low-income immigrant workers through various programs that address issues including unsafe working conditions, immigration reform and policies, and leadership and other training.

Café Chicago took the fair trade movement a step further not only by helping La FEM farmers and their families in Nicaragua but also by providing jobs for and teaching new skills to immigrant workers in Chicago.

Originally from Mexico City, Alejandro Serrano has worked as a roaster at Café Chicago for the last 18 months and says he is learning a lot on the job.

“We focus on improving our skills, learning every day more about coffee and the coffee roasting business,” he said. “We also focus on sales and on training new members so they can participate in the cooperative.”

Serrano says there are currently five people employed at Café Chicago in North Park and that the leadership of the organization has improved. They are working to expand the business in order to make it self-sufficient and separate from the Latino Union while still supporting it, Serrano said. Café Chicago advertises its coffee on Facebook and other websites.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Coffee Confederation [CCC] has hit a few bumps in its conceptual road. David Meyers founded the confederation in 2009 when his original business venture, Resistance Coffee, started to grow. The group eventually comprised three fair-trade and organic coffee roasters – Grinderman Coffee, Miscellaneous Treats and Resistance Coffee – but is now much smaller.

“CCC is largely merely an idea now,” Meyers said. “Our other coffee roasters, who were great contributors to the development of Café Chicago, have moved to other cities.”

Even though Meyers acknowledges that fair trade as an alternative economic model can be a struggle due to factors like these, he said it can still be a movement for justice by “taking bites out of the capitalist economy and making it more social.”

While smaller fair trade projects can encounter problems, larger-scale fair trade endeavors are no strangers to controversy.

In July 2013 The Christian Science Monitor reported that the Starbucks C.A.F.E. (Coffee

LEGAL NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE
COOK COUNTY REAL PROPERTY
ASSESSMENTS FOR 2015

This publication constitutes official notice of the changes in assessment to all owners of real property in Rogers Park Township. The 2015 assessment changes as published herein are those determined by the Assessor of Cook County.

It is the duty of the Assessor to appraise all taxable real property in Cook County at its fair cash value as of January 1, 2015. Fair cash value is described as what the property would bring at a voluntary sale in the normal course of business or trade. The Assessor is required by law to assess said property in a fair and just manner.

The Assessor does not determine property taxes. Property taxes are determined by the spending needs and requests of municipalities, school boards, park districts and other local government agencies which provide public services to property owners. The Assessor's sole responsibility is to estimate the value of real estate property.

In Cook County, real property is classified according to its use. The classification system is used to determine the percentage of the fair cash value at which the real property is assessed for purposes of taxation. Accordingly, real property is assessed at only a fraction of its fair cash value, depending on its use and classification.

Changes in assessment for land and improvements are lists separately. The dimensions of the land are also listed:

- A - Acres
- B - Back Lot
- N - Irregular Lot
- S - Square Feet

Cook County uses a Permanent Index Number (P.I.N) system as a means to identify individual real estate parcels. The PIN consists of a 14-digit number. The first two digits identify the area or survey township; the second two digits identify the sub-area or section; the next three digits identify blocks.

Note:
Blocks are defined as follows:
Blocks 100 to 199 are located in the N.W. Quarter
Blocks 200 to 299 are located in the N.E. Quarter
Blocks 300 to 399 are located in the S.W. Quarter
Blocks 400 to 499 are located in the S.E. Quarter

The next three digits in the series identify the specific parcel or lot. The last four, (where applicable), identify individual condominium units, non-operating railroad parcels or leasehold's of exempt parcels.

Whenever possible, the assessment list will be listed by the street name and the street or house number of the parcel. However, the Cook County Assessor's Office official records rely on permanent Property Index Numbers (P.I.N.) only. No assessment of real property shall be considered invalid due to an incorrect listing.

If you have any questions regarding the assessment of real property you should visit the Office of the Assessor of Cook County, 118 N. Clark Street, Room 301, Chicago, Illinois 60602, or call (312) 443-7550.

Water wisely for a beautiful garden and landscape

BY MELINDA MYERS AND RUSS KLETTKE

Too much or not enough water and never when you need it. That seems to be the long time plight of urban gardeners. Add to this extended droughts, flooding and watering bans. What is a gardener to do? Become a waterwise gardener.

Waterwise is not just about growing drought tolerant plants, rainwater gardens or eliminating plantings. It is a holistic approach to managing water to avoid flooding that overwhelms Chicago sewer systems and collects in backyards and on streets, improper watering that wastes water, and poor landscape designs that generate too much work and require too many resources.

Rain gardens are alive and working 12 months out of the year, even in Chicago. That's because with sustainable perennials, the plants continue to live in their root systems, deep below the surface of the ground where two-thirds of plant growth occurs.

It is true that in a very cold winter the surface of ground is frozen and will not initially absorb water as readily as in a May rainstorm. But melted water in a rain garden depression along with a plant's root system and the unfrozen earth below the surface will thaw that crust soon enough.

The ancient technique of capturing rainwater in jugs, barrels and cisterns has made a comeback. Collecting rain when it is plentiful and storing it until it is needed is one way to manage water for the landscape.

Root penetration of perennials create capillary space for water to move through. A good example is seen at Winnemac Park, near Winnemac and Damen, where managed prairie areas absorb water more quickly than in depressed turf grass (i.e., traditional lawn) areas.

But native plantings of all kinds, in and outside of rain garden settings, provide benefits above ground as well – despite their dormant appearance in winter. Beneficial species of insects and birds make use of native plants for habitat and food. But those plants can also reduce winter heating bills and lend a visual break from the season's monotonous white, grey and icy appearance. And when the big melt comes, smartly designed rain gardens very often can do what they are designed to do – absorb water in place, reduce street flooding and the overburden on Chicago's combined sewer/storm water infrastructure.

Make this the season that you incorporate a few waterwise habits into your gardening. You'll find it is good for your garden, the environment and your pocketbook. Start with one or more of these strategies this year.

- Select the right plant for the growing conditions. Plants that thrive in normal growing conditions for your area will be healthier, require less care and need less water.
- Keep water out of the storm sewers and in the garden instead. Adding several inches of compost to the top 8 to 12 inches of soil increases the soil's ability to absorb and retain water. This means less runoff into the storm sewers and less frequent watering.
- Use plants to prevent runoff and conserve water. Plant trees, shrubs, and ground covers to slow the flow of rainwater, increase the amount of water that stays in your landscape for your plants, and to filter water before it enters the groundwater. Install one or more rain gardens to intercept surface water runoff for use by rain garden plants. If your rain garden is filled with perennials and are in the vicinity of street traffic, such as a parkway, those plants need to be salt-tolerant. Inquire about that as you make your plant selections.
- Provide plants with a healthy diet. Use a slow release non-leaching organic nitrogen fertilizer like Milorganite. You'll encourage slow steady growth, so your plants will require less water and be less prone to insect and disease problems. The slow release nitrogen encourages healthy growth and does not prevent flowering and fruiting.

- Water plants thoroughly and only when needed. Water the soil, not the plant, using a watering wand, drip irrigation or a soaker hose so less water is lost to evaporation. Water early in the morning whenever possible to reduce water loss during the heat of the day and diseases caused by wet foliage at night.

- Manage your lawns to reduce water use. Select drought tolerant grass varieties to reduce watering needs. Prepare the soil before

Classified, Legal and Service advertising information:

- Classified ads are sold by the line. The cost is $4.50 per line per insertion. One line of copy is equal to 25 letters, characters and spaces long. There is a minimum of 3 lines per ad.
 - Service directory ads are sold by the column inch. One column inch is 1.5 inches wide by 1 inch tall and costs $30 per insertion. Additional space above 1 col. inch can be purchased in increments of 1/4th column inch. Each additional 1/4th column inch costs $5. Adding artwork, logos or images or use of special fonts are no additional charge.
 - Legal notice advertising rates are charged based on the actual size of the ad. The cost is based on the same rates as Service Directory advertising. "Doing Business As [DBA]" and "Assumed Name" legal ads are based on a flat rate of $43 per week. By law they are required to run for three weeks for a total cost of $130.
- For more information call Karen Sonnefeldt at 773-465-9700. Fax ads to 773-465-9800 or email them to: insidepublicationschicago@gmail.com.

The DEADLINE for service and classified advertising is Monday 5 PM, excluding national holidays. Ads will sometimes be accepted after deadline on Monday with an additional service fee of $20. Inside Publications reserves the right to refuse any advertising we feel is inappropriate or that could result in harm to others.

FAIR TRADE from p. 11

and Farmer Equity) Practices program was under fire for false fair trade claims. Reporter Kelsey Timmerman visited coffee growers in El Tablón de Gomez and Nariño, Colombia, where Starbucks was reportedly buying its coffee.

According to the report, very few people in these locations had heard of Starbucks or recognized its logo when he first asked around – even though the company claimed that there were 22,000 farms participating in its program. Timmerman eventually found some faded white C.A.F.E. Practices plaques affixed to the sides of homes, yet people living in them either had not heard of Starbucks or said that they were still waiting for the company's help.

“Even the farmers who sell knowingly to Starbucks and those who had received assistance prefer to get their beans certified by and sold to Nespresso [the Swiss coffee brand from Nestlé], which pays .28¢ more per kilogram,” says Timmerman.

Starbucks still advertises ethical sourcing on its website and cites C.A.F.E Practices as a fundamental program for “[ensuring] coffee quality while promoting social, economic and environmental standards.” The company claims that 95.3% of its coffee was ethically sourced in 2013. Starbucks set a goal to reach 100% ethically sourced coffee by 2015, but queries to its corporate media relations division about the company’s progress resulted in referrals to the Starbucks website, a common corporate dodge these days.

To figure out if a specific coffee really is fair trade, Troche suggests getting as close to the “heart” of the product as possible.

Everybody's Coffee opened in Uptown in February 2014 and sells fair trade and direct trade coffee.

“Consumers who want to know if their coffee is fair trade or not [should] talk to the roaster,” he said. “If you’re buying roasted coffee, especially specialty coffee, you can ask them where, what co-op, why, how they bought it, how is it fair trade. They would know all these things because they’re the ones who bought it.”

Fair trade is not limited to coffee, however, and the range of products it encompasses is constantly expanding – from fruits and vegetables to clothing and wine. According to a survey done by Fair Trade USA, fair trade produce imports into the U.S. rose 37% from 2012 to 2013. Fair trade consumer packaged goods (including wine, sugar, cocoa and spices) imports rose 17.5% over the same period. Premiums, or money paid to farmers and artisans who grew/made the fair trade products, rose five percent over 2013, totaling nearly $40 million across 70 countries.

When successful, the far reach of the fair trade movement supports development in communities and cultures around the world. The nonprofit ASSIST Society in southwest suburban Evergreen Park was established in Jan. 2013 by CEO and chief fundraiser Shannon Harris. After raising funds for many organizations and philanthropy projects including Save Darfur and Haiti Relief Fund, Harris wanted to create his own.

"I decided to place all of my efforts toward global projects that allowed me to become a greater example of being the change I wanted to see in the world," he said.

ASSIST works with low-income communities including the Maasai and Samburu peoples in Kenya to preserve and enhance their ways of life through educational tanks. Everything ASSIST buys is discussed with each person or community to better assess what they need and what will be most beneficial.

“Tell us what the community wants, and we’ll do the homework to try and figure out how to get it,” Harris said of the discussions. “And if what you want isn’t sustainable, we’ll help guide you and figure out [what is]. We’re teaching them how to use some of the things that they are familiar with and educating them on how to save that money and how that money can go toward getting things like water tanks.”

Once women have tanks and can effectively harness rainwater for individual and family consumption, ASSIST teaches them to use the water for gardening and small-scale farming, which provide sustenance and income.

The fair trade proceeds are also used in a “merry-go-round” micro-lending program, in which a group of Maasai women contribute a certain amount at the end of every month, and a different member receives the money.

Each facet of ASSIST's programs works toward the goal of sustainability, which has become a buzzword in development circles. McDonald's billboards claim that "sustainable fish" are used in its Filet-O-Fish sandwiches. Hyundai produced but then quickly retracted its controversial 2013 sustainability commercial in which a man tries to commit suicide by asphyxiating on the tailpipe exhaust of his ix35 Crossover but fails because the car is powered by a hydrogen fuel cell and emits only water. As with the Starbucks C.A.F.E. scenario, questions about true sustainability and what the phrase means can arise.

“Sustainability has become a very pop phrase,” Harris said. “For our organization, it’s not about influencing people to change, or to impact their culture so drastically that they become us. Sustainability to us is inspiring people to see how they themselves have the solution to their own problems. They just need assistance.”

programs, resource assistance and self-sufficiency training. One of ASSIST's main projects is the Sustainable Reinvestment Program, which involves buying and selling fair trade jewelry made by 20 Maasai women.

“We fair trade with the women, so we purchase jewelry at fair trade value – they tell us how much they want,” Harris said.

ASSIST then imports the jewelry, sells it and uses the profits to buy useful resources for the Kenyan communities, such as tanks that harness rainwater. The jewelry is sold at local fair trade shows and online to people around the world.

The money the women receive directly from ASSIST is also used to purchase sustainable resources, such as metal roofing and concrete slabs to house their new water

Along with income generation and development, environmental sustainability is also a major focus of the fair trade movement.

“Sustainable would mean knowing that the roasters and the coffee farmers are being taken care of, their farms are being taken care of, their equipment is getting updated,” Troche said. “As we buy and sell coffee that’s more expensive, that means there’s more money for them to use as a farm.”

Ultimately, Harris said, fair trade is “all about survival. And survival is just trying to sustain yourself and your family, your culture and your environment.”
