Two LaSalle St. adaptive reuse projects get $158.5M in taxpayer funds

Two adaptive re-use projects on LaSalle St. in the Loop will receive $70.5 million and $88 million in Tax-Exempt Housing Revenue Bonds, respectively.

The first site, located at 208 S. LaSalle, will receive $70.5 million in Tax-Exempt Housing Revenue Bonds. The $122.7 million project features the conversion of approximately 225,000 square feet into 226 residential units, 68 of which will be affordable at 30% of the Area Median Income.

In addition to the use of tax-exempt bonds and the 4% tax credit equity generated from the bonds, it's anticipated that more funding will also come from local property taxpayers through Tax Increment Financing funds, a first mortgage, owner equity, and a deferred developer fee.

The second project is located at 111 W. Monroe. The building will receive $88 million via Tax-Exempt Housing Revenue Bonds, and it's projected to cost $208.3 million. It involves the conversion of approximately 342,000 square feet into 345 residential units. Of those units 103 will be affordable units at 30% of the Area Median Income.

The two renovations come as part of a desperate effort by city officials to support the adaptive reuse of four projects in the Loop's historic financial district, after many of the former financial houses abandoned their downtown offices.

Collectively valued at more than $528 million in development costs, the projects will add some 1,000 new apartments downtown, at a cost of $528,000 per unit.

Public meeting June 5 over Chicago Ave./Halsted bridge replacement

The Chicago Ave. bridge over the Chicago River at Halsted St. is the topic of a public meeting 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. June 5 at the Wicker Park Branch Library, 1701 N. Milwaukee Ave.

The project calls for construction of a new bridge to replace the temporary bridge over the river, and reconstruction of the roadway and viaduct west of the river. At the meeting a final design for the bridge will be presented.

Once work gets underway the full project won't be completed until sometime in late 2026.

River North resident on fourth attempt to unseat Quigley in Illinois 5th District

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

Seemingly undeterred, and unabashedly pro-Trump, a River North condominium unit owner is on his fourth attempt to defeat Illinois 5th District U.S. Rep. Mike Quigley.

Fifth attempt, if you count his attempt to defeat Rahm Emanuel.

Tommy Hanson, a commercial real estate broker and resident of 2 E. Erie, will battle Quigley in the general election on Nov. 5. Hanson defeated fellow Republican Frank Rowder in the March 19 primary, while Quigley ran unopposed in the Democratic Primary Election.

"If there's ever going to be a Republican again in the Illinois 5th congressional district, this will be the time," said Hanson, who calls himself a "MAGA Republican."

"If President [Donald] Trump was elected in 2020, America wouldn't be having a Ukrainian war," said Hanson. "We wouldn't be having problems in the Middle East. We wouldn't be having problems at the border. We wouldn't be having problems with the economy."

Hanson says the economy and crime continue to be the biggest problems for downtown residents.

"Interest rates aren't going down, they're going to go up," said Hanson. "The government's borrowing too much money and spending too much money. The government is relying totally on the Federal Reserve to solve the problems. The United States government should be cutting spending and increasing the economy with tax incentives."

In a recent video message on social media, Hanson blamed Chicago's issues on Mayor Brandon Johnson and Illinois Gov. J.B. Pritzker.

"Over the last 20 years, [real estate] prices have been going down," says Hanson in the April 26 video. "And rents are going up, condo assessments are going up, real estate taxes are going up, and crime is going up. And people are leaving this area, leaving Chicago, moving out of Illinois, while in other areas of the country, businesses are thriving, they're growing. And this is a re-

Huge Loop brawl leaves migrant stabbed, cop injured

Police declare emergency outside downtown Chicago shelter

BY CWB CHICAGO

Chicago police declared a "10-1" police emergency in the Loop on May 24 as two large groups of people clashed in Pritzker Park.

A migrant living at a nearby shelter was stabbed, a Chicago police officer suffered a broken finger, and at least three people were arrested in the melee.

It all began around 9:08 p.m. when a CPD unit posted outside the Standard Club migrant shelter asked for more cars. They said a large group broke up as they approached, and they saw someone wrapping their arm as if it had been injured. But nobody wanted to talk with them, and the crowd all returned to Plymouth Court, said one officer.

Just three minutes later, cops again called for more units, saying migrants were fighting inside Pritzker Park. An officer in the Central 1st District police district's surveillance room estimated that 70 to 80 people were involved.

In a media statement, CPD said a 23-year-old man "was discov-

Loop condo board cancels $95M sale

Owners reject condo deconversion proposal for 200 N. Dearborn

After two years of infighting and zero progress in consummating a deal, Strategic Properties of North America has been rejected, failing in its second big downtown Chicago condo deconversion attempt in less than a year.

The condo board of 200 N. Dearborn St. voted last week to terminate its agreement to sell the 310-unit building for $95 million, after it failed to secure financing for the deal for over two years.

The deal fell apart after the River North condo board's vote in July to terminate its agreement to sell a 467-unit property, known as Ontario Place, to Strategic for $190 million. At the time, one board member told TheRealDeal.com that the process of working with Strategic was "hell for the past three years."

In both of the purchase failures, representatives of Strategic, which is led by Saul Kupperwasser and Yitzy Klor, reportedly evaded detailed questions about the deals and repeatedly pushed back the closing date while promising that financing was still coming.

That did not happen.

Strategic released a statement last February telling 200 N.

Dearborn condo owners that the firm was having difficulty securing debt because of the "unprecedented disruption in the lending market."

The statement claimed that the firm has secured financing but faced unexpected delays for regulatory processes.

The condo board at 200 N. Dearborn agreed to sell the building to Strategic in July 2022, when interest rates were significantly lower than now. Strategic reportedly implied in 2022 they they could close the sale in under five months.

Downtown Chicago aldermen given more control over marijuana dispensaries in their wards

Clout is back in vogue in City Hall, and that means local downtown aldermen may have the final say in who gets to deal legal dope in Downtown Chicago.

On May 22, the City Council approved a plan to give downtown aldermen more control over where marijuana dispensaries can open in their ward.

Shockingly, the ordinance also would allow pot shops that open downtown to be located within 500 feet of a school, unlike in the rest of the city.

The effort is an assertive shift of regulatory clout, a move that deftly sidelines the city's Zoning Board of Appeals [ZBA] in the process. As CBS Chicago first reported, the new ordinance demands that cannabis shops seeking to set up within the downtown boundaries— flanked by Lake Michigan, Division St., Halsted St. and Roosevelt Rd.— must now seek the nod from City Council over the previously empowered ZBA.

The measure would require dispensaries seeking to open in the area to get zoning changes approved by the City Council, rather than the ZBA.

Ald. Bill Conway [34th] sponsored the proposal, claiming that the aldermen representing downtown know their wards better than the zoning board, and the measure would give them more control over where marijuana businesses could open downtown.

Ald. Brendan Reilly [42nd] has argued the ZBA often makes bad decisions on whether or not to allow dispensaries to open. "The board often gets it wrong and makes decisions that are completely out of whack with the sentiment of the local community, whom all of us are duly elected to represent and give voice to," Ald. Reilly told Crain's Chicago.

Critics, however, have raised concerns over the increase in "aldermanic prerogative," a notion highlighted by Ald. Timmy Knudsen, [43rd], who previously helmed the ZBA. Knudsen warned that such consolidation of control could precipitate a slide back to unchecked ward power dynamics.

With clout now the main driver of City Hall pot dispensary decisions, one wonders how long it will be before all aldermen are given the right to pick their own favorite community dope dealers, even those who may choose to open up nearby to schools.

Go find some good focaccia, let it charm and revive you

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Chicago is abuzz with sun and warm breezes, just the formula for lifting the level of outdoor urban dining.

You'd think it was Florence or Paris. Actually more like Rome thanks to the extraordinary availability of crunchy homemade focaccia bread served up in better restaurants of fine Italian cuisines, the ones with revered kitchens where real cooking takes place.

Focaccia is a traditional Italian family loaf of bread. Yeast bread. Simple. Easy to concoct. Quickly mixed. Lots of olive oil in the dough. Baked and served warm from the oven.

Crunchy and mystically soft for a yeast bread that requires no kneading. It is currently the secret star of Chicago's most refined Italian menus.

I've alluded to it in past columns, but after my marathon of fine birthday lunches and dinners, I was moved to culinary tears by the almost poetic quality and variety of available focaccia. High-end, almost ceremonial. A food ritual of hypnotic luxury.

This is not your bread basket variety. Focaccia now carries its own culinary celebrity. And price tag. Here are four inventive loaves to tempt your taste buds and expand your foodie appreciation and knowledge for Chicago eating.

Lula Cafe on Kedzie Blvd. in Logan Square. Jason Hammel's celebrated food temple bakes up an individual loaf of focaccia for dinner time only. Arriving right from the oven. Six inches of baked glory topped with roasted onions and a nest of fresh herbs. Raw parsley, dill and basil. High-end textures. Flavor is robust. So is the price tag of $14. But well worth it. I've never shared a nibble. It's all for one. I especially like it while eating Alabama oysters. Not a crumb goes to waste.

Then there's Tortello, the fresh house of pasta. An inventive kitchen on Division St. near Wood. They host a fabulous pavilion facing their restaurant front in which you can watch them make the pasta doughs on the menu. Pastas are from heaven. So is the focaccia. Once again this is a fabulous loaf that comes from the oven crunchy and warm. Served with a dish of whipped ricotta cheese and fresh honey. Sweetly extraordinary on the bread. Intoxicating. I order it right away so it is a part of everything I eat. Once again, not cheap at $10. But so well prepared. Generous and refined.

Chef Tony Pirolo has created an intoxicating focaccia for the diners at Piccolo Sogno at Halsted and Grand. The crunchy focaccia here actually arrives ironically in a basket. Its soft texture is only rivaled by its flavor whose origins are found in the fresh rosemary that is generously laden in every piece. The highest quality of olive oil is imported from Italy's best. What looks like a perfume bottle of rich balsamic vinegar is imported from Sicily. This focaccia was literally created for the mixture of these two elegant potions. Piccolo Sogno's focaccia is enjoyed on every table at no charge. All part of the high-end Italian cuisine maintained by Tony and co-owner Ciro Longobardo.

Focaccia is 1/2" to 1" thick with a light crust on the top and bottom. It's often described as "flatbread" or "Italian flat bread."

Via Carducci on Division St. at Winchester in Wicker Park serves a focaccia that you might find at any family table in Rome. Crunchy, salty, buttery. With a savory inclusion of San Marzano tomato. Rich and sweet. Perfect for dipping in olive oil and Parmesan. The herbal hints of rosemary bring a crash of luxurious tastes. Of course this focaccia is baked in-house. Owner/boss Giovanni Scaldo is proud of his focaccia and keeps his eye on the splendor of the quality and layers of flavors. No charge for this splendid bread.

The variety of these outstanding breads is, I believe, a great metaphor for Chicago. I have nothing but criticism for the inept, politically foolish leadership currently shattering Chicago's public sense of trust and safety. The recent rash of daytime beatings and assaults on State St. in the Loop has been videoed in all its mayhem. The random unchecked violence borders on the incompetent for Mayor Brandon Johnson and our Cook County prosecutors. Several other daylight beatings are clearing the streets. And a shooting at Eataly, the Italian food emporium, had the busy food and wine center closed for two days.

The mayor's office is trying their hardest to keep a lid on the truth. Reality be damned.

Nobody there has any private sector experience, and they have no idea how hard it is to run an independent retail storefront business or restaurant.

What can we do?

Go find some good focaccia. Let it charm and revive you. Then over-tip the staff heartily. And keep us loving Chicago and the nearness of great bread.

AHOY: Last week the city lifted half of the DuSable Bridge to let some boats pass from river to lake. Like the swallows returning to Capistrano, our sailboats are returning to their harbors.

CHICAGO STARS: The 30th Communicator Awards has recognized the "Candid Candace - The Podcast" as a winner of the "Award of Distinction." Congrats to Candace Jordan, a real Chicago Star, plus other legends honored by the Dream Awards, Gene Chandler (Duke of Earl!) and Hosea Sanders of ABC7 news Chicago also recognized.

SAD FINISH: The end for Renaldi's Pizza on Broadway in Lakeview, 1973-2024. They once were kings.

TITANIC EXHIBIT: Recent water damage, ironically, shuttered the RMS Titanic Exhibit at Old Orchard. Creepy.

REFINED PEACE FOREVER: Grateful to longtime Chicago architecture critic Blair

Kamin for the heads up about the passing of Chicago architect Ben Weese, a founding member of the influential Chicago Seven architects who revolted against the modernist orthodoxy of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe and his followers. Ben was a true Chicago original—warm, witty, down-to-earth, iconoclastic, and the rare possessor of both a great eye and a great heart.

MUSIC MAN RIP: Steve Albini, Chicago's "go to" music studio magic man is still greatly mourned by the famous and the unknown in music. He was once paid $100,000 to produce Nirvana's "In Utero" album. But he turned down large future royalties because he thought it was immoral and "an insult to the artist." His life and stunning career here in Chicago brought international focus from rock stars and music industry icons. They say he treated brand new bands like stars. Everyone was a headliner to him. His human achievement was a life well lived. He will remain a legend in the music industry and in Chicago's soul.

MET GALA: Designer Tom Ford and Broadway star Hugh Jackman, both single, appeared very cozy, as well as chic, at the off the charts fundraiser for the Met Costume Institute, probably best dressed guests of the evening. Tongues were wagging.

SIR RINGO: Ringo Star has been knighted by King Charles III, giving him a noble title and the right to be known as "Sir Richard Starkey."

THE LOUVRE: After a six-month restoration, Eugène Delacroix's famous painting "Liberty Leading the People" returned to the Louvre. Conservators reportedly uncovered surprising details, like the true color of Marianne's dress, which is gray with subtle Pro-ShotSpotter order passes City Council in a landslide, but why don't North Side aldermen want South Siders to have it?

Wards represented by aldermen who voted against the ShotSpotter order are seen in red, those in favor in green. Two aldermen did not vote. At right: A map showing the locations of every ShotSpotter alert in the system's history. Images courtesy ShotSpotter hit map via City of Chicago Data Portal

On May 22 the Chicago City Council delivered a clear message to Mayor Brandon Johnson: We want ShotSpotter to stay. Aldermen voted 34-14 in favor of keeping the gunfire detection system and gathering more data about its performance.

Incredibly, most aldermen voting in support of Johnson's cancellation of ShotSpotter represent areas that don't even have the devices.

Meanwhile, aldermen who represent neighborhoods with the most ShotSpotter activity largely voted to keep it.

It's an awkward political situation in which aldermen representing some of the city's safest neighborhoods appear to be telling colleagues in less privileged wards that they can't have a public safety tool they want.

The order requires Johnson to provide aldermen with an array of ShotSpotter data before the devices can be removed from any ward.

Wednesday's vote was overwhelming, with enough aldermen voting in favor of the action to overrule a mayoral veto. But there are serious questions about whether the order can actually force Johnson to enter into a contract to continue ShotSpotter services beyond its current termination date in November.

Apologizing for the criminal? Illinois set to change 'offender' to 'justice-impacted individual' in state laws

BY CENTER SQUARED

In the book 1984, author George Orwell defined the idea behind what he called "Newspeak" - that is, as language must become less expressive, the mind is more easily controlled. Through his creation and explanation of Newspeak, Orwell warns the reader that a government that creates the language and mandates how it is used can control the minds of its citizens.

Illinois legislators have passed legislation that would change the word "offender" to "justice-impacted individual" in state law, a move Republicans say disrespects victims of violent crime.

Orwell believed that totalitarian systems control language in order to prevent their citizens from expressing or thinking rebellious

Taxpayer TIF funding proposed for two North Side parks

The Chicago Park District would get taxpayer funding to improve recreational facilities at two North Side parks through Tax Increment Financing [TIF] funding proposed to City Council May 22.

Welles Park, 2333 W. Sunnyside Ave., would receive $400,000 from the Western Avenue North TIF district to pay for construction of three pickleball courts, new benches, and the rehabilitation of an existing sand volleyball court and horseshoe pits.

Revere Park, 2509 W. Irving Park Rd., would receive $400,000 from the Western Avenue South TIF district to support the resurfacing of four tennis courts.

The Home Front

Like a fresh breath of spring air, home sales on Chicago's North Side rebounded in April, spinning out of a three-month nose dive.

Combined April 2024 existing home sales volume for Near North Side, Lincoln Park, Lakeview and North Center increased by 13.4%, according to the May North Side Market Analysis, co-authored by Realtors John Irwin and Jackie Lafferty of Baird & Warner.

"All of our comparative market analysis categories had positive results for April, but varied by neighborhood and price point," Irwin noted. "While the local and national economic news continues to vary almost weekly, the market seems to be moving in the right direction."

A recent easing of 30-year fixed mortgage rates below 7% obviously is helping buyers stay in the game.

On May 23, Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey reported that 30-year fixed-rate home loans nationwide averaged 6.94%, down from 7.02% a week earlier. A year ago, those fixed loans averaged 6.57%.

"Spring home buyers received an unexpected windfall last week, as benchmark 30-year mortgage rates fell below the 7% threshold for the first time in more than a month," said Sam Khater, Freddie Mac's chief economist.

"Total inventory of both new and previously owned existing homes is up," Khater said. "Greater supply coupled with the recent downward trend in rates is an encouraging sign for the housing market."

Freddie Mac also reported that 15-year fixed loans averaged 6.24%, down from 6.28% a week earlier. A year ago, 15-year mortgages averaged 5.97%.

The Freddie Mac survey is focused on conventional, conforming, fully amortizing home-purchase loans for borrowers who place a 20% down payment and have excellent credit.

Baird & Warner's May monthly prices in April 2024 rose by 17.5% in three of the four neighborhoods. The increases ranged from 6% for Near North to 21.6% for North Center. Lincoln Park was the only neighborhood to report a decrease in home prices at -4.3%.

April home prices varied by price point. There was no change in homes priced under $500,000, while homes priced between $500,000 and $1 million increased 3.8%. Homes priced between $1 million and $2 million dropped -5%. Homes priced above $2 million declined -4.2%.

increased 31.8% and were driven by the Near North Side and North Center. Lincoln Park and Lakeview both reported decreases.

• Listings. Inventory levels dropped an additional 6.9% in April 2024 versus April 2023, but this did not have the negative effect on home sales that we saw in March.

The April listing decreases varied by neighborhood with Near North Side dropping only 1% and Lakeview dropping by 23.7%. Looking at inventory levels by price point, homes listed under $500,000 reported a 5.7% increase, while homes priced over $500,000 had decreases.

• Strong buyer demand. Showing requests and attendance at open houses in the past three months remain strong. Many buyers are looking for homes in "turnkey" condition.

"Updated kitchens, bathrooms, flooring and paint colors are very important, as many buyers do not want to do the updates themselves," Irwin said. "Sellers should consider the needed renovations before they list their homes."

Gazing into Baird & Warner's crystal ball, Irwin said: "The market is improving but there are many twists and turns. Buyers and sellers should do their homework before moving forward."

A couple of years ago, during COVID, experts said the market was "crickets"—meaning it was dead. Now, maybe it's starting to jump like cicadas.

market analysis detailed the following real estate comparatives in four neighborhood areas—the Near North Side, Lincoln Park, Lakeview and North Center.

• Home sales. April's home-sales volume results were driven by a 41.5% increase on the Near North Side. Lakeview and North Center had single-digit increases, while Lincoln Park reported a 10.1% decrease.

Sales also increased in homes priced under $1 million and over $2 million. However, sales of homes priced between $1 million and $2 million dropped 13.5%.

• Home prices. Median home

"Traditionally, low inventory levels significantly drive-up prices, but this has not been the case on Chicago's North Side," Irwin noted. "While year to date prices have risen 9.4%, they are lower than the Chicago suburbs and many cities across the country."

Despite low inventory levels, buyers are still very price conscious and would rather wait for new homes to come on the market than over-pay because of low inventory levels, Irwin said. "Pricing must reflect the true value of the home," he said.

Lakeview / Roscoe Village aldermanic forum June 20 for businesses only

The Lakeview Roscoe Village Chamber of Commerce will be hosting an aldermanic forum 10:30 a.m. Thursday, June 20 that will include Aldermen Scott Waguespack [32nd], Bennett Lawson [44th], Angela Clay [46th], and Matt Martin [47th].

This event will take place at the Athenaeum Center, 2936 N. Southport Ave., and may give businesses the opportunity to hear directly from their local representatives about local issues that might matter to them, like the loss of commercial parking in the community due to addition of privileged bike paths, the increased congestion on Belmont Ave. after the addition of many new transportation obstacles, and the upcoming master plan for Lakeview.

Registration is required, visit <https://forms.gle/hBcTe88QYE5-H1jU18>. Those who would like to submit any questions are requested to submit them to the chamber by June 14. This is event is only for businesses not residents.

ACM gets go-ahead for new Clark St. facility

The city and local alderman have decided to approve the request for a zoning change from RS-3 to B3-1 at 4116 N. Clark to allow Access Contemporary Music [ACM], the prospective tenant, to operate a music school for children and adults as well as a small venue for classic and jazz music.

ACM is a local non-profit organization with multiple other locations throughout the City.

As part of this proposal, ACM will sell concessions that include alcohol, at the facility that used to be a 7-Eleven store.

Ald. Angela Clay [46th] said that she will lift the existing liquor moratorium on Clark St. from Byron to Berseau to allow ACM to apply for their liquor license.

After the mandatory one-year lift, Clay says that she will lay the liquor moratorium back down. Should any business on that corridor apply for a liquor license during the one year, she says she will consult the neighborhood organization before supporting or denying the license. Clay has also requested that ACM provide a plan of operations for their license that restricts service of liquor to ACM concerts; liquor will not be served outside those events.

Cops look for two in connection with robberies at Lake, Clark-Division Red Line CTA stations CPD detectives say these two people robbed victims aboard the Red Line this week. Investigators are trying to identify them.

Chicago police are looking for a woman who committed two robberies on the Red Line last week. They're also looking for a man who helped her commit one of the crimes.

According to a police bulletin issued May 25, the people seen in these CTA surveillance images robbed a victim at the Lake Red Line CTA station, 188 N. State, around 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 23. The victim was on the train when the duo mugged them and fled the scene.

Police said the suspect in blue is a woman, and the suspect in black is a man, both about 18 years old.

The woman committed a second robbery about 40 minutes later at the Clark-Division stop, according to a second CPD alert. Once again, the victim was on the train when they were mugged around 8:10 p.m.

Anyone with information about the pair can contact CPD's Mass Transit Unit at 312-745-4447. The first robbery's case number is JH276310. The second robbery, in which the woman worked alone, is JH277134.

Police seek info on two men with beaming smiles who mugged a CTA passenger Police say these happy fellows mugged a CTA passenger in River North.

Police are looking for two men with glistening smiles who are responsible for mugging a CTA passenger in River North.

In surveillance images released by CPD on May 26, the men appear to be smiling widely on a train platform, although it's unclear if they were happy about robbing someone or simply giddy with the prospect of doing so.

Police said the victim was on a Red Line CTA train at Grand when the men robbed them around 6:55 p.m. May 25. The suspects are between 18 and 23, according to CPD.

Anyone who has information about them can call the mass transit unit at 312-745-4447 regarding case #JH278829.

Man robbed CTA passenger at gunpoint, then tossed the pistol into the Chicago River

Prosecutors say a man has admitted to robbing a woman at gunpoint at the Grand Red Line station and then tossing his gun into the Chicago River. Billy Cokley Jr., 25, was identified as the robber because he presented his state ID when he sold some of the woman's belongings, officials said.

The victim, a 25-year-old South Loop resident, was waiting for her train when Cokley confronted her with a gun around 7:38 p.m. May 2, a Chicago police report said. He took her iPhone, MacBook, wallet, and bookbag, then fled the scene, according to the report.

Billy Cokley

Officers followed the woman's phone location to an EcoATM, a kiosk that buys used electronics at Ford City Mall. They recovered her phone and learned that the man who sold it to the ATM used Cokley's state ID to complete the transaction. Surveillance video from the EcoATM confirmed that Cokley was the person who sold her phone, officials said.

Cokley admitted to the robbery, to selling the woman's property, and to throwing the firearm he used in the robbery into the river, according to court filings.

Judge Antara Rivera detained Cokley at the state's request.

Woman shot on Goose Island as cops dealt with a flood of 911 calls

A woman is in good condition after being shot on Goose Island May 26, according to Chicago police.

In a short media statement, CPD said the 25-year-old "was outside when an unknown offender began firing in the direction of the victim." A bullet struck her in the back of the head, but her injuries appeared to be minor, and a person familiar with the matter expected her discharge quickly.

Police were handling a disturbance involving a large group of people in the 600 block of W. Scott, not far from Goose Island, when the shots were fired. Officers at the disturbance reported hearing shots fired, and that was followed by a 911 caller who heard the gunfire near Cherry and Division streets.

The local police district was in a "backlog," meaning no cars were available to investigate the gunfire. The 911 call was still on the list of pending assignments at 3:11 a.m., approximately 19 minutes after the gunfire.

Police said the victim arrived at Rush Hospital in a car with visible bullet holes. After learning that a woman had been injured, officers went to the 800 block of W. Division and found between 16 and 20 shell casings in the street, an officer said. Cars had run over the casings by then, making their evidentiary value questionable.

Cops were told to be on the lookout for the gunman's car, a gray Jeep, possibly a Cherokee or Wrangler.

So far this year, nine people have been shot on the Near North Side. That includes a Chicago police officer and a suspected burglar who exchanged gunfire near the Magnificent Mile on Jan. 8.

Three shot in Uptown

Three people have been injured in two separate shootings in Uptown May 23 and 24, police said.

The first two victims, both men, showed up at Weiss Hospital after someone shot them in the 5000 block of N. Winthrop around 8:31 p.m., according to Chicago police. They told the officers that they were driving southbound when someone opened fire on them.

One victim, 40, received a graze wound to the back of the head, and he declined medical attention after dropping off the other man. The second victim, 43, was in critical condition with a gunshot wound to the neck. He was transferred to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center.

Police said in a media statement that both victims were "very uncooperative and refused to answer any questions about the incident."

The second shooting occurred around 12:41 a.m. May 24 inside Buttercup Park, 4901 N. Sheridan, according to police. Officers found a 53-year-old woman in the park with a gunshot wound to her foot.

She told police that someone traveling in a white SUV fired the shots. She was taken to Weiss Hospital in fair condition.

So far this year, seven people have been shot in Uptown. That compares to three victims at this point last year and five victims during the same period in 2022.

Second man charged with bank app robbery scheme on the Mag Mile

Authorities have charged a second man with robbing people along the Magnificent Mile by hijacking their banking apps and transferring large sums of money without permission. We told you about Lamar Smith being charged in connection with two of the crimes last month. Now, prosecutors say 21-year-old Kyir Walker worked as Smith's accomplice.

Chicago police warned about similar crimes on the Mag Mile and Lakeview in January. Men who claimed to be raising money for a children's charity or "bucket boys" took control of victims' phones to transfer a small donation via banking apps, but they actually transferred far more money.

CPD warned that robbery teams were known to work outside the Nike Store, 669 N. Michigan. And that's where officials said Smith and Walker targeted two men on separate dates.

On March 20, a 20-year-old Gold Coast resident told police that two men took his phone as he accessed his Chase app outside the Nike Store. Smith blocked the victim from taking his phone back while Walker transferred $500 from the victim's bank account, a CPD report said.

Smith and Walker worked with a third man as they targeted a 37-year-old Uptown man at the same location on April 6, prosecutors claim. He told the police he was walking when three men asked him for donations. He agreed to transfer $5 to their cause, but officials said Walker snatched away his phone after he unlocked this Bank of America app.

Walker Zelled $2,000 from the man's account to an account with a woman's name, according to his CPD arrest report. The woman's name resembles an email address associated with the account that allegedly received the victim's money on March 20.

The second victim told police that he continued to receive text messages from the robbers, "taunting" him for being suckered.

According to the report, the victims identified Walker in photo line-ups. Detectives forwarded his information to cops in the Lakeview-based Town Hall 19th District so they could keep an eye out. Officers assigned to the area for a recent Cubs game arrested Walker in the 3500 block of N. Clark.

Prosecutors asked Judge Charles Beach to detain Walker to assure the public's safety. Beach nixed that idea and released Walker with a nighttime curfew instead. He is charged with two counts of robbery.

Edgewater: Man shot, seriously injured at exact same address where two were shot earlier

After two people were shot as gunmen fired more than 40 rounds in the 6000 block of N. Kenmore on May 22, local Ald. Leni Manaa-Hoppenworth [48th] did the same thing every alderman does after a shooting: She sent an email assuring residents that "this incident is believed to be isolated."

The old "isolated incident" phrase is meaningless, of course. Virtually all shootings are "isolated" unless an active gunman is roaming around town.

As of this writing, Manaa-Hoppenworth has released no statement after another person was shot overnight at the exact same address as the May 22 victims.

Police responded to the 6000 block of N. Kenmore at 12:44 a.m. after receiving calls of shots fired. They found a 48-year-old man with a gunshot wound to his torso, according to CPD. Officers located one shell casing at the scene.

In a press statement, police said the victim "was uncooperative with details." He's in fair condition at St. Francis Hospital in Evanston.

On May 22, two men were shot and seriously injured at the exact same location, 6002 N. Kenmore.

Officers responded to calls of shots fired at 7:56 p.m. and discovered dozens of shell casings in the alley, estimating a total of 40 rounds fired. But the victims were not there when CPD arrived. They jumped into a Chevy Traverse, and a third man drove them to Swedish Hospital for treatment. The men were later transferred to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center.

Police said a 23-year-old man shot in the chest was in serious condition. A 20-year-old man shot in the shoulder was in fair condition.

Investigators found the Chevy Traverse abandoned outside the hospital. Surveillance video showed its driver running away after dropping off the injured men.

So far this year, seven people have been shot in Edgewater. The neighborhood had five shooting victims for all of last year. It had six as of this date in 2022.

Man who opened fire on cops in downtown Chicago gets 40 years

The man who opened fire on a Chicago police officer in downtown Chicago was sentenced to 40 years in prison on May 22.

Two men who were in the car with Edgardo Perez struck plea deals. But Perez rejected the state's offers and took the case to a bench trial earlier this year. Judge Aleksandra Gillespie found him guilty on all 10 counts, including four counts of attempted murder. Gillespie rolled all ten counts into a single count of attempted murder and sentenced him to 20 years. Then, she added a 20-year sentencing enhancement for using a firearm during the crime.

Officials said Perez was the front-seat passenger in a freshly hijacked Honda Accord when Chicago police officers stopped the vehicle near Columbus and Lower Wacker Dr. around 8:48 p.m. Jan. 26, 2022.

An officer's bodycam was rolling as he approached the Accord's passenger side on foot and ordered the vehicle's occupants to show their hands, prosecutors have said. The footage allegedly showed Perez firing a handgun toward the officer at close range.

Prosecutors played the officers' bodycam footage during Perez's trial. Perez even took the stand, with an officer who observed his testimony saying Perez claimed he was "too drunk to know what he was doing."

A nearby surveillance camera captured the traffic stop in its entirety.

A closer look at the camera footage shows smoke emanating from the passenger window toward the officer. Prosecutors said in 2022 that Perez fired a gun through the closed passenger-side window, sending shards of glass into the cop's eye. While the bullet did not strike the officer, he was treated at Rush Hospital for eye injuries. Another officer was taken to Northwestern Memorial Hospital for a rapid heartbeat.

Two other officers immediately opened fire on Perez, who was struck in the chest, arm, and leg. A bullet also grazed his forehead, leaving a long, red divot that was visible in his mugshot.

Less than a year after the incident, two other men who were in the car with Perez pleaded guilty to felonies. The driver, Noel Centeno, pleaded guilty to possessing a stolen motor vehicle, and the man in the car's back seat, Jesse Sanchez, pleaded guilty to aggravated unlawful use of a weapon, according to court records.

Six years for concealed carry holder who shot her 'friend' during argument in Rogers Park

A concealed carry license holder who shot her friend during an argument in Rogers Park has been sentenced to six years in prison. Ashley Gomez, 32, pleaded guilty to aggravated battery by discharging a firearm in exchange for the sentence from Judge Jennifer Coleman. She must serve 85% of the time before being eligible for release. Gomez and the victim had been friends for more than ten years when they began arguing in a car with a few companions around 3:20 a.m. July 10, 2022.

As the argument heated up, Gomez pulled out her gun and pointed it at the 29-year-old victim, prompting the woman to "criticize" her for pulling out a weapon, a prosecutor said during an initial court appearance. Gomez put the weapon away, saying she didn't need a gun to fight the woman, and the two began to physically fight inside the vehicle, officials said.

Gomez eventually pulled the gun out again, pointed it at the other woman's thigh, and pulled the trigger, according to prosecutors. Gomez and some of the car's occupants fled, and the driver took the victim to a hospital for treatment.

Prosecutors initially said the victim believed Gomez was drunk and high on pot at the time of the shooting. Her defense attorney at the time disagreed, saying Gomez was neither drunk nor high, "unlike the victim."

The Illinois Dept. of Corrections has scheduled Gomez's parole for Aug. 27, 2027.

Two men had guns at busy North Side parks

BY CWB CHICAGO

At least two men were charged with having guns at city parks—one at Millennium Park and the other at North Avenue Beach. One man is on parole, the other is also accused of having a variety of narcotics, and both are charged with Class X felony armed habitual criminal.

In addition to the arrests, a man was shot at Montrose Beach.

Keith Williams, 36, of Streeter-ville, reacted nervously when he saw police conducting bag checks at North Avenue Beach May 18, according to a CPD report.

With a bag draped over his shoulder, Williams allegedly told the checkpoint cops, “It’s only beer,” before turning and walking away from the checkpoint.

Police said Williams ran into traffic and bolted onto the baseball field in Lincoln Park. They arrested him there and recovered his bag, which, according to his arrest report, did not contain a single beer.

It did, however, contain a loaded 9-millimeter handgun, 12 grams of suspected cocaine, 51 suspected Xanax pills, and 20 strips of LSD, his police report said. Officers allegedly found a bag of suspected ketamine in his sock and noted he was carrying $1,980 cash.

Court records show Williams has been convicted of the manufacture-delivery of heroin five times, with four of those coming in 2009.

Keith Williams

In addition to armed habitual criminal, he is charged with armed violence and four narcotics counts. Judge David Kelly rejected the state’s detention petition and sent Williams home on an ankle monitor.

Anthony Berberena, 32, was arrested in the Loop May 19. Police said witnesses reported an altercation in Millennium Park and pointed toward Berberena, saying he had a gun.

Berberena made eye contact with the cops and ran out of the park onto Randolph St., according to his arrest report. Police arrested him a few moments later and picked up a black object he allegedly dropped as he ran.

The black object turned out to be a sock—a sock that contained a loaded pistol, the arrest report said.

Judge Antara River detained him on charges of armed habitual criminal and possessing a defaced firearm. He is also being held on a parole violation warrant.

Records show he received six years for a gun case in 2020 and was paroled last May.

In another gun case, Berberena was shot by someone on May 17, 2016, and ran away to get help. However, he left a pistol at the shooting scene, which police linked to him through fingerprints, according to a CPD report. He received a seven-year sentence for that.

Avoiding rogue towing scams in Chicago

Those who are involved in a traffic accident in Chicago have another thing to worry about, your crash makes you an easy target for a predatory scheme called “rogue towing.”

Rogue towing is when unsolicited tow trucks arrive at accident scenes and rush you into signing a form that requires thousands of dollars in payment to retrieve your vehicle. Rogue tow trucks claim they were sent by your insurance, roadside service, or the police, but to a large extent they are lying. Rogue tow truck drivers listen for accidents on police scanners to target their next victims.

Tow fees are based on mileage, and any tow job of less than 5 miles should cost between $50 and $125. Over 5 miles, rates can run as high as $275. They should never run into thousands of dollars.

To avoid falling victim to rogue towing, never accept a tow from a tow truck you did not call. Demand a tow truck that arrives at an accident scene prove they have a vehicle locator license with the Illinois Commerce Commission—the license must match the information printed on the side of the tow truck.

Crash victims should also take photos of the tow truck driver, the truck itself, including the license plate.

Accident victims should not sign a pre-tow disclosure form that has blank spaces in the payment section. Demand that the tow truck operator fill in all lines and provide a total for all fees. Then take a photo of the pre-tow disclosure form after signing it.

In severe cases, call 911 if a tow truck driver is harassing you.

thoughts, writing ‘If thought corrupts language, language can also corrupt thought.’ Orwell believed that the language used was necessarily vague or meaningless because it was intended to hide the truth rather than express it. This unclear prose was a “contagion” which had spread to those who did not intend to hide the truth, and it concealed a writer’s thoughts from himself and others.

House Bill 4409, which passed both houses on May 21, would also add Illinois Dept. of Corrections representation to the Adult Redeploy Illinois [ARI] oversight board, but it also changes the word “offender” to “justice-impacted individuals.” Republicans on the Senate floor said the name change could cost taxpayers thousands of dollars.

The ARI program aims to reduce crime and recidivism at a lower cost to taxpayers through community services as an alternative to prison. Proponents said the ARI program is successful in reducing crime and that it has eligibility requirements, specifically individuals in the program have to be first-time offenders.

State Sen. Terri Bryant, R-Murphysboro, urged lawmakers to vote no.

“Over and over again, we keep changing the name of how we are referring to those who have entered into criminal activity and each time we make that change, each agency has to make that change on every one of their documents. Right now in the Dept. of Corrections, there’s multiple changes that have been made and it’s costing thousands and thousands of dollars just to do a name change. Why is it necessary to make the name change?” Bryant said May 21.

“There seems to be this rush to take away all accountability for people who commit crimes. If a person is going to get on the right path, they have to know they did something wrong. This apologizing for the criminal, the person who chooses to commit crimes to the detriment of our victims, the people who don’t choose to be victims of crimes, is absolutely incredible,” said State Sen. Steve McClure.

State Sen. Robert Peters, D-Chicago, encouraged members to not get hung up on the name change because the program oversight board could use more representation.

“We’re adding the DOC, adding Human Services, Sangamon and Cook County adult probation and two members who have experienced the ARI system as offenders or as justice-impacted individuals,” Peters said.

Republicans said the focus shouldn’t be on what they called the “poor offender” but rather on the victims of violent crimes. State Sen. Steve McClure, R-Springfield, brought up how the Prisoner Review Board released Crosetti Brand, the man who killed 11-year-old Jayden Perkins in Edgewater a day after his release. He said Brand wasn’t a justice-impacted individual but rather an offender.

“There seems to be this rush to take away all accountability for people who commit crimes. If a person is going to get on the right path, they have to know they did something wrong. This apologizing for the criminal, the person who chooses to commit crimes to the detriment of our victims, the people who don’t choose to be victims of crimes, is absolutely incredible. Crime is up 38% year-to-date since 2019. Crime is up everywhere. We have seen an incredible increase of drugs that have been snuck into prison, we are on pace for a record year” when it comes to drugs in prisons, McClure said.

McClure asked Peters, the bill’s sponsor, if the bill also sought to change the word “victims.” McClure also asked what the term justice-impacted individual meant.

“That means someone who has been impacted by the criminal justice system and is an individual,” Peters said. “We [in this bill] don’t mess with anything in regards to the term ‘victim,’ we just change the word ‘offender’ to ‘justice-impacted individual.’”

The bill passed both the House and Senate and can be sent to the governor for further action.

Illinois legislators are also pushing a bill that would change the crime known as “armed habitual criminal” to “persistent unlawful possession of a weapon.” They apparently believe people convicted

At 1 p.m. on June 10 a street dedication will take place in Edgewater at Ardmore and Ridge Ave. to celebrate the arts and honor William Friedkin, a Senn alum who went on to be a director, producer, and screenwriter.

Born Aug. 25, 1935, Friedkin was an American film, television and opera director, producer, and screenwriter who was closely identified with the "New Hollywood" movement of the 1970s.

After graduating from Senn High School, Friedkin began working in the mail room at WGN-TV and within two years he started his career doing live television shows and documentaries.

Supporters will gather outside Senn High School for the William Friedkin Way street naming ceremony, followed at 2 p.m. by a public celebration at Raven Theatre, 6157 N. Clark St., for a discussion about the arts with former Paramount CEO Sherry Lansing, Friedkin's wife.

Hitting all the bases

Great article [May 22] in the newspapers by Don DeBat. He really hit all the bases! Great inset on the Fern Hill poem, too. Was wondering when someone would pick up on that.

The past three years have certainly not been an idyllic experience for Old Town neighbors facing demolition, mega construction, property rights and zoning value erosions, quality of life disruption and historic building destruction. Lot of harms and all for Big Money.

Congratulations and thank you.

The Battle for Old Town

Your articles, 'The Battle for Old Town' [May 15 and 22], chronicle an effort by some residents to stop the construction of a high-rise in Old Town, with the opposing group citing density and incompatibility with neighborhood character as primary reasons they oppose the new high-rise.

Perhaps their opposition would come across as more authentic if there were not six existing high-rises in the picture accompanying the article. Their insistence that an additional high-rise is not compatible with neighborhood character falls flat when many of the opponents themselves live in existing high-rises near the proposed new one.

End of life care options

Many years ago, my father was dying in agonizing pain from colon cancer. When I visited him, he would often say, "If I had a gun, I would ask you to kill me." His prescribed medication was ineffective. His suffering was unbearable for him. No one should have to suffer in so much pain with no other options. If medical aid in dying had been available at that time, I have no doubt he would have chosen it, with the support of his family.

Ten states and Washington, D.C. currently have this option. The states where medical aid in dying is legal are California, Colorado, Hawaii, Montana, Maine, New Jersey, New Mexico, Oregon, Vermont, and Washington. It has been legal in Oregon since 1997. A pain-free death should not depend on your zip code. Years of data show that there are more than enough requirements in place to prevent misuse of the law.

Medical aid in dying is only available to adults 18 years of age and older. It is approved for terminally ill adults who have a prognosis of six months or less to live. Two medical providers must agree that the U-visa should be eliminated

Regarding the story on the U-Visas [May 22], they should be eliminated.

Originally, it was decided that if a number of people were using illegal drugs, and one had a problem which required his companion to call 911 for medical help, the person making that call would not be prosecuted for his own use of illegal drugs. This saves lives, but is an ad hoc decision. It doesn't mean the person who made the 911 call couldn't be prosecuted for his own use of illegal drugs in the future.

Eventually it was extended to illegal aliens who reported crimes. This too makes sense, but is also a one-time decision. It doesn't mean the illegal alien can't be prosecuted for being here illegally in the future.

Now there are a number of jurisdictions who have flipped this "sanctuary" concept to the decision to not prosecute illegal aliens for their own outlawry of being here illegally, and order their law enforcement personnel to cooperate in this concealment.

All victims of crime in the USA deserve the same attentiveness from law enforcement and the court systems, regardless of immigration or citizenship status. Elimination of the U-Visa would eliminate one incentive for crime, and the waste of government resources to deal with the phony robbery schemes.

patient is capable of making the decision to use medical aid in dying (or any other healthcare decision), and is not being coerced. The patient must be able to self-ingest the medication.

According to a 2023 Impact Research poll, 71% of Illinois voters support medical aid in dying. Terminally ill adults should be able to make their own end-of-life care decisions based on their values and priorities in consultation with their doctor, their loved ones, and their faith/spiritual leaders if they have any. Without this option, many terminally ill people will suffer needlessly at the end of life, instead of dying peacefully.

Legislators in Springfield are considering passing the End of Life Care Options for Terminally Ill Patients Act (SB3499), which would make medical aid in dying legal and accessible in Illinois.

AARP to host meeting on inter-generational living

The first American inter-generational co-housing projects were built in 1991.

Currently, there are more than 100 of these communities in the country, about 20 more are under construction, and there are another 120 to 150 or so in the planning stage.

The trend is catching on, and North Side AARP is hosting a community meeting on the subject 12:30 p.m. June 4, at Lake View Presbyterian Church, 716 W. Addison St., lower level.

Before people look in detail at senior co-housing — what it is and what it can be — it is good to know something about what intergenerational co-housing communities are.

Gail Schechter, executive director on H.O.M.E., will be the guest speaker. She has been working to provide housing for seniors and low-income person, and has the experience of operating several inter-generational housing buildings.

Those who choose not to attend the meeting may attend via Zoom, for more information email northsideaarpcommunitygroup@gmail.com.

"It really comes out of the re-entry space where people who don't live in this world as we do [as state legislators] see the title of the offense and think it means something much more nefarious than it really does mean," said Rep. Kelly Cassidy, whose district includes Uptown, Edgewater, and Rogers Park. She is also a House sponsor of the bill that would reclassify offenders as "justice-impacted individuals."

scene, jumped the counter at 7-Eleven, 600 N. McClurg, around 3:25 a.m. on Sept. 4, 2022, officials said.

While the accomplice gathered cigarettes, Manning allegedly ordered the cashier to open the register, prosecutors said. The woman refused. He grabbed her when she refused to hand over the cash, but she broke free and alerted a co-worker, according to officials.

With no cooperating employees to rely on, Manning tried to open the register himself but failed, prosecutors said.

Cops responded to the store and found Manning's ID lying on the floor. Prosecutors said it fell out of his pocket when he jumped the counter.

INSIDE PUBLICATIONS

Police included Manning's picture in a photo line-up, and the cashier identified him, giving prosecutors the last piece of evidence they needed to file charges.

Last week, Manning pleaded guilty to robbery of the 7-Eleven and received a five-year sentence from Judge Pamela Stratigakis. He also pleaded guilty to escaping from electronic monitoring and received a concurrent two-year term.

His five-year sentence will be reduced by 50% for good behavior and further reduced by 571 credit days earned while on electronic monitoring and in jail. He's scheduled to be paroled in April 2025.

Manning had been discharged from parole the month before the 7-Eleven robbery after serving time for three robberies and aggravated battery to a police officer. Before that, he was convicted of robbery in 2018 and 2007, as well as animal torture in 2015 and manufacture-delivery in 2010.

Memorial to renowned surgeon gains Landmark status

The John B. Murphy Memorial on the Near North Side was designated by City Council as an official Chicago Landmark On May 22.

Located at 50 E. Erie St., the memorial was built in 1926 for the American College of Surgeons [ACS] to honor one of its founders, John B. Murphy, who was a leading practitioner committed to improving the surgical profession and teaching standards.

Marshall & Fox designed the memorial in the French Renaissance style with an ornate, limestone facade and bronze doors that depict key figures in the history of medicine. The interior consists of a 1,000-seat auditorium, an anteroom and a grand lobby.

The adjacent Richard H. Driehaus Museum purchased the memorial from the ACS in 2022 and started work to add a learning center, library and seminar rooms, among other improvements that align with the designation, which will protect all exterior elevations of the building, as well as the lobby, anteroom, and auditorium from major alteration or demolition.

The RealDeal.com reported that some condo owners were won over by the guaranteed buyout prices Strategic was offering. Those residents felt confident at the time that they would be able to secure loans with favorable interest rates, should they choose to buy a different home with the proceeds of their sale to Strategic.

But the longer Strategic went without securing financing, the higher interest rates climbed, make the deal harder to finance.

Hard feelings and discord bloomed among residents who were barred from selling their units individually while awaiting the closing with Strategic. The condo board last year sued two owners for refusing to sell their units to Strategic, and some other owners blamed the holdouts for delaying the sale.

Reportedly the tensions peaked during a heated condo board election in late 2023, with pro- and anti-sale candidates and their supporters resorting to mudslinging as they jostled for votes, reports The RealDeal.com.

When new board members were elected, they pushed Strategic for more detailed information about the status of the financing. When that was unsuccessful, they asked Strategic to consider setting aside extra money in escrow as a way to show the firm's commitment to completing the sale. But Strategic refused. After that failure, several more condo owners agreed it was time to vote to give up on the sale. That vote to terminate the deal passed.

Comments flooded the condo building's Facebook page when news of the vote spread.

"What a relief to finally have a clear path forward and full autonomy of our own property. It has been a long two years awaiting a resolution, one way or another," one commenter wrote. "Thankful to the board for coming to a decision today."

Now after two years of fits and failures, one unit owner has decided to file suit against Strategic for consumer fraud and deceptive business practices.

Each time Hanson has run for the U.S. House of Representatives, he has captured increasingly more of the vote, without spending near as much money as his opponent.

In 2018, Hanson received 65,134 votes, representing 23.3% of votes cast, losing to Quigley, who received 213,992 votes. Hanson notes he spent about $200 on his 2018 campaign. Quigley, according to the Federal Election Commission, spent $1.2 million.

In 2020, Hanson received 96,200 votes, representing 26.6% of votes cast. Quigley won with 255,661 votes. Hanson says he spent about $250 on that campaign.

And in 2022, Hanson received 79,112 votes, or 28.8 percent, while Quigley won with 190,999 votes.

Hanson ran in 2008 against Emanuel, who won but later resigned to become White House Chief of Staff and was replaced by Quigley in a special election.

ered on the sidewalk with a laceration to the left arm. The victim stated that he was in a large crowd and someone unknown attacked him with a knife before fleeing the scene."

According to a source familiar with the incident, the injured man is a resident of the Standard Club shelter, 320 S. Plymouth. Officers recovered a knife at the scene.

Surveillance officers reviewed video and said the injured man was brandishing a knife when he ran into the crowd and someone stabbed him.

Witnesses said groups of people clashed again at 10:16 p.m. It prompted the patrol unit assigned to the Standard Club shelter to declare a "10-1" police emergency. That's a call used when CPD officers find themselves in life-or-death situations, and it can bring cops from across the city to the incident scene.

A source told this reporter that one police officer suffered a broken finger while breaking up the crowds.

A video shared on the Citizen App showed police arresting at least three men next door to the migrant shelter. There were dozens of bystanders and cops in the area.
