What to expect, Lake View Township next up for property tax reassessment

Property owners in Lake View Township will receive a Reassessment Notice in the mail in July that contains important information including the new estimated Fair Market Value of their property and property characteristics. The list of all reassessed property for the entire swath of Lake View Township [Armitage Ave. north to Devon Ave., and from the lakefront west to Western Ave.] will be published in this newspaper on July 10.

In assessing the impact, it would bode well to see what the bigger property tax picture looks like in Cook County.

Property owners across Cook County are being asked to pay $706 million more in property taxes for a grand total of more than $18.3 billion. That's an increase of 4%, which was slightly below the 4.1% rate of inflation for 2023.

The biggest factor that drives up property taxes is the amount of money levied by each of the county's governmental units, such as schools, village and city halls, libraries and fire districts.

Of the 941 taxing agencies in Cook County, 687 — or 73% — increased levies, according to an analysis of Clerk data. Levies can increase for three reasons: agencies request more money; new properties are built that generate additional tax revenue; and money is recaptured.

School districts increased their levies the most in terms of dollar amounts. Overall, they sought $472.1 million more in 2023, a 5% increase.

Under state law, schools can raise taxes by the prior year's consumer price index, or by 5%, whichever is less. Because the CPI rose 8% in 2022, school districts could raise taxes by up to 5% — unless voters agree to exceed those limits in a referendum. In reality, the increase was greater than 5% in some school districts because of taxes on new properties, recaptured money, bond payment allocations and higher annual increases authorized through referendums.

Municipal governments had the second-highest overall tax increase in 2023. They increased taxes by $54.8 million, or about 1.8%.

The third-highest dollar amount came from community colleges, which increased levies by $21.4 million, or 4.7%.

The added financial burden will mostly fall on homeowners, who must pay nearly $611 million in new taxes, shouldering 86.5% of the overall tax increase. This is because commercial properties — businesses, hotels, office complexes, industries and large apartment buildings — have dramatically lost value since the pandemic and government-imposed economic lockdown. So commercial real estate will pick up only $103 million.

New one-way street configuration for Larrabee between Erie and Superior

The Chicago Dept. of Transportation [CDOT] traffic study on N. Larrabee Street, between W. Erie and W. Superior streets is moving forward. The changeover will occur Monday, July 8.

The one-way road plan was reportedly hatched due to reports of wrong-way drivers, vehicles not stopping at stop signs, and grid-lock traffic.

Chicago police have also promised to assign a patrol squad to N. Larrabee St. to prevent wrong-way drivers. How long that might last is unknown.

The city has also installed a speed hump on Larrabee as a traffic obstacle, and plan to install curb extensions later this year.

Home of medical scammer to be seized by feds

Federal authorities will seize a $8 million Near North Side mansion at 924 N. Clark St. It is the home of Outcome Health founder Rishi Shah. He's losing it following his conviction on multiple counts of fraud. He has been sentenced to 7.5 years in prison.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Durkin recently ruled that the U.S. Marshals Service, FBI or other authorized law enforcement agencies will take control of the 15,000-square-foot house and property as part of Shah's forfeiture of $55 million in illegal proceeds, reports Crain's Chicago.

Judge Durkin's ruling stipulated that the seizure process would begin with the posting of a forfeiture notice at the property. Shah is among three former Outcome executives facing prison time for orchestrating what prosecutors have described as a "billion-dollar fraud" scheme.

Shah, was the architect of the scheme to over-bill pharmaceutical companies by $48 million, for advertising on screens in doctors' offices, and used inflated financials to secure over $970 million in loans and venture-capital investments. Shah personally profited $55 million from the fraud, some of which likely funded the purchase of the mansion.

Before his arrest, Shah's Outcome Health was a rapidly growing healthcare media company valued at $5.5 billion, and Shah was listed by Forbes as one of America's wealthiest individuals, with an estimated net worth of $3.6 billion. However, the company's fortunes collapsed amid federal fraud charges.

Legal betting big on Chicago appetites for New England seafood

Legal Sea Foods plans to open its first restaurant in Chicago this month. Construction is winding down on both levels of its space at Marina City.

The seafood restaurant expects to open in late July in 10,000 square feet of space previously occupied by Dick's Last Resort, plus a smaller space directly above it that used to be a Subway fast-food restaurant.

That upper level will soon be an oyster bar, connected by staircase and elevator to the main restaurant. Between the main dining room, private events spaces, oyster bar, and outdoor seating, there

Not that long ago the citizens of Chicago stayed away from the Chicago River, which was considered a toxic sewer. Now, especially during summer months, the downtown riverfront entertainment hub is one of the top places residents and visitors alike want to be.

The slate of summer arts and recreational programming taking place on the Chicago Riverwalk was just announced. The pedestrian-friendly Chicago Riverwalk stretches 1.25 miles from Lake Michigan to Lake St. offering restaurants, wineries and bars, live music and performances, public art, and urban recreation.

What to do about the soon-to-arrive trouble makers pledge to disrupt convention procedures?

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Where's Mayor Richard J. Daley's "Ultimatum to Troublemakers" when you need it?

Though it's more than a half century old, mark my words, this summer we're gonna need it, thanks to the upcoming arrival of the Democratic National Convention at the United Center.

Come on, was anyone watching Buckingham Fountain? Will someone be keeping an eye on the Blackhawks' Zamboni? Or the Bulls' free throw line? Who has their eyes on the Michael Jordan statue?

Quick, get those security bollards installed on Michigan Ave. and box up all those paintings at the Art Institute and get them into storage, ASAP, before some goof splashes them with tomato soup, 'because reasons, shut up.'

It would be one thing if Chicago could be confident in the quality of hard-line local law enforcement, forged together in a unified show of strength, to keep the soon-to-arrive trouble makers, already pledged to disrupt convention procedures, in line.

But no, there is little confidence in the present amateurish gyrations of Mayor Johnson and his socialist Chicago City Council to protect and defend Chicagoans against gang-bangers, jewel thieves, street thugs and car-jackers. What are intelligent citizens supposed to do? Protect our persons and property with fresh-purchased shotguns? Like some scene of the Hatfields and the McCoys?

The body count and sad catalogue of routine Chicago weekend homicides, shootings, robberies and felonies should be enough to terrify any would-be radical left-wing or free-lance political agitator. But, of course, it won't be enough.

Perhaps that's why the mayor is giving complete free rein to teens in downtown Chicago with "no-special curfew" restrictions. That's Mayor Johnson's idea of terrifying those political outsiders enough to frighten them back to Harvard, Berkeley, MIT, University of Chicago, Northwestern, Boston U. and UCLA. But that still doesn't make one Chicago street safer.

There won't be much pleasure dining outdoors at places like Gibson's Steakhouse, Ralph Lauren Bar & Grill, Lux Bar, Topo Gigio and Tavern on Rush, if Chicago Police are fearful of recriminations from department brass or lawyers over their street conduct during the convention.

Have we all forgotten the riots of 2020?

You certainly don't want to make some transgendered protestor who has access to a silk stocking law firm. Or attempt to remove a lesbian throuple self-handcuffed to the United Center's front door.

What resources are available when attempting to protect the Michael Jordan statue on Madison St. from an angry mob of anti-oil, pro-vegan-agitators, or tattooed-body-pierced bigoted anti-Semites and a coven of anti-male athletic supporters?

The measure of human intelligence is strained, dangerously, as Chicago's political leadership, now desperately devoid of both real power and common sense, attempts to "deal-barter" with the anarchists and radical protest groups.

Mayor Johnson's efforts at Chicago's version of Middle Eastern peace negotiations is doomed from the start. One, by the amateurish ability of those involved in the process of inept negotiations protocols. You'd have to be out of your mind to agree to anything with this present mayor. And you can bet the "outside agitators" are fully aware of their limitations to make good on a promise. Secondly, with the "outside agitators" dyeing Buckingham Fountain waters crimson red, and their British allies defacing Stonehenge with orange paint on the very dawn of the summer solstice, there really doesn't seem to be much wiggle-room, heart or humanity left in the agitators' agenda. They mean business. So the mayor's A-team better come up with some fresh plan for protecting America's third largest and most beautiful city. Quick.

It's hard to imagine that with Chicago's intellectually impoverished urban politics, at the most dangerous and violent moment in Chicago's political history, this city will host the national political convention, just as the needy nation sits on a strategically civil divide as dangerous as the nation has faced in 50 years.

This is not just an intellectual exercise, but rather one rooted in the gross mistake of Chicago's last two Mayoral elections that have stripped away the stability of the city's political past.

What were we thinking picking these last two mayors?

We have witnessed the collapse of politically strong local organizations of real power. Chicago political strength was once the envy of the nation. But the machinations of smaller, more single-themed objectives brought instability that could no longer keep first rate political professionals in office. Relying instead on unproven, less-skilled, more low-lined, less politically intuitive individuals to enter politics.

That might seem a breath of fresh air to some, but it erases the capacity of local politics to make reasoned sense for the larger whole.

It rears its head in the quick tactile decay of the city physically. Have you driven our graffiti-ridden highways? We used to clean that mess up. The disintegrating infrastructure is obvious to all.

Co-operation remains a thing of the past. Really skilled leadership is seriously lacking in neophyte, single issue-orientated rookie elected officials who are lucky they have the where-with-all to get themselves elected.

In Chicago, it's fair to say, that the real political elite have withdrawn from political life. We are left with empty headed, unskilled leadership not up for the tasks ahead. Certainly not in resolving the dangerous issues brought on by the upcoming presidential convention.

Perhaps the endless drone of true and untrue news and political data of questionable sources and legitimacy wedded to political paralysis has truly made many citizens directionless. Always in an unfamiliar surrounding. Unable to understand the vocabulary of the moment. Ill-advised. Disadvantaged human perspectives. Insensitive human awareness and regretfully, ill-prepared understanding of what is really going on.

All this makes for big trouble on the horizon of the summer convention season. But even worse, big trouble on the economic horizon that everyday reduces Chicago's economic power and strength that will cripple its people and harm its ability to achieve.

We've never needed a fresh ultimatum more.

Massive high density, high-rise apartment projects are popping up, or are in the planning stages, nearly everywhere, leaving many to wonder what will happen to all the B and C class commercial buildings now suffering from historic vacancy rates. So nobody wants to go to their high-rise offices, but they do want to live in a high-rise?

The ‘Manhattanization’ of Chicago underway as high-rises grow

The Home Front

by Don DeBat

If you reside downtown or on the North Side, look out your window and experience the “Manhattanization” of the Windy City.

Massive high-rise apartment projects are popping up, or are in the planning stages, nearly everywhere. In an effort to raise millions of tax dollars and stimulate affordable housing, Mayor Brandon Johnson appears to be the all-powerful Wizard of Oz pulling levers behind the curtain.

The latest 615-unit mega project to earn the Chicago Plan Commission’s approval by a vote of 11-1 is the twin-towers proposed at 1840 N. Marcey St., in West Lincoln Park, just east of the Chicago River. The two buildings would rise to 275 feet and 195 feet, and provide 275 parking spaces, according to Sterling Bay, the developer.

Despite opposition by neighborhood residents and the objections to the plan by Ald. Scott Waguespack [32nd], the Johnson administration ignored aldermanic prerogative and gave the high-density project a green light because it includes 124 affordable units. (Those affordable units were added only after the alderman requested them, they were not part of Sterling Bay’s original plan.)

Waguespack, who prefers mid-rise buildings for the site, likely will oppose the plan when it comes to the City Council’s Zoning Committee. “The community is saying: If you do this one, and you allow these towers to start going in there, you just basically destroy the fabric of the community,” Waguespack said.

Erma Tranter, of the Ranch Triangle Community Conservation Association, said the group supports affordable residential housing at 1840 N. Marcey St., but not in the form of “two high-rises” that are out of scale and “too dense” for the location.

The Plan Commission also recently approved the multi-phase “Halsted Landing” development at 700 W. Chicago Ave. just east of Halsted St. in the River West neighborhood. Later phases are proposed further west on Goose Island.

“The community is saying: If you do this one, and you allow these towers to start going in there, you just basically destroy the fabric of the community,” Ald. Scott Waguespack said.

Plans of the developer, Onni

Group, call for four high-rises and two mid-rises with 2,451 residential units, including 490 affordable units. One of the high-rises will rise to 600 feet and contain 688 residential units, including 138 affordable units.

The development will be almost as large as Sandburg Village—one of the nation’s biggest urban renewal projects.

Uptown housing projects get TIF funding

The Community Development Commission [CDC] has approved almost $12 million from the the Wilson Yard Tax Increment Financing [TIF] district for several projects in Uptown.

Buildings at 4431 N. Clifton Ave., 927 W. Wilson Ave., 900 W. Windsor Ave., 847 W. Sunnyside Ave., and 4130 N. Kenmore Ave. will be rewarded for the planned rehabilitation of five residential buildings in Uptown. Four of the five properties are located within the TIF district, and the fifth building (4130 N. Kenmore) will not use TIF funds, rather will be funded from other taxpayer sources.

The $49.6 million project, is being undertaken by Preservation of Affordable Housing and Voice of the People Uptown, to help preserve 103 affordable units for households earning no more than 80% of the area median income.

The developers are providing only $5.08 million in private funds toward the construction project. The balance of the costs will be carried through a variety of taxpayer funded sources, giveaways and grants. Their land-acquisition costs were about $13.6 million. If there are no unforeseen expenses, the per-units cost will be about $482,000.

Letter to the Editor

Spot-on coverage on Pipers Alley

Congratulations on [the June 26] spot-on coverage on proposed developments in our neighborhood, especially the exposé on the Pipers Alley garage neglect. There should have been building code inspection violations issued with a timeline for correction as a matter of public health and safety.

Ex-public officials involved in its ownership are not entitled to non-enforcement notwithstanding last week's Supreme Court decision on "gratuities." We do not need to bail them out either with high-rise construction crammed down our throats. I think for too long the city officials have relied on a passive citizenry, until they ran into those of us who are willing and able to stand up to protect our property rights.

You might want to give a look at the Walgreens store next and its trip hazard uneven sidewalks. Many neighbors have tripped on them or are about to, or get run over by scooters and bikes on the sidewalk. This is the density issue we are talking about.

And don't forget the long-awaited O'Briens site for a hotel. How does that fit in the mix? Seems like Fern Hill counted on rolling up everything and rolling over us. Guess again.

History Museum hosts Independence Day program

The Chicago History Museum [CHM] will be hosting their annual Independence Day program 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 1601 N. Clark St.

They will be producing a day full of indoor and outdoor activities, including gallery tours, performances, artmaking, family-friendly trivia, games, crafts, a collaborative mural, and opportunities to connect with civics-focused organizations in Chicago.

From 10 a.m. to noon, they will be on the plaza for family friendly games and crafts, ice cream giveaways, and a collaborative mural activity.

At 12:30, CHM director of exhibitions Paul Durica will lead guests through a trivia contest about one of the city's most recognizable foods: the Chicago hot dog. Prizes will be awarded to the top three winners. Also at 12:30 p.m., there will be an hour of civics-inspired music.

Rather than a traditional formal program on the plaza, this year the museum's festivities will give visitors more opportunities to explore the Museum exhibitions and historical content.

Under the new format they say they will be sharing stories of past Chicagoans who have helped shape this city, and celebrating those civic superheroes who have impacted society for the better.

HIGH-RISES from p. 3

calls for 280 hotel rooms, more than 55,000 square feet of commercial space and 1,950 parking spaces.

With all this proposed development action, just a stone's throw from the site of the stalled Bally River West casino, imagine the traffic jams at the already congested intersection of Chicago Ave. and Halsted.

The already-gridlocked intersection of North Ave., Halsted and Clybourn Ave. in Lincoln Park is also being targeted. Look at these proposed high-rise nightmares:

- 1565 N. Clybourn. The Georgetown Co. is proposing a 37-story space needle rising 450 feet in height on a site now occupied by a 2-story bank building. Plans call for 396 residential units, and 2,500 square feet of retail space. Seventy-three garage parking spaces will be for retail shoppers and 25 spaces for employees.

- Clybourn Place. CRM Properties is drawing up plans for a 50-story apartment tower at the mostly vacant 3-acre shopping center at Clybourn and Willow St. This mammoth high-rise is planned for 500 luxury apartments, 70,875 square feet of retail space and 447 enclosed and surface parking spaces, as well as a pedestrian boulevard set between rows of shops.

"Due to its underlying zoning, strong retail core, and proximity to other affluent neighborhoods, the area has become a mecca for residential development," said Jeff Malk, CPM principal.

One of the few mid-rises proposed is going up at North Ave. and Halsted St. Developer Draper and Kramer has received Plan Commission approval for 1649 N. Halsted, a 9-story residential building.

- Old Town Canvas. A rezoning application filed by developer Fern Hill Co. in late May calls for a proposed 44-story apartment tower with 500 apartment units for a vacant Moody Church parking lot at 1610 N. LaSalle St. The rezoning request also includes the 84,078-square-foot Piper's Alley site to allow a floor-area-ratio of 420,390 square feet. That could eventually pave the way for two additional high-rise towers on the north side of North Ave. between Wells and North Park, within a stone's throw of the Old Town Triangle landmark historic district.

As proposed, the sweeping zoning changes under Fern Hill's planned development could result in up to 1,400 residential units housing upwards of 4,000 to 5,000 new residents along a two-block stretch of North Ave. between LaSalle and North Park.

The Old Town Friends for Responsible Development community group, argue that the proposed 44-story building, with its large number of rental apartment units, is excessive for the neighborhood.

"Multiple high-rises on different sites through this area with no transportation infrastructure improvements is going to make it very difficult for anybody in this area to move around," Waguespack said. "I think these projects send a clear signal that there is no concern about the character and context of these neighborhoods and how it will get built out."

Not all residential developers in Lincoln Park are reaching for the sky.

Developer Draper and Kramer has received Plan Commission approval for 1649 N. Halsted, a 9-story residential building featuring a top-floor amenity area and an open rooftop space. The low-rise, mixed-use development on the western edge of Old Town will replace the closed Royal George Theatre at 1641 N. Halsted St.

Plans call for construction of 131 rental apartments—including 20 affordable units—on the site following the demolition of the theatre.

The plans also include ground-floor retail space, indoor parking for 34 cars, and storage for 131 bicycles.

Draper & Kramer also will provide $940,000 to support off-site affordable housing initiatives, with an additional $300,000 contribution to improvements at Park No. 598, a 4-acre public park at 1514 N. Larrabee St., that formerly was owned by the Chicago Housing Authority.

CTA, CDOT “Better Streets for Buses” would reduce street parking for bus-only lanes

The Chicago Transit Authority [CTA] and Chicago Dept. of Transportation [CDOT] have announced the first five corridors that will be evaluated for bus priority infrastructure as part of the Better Streets for Buses Plan [BSBP]. The plan would remove commercial street parking in favor of adding bus-only lanes.

CTA and CDOT plan to target Western Ave., Fullerton Ave., Pulaski Rd., Cottage Grove Ave., and 55th Street. Nearly 74,000 riders travel through one of these five corridors across 10 bus routes on an average weekday.

The study will advance concepts for bus priority improvements on each corridor using 19 potential street treatment options to benefit bus riding, while hurting other transportation uses. The BSBP study will examine benefits and tradeoffs associated with different concepts, including at least one concept for each corridor that includes an uninterrupted dedicated bus lane for a significant segment.

To do this they may need to remove curbside street parking, making it more difficult to park along commercial streets.

With the study they are seeking public input on community priorities, with the goal of justifying their bus priority streetscape plans. Those plans may then advance to detailed design and construction.

“CTA is focused on improving every facet of our bus service with a goal of building a bus service that is frequent, reliable, fast, accessible, welcoming, and operating where and when people need it,” said CTA President Dorval R. Carter Jr.

“The plan serves as a comprehensive guide for ongoing infrastructure [changes] to make bus service more efficient, accessible, and appealing,” said CDOT Commissioner Tom Carney.

Released in Nov. 2023, the BSBP lobbies for improved bus services citywide through alterations to major streets, signals, and sidewalks. The goal is to achieve faster and more reliable bus service, and improved access to bus stops. But it comes at the expense of commercial street parking, that will have to be removed to add dedicated bus-only lanes. And when that lost parking involves metered parking spots, the city would have to either buy those spots back from Chicago Parking, LLC, or replace them with similar metered parking spaces elsewhere in the city. The cost of buying those spots would easily run into the tens of mil-

Homeowners shocked by tax hikes should read bills to find out where their money goes

BY MARIA PAPPAS

Record-high increases in property tax bills have shocked and angered many Cook County property owners, especially in the south suburbs.

Second Installment 2023 bills are online at cookcountytreasurer.com and arriving in mailboxes in early July. Bills are due Aug. 1.

My office recently released an analysis of the nearly 1.8 million tax bills. The analysis showed that in the south suburbs, the median tax bill jumped 19.9%. In 15 south suburbs, tax bills soared above 30% to as high as 76%.

A typical example showed property taxes on Park Forest home increasing $3,834 this year to $8,892. The tax bill for the property a year ago was $5,058.

These astonishing increases are too much to bear for homeowners who are already dealing with higher prices at the grocery store, gas pump and everywhere. Many believe they can no longer afford to live where taxes are so high. They wonder what they can do about it.

There is one thing that every property owner can do about high taxes: Read their tax bills.

In Cook County, I have redesigned the tax bills. The bills have a new feature, “Where Your Money Goes,” that more clearly shows which taxing bodies are getting your dollars. Bills show the amount of taxes owed for 2023 and how much the bill changed compared to 2022. A typical bill displays about a dozen different taxing districts and shows how much you pay to each taxing body.

I did this so you can call the people who raised your taxes to tell them how you feel. This makes it easier than ever to compare tax bills from one year to the next. Your tax bill tells you which units of government are getting your money and how much each receives.

That’s why it’s more important than ever to read your tax bill. For years, I have listened to people complain about their tax bills. Everywhere I go throughout Cook County people always ask me the same question.

“Why did my tax bill go up?” My office sends out bills and Police Beat...

Shoplifting team raided five Lululemons in 90 minutes, getting merch worth $17,374

Prosecutors say a shoplifting crew stole merchandise worth more than $17,000 by raiding five Lululemon stores in under 90 minutes earlier this month. Two women face felony charges.

Surveillance video from the stores showed two women entering the retailer's West Loop location, 932 W. Randolph, around 11:50 a.m. June 14, officials said. The pair walked out with clothing and accessories without paying.

They struck again 15 minutes later at the 944 W. North Ave. store and 12 minutes after that at the 1627 N. Damen Location. About 20 minutes later, they were in Lakeview, hitting the store at 3556 N. Southport. Then, they wrapped up their day at the 930 N. Rush location just after 1 p.m.

According to a Chicago police report, the stores compared notes and determined that the women took clothing and other items worth $17,374.

A CPD unit spotted a car investigators linked to the shoplifting raids near the 5200 block of S. Cottage Grove about 45 minutes after the last heist. The report said two women ran from the car when the cops pulled up on them.

Makhia Russell, 19, of Calumet City, bolted from the passenger seat, according to CPD. They detained her, noting she was carrying $1,326 cash in small bills.

Also arrested was the driver, Cmya Benson, 22.

Police found 193 clothing items bearing Lululemon price tags inside the car. Loss prevention agents from the stores confirmed the items were stolen merchandise.

Videos from the stores showed Russell participating in all five thefts, according to her arrest report. According to the report, Benson allegedly told the police that Russell and another person hired her as the getaway driver.

Both women are charged with felony theft and operating a continuing financial crime enterprise.

Judge Shauna Boliker released them to await trial.

At least 20 cars stolen while parked in the Loop in June

Thieves have stolen at least 20 vehicles parked on the south end of the Loop this month, Chicago police said in a community alert on June 31.

The thieves target unattended cars parked on streets and in parking garages. CPD says the thieves have broken side windows to gain entry to almost all of the cars.

Detectives have publicly linked 20 auto thefts to the crime pattern: 600 block of S. Financial June 1 between 10 p.m. and 11 p.m.; first block of East 8th St. June 3 between midnight and 5 p.m.; 800 block of S. Financial June 7 between 7 a.m. and 11:30 a.m.; 800 block of S. Financial June 8 at 3:30 a.m.; 600 block of S. Financial June 8 at 5 a.m.; first block of East 8th St. June 8 or 9; 600 block of S. Michigan June 15 at 9 p.m.; 700 block of S. Wabash June 19 at 7:20 p.m.; 800 block of S. State June 19 or 20; 1100 block of S. Wabash June 20 at 11:48 p.m.; 600 block of S. Wells on June 26 or 27, and on the 100 block of W. 9th St. June 29 at 3:15 p.m.

CPD's alert did not include descriptions of the thieves or explain how the vehicles were being stolen. Anyone with information about the crimes can contact investigators at 312-744-8263.

Teen charged with armed robbery, aggravated battery of another teen in Loop

A male juvenile, 16, was arrested June 28 and charged with one felony count – Armed Robbery and one felony count – Aggravated Battery / Use Deadly Weapon.

He was arrested in the 0-100 block of E. Erie St., and identified as one of the offenders who stabbed a 15-year-old male and took his personal belongings on May 21, in the 100 block of N. Dearborn St.

The offender was placed into custody and charged accordingly.

Lincoln Park home invasion, knife attack was completely random

A Lincoln Park man continues to recover from multiple stab wounds

he suffered when a home invader entered his house at random and attacked him June 28 as he slept.

New details of the attack were revealed Saturday during a detention hearing for the accused man, 25-year-old Devion Allen.

The victim, 25, and his 28-year-old girlfriend were sleeping in their home in the 2000 block of N. Clifton when Allen entered their residence around 11:30 p.m., officials said.

Allen took a knife from the kitchen and attacked the man, inflicting stab wounds to the victim's neck, chest, and both hands, according to prosecutors. Officials said Allen later admitted to "cutting" the man "a few times" and fleeing after the man wrestled the knife away.

While officers were responding to the girlfriend's 911 call, another 911 caller reported seeing a suspicious man sweating and panting about a block from the home invasion scene.

Cops investigating the suspicious person call detained Allen in the 1900 block of N. Seminary. According to a CPD report, officers brought the girlfriend to the scene, and she immediately shouted, "That's him!"

The report said that Allen "made several incriminating statements through excited utterance" after being arrested. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of cuts to both hands.

Judge Shauna Boliker detained Allen, citing his danger to the public.

He is charged with attempted first-degree murder, home invasion causing injury, and aggravated battery with a deadly weapon.

Shots fired during altercation between driver, Critical Mass bicycle caravan in Uptown Shots were fired as participants in the monthly Critical Mass bike ride clashed with a motorist in Uptown on June 28. It is the second month in a row that physical altercations have erupted between drivers and Critical Mass riders.

Police responded to calls of shots fired in the 1200 block of W. Sunnyside around 8 p.m. Witnesses said the occupants of a small car were unable to exit an alley because the bicycle caravan, which frequently involves hundreds of riders, was rolling down the street.

A Chicago police spokesperson said a 42-year-old woman and a 41-year-old man got into an altercation with two men when one of those two men pulled a gun and fired shots around 8:03 p.m. The woman was taken to Weiss Hospital for treatment, the spokespersons said.

According to witnesses, an altercation erupted between the occupants of the car and some of the bicyclists. That escalated until someone fired two shots into the air. Part of the altercation and the sound of gunfire were captured in a video posted to Twitter.

No injuries were reported from gunfire. However, a fire department ambulance team treated one bicyclist who was battered, officials said. The man who fired the shots reportedly fled the scene in a vehicle.

West Ridge man charged with First Degree Murder

Nicolas Novak, 18, of the 2000 block of W. Arthur Ave. was arrested June 25, and has been charged with one felony count – Murder First Degree, one felony count – Aggravated Unlawful Use of a Weapon and no

FCCA-FOID, and one felony count – Unlawful Use of a Weapon with Silencer.

Novak was arrested in the 6500 block of N. Damen Ave. He was identified as the offender who at 9:45 p.m. June 8, fatally shot a 31-year-old male victim in the 2900 block of W. Devon Ave. Novak was placed into custody and charged accordingly.

16-year-old stabbed, robbed another teen in the Loop

A 16-year-old boy was part of a group that attacked, stabbed and robbed a 15-year-old in the middle of the Loop last month, Chicago police said.

CPD officers arrested the older boy June 28 near State and Erie to face charges in the case.

Police said the victim was on the sidewalk in the 100 block of N. Dearborn when four males approached him from behind around 4:30 p.m. May 12. Two of the offenders stabbed the boy in the back, and the group robbed him before running away.

The victim was critically injured, according to the police. They said the 16-year-old is charged with armed robbery and aggravated battery with a deadly weapon.

Home invader arrested after stabbing man in Lincoln Park

A home invader is in custody after he broke into a Lincoln Park home June 27 and stabbed a man who lives there, police said. Chicago Police Dept. records show the man has a history of robbery and home invasion allegations, cases that resulted in little to no penalties.

DUI driver responsible for crash that killed his back seat passenger gets probation

An Indiana man has been sentenced to probation for crashing his car in Edgewater while driving under the influence, killing a passenger who was riding with him. Steven Martinez, Jr., 21, pleaded guilty to aggravated DUI causing death, the most serious charge he faced, before Judge Tyria Walton this month.

Martinez's blood alcohol level was .138 as he drove 62 mph through a red light at Broadway and Hollywood just before midnight on July 21, 2022, prosecutors claimed.

His car clipped another vehicle in the intersection, and the impact spun Martinez's car around. Prosecutors said that Martinez's car continued to travel up Broadway in reverse until it collided with a parked car, totaling it.

The second crash crushed the back end of Martinez's vehicle, including the back seat, where 20-year-old James Camacho was seated. Camacho died instantly.

Chicago police officers allegedly found Martinez unconscious in the driver's seat. While the officers tried to help Camacho, Martinez regained consciousness and kept trying to start the car, officials said. When that failed, he allegedly stepped out of the wreckage and tried to run away. Two cops and a paramedic caught him.

A 25-year-old in Martinez's front passenger seat and the driver of the vehicle that Martinez clipped were treated for minor injuries and released.

Martinez was initially charged only with misdemeanors, but prosecutors filed multiple felony counts three months later.

Judge Walton sentenced Martinez to 30 months of probation after he entered his plea and ordered him to perform 480 hours of community service, according to court records.

Gianni Fort-Knox, also known as Manon Lafear.

Another person told police that Fort-Knox shattered his pickup truck windshield with a cane, also in the first block of E. Van Buren.

Fort-Knox allegedly tried to drive the Audi away, but couldn't figure out how to operate it.

Prosecutors charged Fort-Knox with armed robbery, attempted vehicular hijacking, aggravated battery causing great bodily harm, misdemeanor battery, and misdemeanor criminal damage. The state's detention petition was granted by Judge David Kelly.

At about 11:30 p.m., the offender entered a home in the 2000 block of N. Clifton and stabbed a 26-year-old man inside, according to police. The assailant left a knife on the kitchen table and fled the scene as the man's girlfriend called 911.

Police officers responding to a suspicious person at a nearby convenience store arrested the suspect, a 24-year-old man who had blood on his hands, according to someone familiar with the case.

EMS took the victim to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center for treatment of multiple stab wounds. CPD said he was in fair condition.

Police records show Chicago police officers arrested the suspect in West Town on robbery charges in the spring of 2018. Four months later, he pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of theft and received "second chance probation."

Just two months after going on probation, police arrested him on allegations of a home invasion involving a sex offense in Humboldt Park, according to CPD records. However, prosecutors ultimately only charged him with misdemeanors and dropped the case entirely one month later.

Cops clash with post-Pride Parade crowd sparking mass arrests

BY CWB CHICAGO

Police supervisors declared a mass arrest situation overnight in Lakeview June 30 through July 1, bringing an end to hours of rowdiness that followed the annual Chicago Pride Parade.

So far, CPD has not announced how many people were arrested during and after Sunday's parade, which ended mid-afternoon. However, reports of widespread fights and traffic disruptions persisted throughout Boystown and adjacent neighborhoods well into Monday morning.

Of the known arrests, at least two people were taken into custody for gun possession. Police said they arrested a 20-year-old woman shortly after midnight for refusing to disperse and punching and pulling an officer's hair in the 1000 block of W. School.

Officers in the area declared two "10-1" police emergencies during the overnight hours. During the first, around 12:50 a.m. at Halsted and Belmont, police recovered a firearm and then clashed with people on the street.

The second emergency was declared at Clark and Belmont around 1:42 a.m., about 20 minutes after CPD supervisors ordered mass arrests at the intersection. A video showing part of the clash surfaced on Twitter.

Earlier in the night, CPD blocked off the 900 block of W. Belmont, an area that has become the site of all-night afterparties in recent years. Instead of hundreds of people lingering, drinking, and dancing, that block was almost bumper-to-bumper with CPD vehicles yesterday.

Residential side streets, however, were thick with revelers well into the early morning hours on Monday.

Tensions flared in the 900 block of W. Fletcher as a woman stepped onto her front balcony, yelling that the sight in front of her was "disgusting" and demanding that revelers on her street get out of "her" neighborhood.

Members of the crowd reacted by shouting the woman down and tossing a drink at her as she retreated into her living room.

Chicago's Pride Parade and its "afterparty" spawned between 46 and 52 arrests each year between 2013 and 2015, the first years that we kept records. Arrest totals dipped significantly in 2016, with anywhere from 16 to 26 arrests being reported since then. There were 25 arrests last year—21 adults and four juveniles. Next edition we will have a full wrap up on arrests.

Pick-pockets hitting downtown

Police are warning residents about pick-pocketing at downtown area bars, restaurants and hotels.

Patrons at bars, restaurants, and hotels operating downtown have suffered from a recent rash of pocket-picking theft incidents. In each instance, the offenders, sometimes a lone offender, enters into a crowded establishment and removes items from the unsuspecting victims' bags, purses or wallets.

In a majority of incidents where victims' property is taken, the offender(s) use the stolen bank debit/credit card to make fraudulent purchases at a department store immediately afterwards.

Incidents include one on the 100 block of S. Michigan Ave on June 2, at 1 p.m.; 100 block of E. Cermak Rd. on June 3, at 11:30 a.m.; 100 block of S. Clark St on June 5, at 1 p.m.; 200 block of N. Michigan Ave. on June 8, at 6 p.m.; 0-100 block of E. Wacker Dr. on June 9, at 2:15 p.m.; 300 block of N. Columbus Dr on June 10, at 5:30 p.m.; 100 block of W. Monroe St on June 11, at 1:00 p.m.; 100 block of S. La Salle St. on June 13, at 12 p.m.; 0-100 block of W. Wacker Dr on June 14, at 5:00 p.m.; 0-100 block of N. About The Offender

In several of the incidents, the offender was described as a sole African American male, mid-20s to mid-30s; however, in an overwhelming majority of the incidents the description of the offender(s) is not known.

Teen's family doesn't qualify for Chicago crime victim fund because he was murdered 'too far up north'

BY CWB CHICAGO

Benicio "Benny" Gomez's family doesn't qualify for financial support from Chicago's crime victim support fund because he was murdered "too far up north," one of the slain 16-year-old's friends told this reporter over the weekend of June 22-23.

The friend, sadly, is correct. A city support fund, recently expanded by Mayor Brandon Johnson, offers compensation to young shooting victims, but only if they live or get shot in 15 neighborhoods deemed "priority community areas." Shooting victims aged 24 and under in those areas can receive up to $2,000 each time they are shot. Survivors of murder victims in the zones can receive up to $3,500.

The 15 priority areas are Auburn Gresham, Austin, Chicago Lawn, East Garfield Park, Englewood, Greater Grand Crossing, Humboldt Park, New City, North Lawndale, Roseland, South Lawndale, South Shore, West Englewood, West Garfield Park, and West Pullman.

But Gomez was murdered—and two of his 16-year-old friends were injured—by a gunman in West Ridge, far removed from any of the city's "priority" areas. The boys were entering a silver Hyundai in the 5600 block of N. Rockwell when the gunman opened fire around 6:57 p.m. June 21, according to Chicago police. A black SUV sped away from the area with the gunman inside, CPD said.

Gomez's friends turned to GoFundMe to help the boy's family, and Chicagoans have donated in droves, taking care of crime victims that the Mayor's office apparently considers second-tier.

The campaign has raised $26,164 as of this writing, within range of its $30,000 goal.

"Benicio had a smile that could brighten your day," Benny's family wrote in a thank-you note to supporters. "His sense of humor brought joy to everyone who knew him, and he had a way of making the world a better place just by being in it."

"We are profoundly grateful for your kindness and support. Your donations have been beyond words. We will forever cherish your generosity and the love you've shown us."

Gomez's family laid him to rest on June 22.

Mark Dvorak

Folk singer salutes folk legend Woody Guthrie July 14 at City News Cafe

City News Cafe, 4018 N. Cicero Ave., is hosting folk singer songwriter Mark Dvorak 1:30 p.m. Sunday, July 14 for coffee, songs, stories and a special "Bound For Glory Tribute to Woody Guthrie."

Woody Guthrie was born in Okemah, OK, July 14, 1912 and was America's great folk ballad maker. Guthrie also wrote books, drew pictures, had a newspaper column and hosted a couple of radio shows. Guthrie's best songs - "This Land is Your Land," "Roll On Columbia," "Pastures of Plenty" and countless others - endure as living documents of the times in which he lived and worked, and are still resonant in today's world.

"Mark has become one of our favorites at the Cafe," said Donna Kosiba of City News, "and we're thrilled to welcome him back to our Sunday music series."

In 2008 Dvorak received the Woodstock Folk Festival Lifetime Achievement Award and in 2012 Rich Warren, longtime host of The Midnight Special radio program named Dvorak "Chicago's official troubadour."

South Suburbs

Particularly hard hit will be homeowners in the south suburbs, where 15 suburbs — 13 of them with mostly Black populations — are facing overall homeowner tax increases of more than 30%.

The Cook County Treasurer's tax bill analysis reveals how the latest round of reassessments in the south and southwest suburbs shifted 4% of the total tax burden in that region from businesses onto homeowners.

Because the shift from commercial to residential was so significant, taxes on businesses dropped by 7.8%, while homeowners' taxes soared by 15.9%. The median homeowner's tax bill increased by 19.9% — the largest increase in at least 29 years, Treasurer's Office data shows.

In 15 south suburbs — 13 of which have majority Black populations — the overall amount homeowners must pay jumped by more than 30%. In Dixmoor and Phoenix, the median homeowner tax bill doubled.

Taxes overall in the south and southwest suburbs grew by 6.5%, mostly because of increases in the amount of money sought by local taxing districts, such as schools and municipalities. That increase was well above the rate of inflation.

In Chicago, tax increases were far more modest: 2.8% overall, with businesses picking up more than half of the additional burden.

Taxes for more than 1.3 million homeowners went up, while about 251,600 saw their bills go down.

Taxes for more than 88,000 commercial properties increased, while nearly 28,000 decreased, with the bulk of the decreases in the south and southwest suburbs.

In the suburbs south of North Ave., where all properties were reassessed in 2023, the median bill for homeowners was the largest increase for any reassessed area in Cook County in at least the last 29 years. The median residential bill jumped by 19.9%, to $6,117.

Here in 2024, North Side townships are up next, and property owners may face the same fate.

Residential taxes rose by a grand total of $396.8 million, or 15.9%, while commercial taxes declined by $121.6 million, or 7.8% — for a net overall increase of $265.4 million.

More than 327,500 homeowners had higher bills, while about 107,000 have to pay less.

Taxes for more than 9,900 commercial properties increased, while taxes for more than 21,700 dropped.

The median commercial bill fell by about 8.5%, to $14,271.

Nearly 4,200 homeowners who paid no taxes last year will pay this year, because their higher assessed home values now exceed the value of their exemptions. The median tax bill for those homes is $1,115, with homeowners paying as little as 16¢ and as much as $10,995.

City of Chicago

In Chicago, which now is being reassessed for next year's bills, overall taxes rose $226.8 million — with a $104.2 million, or 2.6%, increase on residential properties and a $121.5 million, or 2.9% increase, on commercial properties.

Taxes for nearly 643,000 residential properties increased, while taxes for nearly 78,200 decreased.

More than 59,700 commercial property owners had higher bills, while 3,850 were asked to pay less.

The median residential tax bill increased by 2.9% to $3,811, while the commercial median rose about 2.7% to $12,156.

While property taxes are rising in Chicago again this year, the increase is well under the rate of inflation. Much of the increase is due to Chicago Public Schools raising its tax levy by $130.7 million.

The $130.7 increase was the maximum allowed under the Property Tax Extension Limitation Law, which limits levy increases to the rate of inflation from the previous year or 5%, whichever is lower. Because the inflation rate was 6.5%, CPS boosted its levy by 5% for the 2023-24 budget year.

CPS, which recaptures more money than any other agency in Cook County, will receive less from recapture this year. The amount of money its recapturing is $41.9 million — about an $8.9 million drop from last year.

The city of Chicago increased its levy by $25 million, but that's not driving up tax bills, because that will be paid by owners of newly constructed buildings or come from the closure of Tax Increment Financing [TIF] districts that diverted money away from the funds that the city uses to pay yearly expenses.

The growth within the city's TIFs pushed up the overall tax burden. The amount of taxes billed by TIF districts increased by $56.2 million — accounting for one-fourth of the overall property tax increase in the city.

The city's tax increases were mostly below 4% for both residential and commercial properties throughout the city, with large apartment complexes being the exception. Those properties were hit with a bigger overall tax increase, with $44.7 million added to their bills, for an increase of nearly 6.3% — although that class of properties throughout Cook County remain underassessed at just 7.4% of their market value, according to the Illinois Dept. of Revenue.

Increases did vary somewhat among the city's 77 community areas, but not in the ways that can happen when an area is reassessed — meaning next year's Chicago bills are likely to show more volatility.

Nearly 70% of this year's $80.5 million increase in TIF bills will go to TIF districts in Chicago, where 110 of 125 TIF districts expect to collect more in property taxes. Taxes increased by at least $1 million in 14 TIF districts.

North and Northwest Suburbs

In suburban Cook County north of North Ave., taxes rose by a total of $213.7 million — with a $109.8 million, or 3.2%, increase on residences and a $103.1 million, or 5.2%, increase on commercial properties.

Taxes for nearly 343,400 homeowners went up, while more than 66,400 saw their taxes go down.

Where your money goes

To see how a property's tax bill has changed, visit the Cook County Treasurer's website, where you will find a feature called "Where Your Money Goes." Type in the property's address or its Property Index Number [PIN] to see a comparison of this year's bill to last.

The link breaks down the amount billed by each taxing district and shows whether taxes went up or down.

For the first time this year, online and mailed bills will prominently display Where Your Money Goes.

Taxes for more than 18,400 commercial properties increased, while more than 2,300 went down.

The median residential tax bill increased by 3.2% to $7,234, while the commercial median went up by nearly 4.2% to $30,469.

In the suburbs north of North Ave., where homeowners last year were jolted with a record-high 15.7% increase in the median tax bill, the median residential tax bill this year climbed by a more modest 3.2%. Overall taxes in the region went up 4%, with businesses seeing a 4.2% increase in their median bill.

The countywide property tax increase breaks down by region as follows: suburban properties south of North Ave. — $265.4 million, a 6.5% increase; Chicago properties — $226.8 million, or 2.8% more; suburban properties north of North Ave. — $213.7 million, a 4% increase.

But not all homeowners and commercial property owners will owe more. The tax system treats every property differently, depending on factors that include whether a property owner's local schools, municipalities, park districts and other taxing agencies increased their levies, the amount of money they seek in taxes each year; whether their assessments rose or fell in relation to the assessments of all other properties; whether their taxes were affected by special taxing areas known as TIF districts or Special Service Areas [SSA].

The amount owed to TIF districts throughout Cook County was nearly $1.7 billion — an increase of $80.5 million, according to a Treasurer's Office analysis.

That extra money did little to relieve the overall financial burden on homeowners. That's because nearly all of the money is channeled into special funds that do not pay for everyday government services such as police officers' salaries and running schools.

Instead, most of the money is used to reimburse developers in those districts for a portion of their costs.

Only a small portion of the money collected in all but two TIF districts goes to local taxing bodies. That can happen under three scenarios:

when TIF money is declared surplus, which is then distributed to taxing districts; when TIF money is used to build schools or other infrastructures; or when an underlying agreement in a TIF district provides for returning a slice of the money to taxing districts.

But in Chicago's two transit TIF districts, which are used to fund the CTA's Red Line modernization and extension, CPS gets all the money that would have been diverted away from it.

In addition, 20% of the money that would have gone to all other government agencies is returned to those agencies.

In TIF districts, which typically expire after 23 years, new taxes collected as a result of increases in assessments are funneled into those districts until they are closed. Critics contend TIF districts divert badly needed money from schools, municipalities and other local governments, forcing those agencies to increase taxes.

Proponents counter that the revenue might never have existed in the first place without TIF districts, which they argue increase the overall tax base and create jobs.

Money going into TIF districts tends to increase the most in areas that were reassessed for that tax year.

Nearly 70% of this year's $80.5 million increase in TIF bills will go to TIF districts in Chicago, where 110 of 125 TIF districts expect to collect more in property taxes. Taxes increased by at least $1 million in 14 TIF districts.

The Chicago-Kinzie Conservation TIF district on the Near West Side, led all TIFs in tax increases. The amount the Chicago-Kinzie TIF increased by $16.3 million to $150.9 million.

Taxes also jumped in Chicago's two transit TIF districts, where bills went up by a combined $11.4 million to $86.3 million. Another big increase occurred in the Chicago-Central West TIF district, designed to promote retail, commercial and residential development in the Near West Community Area. Taxes in that district increased by $5.7 million, to $47.1 million.

TIF districts in the south and southwest saw minimal gains, billing $13.1 million more for a

She wound up giving tens of millions of dollars to major organizations all over town.

There were not many like her. Lurie now has a street bearing her name as well as a children's hospital, where she once worked. She died of complications from a recent illness, according to a family spokesperson. (In 2004, Chicago named a four-block-long street Ann Lurie Place on the Southwest Side.)

The self-described hippie protested against the Vietnam War while studying nursing in college in her home state of Florida, planning on joining the Peace Corps. But instead she married and worked as nurse in Florida while her first husband went to law school.

Well known for her generosity, Lurie gave millions to Northwestern Univ., the Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago, Greater Chicago Food Depository, PAWS Chicago and several other organizations and charitable efforts both in the city and beyond.

total of $218.2 million. Of 225 TIF districts in south and southwest suburbs, 72 billed less than last year — or nothing at all, because the assessed value of the properties in those districts dropped below where they stood when they originally were formed. The smallest increase in TIF district billing was in the north and northwest suburbs, where revenue climbed by $11.2 million to nearly $210 million. Of 85 still-active TIF districts, 12 billed less.

More than nine out of 10 businesses in Chicago also received higher tax bills, as did nearly nine of 10 in the north and northwest suburbs. But, because of the shift of assessed value from commercial to residential in the south and southwest suburbs, less than a third of businesses in that region received higher bills for tax year 2023.

Each tax bill also depends on the state of the hyper-local economy, changes to properties and the neighborhood housing market.

The Cook County Assessor's Office has said the decision to reclassify commercial-residential buildings was prompted by a Jan. 2023 report from the Cook County Inspector General's Office [IG]. The IG said assessing a largely commercial property, which may have a single makeshift apartment on an upper floor, as residential was a "contradiction." The IG pointed out that Cook County code requires commercial property to be assessed at the higher 25% rate.

this year, with thousands of homeowners in the south suburbs seeing astonishing increases.

Assessor employees told the IG that the old mixed commercial-residential classification had created an "apartment loophole." Closing the apartment loophole is expected to have a bigger impact in the city of Chicago - which has far more mixed-use properties - when it's reassessed for the 2024 tax year.

If homeowners can't afford to pay their taxes, local governments — many already with low tax collection rates — could struggle to pay for critical services.

For at least the 30th straight year, property taxes have gone up in Cook County. Nearly 84% of homeowners will pay more

More than nine out of 10 businesses in Chicago also received higher tax bills, as did nearly nine of 10 in the north and northwest suburbs. But, because of the shift of assessed value from commercial to residential in the south and southwest suburbs, less than a third of businesses in that region received higher bills for tax year 2023.

Even though tax rates in the south suburbs declined, in some cases significantly, the 19 highest tax rates in Cook County are still in Chicago's south suburbs, where the population is primarily lower-income Black residents — demonstrating once again the stark inequities in the Illinois property tax system.

Image Pool curator tour of Outsider Art at DePaul Art Museum July 31

There is a special free tour of the DePaul Art Museum [DAM] scheduled for 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 31, in collaboration with Intuit: The Center for Intuitive and Outsider Art. This tour will be lead by David Maruzzella, curator of DAM's current exhibition The Image Pool.

The exhibition investigates artists from DAM's permanent collection typically described as "folk," "self-taught," "outsider" or "intuitive," due to their seeming distance from the institutional sanctions of art schools, museums, galleries and mainstream commercial success.

Intentionally problematizing the insider/outsider distinction, this exhibition-featuring works by Eugene Von Bruenchenhein, Mr. Imagination, Marva Lee Pitchford-Jolly, June Wayne, Derek Webster, and Joseph Yoakum. This tour will frame these works as exemplary of what it means to be a contemporary artist rather than an exception.

The tour at the museum, 935 W. Fullerton Ave., will explore the aesthetic materials from personal and imagined histories, ambient culture, and elements of the modern world that influenced these artists and the fundamental shifts that prompted debate of their deserved place in art history.

Those who would like to join the tour may RSVP at <https://events.humanitix.com/the-image-pool-curator-s-tour>.

The 70-year-old company operates 26 restaurants, mostly along the East Coast.

Their parent company, PPX Hospitality Brands, also owns Smith & Wollensky, a chain of steakhouses, one of which is also located at Marina City. In 2020, Legal Sea Foods quietly set up a “virtual kitchen” at the Smith & Wollensky in Chicago. Offering food for pickup and delivery, the kitchen, said PBX Hospitality Brands, helped “test the waters” in Chicago for its New England-style seafood.

It was around that time, during the COVID-19 pandemic, that Dick’s Last Resort closed at Marina City, and PPX became interested in leasing the space for its Legal Sea Foods.

“It was an opportunity to plant a flag in the Midwest,” said Oliver Munday, CEO of PPX Hospitality Brands. PPX ended up signing a long-term lease for Legal Sea Foods on the Dearborn St. side of Marina City and renewing its long-term lease for Smith & Wollensky on the State St. side.

But will a restaurant promising “upscale casual New England vibes” succeed in Chicago?

Munday says the climate for opening a new restaurant in Chicago is “absolutely fine.”

“We’ve gone through the post-COVID sort of revenge dining where all this money was built up,” he said. “People had money in their accounts because they hadn’t been able to spend it. So, people hit the ground running.”

He says it is now more of a normal environment, though people working from home have changed their weekly patterns of dining out.

“Maybe Friday night is now Thursday night and Sunday night is now Tuesday night, so you have to adapt to that. But essentially, people love to go out with friends and family, and they love to have a dining experience. And people love seafood. We think in the Midwest that will really, really resonate.”

Munday says they were drawn to Chicago’s size and success as a tourist destination, and specifically to the Marina City complex, built in the 1960s and declared an official City of Chicago landmark in 2016.

“This is such a fascinating property,” said Munday, though adding it is “a very complicated building to manage and look after.”

“It’s a historic, architecturally significant building, so there’s all sorts of rules and regulations that you must respect,” he said. “But by the same token, we totally understand that, because this is a complex of incredibly prestigious architectural heritage. It’s a one of a kind.”
