Carjackers laid in wait in Pulaski Park murder

Carjacking, bump-and-run car theft a bigger worry for North Side

BY ELAINE COORENS

Carjackers were lying in wait in the 1200 block of N. Greenview early last Thursday morning. “The car lights were out and the engine turned off,” explained Ald. Brian Hopkins [2nd] about the attempted carjacking and murder in Pulaski Park on Aug 10.

Identified as Jesus De La O-Jimenez, the 28-year-old Hispanic victim received a gunshot wound to the chest which caused the homicide, according to the Cook County Medical Examiner’s Office spokeswoman, Becky Schlikerman.

“Anyone walking or driving by would not notice the two occupants,” said Ald. Hopkins. “One suspect leaped out of the car and pointed a handgun at the victim, telling him it was a carjacking and to get out of the car.

“The Infinity car owner panicked and hit the accelerator in an attempt to flee. At that point the offender shot through the closed car window and the car crashed into a car on the opposite side of Greenview.”

Detectives canvased the area for cameras from which they could obtain footage that will lead to identifying the perpetrators. “It was a fruitful day,” said Hopkins. “They have some leads.”

In 2016, a total of 661 car jacking were reported, up from 487 in 2012.

Similar incidents have occurred where offenders in other neighborhoods sat after hours in parked vehicles waiting for someone to walk or drive by so they could rob them. However this crime has not been determined to be linked, said Ald. Hopkins. Nor has a pattern been established in this case.

But if city crime statistics can be trusted, they show their numbers have been on the rise: Vehicular hijackings in Chicago nearly doubled between 2015 and 2016 and are occurring with the same frequency this year.

In 2016, a total of 661 car jacking were reported, up from 487 in 2012.

Through the first seven months of the year, there have been 465 crimes classified as vehicular hijacking or aggravated vehicular hijacking in Chicago, data shows, a 53% increase from this time last year. Only 18% of carjackings end up with an arrest.

In July Chicago police warned Downtown, North and West side drivers to be on the alert after a string of car jacking thefts. In each case, the victims’ vehicles are rear-ended, then the thieves drive off with their cars. These are called “bump and run” auto thefts, where car thieves work as a team -- as many as two or three individuals riding inside their own vehicle, then ramming their car into the back of the victim’s car. When the victim gets out to look for damage the thief takes off in their vehicle.

Indeed bump-and-run and other carjackings are making headlines around downtown Chicago and on the West and North sides. According to police, it appears to be a pattern between Area Central and Area North involving juveniles and targeting higher-end vehicles.

While understaffed, Chicago Police assured neighbors that they will be putting out extra patrols to combat carjackings.

Lincoln Square’s Berlin Wall monument rededicated

BY PATRICK BUTLER

The Aug. 5 rededication of a piece of the Berlin Wall at the Western Ave. Brown Line CTA station had different memories for dignitaries like Peter Winkler, Erich Himmel, president of the German-American Societies of Greater Chicago, and German Consul Gen. Herbert Quelle.

Winkler, president of DANK the German-American National Congress and the re-dedication’s master of ceremonies, grew up about 50 miles from the East German border and never got to know a whole set of relatives living on the other side until the wall went down in 1989.

“Not knowing which side of the wall was the ‘right’ side, I was afraid we’d get shot by the guards if we got too close,” he said.

For Consul Gen. Quelle, remembering the fall of the wall was déjà vu all over again.

Since the fall of the Berlin Wall Nov. 9, 1989, fragments of the Wall have been donated to various cities in the world. Chicago was offered a piece of the wall in 2008 by the German government and it was placed in the Lincoln Square neighborhood due to its German roots.

The wall segment is visible on both sides. The side that originally faced West Germany contains sprayed graffiti and messages from the time the wall was standing; the side that faced communist East Germany is entirely blank.

The Berlin Wall was more than 87 miles long and was originally built as a barrier constructed by communist East Germany in Aug. 1961, that completely cut off West Berlin from surrounding East Germany and from East Berlin. The intent was to keep East German citizens from fleeing to freedom in the west.

The monument also contains a plaque describing the dedication and reasoning behind why the wall fragment was donated. The inscription reads:

“Segment of the Berlin Wall (1961 - 1989) dedicated by the City of Berlin to the citizens of Chicago as an expression of its gratitude for the invaluable assistance rendered by the United States of America in securing the safety and freedom of Berlin, in bringing down the Wall, and in supporting reunification of Germany and Berlin.”

“Not many Europeans were glad to see it go down and have all those refugees streaming all over Europe. (British Prime Minister Margaret) Thatcher wasn’t happy about it at all,” Quelle said.

“Although there appear to be many going in the wrong direction in Europe today, I’m an optimist. I think we shall overcome,” added Quelle, who besides being a talented musician also wrote a book on jazz.

We need to remind the next generation that those who don’t study their history are doomed to repeat it, said Illinois State Treasurer Michael Frerich, who grew up in the midst of the Cold War with its ‘duck and cover’ drills

‘Rocky’ Ridge Blvd. to be resurfaced from Devon to Fargo

Those who have navigated Ridge Blvd. in the last year know it can be a rocky ride as motorists zig and zag up and down the popular rush hour route avoiding giant pot holes.

Last week the Illinois Dept. of Transportation announced plans to resurface Ridge, starting Tuesday, from Devon north to Fargo.

In addition to resurfacing and restriping the roadway, the State contractors also will construct new sidewalk ramps that are compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act. The projected is expected to be completed sometime this fall.

Motorists will experience delays and should allow extra time for trips through the area.

This is a long overdue capital improvement project. Ridge is part of a state highway [U.S. Route 14] and some of the responsibility for resurfacing the street rests with the State of Illinois, so the budget impasse in Springfield over the last few years prevented the work from moving forward. Yes, those broken axles, flat tires and snapped struts are the fault of House Speaker Michael Madigan and Gov. Bruce Rauner.

Conditions on portions of ‘Rocky Ridge’ became so intolerable that voters in the 49th Ward’s 2014 Participatory Budgeting election voted to resurface Ridge, from Fargo north to Howard, using funds from Ald. Joe Moore’s discretionary capital improvement budget.

Medical center demo stopped for remediation

The City and Ald. Patrick O’Connor [40th] hosted a community meeting last Thursday to offer a progress report on the demolition of the hulking Edgewater Medical Center [EMC], 5700 N. Ashland Ave.

For years the nearby community has expressed frustration over the progress with Edgewater Medical Center and during the meeting held at Rogers Park Montessori School, 1800 W. Balmoral Ave., many neighbors peppered the the alderman and demolition crew with questions.

The site has been an eyesore since it was foreclosed on by a French bank and then seized by the federal government for fraud. Vandals, squatters and urban thrill seekers have also been a constant problem by breaking into the lightly guarded property.

The demolition crew has promised to add a second 24-hour security patrol as the site was previously secured by only one guard.

According to Todd Mullen of MCZ Developments, the demolition work being conducted by Ground Crew Excavation & Demolition of Bellwood, IL, on the site had to stop in order for the remediation contractors to come on site and sift through the building debris looking for items banned from going into landfills.

Last month MCZ Development received full approval of their remediation plan to remove debris from the site—an important step in moving this project forward.

“We received full approvals for the remaining remediation work at EMC,” said Mullen. He said MCZ

A recipe for artistic success, more than just romance and beauty in female form

By Thomas J. O’Gorman

Are you a good cook?
Can you sauté? French chop?
Make a sauce from scratch? How are you at mixing in ingredients?
Do people run to your table, or try to escape out the windows?
Cooking is like painting and writing for me, a way to concoct memorable masterpiece meals.
Once you get the ingredients lined up, cooking is easy. People like eating my food.

Cooking is a handy metaphor for understanding art. Many people appear to be overwhelmed by cooking. And by art. They think you need special resources to understand it. Like lots of money or a degree in fine arts. That’s perhaps because we have been too influenced by television and movies.
Cooking and art are less complicated than they are portrayed. And they are far more-user friendly than we have been led to believe.
You don’t have to be French, or rich, or overly sophisticated to wrap your understanding around cooking, or art.

Chicago’s well-known Daley
Plaza Picasso, “Tete du Femme,” (Head of a Woman), is a perfect example. And this Summer, the 50th Anniversary of its arrival here, is a good time to take a look at it.
Really look. Not like the crowd of Chicagoans they assembled that day 50 years ago to watch it being unveiled. Many, then, looked as if they were watching a nun drop her drawers. I mean really gaze on it from all angles. To discover a piece of transformative art. Spectacular, quizzical, unnerving, disconcerting, emotionally moving, ugly, rusting, a sock in the kisseroverwhelming.

Just like Chicago, itself.
It’s like holding a mirror to our rough and weathered urban face.
A crime-ridden, bootlegger’s face on the heartland capitol of the American Prairie, meat-packer, rail center, water-lapped-shoreline of an American city. Rough-cut like the lady underneath the tarp; and a horror-struck tart once the cover fell away.

A familiarity with the world and work of Pablo Picasso is not unreasonable. It connects Chicago easily to the work the artist created and gave to the City of Chicago. He would take no payment for his work. Not a Franc.

The facial structure of the sculpture, just like most Chicagoans, is a composite beauty. And its loveliness and shape move with the eye of the beholder. The basic image of a woman’s head played a vital part in the long career of Picasso.
He literally painted thousands of them.

Pablo Picasso

Women were important to the Spanish Roman Catholic who saw more than just romance and beauty in the female form. He saw life in all its Spanish extravagance contained in the humanity and mystery of women. Once you understand how Picasso perceived the electric and challenging female form, you have unwrapped the secret of his art.

It helps if you can understand his falling in love with a prima ballerina from Yugoslavia, Olga Khokhlova. They married and never divorced. She bore him a son. Or his love for his many mistresses, though Pablo and Olga never separated.

Or why he fell head over heels for a 16 year old, Marie-Therese Walter, a stranger he bumped into on a street corner in Paris. A girl who bore him a child and did not know who he really was.

Or his powerful romance with Dora Maar, a professional photog-

Picasso’s “Tete du femme” in profile.

rapher, who equaled his tempestuous emotions and dramatic spirit.

Or his powerful attachment to a young art student in Paris, Fran-coise Gilot, who bore him five children (and still lives in New York in her 90s).

Or his long love for Jacqueline Roque, his mistress for years, whom he wed after Olga died in 1955. Here we find the clues, perhaps, of why Jacqueline put a pistol to her head shortly after Pablo’s death in 1973.

Picasso wasn’t easy to be with.
At times he was too intense. But women understood Picasso. He thought he understood them. Life with them was dangerous. Vol-uptuous. Cruel. Damaging. Bohemian. Flamboyant. But always sun-drenched.

Picasso was short and stocky with the physique of a peasant. He was also a macho man. Loving the bullring of his native land. And arguments. And confrontation. He was a tough in the effete world of Parisian art. A bully.

He was the first name in collecting. Wealthy by the start of World War I, he was excused from military service because he was a citizen of Spain. He watched many gifted artists and friends go off to the front, never to return.

Shortly before war erupted and everything began to fall apart in 1914, Picasso went to the bank to withdraw 100,000 Francs, a sum few artists then ever saw. He had many mouths to feed.

Picasso’s interest in Chicago is not hard to understand. The gritty and topical reputation that Chicago flexed as the Windy City was a muscularity very appealing to the artist. As an active member of the Communist Party in Paris, the artist would be fully cognizant of the city’s role in the establishment of unions and workers’ rights. Chicago was a world leader in the establishment of worker rights. None of this was lost on the sympathetic artist.

The political reputation of the city as a bastion of muscular democracy would also have been appealing to the artist. His gifting of the sculpture that Summer of 1967 took place during a bright moment in the city’s political history. The placement of the Picasso gift oc-cured just one year in advance of the troubled violence that erupted around the 1968 Democratic National Convention when rough response by authorities created turmoil and repression that has never been forgotten.

But there was still the veneer of political and urban innocence that summer of 1967. The thunderous “Head” of Picasso’s woman arrived during the city to embrace it.

Studs Terkel covered its unveiling for his beloved radio station WFMT. Picasso would have been energized by the crowd that day who were large on public spirit, but low on understanding public sculpture.

Terkel was in his element, real Chicagoans. Classic Chicago workers. The everyday people of Chicago wards and neighborhoods. Amongst the working people, the powerful Mayor Richard J. Daley was the stand-out personality. While a bright and highly clever American political being, modern public sculpture would be little understood by him either.

Picasso was 86 years old when his Chicago gift was unveiled, and 92 before he would die. He never visited Chicago (he had never left Europe). His knowledge of Chicago was drawn from the city’s historic reputation. He knew that everyday people often needed to spend time with his work before they understood it. Having his work located at the city’s crossroads in the Civic Center Plaza, as it was known then, must have given him added confidence that the “Tete du Femme” would come to ingratiate itself among everyday Chicagoans.

Though he never said so in so many words, Picasso gave Chicago a woman of mystery and power. The kind of woman that had made Chicago home since the days of Fort Dearborn. Perhaps the head would be a reminder of Chicago’s women who fashioned so much of its life, any of the tens of thousands of women who immigrated to Chicago from elsewhere, began families here, and created homes on the prairie in the heartland capitol of the nation.

Of course people were shocked by what they saw as the cover dropped on Chicago’s newest female star on that day 50 years ago.

She would take getting used to.
She would need the seasoning of decades for some. But 50 years on, she is home. Robust. Zaftig.

Full lipped. Big shouldered and long-nosed. Sounds to me like Picasso did get it right. Maybe he really did know his way around women and used the right ingredients. Maybe he was a better cook than we thought.

A tale of two pianists

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

S o , there I was, with my granddaughter, Sydney, at Leona's, the pizzeria/Italian eatery down the street from my house, when all of the sudden, someone started making really beautiful music from the grand piano in the front of the restaurant.

We immediately stopped what we were doing and sat and listened to the magical fingers of Alif Muhammad, who performs from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays at Leona's, 6935 N. Sheridan Rd. Latin, Top 40, pop... you name it, Muhammad can play it. And he does so with grace and beauty.

"I hope that I bring an atmosphere that's quite missing in mainstream restaurants in Chicago... live background music, a cozy atmosphere," said Muhammad, an Avondale resident. "I try to do requests and give a wide variety of music, 1920s to yesterday. I try to be engaging and as setting of the mood as I can."

Born and raised on the South Side, Muhammad grew up in the rough part of town, in public housing. Yet since he was five-years-old, there had been a keyboard in the house for him to jam on. At 15, he started playing for audiences through his high school jazz band at Whitney Young High School.

"My teacher found ways for my friends and I to perform at small functions," said Muhammad, who took two summers of piano lessons but is mostly self-taught.

After that it was on to college, with Muhammad attending the VanderCook College of Music, where he "learned a lot." But he then switched majors, to become a grade school teacher where he could spread his love of music to kids. Muhammad taught for two years before going back and furthering his education more, to become a therapist. Today, he is a Licensed Professional Counselor.

"My goal is doing art based therapy clinics, narrative therapy, drama therapy, music therapy, sound therapy, which is how people use sound and bio-feedback and designs to give autistic and ADHD kids and those with profound disorders some kind of alignment," he said. "As a kid, I struggled with what seemed to be inattentive Attention Deficit Disorder."

"Music was a great way to bring me into the present," he said. "I want to help young people who are equally disadvantaged as I was."

Muhammad is not only a pianist; he is an actor and composer also. If you can't get to Leona's, you can hear some original songs he composed being performed in the play, "Lisette Dances Divine," a 1920s comedy, running through Sept. 3 at the Greenhouse Theater Center, 2257 N. Lincoln Ave.

Wherever you catch Muhammad, one thing is sure: This guy was born to perform, and he lights up Leona's, bringing a much-needed and wanted touch of elegance and charm to East Rogers Park. !

"I go wherever there's a stage that will have me," said Muhammad. "I gravitate towards it."

If you have little kids, Leona's is definitely a fun place to bring them. The restaurant has a play room showing kiddie movies and tiny ones can either sit and watch, or just run around and get crazy. I take my granddaughters there often, they love it. As did my own children when they were young.

So, there I was on a recent Sunday night, with my granddaughters Jordan and Shannon, when once again, someone's magical fingers were tickling the ivories. It was pianist

Derrick Bounds, whose piano playing seems to know no bounds.

He was perfect in every way with his lively playing and fingers that seemed to dance on the keys with amazing ease.

Bounds grew up taking private lessons in classical, jazz and gospel music. He began studying piano at the age of 11, having a handful of teachers who taught him well before he ended up attending the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

Although his parents weren't musical, there was music constantly playing in the Bounds household. His father listened to the smooth sounds of Aretha Franklin and James Brown and his mom introduced him to jazz, even though he really couldn't understand it at the time. "As a teenager I was listening to everything musical... Mozart, Rachmaninoff, Joplin, Ellington, Carpenters, Marsalis..." said Bounds.

Bounds can give you a vast variety of selections of both jazz and classical music from a collection from the past and present. He will have audiences tapping their feet to his original songs and uniquely creative arrangements which captivates listeners of all genre's of music.

His wide range of knowledge has allowed him to play with notables including Otis Clay, Garland Green, Danny Boy, and T.C. Carson, as well as local artists D-Erania and the Chris Zamora Group. Bounds also occasionally works with the Uptown-based Black Ensemble Theater (another place I love), and he has written music for Indie films.

Come November, Bounds will be involved in a Jazz and Classical show, with venue info forthcoming, although he is looking into the Mayne Stage in East Rogers Park. The event will be a live performance by dB Group, which is comprised of an 11 piece group (rhythm, horns, strings, background vocals) performing original music and some classical with dance, said Bounds. It was first performed at Logan Center last November, and the album is currently receiving airplay here and streaming on 105.5 FM (WLPN-LP), 88.5 FM (WHPK) and WGFM (streaming).

I hope you can see for yourself what I have seen at Leona's, because these two guys are definitely spreading the love with music here in East Rogers Park. As one of my favorite musicians, the late Bob Marley, once said: "One good

Vintage wedding garage sale Sunday

Vintage Garage Chicago returns for their August show this Sunday and promises to have, vintage furniture, vintage clothing, Midcentury modern, jewelry, vinyl, china, glassware and other kitsch.

This show's theme is vintage weddings, and will held be in their usual location at 5051 N. Broadway from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Garage is literally a parking garage in the Uptown neighborhood. Each month, usually the 3rd Sunday, 75 to 100 vendors of vintage and antique goods fill up the first 3 levels, and ramps, of the structure.

It's covered, so vendors don't need tents and customers won't get rained on. You'd be surprised by how awesome a parking garage filled with vintage can look.

What you'll find are mainly vintage and antiques. All categories are represented: vintage clothing, art, jewelry, vintage furniture, home decor, Midcentury modern, lots of 1940's through 1980's, vintage lighting, industrial decor, vintage music, vinyl records and so much more. Most items you find are at least 25-years-old.

This one-of-a-kind North Side event has grown in popularity with thousands expected to stop in for this Summer's shopping trip back in time. This event is family friendly. Sometimes kids like it, sometimes they hate it. Kids under 16 are free. Dogs on a leash that can handle crowds of people and many people who want to pet him/her are welcome.

thing about music, when it hits you, you feel no pain."

So leave your troubles at the door and come on out and soothe your soul and experience some musical magic at Leona's.

Chicago home loan rates fall to a low of 3.7%, where are the listings?

The Home Front

By Don DeBat

Mortgage lenders literally are trying to give away 30-year fixed loans with interest rates as low as 3.7% or less, while Chicago Realtors ask: “Where are the for-sale home listings?”

“Plummeting existing home inventories continue to pose significant challenges for buyers,” said Doug Carpenter, president of Illinois Realtors. “The lack of homes for sale in the most popular price bands is making it critical for buyers to be ready to hustle when it comes time to make an offer.”

A local survey by Bankrate.com showed Chicago-area lenders were charging a range of 3.737% to 3.8% on benchmark 30-year home loans on Aug. 9.

Freddie Mac’s national Primary Mortgage Market Survey reported on Aug. 10 that average 30-year fixed mortgage rates declined to 3.90% down from 3.93% a week earlier. The benchmark rate dropped to its lowest point in six weeks. A year ago, the 30-year fixed loan average was 3.45%. Fifteen-year fixed loans averaged 3.18% on Aug. 10, Freddie Mac reported. A year ago, the 15-year fixed loan average was 2.76%.

“After holding relatively flat a week earlier, the 10-year Treasury yield fell four basis points last week,” said Sean Beckett, chief economist, Freddie Mac.

“The 30-year mortgage rate moved in tandem with Treasury yields, dropping three basis points to 3.90%. Earlier last week, Federal Reserve officials highlighted the influence of continued weak inflation data on rates,” Beckett noted.

The city of Chicago saw a 1.7% year-over-year home sales decline in June of 2017 with 3,266 units sold, down from 3,321 units sold in June of 2016. The median price of a home in Chicago in June was $308,000, up 2.7% from $299,900 in June of 2016.

Baby Boomers, those nearing retirement age at the other end of the housing market, are a big part of the home-listing shortage, experts say.

“The market exhibited a bit of a holding pattern in June,” said Matt Silver, president of the Chicago Assoc. of Realtors. “Inventory was a contributing factor. Once you sell your home, you’ll need to then buy another. So, sellers are being firm on their pricing, and while some buyers are willing to wait for their perfect home, other motivated buyers are driving down the time on market.”

Statewide in Illinois the time it took to sell a home in June averaged 49 days, down from 55 days a year ago. The for sale homes inventory totaled 59,088 units, a 14% decline from June of 2016 when there were 68,720 units on the market.

“While the housing market continues to record gains in prices and sales, the inventory problem remains an important issue,” said economist Geoffrey J.D. Hewings, of the Univ. of Illinois. “Hopefully, now that the state has a budget, a recovering state economy will encourage more investment in housing—both new construction and investment by first-time buyers.”

So, where are those Millennials—the first-time buyers? Millennials age 36 years or younger represent the nation’s largest share of home buyers at 34%, according to the National Assoc. of Realtors. However, the supply of starter homes in the national market has declined 17% from a year ago.

Unfortunately, 43% of the Millennials who have completed college said student-loan debt caused them to delay buying a home, reports a TD Ameritrade survey. And 27% of Millennials between the ages of 20 and 26 years said repayment of educational loans delayed them from moving out of their parents’ home, the survey revealed.

Baby Boomers, those nearing retirement age at the other end of the housing market, are a big part of the home-listing shortage, experts say. The Baby Boomer homeownership rate is 78%, accounting for 33 million properties.

However, a nationwide study by Realtor.com found that 85% of the Baby Boomers surveyed said they have no plans to sell their home in the next year.

CAF events look to future, past

The Chicago Architecture Foundation [CAF] is putting on several events this month.

First, Chicago Reader columnist John Greenfield, Chicago Park District historian Julia Bachrach and city planner Benet Haller will report on the city’s diverse and growing cycling community during “Bike Talk: Chicago’s Cycling Future,” at 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 21, at Revolution Brewing, 2323 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Some say cycling is enjoying a new “golden age” in Chicago, but questions remain about the prioritization of bicyclists in transportation planning: What needs to be done to assure the appropriate infrastructure is in place to support bicyclists? How are cycling resources being distributed within neighborhoods?

The local experts will give rapid-fire presentations on Chicago’s bike culture and the state of cycling in the city, followed by a question-and-answer session.

Beer and a light buffet are included. Cost is $35 for the public and $28 for CAF members. The event is open only to guests age 21 and older.

“Daytime Talk: Renovating the House of Tomorrow” is at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 23, at the CAF Lecture Hall, 224 S. Michigan Ave. Attendees will learn about the history and planned restoration of the House of Tomorrow, a futuristic model home designed for the 1933-1934 Century of Progress Exposition.

Todd Zeiger of Indiana Landmarks will describe the condition of the House of Tomorrow and outline plans for bKL Architecture to restore the building.

Designed by modernist architect George Fred Keck, the House of Tomorrow was made of glass and steel, accurately forecasting a future lifestyle. While its octagonal form and private airplane hangar never quite caught on, its floor-to-ceiling glass curtain wall system was adopted by many builders and architects to come.

After the exposition, the home was moved to Beverly Shores, IN.

The event is free for CAF members, but advance registration is required. To avoid an online transaction fee, order tickets by calling 312-922-3432, or visit the CAF box office at 224 S. Michigan Ave.

The House of Tomorrow is featured in another August event: an eight-hour tour that leaves the CAF Lecture Hall at 9 a.m. Aug. 26 and returns at 5 p.m. Aug. 26. Attendees are asked to arrive at least 15 minutes early for check-in.

During “Behind-the-Scenes: The House of Tomorrow,” participants will travel with CAF to Beverly Shores, IN, to tour the house, see the major restoration underway and visit a neighboring World’s Fair model home.

Zeiger will lead the tour, followed by lunch at Bartlett’s Gourmet Grill & Tavern.

Cost for the trip is $68 for the public and $60 for CAF members. The price includes lunch.

Letters to the Editor

Take it down a knotch

Last Saturday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. there was a group in the park at Wellington and Lake Shore Dr. that had loudspeakers blaring loud music way above what they have a right to do. I realize that groups with permits have a right to have music, but at reasonable sound levels.

Two people from our building asked them very nicely if they would please turn down their volume. No dice.

What can be done?

An East Lakeview Owner

Thanks for the memories

Your recent features about the 50th anniversary of Chicago's Picasso at Daley Plaza reminded me of that special moment of its installation. I was on lunch break when I stood on the south side of the plaza, watching the dedication. Myriad opinions of what it represented and how it was experienced were heard everywhere. What it has meant for you, you decide. In the meantime, regarding that historic event, thanks for the memories.

Riverwalk, Ravenswood added as Friday Night Flights sites

Series highlighting neighborhood breweries, restaurants

The City is hosting a summer-long series of events to highlight Chicago's thriving craft beer scene and has added Chicago's Riverwalk to its concluding series of August events. The urban recreation waterfront park space and pedestrian trail along the south bank of the Chicago River will host a special Friday Night Flights event Friday featuring 14 breweries from across the city.

Participants can enjoy a beer from award-winning breweries, enjoy some music and sample food from Riverwalk vendors from an awe-inspiring vantage point. Participating breweries include: Hopewell Brewing, Maplewood Brewery, Lake Effect Brewing, Begyle Brewing Co., Baderbrau, Haymarket Pub & Brewery, Band of Bohemia, Alulu Brewpub, Finch Beer Company, Motor Row Brewing, Eataly's Birreria, Argus Brewery, Pipeworks Brewing Co. and Alarmist Brewing.

The event includes a tasting pass for purchase allowing participants to sample various beers from the participating breweries. Local entertainment and food for purchase will round out each Chicago Friday Night Flight experience, making each event a true taste of the neighborhoods.

"The Friday Night Flights event will pair two of Chicago's strongest attractions – our world-famous Riverwalk and world-renowned craft breweries," said Mayor Rahm Emanuel said. "I encourage residents to swing by and check out some of the best beverages our neighborhood breweries have to offer. Since its launch last May, Friday Night Flights has become a premier city showcase for Chicago's neighborhood breweries and craft beer scene."

Forum on Transit Oriented Developments Aug. 22

A public forum focusing on the potential and challenges created by Transit Oriented Developments (TODs) and moderated by Prof. Dick Simpson of the Univ. of Illinois at Chicago will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Aug. 22 at the DANK Haus, 4740 N. Western Ave.

The event is free and open to the public, and is organized by North-center Neighborhood Association (NNA) and the Greater Rockwell Organization (GRO) in association with Northside Neighbors.

In 2015, Chicago significantly liberalized its regulations governing TODs, which were already drawing considerable interest from developers. Since then, momentum for TOD development has increased markedly, especially on the city's North Side, explained Tom Kosinski, president of GRO.

The forum is an effort to give the public a better understanding of the benefits and drawbacks associated with TODs, which typically create greater density by combining small rental units with limited space for automobile parking. TOD residents are expected to make extensive use of public transit, bicycles and ride sharing services.

These TOD rules have delivered thousands of new — primarily rental units—in transit-rich areas such as those along the CTA's Blue, Red and Brown line's. According to its proponents, TOD pays dividends when it comes to environmental friendliness, reduced vehicle congestion, improved neighborhood walkability, and increased retail vibrancy.

But the ability to build-up high density project on smaller parcels do increase density, and the lack of parking spaces is a shared concern among many current residents. Opponents have a hard time believing so many people are willing to go car-less. To them, it is simply a way around the once firm zoning standard that demanded that each new housing unit come with one - or more - new parking spaces included in the development. For developers to boost profits by getting out of building adequate on-site parking, thereby putting greater strain on the already scarce supply of on-street parking.

And of course higher density means more property taxes collected for a cash-starved city and county.

The program features four panelists, they are:

- Kendra Jackson Freeman, Manager for Housing and Community Development at the Metropolitan Planning Council.

- Joshua Krueger, co-founder of Campbell Street Asset Management, Inc., which has developed TOD projects.

- Joseph Schweiterman, professor of Public Service Management at DePaul Univ. and director of DePaul's Chaddick Institute for Metropolitan Development.

- Kyle Smith, Senior Project Manager at Antero Group, also manages technical assistance for equitable transit-oriented development with the Center for Neighborhood Technology.

Each of the panelists will make a short presentation giving their personal perspective on TODs and then will participate in a wide-ranging discussion responding to questions from the moderator and members of the audience.

"Our goal is to provide our community with information that can be used to help guide sensible development and address a range of other challenges," said Kate Kreinbring, president of NNA. "We've found that members of our community are eager to better understand the complex issues that our city faces, and we hope to do our small part in addressing those needs."

Police Beat....

FBI sets up covert surveillance on man with “JOINTS $$” sign at Lollapalooza

An undercover FBI agent working near the Lollapalooza festival grounds relied on “years of law enforcement experience and narcotics training” to determine that a man who was carrying a sign that said “JOINTS $$” was attempting to sell cannabis to concertgoers, police said.

Edgar Perez, 38, resisted when the detective identified himself, announcing “I’m not going to jail,” prosecutors said. Perez swung at the officer and knocked the cop’s glasses off of his face, forcing the officer to fight back until backup arrived. The FBI employee apparently used their “years of law enforcement experience” to not get involved.

Perez, of the Southwest Side’s West Elsdon neighborhood, was found to be in possession of 15 grams of pot and $1,321 cash at the time of his arrest, prosecutors say.

He’s charged with misdemeanor resisting police and one felony count of manufacture-delivery of cannabis.

Man robbed Lollapalooza ticket brokers

A ticket broker’s sale of Lollapalooza wristbands turned into a robbery at the Chicago Hilton Hotel, 720 S. Michigan, on Aug. 3. A Woodlawn man who police found hiding under a car in a nearby parking garage is charged with the crime, police said.

Imad Gordon, 21, punched one of the men in the face, took 10 wristbands valued at $2,000, and then ran away, according to court records.

Police, working with a radio broadcast of the offender’s description, “were directed toward a parking lot... by some kind citizens,” a report said.

Gordon—“matching the exact description”—was found lying beneath a car in the 800 block of S. Wabash, officers said. The ticket brokers were able to identify Gordon, prosecutors said. A judge on Friday set Gordon’s bail at $100,000.

In July 2013, Gordon was accused of robbing a man at a house party in Avondale. A judge sentenced him to one-year probation and 30 hours of community service.

13 years for beating Lakeview senior citizen with pistol

A 21-year-old street gang member accused of beating a 63-year-old world-renowned expert on ancient Egypt with a handgun during a robbery in Lakeview last summer has reached a plea deal.

David Shabazz pleaded guilty to one count of aggravated battery in a public place and received a 13-year sentence. In exchange, prosecutors dropped 15 other charges: two counts of armed robbery; eight counts of aggravated unlawful use of a weapon; three additional counts of aggravated battery; two counts of being a felon in possession of a firearm; and one count of unlawful restraint.

Shabazz and Juwan Askew were accused of tackling, beating, and robbing the man at gunpoint near his home in the 1000 block of W. Barry on a Sunday afternoon last July. Askew is due back in court on Sept. 18.

Four months before the robbery, Shabazz was arrested in Boystown and charged with brandishing a replica firearm during a fight on Halsted St.

Days later, a Cook County judge threw out the weapons charge against David Shabazz finding “no probable cause” despite statements by multiple witnesses and police officers’ reports of recovering a Sig Sauer blue steel air pistol from Shabazz’s coat.

Cops say he is a member of the Traveling Vice Lords street gang.

Man charged in Northerly Island stabbing

Thomas Christensen, 34, 2400 block of W. Haddon Ave., has been charged with one felony count of Aggravated Battery/Use of a Deadly Weapon, one misdemeanor count of Battery- Make Physical Contact after he was arrested after being identified as the offender that approached a 29 year-old male and stabbed him in the face and neck.

Thomas Christensen

The incident occurred in the 1300 block of S. Linn Dr. 9:28 a.m. Aug. 8. During the incident a 34 year-old female sustained a laceration to the chest. Christensen was then knocked to the ground and detained. Both victims were transported to Northwestern Hospital. The 29 year-old male was transported in serious condition and the 34 year-old female was transported in good condition for a minor wound.

Christensen was placed into custody and was provided medical attention on scene for superficial wounds.

Ax threat brings probation

It’ll be four-years probation for a Lakeview man who was accused of storming into his ex-girlfriend’s home and threatening to kill her new boyfriend with an ax two years ago.

Joseph Kardasz, 29, of the 3100 block of Southport reached a plea deal with prosecutors and was handed the sentence late last month.

Kardasz was accused of forcing his way into the woman’s home in the 1600 block of Wrightwood around 3:30 a.m. on July 4, 2015, while threatening, “I’m going to kill [the new boyfriend] right in front of you!”

Prosecutors said Kardasz swung the small ax several times, striking the boyfriend on his hand and forearm, causing minor cuts and lacerations.

Prison for third robbery conviction

A Morgan Park man who was given probation for robbing two women at gunpoint in Lakeview last December has received a slightly stiffer sentence for his third hold-up.

Weeks after getting the probation sentence for the December muggings earlier this year, Jwan Farley, 22, was charged with a third robbery that took place in the 800 block of W. Fletcher two months before he robbed the women.

That third case just wrapped up with Farley pleading guilty to robbery and the court sentencing him to four years. Farley will be eligible for parole in March 2019.

Suspect sought in South Loop L robbery

Detectives are looking for the public’s help in identifying a man who robbed a CTA train passenger late last month.

Police say the man seen here approached a woman on a Green Line CTA train near the Roosevelt station around 9 a.m. July 24. He pulled out a box cutter and took the woman’s purse by force, authorities said.

The offender, described as a black man 25-30 years old, about 5’-8” tall and 160 lbs., exited the train at 43rd Street, according to a community alert.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Area Central detectives at 312-747-8382.

Milwaukee women sentenced for Lincoln Park mugging

Two Milwaukee women who went missing after being accused of mugging a Lincoln Park woman have reached plea bargains.

Prosecutors charged Ellise Franklin, 36, and Tamisha Bass, 37, with knocking the victim to the ground and wrestling away her purse in the 2600 block of N. Lincoln on Oct. 8, 2016.

Franklin received 24-months probation and Bass was given a three-year prison sentence in exchange for their pleas.

Bass was on probation for retail theft at the time of the robbery, according to Wisconsin state records. Her criminal history includes several shoplifting and fraud convictions, the state said.

Ellise Franklin

Tamisha Bass

fact that they lived in Milwaukee, a judge gave both women relatively low bonds. They posted bond, then went missing. Both were recaptured earlier this year.

A court record says that Judge Joseph Panarese was not aware of “all necessary information” when he set the low bond amounts.

Man shot dead in Uptown Sunday morning; may be domestic-related

A man believed to be in his mid-20’s was shot to death Sunday morning in Uptown. No one is in custody. The incident may be domestic-related, according to a police source.

Officers responded to calls of a person shot outside of the Wilson Yards senior housing complex at 1032 W. Montrose around 6:50 a.m. A man found unresponsive with multiple gunshot wounds to his left side was pronounced dead upon arrival at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center.

Witnesses said a man emerged from a car, fired three to five shots, and then drove away. The gunman is described as a slender black man who stands about 5’-9” tall. Shell casings were found in the middle of Montrose.

Investigators are looking for a small black car with Michigan plates—possibly a Nissan Venza or a similar Volkswagen—which was last seen heading westbound on Montrose.

Minutes before the shooting, police received a call of a domestic altercation at Broadway and Montrose. The caller reported that his child’s mother had hit him and then drove away. Working on early reports from witnesses, police believe the incidents are related, a source said.

Felon who fired gun during Cubs street party gets seven years

A three-time convicted felon who was on parole when he allegedly fired off a handgun during a Cubs play-off victory street party in Wrigleyville is going to prison.

Hoytuan Pierce was 31-years-old when he opened fire outside of Roadhouse 66, 3478 N. Clark, as partiers were wrapping up a Cubs Division League Series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Oct. 13, 2015. No one was struck by the gunfire.

A significant police presence in the area due to the Cubs game allowed cops to execute a near-immediate arrest and Pierce was charged with reckless discharge of a firearm and being an armed habitual criminal.

Hoytuan Pierce

Pierce’s parole for his second DUI was revoked, and the state sent him back to prison.

While he sat behind bars, the Wrigleyville case was handed over to federal prosecutors. In December, he pleaded guilty to a federal charge of illegal possession of a firearm by a felon.

Last week he was sentenced to seven years in federal prison. He faced up to 10 years under federal guidelines.

Before the Wrigleyville incident, Pierce’s record included convictions for robbery, aggravated battery, being a felon in possession of a firearm, and two DUIs, according to court data.

Police say Pierce is a member of the Latin Kings street gang.

Lakeview woman awakened by burglars Saturday morning; after sharp decline, break-ins spike

While the 19th Town Hall Police District has enjoyed a 27% decline in burglaries compared to last year, there are indications that break-ins are on the rise—most likely the work of a small number of criminals who’ve found a nice hunting ground, police say.

Most recently, a Lakeview woman was awakened at 5 a.m. Sunday by two men who forced their way through her back door in the 600 block of W. Briar.

The woman hid in the closet while the offenders combed through her home, but the men managed to get away before police arrived.

The burglars were described only as two men who carried a flashlight or a cellphone light.

The 19th District, which stretches from Fullerton to Lawrence and from the Chicago River to Lake Michigan reported 65 burglaries between July 1 and August 3. There were 64 burglaries in the district during the same period last year.

Year-to-date, the district has reported 355 burglaries, down sharply from the 489 recorded as of this time last year.

Mob robs Lincoln Park 7-Eleven; muggings reported in Boystown, Lincoln Square

A late summer robbery surge seems to be continuing in Lakeview and nearby areas. Also continuing to grow is the number of people who choose not to file police reports after calling 911 to report being mugged.

Here are the latest incidents:

- Three offenders beat and robbed

a man near the Western Brown Line CTA station early Saturday.

The victim told police that three white men attacked him around 2:30 a.m. and took $90 cash from his pocket. One offender was about 5’-11” tall, another wore a blue hoodie, and no further information was available about the third man.

- A nine-person mob robbed a 7-Eleven store and its clerk around 3:30 on Friday morning at Diversey and Pine Grove, police said.

The offenders entered the store together, took the clerk’s wallet and armloads of merchandise, then fled eastbound on Diversey toward Lincoln Park. Four black females and five black males, all described as “young,” were involved, the victim said.

- A man told police that he was cornered at Halsted and Cornelia, punched, and ordered to hand over his valuables by two men around 2 a.m. Friday in Boystown.

The victim was able to get away, but he told police that he didn’t want to file a report, preferring that police “just be aware” of the situation.

He said the first offender was black, stood about 5’-7” tall, and had dreadlocks. The other was black, about 5’-9” tall, and wore a baseball cap.

- A Lakeview man told police that an attacker jumped out of a white SUV and started chasing him down the street in a robbery attempt near Southport and Waveland around 3:25 a.m. on Aug. 10.

The offender—described only as a black male wearing a white hat—returned to the car when the victim out-ran him.

The victim told police that he did not want to file a report—he just wanted to let them know what was going on.

About 15 minutes later, a man was robbed at gunpoint near Western and Montrose in Lincoln Square. That victim told police that two black men pulled out handguns, took his property, and fled in an older model beige Chevy Impala.

Then, around 3:55 a.m., three people were robbed at gunpoint in the 3000 block of N. Racine. The victims told police that two young black men armed with handguns approached them on the street and took their phones and a purse.

The offenders were last seen heading westbound on Belmont. One was wearing all black, and the other had dreads and wore gray sweats. Both were said to be “slender.”

- A man was robbed at gunpoint shortly before noon on Aug. 9 in the 2100 block of W. Bradley, police said. The victim was left startled and bleeding on the street after the brazen hold-up.

He described the offenders as two Hispanic men, one of whom wore a white tank-style tee shirt. They were last seen driving away in a small blue Honda.

Transit fight

A woman is suing Transit Nightclub, 1431 W. Lake St. for alleged liability, negligence and allegedly taking insufficient measures to prevent injuries.

Jessica Macedo filed a complaint on July 6 in Cook County Circuit Court, alleging the defendant failed to provide a reasonably safe establishment for her.

According to the complaint, she alleges she suffered physical injuries, including a laceration on her forehead, after a fight broke out at the nightclub. The plaintiff holds the nightclub responsible for allegedly failing to provide adequate security inside its establishment to prevent a fight from starting.

PENNIES ON THE DOLLAR: Is there some funky math underway after a local institution of higher learning renamed a prestigious part of its campus after a financial donor, only to have their “Daddy Warbucks” file for bankruptcy, and be thwarted in meeting the financial commitment? Has this been going on for some considerable time? And what is the connection between their inside fundraiser’s face-saving for their pal and their apparent willingness to overlook what they are really owed? Some are calling it Chicago’s monument to glad-handing phoniness. Just asking?

CAN I BORROW YOUR PIZZA? Was a local lady surprised when she discovered her CEO husband at home when she was just about to welcome her new squeeze? The upshot is that he was allowed to go up and enter the apartment just as the hubby was leaving after covering his visit by snatching a pizza for another resident and pretending to deliver it to his lady love. So the lady of the house gets her kisses and a Pizza Margherita too.

 from p. 6

town street corner Saturday afternoon, police said. No one is in custody.

Witnesses said the shots rang out after an argument inside a sporting goods store spilled onto the street at 4601 N. Broadway around 3:40 p.m.

The participants were three tall, skinny black men, police said. One ran southbound on Broadway wearing a white sleeveless shirt and blue jeans. Two others fled north: One wearing a white shirt with orange pants and another whom police did not describe further.

A developer last summer proposed replacing the one-story City Sports building with transit-oriented apartments.

Sheridan Red Line attacker in custody

An Edgewater man is in custody, charged with severely injuring a man at the Sheridan Red Line CTA station on July 8, Chicago police announced.

On Aug. 2, detectives released CTA surveillance images of the attack and asked for the public’s help in identifying the offender. “Within one hour, the detective had the offender identified,” the department said.

Adolfo Onofre, 22, was arrested at his home later the same day. Onofre is charged with one count of aggravated battery for allegedly pushing the 49-year-old victim down the stairs and then kicking the man repeatedly.

The victim suffered a broken pelvis, a broken orbital socket, and multiple bruises and abrasions in the attack, police said.

Photos released last week showed a man resembling Onofre speaking with the victim at the top of the CTA station's stairs around 5 a.m. Another image showed the victim lying at the bottom of the staircase after being pushed.

Detectives said the suspect had boarded the train at the Thorndale station and exited at Sheridan moments before the attack. Onofre lives two blocks from the Thorndale stop.

A judge set bail for Onofre at $50,000 and approved him for release on electronic monitoring, according to court records.

Protect your sight, get eclipse glasses

Excitement over Monday’s Solar Eclipse is being tempered with warnings about eye safety. The Chicago Public Libraries and others are helping keep people’s eyes safe with a giveaway of eclipse glasses.

Welcome to eclipse mania, and here is what you should know before you go: The sun is very bright.

Even when 99% of the sun is blocked by the moon, it is still 10,000 times brighter than a full moon. So make sure that you get glasses from a reputable supplier and you can find a list of these on the American Astronomical Society website.

Important information because this is what you are going to be looking at, but can viewing a solar eclipse really blind you?

According to the Live Science website the light from an eclipse can “definitely damage your vision, although warnings of total blindness are likely overstated, especially when you consider the short duration of the event.”

Still those looking to the skies should never look directly at the sun during a solar eclipse. Of the three types of light that the sun produces, Visible, Infrared, and Ultraviolet, the UV is most damaging to the eye.

Exposing your eyes to the sun without proper eye protection during a solar eclipse can cause “eclipse blindness” or retinal burns, also known as solar retinopathy. This exposure to the light can cause damage or even destroy cells in the retina (the back of the eye) that transmit what you see to the brain. This damage can be temporary or permanent and occurs with no pain. It can take a few hours to a few days after viewing the solar eclipse to realize the damage that has occurred.

And the damage is painless so you won’t even feel the huge mistake that you are making to the rest of your life.

Imagine that the black dot that you see after a photo flash just stayed in your vision and never went away.

NASA reminds people to:

- Stand still and cover your eyes with your eclipse glasses or solar viewer before looking up at the bright sun. After looking at the sun, turn away and remove your filter — do not remove it while looking at the sun.

- Do not look at the un-eclipsed or partially eclipsed sun through an unfiltered camera, telescope, binoculars, or other optical device.

- Similarly, do not look at the sun through a camera, a telescope, binoculars, or any other optical device while using your eclipse glasses or hand-held solar viewer — the concentrated solar rays will damage the filter and enter your eye(s), causing serious injury.

Why is this eclipse so special? The last time there was a total eclipse visible across all contiguous U.S.A. was on June 8, 1918. It will be visible in other countries but only as a partial eclipse.

If you are one of the hundreds of thousands in the 70 mile wide “Totality Swatch,” you will be able to view the eclipse without glasses ONLY when the moon has completely covered the sun. This is the moment of visual delight when, according to Curiosity.com, you can witness a night sky filled with stars. This, of course will only last for a handful of seconds then glasses are back on. Remember, this won’t be the case in Chicago because we won’t be seeing a total eclipse and our glasses will be on for the entire event.

Enjoy, but be safe...protect your eyes.

Annual Air and Water Show soars into town

Highlights include U.S. Navy Blue Angels, U.S. Army Parachute Team Golden Knights, U.S. Navy Leap Frogs, F-35 Heritage Flight and the F-22 Demonstration Team

The City’s 59th Annual Chicago Air and Water Show will take place Aug. 19 and 20 along the lakefront from Fullerton to Oak St., with North Ave. Beach again serving as show center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily.

Strong in tradition and one of the largest free admission events of its kind, the show headliners include the U.S. Navy Blue Angels and the U.S. Army Parachute Team Golden Knights.

The U.S. Navy Blue Angels have been astounding audiences since 1946 with their gravity-defying flying, commanding presence and supersonic maneuvers in their F/A-18 Hornets. The brave men and women of the U.S. Army Parachute Team Golden Knights and the U.S. Navy Leap Frogs will inspire spectators as they jump out of an aircraft 12,500’ above the earth’s surface to a perfect beach landing on North Ave. Beach.

The show has been a tradition in Chicago for nearly 60 years. For close to 25 years,

ABC 7 Chicago has helped make the show exciting by broadcasting it live families throughout the Chicagoland area. This year ABC 7 is creating “Air and Water Show Week,” with special features starting Monday and leading up to coverage on Saturday, Aug. 19, and Sunday, Aug. 20. Spectators on Lake Michigan and along the lakefront can watch and listen with WBBM Newsradio 780 and 105.9FM as they broadcast the show live both days and provide live streaming video coverage. For more information, visit chicagoairandwatershow.us.

has retained two contractors, Alessio and Sons and EPS Environmental, who have been approved by the City’s environmental consultants, to work on removing the remaining non-asbestos remediation items.

“[We] stopped Ground Crew from further demolition in April in order to make sure that we had full approval from the City and Park environmental consultants on our remediation plan.” MCZ needed Ground Crew to remove their equipment since the environmental contractors require their own equipment. Now that the equipment from Ground Crew is off the site Mullen says Alessio and EPS will be able to move their equipment in and complete the remediation.

“We expect that full remediation will take about three weeks from the completion of mobilization, weather permitting. Once Alessio and EPS are done and we have city approval of the completion of the work, Ground Crew will return and complete the remaining demolition,” he said. “We expect that work will be complete by the end of the year.” Remediation is expected to finish up in the next seven weeks, with an additional four-month demolition work left to complete.

that were intended to provide protection to school children in a nuclear attack.

“It’s easy to forget if we don’t have reminders. America has not been divided by a wall, but we do have people talking about putting up new walls,” Frerich warned.

“It’s important we remember the past and not repeat the same mistakes,” agreed Illinois Sen. President John Cullerton (6th).

Ironically, Erich Himmel, president of the United German American Societies of Greater Chicago, was able to make it out of Germany to the U.S. – only to be drafted into the U.S. Army and sent back to Berlin, as an American GI.

For many of the nearly 100 who showed up, it was a time to remember the Cold War Era and heroes like U-2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Inside the DANK Haus across the street, Francis Gary Powers Jr. gave a multi-media presentation and discussion of his book on his father’s role in that war - “Letters from a Soviet Prison: The Personal Journal and Correspondence of CIA Pilot Francis Gary Powers.”

The younger Powers said he reached out to Steven Spielberg after learning the filmmaker was planning a movie on the incident that once derailed disarmament talks between U.S. President Dwight Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Powers said he cautioned Spielberg that if he went by the media’s portrayal of the elder Powers, he’d be painting him as less than the heroic figure he actually was, but that if he talked to Powers Jr. and read the spy pilot’s diaries, “he’d be painting the picture of a real American hero.

The result was the 2015 “Bridge of Spies” movie which the younger Powers pronounced “accurate in all the essentials.”

Powers Jr. said that during his father’s captivity, he walked a tightrope.

“If he told the Russians the whole truth, he could have faced the death penalty for espionage. If he denied everything, he could merely be held as a suspected spy. He held as much information as possible until the whole story appeared in The New York Times.

The Russians finally released the elder Powers during a prisoner exchange on a bridge in Potsdam – Soviet Col. Rudolph Abel for Francis Gary Powers. “Dad returned home to a country that didn’t know what to make of him.”

In the end, the country got it right. The elder Powers was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Silver Star, and the CIA’s the Intelligence Medal.

Francis Gary Powers died in Aug., 1977, while doing traffic reports for station KNBC in Los Angeles.
