Old Town neighbors balking at planned homeless shelter

BY PATRICK BUTLER

What was reportedly billed as a proposal for a “transit-oriented development” turned out to be a plan for a homeless shelter near the Sedgewick CTA stop, according to Sedgewick Ave. resident Mitch Newman.

Newman, one of the founders of the newly-organized Old Town Neighbors Vote neighborhood group, said he and many of his neighbors were “blindsided” by Lincoln Park Community Services [LPCS], which reportedly wants to expand its operations from the Lincoln Park Presbyterian Church basement to the vacant Culinablu Kitchens at 1521 N. Sedgwick.

LPCS is a social service agency serving homeless adult men and women through an alliance of four Lincoln Park churches: Lincoln Park Presbyterian, St. Clement, St. Pauls and Church of Our Savior. They now work out of the Presbyterian church basement on Fullerton Pkwy. LPCS has been providing shelter and other basic needs to the community since 1985. They provides interim housing, meals, and an array of social services to more than 400 people each year.

The service agency now wants to convert the Culinablu building into 20 permanent residences and 48 temporary units for the homeless. In a public statement LPCS says they plan to renovate the former commercial building adjacent to the Brown Line stop, and “will work hard to have the same positive influence we have in Lincoln Park and we will strive to become a part of Old Town’s unique spirit.”

Earlier this month a community meeting was held with members of the Old Town Merchants and Residents Assoc. at the Catherine Cook School gymnasium at 226 W. Schiller St. Those in attendance were generally supportive. But clearly there are others who

The new Wrigleyville kicks off Sunday

Art, comedy, family activities, improv, performances... test run for bigger plans next year

BY RONALD ROENIGK

No need to ‘wait ‘til next year.’ This weekend next year is arriving early.

A new era in Wrigleyville is officially underway as the new partnership between the Park at Wrigley, the Lakeview East Chamber of Commerce [LECC] and the Belmont Theater District [BTD] rolls out Art & Theater @ The Park 11 a.m. – 5 p.m. Sunday.

As if winning a World Series last year wasn’t proof enough that things were indeed changing around Wrigley Field, this inaugural attempt at rebranding the area as more than just a sports and party mecca will feature local artists exhibiting fine art and crafts, and family-friendly shows featuring ComedySportz’s infamous improv matches, Storytown Children’s Improv and the best of Laugh Factory’s standup comedy including audience prizes and live music.

“This is sort of a market test run for us, with plans to roll out a full slate of theater in the park-type programming next year,” said Maureen Martino, executive director of the LECC. If this weekend’s test goes well then neighbors can expect a lot more cultural programming coming to the area in 2018.

“We are pleased to be partnering with the Park at Wrigley to bring the best of Chicago off-loop theater, comedy and artists to the newest outdoor community park,” said Martino. “There really is no better way to celebrate the summer than with art, comedy and music in the heart of Lakeview – there is fun for the whole family.”

The Park at Wrigley opened this Spring intending to offer a safe and friendly open-air destination for community events, festivals, dining and much more. The Cubs organization and Ricketts’ family have made a public commitment to bring a diversity of draws into the fabled neighborhood, and this weekend that means art, kids programming and music.

Additional partnerships have been established between the Cubs and the Old Town School of Folk Music, Green City Market, and The Music Box Theater among others, that shows the organization is putting their money and time behind their words.

Asked her opinion on the changes now underway in Wrigleyville, Martino blurted out “Wow!”

“Look at what’s going on at that corner, not just on game days and for concerts, but off days too. They’re bringing in more economic activity and foot traffic every day. It is becoming a true entertainment district,” she said. “Lakeview has a great deal of cultural diversity and they are marrying all their assets and attributes to bring that to the public.”

The Park at Wrigley is nestled inside the massive redevelopment now underway on Clark St. between Addison St. and Waveland Ave. by Hickory Street Capital, which is the Ricketts family development arm. The site is intended to serve as Wrigleyville’s town square — a year-round gathering place for neighbors, families, fans and visitors. And this new open public space comes at a high cost that the Ricketts themselves helped to establish when in 2011 they bought a similar property across from Wrigley Field from McDonald’s Corp. for $20 million.

“I applaud the Cubs for making this investment and showing their neighbors that they really want to be a part of this community,” said Martino.

Certainly a less community-oriented ownership group could have added more bricks and mortar next to the ‘bricks and ivy’ and cashed in on the growing demand for commercial space adjacent to

Forgotten monument to Chicago’s game deserves a place in the sun

BY DON DeBAT
The Home Front

While America protests the future of more than 700 Civil War statues and monuments sprinkled in public spaces from coast to coast, Chicago is bickering about removing an old Roman column from a pedestal outside of Soldier Field near Burnham Harbor.

The problem with the 18’-tall, 2,000-year-old Corinthian column is it was a gift of public art to the city from fascist dictator Benito Mussolini in conjunction with the 1933 Century of Progress World’s Fair.

Aldermen Gilbert Villegas (36th) and Ed Burke (14th) want the Chicago Park District [CPD] to remove the green-toned breccia stone column from its pedestal. They also want to rename Balbo Dr. because it honors Italo Balbo, an Italian Air Force general, who later bombed unarmed Africans in Ethiopia, and helped Mussolini rise to power.

The column sports an inscription that honors fascist Italy and commemorates Balbo’s celebrated trans-Atlantic flight of 24 seaplanes from Rome to Chicago for the World’s Fair. It originally was erected on a podium at the entrance to the Italian Pavilion at the World’s Fair and remained there long after the event ended.

Later it was moved to its current landscaped spot behind a wrought-iron fence on the lakefront jogging path forgotten until former Ald.

Seen here with an unknown child is the famed stone and brass “Chicago’s Game” monument commemorating the birth of the game of 16” softball in Chicago.

Bob Fioretti (2nd) tried to have it removed in 2011.

Considering the monument’s dark political history, Ald. Burke told the Chicago Tribune: “I thought it was surprising more people hadn’t demanded this thing gone.”

Here’s hoping the Roman column will eventually end up in a museum, shipped back to Rome, or claimed by Italian-Americans as an icon on Taylor St. in the Little Italy neighborhood on the Near West Side. The question is: Once it is gone, what will the CPD place on that beautiful pedestal near Burnham Harbor?

Monument in mothballs

A happy ending to this story would be installation and rededication of the famed stone and brass “Chicago’s Game” monument on that podium to commemorate the birth of the game of 16” softball in Chicago. Several years ago, the handsome softball monument was removed from its original site at 31st Street and Lake Park Ave. on Chicago’s South Side and placed “in fine art storage with the City of Chicago’s Public Art Program,” according to the Dept. of Cultural Affairs.

Boxing-Glove Lore

Historians say the Chicago game of softball was born as an indoor sport in 1887 at the Farragut Boat Club at 31st Street and Lake Park. About 20 club members were gathered in the gymnasium of the clubhouse on Thanksgiving Day

Viva il Papa

Papa Francisco. Is he Chi-ra-q-bound?

Is Pope Francis heading to Chicago to raise the awareness of a moral responsibility for murder among the poor? His arrival would be a 360 from that of his Polish predecessor 38 years ago. Word is Papa Francesco wants to meet parish staffs and those who really work with the poor to shine more light on solutions and not politics. Insiders are saying it would shine even more light on Cardinal "Soupie" Cupich of whom the pontiff is most fond. Other insiders are saying it would add some serious imperative to the murder logjam for which Chicago is now known around the world.

It could rock the boat of Chicago and American politics at this point in time. It is said "Papa" is not interested in meeting Catholic politicians who seem to be the authors of the present chaos of violence. They also say he insists on bunking down in Pilsen or Englewood, nowhere else.

CHICAGO: A city of brownstones and bungalows

Does Chicago have a singular urban symbol that tells the world who we are?

Is there a building, streetscape, intersection, church, popular attraction, restaurant or natural wonder that singles us out like no place else? What about a music tradition?

Since three-fifths of the central city burned down in 1871, if there is a central symbol or focal point, it's not that old.

Some things naturally spring to mind. It has to do with age, what we remember from the past. As a child the Prudential Building on Randolph St. was a wonder to me. You could ascend 40 plus floors above the city. We almost could not comprehend it all. Today you have to go that far just to reach the residence elevators at the Hancock Building.

The Buckingham Fountain was a destination before so much grew around it. That gracious bequest of Miss Kate Buckingham in memory of her brother, Clarence, was dedicated in 1927, but still remains dear to sentimental Chicagoans. It is one of the world's largest fountains. That always seemed emblematic of Chicago.

Chicago's image of itself has always been adventurous, not hard to understand when you think we descend from fur-trapping huts and a military fort. Chicago always carried itself with a sense of urban edginess throughout its rise to being the capitol of the American heartland. The City where the Prairie meets the lake.

Its not a stretch to say that the original city, the one that burned in 1871, was not well planned. It just grew in leaps and bounds until after the Civil War. But we had the railroads, and that was our salvation. We also had the Union Stockyards and the Board of Trade. That was the trifecta of American business stability back then. They were our life jackets right after the Great Fire when Potter Palmer and the leaders of commerce went to New York and got Chicago loans to rebuild.

So much of the new city that was constructed is symbolic of Chicago's ability to rebuild itself. Enthusiasm and urban boosterism were unbridled. Each building became a headline. Each architect unveiling a future never imagined. Every addition to the cityscape giving local residents a renewed sense of Prairie pride.

Then powerful waves of new

European immigrants began to expand the dimensions of Chicago neighborhoods. Traditions of expansive proportions reflected the growing numbers of Poles, Germans, Swedes, Irish, Jews and East Coast Yankees coming to Chicago. Churches the size of European cathedrals began to dot our urban horizon. Domestic architecture reflected the need for family dwellings of practical necessities.

All roads led to Chicago, the lakefront wonder. Chicagoans cherished living on Lake Michigan, as large as a sea. Its flow and motion governed the city's life. It provided commercial livelihood for many. And gave citizens unrivaled recreational opportunities with 27 miles of sandy beachfront geography. It added an emerald green network of parks across the city designed by American's most imaginative and eminent landscape architects.

Other Chicagoans offered me their suggestions about what was most emblematic of our city, which generated immediate animated conversations. The Art Institute's Nora Gainer Doherty said it's Chance, The Rapper. Pat Tony agrees, but she also mentioned Garrett's Popcorn.

Gibson's Peggy O'Ryan Lombardo said the Lions at the Art Institute. Chicago maestro Stanley Paul said that it most definitely was our sandy beaches in the heart of the city. Diane O'Connell insists that it is the treasure trove of brownstones and bungalows that populate our neighborhoods.

Landscape architect Joe Murphy says it's the Wrigley Building, while Myra Reilly says it's the Picasso. Patti Bidwell thinks it's the Picasso as well. But Lucy Sharkey from the London House says it's got to be the Ferris Wheel.

Chicago Water Tower

Librarian Arthur Miller says Buckingham Fountain, while art director Sheila Swann says it's definitely Lake Shore Drive. PR wiz Tim Ryan suggests Boul Mich and Chase VP Victoria Dal Santo, with a good memory, says "Royko." And antique dealer Mark Steinke says it has to be Buddy Guy.

That helped me assemble a list of some two dozen emblematic pieces of Chicago. I am fascinated at what shapes our senses and captures our experience about Chicago.

Here's the unscientific list:

1. The Water Tower, by William Boyington (1869).
2. The Art Institute Lions, (1894) by Edward Kemeys, "On the Prowl" (north) and "In Defiance" (south).
3. Buckingham Fountain (1927).
4. "Tete du Femme," (1967), by

Come sail away

Edgewater skipper's wins would make even Popeye proud

Heart of the 'Hood
By Felicia Dechter

Ron Buzil's passion for sailing began more than three decades ago, in 1983 to be exact, when he took a cruise on a "big ship," to the Caribbean.

"The ship had lots of eating and gambling, which does not particularly interest me," said Buzil, who lives in Edgewater. "At the island of Grenada, I looked out the cabin window and saw a few small sailboats at anchor.

"I thought to myself, 'That's what I want to do,'" recalled Buzil. "When I returned to Chicago, I bought a small sailboat with a friend and we taught ourselves the fundamentals of sailing and I've never stopped learning since then."

Not only did Buzil learn the ropes of sailing, he became a master seaman, and 14 years later, he started racing competitively. Since then, Buzil has participated in more than 1,000 races, 900 of which have been on Vayu, his 39', Beneteau 40.7 sailboat that he purchased in 2000. Vayu, which is the Hindu god of the wind, is actually a sloop, Buzil said, with one mast, one mainsail and one headsail.

Buzil has entered the Chicago to Mackinac Island race 18 times, winning the Beneteau 40.7 section once in 2011, and taking third place one time and second place another. (He even keeps a spreadsheet with notes on each race).

On Vayu, he also completed the 2015-16 Southern Ocean Racing Conference (SORC) "Islands in the Stream," series, which included a race from Miami to Nassau, Bahamas, in which he took second place, as well as races from Ft. Lauderdale to Key West and from Miami to Havana Cuba.

With a little help from his crew of 10 to 12 people, Buzil takes great pride in his accomplishments. He is currently a member of the Chicago Corinthian Yacht Club and the exclusive Storm Trysail Club, for which the membership requirement is, "Candidates for membership ... must be experienced blue water sailors, capable of taking command of a sailing vessel offshore under any and all conditions."

Earlier this month, Buzil and his merry band of sailors won two separately-held racing events. Vayu won first place at the Beneteau 40.7 North American Championship and in the Beneteau 40.7 section at the Verve Cup Offshore Regatta held by Chicago Yacht Club. Vayu also took first place Columbia Yacht Club's Columbia Cup Regatta. Both races were huge wins for the crew, with the latter being a "big success," said Buzil.

"But how could it not be, seeing as how we won our section both days," he said.

"I've won this regatta three times previously and each time it is a good reward for all the hard work the crew and I put into our program," said Buzil. "This past week every morning I awake and then I remember we won this thing and I smile."

"We went into this event with four of our less experienced crew, our 'B-team' of Deanna Polle, Mike Klich, Kat Blackburn, and Colin Macintosh, and one injured crew person, our bow-woman, Hannah Green, who did pit," said Buzil. "They all performed admirably and by the end of the two days they had a lot more valuable experience. The rest of our crew was experienced regulars: Ed Radzikowski, Chico Scott, James Judge, Wojtek Wolantkowski, and Lior Cohen."

The weather the first day, for the buoy racing, was light and shifting. Buzil's basic strategy was to focus on boat speed, weight placement, roll-tacking, and minimize the number of tacks, he said. "Also, we kept our bow pointed toward the next mark which ultimately won the race for us," said Buzil.

The second day, conditions were more favorable, with a steady wind.

"For the first five miles, we continued to get lifted to the gate that we had to pass through at Clemson Shoal," said Buzil. "We only had to do a short tack to clear it. We rounded the 68th Street crib, which was the southern mark of the course, in second place behind Brian Angioletti's Wired, and put up our light .5 oz. spinnaker. We then headed north for the finish line."

A couple of boats rounded close behind them, Buzil said, and at one point others were slowly gaining. It was a long, last mile, he said. But in the end, he fought to the finish (without any spinach), like Popeye the Sailor Man.

"As it turned out, we slid across the finish line in first place and only 28 seconds separated the first three boats," Buzil said.

Doggone fun... is sure to be had at the Berger Park Advisory Council's Ice Cream & Doggie Social, a fundraiser being held Aug. 26 at the park, 6205 N. Sheridan Rd. There'll be a dog wash from 4 to 7 p.m., an ice cream social from 5 to 8 p.m., the movie "Bolt," from 8:30 to 10 p.m., along with games, live entertainment by the Edgewater Singers, and more. Funds raised go to park enhancements, programming and scholarships.

City crackdown on online Airbnb-type rentals

North Side is ground zero for short-term rentals

Despite an effective date of Jan. 1, just last week City Hall announced the first exchange of data with Airbnb in compliance with new regulations on short-term rentals in the city. The original bill passed over one year ago.

Several North Side wards have become ground zero in the competing interest over the growing trend of homeowners renting out space in their home, condos and apartments for visitors' use.

Residents in wards 2, 32, 42, 43, 44 and 46 in particular were active in the legislative process and helped secure new regulations in the booming cottage industry. It is estimated that some 6,800 North Side units are now available on a variety of rental sites.

The law passed in 2016 set limits on the number of units that can be listed as short term rentals in high rises and all multi-unit buildings, and allows short term rentals in only owner occupied single family homes and low-rise buildings.

While Airbnb has agreed to comply with the regulations, units listed with VRBO and other vacation rental sites have yet to comply with registration process. The City blames these delays on two lawsuits, technical delays, and data difficulties with Airbnb.

Thousands of homeowners in condo and rental complexes have banned short term rentals by adding them to the "prohibited building list," which now numbers 1,560 buildings and associations and includes 170,000 units. Over 10,000 units on the prohibited buildings list are in the 43rd Ward alone, second highest in the city after the 42nd Ward.

Only a single family home that is used as a primary residence can be registered as a short term rental. In 2-4 unit buildings, only one unit per building can be registered and it must be a primary residence.

Now that listings from Airbnb are finally being submitted, the City will notify Airbnb which of those listings are not legal. After notice, the unit owner has 10 days to file an appeal. If no appeal is filed, the city notifies Airbnb, and Airbnb has seven days to remove the listing.

An appeal triggers a lengthy process until a final determination is made. During this time, the unit can be listed on the site as "registration pending." The City is supposed to complete its review and appeal process within 90 days. If Airbnb does not update the listing with the registration number, the unit will be ineligible to be listed.

"Airbnb has already failed to submit to the city and each alderman a report every two months containing the total number of short term rentals per ward, total number of nights rented, total rents and tax collected, cumulative totals, and the identity of ineligible units," said Ald. Michele Smith [43rd]. "As a result of this noncompliance, I have asked the City to enforce the ordinance."

Park petitions going nowhere, Plan Commission OK's sale of city property

BY PATRICK BUTLER

The Chicago Plan Commission okayed the $104.7 million sale of the 18-acre riverfront Fleet Management lot near Goose Island last week over the objections of aldermen Michele Smith (43rd) and Brian Hopkins (2nd), who both wanted some of that city-owned land reserved for park space.

The site was sold to Sterling Bay developers, which besides buying the Finkl site, has been a key player in the corridor redevelopment along the 3.7 miles stretch of the Chicago River between Fullerton and Kinzie avenues.

Ald. Smith, who for months has demanded the city set aside at least 15 acres for a new park, called the sale "wrong, misguided and shortsighted," adding that "once public land is sold, it's gone forever."

She warned that the North Side will "become less livable" as "untold tens of thousands move into the 750 acres that once made up the North Branch Industrial Corridor and will "destabilize" surrounding recreational facilities" such as the already overused Oz Park.

Ald. Hopkins said he agreed with Smith, but gave what he called "conditional support" to the sale, adding that the price was right. He added that $20 million of that money would be used to build a new training facility for the Police and Fire departments on the South Side and improve the city's 311 communications system.

At the same time, Ald. Hopkins said he would demand at least 10 acres of open space in his ward.

The Fleet Management lot is located in his 2nd Ward.

Longtime Lincoln Park resident Allan Mellis called the Fleet Management lot "the only significant piece of city-owned land" remaining in the Corridor and demanded the city condition the sale on getting some new open recreational space.

Ald. Smith wasn't so trusting of such agreements, describing them as "a foolish reliance on developer-driven space."

On the other hand city planning commissioner David Reifman, a member of the commission, defended the North Branch Industrial Corridor "framework plan" allowing the sale of city property and the accompanying zoning changes.

The Plan Commission approved the sale unanimously despite aldermanic opposition.

Right up to the Plan Commission's approval of the sale, Ald. Smith and supporters, including the Sheffield Neighbors Assoc. [SNA], had been passing out petitions demanding a good-sized park somewhere along the North Branch Corridor.

Smith said last week more than 1,500 ward residents had signed the petition. But clearly the Mayor's Office and Plan Commission ignored their concerns and demands, refusing to even talk openly in community meetings with park supporters about any larger parks going in along the river.

"Nowhere in these plans is there a requirement for a public park. Our families, kids and teams need a place to play and unwind. We have joined with other individuals and groups to demand the city set aside at least 15 contiguous acres of parkland with recreational fields in the industrial corridor," the SNA said in an e-mail sent out last week.

Neighbors offer input into community policing

Sullivan High School, 6631 N. Bosworth, was the site for the Aug. 17 Community Conversation Town Hall meeting. The final meeting will be Aug. 24 at George Westinghouse College Prep.

BY BOB KITSOS

Police officials and community residents discussed draft recommendations from the Chicago Police Dept.'s Community Policing Advisory Panel [CPAP] at an Aug. 17 meeting at Sullivan High School. The Police Accountability Task Force commissioned the panel in Oct. 2016.

The Panel's six proposed recommendations support partnerships and techniques to address conditions that give rise to public safety issues such as crime, social disorder and fear of crime. The recommendations focus on community input and engagement, youth, police training and improving communications and use of technology.

For example, the Panel recommends engaging community liaisons to introduce new police officers to their districts, and creating Youth Advisory Councils to discuss ways to improve relationships with youth and the police. Other recommendations are to revise in-service and new-recruit training to incorporate community policing principles into the curriculum and to monitor and measure community policing.

Extensive input

These draft recommendations were developed following input from three community Town Halls, focus groups and online feedback. Stakeholders and community residents, as well as supervisors and police officers completed more than 2,200 surveys.

Panel members also received input from Chicago residents, Chicago Police Dept. (CPD) officers, faith leaders, civic leaders, high-ranking law enforcement officials from outside police departments, academic researchers and students.

Chaired by CPD Chief of Patrol Fred Waller, the CPAP includes Deputy Mayor Andrea Zopp, national experts in the field, members of the CPD Command Staff and Chicago community leaders.

After community input, a detailed Plan of Action will be drafted about how the recommendations will be implemented and how the impact will be evaluated. The recommendation plan will contain responsibilities for each Bureau, major implementation milestones and a detailed timeline for completion.

To support collaboration and transparency, CPD posted the draft recommendations online for a 30-day public comment period. Residents are encouraged to share comments on the Panel's recommendations and ways for police to work in partnership with communities to implement them. The CPD website is home.chicagopolice.org.

Cops seek help ID'ing subway shooter

A brazen shooting on a CTA Red Line train under the Loop last week has detectives asking for the public's help.

Like some scene out of a Hollywood movie, passengers and those on a nearby platform dove for cover after an altercation broke out between two groups on the Jackson Red Line platform around 7:45 p.m. last Thursday. CTA video shows a man with a hoodie over his face taking out a gun and firing several shots into his victim before running from the scene, according to an alert issued this weekend.

One person suffered injuries in the shooting, but is expected to recover.

The offender, seen here, is described as a 5'-10" tall black man who was wearing a dark hoodie, dark pants, and white shoes. He's 20-25 years old and weighs 150-175 lbs., police said.

Anyone with information about the suspect is asked to call Area Central detectives at 312-747-8380.

Robbery with paintball gun in Lincoln Park earns man probation

One of two men accused of threatening pedestrians with a rifle-like paintball gun around Lakeview and nearby Lincoln Park in 2015 has pleaded guilty to one count of attempted robbery.

Raheem McCaskill, 23, received 30-months probation in the case, which stems from an incident in which he and another man allegedly demanded a pedestrian's shoes while brandishing the paintball gun near Clark and Fullerton.

Raheem McCaskill

McCaskill's partner in crime, LeDonte Washington, pleaded guilty to the same charge and received a three-year prison sentence in Dec. 2015.

Washington was released after serving less than six-months, state records show.

As this newspaper reported at the time of the pair's arrest, McCaskill's Facebook page included a video showing an apparent stranger running in fear after being threatened with what is later shown to be a fake rifle.

Rifle-like paintball gun.

Also posted: footage of McCaskill entering a home while firing a "gun" to scare people inside and a photo post in which McCaskill said he just had a great time threatening people with a paintball gun because "sh*t look real."

Alert: Police warn of armed robbers in white minivan

Chicago police have issued an alert to warn North Side residents about an armed robbery team that struck twice last Thursday morning.

The warning confirms the connection between the robberies of two commuters—one in Lincoln Park and one in North Center on Wednesday morning. In those hold-ups, an armed man in a dinged-up white Dodge minivan robbed two commuters in separate muggings. Neither victim was injured.

Among the new details in the police alert are the possibility that the getaway vehicle has a blue and white license plate of D832TM, D0832TM, or D083JM; and word that the gunman was accompanied by an unknown driver.

A Lincoln Park man was robbed around 5:15 a.m. Wednesday as he waited for a #151 Sheridan bus in the 2400 block of N. Stockton Dr. He told police that a man in a white Dodge Caravan drove up, pulled out a semi-automatic handgun, and demanded his valuables.

The offender got the victim's lunch box and an Under Armour-brand gym bag containing two cell phones and a laptop, according to police. The van, which had damage to the front driver's side door, was last seen heading north on Clark St.

The robbery is at least the third to be reported in the park near Diversey Harbor since July 25.

About an hour later, a North Center man was targeted in a similar hold-up as he was getting into his car in the 4300 block of N. Oakley around 6:20 a.m. Once again, an armed man pulled up in a white minivan and demanded the victim's valuables.

According to the victim, the minivan had a disability license plate that may be from out-of-state.

Police said the primary offender is described as a 20-26-year-old black man with dreadlocks or short braided hair. He's 5'-5" to 5'-8" tall, weighs 130-160 lbs., and was last seen wearing a white Malone T Shirt, dark blue security type jacket, and dark pants.

Two other hold-ups on Aug. 15:

- Three men jumped out of an older-looking, black four-door sedan and tried to rob a man near Montrose and Western around 10:50 p.m. The offenders were armed with a handgun, but the victim managed to slip away without injury.

He described the offenders as two Hispanic men 18-20 years old and one black man 18-20 years old with short black hair and a black handgun. All three men wore blue jeans.

- In Uptown, a 35-year-old man was beaten by two offenders who tried to rob him and take his car near Clark and Lawrence around 1:30 a.m.

The robbery failed, but the victim suffered cuts to his face and was bleeding from his ear, according to a witness.

Both offenders were black men, one wore a white shirt, and one wore a black shirt, police said.

Whoops! CTA pickpocket exits bus into mob of cops at "Antifa" protest

A career pickpocket was caught red-handed this week when he stole a woman's wallet on a CTA bus, then stepped off the bus into the middle of dozens of cops who were handling an anti-facist protest, prosecutors said. Lawrence Steele, 55, stole the woman's purse as they rode westbound on a #77 Belmont bus around 4:20 p.m. Tuesday, according to court records. He jumped off at Western Ave. and quickly transferred to a southbound Western bus.

Unfortunately for Steele, nearly 40 cops were stationed on the street at Belmont and Western because violent "Antifa" protesters had injured an officer during a dust-up moments earlier.

The victim was able to quickly notify one of the officers who radioed out a description of Steele. He was arrested minutes later when 14th District officers boarded his Western Ave. bus near the Kennedy Expressway.

Officers found the victim's wallet and bank card onboard.

Charged with felony theft from person, Steele's bond is set at $100,000.

In Nov. 2014, Steele was sentenced to two years prison for reaching into a woman's purse and stealing her wallet while riding a #22 Clark bus in Lakeview.

Robbers strike 12 times in 5 days across Mag Mile, River North, Streeterville

A new community alert is warning people to be alert in Chicago's prime tourist areas after at least 12 people were robbed of their phones in River North, the Mag Mile, and Streeterville between Aug. 6 and Aug. 11, police say.

Nearly all of the incidents unfolded during afternoon and evening hours, making the crimes even bolder.

Police say the offenders have approached victims from behind, grabbed the victims' phones and then fled on foot or by bike. A white Cadillac was used to get away in four of the incidents, the alert says.

The offenders are two black men or boys. One is between 15- and 20-years-old, about 5'-11" tall, 140 lbs., and has dreadlocks. The other is described only being 18- 24-years-old.

Anyone with information is asked to call Area Central detectives at 312-747-8380

The locations, dates, and general times of the incidents are:

- 0-100 block of E. Hubbard St., Aug. 6 in the morning.

- 300 block of E. Illinois St., Aug. 6 in the evening.

- 300 block of E. Illinois St., Aug. 6 in the afternoon.

Police say Lincoln Square jewelry store robbery part of larger pattern

The recent armed robbery of a Lincoln Square jewelry store is part of a larger crime pattern, according to a new community alert from police detectives. At least two similar hold-ups have been reported at businesses since July 28, police said.

In each case, a man armed with a knife has entered a business during the afternoon hours and demanded valuables.

On Aug. 4, the offender walked into the Nomadic Ant, 4604 N. Western, around 5:20 p.m. and placed a knife to the side of an employee's chest. After demanding "all of the money," the man fled southbound on Western Ave. with cash, according to a report.

On Aug. 14, the same man held up a store at 12:41 p.m. in the 3500 block of West 26th St. Police said he also robbed a store in the 4700 block of Fullerton around 5:15 p.m. on July 28.

The suspect is a Hispanic man with a physical impairment to his left eye, according to the community alert. He stands 5'-10" to 6'-1" tall and weighs 160-220 lbs. He has black hair, brown eyes, and is between 20 and 37-years-old. The Lincoln Square victim said the man had bandages on his face.

Anyone with information about these robberies is asked to call Area Central detectives at 312-747-8382 or Area North detectives at 312-744-8263.

Lakeview woman robbed

Two men armed with handguns robbed a Lakeview woman early Saturday morning, police said.

The victim said she was near her home in the 500 block of W. Surf when the offenders approached and forced her to the ground at gunpoint around 1:30 a.m.

Police said the offenders are two black men with short dreadlocks who were last seen running southbound on Cambridge. Both were armed with a handgun and at least one of the men was wearing a black hoodie.

Chicago Police Beat #1934, which includes the 500 block of Surf, has recorded 16 robberies so far this year. That's up from nine robberies at the same point last year.

Attempted store robbery in Lincoln Square

A Lincoln Square cellular store was targeted in an attempted robbery Friday evening, but the offenders fled empty-handed, police said.

The Boost Mobile at 4774 N. Lincoln reported the robbery attempt around 8:20 p.m.

An employee told police that a black man in his mid-20's with multiple tattoos on his face tried to rob the store, but he appeared to get spooked and suddenly fled eastbound on Lawrence.

The robber, who was wearing a red hat and a blue t-shirt, may have been assisted by a black female in her mid-20's who was wearing a purple shirt, gray leggings, and glasses.

Police Beat #1911, which includes the Boost Mobile store has recorded 19 robberies so far this year. That's up from 14 robberies at this point in 2016.

North Center robbery

A North Center man was robbed at gunpoint in the 2000 block of W. Pensacola early last Friday.

The victim told police that two men with their faces covered threatened him with a gun and took his cash and wallet around 1 a.m.

Both offenders jumped into a dark-colored sedan which was last seen driving southbound in the alley behind Damen. They are described as young black men in their late teens who were wearing dark clothing.

Edgewater burglary alert

Detectives have issued a community alert for the Edgewater neighborhood. At least four break-ins have been reported in a concentrated area there since Aug. 4. No offender description was offered in the warning.

The thieves have entered homes through doors or windows in the morning and afternoon hours, police said. Detectives mentioned four specific cases:

- In the 1100 block of W. Balmoral on Aug. 4, 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
- In the 1000 block of W. Foster from Aug. 6-8, 2017 8 a.m.-11 a.m.
- In the 5200 block of N. Winthrop on Aug. 11, 2017 11:30 a.m.-4:35 p.m.
- In the 5500 block of N. Broadway on Aug. 11, 2017 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Uptown-Edgewater residential break-ins

Police are warning about a rash of residential burglaries in Uptown with four recent residential burglaries that occurred in the area approximately from Broadway to Kenmore, and Foster to Bryn Mawr. In these burglaries, the unknown offender(s) gained entry into the residence through a door or window and removed property from the residence.

Incidents include one on the 1100 block of W. Balmoral on Aug. 4 between 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.; the 1000 block of W. Foster from Aug. 6-8, between 8 a.m. and 11 a.m.; the 5200 block of N. Winthrop on Aug. 11, between 11:30 a.m. and 4:35 p.m., and one on the 5500 block of N. Broadway on Aug. 11, between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

No description of the offenders was given.

Men who robbed Boystown motorist get easy sentences

A man who was on parole for robbery when he robbed a Boystown motorist last November received a cake walk sentence of two-years in prison this week. His co-offender received an even easier sentence: two-years of "mental health probation."

Parolee Joseph Murphy, Juan Perry, and an unknown third person approached a driver at Belmont and Halsted while he waited for a red light to change. One of the men asked the driver for a cigarette and became enraged when the driver turned them down, prosecutors said.

A fight broke out with Perry knocking the man to the ground and Murphy kicking the victim while he was down, according to court records. The offenders tried to take the victim's wallet and keys while the third man entered the victim's car and took his phone, prosecutors said.

Murphy and Perry were arrested later that night when the victim saw them in the 900 block of W. Belmont and flagged down patrol officers.

There really is no resolution of the question as to what is “most” emblematic of Chicago. How could anyone select just one event, or building or person or artifact to mirror the style and energy of this city? The many suggestions that people have made create an expansive mixture of emblematic elements. Together they shape and fine-tune Chicago living for many. An array of excellence and artistry with the capacity to strongly create a city’s character. Chicago’s sense of identity, as always, carried a modern edge to it. So it often found itself free from the urban incapacities of other locales. Just look at all the garbage and rubbish piled high on the sidewalks of New York. Chicagoans are grateful for their alleys and their rear of the building business. Chicago is cosmopolitan, but it is also neighborhood-centered. It is intensely political with a muscularity few cities can boast. But our lakefront aesthetics have always tempered our local hungers for better things, like pennants, Stanley Cups, the Blues, jazz, fine art, orchestral showmanship, operatic wonder and great steaks. It is no accident that the two most difficult tickets to acquire in Chicago are seats at the Lyric Opera and in Wrigley Field for a Cubs game. We are a city of towers and skyscrapers, and lakefront majesty, but we will also always be a city of brownstones and bungalows. With a lot to be grateful for.

PEACE AND REST: Family and friends of Mary Connolly have been shocked by her sudden death. The long-time Hancock resident died this past week. She had some rough days, not least of which was the terrible fire in her Hancock home some time ago. She was a pretty Irish girl, quick with a cheery smile and helping hand. She is sweetly remembered. SMILE!:Celebrity photographer and Lakeview resident Linda Matlow recently licensed one of her early Madonna photos to the Smithsonian Institute for a project when the singer appeared at the UIC Pavillion on her first US tour in 1985.

“I thought it was an amazing energetic show and knew she’d make it to the top. Glad I got to photograph her and hundreds of other acts as they were starting out.”

You may not know it but we guarantee you’ve seen some of her fabulous pix in newspapers and magazines across the globe.

TIMBER: Was that dishware crashing recently at a well-known Chicago eatery when a popular veteran waiter walked out of the kitchen only to catch sight of his boyfriend smooching in a booth with a well-known customer from the Mercantile Exchange? The waiter “dropped” the dishes almost on top of the snuggling couple. “Everyone heard the noise, but few knew the cause,” said the front off the house. But it was staged “high drama” by the boyfriend who knew the chaos his lip-lock would cause. Word is he and the waiter are no longer together. He’s lucky he wasn’t poisoned.

SISTER CITIES: Chicagoans welcomed honored guests from Galway, Ireland as its Lord Mayor, Pierce Flannery, and a delegation of its citizens celebrated the 20th Anniversary of the mutual friendship pact between our cities. They gathered at Old St. Patrick’s Park, Adams and Desplaines, where the statue of “Grainne,” Irish Bronze Age Princess, is located. The statue is a gift to Chicago from the people of Galway. It’s stunning. Chicago Galway Committee members Sen. Billy Lawless, Bill Gainer, Austin Kelly and John Wrenn were on hand with a large Chicago delegation for the festivities.

GIBSON’S NEWS: Well, the newest Gibson’s is soon to debut at the western turn of the two branches of the Chicago River and its name will be Gibson’s Italian Short, sweet and simple, unlike the fabulous menu that has been in the works for the riverside steakhouse. What’s your beef?

EVERYONE’S FAVORITES: Zurich Esposito, executive vice president of the American Institute of Architects in Chicago, is really everyone’s “People’s Choice” for all around nice guy... and now he has wed equally gracious humanities teacher Brian McCormick in a memorable ceremony at the Arts Club. Nephew Christopher McCormick did the honors. Bravo and lots of happiness. So glad to see their photo and story in last week’s New York Times Sunday Styles Section.

ITS GOOD TO BE IN CHARGE: Word is that Ireland’s new, young Prime Minister (known back home as the “Taoiseach”) Leo Varadkar (father is Indian, mother is Irish) was in Chi-

New intercultural fest. coming in October

Over 30 cultural centers and heritage museums will host programs across city

As a leading cultural stakeholder in a city marred with the label “most segregated city in America,” the Chicago Cultural Alliance (CCA) has taken a step towards encouraging locals to connect in a new and meaningful way – through cultural heritage.

This October the CCA will launch Inherit Chicago, the city’s first intercultural festival that brings together over 30 cultural centers and heritage museums in collaboration to produce programming in 20 neighborhoods.

Their goal is to have a wide, intergenerational cross-section of Chicagoans visit a neighborhood and experience a cultural exchange they had little knowledge of before. Inherit Chicago will offer a cultural journey through arts, conversation, and food in a month-long, multi-event festival happening in collaboration with 30 neighborhood based heritage museums and cultural centers.

The festival kicks off with “World Dumpling Fest” an opening celebration, 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Oct. 7, at Millennium Park Chase South Promenade that features heritage-based performance artists and of course, dumplings.

are not happy about how this came about.

Newman told DNAinfo reporter Ted Cox that “people are very upset. They never mentioned the word ‘shelter.’ They never mentioned Lincoln Park Community Services. We don’t feel it had a fair public hearing.”

Between Deborah’s Place and the Margot and Harold Schiff Residences there are 150 beds for the homeless. Add to that the 1,000 subsidized Section 8 housing units in the Marshall Field apartments, Evergreen Terrace, Evergreen Tower, and North Park Tower, another resident noted.

Lincoln Park Community Services director Dan Hula called the neighbors’ concerns “unfounded,” adding that his group is trying to be a positive force in the community - not a problem.

He added that “we do some things the other agencies don’t,” while Ald. Walter Burnett (27th) told a recent meeting on the proposed homeless shelter that Lincoln Park Community Services has a “stellar” reputation that people aren’t complaining about.

Ald. Burnett added that the shelter’s opponents seem more concerned about their property values than anything else.

According to a statement by Old Town Neighbors Vote, “one of our neighbors said it well: We are compassionate people, caring people, who applaud those wonderful people who work very hard to assist the underprivileged and dispossessed. During the nearly 20 years we have lived here, we have seldom shared or heard complaints about the Women’s Shelter just to the north of us.”

“This is not because we haven’t observed questionable behavior or uncomfortable situations at or near the shelter, but because we feel very fortunate to have what we have, and we make allowances for those less fortunate.”

“That said, there is a reasonable limit to what responsible property owners and taxpayers should be expected to support within their respective neighborhoods,” the statement added.

to follow via telegram the progress of the annual Harvard-Yale football game.

One of the young members picked up a stray boxing glove, and tossed to another member who batted the glove back. George Hancock, an inspired spectator, drew a baseball diamond on the gym floor, tied up the laces around the boxing glove to form a sphere and the players swatted it with a broomstick.

The Home Front
By Don DeBat

Hancock outlined a rough set of rules, and for the remainder of the evening the members played “Indoor Baseball.” The game caught on and by the end of the winter the Farragut team was playing indoor baseball with other clubs.

By the 1920s, 16” softball moved outdoors. It was the perfect game to be played in alleys, compact gravel schoolyards and parks across the Windy City. Later, 12” softball became popular outside of Chicago, and merged with baseball. Eventually the game was played around the world using the smaller ball and gloves and mitts were allowed.

Mike Royko Boulevard

With the Chicago’s Game monument in a place of honor on that pedestal at Burnham Harbor, the next logical move would be to rename Balbo Dr. “Mike Royko Boulevard,” after the Pulitzer-prize winning newspaper columnist and promoter of 16” softball. Today, Balbo Dr. is the northern boundary of the Grant Park valley where Royko played hundreds of softball games.

Along with pitching and winning many softball championships for the Chicago Daily News, Chicago Sun-Times and Mike Royko saw gloves as a threat and a menace to traditional Chicago-style softball.

Royko’s Raiders in the 1970s and 1980s at Grant Park and other North Side parks, Royko wrote dozens of newspaper columns and told amusing stories about the subtleties Chicago’s game.

A popular celebrity, later in his career, Royko was invited to pitch in a AA tournament in Wisconsin for the World Championship Strikers team. [Visit “Royko at the Goat” on YouTube: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qpuXfcx0pRU>]

Royko also will be remembered for filing a historic lawsuit in Cook County Circuit Court that argued it was against the traditions of the Windy City game to allow gloves. A saloon player who grew up on the roster of his father’s Blue Sky Lounge team, Royko saw gloves as a threat and a menace to traditional Chicago-style softball.

The Circuit Court judge, an elderly Jewish man who grew up on the West Side playing softball, ruled in Royko’s favor. “Gloves in a 16” softball game—that’s not Chicago-style,” the judge said.

the ballpark. For many, the Ricketts family’s focus on more civilized events and activity in the community is a refreshing change from the beer-soaked reputation that existed before they brought their vigor and savvy to the team, and their investment dollars into the community.

The Cubs have even taken on serious urban matters like helping to fight quality of life crimes in Lakeview. The organization has agreed to provide daily security to the surrounding streets of Lakeview, since due to the City’s failing finances, the Town Hall 19th District Chicago Police station down the street now finds itself habitually understaffed.

For more than 13 years, the LECC has presented one of the more popular art festivals on the North Side. Every aspect, from artists to musicians to vendors and everything in between, is specifically selected by the chamber in order to bring the best to the heart of Lakeview. The event showcases more than 150 juried artists featuring paintings, sculpture, photography, furniture, and jewelry.

Adding their booming theater industry to their programming was a natural next step.

“The Belmont Theater District is thrilled to showcase our comedy and improv theaters next door to Wrigley Field, bringing together Chicago neighbors,” said Alicia M. Senior-Saywell of the BTM. The BTM is Chicago’s largest theater district, with 50+ theaters and theater companies in the Lakeview and Lakeview East neighborhoods.

Art & Theater @ The Park is free to the public. No reservations are required, but space is limited so the event organizers recommend arriving early to secure a place to enjoy all the fun. Free parking is available at the Toyota Camry (green) lot, 1126 W. Grace St.
