Whispers out at Mariano Park

The Chicago Park District [CPD] has announced that Bow Truss Coffee is their preferred concessionaire in Mariano Park, 1031 N. State St., the little international plaza at Bellevue, State and Rush streets.

According to a meeting agenda released last week, the CPD Board of Commissioners will vote today on a proposed seven-year lease with Lakeview-based Bow Truss, 2934 N. Broadway. If approved, Bow Truss will replace longtime park vendor Whispers Cafe which has seen it's neighbors and friends rally around it hoping to keep the small cafe at that location.

The vote comes over four months after eight companies including Bow Truss made their case to the CPD and area neighbors on how they would utilize the century-old park. That meeting drew heated debate over the historic integrity of the park and its concession stand, which was built in 1900 and designed by Frank Lloyd Wright protégé Birch Burdette Long.

Bow Truss' application reportedly received the highest marks at the CPD's Application Review Committee meeting October 20.

"No matter what decision is rendered [today], we commend the CPD for its continued dedication to improving our beloved city and for working with us over the years. We hope that Mariano Park will remain intact as the relaxed piazza within the energetic City That Never Sleeps," said Nimer "Tiger" Alia, owner of Whispers.

"Over the years we have developed relationships with the local residents, businesses, and employees whom we have come to cherish. We appreciate the opportunity and experience that we have had during our [time] at Mariano Park," said Alia. "We want to thank you, our loyal customers and city officials, for helping our vision become a reality."

Philip Tadros, Bow Truss' founder, opened his first coffee shop [Don's in Rogers Park] when he was 19 years old. Tadros opened Bow Truss three years ago, and now the mini-chain has six shops throughout the city.

The proposed seven-year lease for the park also includes three

Local officials calling for elected school board

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY PATRICK BUTLER

Former Chicago Public Schools [CPS] boss Paul Vallas came out in favor of a "hybrid" school board during a Nov. 11 forum sponsored by State Rep. Ann Williams (11th) at the Athenaeum Theater, 2936 N. Southport Ave.

While having some board members elected by the voters would give more transparency and accountability, it's important the mayor "have some skin in the game," said Vallas, who also wants some elected members to assure "transparency."

"I don't really know how the legislation will play out, but I do see a lot of momentum in the House, and I think that's good. It means a lot of people are talking about (the bill to mandate an elected Chicago school board), said State Rep. Ann Williams.

Appearing with Vallas, who recommended an equal number of elected and appointed board members, were Wendy Katten of the Raise Your Hand school advocacy group, and Eric Gutstein, a math education professor at the Univ.

of Illinois/Chicago and DePaul Univ. and co-founder of Teachers for Social Justice, which has been working for an elected board since 1998.

But "We should have no illusions that even with a fully-elected board, like 99% of the school boards in the entire country, that the mayor would not have 'skin in the game.' Everything about the Chicago school system is linked to what happens (in City Hall). You cannot divorce it. What happens in the schools is part of the mayor's work, whether or not he has the power to appoint school board members," said Gutstein.

But some education activists argue that since Chicago does not have an elected school board, board members are more insulated from politics. They can raise property taxes and make unpopular decisions without worrying about consequences at the polls because it is the mayor who is accountable to the voters. That the board has raised property taxes to the legal limit almost every year for 20 years is proof of that. It's doubtful that an elected school board could get away with that.

While conceding an elected school board would not be a panacea for all CPS' problems, Katten said it would at least give more "transparency."

Responding to arguments that an elected board would be "too political," Katten said the current all-appointed board is already "as political as it gets."

"Right now the school board is purely a rubber stamp. There's really no way to have a say in school policy," Katten complained.

The mayor's got to have some "skin in the game," said former Chicago public schools CEO Paul Vallas.

The Chicago Board of Education is the only non-elected school board in Illinois, said Rep. Williams, who is co-sponsoring HB 4268 to remedy that.

"I don't really know how this (the legislation) will play out, but I do see a lot of momentum in the House. And I think that's good. It means a lot of people are talking about it," Williams said.

The change can't come a moment too soon, said Mary Brown, a Lakeview resident since the 1980s, who said she was "shocked at the lack of transparency this board and the mayor has. They're not accountable."

"The mayor is more interested in union busting than he is in edu-

Federal lawsuit against Gold Coast condo may continue, judge rules

Among other complaints, deaf unit owner says he was cited for a "pet violation" for having a service dog

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

A deaf unit owner's lawsuit against a Gold Coast condominium association – accused of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation – may continue, a federal judge has ruled.

Michael Novak is suing The State Parkway Condominium Assoc., its property management company, Lieberman Management Services, Inc., and its former building manager, Donna Weber. His lawsuit, filed on December 12, 2013, includes several charges but two of the charges, say the defendants, had already been decided in their favor, and so they asked U.S. District Judge Edmond Chang to settle the case without a trial.

Novak says that in 2010, the condo association, located at 1445

N. State Pkwy., called a hearing over noise complaints against him, but refused to provide a real-time transcription service he requested so that he could follow along. The association said they would provide the service but only if Novak paid for it.

He also claims a service dog belonging to him and his wife, Christina Novak, who is also deaf, was not recognized by the association as a service dog – and he was, in fact, given a citation for a "pet violation." It's happened three times and his fines – for the service dog, two noise complaints, and a "standards of behavior" fine – total $2,175.

They were all, Michael says, in retaliation for filing a housing complaint against the association in 2007.

"We were never given an opportunity to be heard," he says. "At the time of the fines, five of the six complaints were not even part of the association's rules and regulations. Only the final fine, the January 2010 noise [complaint], was part of the rules and regulations."

Both issues were included in

State Parkway, a 160-unit condominium near the north end of State St. and about one block from Lake Shore Dr.

a complaint the Novaks filed in 2010 with the Illinois Dept. of Human Rights. The state interviewed Michael, the president of the condo board, and reviewed eight documents – and in 2011 ruled there was no substantial evidence to support the complaint.

Defendants say that should have settled the matter but Judge Chang says the issues were not resolved in a proper judicial forum.

Calling it a "long lasting and highly contentious case," Judge Chang said "the material facts are not really in dispute" and ruled against the condo association on October 29. He denied their request and urged both parties to "focus on completing discovery in an expeditious manner."

Novak was born deaf but it was not detected until he was almost four years old.

Balmain x fanatics drop sleep to drop cash, but online resellers win out

BY SARAH VERY
Medill News Service

Lines of sleep deprived consumers wrapped around H&M stores across the country last Thursday morning, waiting to snag pieces of the highly anticipated celebrity Balmain x collection, but many left empty-handed.

Jordan Houston planned to arrive at the State St. H&M in Chicago at 6 a.m. to get her hands on a white and gold Balmain shirt, designed by the 30-year-old French creative director Olivier Rousteing.

“I waited for hours,” Houston shouted. “They have stuff left, but it’s stuff nobody wants. Kylie Jenner’s custom blazer is in there. It’s like thousands of dollars.”

Another young girl interrupted. “Do they have this shirt?,” she asked in anguish as she pulled out her cell phone. A mob of girls formed, angry that the entire collection had sold out early in the morning.

Why did the collection sell out so quickly? For the same reason the police had to be called to intervene outside a London H&M store. Strategic buyers had camped out overnight, raided the store within the first few minutes of its opening, and purchased thousands of dollars of merchandise only to resell it online at double the in-store prices.

The long lines to purchase something from the collection reportedly started in Seoul over a week before the launch, while in London police were called in to deal with the hostile crowds. Scenes included women engaged in a tug of war over one piece, and another having to be restrained by security as she attempted to climb a display and remove a dress. Unable to cope with the flood of visitors, H&M’s site went under, leaving frustrated customers unable to make purchases. The collection is now selling for vastly inflated prices on eBay.

“There’s a man in there,” Houston continued. He and his friend are selling a dress they got for $149... and they’re selling it for $500 right in the store!”

She and her friends chatted angrily as they walked away from the store, without any of the fast-fashion beaded blazers, sequenced cocktail gowns, or leather biker jackets.

Two resellers stand outside of H&M, surrounded by $10,000 worth of merchandise.

doesn’t sell.”

H&M has done similar limited-time offerings in the past with designers such as Alexander Wang. These short term offerings enable fashion-forward designers like Rousteing — whose designs are most often sported by Gigi Hadid, Kendall Jenner, and Rihanna — to expand their market to the more typical shopper, while maintaining exclusivity in brevity.

Though H&M does not reveal the sales results of these offerings, the public relations and word-of-mouth benefits are notable. In fact, so much buzz has been created around the Balmain x collection that Rousteing is said to have created a “Balmain Nation.”

On the other hand, many shoppers, dedicated to the Balmain line, were frustrated by the resellers and took their concerns to H&M’s Facebook page. The global frenzy and reseller domination had reached an unprecedented level for H&M, giving the company name a more negative aura.

Meet the family's newest blessing

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

Thanksgiving is next week, and although I'm thankful for numerous things, I think what I'm most grateful for are my three little incredibly endearing and beautiful granddaughters. It's amazing how much they enrich my life.

That's why I thought it would be the perfect time to introduce you to my newest family member, my cherished granddaughter No. 3, Rogers Park resident Sydney Susanna, aka Syd, born July 15. Syd is named after her paternal great-grandfather, my dad, Sidney, and her maternal grandmother, Susanna. Though neither is alive to see her, I know they would have loved this precious bundle of joy as much as I do.

Syd is like a rock star to her big cousins, Jordan, 2, and Shannon, 1, and they fawn over her from the moment they see her to the moment she leaves. To my husband, she's a special sweetheart who snuggles with him and falls asleep on his chest.

And Syd's parents -- my son, Connel, and his significant other, Megan -- say they are "loving" parenthood.

"It's the best feeling in the world waking up to her smile every morning," they told me. They said they'd like to tell Syd, "to never stop smiling because her smile is beautiful and that we love her with all our hearts."

"We hope she grows up to be genuinely happy with life, and that she is not afraid of anything, and we hope she accomplishes any goal or dream she puts her mind to," they said.

I also asked what they would like people to know about Syd as she makes her debut in the newspaper.

"That little Syd is already a dog lover," they told me. "Her best friend is her doggy brother, Charley."

My message to Syd is that I wish for her all things great in life, including good health, happiness, and lots of love. She should get a good education and never, ever let anything or anyone hold her back in anything she tackles. She should know that life is to be lived, so she should have fun and not sweat the small stuff.

She should also always know that her Grammy loves and adores her, and that I hope she grows up with as much to be thankful for as I have.

As always, Hershey is so sweet... My grandmother's favorite song was "Always." I can still hear her singing it to me in that melodic, soothing voice of hers, "I'll be loving you always/With a love that's true always/When the things you've planned/Need a helping hand/I will understand always/Always... Not for just an hour/Not for just a day/Not for just a year/But always."

Although I've heard "Always," many times throughout my life, I never knew who wrote it. So I was surprised, and flooded with warm and fuzzy memories of my Grandma Betty, when the song opened and closed the absolutely wonderful show, "Hershey Felder as Irving Berlin," which runs through

Ready for her close up: Sydney Susanna

Hershey Felder is wowing audiences as Irving Berlin

Dec. 6 at the Royal George Theatre, 1641 N. Halsted St.

Part sing-a-long, part history lesson, and part love story, the 26-song show takes us on a musical trip down Memory Lane with popular Berlin songs like "Puttin' on the Ritz," the legendary, "There's No Business Like Show Business," and "White Christmas," one of the most memorable and beloved Christmas tunes ever. It's a great American music story, and besides that, if you've never seen a Hershey Felder show, you're in for a special treat. For those of you who have, he just keeps getting better and better!

I didn't realize that Berlin composed 232 Top 10 hits and 25 No. 1 songs, and he had more than 1,500 published songs. Good to know after all these years that "Always" was one of them.

Strike up the band... the Lincoln Park High School group Band and Orchestra Parents (BOP) is holding an Instrument Drive from 9 a.m. to noon, Nov. 21, at the school, 2001 N. Orchard St. (Side door band entrance). Have an instrument that you're not using just laying around? Bring it over.

The school's band and orchestra has more than 1,000 student participants, and a gofundme page that has an Instrument Drive too has also been started to help raise funds for these talented kids. Some basic needs the teens have are: instruments, sheet music, strings, reeds, transport, and uniform cleaning.

"We are one of the best in America," their gofundme page says. "We are extremely underfunded. Budget cuts across the public school system have forced BOP to constantly dig into their pockets for the most basic of needs that were once publicly funded. We need all your support to keep our nation's artistic future thriving."

Funny guy... former Chicagoan Kyle Kinane should be good for some hearty laughs at his Nov. 19 to 21 performances at UP Comedy Club, 230 W. North Ave.,

Kinane, who was named one of Variety's Ten Comics to Watch in 2010, has appeared with Jimmy Fallon on "The Tonight Show," as well as on "Conan," "@Midnight," "Workaholics," and a bunch more. He's also the voice of "Comedy Central" and various animated programs.

"My favorite joke is by a guy named Andy Ritchie," said Kinane

New luxury homes gift-wrapped for holidays as loan rates rise

BY DON DeBAT

Shopping for a brand new upscale home over the holidays on Chicago’s North Side may be one of the best buying seasons in years because of rock-bottom mortgage rates and a wide selection of immediate-occupancy luxury housing.

Chicago luxury home buyers who are willing to close a deal quickly and move in after the Super Bowl will find a diverse selection of architectural style in North Side neighborhoods—from Old Town, Lincoln Park and Bucktown, to Graceland West, West Edgewater and Sauganash on the Northwest Side, real estate experts say.

However, developers are advising would-be home buyers to shop quickly, because in December mortgage rates could rise substantially for the first time in years.

“Today, few home buyers remember that home-loan rates were hovering at 6.75% in mid-2006,” warned developer Paul Bertsche of C.A. Development.

On November 12 the Freddie Mac Primary Mortgage Market Survey reported that average 30-year fixed mortgage rates rose to 3.98% from 3.87% a week earlier. Now, economists are forecasting a possible December rate increase by the Federal Reserve Board. A year ago, the benchmark 30-year fixed loan averaged 4.01%.

In October, 271,000 jobs were added to the economy and wages grew 0.4%, exceeding many expectations, noted Sean Beckett, chief economist of Freddie Mac.

“The positive employment reports pushed Treasury yields to about 2.3% as investors responded by placing a higher likelihood on a December rate hike,” Beckett said. “Mortgage rates followed with the 30-year average jumping 11 basis points to 3.98%, the highest level since July.”

So, if you are shopping for a new home and hope to lock in a deal before interest rates climb, where do you go?

C.A. Development currently is offering a nice selection of immediate-occupancy single-family homes in three neighborhoods—Bucktown, West Edgewater and Sauganash.

“We have been responsive to the new-construction demands of discerning city home buyers who are seeking innovative architectural design, high-end finishes, gourmet kitchens, luxury master-bedroom suites and energy-efficient heating and cooling systems,” said Bertsche, one of the most active builders of new single-family homes in Chicago.

Interior of luxury Tudor home in Sauganash, listed for $1.5 million.

As a result, C.A. Development has sold several new $1-million-plus homes in 2015, and several more luxury homes are available for immediate occupancy or delivery within 60 to 90 days. Ranked by listing price, here are a few of the homes available through Barbara O’Connor of DreamTown Realty:

Family-owned business carves niche in antique market

"A lot of our business comes from recommendations. If you're helpful and fair with customers, the word spreads."

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY BOB KITSOS

Operating from the same location for 35 years, BJ Furniture and Antiques continues its tradition of providing customers with personalized service in buying and selling furniture and art objects from its Rogers Park store at 6901 N. Western Ave. The Israel family has been in the antique business more than 50 years; their previous store was in Albany Park.

BJ Furniture and Antiques offers a large and varied selection of traditional furniture and art objects that date from 1850 to 1950. Items include dining room, bedroom and living room furniture reflecting simple designs to ornately carved pieces.

In addition to antique and vintage furniture, the storeowners buy and sell silver and gold, paintings, decorative items, jewelry, statues and smaller furniture items. They also will appraise paintings.

Their customer base ranges from 20-year-olds to people in their 80s who come from the North Shore and the city as well as Indiana and Wisconsin.

"We receive recommendations from people who have dealt with us before; now children and grandchildren of customers may call," Rochelle Israel said. "A lot of our business comes from recommendations. If you're helpful and fair with customers, the word spreads."

Haskell Israel, who is semi-retired, added, "We're very patient and accommodating and we educate a lot of people."

The almost 3,000 square-foot showroom has more than 250 paintings (90% are oil or watercolor) and contains about an equal amount of furniture and art objects. All paintings and merchandise are purchased outright; there is no consignment. Purchased items can be shipped out of town. The store also rents furniture pieces as props for commercials and to movies and TV shows that are

To tip or not to tip, that is the question

BY KEVIN HARMON

Servers and other folks working in the hospitality industry will tell you it’s an expectation when dining out. Some folks think that it should be done when warranted and not be considered an automatic action. Others will say it’s not their obligation to support a worker financially.

When it comes to tipping, or offering a gratuity, it seems as though everyone has an opinion. That opinion gets heard even louder when restaurants are busier.

There is talk now of taking the tip out of the hands of the customer and having the restaurant just add it to the bill, a system that is in use in many European countries.

Servers say some people accept tipping as a necessary part of dining out. Others talk about the racial stereotypes, that people of color tip less, tourists tip more and women servers get better tips than men.

In Illinois the minimum wage for employees who don’t receive tips is $8.25 an hour. For employees who receive tips, a business in Illinois can pay as little as $4.95 an hour. That’s because the government allows for something called the “tip credit” — it assumes customers make up the difference in tips to help employers meet the $8.25 minimum.

“I dine out a lot and I know I always try to tip accordingly because I know in many cases the servers and busboys don’t make really good money,” said Cindy Bowers, a DePaul Univ. student who said she’s worked at several restaurants along Clark St, in Lakeview and on Halsted St. in Lincoln Park during her time as a graduate and undergraduate. “I hear people talking about it all the time, how the service was bad or the person had a bad attitude and they didn’t think it was right to reward them for a not-so-good dining experience. But I think that that is something you should do... it’s socially obligating.”

For Scott Baker, therein lies the problem. Baker moved to Chicago from Louisville after law school and said he has taken advantage of the variety of places to dine in his Andersonville neighborhood and that he has no problem tipping, but it’s the perceived social obligation that rubs him the wrong way.

“I think it sends a terrible message to people working in the restaurant and hospitality industry as a whole, that they should get something for nothing,” he said. “Both my parents were in the restaurant business and they used to always tell me that good service should be a norm and that your gratuity for the most part will reflect that, but in no means are people obligated to tip you for service that they don’t find acceptable.”

Baker said his parents met and worked on paddlewheel boats that offered dinner cruises along the Ohio River, first in Cincinnati and later in Louisville. He said he’s proud that although they didn’t make a high base salary, their commitment to exemplary service helped them improve their income enough to provide their family with a good quality of life.

According to the National Restaurant Assoc., for restaurants where the check average is $15 to $25 per customer, the median amount a restaurant spends on every full-time employee (including payroll and benefits) is $18,876 a year.

“Maybe people who live and work in bigger cities that get a lot of visitors and a lot of restaurant traffic take stuff like tipping for granted and don’t see it as a social obligation, just as a by-product of eating out,” he said.

As someone who enjoys restaurants and has worked in them both on the cooking side and the hospitality side, I have conflicting views. Tipping should be based primarily on service. My older brother thinks otherwise. “It’s not my responsibility to tip if the service didn’t meet my expectations or my dining experience was lacking in some way,” he would always say. Working as a personal chef who catered events, I viewed tipping as an acknowledgment of a job well done.

There are basically two models an establishment can use for tipping. The ‘team’ approach is where tips are culled into a pool, then distributed equally between wait staff, busboys, bartenders and food runners. These people are tipped out first, before servers divide the balance among themselves.

The second system is more individualized, with servers responsible for a set of tables. The majority of gratuity, under this system, goes to the server. But it also makes wages more volatile — good night or bad night, servers are basically running their own business.

The tipping debate these days seems amplified and is combined with the plight of unskilled workers who are calling for an increase in the minimum wage. Some folks see servers and others in the industry as an extension of the low wage debate and leave fast food jobs for more formal dining opportunities that they feel offer the potential for higher wages.

“Hey, no one forces people to work in the service industry and what bothers me is that notion that you need to tip 15 or 20% all the time,” Cory Walker said as he debated with his girlfriend while enjoying a steak at a Broadway Ave., establishment recently. “I know this subject is a big deal in Chicago and in North Side neighborhoods where there are a lot of places to eat out and there are a lot of people that eat out. I get it, I have friends who are trying to supplement their income by working as servers or others who lost their jobs and this was all they could find in a pinch to make some money, but again, if you do a good job, the gratuity will take care of itself.”

Walker, Baker and Bowers said they think there is some truth to the notion that women servers are more likely to be tipped more handsomely than men and that tourists tip better than locals. They dispute that African-American and Latino customers tip less.

“I guess that came from some social economic thing that people of color tip less and I hang out with people of color and can’t say that I’ve noticed that,” Baker said. “It’s actually kind of offensive.”

“I have noticed that guys tend to tip attractive women more and I have seen it the other way, where good looking men were tipped better by women too,” Bowers said. “The whole tipping thing is so interesting to me and the fact that everyone has an opinion is cool.”

It will be interesting, all three agree, to see if the return of Happy Hour results in an increase in tipping. Last July, Gov. Bruce Rauner brought back Happy Hour, which was banned in the late 1980s over concerns about excessive drinking and impaired driving. The measure allows drink specials up to four hours a day and up to 15 hours a week, but doesn’t allow volume specials like two-for-one drinks or mega drinks and also prohibits deals after 10 p.m.

“Certainly this offers more opportunities for folks to tip, if they are drinking more with their food,” Baker said.

Lincoln #11's last stand?

CTA Board to vote today on whether to restore bus service

Dara Salk, a longtime Ravenswood resident and aide to Ald. Ameya Pawar [47th], said she's been getting "hundreds" of phone calls asking about the No. 11 bus.

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY PATRICK BUTLER

It's all over but the CTA board's vote. Led by two local aldermen at a Nov. 16 budget meeting at CTA headquarters, more than a dozen North Siders made their closing arguments for restoring bus service on Lincoln Ave.

The north end of the No. 11 route from Fullerton to Western and Leland was eliminated about three years ago as part of the CTA's "decrowding initiative" that involved cutting service on 28 "redundant" bus routes so service could be beefed up on 48 more heavily-used routes.

Unfortunately, that "experiment" wasn't that successful, Ald. Michele Smith (43rd) said.

"I'm hearing from many of the businesses that say that since that change was made, they're suffered tremendously" because they aren't as accessible to CTA riders as they once were.

"The Lincoln Park end of this route has been going through rapid changes. Over 1,000 new residential units are going up in the next few years, as well as over 150,000 square feet of retail. There are 35 live entertainment venues in Lincoln Park. And the most frequent users of public transportation (in the 43rd Ward) are the people who patronize those businesses," Ald. Smith said.

"People in my ward want to age in place and have a way to get around," said Ald. Ameya Pawar (47th). "You're trying to do a lot with a little, but as you take your vote this Wednesday, please keep our concerns in mind."

Allan Mellis, former president of the Friends of the Fullerton El, said it's ironic that while the city has been encouraging more "transit oriented development," it cut one of the most popular routes when it eliminated the No. 11.

If you need a good reason to reinstate the route, Mellis told the CTA board members, just look at the CTA's own ridership figures. "The No. 11 bus had 1,563,860 riders in 2010, 1,659,040 in 2011, and 1,632,000 in 2012," he said.

"We need to make it easier for visitors from foreign countries like Schaumburg to use the CTA," Mellis said with a smile.

"All we were hearing during the Recession was how we needed to help small businesses. So what did we do? We cut off the transportation to those small businesses we wanted to help. All these small businesses generate jobs and help neighborhoods grow," said LeRoy Johnson of the Park West Community Assoc.

dent and aid to Ald. Pawar, said one of the things she and her husband did was teach their children to ride the No. 11 bus so they could get around. "Both of our kids now live in Washington, D.C. and they still take public transportation to work."

"When construction begins on Lake Shore Dr., the city will need an alternate bus route" like Lincoln Ave., said Laura Meyer of the Old Town Triangle Assoc.

Among the hardest hit by the loss of the No. 11 bus are senior citizens, said David Crone, who lives in a senior building at 2640 N. Sheffield. "In 48 hours we collected 140 petition signatures asking the bus service be restored. "We have people in our building who traveled the world, owned businesses. The one thing we have in common is that we want our independence," he said.

"You've got your 151 and 190 buses, but we need our No. 11 Lincoln," another man told the CTA officials.

'Joy of Toys' party provides presents for children in need

The North Dearborn Assoc. [NDA] will host the 22nd annual "Joy of Toys" Holiday Wrap Party 1-3:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5, at Mario's Table, 21 W. Goethe Ave.

The yearly holiday tradition brings together friends, neighbors and community businesses for a celebration to collect gifts benefiting the children attending George Manierre School and Catherine Ferguson Child Parent Center. "Santa" will deliver the donated gifts to more than 260 underprivileged students later in the month.

The event is open to the public. Admission requires a new, unwrapped gift valued at $20 for a child 3-10 years old. Attendees are invited to spend the afternoon wrapping gifts and enjoying food, spirits and music.

"This event is a great opportunity for the community to come together and provide a much-deserved toy during the holiday season," NDA president Peg Calard said. "This event allows the NDA to connect with others in the community and to make a difference in the lives of the children who attend this neighborhood school."

Since 1993, the NDA's annual toy drive has provided more than 6,600 Chicago-area children with a gift during the holiday season.

Suggested gifts include: dolls, sports equipment, action figures, games and remote controlled toys (with batteries included). It is suggested the following gift categories be avoided: items that require a computer or other hardware, toy guns, oversized toys and strictly educational or religious-themed items. Hit musical Ain't Misbehavin' returns to delight audiences

Special multimedia presentation Saturday on Fats Waller Porchlight Music Theatre's award-winning smash hit Ain't Misbehavin' returns this holiday season at Stage 773, 1225 W. Belmont Ave., running through December 20.

The production, winner of the 2014 Equity Joseph Jefferson Award for "Best Production - Revue," "Best Direction" for Brenda Didier, "Artistic Specialization" for Austin Cook, reunites the entire original cast, including Robin DaSilva, Sharriese Hamilton, Donterrio Johnson, Lorenzo Rush Jr. and Lina Wass.

Set on a wintery night in the jazz age when nightspots like the Cotton Club and the Savoy Ballroom were the playgrounds of high society, this musical tribute to the Harlem Renaissance, an era of exploding creativity and social changes, is an evening of rowdy, raunchy and humorous songs that encapsulate the moods of an era and reflects

Fats Waller's view of life as a journey meant for pleasure and play.

On Saturday at 2 p.m. acclaimed musical theatre historian Charles Troy will give a special multimedia presentation "Fats Waller: The Man Behind Ain't Misbehavin'." The 1978 Tony Award-winning revue Ain't Misbehavin' revived the name of the larger-than-life pianist, performer, and composer whose work inspired the show, Thomas "Fats" Waller. Though the show glories in Waller's work, it does not cover his short but full life - he died at age 39 in 1943. In this 45-minute program, Charles Troy will depict the story of Waller's life in words and images, and play rare video clips of the man himself memorably performing his music. For more information and tickets call 773-777-9884.

The performance schedule of Ain't Misbehavin' includes the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, with an added matinee the Friday, Nov. 27 at 2:30p.m. There is an added performance Thursday, Dec. 10 at 1:30 p.m.

Annual 38th Turkey Day Run returns

Families across the North Side will start their Thanksgiving holiday with a fun run or walk, paving the way for a guilt-free feast. Next Thursday more than 8,500 people – including 1,200 kids – will kick off the day's festivities by heading to Lincoln Park to take part in the 38th annual Life Time Turkey Day 5K/8K Run.

Race organizers will collect non-perishable food donations prior to the event and donate all of items to the Greater Chicago Food Depository.

Youngsters ages 2 to 12, can participate in the Clif Kids Plymouth Rock Ramble, with races ranging from 50 yards to 1/2 mile. At the Turkey Day Tailgate you'll find Turkey bowling, a football throw, a corn-hole toss, a costume contest, bouncy houses and more. To register visit turkeyday-5k.com.

Parents and teachers aren't going to get much of a say in school affairs without an elected school board, said activist Wendy Katten. "Right now, it's just a rubber stamp (for the mayor)," she said.

Mark Ritter of the Chicago Teachers' Union said his group is "fully in support of an elected school board that would have geographic and racial balance throughout the city.

Commissioner Frank Avila, of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, and his wife Sherry will celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary Friday, November 27.

Frank and Sherry attribute the success of their marriage to sharing love of family.

They are blessed with three wonderful children and two beautiful grandchildren. Commissioner Avila is the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the District.

He was first elected Commissioner in 2002 and is the only engineer on the nine member board.

The board can raise property taxes and make unpopular decisions without worrying about consequences at the polls because it is the mayor who is accountable to the voters. That the board has raised property taxes to the legal limit almost every year for 20 years is proof of that. It's doubtful that an elected school board could get away with that.

such as charter schools, testing and accountability.

The question of whether to go to an elected school board got more votes in an advisory referendum in the last election than all the mayoral candidates combined, Ritter said.

But election dynamics in a low-turnout school board election would likely favor well-funded and manned political organizations and the teacher unions. Some have speculated that through elections the teachers union could end up on both sides of the bargaining table.

Like Gutstein, longtime CPS teacher Sandy Rosenwasser was insistent on an all-elected school board, not a hybrid. "If a hybrid system is such a good idea, why aren't they clamoring for one out in Wilmette, Winnetka and Glen-coe," she said.

The sparsely-attended forum was one of about 15 similar events being held around the city. Here on the North Side, State Rep. Greg Harris (13th) held a similar meeting the following evening at the Institute for Cultural Affairs, 4750 N. Sheridan Rd.

The downfall of the Chicago News Coop

Media companies fail with non-profit local news model once ad profits dried up
 BY JENNIFER SHEA

“The Tribune wasn’t gonna write that story,” said Jim O’Shea. The former Tribune editor and Chicago News Coop founder was recounting the decline of the Chicago Daily when it was Sam Zell’s corporation. He discussed the Tribune, and problems with the foundation-funded startups replacing those companies, from a Chicago-style pizzeria near the lake last month. Weeks before, Tribune Publishing had announced plans to save $80 million through layoffs. [Last Thursday, Tribune Publishing approved buyouts for approximately seven percent of its eligible 7,000 employees across its media portfolio, according to it’s filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.]

The story O’Shea mentioned was a 2010 David Carr article that got Zell’s top executive, Randy Michaels, fired. Zell is a financier and local real estate investor whose net worth Forbes recently estimated at $5.1 billion. He bought Tribune Company in 2007 by leveraging its employees’ stock ownership plan (ESOP), and left it as the company exited bankruptcy late in 2012.

Yet those events led to another story, about how media companies responded as their business model caved. The News Coop shut down in 2012 after difficulties with its 501c3 status, a tax-exempt designation bestowed by the IRS that allows startups to raise funds in exchange for tax benefits.

It was one of three non-profits that produced weekly pages for the New York Times. Like those startups, the San Francisco Bay Citizen and the Austin-based Texas Tribune, it has since parted ways with the Times. The Texas Tribune said last October that the Times had dissolved their partnership. The Bay Citizen ended its work with the Times in April 2012. The News Coop left the paper earlier that year, amid murky circumstances.

“I don’t think people here have a sense of the gravity of the problem,” said O’Shea. He wrote about Zell for his 2011 book, “The Deal from Hell.” A few months before he walked into the restaurant that crisp fall day, easily recognizable in brown leather coat and fedora, an auditor had sued the Los Angeles Times, where he worked for 14 months, and accused it of ad sales fraud. It joined news organizations like Newsday and Hoy, which settled charges that they bought their own newspapers to boost circulation. Early warnings about business model problems were ignored. In December 2009, Columbia professor Michael Schudson and Washington Post Executive Editor Len Downie released “The Reconstruction of American Journalism.” It listed multiple concerns about non-profits as replacements for newspapers.

“Some foundations fund only national reporting on subjects of particular interest to their donors,” they said in that report. Downie, who is on the board at Kaiser Health News and teaches at Arizona State’s Cronkite School of Journalism, had no comment. Schudson did not respond to emailed questions about events since.

The Times had suggested those local startups in 2009 and 2010, just as Rupert Murdoch’s News Corp launched San Francisco and New York editions. O’Shea said Times managers feared Murdoch could steal their local ad markets.

At that stage, the Times was also pursuing efforts like The Local, and a deal with hyperlocal FWIX. Most of them went through Assistant Managing Editor Jim Schachter. Schachter took a newly created job as Vice President for news at WNYC in July 2012, he left a legacy as a really nice guy after his stint at the Times.

“One hallmark of each stop was his enthusiasm for new features and ideas, then energizing a staff behind them and insuring that the work was of the highest quality,” then-Executive Editor Jill Abramson said in a memo.

Schachter said it wasn’t about their advertising. “In the Bay Area, we knew that the Wall Street Journal was starting local pages,” he said. “Elsewhere, I don’t remember that being a consideration at all.”

He dismissed concerns about the IRS and 501c3 status. Each of those startups failed on its own, he said.

“The Times decided that it didn’t want to continue working with the Texas Tribune,” Schachter said.

Texas Tribune editor Evan Smith had no comment. In an October 2014 statement, he said, “The goal was to shore up circulation in areas of the country that, from the Times’s perspective, were underserved.”

Our emails to the Bay Citizen went unanswered. It joined the Center for Investigative Reporting in April 2012.

“The patron of the Bay Citizen died, and had made really no provision for the organization’s continuity because he wasn’t counting on dying quite when he did’, Schachter said. “His heirs put the Bay Citizen in the hands of the Center for Investigative Reporting. And the Center for Investigative Reporting did not want to continue working with the New York Times.”

Pew Research Center found that most of the more than 170 online news nonprofits they surveyed raised $500,000 or less in revenue. While around 75% of those organizations took foundation funds, 28% renewed the grants. A majority said business concerns posed the greatest challenge by June 2013, followed by increased competition for grants.

The News Coop got an expedited $500,000 grant from the MacArthur Foundation, and a second grant distributed over two years, aside from the New York Times support. They also got hundreds of thousands each from the Driehaus, Knight and Pew Journalism foundations, and over half a million from private contributions.

“They were always struggling for money,” Schachter said.

“It was a very, very good arrangement for the New York Times,” said John Canning, who was on the News Coop’s board. “It saved them a lot of money. They didn’t have to have reporters here, they didn’t have to have an office here.”

Canning is a chairman at private equity firm Madison Dearborn Partners and a former Chicago Federal Reserve director. He said he had turned the News Coop down before Chicago Sun-Times Editor Jim Kirk spoke to him.

“I have six adult children and they’re all married,” he said. “I don’t know if any of them get a newspaper delivered. I think one of them does. You know, they just get their news differently.”

Canning told O’Shea it was difficult to raise money for journalism in Chicago.

“If I don’t give money over here, somebody could die. And for this, people still have to rely on the Tribune,” O’Shea said, explaining their approach. “No brainer. I’m not giving them anything.”

Some of the grants they got were narrow. O’Shea said he didn’t take the third grant from MacArthur because it was targeted for certain types of fundraising. And at the New York Times, they worried less about the startups than about Murdoch.

“I wanted to talk to them about all kinds of ongoing arrangements, and they didn’t want to entertain them,” Schachter said. To them, “we were going to be giving the readers more good stuff that we were not having to make ourselves.”

The News Coop stopped publishing in February 2012. A statement on their website said there had been “a change in circumstances that triggered questions about the economic wisdom of commitments between the CNC and the New York Times.”

They got the foundation money through WTTW, which has 501c3 status, until the News Coop’s own application was approved. As the months dragged on, O’Shea said he decided it was easier to buy the Sun-Times than to seek money from foundations. MacArthur Foundation attorneys were anxious about using WTTW, and the New York Times refused to pay him more.

Reuters Midwest bureau chief David Greising said there were several factors. “We were kind of collateral damage to whatever was going on in the Cleveland office of the IRS,” he said.

Pew’s research on news nonprofits found that 11% said IRS hurdles concerned them. “That number is interesting in the context of the report,” the researchers said, because

Clarification

In our November 4 edition of this newspaper we ran a story titled “A short history of Ghost Bikes.” In that story we ran a photo of a Ghost Bike next to a photo of Jacqueline Michon’s who died while riding her bike on August 6, 2011. Only that was not Michon’s Ghost Bike, as some may have assumed due to the placement of the two photos side-by-side. Above is a photo of her bike. It sits across the street from The Christian Science building on Wacker Dr. and on some mornings reflected sunlight glides across the bare white bones of the bike creating a subtle and sublime glow that speaks not so much of tragedy, but of memory. Rest in peace Jacqueline.

Cook County Scavenger Sale

Notice to Property Owners

2015 Scavenger Sale Schedule and Delinquent Real Estate Tax List

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

This legal notice includes a list of real estate parcels in Cook County on which property taxes for 3 or more years are listed as delinquent and subject to sale as of Tuesday, November 3, 2015.

SPECIAL NOTE: This list may include some properties on which the taxes were paid subsequent to the list’s preparation. It is the property owner’s responsibility to verify the current status of payment.

Under Illinois law, properties having delinquent real estate taxes on 3 or more years must be offered for sale by the Cook County Treasurer’s Office. IF YOUR PROPERTY IS LISTED IN THIS NOTICE FOR SALE OF DELINQUENT REAL ESTATE TAXES, IT IS IMPORTANT FOR YOU TO TAKE ACTION SO THAT YOUR TAXES ARE NOT SOLD. CONTACT THE COOK COUNTY CLERK’S OFFICE at 118 NORTH CLARK – ROOM 434, TO OBTAIN THE INFORMATION NECESSARY IN ORDER TO MAKE PAYMENT. The Scavenger Sale is scheduled to begin on Monday, December 28, 2015. The sale of taxes will result in a lien against the property that will add, at a minimum, hundreds of dollars in fees to the amount currently due. Sale of the tax and subsequent failure by the owner to redeem (pay) may result in the owner’s loss of legal title to the property.

For information on the Scavenger Sale please visit our website at www.cookcountytreasurer.com.

COOK COUNTY DELINQUENT REAL ESTATE TAX LIST

COUNTY OF COOK, STATE OF ILLINOIS

November 18 – November 19, 2015.

NOTICE is hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County, Illinois, will apply to the County Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois on Tuesday, December 15, 2015, for judgment against all lands and lots hereinafter described as being parcels upon which 3 or more years of general real estate taxes remain due and unpaid along with interest and costs, and for an order of sale of said lands and lots in accordance with law. Final entry of said order will be sought on Wednesday, December 23, 2015.

NOTICE is further given that in the event an order of sale is entered as provided above, on the 28th day of December, 2015, at the hour of 8:00 a.m., all said lands and lots hereinafter described for sale for which an order shall have been made, will be exposed to public sale at 69 W. Washington Street Lower Level Conference Room B, in Chicago, Illinois, for the amount of taxes, interest, and costs due thereon, respectively.

The following is a list of delinquent properties in Cook County upon which the general taxes or any part thereof for 3 or more years remain due and unpaid; the name(s) of the owners, if known; the property location; the total amount due thereon; and the years for which the taxes are due.

Please note, where an "E" indicator appears immediately before a PIN in the column marked "CUR", the real estate corresponding to said PIN may currently not be subject to taxation or may currently be owned by a governmental agency whose interest in the property may not be defeated by a tax deed. Where an asterisk appears immediately before a PIN in the column marked "CUR", the real estate corresponding to said PIN may have been sold at a previous sale of delinquent taxes.

In lieu of a legal description, each parcel of land or lot is designated by a Property Index Number (PIN). Comparison of the 14-digit PIN with the legal description of any parcel may be made by referring to records that are maintained in the various Cook County offices.

The delinquent taxes on the parcels offered for sale are described solely by their Property Index Number (PIN), and NOT the common street address. Street addresses and classifications of the property listed on the sale list as of the date of sale are not guaranteed to be accurate. The Treasurer's Office does not guarantee or assume responsibility of any kind, implied or otherwise, as to the accuracy of street addresses or property classifications, or as to the legal status or physical condition of the properties. It is the responsibility of each tax buyer to perform proper research to determine the property location, classification, nature, and condition of any property or improvements prior to the sale. ALL SALES ARE FINAL.

With respect to parcels bearing an "E" (currently exempt) indicator, tax purchasers are encouraged to further investigate the taxable status of such a parcel before purchasing the delinquent taxes at the sale. When the tax sale of a currently exempt parcel is vacated, the final result may be a refund without interest.

NO TAX BUYER IS ELIGIBLE TO OBTAIN A TAX DEED FOR ANY PROPERTY OWNED BY A UNIT OF GOVERNMENT. IF AND WHEN THE TAX SALE OF SUCH PROPERTY IS VACATED, THE RESULT MAY BE A REFUND WITHOUT INTEREST.

“groups who have achieved 501c3 status from the IRS are faring better than some of their peers.” They also found that independent groups were more financially stable than those that relied on another non-profit.

“I agree with Jim that there are serious concerns,” Greising said, “in Chicago and elsewhere.”

“It’s not as if we were indifferent to the fact that we needed money,” he added. “The resources were such that—we could starve the journalism part of it, in our view, we could starve that at our own peril.”

Greising was the News Coop business manager. He said they hired someone to focus on development, but it wasn’t enough. The IRS held up their 501c3 application for at least 18 months. They were running out of cash.

He couldn’t drop his work as managing editor to find more donors, or to advance their subscription business model, “because we had this deal with the New York Times,” he said.

became something that really was, on the balance sheet, was costing us more than they were paying us. Had we had adequate resources, that wouldn’t have mattered.”

O’Shea denied accusations that the MacArthur Foundation pulled its support because the Coop had antagonized City Hall.

“That was so much baloney,” he said.

Ultimately, they withdrew their 501c3 application. Many of the News Coop’s staff were hired at the Sun-Times. (In December 2011, a group of investors at Wrapports LLC had bought the Sun-Times. Canning was among them, one of several investors who were also on the boards of the News Coop and Sun-Times Media.)

Their main contact at MacArthur, Elspeth Revere, announced she was moving on from MacArthur this summer. MacArthur is ranked tenth among U.S. foundations. However, it is not the only major Chicago foundation that funds those nonprofits.

The McCormick Foundation is also based in the city. It gave $15 million to Northwestern Univ. in 2014, and continues to fund media scholarships. Its board includes former Tribune executives David Hiller, John Madigan, Don Wycliff and Dennis FitzSimons.

Hiller declined to comment. “We have nothing to say in response to your questions,” spokesman Phil

Zepeda emailed.

The Knight Foundation funds the Knight News Challenge and the Knight Local Media Initiative, among others. Its grants to nonprofits require 501c3 status.

“We bet mainly on startup ideas, and expect organizations to find new sources of revenue once they have proven their concept,” said the Knight Foundation’s Andrew Sherry. He noted that there are “several hundred community foundations across the country.”

In Minneapolis, MinnPost editor Joel Kramer launched a news startup with $850,000 from four families. He worked at the Minneapolis Star Tribune before that, and said as print audiences diminish, people have to pay more for traditional media.

“As a 501c3, we are not allowed to endorse candidates for political office,” he said. “We decided not to have unsigned editorials.”

They get about 55% of their revenue from individuals and the rest from foundations, ads and sponsorship. Kramer said their reporters are encouraged to take a stance, “more like the Atlantic than a typical metro newspaper.” Their paid content for members are about subjects outside Minnesota. The Knight Foundation sent a $600,000 grant to MinnPost and Voice of San Diego, for example.

“We are not influenced by a foundation’s ‘agenda,’” he said. “We may be influenced by a foundation’s priorities.”

The Texas Tribune has thrived through sponsored events. According to Harvard’s NeimanLab the target for their events is “legislators, state officials, lobbying groups, lawyers, and other industries with a stake in what happens in Austin.”

Even as some at mainstream newspapers advocated billionaire investors as an answer, the industry weathered paid salons, native ads and other tactics that once would have raised ethics concerns.

“You might look at the Washington Post as an example,” Canning said. “I think there are people that would do the same thing if the Los Angeles Times were ever for sale.”

Greising took a year off journalism after his News Coop work. Then he returned to Reuters. “If other organizations have fallen into the trap of allowing their funders to have influence, y’know,” he said, “shame on them.”
