

Rogers Park’s Decatur School votes to move to Uptown’s Stewart School

New school decidedly upscale, white and Asian over former Stewart student body

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY BOB ZULEY

The Local School Council of Decatur Classical School, 7030 N. Sacramento Ave., two weeks ago voted overwhelmingly in favor of asking Chicago Public Schools [CPS] to relocate their school to the vacant former Graeme Stewart Elementary School, 4525 N. Kenmore.

The move, if approved by CPS, will represent a dramatic shift in the demographics between the Decatur and former Stewart student bodies with vulnerable low-income, minority black and Hispanic students relocated to a majority-black school only to be replaced by more affluent, Asian and white students.

At the time of the closing of the Stewart School, Barbara Byrd-Bennett, C.E.O. of CPS, said that the 90,000 square foot former Stewart School building required $16.4 million in maintenance and upgrades, and wasn’t entirely air conditioned. Maintaining the empty structure costs around $79,000 annually.

The now-vacant Graeme Stewart Elementary School, 4525 N. Kenmore.

According to Ald. James Cappleman (46th), while no Tax Increment Financing [TIF] funds are available to assist in the relocation, he has pledged to work with other elected officials and large corporations to help find the necessary funding to make the move a reality.

Against strong community opposition, Stewart School was one of the 54 schools closed by Mayor Rahm Emanuel in 2013. Serving as an Uptown landmark since 1907, the imposing edifice - across Broadway from the Target and Aldi stores - served many vulnerable special needs and disadvantaged students. The 264 students of the Stewart School were transferred and merged into the structurally smaller Joseph Brennemann Elementary School, 4251 N. Clarendon, that had 303 of its own students - raising the question of overcrowding and a high teacher-to-student ratio at Brennemann.

Granville’s Revival aims to be a neighborhood destination, honors Standees on their menu

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY BOB KITSOS

Okay, let’s start with the name ... Revival Social Club. The Revival Social Club is a new restaurant with a bar — no soul saving or preaching here.

As explained by Owner and General Manager Alan Stoll, “The word revival has a history to it and we wanted to be part of the neighborhood revival on Granville. We want to be a neighborhood bar and restaurant and a destination.”

Following about six weeks of rehab, the 2,000 square-foot restaurant, opened on Nov.10 in the spot vacated by m. henrietta at 1133 W. Granville. A grand opening is scheduled for a later date. Stoll said he chose the location because of the diverse community and the area’s foot-traffic. He said he’s received a very warm welcome from the neighborhood, and the menu has been well received.

The restaurant is open seven days a week, serving breakfast (until 3 p.m.) lunch and dinner

City reviews medical marijuana clinics: nine approved, one denied, six postponed

Elston Ave. among sites approved, Halsted and Peterson among those pending

BY BOB ZULEY

The Chicago Zoning Board of Appeals is becoming more familiar in reviewing applications for medical marijuana dispensaries. The panel has now approved 10 medical marijuana dispensaries, denied one, and postponed six dispensary applications for the nascent clinical industry.

The new industry came about in 2013 after Gov. Pat Quinn signed the Compassionate Use of Medical Cannabis Pilot Program Act that legalized the medical use of marijuana and instituted what are considered the most stringent standards for establishing dispensaries and usage in the entire country.

While Illinois law currently only allows for a four-year pilot program, the first year is dedicated to establishing the framework for operating the medical marijuana dispensaries. The program is expected to be made permanent at the end of the pilot program. Sales are expected to begin to people possessing special ID cards by Spring.

In the most recent city vetting on November 21, the zoning panel approved medical marijuana dispensaries at six city locations including 2723 N. Elston Ave, a strip mall immediately south of the six-way intersection of Western and Diversey avenues.

Uptown marijuana clinic sought on Clark St. adjacent to site of notorious Fed drug bust

Applicant retains clout-heavy law firm to push proposal in hurried deal

BY BOB ZULEY

A newly state-registered limited liability corporation, The Cannabis Group, LLC, is seeking a special use permit from the city in order to establish a medical cannabis dispensing facility to be located at 5001-5003 N. Clark St. in Uptown. The site most recently housed the Pie Hole Pizza Joint.

Ironically many neighbors of the proposed dispensary now recall a federal drug raid that occurred several years ago in the neighboring storefront at 5005 N. Clark St. that house Head 2 Toe Tattoos and Eagle Leather. So it appears that drug dealing will be returning to the block, only this time legitimized by the recent policy changes in Washington D.C., the statehouse in Springfield

Swedish Museum to celebrate St. Lucia Day traditions

Thousands of Swedish people who immigrated to Chicago during the 19th Century brought with them many traditions that peak at Christmas time. The Swedish American Museum, 5211 N. Clark St., regularly observes many of them each December.

Chicago’s St. Lucia Day kicks off 11:30 a.m. Friday in the Richard J. Daley Center. Robed candidates representing Swedish-American organizations will offer holiday songs.

The annual Breakfast with Tomten will be celebrated twice this season, at 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, December 13 and 14, with dancing around the tree and Swedish pancakes with all the trimmings.

The St. Lucia celebration continues at 4:45 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 13, with a late afternoon candlelight procession from the Museum followed by a service of seasonal songs and readings at nearby Ebenezer Lutheran Church.

The monthly Hejsan for children at 11 a.m. Friday, December 19, will consist of crafts based on a reading of “The Wild Christmas Reindeer” by Jan Brett.

The Museum is also a sponsor of Svensk Julgudstjanst, an evening Christmas service conducted in Swedish, which will take place at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21, in Ebenezer Lutheran Church. The festivities will conclude at 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21 with an Old Fashioned Swedish Family Christmas Smörgåsbord in the Museum. For more information call 773-728-8111.

Holiday decor, refreshments part of seasonal home tour

The owners of three historic bungalows on Maplewood Ave. will open their homes for a holiday house tour 1-4 p.m. Sun., Dec. 7.

The Rogers Park/West Ridge Historical Society will host the event, and homeowners will provide refreshments including hot chocolate, cider, wine and sweet and savory treats. Holiday decorations and music are expected to enhance the festive atmosphere.

Registration is at 12:45 p.m. the day of the tour at Christ Church of Chicago, 6047 N. Rockwell St. – a historic building constructed in 1922 and known for its stained glass windows, according to society members. Tours of the church will be offered at 1:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. the day of the event.

Admission is $20 for members and $25 for nonmembers. Payment will be accepted at registration, but checks can be mailed in advance to 1447 W. Morse Ave., 60626. Funds raised will support the society’s programming and educational activities. For more information call 773-764-4078.

Comparison of the demographics of the Decatur Classical School student body and the former Stewart School student body.

the 288 students are 15.3% low-income, one percent are considered limited-English learners, and 6.3% are “diverse learners.” Demographically, Decatur is 43.1% white, 26.7% Asian, 12.5% Hispanic, 10.8% other, and just 6.9% black.

At the time of the closing, CPS data revealed that Stewart School was 98.1% low-income, 35.2% are limited-English learners, and 18.9% special needs. Of the larger demographic populations, Stewart was 50% black, and 40.5% Hispanic.

Brennemann School, which accepted the Stewart School students, were 92.1% low-income, 35.3% limited-English, 18.5% special education, and 71.6% black and 18.6% Hispanic in 2013.

Decatur Classical School is a selective enrollment Kindergarten thru sixth grade school with roughly 288 students targeted toward academically advanced students. In addition to a strong core curriculum taught one to two years above grade level, students take classes in Latin.

School partnerships include the Art Institute, Chicago Children’s Choir, and Performing Arts Limited. Before and after school programs include Chess Ed., Little Linguists, Girls on the Run, and Let Me Run.

In an April 2013 rally to save Stewart School, many present roundly criticized Ald. Cappleman and Mayor Emanuel for ignoring the needs of the community. Northside Action for Justice distributed a flier saying that the school closing was “nothing short of an assault on the working class communities of Chicago.”

At the rally, then Chicago

Teachers Union vice president Jesse Sharkey told this newspaper that the school closings were a “disaster” and told this newspaper that the Stewart closing was “a fiasco. The board doesn’t have plans for our students or for the buildings.”

While no one appeared interested in keeping the Stewart School open for Stewart students, it now appears there exists interest in finding the money to move Decatur Classical School students to the building.

Beautiful music, ugly sweaters and spreading joy

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

Feeling a bit Scrooge-like or Grinchy this holiday season? Not in the mood to deck the halls, fa-la-la, or get your jingle jangle on? Or, perhaps you are seeking some good old-fashioned holiday cheer.

Whatever your deal is, here are a few ways to have yourself a merry little Christmastime -- and Hanukkah time -- fun.

It may be cold outside, but making beautiful music together will be the hot, hot, hot duo of Beckie Menzie and Tom Michael, who will perform the 2014 Holiday Pops! concert with the Chicago Chamber Orchestra at 3 p.m. Dec. 7 at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, 26 E. Chestnut St.

The filled-with-peacefulness sounding event will feature the After Dark Award-winning pair and the 30-piece chamber orchestra performing holiday classics. "This is a project we have been looking forward to all year: the chance to hear and perform Beckie and my holiday arrangements with America's oldest chamber orchestra," said Michael. "Beckie and I usually perform as a three-some: Beckie, Tom and the piano. So to do a concert with more than thirty of us will be a thrill."

"I live in The Gold Coast and am also a long-time member of Fourth Church," said Michael. "So it's a full -circle moment to perform in this way at the Buchanan Chapel of the church."

The first act will be just the orchestra and then Act 2 will feature the pair with the orchestra and a couple of numbers on their own, said Menzie, an Edgewater resident.

"We are known for our inventive and heartfelt arrangements... and the exciting thing for us is that local musician, Jim Gailloro to has orchestrated this for to be enhanced by the CCO," said Menzie. "So we are not singing stock holiday orchestra songs, but our arrangements."

Beckie Menzie and Tom Michael.

"We are naturally fun and one of our numbers -- 'Baby, It's Cold Outside' -- features parody lyrics by local lyricist, Carla Gordon," said Menzie. "People who want to take a bit of the craziness of the holidays and find a moment to savor the beauty of holiday music and recharge," should come, she said.

Tix range from $25 to $35 and can be bought online at www.ChicagoChamberOrch.Org/Events/HolidayPops or by calling 312-857-3094.

Ugly is in... at the Ugly Sweater Selfie Contest, being held by the Wicker Park Bucktown Chamber of Commerce, 1414 N. Ashland Ave. as part of a shop local campaign.

"We thought an ugly sweater selfie contest would be not only be a creative way for businesses to get exposure during the holiday season, but it would be easy for businesses to participate -- all they have to do is post a "selfie station" poster in their business! -- and just as simple for us to organize and advertise," said Molly Huber, special events coordinator at the chamber. "Self-indulgent 'hipsters' in ironic clothing is what people seem to expect to find in Wicker Park/Bucktown year-round, so why not embrace that stereotype of the vain hipster and exploit it to promote businesses? It's tongue-in-cheek and -- hopefully -- effective."

The chamber has provided a "selfie station" poster in 32 participating businesses, who can decorate it however they choose and display it in their stores Dec. 5 and 6 for use as a photo background. You have to take your picture in front of the selfie station poster to be eligible. Hashtag the contest handle #uglyswearerwpb on Instagram for a chance to win.

"What qualifies as an ugly sweater hasn't been clearly defined, but we'll know 'em when we see 'em!" exclaimed Huber. "It can't just be a regular old cardigan, but it doesn't necessarily have to be festive, either... though festiveness is encouraged... 'Tis the season, and all that. The contest is for all ages. Pets can enter, too!"

The contest ends at midnight tonight with winners announced -- hopefully -- next week. The pic with the most Instagram likes wins. The only bummer is that it's an Instagram-only contest.

"If non-Instagram users want to participate, they can hook up with a friend or relative who can post their selfies for them -- or hop into a group photo -- those are eligible to win, too," said Huber. "Since prize packages will consist of more than one item, it may be possible to divvy up the loot among the people who appear in the winning photos."

Belated congrats... to Gold Coaster Chris Newman, who recently was bestowed with the 2014 Meier Achievement Award, which recognizes past work of mid-career arts professionals with checks for $33,333.33 ($25,000 plus 33% for income tax). Newman is a both an abstract and figurative sculptor who exhibits around the Chicago area and in other states.

And the same to Ald. Tom Tunney [44th], who received the Thresholds' 2014 Hero Award for his commitment to sound mental health policy and programs and for his leadership role in the development of Buffett Place, a supportive housing community housed in the old Diplomat Hotel, 3208 N. Sheffield Ave. in Lakeview.

Spreading joy... is the North Dearborn Assn. (NDA), hosting its 21st annual Joy of Toys Holiday Wrap Party, 1 to 3:30 p.m. Saturday at Mario's Table at 21 W. Goethe. This warm and fuzzy event collects gifts for kids at George Manierre Elementary School and the Catherine Ferguson Child Parent Center. Anyone is welcome, just bring a new, unwrapped gift valued at $20 for a child three to 10-years-old. The afternoon -- featuring food, spirits, music, and gift wrapping -- is made possible once again thanks to the generosity of Mario Stefanini - owner of Mario's Table.

Book on over... to the free, 3rd annual Chicago Book Expo on Dec. 6 at Columbia College Chicago, 1104 S. Wabash Ave., and check out Uptown resident Greg Beaubien's thriller novel, "Shadows the Sizes of Cities."

Pendulum slowly swinging back to new downtown condos

BY DON DeBAT

After five years of market slumber, the pendulum is slowly beginning to swing back toward building new condominiums in downtown Chicago, experts say.

“Five new downtown condo projects started marketing programs during 2014,” noted Gail Lissner, vice president of Appraisal Research Counselors Ltd. “Most new product is targeting the upper end of the market, with the exception of one South Loop project which is oriented towards first-time buyers.”

However, if you are shopping for a new condo unit north of the Chicago River in such neighborhoods as River North, Streeterville or the Gold Coast, expect to pay more than $650 per square foot for a residence with more than 2,100 square feet.

The “Downtown Chicago Benchmark Report,” Appraisal Research’s analysis for the third quarter of 2014, noted that developers are now starting to test the depth of demand for the $600-per-square-foot segment of the River North market.

“Two new projects—100 W. Huron and 400 W. Huron—started marketing in October of 2014,” Lissner said. “Both boutique buildings offer 26 to 28 larger sized units with average prices of about $650 to $685 per square foot.”

The new construction ultra-luxury condo market also is reviving in the Gold Coast, where sales and construction are underway at 4 E. Elm, Appraisal Research reported. Units ranging in size from 3,100 square feet are selling for an average of $850 per square foot. About half of the 35 units are sold.

In addition, at 9 W. Walton 70 ultra-luxury, new units are being marketed at prices averaging more than $1,100 per square foot, Lissner said. The condos will feature an average 4,000 square feet of living area.

If you are shopping for an affordable new condo downtown, the best bet is 1345 S. Wabash in the South Loop. CMK

The Home Front

Development is offering 144 units in a 15-story high-rise with average prices of $325 per square foot.

“Price-conscious buyers who desire attractive, contemporary finishes and are not focused on building amenities are attracted to 1345 S. Wabash,” Lissner said.

“In an effort to keep monthly condo maintenance fees and development costs as low as possible, CMK does not provide any common-area amenities such as fitness rooms, sun decks and business centers.”

At the end of the third quarter of 2014, only 467 new-construction condominiums remained in developer inventory, down from 505 units at the end of the first quarter. This is the lowest overall level of unsold inventory since Appraisal Research began its survey in 1997.

“The biggest block of unsold, previously rented condo inventory is at 1555 S. Wabash in the South Loop,” Lissner said. Built in 2009, the 176-unit high-rise was caught in the Great Recession and only 35 buyers closed on their pre-sale units.

“Now renamed The Guild, the 14-story building is being launched again and units now are being offered for sale to the existing renters,” Lissner said. A public sales program is expected to start in the first quarter of 2015 with units priced from $320 to $330 per square foot, including one parking space.

While there are only a few hundred of new-construction condos on the market downtown, Appraisal Research also noted that the downtown condo resale market is rebounding.

A survey of 65 downtown buildings comprising more than 20,000 units shows that resale condo prices in the second quarter were only four percent below the peak price levels of 2008. Used condo prices rose seven percent in mid-2014, compared with the same quarter a year earlier, and listing inventory is up 21% from a year ago.

Candlelight house walk in historic Pullman

The Historic Pullman Foundation ushers in the warmth of the holidays with its 19th Annual Candlelight House Walk and Holiday Buffet on Sunday, Dec. 14, from 4 to 7 pm. The walk is a festive holiday tour that provides visitors a look inside four historic houses bedecked for the holidays.

A great deal of anticipation surrounds this season’s Walk. The National Trust, the National Parks Conservation Assn., and other groups are pressing for National Park status for the Pullman District. Park designation would shine a light on what is one of Chicago’s hidden gems.

The self-guided walk will begin at the Historic Pullman Foundation Visitor Center, 11141 S. Cottage Grove Ave., where visitors can view exhibits on the town of Pullman. A Holiday Buffet will also be offered at the Center. Tickets are $40 in advance; $45 at the door on the day of the event. Reservations are suggested. All proceeds from ticket sales benefit restoration projects in Pullman.

The Pullman District bears witness to the timeless appeal of beautiful architecture and sound urban planning.

Built in the 1880’s, these landmark homes are a unique part of Chicago’s history. The Pullman Historic District contains nearly 1,000 of the original residential structures of the town and many significant public buildings -- all designed by the then 26-year old Solon S. Beman between 1880 and 1893. The District, a city and state landmark since 1972, is a peerless example of an industrial planned community. Today, enthusiastic residents of this area are involved with the preservation of the District and its heritage.

“The Candlelight Walk is a smaller, more intimate tour than our October House Tour event, and provides a personal look inside four restored historic homes at this beautiful time of the year,” says Candlelight Chair Cynthia Martin McMahon.

Pullman was built by rail car magnate George M. Pullman as a planned community of homes, shops, schools, recreational facilities and industry in the form of his Pullman Palace Car Company -- famous for its elegant sleeping cars. Built for workers to escape the dangers of the city’s industrial workplace, Pullman provided a clean, safe and aesthetically pleasing environment in which his workers would live and work. In return, Pullman could recruit the best craftsmen from around the world to live in what was billed “The World’s Most Perfect Town.”

Pullman is located four blocks west of I-94 (Calumet/Bishop Ford Expressway) at exit 66A. Pullman is accessible by the Metra Electric commuter rail line at the 111th St./ Pullman or the 115th Street/Kensington station, and the CTA bus line #111/Pullman. For more information call 773-785-8901.

Anniversary of Prohibition's repeal goes unheralded as speakeasies survive

Historic Marge's Still still quenching parched palates

BY BOB ZULEY

Prohibition, the bane of many early 20th Century tipplers, brought about the end of licensed saloons in the city but hardly proved an insurmountable barrier to those seeking a social libation. Friday marks the 81st anniversary of the 1933 ratification of the 21st Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which repealed Prohibition.

While the prohibition of alcoholic beverages has been accomplished in various forms in countries around the world, in the U.S. Prohibition began in 1920 with the passage of the 18th Amendment that banned the manufacture, transportation, and sale of alcoholic beverages though the consumption of alcohol was never illegal under federal law. Exceptions were made for medical and religious use of alcoholic beverages.

In Chicago, more than 3,000 speakeasies were said to have operated in the dry years. Saloons and speakeasies served the purpose in those years much like today's neighborhood taverns do as an important social outlet and in the exchange of local news, employment and housing opportunities, and recent weddings, births, and deaths.

Some of the pre-Prohibition neighborhood taverns that ingeniously survived the dry years while operating in the shadows survive today.

Marge's Still, 1758 N. Sedgwick St., in the Old Town Triangle District, claims the title as the oldest continuously operating tavern in Chicago and has been serving drinks since 1885. Marge's became literally an underground speakeasy with bathtub gin prepared on the second floor and sold in the basement with guests entering through the exterior side stairwell off Menomonee St.

Originally, what is now Marge's Still was a barber shop and corner saloon called Victor Caruso's Soft Drinks. During Prohibition, the 'soft drinks' were more a fictitious cover while patron's in the know slipped down the side staircase to enjoy the bathtub gin.

In 1957, Marge Lednick took ownership and became the first woman in Chicago to obtain a liquor license. After her death in 2001, her son inherited the bar but neglected to renew the license and it was purchased by the current owners, Pam and Andreas Antoniou, who also operate the nearby Old Town Pub and Pepper Canister.

They renamed it "Marge's Still," a subtle double entendre that pays homage to its former proprietor and its Prohibition past. Today, the completely refurbished interior recalls its early 20th Century heyday while offering a contemporary menu and wide drink selection in a relaxed setting. The only thing remaining from its inception is the antique wooden bar.

Just one block south of Marge's Still is Twin Anchors Restaurant & Tavern, 1655 N. Sedgwick St., a local landmark and one of the oldest landmarks in the city that likely shared many of the same customers of Victor Caruso's back in the dry years.

Since at least 1910, owner Lee Tante operated a saloon in the building that was constructed in 1881. During World War I the Schlitz Brewing Co. donated the bar that remains in use to this day. During Prohibition, a speakeasy known as "Tante Lee Soft Drinks" operated by Don and Ethel Humphreys served the thirsty in the St. Michael's neighborhood. The present kitchen of Twin Anchors was then known as Mrs.

Marge's Still

Keefer's Schoolbook Store, a respectable front serving the needs of the school across the street.

Chicago Yacht Club members Bob Walters and his family, along with Captain Herb Eldean, were the original operators of Twin Anchors providing the famous barbeque ribs recipe and the nautical theme. Since 1978 the family-friendly destination has been operated by the Tuzi family, only the third owner in its long history. The venue's ironclad rule, "Positively no dancing," stems from dancing in the bygone era of disco.

Generations of loyal Chicago area families have made Twin Anchors a regular stop for what many consider the best ribs in the city and other dining fare. Frank Sinatra made his first stop in the early '50s and in the following decades stuck with his standard order, "Ribs, and keep 'em coming!" In 1982, Twin Anchors served Sinatra and his orchestra ribs after their 1982 Chicagofest concert at Navy Pier.

Just miles to the north is Southport Lanes, located at 3325 N. Southport Ave. in Lakeview. Then known as The Nook, it was built as a 'tied house' by the Schlitz Brewing Company in 1900. In 1922, during Prohibition, the name was changed to Southport Lanes and the four hand-set bowling lanes were added that continue to operate today. It was in those years that a speakeasy operated under cover of the bowling alley while a brothel operated upstairs. A dumbwaiter still exists that used to bring refreshments to the working women and their male guests.

Local lore holds that Mayor Anton Cermak convened weekly poker games in one of the concealed rooms at Southport Lanes although it was a long

Shhhh! Secret Agent Supply Co. is updatingits brand... don't tell anyone

The wares at the Secret Agent Supply Co. include puzzles, disguises and original literary works.

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY TOBIAS BURNS
Medill News Service

Don't tell anyone, but The Wicker Park Secret Agent Supply Co., which recently reopened in a nondescript retail space at 1276 N. Milwaukee Ave., is a front. Sure, the store sells disguises, fake noses, collapsable travel adapters and magnifying glasses, but don't get fooled by the ruse. The back room, which is full of dark wood and sleek, custom-designed furniture, houses the organization's actual operations — creative writing workshops for students.

"We're by definition a front," says Tyler Stoltenberg, the store's creative and retail manager. "One hundred percent of our proceeds go to our nonprofit."

The nonprofit is 826 National, an organization co-founded in 2002 by author Dave Eggers that provides writing-focused tutoring services to public school students in cleverly branded spaces.

They are dedicated to supporting students ages six to 18 with their creative and expository writing skills, and to helping teachers inspire their students to write.

Their services are structured around the belief that great leaps in learning can happen with one-on-one attention, and that strong writing skills are fundamental to future success.

Each of the eight tutoring centers across the country has a different storefront theme. The Los Angeles center is the Time Travel Mart. In New York, it's The Brooklyn Superhero Supply Co. In Washington, DC, The Museum of Unnatural History.

But such adventurous marketing strategies are not without their dangers.

"Some people think it's earnestly a spy store," said Sarah Kokernot, a program coordinator for the nonprofit. "A guy called once who wanted to spy on his wife. He said, 'I'm looking to put something in her shoe.'"

Prior to the reopening, the storefront went by the even more tongue-in-cheek name of The Boring Store and was sold as anything but a secret agent outfitter — wink wink. Visitors to the website, www.notasecretagentsstore.com, must enter a secret password before being admitted to a dastardly lair of espionage-themed games.

"When we started getting calls from people looking to bore their engines, the management knew they had to make a change," Stoltenberg said.

Despite the initial over-cleverness, 826 Chicago has no further plans to modify its brand.

"It's what makes us who we are," says Avi Humber, the Chicago marketing coordinator and instructor. "It's not just about making it a kid-friendly environment, though of course that's a part of it. The quirky merchandise is really what drives our revenues."

Last year, the store brought in $84,000 in revenue, driven in large part by items that sell for under $5, like fake mustaches, pens and pencils. The store usually contributes between $2,000 and $3,000 per month to 826 Chicago's charitable programs, leaving operational costs to hover around $50,000 a year. The company has eight employees, five of whom work full time.

Secret Agent Supply is aiming to hit $100,000 in sales next year. The increased floor space of its new location will allow the company to showcase almost twice as much inventory.

"The foot traffic on Milwaukee is great," Stoltenberg says. "Most of our sales come from people in their 20s and 30s, not moms and kids."

Before coming to 826 Chicago Stoltenberg worked for the American Girl Store, which, like the Apple Store, is known for its innovative in-store experiences.

Tyler Stoltenberg is the new retail manager at the Secret Agent Supply Co.

"The theming potential here is huge," he says. "We want to incorporate some interactive elements to give it more of a museum quality. There's really a lot to do."

The idea behind the eccentric branding, however, was never to bolster revenues but to create a space that was stimulating and engaging for students. "I do my homework faster because the tutors help me and because it's a secret organization," says Christopher, a fifth grader at Prosser Elementary. "They only let some people in, like spies."

Parents recognize the positive effect of the inspired setting, as well. "It's great for their imaginations," says Amy Leigh Kile, who has a sixth grader in the creative writing program. "It's a space to dream, invent and learn."

classic and new-American food featuring breakfast items such as Revival burritos, with scrambled eggs, hash browns, cheddar cheese and Romaine with a side of salsa verde. The meat-eaters may want to try the carnivore omelette consisting of bacon, sausage, chorizo and cheddar.

Those with a sweet tooth can munch on Jenna's French toast — cinnamon and vanilla-battered Texas toast topped with sweet caramelized apples. The iconic Standee's 24-hour restaurant that occupied the space before m. henrietta is not to be forgotten as a Standee's Breakfast is listed on the menu. It features two eggs, choice of bacon or sausage, fingerling hash, with toast or an English muffin.

Luncheon choices include salads and wraps such as a tabasco Caesar salad with Romaine, Parmesan, tabasco Caesar dressing and topped with focaccia croutons. There also is a kale and mandarin salad with bleu cheese, mustard vinaigrette and candied nuts. Sandwich choices include a lemon pepper salmon sandwich, and a sloppy Jose — braised short-rib, spicy tomato broth, poblano mustard and butter pickles on a sesame bun.

Dinner items (after 5 p.m.) feature curried chicken potpie, ancho coffee-crusted pork tenderloin with cauliflower puree and apple and sweet potato hash and basil pesto salmon.

Don't forget the starters and sides such as corn dogs con queso, which are cornmeal-battered mini dogs with merkta quesso, and roasted brussels sprouts with dates, bacon and bleu cheese. Stoll said, "We wanted a diverse menu with American fusion that has a nice appeal to the neighborhood." He said they will have some seasonal dishes and will run with this menu until the end of the year.

The new Edgewater addition already has received at least one unsolicited testimonial from Granville resident Caitlin Hart, who was enjoying a late afternoon lunch on a recent weekday. "I'm happy I wandered in here," she said. "This is a good addition to the neighborhood, and the chicken sandwich was remarkable."

The restaurant, which seats 74 and retained the basic m. henrietta footprint, will have a back patio area that will accommodate another 20 diners during the summer months. They offer free Wi-Fi and take-out service and is wheelchair accessible. They are open 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, until midnight on Friday and Saturday and closes at 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Business alliance has rebate for shoppers who stay local

In an effort to encourage neighborhood commerce this holiday season, the Rogers Park Business Alliance [RPBA] is offering cash back to shoppers who support local, independently owned businesses.

Customers who collect $100 or more in receipts from three or more independently owned merchants participating in the promotion will receive $25 back. Anyone who collects $150 or more in receipts from three or more participating businesses will receive $50 back.

The promotion runs through Dec. 31.

According to a Small Business Saturday Consumer Insights Survey, 94 percent of U.S. shoppers say patronizing small businesses makes them "feel good." Local First Chicago points out that "locally owned businesses re-circulate 70 percent more money back into the local community than chain stores, per square foot occupied."

Only stores in the Howard St. Special Service Area [SSA] No. 19, Clark/Morse/Glenwood SSA No. 24 and Sheridan Rd. SSA No. 54 are eligible for the RPBA Holiday Shoppers' Rebate.

The boundaries of the Howard St. SSA follow Howard from Sheridan to Ridge including the Gateway Centre; Paulina St. from Howard to Jonquil Terr.; and Paulina St. from Howard to Rogers Ave.

The boundaries for SSA No. 24 are along Morse Ave. from Clark St. to Sheridan Rd; Clark St. from Albion Ave. to Howard St.; and Glenwood Ave. from Lunt Ave. to Farwell Ave.

Sheridan Road SSA follows Sheridan from Devon to Farwell.

Call Carolina Juarez at 773-508-5885 for information about claiming the rebate.

Dear Neighbor Rahm Emanuel...

We recently laid to rest former Mayor Jane Byrne recalling what made her unique in many ways, aside from being the first woman Mayor of Chicago. Motives aside, one example of her uniqueness was taking up residence in a Cabrini-Green housing project, putting herself in the shoes of the many residents born and raised there.

Mr. Mayor, Putting yourself in the same shoes of the many abandoned riders of the No 11 Lincoln Ave. bus, which, up until the gutting of two miles out of a 10 mile run last year, may prove enlightening. Because when it comes to excellence, North Center, Lincoln Square and Lincoln-Belmont had it all, and the No. 11 bus was the glue that kept it together.

Put notions aside and place yourself in the heads of the voters in your own ward first by acknowledging that driving or being driven is out of the question for two good reasons: street parking is off the charts and, our lungs need a break from pollution. So let your feet do the walking as you spend just one day visiting the many wonderful activities at your service. For example:

Leave your online activity at home and meet your neighbors. Walk to the MB or Wintrust Bank on Lincoln and Irving Park, perhaps make a deposit. After that visit the Ace Hardware or Community Plumbing Supply two blocks south and purchase that needed part for the kitchen sink.

As long as you are in the area, another two blocks south will bring you to Trader Joe's and chat with cheerful workers who will tell you that they have turned to biking to work, others to the Brown Line three blocks north, wondering why.

By now you have a little more weight to carry with you and suddenly recall a parking permit you needed to pick up at the Alderman's office five or six blocks north. Too far to walk with groceries. Better to wait on the corner for the # 11 bus and opt for the chance to rest on the convenient bench located there. Within minutes, you've completed that task when surprise, there's a Jewel right across the street and the promised birthday cake can be picked up on your way home. Done. Oh, almost forgot, a book promised to someone is being held for me at the Sulzer Regional Library another three blocks north. Can do, and will even have time to meet some friends at Cafe Selmarie for coffee and still get home in time for Lunch.

Whoops! Where did the # 11 Bus go? It was right here last time I looked. So okay, I'll just walk the two blocks to the Lawrence / Western Brown Line, get off at the Irving Park station and walk the other four or five blocks to my home on Hermitage.

Mr. Mayor, whose idea of the No. 11 bus is “preposterous,” Forrest Claypool or Daniel Burnham? I think Claypool was confused with “presumptuous,” and yes we are presumptuous of your action to right an obvious wrong.

Expecting the rail line running on an angle from Lawrence to Irving Park to somehow or another not be disruptive to a community is preposterous. The spoke street called Lincoln Ave. has served a commercial, retail and residential area with many public parks and places for over 80 years and all of a sudden the idea, in the words of Claypool, is “preposterous.” Methinks that he needs to rethink how he got himself up that thorny tree. Perhaps you, Mr. Mayor, can help him come down.

Things still left unsaid by State's Attorney Alvarez

On Oct. 30, Cook County State's Attorney Anita Alvarez announced during a packed press conference that her office had vacated murder and voluntary manslaughter charges against Alstory Simon, who was sentenced to 37 years in Illinois prison for a 1982 double homicide in the pool area of Washington Park -- a crime for which Anthony Porter had been convicted and sentenced to death in 1983 [which has been covered in this newspaper over the last four weeks].

Alvarez said she was taking the action following an arduous review of Simon's case by her office's Conviction Integrity unit. The re-examination of the Simon case had taken 10 months. The integrity unit had interviewed more than 100 individuals. No stone had been left unturned with her assistants pouring over reams of decades-old police reports, court transcripts and any other relevant information that could be tracked down.

She described the effort as “the most complicated and most challenging re-investigation” that the Conviction Integrity unit had undertaken since its formation in 2012. In the end, Alvarez declared, justice compelled the freeing of Simon because her assistants had concluded that his conviction was so “deeply corroded and corrupted” that “the legitimacy” of Simon’s guilt could no longer be maintained.

For the corrosion of the Simon case, Alvarez heaped blame on three individuals. The review had raised “serious questions” about the “integrity” of the conduct of David Protess, the once iconic, now disgraced fired former professor at Northwestern’s Medill School of Journalism and founder of the school’s Innocence Project who led the 1998/99 campaign to prove that Anthony Porter, then a death row inmate, was innocent and Simon was the killer.

Paul Ciolino, an armed private investigator who blasted his way into Simon's Milwaukee home in winter, 1998 and, posing as a Chicago cop, forced Simon to confess to the murders through threats of harm, the employment of ingenious charades and promises that he would only do two years in prison and reap huge monetary awards upon his release through book and movie deals.

Jack Rimland, Simon's attorney who rented office space from Ciolino on W. Jackson Blvd. at the time of Ciolino's invasion of Simon's Milwaukee home and the extracting of the false confession, and who was hired by Ciolino to represent Simon.

For those of us who had been fighting to prove Simon's innocence and obtain his release, the Alvarez announcement was heartening without parallel.

Nonetheless, we too have investigated this case and we are of the opinion that Alvarez offered the public a half a loaf. That is, critical facts underlying this case -- a case that Thomas Epach, the chief of the criminal division under State's Attorney Dick Devine when Simon was sentenced has called "America's worst day" -- were omitted.

That in winter 1999, then assistant state's attorney Thomas Gainer called six original witnesses to the 1982 pool murders before a grand jury and under questioning, was told by five of those witnesses that they were in the pool the night of the murders and saw Porter fatally shoot the two victims. At no time during these proceedings, did any witness mention a man by the name of Alstory Simon.

That Gainer also called Protes, four of his students and Ciolino to testify about their investigation of the Porter/Simon case and demonstrated for grand jurors that the Medill investigation was childish, incomplete and silly.

That Epach, the former top Devine assistant, signed a sworn affidavit in which he attests, in sum, that the grand jury proceedings proved Porter was the killer and that Simon was innocent, yet his boss Devine allowed the sentencing to go forward because of an onslaught of negative publicity directed at him by the media.

That a special unit in the Corporation Counsel's office, at the request of then Corporation Counsel Mara Georges, came to the same conclusion as Epach but added that Devine allowed the sentencing to go forward for “political reasons.”

Nor did Alvarez explain why on Sept. 7, 1999, when Simon was sentenced to the 37 years, neither Gainer nor Rimland breathed a word to the presiding judge about the grand jury testimony which inculpated Porter and exculpated Simon. On the contrary, these two officers of the court, beholden to speak the truth, withheld this material evidence from the judge and distorted and fabricated yet other material facts.

New initiative seeking to find storage options for homeless

A coalition of foundations and advocates has come together to address the issue of personal storage for youth experiencing homelessness in the Chicago area.

Homeless youth have identified the storage problem as one of the most important they face in their day-to-day lives. They say a solution would help alleviate suffering and improve the immediate quality of life for individuals in unpredictable and temporary living situations.

People making use of storage centers in other cities have noted that the availability of storage frees them from some worry and stress. On a practical level, storage enables them to travel to appointments, go to class or seek employment without having to carry their possessions with them.

Lara Brooks, a longtime advocate for youth, has been hired as a consultant for the Chicago Youth Storage Initiative [CYSI]. She will investigate ways to provide storage at existing facilities while exploring options to increase overall storage capacity in the region.

The project will be coordinated by publisher Tracy Baim of Windy City Times, the publication that hosted the LGBTQ Homeless Youth Summit earlier this year. Attendees at the summit stressed the importance of finding storage options for youth facing homelessness.

Brooks says the youth storage project will address issues impacting all youth, even though the impetus came from the LGBTQ summit.

“Youth deserve accessible storage options to prevent loss or theft of legal documentation, school books and clothing that is a stepping stone to educational and employment goals,” she said. “They need a place to keep items of sentimental value - such as pictures of loved ones, diplomas, and letters from family members.”

During the next six months, Brooks plans to develop strategic partnerships to inform the youth-driven program design of the CYSI. Through her capacity building efforts she hopes to significantly increase local storage access in 2015.

“Storage is a surprisingly complex issue to address and is critically important to the health and well-being of young people experiencing homelessness,” Brooks said.

She added that storage is “especially critical” for LGBTQ youth.

“(They) are disproportionately affected by homelessness,” Brooks said. “Transgender and gender nonconforming youth ... deserve gender affirming access points to basic needs services.”

Brooks has been working with LGBTQ youth experiencing homelessness in Chicago since 2004. She held direct service and leadership roles at the Broadway Youth Center 2005-2013. Brooks works with youth programs, drop-in centers and housing organizations throughout the city. Her current clients include All Chicago - Making Homelessness History, the University of Chicago’s Care2Prevent Pediatric and Adolescent HIV Program, the Chicago Department of Family & Support Services, and the Illinois Caucus for Adolescent Health.

For more information call Baim at 773-871-7610.

Microlending Institute offers $700,000 in loans to small businesses

In a challenging Illinois economy that sees itself trailing nationwide in almost every economic category, the need for alternative financing options for the Chicagoland small business community has been well documented. The Chicago Microlending Institute program recently issued two local organizations $700,000 to help neighborhood small businesses interested in gaining access to needed capital grow or to keep their doors open.

With little paper work and lots of flexibility, Chicago Neighborhood Initiatives Micro Finance Group (CNIMFG) and Women’s Business Development Center help small businesses find the financing and assistance they need with loans ranging from $1,000 to $15,000, while established businesses can borrow as much as $25,000.

Mayor Rahm Emanuel recently kicked-off a series of small business lending events to alert small businesses to these resources and to highlight the importance of the program.

“Small businesses are the economic backbone of Chicago. They support jobs in our neighborhoods and they are essential to the economic vibrancy of our City. We are working to ensure that every entrepreneur and every business has the chance to not only survive, but to thrive,” he said.

CNIMFG focuses on low to moderate income neighborhoods throughout Chicago and the surrounding suburbs. Their loans support small businesses with working capital, assist in purchasing new inventory and equipment and provide start-up capital for new businesses. Within its first year of operations they have provided 30 businesses with $300,000 in microloans, with approximately 92% of these loans being deployed to African-Americans and 71% to women small business owners.

“Many of these modest loan request sizes, limited credit history or entrance into a new career field minimize their eligibility for conventional financing and prohibit many entrepreneurs from obtaining the resources they need to grow their businesses. said David Doig, President of Chicago Neighborhood Initiatives. “[We provide] the financing and training necessary to help small business owners increase their incomes, create new jobs and strengthen their communities.”

CNIMFG offers loans of up to $15,000 for start-up businesses (in operation less than six months) and $25,000 for established businesses as well as credit builder loans ranging from $1,000 to $3,000. They also offers an array of services ranging from technical assistance and professional referrals to business and personal financial health consulting. For more information call 773-341-2072.

way from his residence at 2348 S. Millard Ave. After Prohibition ended, an addition was constructed to the east of the main bar room and a gambling facility opened with direct lines to horse racing tracks around the country.

Though extensively remodeled in later years, the neighborhood tap preserves the timeless feel of an authentic Chicago institution. Southport Lanes boasts a wide offering of burgers, sandwiches, and other offerings.

Bridging the past with the present are several other Prohibition-era bars that continue to operate in Chicago. The Green Mill, 4802 N. Broadway, has been around since 1907.

The famous John Barleycorn Memorial Pub, 658 W. Belden, while now closed, had several decades of legitimate bar operation before Prohibition forced the Barleycorn to board up its windows and doors. From the outside, the bar looked like a vacant property, but on the inside, Barleycorn did brisk business as one of the city’s most active speakeasies. The rear dining room of the restaurant became a Chinese laundry, a convenient front for bootlegging with barrels of liquor rolled in on carts topped with laundry.

John Barleycorn’s rear dining room became a Chinese laundry, a convenient front for bootlegging with barrels of liquor rolled in on carts topped with laundry.

Durkin’s, 810 W. Diversey Pkwy., is an original Prohibition bar. Known then as Prohibition Willy’s Speakeasy, the bar operated at the back of a soda shop and in 1974 a secret room still full of bootleg booze was discovered in the basement. Today, it’s a modern sports bar.

The Green Door, located at 678 N. Orleans St., opened in 1872 as a grocery store following the Great Chicago Fire and remains one of the few wooden frame structures downtown.

The Chipp Inn, 832 N. Greenview Ave. in Noble Square, dates back to 1897 and remains a popular cash-only, neighborhood bar. The Edgewater Lounge, 5600 N. Ashland Ave., built in 1901 has been a tavern since 1908.

The basement bar of The Hange-Uppe, 14 W. Elm St., was a speakeasy during Prohibition and has associations with crimes even more lurid than smuggling booze: murder. Details are sketchy, but local legend holds that a young woman was killed in the basement during Prohibition and her ghost haunts the bar to this day.

Most locals already know about the Berghoff, 17 W. Adams, which still holds city liquor license #1. Opened in 1898, The Berghoff stayed in business when Prohibition hit by actually playing by the rules: instead of serving beer, the bar pumped out a low-alcohol ‘near-beer’ and Bergo Soda Pop. The soda was the origin of Berghoff’s famous root beer, which is still sold today.

People in need of food assistance still on rise in Chicago

Pantries seek your donations, volunteer time, financial generosity

BY BOB ZULEY

While traversing the North Side’s increasingly gentrifying neighborhoods with million dollar-plus homes, lakefront luxury highrises, and upscale restaurants it may escape our thoughts that many of our neighbors, friends, family members, and co-workers struggle to put food on the table, to feed their families, and make sure that the hungry among us are fed.

The Greater Chicago Food Depository [GCFD] meets the challenge but they need help. GCFD is Chicago’s food bank - a non-profit food distribution and training center that provides food for hungry people while striving to end hunger in our communities.

More than 800,000 men, women, and children - one out of every six people in Cook County - are accessing food through the Food Depository’s network each year. Many families this holiday season will make the difficult choices between buying food and paying rent, paying bills, buying medicine, or buying their child a toy.

More than half of households receiving food assistance include someone who has been employed in the past year. Eighteen percent of households receiving food include an active, retired, or veteran member of the U.S. Armed Forces. Aside from working people of limited financial means, those receiving food assistance include families with children, elderly retirees, widows/widowers, the disabled and Social Security recipients.

The GCFD, founded in 1979, makes a daily impact across

Chicago and Cook County with a network of 650 pantries, soup kitchens, shelters, mobile programs, children’s programs, older adult programs, and innovative responses that address the root causes of hunger.

Last year, the Food Depository distributed 67 million pounds of shelf-stable food, fresh produce, dairy products, and meat, the equivalent of 154,000 meals every day.

Most product donations come from come from more than 350 local and national food companies, grocers, food service organizations, produce markets and growers that find a safe and reliable way to donate food that might otherwise go to waste. Roughly 700 food drives are sponsored each year by local businesses, professional and community organizations, schools and churches.

The GCFD and your community food pantry welcomes your assistance. If you’re interested in volunteering your time, making a financial contribution, or sponsoring a food drive, your gift will actively fight hunger in Chicago.

For assistance in locating your local community food pantry or for further information on how you may help, contact the GCFD at 773-247-3663 or your local food pantry.

Scouting for food

The Boy Scouts of America’s Chicago Area Council is partnering with the GCFD to collect nonperishable food this holiday season. The effort is part of the One City, One Food Drive campaign, which unites more than 200 organizations to collect food through December.

On Saturday, Boy Scouts will go door-to-door throughout the Chicago area distributing empty bags. Residents are asked to fill the bags with food donations. On Dec. 13, Boy Scouts will return to collect the filled bags and donate them to the Food Depository.

Donate in your building or parking lot

The Building Owners and Managers Association of Chicago (BOMA/Chicago), which represents over 250 buildings and 150 companies that provide commercial office building services, will also participate in One City, One Food Drive and provides over 150 public drop-off locations in downtown buildings running through Friday, Dec. 12. Supporters can drop non-perishable food donations in designated Drive barrels in the lobbies of participating BOMA/Chicago buildings.

InterPark is also participating and is looking for shelf-stable food donations which will be collected at InterPark locations across Chicago through Dec. 12.

Dee Snider auctioning signed awards, items to benefit AIDS patients

Autographed awards and other memorabilia will be sold in an online auction this month to support AIDS patients.

Dee Snider, creator and star of “Dee Snider’s Rock & Roll Christmas Tale,” will auction off various signed items and other memorabilia during the weeks-long event, with all of the proceeds benefiting Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS [BCEFA].

“In deciding what to do with this myriad of items, it occurred to me that there might be people out there who would enjoy displaying some of these things in their own home — as a reflection of a past or present passion they might have, or just because they were mine,” Snider said. “I’m hoping that there are some very generous people out there who will bid on them, knowing that their money will be going to help others in need.”

In 2014, BCEFA awarded more than $175,000 to AIDS-related family service organizations in Illinois, with more the $150,000 specifically sent to 12 social service agencies in the Chicago area.

The charity auction runs through Dec. 22 at broadwaycares.org/eBayDeeSniderAuction. A select number of awards and memorabilia will be available each week for one week only.

Snider is starring as the narrator in the show through Jan. 4, 2015, at the Broadway Playhouse at Water Tower Place, 175 E. Chestnut St. Tickets are on sale now for seats in the first two rows plus a meet-and-greet, autographs and photos with Snider. Groups of 10 or more should reserve seats by calling Broadway In Chicago [BIC] at 312-977-1710. Tickets also are available at all BIC box offices -- 24 W. Randolph St., 151 W. Randolph St., 18 W. Monroe St. and 175 E. Chestnut St. -- or by calling the Broadway In Chicago ticket line at 800-775-2000.

Is it ‘surf’s up’ at Foster Beach in 2015?

This is an example of a flowrider box. “I’m not sure people need something like this at Foster Ave. Beach,” said one attendee at the meeting.

BY PATRICK BUTLER

K.C. Hoos – who considered putting a simulated surfing park first at North Ave. and more recently at Montrose Beach, is back again – this time with a proposal to put a “Flowrider” surfing machine at Foster Ave. Beach.

“I think this will be the final resting spot” for the surf park, said the sports trainer and certified lifeguard who believes he’s finally found the home of the perfect (mechanical) wave “for those who can’t make it to Hawaii or the west coast anytime soon.”

Here on the North Side, surfing is allowed at the Montrose and Osterman beaches between Memorial Day and Labor Day, but the waves can be challenging enough to discourage many Chicago surfers, Hoos told a Nov. 12 Lincoln Park Advisory Council meeting at the Notebart Nature Museum, 2430 N. Cannon Dr.

Hoos wants a 10-year contract (with an additional five-year renewal option) from the Park District [CPD] to build a 30-by-60-foot pool next to an existing beach house where his associates at Park Concessions Management plan to open a refreshment stand at the beach house offering “a healthier option than pizza or a hot dog.”

Hoos said his surfing pool would be the first of its kind in Chicago. Besides meeting with the LPAC he’s been talking to the CPD “and getting my design team ready to make this happen.”

As an alternative, “we’ll be able to offer a salad, brats or a sandwich wrap and give people a place to sit down,” Hoos said.

The pool will be five feet deep, but the “riding surface” will be between two and 12-inches deep, Hoos continued, The Flowrider can be adjusted to produce waves for all skill levels and the manufacturer recommends six in the pool if they’re laying down on the surfboards and three if they’re standing up.

Hoos said he’ll probably charge around $40 an hour at peak seasons, “maybe less depending on the hour of the day” and “different rates for neighborhood residents and visitors.”

Asked how much the project would cost, Hoos said he’s prepared to make a “significant investment,” but wasn’t comfortable going into details.

Construction should take between 45 and 90 days, Hoos said, adding he hopes to be “up and running by Memorial Day, 2015.”

Hoos said his surfing pool would be the first of its kind in Chicago. Besides meeting with the LPAC he’s been talking to the CPD “and getting my design team ready to make this happen.”

At this point, he said, nothing is set in stone, either with the CPD or the community.

“I’m just laying out a proposal for the neighborhood to look at,” Hoos said.

But not everyone among the handful of local residents who turned out for Hoos’ presentation at the LPAC meeting was sold on the idea.

“I’m not sure people need something like this at Foster Ave. Beach” where there’s already kayak launching area and other amenities, one woman said. “I think your project’s great, but maybe in an empty warehouse further west.

“I think people would really enjoy it there,” she said.

Gilda’s Club to raise money from online wine sales

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

The River North cancer support community named for comedian and actress Gilda Radner will try to raise money from drinkers of exclusive California wines.

Gilda’s Club Chicago says it will partner with Cellar Angels, a wine company that sells on its website wines from Napa and Sonoma counties in northern California at a discount to its members. The wines are not available in retail stores. Buyers may select a charity to which ten percent of the company’s profit from the sale is donated.

“We’re very selective with whom we partner because living our mission and serving our members is integral to the work we do,” says LauraJane Hyde, CEO of Gilda’s Club Chicago. “We appreciate what Cellar Angels is doing and how they do it, especially if it helps us continue to expand our programming.”

Gilda’s Club is a free service to cancer patients and their families. It is a network of support centers across the United States and Canada. The Chicago location on N. Wells St. opened in 1998.

Radner was an original cast member of the NBC television show Saturday Night Live. She died of ovarian cancer in 1989. Gilda’s Club Chicago offers free programs for men, women, children, and their families and friends whose lives have been impacted by any kind of cancer. Their mission is to ensure that all people impacted by cancer are empowered by knowledge, strengthened by action, and sustained by community. For more information call 312-464-9900.

5885 N HARLEM AVENUE Chicago, IL 60631 NOTICE OF SALE

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on September 17, 2014, an agent for The Judicial Sales Corporation, will at 10:30 AM on December 30, 2014, at The Judicial Sales Corporation, One South Wacker Drive - 24th Floor, CHICAGO, IL, 60606, sell at public auction to the highest bidder, as set forth below, the following described real estate: The North half of lot 53 and all of lot 54 in the resubdivision of lots 20 to 32 inclusive of block 9 in Norwood Park Subdivision in the South West quarter of section 6, Township 40 North, Range 13, East of the third principal meridian in Cook County, Illinois

Commonly known as 5885 N HARLEM AVENUE, CHICAGO, IL 60631 Property Index No. 13-06-302-003. The real estate is improved with a single family residence. The judgment amount was $271,647.04.

Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the sale payable to The Judicial Sales Corporation. No third party checks will be accepted. The balance, including the Judicial sale fee for Abandoned Residential Property Municipality Relief Fund, which is calculated on residential real estate at the rate of $1 for each $1,000 or fraction thereof of the amount paid by the purchaser not to exceed $300, in certified funds/or wire transfer, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. No fee shall be paid by the mortgagee acquiring the residential real estate pursuant to its credit bid at the sale or by any mortgagee, judgment creditor, or other lienor acquiring the residential real estate whose rights in and to the residential real estate arose prior to the sale. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in AS IS condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information. If this property is a condominium unit, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale, other than a mortgagee, shall pay the assessments and the legal fees required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/9(g)(1) and (g)(4). If this property is a condominium unit which is part of a common interest community, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale other than a mortgagee shall pay the assessments required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/18.5(g)-(1).

IF YOU ARE THE MORTGAGOR (HOME-OWNER), YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN IN POSSESSION FOR 30 DAYS AFTER ENTRY OF AN ORDER OF POSSESSION, IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 15-1701(C) OF THE ILLINOIS MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE LAW. You will need a photo identification issued by a government agency (driver's license, passport, etc.) in order to gain entry into our building and the foreclosure sale room in Cook County and the same identification for sales held at other county venues where The Judicial Sales Corporation conducts foreclosure sales.

Yale Club of Chicago tutoring program enhances learning at public schools

BY MIRA TEMKIN

In the honored tradition of public service and giving back to the community, the Yale Alumni Assn. has often reached out to schools and provided assistance to students and teachers. The Yale Club of Chicago Tutoring Program was founded in 1997 and since that time, alumni have devoted countless hours working with at-risk children across the city. The effort is coordinated by the Alumni for Public Schools (APS), a non-profit organization which partners university alumni associations in Chicago with Chicago Public Schools [CPS] for long-term, sustainable volunteer opportunities. “Volunteers from the alumni group ‘adopt’ a school and work with them on a continuing basis throughout the school year,” said Cameron Croft, APS program manager. “Volunteers commit their time to anything from running a science fair to tutoring programs, even assisting with the school garden or reading to elementary students. The goal is to ensure that every student has access to valuable resources to unlock opportunities for them to thrive academically and personally.” One such esteemed Yale alumnus is Dr. Willard Fry, who has been working with the program since its inception. Dr. Fry is a retired Cardiothoracic surgeon, who spent 34 years on staff at Evanston Hosp. and continues to serve as Professor Emeritus of Clinical Surgery at the Northwestern Univ. Feinberg School of Medicine. Dr. Fry is committed to the group’s mission and feels that “it is important that the students form reliable, long-standing relationships through tutoring programs, one-on-one classroom assistance or mentorships,” he commented. For 12 years, Dr. Fry worked with students at the Yale Elementary School in Chicago’s Englewood neighborhood, tutoring them in reading and writing. The Club also took on the responsibility of repairing and updating computers at the school, as well as donated athletic equipment, winter clothing, and books. When the Yale School closed a few years ago, the group worked with CPS to determine which school would be best for continuing the project. The Friedrich Ludwig Jahn Elementary School (K-8) in Lakeview was selected as a good fit and Dr. Fry started tutoring in the fall of 2013. Currently, there are 17 volunteers from the Yale Club at the school, who spend three hours a day, one day a week, throughout the school year. They also provide funding and lead field trips to Chicago’s landmark museums, Shakespeare Theatre at Navy Pier, the DuSable Museum of African American History as well as a Chicago Chamber Musicians performance. Dr. Fry works with 7th graders this year, mostly in small groups, in reading and literature classes and taking the students on field trips to the Art Institute of Chicago and Chicago History Museum. But his influence goes out further than that. He suggested the students read, “War Horse,” and when the DVD of the movie came out, he brought it to school for the students to watch. “It brought the book to life,” he said. With ebola in the news, Dr. Fry also lead a meaningful discussion about this healthcare crisis from both a medical as well as humanitarian viewpoint. While most of the tutors are retired professionals, Dr. Fry said that a recent Yale graduate now tutors as well. When asked why he is so devoted to volunteering at the schools he said, “I’ve always been interested in teaching and I like working with students. I won several awards when I taught at Northwestern Univ. Feinberg School of Medicine. Teaching reflects the strong traditional values of giving back to the community and this is a meaningful and rewarding opportunity. And the Jahn School has proven to be such a truly warm and welcoming place for the Yale volunteers,” he added. Michael Herring, principal at Jahn School, feels that the volunteers do much to enhance the learning environment in the school, which has a student body population of 350. “The tutors work in the classroom with the teachers in small, guided reading groups or provide one-on-one support, especially during math,” he said. “The tutors represent a diverse range of successful careers and experience. They always come well-dressed and lend a positive presence as good role models. Our students have commented to their teachers that they like the small-group discussions the tutors bring to their literature circles.” “The Yale Club tutors bring a fresh perspective and an added resource to our school,” says 7th grade Language Arts and Social Studies teacher Emily Shultz, who also serves as program coordinator. “One tutor heads up the newspaper club and plans to take his students on a field trip to the Chicago Tribune to see how the newspaper is created,” said Shultz. “Many of our teachers are women, so having male role models in the classroom is an additional benefit. Our tutors bring an Ivy League education with knowledge from their content areas and different cultural backgrounds to our classes. What’s more, this is their second year in our school and seeing the tutors return shows the students that these adults really care about them.”

The other five locations are 4568 S. Archer Ave., 5648 S. Archer Ave., 4758 N. Milwaukee Ave., 1105 W. Fulton Market, and 500 W. 18th St. At the same meeting, they denied a proposed dispensary at 1811 W. North Ave. in the Wicker Park neighborhood over concern that the dispensary operator planned to consult with clients who had not yet received authorization to purchase the medical cannabis. The panel postponed action on applications at 2843 N. Halsted St. [at the request of Ald. Tom Tunney (44th) who is still gathering information], 1964 W. Peterson Ave [at the request of Ald. Pat O’Connor (40th)], and 4760 1/2 N. Milwaukee Ave. [at the request of Ald. John Arena (45th)], and three other sites.

Two proposed clinics were postponed at the request of of the applicants located at 3433 N. Pulaski Rd., and 211 E. Grand Ave. In October, the zoning panel approved medical marijuana dispensaries at 1368 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Wicker Park, 955 W. Lake St., and 3541 N. Elston Ave.

Dispensaries will be dispensing a therapeutic pain reliever of last resort, not a substance that users turn to achieve a euphoric high. Some medical grade marijuana is now delivered through vaporizers, oils, and ointments and not only through inhalation. While other states allow the medical marijuana to be issued under a broad coverall as a pain reliever, Illinois instead strictly requires recipients to obtain a doctor’s certification that the patient has one of 40 specific chronic, debilitating diseases that include cancer, glaucoma, HIV, AIDS, Crohn’s disease, Alzheimer’s and in Chicago’s City Hall. According to a letter from the law firm Daley & Georges, Ltd. from attorney Richard A. Toth sent to neighbors within 250 feet of the proposed medical marijuana dispensary, the property is owned by Rayan Brother Enterprises, Inc. and Mansour Rayan of 4553 N. Clark St., the site of Rayan’s Liquors. A copy of the letter was furnished to this newspaper by Ald. Ameya Pawar’s office (47th). According Toth, the property owner and the applicant are distinct entities, and the owners of the property owning entity are not owners of the applicant entity. He said that the applicant’s principals partners are Paul Lee – who will be responsible for the day-to-day operations and front office requirements. Lee brings experience from working at one of Colorado’s marijuana dispensing organizations.

Kristie Zises will serve as the manager and CEO. She is a longtime Chicago resident who Toth says lives less than one mile from the site. Zises has a Master’s Degree in Social Service Administration from the Univ. of Chicago as well as experience with numerous not-for-profit boards. Zachary Zises will serve as the company CFO. Zises will control development decisions. He has prior experience as a chief investment and compliance officer. The principals of the law firm that is representing the applicant are Michael Daley, brother of former Mayor Richard M. Daley, and Mara S. Georges, former city corporation counsel under Daley making it one of the most politically-connected law firms in the city. The Daley & George law firm principals may do well in making a case before the Zoning Board of Appeals [ZBA] as several members have strong ties to the Daley administration. Board member Sheila O’Grady served as chief of staff to Mayor Daley while Jonathan Swain is a former staff assistant to Daley and past mayoral appointee. Board member Sam Toia served on the board that ran Navy Pier and McCormick Place for more than seven years in the Daley regime. The Cannabis Group, LLC, was registered with the Illinois Secretary of State’s office on September 7. The agent of record is listed as Lee Schwarzbach, a certified public accountant with the firm Walter J. Newton, of 30 E. Adams St. The City of Chicago business license data portal shows no current active license for The Cannabis Group, LLC. The public notice posted at 5001-5003 N. Clark St. lists the point of contact for the dispensary applicant as Michael Synowiecki. According to Synowiecki’s LinkedIn page, he is a recently licensed attorney with the firm of Daley & Georges, Ltd. Synowiecki is also listed online as a zoning law attorney with the firm Deutsch, Levy, & Engel. Prior to joining the law firm, Synowiecki worked as a legislative liaison for the Chicago City Council Committee on Finance chaired by Ald. Ed Burke (14th). While there have been no community hearings on the Cannabis Group’s application it is expected to be reviewed by the Zoning Board of Appeals in early 2015. The board reviews land use issues that pertain to the city’s zoning ordinance, including proposed variations from the zoning code, special uses that require review to determine compatibility with adjacent properties, and appeals of decisions made by the zoning administrator. Established in 1923, the ZBA has five members appointed by the Mayor that currently include Jonathan Swain, Catherine Budzinski, Sol Flores, Sheila O’Grady, and Sam Toia.

The Cannabis Group, LLC, is seeking a special use permit in order to establish a medical cannabis clinic at 5001-5003 N. Clark St. in Uptown.

Law clinic educates students, helps vulnerable populations

A young mother from Mexico, hoping to improve her life in Chicago, recently sought help from the Asylum and Immigration Law Clinic [AILC] at DePaul Univ.

She was looking for advice on federal Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals [DACA], which outlines the process for people who came to the U.S. as children without legal status and who want to remain in the country.

Lawyers and students in the Legal Resources Project [LRP] at AILC guided the young mother through the application process and helped organize her documents so she could achieve deferred action and gain legal employment in an attempt to ensure she would have the opportunity to support her family.

“The clinic has successfully advocated in a number of cases including ultimately obtaining citizenship and lawful permanent residence for immigrants who were initially wrongfully denied,” said Sioban Albiol, an attorney, instructor and LRP director. “We think that our resources, and we, DePaul, can make a difference.”

She noted that the young mother from Mexico was able to find a job, go to school and give her children a better life.

“She has been able to come out of the shadows and more fully participate in her own life and her community,” Albiol said.

The AILC provides experiential learning for students in DePaul’s College of Law, who are able to use their classroom lessons to help people like immigrants and other vulnerable populations.

“The common thread for our cases is that they all present a particular challenge, and they are all compelling,” said Albiol. “The young mother from Mexico was able to get her driver’s license, a legal job and told us the process of working with us was life changing.”

Apollo Chorus to perform Handel’s “Messiah” at Symphony Hall, Harris Theater

The Apollo Chorus, Chicago’s oldest musical organization, will perform their signature rendition of the choral masterpiece Handel’s “Messiah” at 3 p.m. Saturday at Orchestra Hall at Symphony Center, 220 S. Michigan Ave., and again 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20, at Harris Theater, 205 E. Randolph Dr.

Handel’s “Messiah” has been performed by The Apollo Chorus nearly every December since 1879. Few works today are as celebrated or beloved as Handel’s Messiah, and this annual performance has become a holiday tradition for many Chicago families.

The Apollo Chorus is Chicago’s oldest musical organization, founded in 1872 in the aftermath of the Great Chicago Fire, performing preeminent choral works at premier venues. Its approximately 120 auditioned members include men and women of all ages, races, and backgrounds brought together by their love of music. They have performed at notable historic events, such as the 1893 World’s Columbian Exposition, the Century of Progress International Exposition, the opening of Medinah Temple, the opening of Orchestra Hall, the opening of Navy Pier, and the “Oprah Surprise Spectacular.”

Tickets to Handel’s “Messiah” range from $18-80. To purchase individual tickets call 312-427-5620 or stop by Orchestra Hall at Symphony Center and the Harris Theater box offices.

Holiday art contest for local high school students

Inside Publications is once again holding our holiday art contest for high school students.

Students should hand-draw on an 8 1/2-x-11-inch vertical white piece of paper, in black ink. Submit a drawing of a North Side landmark with a holiday twist or theme. The student's name, age, telephone number, high school name, and year in school should be on the back, not front, of each drawing. Sorry, but computer artwork is not eligible.

The first place drawing will grace the cover of Inside's holiday issues for the Skyline, News-Star and Inside-Booster community newspapers on December 24, 2014.

The top artist will receive $100. Drawings by runners up will also be published on inside pages of the newspaper and will also receive recognition and prizes.

Mail or bring the students' drawings to: Inside Publications, Holiday Art Contest, 6221 N. Clark St. Chicago, IL 60660 so they are received by noon Wednesday, Dec. 17.

Voting will take place on Dec. 18-19. If you have any questions on how you or some student you know can enter or vote, call 773-465-9700.

There are potentially drastic consequences for those who make a mistake in the deferred action application process, Albiol continued, and legal representation can help ensure family reunification and protect clients from harm.

The clinic helps immigrants and refugees by preparing defenses in deportation cases, filling out legal applications and gathering necessary documentation.

The clinic also provides low-income clients with high-quality legal representation free of charge. Clients receive legal resources and advice as well as information and referrals for professional development and other services through a coordinated network of community based organizations and partners.

The clinic trains law students by giving those who are interested in immigration law the opportunity to work in the clinic during the academic year and legally represent asylum seekers and immigrants.

“The asylum and immigration work is meaningful for our students, offering them the opportunity to improve their writing, research and oral advocacy skills,” Albiol said.

Students have the opportunity to positively impact an immigrant’s life and gain experience working with other professionals and organizations, including the Marjorie Kovler Center for treatment of survivors of torture in the Chicago neighborhood of Rogers Park. It is an opportunity for young lawyers to work with doctors, psychologists and torture survivors, Albiol said.

One recent case concerning torture involved a student activist from Togo who was arrested and detained by his government. He was represented by law students from the clinic and eventually was granted asylum by an immigration judge. Despite suffering from torture and having his studies interrupted, the student was allowed to come to the U.S. and live safely with his family members.

“He now has the opportunity to pursue his dreams of completing the university education that he had started,” Albiol said.

Police Beat

Robber charged in Cornelia attack
Derrick Welch, Jr. of the Pullman neighborhood on the far South Side, has been charged with one count of aggravated robbery in connection with the November 9 street robbery of a 28-year old woman on the 1300 block of Cornelia, according to police reports.

In the 3 a.m. incident, the victim related that Welch implied he had a handgun when

block of Waveland.

In 2005, Welch pleaded guilty to a strong-arm robbery at Harold Washington College in the Loop and was sentenced to Cook County boot camp.

Police warn of CTA pickpockets
Chicago police are warning of a pickpocketing spree targeting people on and near CTA stations in the Lakeview and Uptown areas. Police say lone travelers have been targeted by one or more offenders who surreptitiously take items of value from unsuspecting victims on or near a CTA conveyance.

The crimes have occurred between the hours of 5 p.m. and 3:30 a.m. beginning on October 25 through November 22.

In a community alert, police describe one offender as a male white wearing a light green hooded sweatshirt, 20-25 years of age, 5’9” to 5’10” in height, with wavy brownish/blondish “dirty, scraggly hair” under his hood.

Two more offenders are described as male blacks, with one being in his 20s, 6-foot in height, weighing 150-200 lbs. wearing a black jacket. No further description on the second offender.

A fourth offender is described as a male black, 20-30 years of age, 5’10” in height, 160- 170 lbs., wearing a green in color, three-quarter length coat and a red skull cap.

Officers did arrest one man in connection with a theft incident aboard a CTA train on November 22 but released the suspect when the victim refused to sign a complaint, according to police.

The man is described as a 58-year old black man, 6’ in height, 240 lbs., with a scar inside his left forearm. The man was not charged. The suspect, who is currently on parole, has a long list of imprisonments for theft, marijuana, trafficking, and aggravated battery.

Pickpocketing thefts believed related to this spree have recently been reported at the 900 block of W. Belmont (three incidents), 1100 block of W. Wilson, 900 block of W. Addison, 900 block of W. Fullerton, 600 block of W. Deming, and the 900 block of W. Wellington.

Anyone with information about these incidents is asked to call Area North detectives at 312-744-8263 in reference to alert #P14-N-202(CA) issued November 29.

Residential burglaries reported in area

Last Tuesday, a burglar pried open the bathroom window in a residence on the 3400 block of Janssen and escaped with jewelry, a laptop, digital camera, food and wine, according to Chicago Police.

On Saturday morning, a resident on the 3300 block of Southport found her residence burglarized in which a Easton baseball bag containing sports equipment was taken.

On Sunday, a man found his residence in the 3400 block of Elaine Place had been forcibly entered. Another apartment in the 1000 block of Irving Park Rd. was burglarized and a U.S. Army duffel bag with “government-issued clothing” was taken. Police recovered the victim’s military medals strewn in a nearby alley. Around 7:30 a.m., person(s) unknown gained entry by use of force to a residence in the 3200 block of Seminary.

Shoplifting thieves steal $1,400 in clothes

Last Wednesday afternoon, one black male and two black females entered Uncle Dan’s sporting goods store, 3551 N. Southport, and escaped with clothing valued at $1,400. They are believed to have escaped the scene in a black Kia with no vehicle registration displayed.

Young career criminal on parole arrested again in Boystown “[Expletive] you, I’m from the South Side,” Rojah Kimble-Dillard, 22, allegedly exclaimed as he walked away from police as they dispersed a vice crime call on the 3500 block of Reta.

Kimble-Dillard’s associates tried to restrain him as he took off his jacket announcing, “G, I’m from the South Side. They don’t know who they [expletive] with.”

Kimble-Dillard, who has an address of record on 91st St. on the city’s South Side, was charged with reckless conduct as he reportedly caused vehicles to swerve to avoid him. He was was on parole at the time after being released from confinement on Dec. 20, 2013, after serving time for a 2011 strong-arm robbery at School and Sheffield in which he was sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Illinois Dept. of Corrections. Kimble-Dillard is projected to be discharged from parole on Dec. 20, 2015.

Kimble-Dillard, who at the time stayed at a Wicker Park homeless shelter, was arrested on July 23 for battery after allegedly head-butting a 22-year old Broadway Youth Center client at BYC’s Wellington Ave. facility.

On August 14, Kimble-Dillard was arrested for battery and reckless conduct after allegedly participating in a fight and throwing rocks at passing vehicles at a Night Ministry outreach and feeding van on Halsted near Belmont.

When Kimble-Dillard was stopped by police in August for riding a bicycle on a sidewalk on the 3500 block of Wilton, he was arrested as he carried no identification that would have allowed police to issue him a citation.

Kimble-Dillard has has found some good luck in his budding criminal career. In 2011, charges for criminal trespassing against him were dropped when the victim failed to appear in court. Also in 2011, charges for criminal trespassing to city property were dropped when the CTA failed to send an agency representative to court.

Bystanders arrested after unwise verbal offenses to police

Not content with peacefully visiting the neighborhood, some people go out of their way to antagonize police officers with the predictable result.

“[Expletive] you, Chicago Police. I’ll kick your ass. Touch me and I will knock you out,” Jędrze Pitrzak of Glendale Heights yelled at a tactical unit as he raised his fist into the air in Wrigleyville on November 8. He was charged with aggravated assault to a police officer.

“Who the hell are you? You should go [expletive] with some cab drivers,” Lee Cain IV, announced to 19th District tactical police on November 3 when they asked the 30-year old why he was loitering inside the Belmont CTA station.

After being requested to accompany police to their police vehicle to receive a ticket, Cain informed the officers that “he wasn’t getting any [expletive] ticket.”

After becoming physically combative, Cain

He brought a big sack and he handles packages, but he isn’t Santa.

Package thieves the real doorbuster

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY CRIME IN WRIGLEYVILLE / BOYSTOWN

“Cyber Monday” is here and the city’s prolific package thieves and burglars are already on the job.

At least three residents reported having their homes burglarized Sunday morning—including one whose U.S. Army medals were stolen and dumped in a nearby alley.

On the package theft front, things are definitely kicking into high gear:

On Friday, a UPS driver called cops after a man tried to steal packages from him in the 800 block of Aldine. Just a few hours earlier, a man was seen stealing a package of “baby items” from a home in the 3200 block of Kenmore. A reader reported on Twitter that three courtyard tenants were victimized by a package thief in the 900 block of Cornelia.

Another reader emailed to report having two packages stolen from his building lobby over the course of a few days. “It has been quite some time since we have had any issues with stolen packages,” he wrote, “and this is just a notice to for everyone to keep and eye out during the day.” Good advice.

Sneaky package thieves are being joined by their bolder big brothers: residential burglars and shoplifting crews.

A burglar pried open a bathroom window in the 3400 block of Janssen Tuesday and made off with a bunch of jewelry, a laptop, digital camera, food, and wine.

Online shopping is a convenience for shoppers and thieves. Among the steps police recommend taking to avoid theft: Require a signature upon receipt; Schedule delivery for a day that you know you will be home; Have the package delivered to your work address or to the courier’s pick-up station rather than your home; Never buzz anyone into your building unless you know exactly who they are; Never let anyone follow you into your building unless you know exactly who they are.

Some package thieves operate by following courier trucks around and immediately stealing packages upon drop-off. The longer your packages sit, the more likely they are to be taken. Burglarizing homes is particularly popular during the holidays because criminals know many homes will have valuable, easy-to-locate gifts inside.

Close the curtains and stop showing off your Christmas tree. You’re only advertising the fact that there are goodies inside and, most likely, they’re right there by that lighthouse-sized tree. Plus, if you can afford to spend that much money on a tree, you almost certainly blow money on other expensive toys.

Always lock your doors and windows—even if you’re on the second floor. If you live in a single-family home or small flat, ensure that the front and back areas are shoveled after snow falls. The lack of footprints in snow tells burglars that the home is probably not occupied.

was eventually subdued after police utilized a Taser after which Cain said he “didn’t think you were the police.” Cain was charged with three counts of resisting/obstructing police and trespassing.

On November 11 Calvin T. Willis experienced an unexpected delay before his planned train trip to the South Side. Police say Willis, a 23-year old bank finance officer, launched into a verbal assault on a police officer patrolling the Belmont CTA station exclaiming, “You’re just a [expletive]. [Expletive] you. I could kick your ass, [expletive].”

Willis was arrested after entering the Belmont station and fleeing to the platform but before boarding a Southbound train and was charged with aggravated assault to police officers.

Police make no DUI arrests in Rogers Park saturation

The Chicago Police conducted a DUI Strike Force Patrol in the Rogers Park Saturday night and Sunday morning.

While over 40 citations were written, none were for Driving Under the Influence. The citations included Unsafe Vehicle Violations - 22, Safety Belt Violations - five, and Drivers License Violations - five,

The purpose of this program is to saturate a pre-designated area with roving police officers that continually monitor vehicular traffic for signs of impaired driving. Patrols also place emphasis on speed, alcohol-related and safety belt violations. Police vehicles equipped for speed detection are deployed to apprehend speeding violators.

Biker saved from lake

A biker was swept into Lake Michigan Monday morning along the lakefront bike path north of Oak St. Beach. The path was temporarily shut down early Monday morning for salting as high waves caused the path to freeze over.

Chicago police officers at the scene reported that several bicyclists slid off the path because of the ice and that one had to be pulled from the lake.
