NEWS OF ROGERS PARK, EDGEWATER, UPTOWN & ANDERSONVILLE

Smart Lighting Project test underway, demonstrations in Rogers Park, West Ridge

The City is now conducting a public demonstration of next-generation streetlights in seven neighborhoods, including one in Rogers Park and one in West Ridge, as part of Chicago's Smart Lighting Project. The controversial 'smart lights' will upgrade streetlights across the city while allowing government agencies to track traffic, security risks, citizen movements and perhaps even intercept cell and smart phone traffic.

Residents are now being asked to provide feedback on the new lighting, which the city claims represents the latest advances in lighting technology, through the end of the year.

The City plans to upgrade roughly 348,500 street, alley, and park lights in total. Much of the project will be funded by Dept. of Homeland Security grants.

City officials say that the Smart Lighting Project is designed to enhance public safety and quality of life for all Chicagoans by providing better, more reliable outdoor lighting along with speeding up responsiveness to streetlight service requests. With the majority of Chicago's sodium lights installed in 1970s and many of the poles and electrical wiring dating back to the 1950s, City Hall hopes the program will benefit public safety with fewer interruptions in service.

The Smart Lighting Project is being led by the Chicago Infrastructure Trust (CIT) in close coordination with the Chicago Dept. of Transportation. When completed it will be one of the largest LED conversion projects in the country and will create the nation's largest lighting control network.

The City hopes that the modernization initiative will take advantage of advances in lighting technologies to deliver higher quality, more reliable, outdoor lighting by replacing approximately 270,000 outdated high pressure sodium (HPS) lamps with modern, energy-efficient LED lights.

They also plan to install a wireless lighting management system that provides real time outage updates, greatly reducing outage response times. The City hasn't said if the new lights will also include a sophisticated array of built-in sensors and cameras connected over a wireless network, that could monitor security and

Local liberals meet to lick their wounds after the election

BY PATRICK BUTLER AND JORDAN GAINES

It's been more than a month since the surprise election of Donald Trump as our president-elect, but many of the more than 400 people who packed two large meeting rooms at the Center on Halsted, 3565 N. Halsted, still appeared dazed and confused by their defeat.

Three North Side state representatives - Sara Feigenholtz (12th), Ann Williams (11th) and Kelly Cassidy (14th) - along with spokesmen from the ACLU, Equality Illinois, and the Illinois Coalition for Immigrant and Refugee Rights pondered everything from whether to try to make Illinois a "sanctuary state" to where to get instructions in 1960s-style civil disobedience.

"We all saw the electoral map on election night and Illinois was the one blue spot in a sea of red in the Midwest, with that comes an immense responsibility," said Rianne Hawkins, project manager for Planned Parenthood Illinois.

"Right now, we're going through what a lot of older people have seen before," said Rep. Feigenholtz, vowing never to take another election for granted ever again. "There was a lot of energy expended (trying to get Democratic candidate Hillary Clinton elected), but clearly it wasn't enough," she said, ignoring that the candidate herself may have been one of the major reasons why the effort failed.

So now's the time to make sure it doesn't happen again, she continued, reminding her listeners "we have to do more than just talk to our neighbors in our little bubble, because we all do live in a bubble. The Chicago lakefront is one of the most progressive areas in the country."

And like liberals and progressives all over the nation this year, they now realize that there is a whole other part of America out there that they've ignored, insulted and marginalized for years, people they forgot existed.

"Progressives need to start spreading the word right now to other communities, before the next election, in every way possible," Rep. Feigenholtz said, adding "little things make big things happen."

"We'll be continuing this conversation," she promised, adding that Democratic lawmakers in particular have a job to do

Expansion of IB programming at Amundsen

New data suggests IB-enrolled students excelling

The Chicago Public Schools (CPS) announced last week that new International Baccalaureate [IB] programs will be added to Amundsen High School, 5110 N. Damen Ave. The addition of IB career-related programs at Amundsen will allow the school to accept more students into the proven IB pathway and will help put CPS on pace to expand IB programming by 370% by 2018.

While student enrollment in IB programs system-wide has quadrupled over the past five years, the city and CPS have a goal of having 50% of graduating seniors earning college and career credit by 2019.

This expansion [along with three new IB programs on the South Side] will grow the nation's largest IB network to serve an additional 100 students in 2018 and a total of 200 students by 2019. The news of expanded IB coincides with the release of new data revealing growth in graduation, college enrollment and college persistence rates since the major IB transition began in 2011.

"There is no question that Chicago's students are doing better academically today, and with more students heading to college than ever, it is our responsibility to ensure they are prepared for the next steps of their education," said Mayor Rahm Emanuel. "That's why we laid out a plan to ensure half of all CPS students are earning at least one college credit while in high school by 2019."

The number of students taking IB exams has nearly doubled system-wide, growing from 740 to 1405 students.

"Through the rapid and successful expansion of IB programmes throughout the District, we have been able to offer students at neighborhood high schools with rigorous college-preparatory curriculum that prepares them for a successful future," said CPS CEO Forrest Claypool.

"Through this expansion, we will bring IB to an additional four schools, better preparing students for the rigors of college and addressing need and demand for IB exposure throughout the city."

Last year, 96.2% of seniors enrolled in IB programs or

When you wish upon a star

The day the lives of everyday people changed for the better

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Over time Chicago has been thick with heroes and episodes of heroism. Heroic endurance is a very natural urban component of life here. Our city flag attempts to highlight some of the most significant episodes of such heroism by the inclusion of four commemorative red stars on it.

You know them. The Fort Dearborn massacre in 1812. The Great Chicago Fire of 1871. The World's Columbian Exhibition of 1893. The Century of Progress, as the World's Fair of 1933 was known.

And when the snow was drifting above the disaster line back in 1979 for Mayor Michael Bilandic, and whole neighborhoods seemed to be drifting off in arctic white outs, there was talk of adding another star to the flag if Chicago survived that horrific chain of weather events. Ultimately Jane Byrne was thunderously elected to replace the unlucky mayor. But no star was ever forth coming.

From time to time, certain events trigger the imagination of Chicago citizens seemingly made for moments that call for stars. I am, of course, thinking of all those who think the Cubs deserve one for 2016. I have even heard that our fellow Chicago citizen Barack Obama deserves one for the past eight years.

But none really seemed to fit what I thought should be the rationale behind adding a fifth star. Until last week, that is. I think a fifth star must be added if the trigger for it is uniquely Chicago in nature. That it has a lasting and life affecting influence on Chicago. It should have the power to move the nation to some fresh understanding of itself. And of course, the lives of everyday people should be changed for the better.

When I heard some of the conversation that was emerging from the Chicago City Council, I was literally stopped in my tracks. It was proposed a fifth star be added for the creation of the Special Olympics back in 1968. I could not agree more.

I think it is at this juncture that I must admit a small connection to the people involved in this proposal. I worked, as many of you know, for Ald. Edward M. Burke, Chairman of the Chicago City Council Committee on Finance for almost 20 years. His wife, Illinois Supreme Court Justice Anne M. Burke, was the organizer of those first Special Olympic Games. This column is not about adding to the long line of Anne Burke admirers. I think such a star would be as much about the city as it would be about her.

When Anne was finishing her first year of college at George Williams in Chicago, it moved to the far Western suburbs. With no car available to her, she dropped out and was hired by the Chicago Park District. Children had always been important to her and she was a skilled gymnast. She was born to work with children. Her first assignment was West

Pullman Park on 111th Street. It was a program for children with disabilities and she was made for the job. At the time there was not much going on anywhere for children with special needs. In fact, most children were sequestered in programs meant to keep them from much public exposure. But it was a world that was beginning to crack.

Children in this Chicago Park District Program were thriving in a way that others elsewhere were not. Nowhere did they thrive as much as when they were engaged in sports competitions with other students like themselves.

After much experience and progress, she and her local team asked Park President John T. McFetridge about the concept of a city-wide competition from all the parks around the city with similar programs. McFetridge and his park executive staff would look into it.

There was nothing to compare such a competition. There was, of course, some initial resistance. Critics said that the children would appear to be being used. Some said the children did not need to be put on display. But Anne McGlone knew better. Mayor Richard J. Daley had himself heard of their idea and he thought it sound. His support was critical. And an element that makes the concept star-worthy.

Avery Brundage, a local business executive and member of the International Olympic Committee threw a shoe. He let McGlone know that in no uncertain terms, if she so much as used the word 'olympic' in her title, he would sue.

Brundage was also the owner of the LaSalle Hotel. He apparently received a call from Mayor Daley raising the issue of the suit. The savvy Mayor also suggested to Brundage that very shortly a large contingent of inspectors would commence a thorough examination of the hotel property. Brundage had a last minute change of heart. He told the mayor he was only too happy to help the cause of Special Olympics and Anne McGlone in any way they needed. Daley was a master of last minute arm-twisting.

It was Daley who also suggested an invitation for Eunice Kennedy to come to Chicago was in order. She needed to see what it was Anne was creating. Her skill was something he felt very strongly would appeal to the Kennedys.

It was less than six weeks since the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy. There were thousands of broken-hearted Kennedy volunteers who were grieving, and lost, without their energized race for the White House. Many would join the ranks of Special Olympic Volunteers and help guide the first games to its remarkable success.

The Games opened on July 20, 1968. Anne McGlone Burke had guided the competition to its birth. There were thousands of adults who found meaning and purpose in the Games. Eunice Kennedy Shriver was excited and sent Anne Burke to Sears to get her a $10 bathing suit so she could dive in the pool and be there with the athletes.

The Games changed life for everyone, athletes and volunteers alike, including the elected officials who championed the Games. It certainly was a high mark for the great Mayor Richard J. Daley. It was also a high moment for the city, recognizing the potential of children everywhere, to find fresh awareness of their ability to compete. In the process, everyone was a winner. The face of mental health in America would never be the same.

Each Special Olympic athlete takes an oath before they compete. "Let me win. But if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt."

The Games moved outside the U.S. for the first time in 2003 to Dublin, Ireland. It was a magnificent celebration of how they have changed the way people see those with disabilities. There were 50,000 in Croak Park Stadium. And later, in 2008, the Games were held in Beijing. You could not sit in the stands without realizing that many of the young athletes who were competing in the Games would have not been permitted to live at one time in Chinese history. The competition of athletes was indeed a miraculous turn of events.

The Chicago dynamic of the Special Olympics is dramatic and real. What a remarkable celebration of our character to note that the Games began here on that hot, summer day, July 20, 1968. Those lessons from Soldier Field are lessons for us all now. Thank God for Anne McGlone Burke, nothing has ever been the same since.

All that glitters is gold

House of Kahn Estate Jewelers has new home, comes full circle

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

We all know the importance of the family jewels... jewelry that has been handed down from generation to generation. I cherish mine, I have a few of my maternal grandmother's baubles, and I already passed down my paternal grandmother's diamond and platinum wedding ring to my oldest daughter on her 30th birthday.

Many people that have inherited jewels may not be knowledgeable about them and they choose to melt items that are more valuable than their weight in gold, says Tobina Kahn, president of the House of Kahn Estate Jewelers, which has a store here and also in Palm Beach, Florida.

"Many people come in with authentic hallmarks, with advice from other jewelers to melt it," said Kahn, who lives on the Gold Coast when in town. "I reeducate these people to the true value of their family inheritance. Most customers are unsure about these variations and we personally assist them in the explanation of their pieces and what the market currently bears for such a jewel and how high demand may be.

"It is our job to find the proper valuation on these jewels and bring the most accurate price to these family heirlooms," said Kahn. "There are no charges for any appointments... these are courtesies of House of Kahn Estate Jewelers."

It was the 1950s when Kahn's parents first opened shop in Chicago at 900 N. Michigan Ave. After later relocating to Walton St. on the Gold Coast for many years, the family jewels have now come full circle as the Kahns recently moved back to that Mag Mile location once again.

Their store offers a large variety of gorgeous necklaces, bracelets, earrings, and rings, including engagement rings. And for the guy who wants to impress his honey for life, there's a fancy oval yellow diamond ring with a 3.95 carat oval light yellow diamond plus 2.95 carats of round pink sapphires and .85 carats of intense yellow diamonds, all set in 18 karat yellow rose gold, "truly a dazzling jewel for the holiday season," said Kahn.

All I know is, I'd love to have peek inside Kahn's jewelry box! I wasn't able to get that, however, I did get a glimpse inside her life as president of a long-standing Chicago business.

Q. Tell me a little bit about your family history with House of Kahn. Who started it, where, when, and why jewels?

A. House of Kahn Estate Jewelers was established in the 1950s by my parents, Edward and Adele Kahn. My father, who is a Holocaust survivor, established House of Kahn Estate Jewelers because he acquired knowledge of the jewelry business from his parents, dating back to his great grandparents in Europe. As a Holocaust survivor, he understood then that jewels were a portable and salvageable commodity, transportable out of the country. He emigrated to the United States and established the business in Chicago.

Q. What sort of jewelry and artifacts do you sell?

A. [We] buy and sell estate jewels, fine artwork, and collectibles. Many people may not be in a position to sell their jewels at an auction house. Auction houses only sell a handful of times a year, and, even if an item does sell, it takes 60 to 90 days to receive payment. Many people are not in a position to wait that long. House of Kahn Estate Jewelers, however, will pay at the conclusion of the transaction.

Q. What are some of the most unique pieces you've ever acquired?

A. We have had various important estates through our doors. Notably, we have had a very rare Blue Diamond and a large collection of jeweled tiaras. Additionally, we have had celebrity estate jewelry from Raymond Burr, Howard Hughes, Joan Crawford, Ginger Rogers, Tobina Kahn, president of the House of Kahn Estate Jewelers, which recently moved back into the building where it all started for the jewelers more than a half-century ago at 900 N. Michigan Ave.

and memorabilia from Ronald Reagan, just to name a few.

Q. How do you find your items?

A. As third generation jewelers, people appreciate the individual time and treatment that is given with every client. Many people do not know exactly what they have in their collection but we offer our honest opinion on every single item. Entire collections are often brought to us and, as a certified gemologist, I am able to separate everything that is ideal for selling or kept for sentimental value. Over the years, I've seen hundreds of thousands of different jewels and I am able to provide expertise unlike anyone else in Chicago and Palm Beach. Many clients refer us to their contacts, resulting in a large referral base.

Q. Are there affordable pieces for everyone at your store or are you more high-end?

A. We have a wide selection, including estate vintage jewelry and collectibles starting at $50. The genuine jewels range from $500 and up to over $1 million. In the estate jewelry business, there is something for everyone. My motto is: When purchasing estate jewels, give a gift from the past that will have a future.

Nine arrests, one broken ankle in Trump protests after election

BY STEVE DAHLMAN
Loop North News

It arguably could have been worse. One police officer injured a finger and a protester only broke an ankle after jumping from an overpass. Despite crowds downtown estimated by Chicago police at 2,000 in the days following the General Election, police reports from that week describe only nine arrests and minor injuries as a result of protests over the election of Donald Trump as President-elect.

The first arrest was outside Trump International Hotel & Tower happened at 1:15 a.m. Nov. 9, the day after the election. The second arrest near Trump Tower was not until 3 p.m.

Over the next few days, and as late as Nov. 15, demonstrators flooded the streets of River North, at times pushing police officers, knocking over barricades, and engaging in civil disobedience in both the 18th and 1st police districts.

On Nov. 10, there were just two arrests related to the protests, one for reckless conduct in the 400 block of N. State St., one block west of Trump Tower, and an arrest for battery one block east of Trump Tower on Lower Michigan Ave. On Nov. 11 there were two reports of criminal damage and one arrest for criminal trespass.

The last public demonstration that resulted in a police report was at 10 a.m. on Nov. 25, in the 800 block of N. Michigan Ave.

Among the first arrests was one man from outside of Boston, MA, and a man from Norway, Maine.

Samuel Flavin, 21, of Massachusetts, and Miles Laidlaw, 22, of Maine, were arrested outside Trump Tower in the early morning of Nov. 9, along with a 20-year-old woman from Illinois who police did not identify. Flavin, wearing a black shirt over his face, was caught on security video spray painting, in white paint, "FK TRUMP," on a wall and window at Trump Tower at about 1:15 a.m. When security personnel went outside to confront him and the two others, Flavin ran west across Wabash Ave. and jumped from an overpass onto Kinzie St. below. He broke an ankle and injured both.

Police had set up a line to control what they described as "a massive flowing crowd."

He was taken by ambulance to Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

Laidlaw and the unidentified woman were detained until police arrived, then charged with criminal trespass. Flavin was charged with criminal trespass and criminal damage to property. All three were released on their own recognizance pending court dates.

On the Wabash Ave. Bridge, south of Trump Tower at 9:25 p.m. on Nov. 9, one protestor broke through a metal barricade. The 21-year-old Illinois man, whose name was not released, tried to grab the reins of a mounted police officer. Robert Galassi took action, says a report, and injured a finger. He was taken to Northwestern Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Police had set up a line to control what they described as "a massive flowing crowd." A 21-year-old man in the crowd started screaming at police lieutenant Godfrey Cronin. The man incited the crowd to push forward, says a police report, and when they broke through the police line, a woman fell to the ground and was trampled, though she was apparently able to leave the area before police could find her. As he was arresting the 21-year-old, someone grabbed Lieutenant Cronin's hat and ran off with it.

courses graduated high school, compared to district average and all-time high rate of 73.5%. And IB students have rates of college enrollment that far exceed district averages (81% compared to district average of 57%).

With college debt growing across the country, the CPS has made it a priority to provide students opportunities to earn college credit for free while still in high school. In addition to helping with the financial burden that college can pose for families, earning college-level experience can help students get the confidence they need to succeed once they arrive at college.

Chicago is home to the largest network of IB schools in the nation, with 43 schools (22 high schools and 21 elementary schools) serving 15,000 students enrolled in IB coursework citywide.

GLITTERS from p. 3

This was the group's second large-scale volunteer project in as many years at this facility. These folks cleaned, patched and painted walls, organized donated items, installed shelving, and made upgrades to the shelter's common area.

The Sylvia Family Shelter supports families of all types, offering shelter and services to more than 130 single-parent, two-parent and inter-generational families. It's also one of the few homeless shelters in town that allows dads to remain with their children.

"The families were very thankful for the work, especially the kids, who helped us with some of the prep work the day before the project," said Max Gouttebroze, senior director of marketing and communications for Rebuilding Together. "They went to school in the morning and came home to fresh paint and bright colors on the wall, so they were thrilled."

Besides the work accomplished, a young fifth grader named Jakhil Jackson distributed Blessing Bags to residents after the project. The bags contained basic toiletry and food items, including toothbrushes, hand sanitizers, granola bars, baby wipes and bottled water, among other things.

Jakhil's delivery of 200 marked the 1,600th Blessing Bag he's delivered within the last couple of months. Thanks to him, and all the volunteers, for making the holidays brighter for the Sylvia Family Shelter.

Trumped: House hunters get lump of coal in Christmas stockings

The Home Front

By Don DeBat

Home buyers and owners seeking to refinance will find a lump of coal in their Christmas stockings as mortgage rates have now skyrocketed to a new high for 2016. Coal image courtesy climate.org

4.13% for benchmark 30-year fixed rate home loans—the largest interest rate for that loan in 2016. According to Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey, the 30-year loan jumped to 4.13% on Dec. 8 from an average of 4.08% a week earlier. It was the sixth week in a row that rates moved higher. A year ago, 30-year loans averaged 3.95%.

The 4.13% rate hike boosts the typical monthly payment on a $200,000 mortgage about $6 a month. Fifteen-year fixed rate loans averaged 3.36%, up from 3.34% a week earlier. A year ago at this time, the 15-year fixed-rate loans averaged 3.19%.

Freddie Mac's latest mortgage-rate survey posted an average of between now and Donald Trump's inauguration Day.

The veteran lawmaker said that while the public may not realize it yet, the pressure's on right now to finally get a state budget passed so they're not as dependent on federal largesse once Trump takes over.

And speaking of failure, sadly it looks again like Springfield will not get its job done.

While voters may be tempted to look nationally, ACLU spokesman Khadine Bennet said there are plenty of local issues that need attention: "It's really important to not lose sight of the fact that we don't have a budget in our state. Get activated and motivated and organized, but also don't forget about the issues we have here."

"Everybody is being pushed very hard to get to yes," she said. "The leadership has been having serious meetings every day."

Rep. Feigenholtz said that while she's not sure just how serious Trump himself was about some of his more controversial campaign promises, like deporting millions of illegal aliens or pulling out of the Paris Global Warming agreement, Trump will be under pressure from his more conservative followers to start delivering on those promises.

"He's going to lose a lot of popularity if he doesn't build that wall. He'll have to try and accomplish some of those things," she said.

Which means liberals and progressives who make up a large part of Chicago are going to have to stop lamenting their losses and get to work on the next election right now, she said.

And never take another election for granted, she added.

Fifteen-year fixed rate loans averaged 3.36%, up from 3.34% a week earlier. A year ago at this time, the 15-year fixed-rate loans averaged 3.19%.

"The 10-year Treasury yield dipped this week following the release of the Job Openings and Labor Turnover Survey," said Sean Beckett, chief economist, Freddie Mac. The average 30-year mortgage rate started the month 18 basis points higher than this time last year, he said.

Long-term home-loan rates are not set by the Fed. They are tied to the yield on 10-year U.S. Treasury bonds. Ten-year Treasury bond yields have risen sharply to 2.35% from 1.6% in the third quarter of 2016, pushing loan rates higher.

"As rates continue to climb and the year comes to a close, the Dec. 13-14 Fed meeting will be the talk of the town with the markets 94% certain of a quarter of one percent rate hike," Beckett said.

Higher interest rates have caused refinancing activity to plummet 28% in November. However, home loan applications for home buyers are still marching along at a strong pace because many "fence sitters" are purchasing now to avoid higher rates later.

If you are planning to buy a home or condo before higher rates price you out of the market, there are a few facts you should know:

- History is on your side. On the positive side, home-loan rates still are historically low. The annual average rate from 1972 through 2011 was higher than current rates. In 1999, benchmark 30-year mortgage rates were 8.15%.

- Lower down payments available. New programs at Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae allow the secondary mortgage market gurus to purchase loans from lenders with lower three-percent to five-percent down payments, opening the homeownership door to more young, first-time buyers.

- More lenient credit scores. The average FICO score for home buyers obtaining mortgages backed by Freddie Mac currently is 750, a relatively high score. However, if a borrower is approved for a Federal Housing Administration-insured (FHA) loan, the score averages only 700.

Police Beat....

Missing for three months, Uptown man is found alive

A 61-year-old man, who had been missing from an Uptown care center for nearly three months, was found unconscious at an Austin neighborhood bus stop on Dec. 5, according to Chicago police.

Investigators issued an appeal for the public's help in identifying the man and several Uptown residents called to suggest that he is Jesus Ortiz, who had been reported missing from the 4500 block of N. Sheridan Rd. on Sept. 14.

Ortiz suffers from a mental condition that prevents him from communicating, according to an alert issued by police at the time of his disappearance.

Police said Ortiz regained consciousness at the hospital but his condition hampered their abilities to identify him.

Store clerk shakedown earns six month prison term for ex-Cop

A former Chicago Police Dept. sergeant has been sentenced to six months in federal prison for taking cash payments from a liquor store clerk in exchange for government information.

Prosecutors said Ray M. Ramirez admitted in a plea agreement that he obtained information from law enforcement databases and passed it to the store clerk in exchange for cash payments of $150 to $200.

The information included a criminal background check on a prospective store employee, a vehicle registration check, and a review of police incidents occurring in and around the store.

Ramirez, 53, pleaded guilty last year to one misdemeanor count of exceeding his authorized use of a police department computer. He was assigned to Chicago's 12th Police District, which serves the city's Near West Side.

Man charged in North Side robbery

Javier Villalobos-Garcia, 19, of the 1400 block of W. Elmdale Ave., was charged with four Felony Counts of Robbery – Armed with a Firearm on Dec. 8.

Javier Villalobos-Garcia

Villalobos-Garcia was arrested by 20th District Officers on the 1400 block of W. Elmdale Ave. 6:05 a.m. on Dec. 7 after being identified as the offender in an armed robbery. On Nov. 27, at approximately 6:05 p.m., a 21 year-old male was approached by Villalobos-Garcia on the 5800 block of N. Ridge Ave. where Villalobos-Garcia pointed a handgun at the male and demanded the male's money. The victim complied and Villalobos-Garcia fled.

Cabbie tazed and robbed

A taxi cab driver was electrocuted with a tazer and robbed, Nov. 23 in Rogers Park.

The 52-year-old driver had picked up three men around 1:50 p.m. and drove them to an address in the 7300 block of N. Damen Ave. When he stopped the vehicle, one of the passengers charged up an electric tazer and shocked him while demanding cash, according to police.

The driver said he gave the men $100 cash along with his Samsung Galaxy cellphone, worth approximately $600, police said.

The men fled the cab and escaped on foot. Police toured the area but did not make any arrests.

Woman robbed by fake handymen

Two men posing as tuck pointers and concrete specialists robbed an elderly West Ridge woman in her home Nov. 12, police said. The men rifled through multiple bedroom closets and were able to steal a gold bracelet from her kitchen table before fleeing the house.

The encounter began when the woman, 82-years-old, asked a man who had knocked on her backdoor, posing as a handyman, to rake the leaves in her yard. The man replied that he was a concrete specialist and would like to fix the poured concrete around her back entrance, according to police.

The woman agreed, offering him the $250 cash she had in the house with a promise to pay the remaining $150 on another day. The man said it was fine and asked her to fill a pail with cold water.

After handing over the cash, the woman went to her basement and filled a bucket with water and brought it back to the man in her kitchen. He asked her to dump the bucket and get cleaner water, following her back through the house and going to the basement with her. On the way through the house he asked if she wanted him to fix the glaze on her front glass door, an offer she refused, police said.

When they returned to the main floor a second man was standing outside the rear entrance, according to the woman. The first man waved to the second man and told the woman that he was going to get the concrete materials and come back.

Both men then left her house and did not return. The woman said that as she walked back through the house she saw multiple closet doors swung open and found the contents of several rooms had been rifled through, according to the report. A gold bracelet worth $500 was gone from the kitchen table.

Police did not make any arrests.

Ex-lover threatens a massacre, police arrest him

Police arrested a woman's ex-lover at her apartment Nov. 25 after he arrived uninvited and threatened to kill not only the woman, but her husband and mother, because she was no longer in love with him.

Police said the 33-year-old man, who is a resident of Mexico, had prior arrests for domestic violence. He was charged with aggravated assault with a weapon after the latest incident in which police found a paring knife in a pant's pocket.

The woman told officers the former boyfriend had arrived about 8:15 p.m. at her apartment in the 1900 block of W. Farwell Ave. and threatened to kill her. He was holding a pairing knife and said that because she 'no longer loved him, he would kill everyone,' including her mother and husband, according to the report.

The woman called 911 and managed to avoid the man, who did not attempt to stab her, police said. The arresting officers noted that the man appeared to be intoxicated as officers talked him down.

Woman robbed at gunpoint

A gunman stalked a woman from one of the city's parking meters to a doorway in the 1600 block of W. Farwell Ave. in Rogers Park before robbing her at gunpoint.

The 27-year-old victim lost a $200 Coach purse and $100 cash in the robbery but nothing else of value, police said. She was not hurt during the robbery.

The victim said she noticed the man, who would later rob her, was watching as she fed her credit card into a city parking meter on Clark St. near the intersection with Farwell Ave. at about 8:10 p.m. The man watched as she placed the receipt in her vehicle and then followed her on foot as she walked to a nearby building.

Near the doorway he pulled a black semi-automatic handgun from his waistband and pointed it at the woman, demanding her property. She handed him her purse, which he grabbed before running east on Farwell toward Ashland Blvd., police said.

Officers responding to the call toured the area but did not make any arrests.

CPD says good-bye to K9 Officer "Bob"

Chicago police officers stood at attention outside of Niles Animal Hospital as one of their own made a final vet visit.

Retired CPD police K-9 officer "Bob," suffering from a brain tumor, passed the saluting cops shortly before being put to sleep on the afternoon of Dec. 7

A seven-year-old Labrador girl with a boy's name, Bob specialized in explosives detection at the police department after an earlier career with the Dept. of

CPD officer Michael Walter and K-9 officer "Bob."

Homeland Security.

"She was diagnosed over a year ago," according to her handler, CPD officer Michael Walter.

"What she could do with her nose, how easily she could find stuff and just simply training with her was an extremely rewarding experience," Walter said.

Walters knew something wasn't right when Bob began having trouble finding objects during training exercises.

"It's time for her to pass over that rainbow bridge and move on," Walters said.

Man wounded in Rogers Park shooting

A 32-year-old man was hospitalized with a serious gunshot wound injury Nov. 30 after a shooting on Washtenaw Ave. in West Ridge. Police officers recovered the gun used in the shooting in some bushes outside of St. Francis Hospital in Evanston.

The victim had been with two friends, ages 34 and 44, when he got out of a vehicle around 11:20 p.m. to speak to an acquaintance in the 7000 block of Washtenaw Ave.

At some point the conversation turned into an argument and the second man, who the victim did not know by name, pulled out a handgun. The victim had attempted to grab the gun from the man when he began firing, striking the victim in the abdomen, pelvis, and thigh, according to police.

One of the man's friends got out of the vehicle and tried to stop the shooter, but he was grabbed by the throat and thrown to the ground, police said. The gunman then threw down the handgun and ran, escaping on foot headed east on Greenleaf Ave.

The victim told his friend to pick up the gun and bring it with them, which he did, carrying the weapon all the way to St. Francis Hospital, where he became spooked and tossed it into the bushes, police said. Officers recovered the handgun, its make and caliber were not given, where the man told them it would be.

Police said a vehicle on the street was hit multiple times as well, leaving bullet holes in the passenger side rear door and a back panel, according to the report. No arrests were made.

Two women shot during botched armed robbery

Two people suffered minor gunshot wounds Nov. 28 when an unidentified gunman stepped out of the bushes and fired at them after botching a robbery attempt in the 6000 block of N. Maplewood Ave. in West Ridge.

The victims, 18 and 23-year-old women, were taken about 12:40 a.m. to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston and were expected to survive separate injuries to the foot and leg.

According to police, a man wearing a ski mask had emerged from the bushes outside the house of one of the victim's neighbors and announced a robbery. The women had started screaming and ran in the opposite direction when the man opened fire, hitting one woman in the foot and grazing the second woman's leg, police said.

The shooter fled north on Maplewood

Ave. and escaped. Police were not able to pinpoint a crime scene and did not make any arrests that night, according to the report.

Man avoids being stabbed by homeless man in his own building

According to police, a homeless man with a knife had an altercation with a resident in the lobby of the man's building in the 1300 block of W. Estes Ave. the afternoon of Nov. 27.

The victim, 58, told police his daughter had come to visit when she told him she had to avoid a man acting erratically in the lobby of his building. The father had gone to the lobby where the man yelled to him that, "Somebody better get me my money," before attacking him with a knife.

The victim told police he had swung a chair at the man and used it to manage the distance and avoid being stabbed. When he began yelling, the homeless man had run out the door and headed east on Estes before turning north onto Glenwood Ave., police said.

The victim said the man had been carrying bags and appeared to be homeless, though he had not recognized him from the neighborhood.

Car hijacked in West Ridge

Police say a man had his vehicle hijacked at gunpoint on an otherwise quiet corner in W. Ridge near Devon Ave.

The 21-year-old told police he was parked at about 3:42 a.m. on Talman Ave. between Rosemont and Devon avenues when a man approached his driver's side window carrying a semi-automatic handgun.

"Get the f— outta the car," the man said, pointing the gun at the victim.

The victim said he quickly got out of his vehicle and ran to his apartment several blocks away. The gunman peeled out and headed north on Talman toward Devon Ave., police said.

Officers toured the area but did not make any arrests. The victim was not hurt during the hijacking.

Law shields homeowners from suits over snow removal

The Illinois Supreme Court has put the freeze on certain slip-and-fall law suits, by affirming an appellate ruling that the Illinois Snow and Ice Removal Act immunizes homeowners against suits arising from weather-caused slippery sidewalks, but not from ice buildup caused by negligent drainage.

The Dec. 1 opinion was penned by Justice Mary Jane Theis. Chief Justice Lloyd Karmeier concurred, as did Justices Charles Freeman, Robert Thomas, Rita Garman, Thomas Kilbride and Anne Burke.

Pamela Murphy-Hylton filed a personal injury suit in June 2011 in Cook County Circuit Court against Klein Creek Condominium Assoc. and Lieberman Management Services, which managed the condominium property.

The supreme court noted defendants tried to stretch the Snow and Ice Removal Act to go beyond snow shoveling to downspout run-off, when the purpose of the Act is to encourage residential property owners to clear "natural accumulations" of snow and ice from their walkways so as to promote safety – while maintaining downspout run-off is an action they have no duty to perform.

Woman hit by car, injured on Western Ave.

A Roscoe Village woman was critically injured after being struck by a car at 10:18 a.m. Sunday on Western Ave.

Police say that a 25-year-old man was driving a 2010 Hyundai Elantra southbound in the 3400 block of N. Western Ave. when he skidded into the intersection during a red light. Upon trying to back up the man struck the 62-year-old woman who was trying to cross eastbound on Western behind his vehicle.

STAR from p. 2

appearing Associate Justice Ruth Bader Ginsberg of the U.S. Supreme Court.

YOU'RE STANDING ON MY COAT: Is the Cook County State's Attorney's office still deciding whether to further investigate accusations against a wealthy family of Chicago business who had been awaiting the DNA test results that they sired a child years ago who now deserves a fair share of family moolah. It seems some well-placed thugs invaded a suburban Cook County lab and attempted to make off with a large collection of DNA when the evidence was dropped during the get-away. Penalties should be handed out, some believe. Though the evidence has been compromised, they can always start over or ask for over-time. Until this debacle, it had been a well-kept secret.

YOU'RE STANDING ON MY LIP: Is it true that loads of anger and bitterness broke out in Tony Lake Forest during Thanksgiving dinner revolving around who has had their inheritance reduced by the family firm? Not much harmony reigned and sometime, between the turkey and the pumpkin pie with family whiskey sauce, a slapping fight ensued between two females. It got rough and ugly. One long-time family retainer was forced to pull two cousins apart and was slapped in the kisser for all his trouble. Hard to imagine what everyone's great-great grandpa would say of the fisticuffs. He might cut everyone's share of the family pie. One thing is for sure, he wouldn't want these brats back at the family table when they act more mafia than Brahmin. Someone get me a double pie.

YOU'RE STANDING IN MY LIGHT: What Art Institute employee is noted for not wearing underwear and thrives on scandalizing many co-workers. But no one, so far, is willing to go to the gods of art and report this mischief-making lout. Seems no one wants the puppetry to cease, especially the boss who thinks it's Bohemian and loosh. Also, the commando fan, who bartends on the side, is a favorite of the boss's entertaining. Lights. Camera.

PIE PLEASE: Hoosier Mama is a hidden piece of Chicago refinement on Chicago Avenue, just west of Ashland. What pie treasures are to be found there. Savory Chicken Pot Pie and Pork and Sage Pie. And sweet: Lemon Chess, Chocolate Chess. Banana Cream, Apple, and scrumptious other flavors of the season. It's across the street from the West Town Chicago Public Library. And, yes, they have pie by the slice.

Rose O'Neill

GET WELL: The beloved Kathy Taylor, Irish Fellowship's Executive Director is in Hospital getting over pneumonia.

ANOTHER HIDDEN GEM: Mart Anthony's. The cat is out of the bag on this one. A quiet, off-the-beaten-path, genuine Italian tavern. Owner, former boxing champ, Mart Anthony has the genius of Italian cuisine in his blood. It's on N. Racine just down from Grand Ave. at Hubbard St. It's practically a secret city restaurant. Stuffed clams are fantastic, as is the stuffed artichoke. Most people need an Italian grandmother to get this regularly. Steaks and chops are tops. And the limoncello gelato is a great finale.

BLUE BLOODS AND BLACK PRINCES: The best holiday party is always one of the season's first. Rose O'Neill's State Parkway bash, where she live across the street from the Cardinal, is a steady stream of fashionable Chicagoans making their way to her pad overlooking the park and the lake. Hankie Pankies are the crowd pleasers, you know, those savory, cheesy, spicy sausage, open face canapes. They go like hot cakes. Her guest list is always Butch McGuire's meets the Racquet Club, and the Irish Georgian Society, with a lot of Cub fans and Lyric Opera fans. It is a Gold Coast jamboree of restaurateurs elbowing with politicos and Irish tenors. Bill Zwecker was holding court, as were the Gidwitz's and Diane O'Connell, Nora and Ferdia Doherty and the original Mad Man John Kinsella. Retired Archbishop Jim Kelliher, of Kansas City, arrived amusing all with his wit and good humor! It's always like a visit to a swanky Dublin Manse filled with cheer and merriment. Rose tosses the best bash and is dearly loved by her timeless pals.

THIS JUST IN: All the Trump Plaza signs have been removed "The area outside the hotel is a vast wasteland," to quote Newt Minow. We really know how to put out the welcome mat. Hope it doesn't come back to bite us.

"Always remember that you are absolutely unique. Just like everyone else."

-- Margaret Mead

The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in "AS IS" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court. Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale. The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information. If this property is a condominium unit, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale, other than a mortgagee, shall pay the assessments and the legal fees required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/9(g)(1) and (g)(4). If this property is a condominium unit which is part of a common interest community, the purchaser of the unit at the foreclosure sale other than a mortgagee shall pay the assessments required by The Condominium Property Act, 765 ILCS 605/18.5(g-1). IF YOU ARE THE MORTGAGOR (HOMEOWNER), YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN IN POSSESSION FOR 30 DAYS AFTER ENTRY OF AN ORDER OF POSSESSION, IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 15-1701(C) OF THE ILLINOIS MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE LAW. You will need a photo identification issued by a government agency (driver's license, passport, etc.) in order to gain entry into our building and the foreclosure sale room in Cook County and the same identification for sales held at other county venues where The Judicial Sales Corporation conducts foreclosure sales. major cities like Seattle, Las Vegas and in Silicon Valley.

Adding surveillance cameras to smart lights is a way to create networked security systems that would otherwise be cost-prohibitive for most cities. Analytics enabled as part of the devices installed on the same poles as the LED lighting, or as part of a local-area network, could provide City Hall and police with real-time situational awareness, delivering the right information at the right time regarding suspicious or threatening activities. These networked systems can provide real-time alerts about unauthorized activity or movement on streets, or in a crowded transport station, sporting event or large street festivals, or at entry/exit points to significant buildings and structures. Integration of security cameras with lights can be set to trigger specific actions—such as strobing the lights or sending alerts to security or police officers—to prevent or respond to security incidents.

But before the Chicago Smart Lighting procurement is finalized, the City is conducting demonstrations of the proposed new LED lighting to solicit resident input through the end of this month.

New LED light fixtures have been installed on one arterial street, one residential block, and one alley in each test area.
