City chooses construction company with checkered past for new police academy

BY JIM VAIL

'The Chicago way' - when it comes to corruption - seems to end. Despite all the current scandals with aldermen in City Hall for shaking down clients and collecting bribes, the beat goes on.

This time it concerns the new police academy Mayor Rahm Emanuel vowed to build. The company they chose to build it has had a checkered past in which it has had to pay numerous fines for fraud and waste.

Emanuel introduced an ordinance to give Los Angeles-based AECOM a contract to build the $85 million academy, but the deal still needs to be approved by the zoning and budget committees and the City Council.

Los Angeles-based AECOM has been found guilty of over-billing, submitting false invoices and using substandard building materials and has paid out at least $285 million in just the last four years over these allegations.

According to Chicago Reporter, AECOM is a $20 billion company that has worked on the O'Hare modernization project, the I-55/Lake Shore Dr. Interchange, the 31st Street Harbor and was awarded a $41.5 million contract to build the Dept. of Fleet and Facility Management's new headquarters in Englewood.

But the company has been found guilty of over-billing, submitting false invoices and using substandard building materials and has paid out at least $285 million in just the last four years over these allegations, Chicago Reporter stated.

The cases include paying the US Dept. of Energy $57.5 million to settle claims but deny wrongdoing, paying $20.2 million in 2016 to avoid prosecution for over-billing for work on One

Fumbled lab tests force prosecutors to drop serious drug charges again and again

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

Cook County prosecutors are being forced to drop major drug cases against repeat offenders because the Illinois State Police Crime Lab is routinely failing to return forensic tests of suspected narcotics in a timely manner. This newspaper told you about the problem in an exclusive report in January. More than 3,500 drug cases were dropped in Chicago alone last year because the crime lab's substance and purity tests were not returned promptly, we reported.

Now, after monitoring more court activity, here are some of the latest cases to be ditched because of so-called "no labs":

- A four-time convicted narcotics dealer who's on parole has had two drug cases spiked since December. Now, he's allegedly been caught again with a large amount of heroin.

- Charges were dropped against another parolee despite being caught with over a quarter-pound of heroin and nearly $6,000 in his car, according to cops.

- Prosecutors were forced to drop charges against a third man who was busted with over $11,000 worth of heroin, according to court records.

First up, there's Stacey Means, 28, who was paroled last year after serving part of a nine-year sentence for narcotics distribution. He previously went to prison for narcotics in 2010, 2011, and 2012, according to state records.

On Nov. 13, 2018, police said they saw him standing on a West Side street yelling "Blows! Blows!" That's a street term used to solicit heroin sales. After watching a hand-to-hand transaction, police moved in, arrested Means, and allegedly found 19 bags of suspected heroin and five bags of suspected crack in a storage box.

Stacey Means

He was charged with two felony counts of possessing a controlled substance.

Then, on Dec. 10, 2018, he was charged with another two counts of Class X felony manufacture-delivery of heroin near a school after cops working a POD camera allegedly saw him selling dope

Chicago Ave. Bridge now open

As one important bridge closes another opens. As the city's top engineers worked frantically to keep the Lake Shore Dr. bridge over the Chicago River from failing, those same engineers have quietly reopened streets which were recently closed due to the Chicago Avenue Bridge Project. Chicago Ave., between Larrabee and Halsted streets, is now open as long as weather permits.

City work crews have completed the demolition of the existing bridge and has installed a new interim bridge structure which will accommodate vehicular and pedestrian traffic. CTA Bus Route #66 will also resume its normal route.

Chicago Ave. closed in Nov. 2018 to begin demolition of the 100-year-old bascule bridge. The now-demolished bridge was constructed in 1914 and required a full replacement to maintain and support the volume of vehicle, bus, bicycle, and pedestrian traffic in this active corridor.

The final portion of the project will include installation of new road and navigational lighting. Construction and installation of the permanent structure is expected to finish up in 2021.

Cortland and Webster Bridges in need of immediate repairs

Two well-traveled bridges over the North Branch of the Chicago River are in need of repair and rehab. The city hosted a community meeting Wednesday, Feb. 6, at DePaul Univ. to discuss the fate of the Cortland Street Bridge and the Webster Avenue Bridge, and their coming rehabilitation projects.

The iconic and historic Cortland and Webster bridges, which span the Chicago River connecting Lincoln Park and Bucktown have been identified as priority infrastructure to be repaired by the Chicago Dept. of Transportation. Both bridges are more than 100 years old, and with their historic character, require improvements to ensure they remain functional and operational. Both bridges are

'Rack' and 'wheel,' where our modern cynical political attitudes are born

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Do you know who Cosimo de' Medici was? Are you acquainted with Cesare Borgia? What about Pope Alexander VI? Or the Templar Knights Gawain, Tancrede or Parsifal?

Thanks to the creative productions of Netflix, I have been inhabiting the harsh environs of the Middle Ages for the past week. Wow. No one said it would be easy once you get past the fabulous costumes, greasy hair and the filthy finger nails. Living in the age's fashion, before the discovery of soap, has its limits, even for me. There's a lot of soiled romance to "when knighthood was in flower."

Real life always has a bit of stretch. In movies and in politics.

The realism uncovered in the world of Netflix's medieval times is intense. They don't hold back. The era appears to be very popular today. That's roughly from 1066 AD (the Battle of Hastings) to 1530 AD (the sunset of Henry VIII). Guesstimate five centuries from the Crusades to the Renaissance. It was a great time to be a king. Bad time to be a peasant.

We were first captivated with the period when Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland galavanted across the screen in the 1938 film "Robin Hood." The movie certainly romanticized the 12th century. Good versus evil in the classical tradition. The film was the perfect way to get folk on both sides of the Atlantic to get their backbones up against the menace in their own time, Adolph Hitler. But they sure left a lot of reality out of the production. Maid Marion never seemed to break a sweat. And Robin of Locksley never had a curl out of place while swinging from the trees of Sherwood Forest.

But, in fact, life in the Middle Ages (as Medieval Times are known) was very primitive if you weren't a reigning sword-swinging monarch. Dirty hair and dry skin were a given. So was early death, starvation, dysentery, plague, constant war, political oppression and religious intolerance. Oh yeah, wide spread illiteracy was rampant too. The rule of despots, cruel law enforcement and a disregard for justice were givens.

I say this after overdosing on Netflix's "Knightfall," a drama about the Knights Templar and the Holy Grail that did not shy away from showing barbaric cruelty or outlandish human evil. I also watched "The Medici," a menacing spectacle about life in 15th century Florence and the rise of the wealthy banking family. I rewatched "The Borgias," a most careful study in political and sexual depravity during the papacy of Pope Alexander VI in 1500. In both these series, poison seemed to be the main method of social change and political achievement. The 'rack' and the 'wheel' were not automobile parts, but rather two helpful methods of extreme torture that also influenced human behavior. So too were all the burnings at the stake, and the prevalence of catastrophic maiming, eye-gouging, disfigurement, beheading and torture. But they sure loved their poison.

Witch burning was a popular sport in the Middle Ages.

Of course at the same time the painter Sandro Botticelli lived with the Medici and did much to lift the level of civilization. And the architect Filippo Brunelleschi completed the famed Dome on Florence's cathedral, paid for by the Medici. Leonardo da Vinci had a 'walk through' in Milan in this period where he worked as the Borgias arrived to conquer. As more and more great artists are introduced, it's almost as if real human hope is beginning to expand peoples' understanding of life and being human.

Of course the dynamic and transforming effect of art we see in the drama about Louis XIV's building of 'Versailles' (another Netflix production). At Versailles every aspect of living gets rearranged by civility. But that has not taken hold yet, 18th century France may be cruel, but far less so than the preceding 300 years in Florence, Rome and the Papal States.

Of course this is the Netflix version of life. But these shows are well done and well casted. No Irish or British actor could be possibly out looking for work.

In a strange way, there are comforting parallels between these dramas about the cruelty of life in the Middle Ages and Chicago's mayoral election on Feb. 26. At least with all the antics and mayhem in City Hall no one has resorted to poisonings or burning folk at the stake.

Like the scandals, the thugery is certainly out of control, as the pols are trying to steer clear of political reporters like Carol Marin, Mary Ann Ahern and Fran Spielman. It might as well be the Medici, the Borgias and the medieval minions of those practicing the dark arts. Does it feel spooky and scary to you? Well, you're not so wrong.

People in other parts of our nation cannot believe that "local" politics in Chicago can be so lethal in the 21st Century. But as Chicagoans we just take it all for granted. We take it as a given that those in elected office are going to try to fill their own pockets as they attempt to distract our attention with political shell games like taxes on soda pop or force us to pay for shopping bags. Candidates for mayor and alderman this year are running for offices they have long been groomed for and strategically connived for. The only problem is that their mentors and political guides now find themselves in hot water, scrutinized by agents of the federal government who are famous for their lack of a sense of humor. They are political heirs of bankrupt political inheritance.

It's fascinating that they give Chicago voters such a clear lesson in civics this close to the election. Candidates for mayor are frightened, running away from their longtime controllers faster than the Borgias or the Medici ran from a poisoned chalice or the plague. Candidates are publicly saying we "mis-judged" their relationships to their devious political heroes. After years of inside political grooming and basking in the sunny glory of their thugish mentors, they now want us to believe they are their own person. Not a political stooge under the control and influence of their longtime political boss whose freshness date has expired.

Chicago's Inspector General, Joseph Ferguson, hit the nail on the head when he recently criticized City Council members for their anger when they discovered one of them wore a wire to record for a crime. All their angry words gave them away. "This is the language of mobsters, not legislators. It is wholly inappropriate, and at this moment in the city of Chicago's history, disturbingly myopic and tone-deaf."

Maybe the cruelty of the Middle Ages is less potent in our own time. Less bloody. Less poisonous. Less criminal. But I actually doubt it. Isn't that where our modern cynical political attitudes are born? In the shallow poison we are fed by our aldermanic thugs? Isn't that where young voters learn to reject the whole concept of political rights and responsibilities? In the torture inflicted by our sneaky, shifty City Council where public extortion and private, behind-the-scenes thievery force our city into huge debts and historic bad decisions (Shortsighted Tollway sales, parking meter give aways, zoning irregularities, corporate property tax shenanigans, real estate shakedowns and tricky zoning permits).

Maybe the cruelty of everyday life is just easier to spot in the Middle Ages. Perhaps if a few politicians were burned as witches, they would be less likely to cheat the public. Maybe if some of those Borgia poisons gave a tummy ache to some of the City Council folk, they'd be less likely to scam the people who elected them. Maybe we should just treat those who have been elected as if they had the plague. Vote them out. Give them a rest. Let them take to the streets and beg.

Artist's Cafe on South Michigan closes after 60 years.

ARTIST'S CAFE: The south end of Michigan Ave. will never be the same. Artist's Cafe, that long-standing slice of old Chicago history has finally closed its doors after almost 60 years. The artsy restaurant was a net into which a wide and strange crowd of personalities gathered. From opera star Luciano Pavarotti to a strange assemblage of painters, sculptors, singers, dancers, writers and entertainers, all called Artist's Cafe a piece of home. Ever since George and Angela Mitchell first established the quirky diner more than half a century ago, it has been a unique scene on the map. Irene Makis, Aris Mitchell and Maria Mitchell Tsourapas

Mental illness task force will form to tackle city's lack of services

BY JIM VAIL

The Chicago City Council Health and Environmental Protection Committee voted to create the Public Mental Health Clinic Service Expansion Task Force to explore the problems of addressing mental health in the city after outgoing Mayor Rahm Emanuel and the City Council closed six public mental health clinics in 2012.

Health providers said more people are being hospitalized for behavioral mood disorders while the county jail has had to increase its services when people cannot get treated at city clinics.

Cook County Sheriff Tom Dart now likes to call the Cook County jail the "The largest mental health facility in the nation."

The task force will include aldermen from the South and West Sides, Chicago Dept. of Public Health representatives and four other city government officials.

The task force will have 180 days to survey and assess community needs before making recommendations.

In 2011, Chicago had 12 community health clinics and now it has five. The city said that due to their own dire financial situation, and a combination of state funding cuts and a city plan to shift patients to private mental health centers necessitated the closures. One clinic was privatized in 2016.

"It was devastating and frankly unnecessary," said Jaleel Abdul-Adil, co-director of the Urban Youth Trauma Center at the Univ. of Illinois. "I know Chicago has money it could have spent on more mental health resources; and ironically we're more than happy to spend that money on policing and prisons. It shows a real lack of vision for what wellness looks like for urban youth and families."

Chicago public radio reported a 37% increase in the number of people admitted to emergency rooms for psychiatric treatment from 2009 to 2013, with the biggest jump in 2012 after the cuts.

One health provider said, "We are a very sick city. We are in an absolute crisis. The people we're interfacing with today are sicker than we've ever seen, and younger."

Sheriff Dart has made it easier for people in the jail to get mental health care. He thinks about half the women who enter the jail are mentally ill, and about a third of the men. When those released from jail have a mental illness, a nearby clinic run by the Univ. of Chicago offers them a soft landing for a few days.

"I would give Cook County, and the city of Chicago, and the state of Illinois a D- on their ability to provide coordinate care for people living with chronic mental illness," Uptown Ald. James Capleman said.

The former social worker agreed with Dart that Cook County jail has turned into one of the largest inpatient psychiatric facilities in the country.

Health providers said more people are being hospitalized for behavioral mood disorders while the county jail has had to increase its services when people cannot get treated at city clinics.

Another official said the government has colluded with the private insurance system because they do not provide coverage for the kinds of services that people with mental illness need.

Ground zero in the battle with mental illness resides on the North Side where mental disorders are the top reason Uptown residents are hospitalized. One story was told that former-Mayor Richard J. Daley decided to dump all the mental illness facilities in Uptown in a battle with the alderman. When this reporter moved into the community, there was a home for mentally ill people at the corner of Argyle and Sheridan, and that of course is gone.

Many Uptown residents don't have insurance, or rely on Medicaid, and since government mental health centers were closed in 2007, the Uptown Health Center is the only publicly run clinic on the North Side. Many mentally ill patients don't want to make the trip to Stroger Hospital because it is too far and "unfriendly."

There are about two dozen privately-run clinics on the North Side, but administrative changes have made it more difficult for some people to access mental health care.

Million-plus home and condo sales flexed muscles in 2018

Million-dollar-plus home sales flexed some muscle in the City of Big Shoulders in 2018.

Luxury home, condo, townhome and co-operative apartment sales in Chicago totaled a whopping 1,400 units in 2018, a gain of

By Don DeBat

5.1% over 2017, and the median price rose 0.2% to $1.35 million, according to the RE/MAX Premier Luxury Report.

Attached homes—primarily condos and townhomes—were clearly the sales champions of the city market in 2018, said RE/MAX Premier of Chicago. Sales rose 10.5% to 715 units, and the median attached home price rose 1.3% to $1.335 million.

Despite the strong flow of new-construction units into the market, year-end luxury inventory declined by 3.9% to 465 units. Average market time for those properties sold was 128 days last year, 11 days more than in 2017, RE/MAX reported.

The city market benefitting most strongly in 2018 from the construction boom was the Near West Side, where condo and townhome sales skyrocketed 160% to 117 units, RE/MAX reported. In 2016, that neighborhood posted just 17 $1-million-plus sales.

The Near West Side now ranks second in the city in the luxury-attached category, behind only the Near North Side, which recorded 354 luxury condo and townhome sales in 2018, a 10.6% increase.

Here are sales results in other city neighborhoods with substantial luxury condo and townhome activity in 2018:

- Lincoln Park posted 92 sales, a 28.1% decrease over 2017.
- The Near South Side achieved 59 transactions, a hefty 47.5% increase over 2017.
- The Loop recorded 46 sales, a 22% decrease over 2017.
- Lakeview posted 31 sales, a 20.5% decrease over 2017.

Whether sales rose or fell, the neighborhoods with the most luxury condo and townhome sales activity saw the median price gain ground. Median prices rose 8.1% on the Near North Side, 3% on the Near West Side, 4.2% in Lincoln Park, 4.1% on the Near South Side, 1.2% in the Loop and 1.3% in Lakeview.

Chicago's luxury downtown condo and townhome market did not escape the fourth-quarter sales slowdown, falling by nearly 10% since a year earlier.

However, the condo and townhome market did not escape the fourth-quarter sales slowdown, which analysts said was sparked partly by the brief autumn rise in mortgage interest rates and a volatile year-end stock market.

Chicago condo and townhome sales fell 9.8% to 148 units in the fourth quarter, while average market time rose to 175 days from 118 days in the fourth quarter of 2017. Even so, the median price gained 4.9% to $1.4 million, reflecting the premium prices commanded by homes in some of the new luxury high-rise properties.

Experts have predicted that mortgage rates could move lower in early 2019. On Feb. 7, Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey reported that average interest charges on 30-year fixed-rate home loans eased from 4.46% to 4.41%—the lowest level in 10 months. A year ago, the 30-year fixed loan average was 4.32%.

Chicago-area lenders were charging a range of 4.256% to 4.57% on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages on Feb. 8, reported rateSeeker.com.

"This is great news for consumers who will be looking for homes during the upcoming spring home-buying season," said Sam Khater, Freddie Mac's chief economist. "Mortgage rates are essentially similar to a year ago, but buyers now have a larger selection of homes and more bargaining power than they did the last few years."

RE/MAX said sales of detached single-family homes in the city were remarkably steady in 2018. Total sales matched the 2017 total of 685 units though fourth-quarter sales fell 18.7% to 109 units. The median luxury detached home sales price was unchanged both for the year, at $1.36 million, and the fourth quarter, at $1.4 million.

Year-end single-family home inventory fell 12.6% to 285 units, indicative of an apparent decline in speculative construction of detached homes. Average market time decreased to 138 days from 153 days in 2017.

While total detached sales were flat for the year in the city, individual neighborhoods with 20 or more luxury home transactions posted the following results:

• Logan Square. A whopping 75 luxury home sales were recorded, a 66.7% increase over 2017. Median prices rose 2.1%.

• Lincoln Square. Thirty-four luxury homes were sold, a gain of 21.4% over 2017. Median prices rose 3%.

• North Center. A total of 121 luxury homes changed hands, a decline of 20.4% from a year earlier. However, median prices slipped 2.1%.

• Lakeview. Luxury home sales rose 11.8% to 123 units. Median prices rose 4.7%.

• West Town. A total of 94 luxury homes were sold, matching 2017's production. However, median prices slipped 0.8%.

• Near North. Twenty-three luxury home transactions were recorded, unchanged from 2017. However, the median price decreased 13.6%.

• Lincoln Park. The perennial leader in luxury detached sales, Lincoln Park posted a 16.4% decline in sales to 148 luxury homes sold. However, median prices rose 5.9%.

For the full year, 2,694 homes in the seven-county Chicago area sold for $1 million or more, an increase of 1.4% over the 2017 total. The median sales price of those homes was $1.315 million, up 1.2% from the prior year.

Average market time for those sales was 166 days, three days less than in 2017. The year-end inventory of homes priced at $1 million or more fell 7.8% to 1,938 units.

Suburban luxury sales were down 2.4% for the year to 1,294 units. The median price rose 0.4% to $1.285 million.

However, fourth-quarter results suggest that the luxury market might be slowing down. Sales across the seven-county Chicago area totaled 494 units, down

Assessors Office extends deadline for Senior Exemptions

Cook County Assessor Fritz Kaegi announced Feb. 4 that his office has extended the deadline for the Senior Citizen and Senior Freeze Exemption applications for Tax Year 2018. The original deadline date was Feb. 6 and the deadline has been extended to Friday, Feb. 15.

Over 300,000 applications were mailed in January to seniors who received the exemptions last year. The Senior Exemption application is part of a booklet mailed to eligible seniors. The booklet also contains the separate, income-based Senior Freeze Exemption application. All exemptions will appear on second-installment property tax bills mailed this summer.

Any exemptions filed for the 2018 tax year will appear on the 2nd installment bill which will be mailed in July of 2019.

Under Illinois law, seniors must reapply annually for both the Senior and Senior Freeze Exemptions in order to continue to receive the deductions. To qualify a taxpayer must have been born prior to or in the year 1953, owned the property during 2018 or have a lease or contract for 2018 which makes them responsible for the real estate taxes, and used the property as his or her principal place of residence in 2018.

Beginning last year, a new law increased savings for the Senior Exemption from $5,000 to $8,000 in Equalized Assessed Value (EAV). For more information call 312-443-7550 and request a form be mailed to them.

Privy pits provide treasure trove of information about Chicago's past

BY PETER VON BUOL

Those home and business owners now grumbling over the city's dramatically higher water and sewer taxes might want to think about some 19th century technology to lessen the load.

For the past four years, architectural salvager Eric J. Nordstrom has spent countless hours excavating intriguing sites throughout Chicago, most of which were used as outhouses in 19th century. Prior to the advent of indoor plumbing, all homes used outdoor outhouses. And for the most part they worked pretty good during three of Chicago's four seasons. Winter trips to the outdoor pits were no fun!

While some pits were brick-lined, many were simply a hole in the ground. In the 19th century, outhouses were not just used as bathrooms. The privy pits of outhouses were usually the most convenient place for 19th century Chicago residents to dispose of non-bio-degradable trash and it is for that reason, they now serve as portals to the past.

Nordstrom has named the ongoing project "Unearthing Chicago" and often, he will drop everything at a moment's notice to head to a site. While Nordstrom is sometimes aware of the location of an unexcavated privy pit, a team of professional excavators will often discover the remains of an outhouse and contact him. Building professionals operate on a tight schedule and once contacted, Nordstrom must work quickly to not impede the work of the excavators.

Among the discoveries made by Nordstrom have been ornate mid-19th century bottles, an Irish Nationalist clay pipe and a ceramic doll. He believes the bottles, which were excavated in 2015, date to the late 1830s and which would make them the city's oldest known privy pits.

"After discussing my urban privy find with several people in the field (including historians, archaeologists, Chicago bottle collectors), there is very little doubt that I have come across the oldest known/documented Chicago urban privy pit. Artifacts from various "pockets" [of the site] have been dated to the late 1830's-1850's," Nordstrom said.

"There is very little doubt that I have come across the oldest known/documented Chicago urban privy pit," said Eric Nordstrom.

According to Nordstrom, the use of outdoor toilets as an on-site garbage dump resulted in the creation of a new profession known back then as night scavengers. Privy pits were a limited resource and scavengers, who had to disregard the unpleasant smell, were employed to empty them.

"Privy pits owners would have them emptied by 'night scavengers,' which was an occupation that can be found in the early city directories. These professionals would purchase a license and travel around neighborhoods emptying backyard 'vaults.' Today, when we find a privy that's empty, we refer to it as being 'dipped.' That is, the contents were cleaned out long ago and the vault was filled. All that remains are wooden floors and staves with hoops," Nordstrom said.

Among the most intact sites excavated by Nordstrom has been one which belonged to John Kent Russell, a successful mid-19th century carpenter and sawmiller owner.

Free entry to History Museum on Presidents Day

On Presidents Day, Monday, Feb. 18, admittance to the Chicago History Museum, 1601 N. Clark St., will be free for Illinois residents.

On that day visitors can discover the lives behind the legends of the American presidency through live music, family crafts, and storytelling as the museum celebrates the day.

Events start at 10 a.m. The Abraham Lincoln Exhibit will be open that day too, featuring highlights of Lincoln's election in 1860, his leadership during the Civil War, and his tragic assassination.

While some privy pits were brick-lined, many were simply a hole in the ground. In the 19th century, outhouses were not just used as bathrooms, they were also the most convenient place for 19th century Chicago residents to dispose of non-bio-degradable trash and it is for that reason, they now serve as portals to the past. Above is a pit that was discovered after a garage was torn down.

PORTAL from p. 5

"He was a very large supplier of millwork (such as brackets, trim-work and doors) for some of the earliest Chicago balloon-frame structures being built before and after the Great Chicago Fire of 1871," Nordstrom said. Built in 1855, Russell's home had been located at 456 N. Carpenter Str.

According to a 2014 report commissioned by Preservation Chicago, a non-profit dedicated to architectural preservation, the house was designed by one of Chicago's earliest architects, William Belden Olmsted. Most of the houses and buildings erected during Chicago's great growth in the 1850s were simply hastily raised by builders.

Recently demolished, the wooden balloon-frame building had survived the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. Its privy vault had also been located on Russell's house lot.

"A garage was constructed on top of the pit in the 1920's and protected it for decades. In fact, upon discovery, all of the contents were still very wet and intact, likely from being protected or 'capped' when the cement floor sealed the ground where the privy was located. The earliest artifacts discovered at the bottom of the privy floor were two cod liver oil medicinal bottles and a cobalt blue William H. Hutchinson soda or mineral water bottle dating to the late 1850's or early 1860's," Nordstrom said.

Having been protected from the elements, Nordstrom found the privy vault and its contents to have been well-preserved.

"It was amazingly intact and moist, which allowed the staves and floor to survive in such good condition. Newspapers, eggshells, glassware, bottles, and so on, that had not seen the light of day since tossed beginning into the pits in the 1860's were still there. It was sealed in the 1880's and covered over in the 1920s when the garage, with a concrete slab, was built. We found it had been undisturbed! When the house was demolished and the slab was broken apart, we found a sunken area that was soft. When I probed it, I knew I had discovered an undisturbed pit. I had no idea how much I would unearth, including the pine wood privy vault itself!" Nordstrom said.

Besides the artifacts themselves, by continuing to study newly-discovered pits, Nordstrom can get a better understanding about the materials and methods used to build privy pits in the 19th century. In the 19th century, while everyone used privy pits, they have been an underutilized asset.

"I find the systematic extraction and reconstruction of mid-19th century wood privy 'vaults' incredibly important, since the 'architecture' or materials and methods used to build these underground vessels designed to store trash have never been carefully studied above ground. It's one thing to read the lengthy city ordinances written during that time, but to actually see what's described in one form or another is truly amazing," Nordstrom said.

Author retells the story of Emmett Till

BY BOB KITSOS

Sixty-three years ago, a 14-year-old African-American boy named Emmett Till was brutally murdered in Mississippi after allegedly whistling at a white woman. The all-white, male jury acquitted his two killers despite overwhelming evidence against them.

The tragic story of what happened to Emmett Till in 1955 appeared in the Chicago Defender and other African-American publications. However, it wasn't until 1987 that the story appeared in mainstream media along with a photograph of the boy's disfigured body at his funeral on the South Side of Chicago. His mother wanted an open casket to "let the people see" what had been done to her child.

The story was retold on Feb. 5 as part of Loyola Univ. Libraries Speaker Series.

Elliott J. Gorn, author of his recent book, "Let the People See: The Story of Emmett Till," shared details of Emmett Till's background, the trial and how the story may have galvanized the Civil Rights movement.

"I wrote the book because I think this is a story that needs to be told," Gorn said. "You have to make people get it, make people understand what happened."

Gorn holds the Joseph A. Gagliano Chair of American Urban History at Loyola Univ. Chicago where he teaches courses in 19th and 20th century American history. His other books include "Mother Jones: The Most Dangerous Woman in America"; "Dillinger's Wild Ride: The Year that Made America's Public Enemy Number One"; and "The Manly Art: Bare-Knuckle Prize Fighting in America."

Whether it was at the Casino, the Women's Athletic Club, the Arts Club, or a gathering of the Irish Georgian Society or English Speaking Union, Dottie was always at her sweet best. Delighting everyone with a dance, a story, a reflection or a social tale. She was a silken thread to so many eras of Chicago history and social life. Always trim and elegant, noble and fragrant, Dottie was popular with everyone, especially young people. For she was truly the youngest and wisest at heart. Embracing life with great affection, she deepened the beauty and intelligence it offers. How greatly she will be missed. No dinner will ever be quite as delightful again. No party will be as complete. We all reach out to her wonderful daughter and constant companion, Lyssa Piette, who shared so much with her. Together, they made every event more refined, more elegant and more socially fit. Quiet nobility. Stead fast spirit. Dottie showed everyone the way. She was the

Travel to the Tropics with two spectacular flower shows

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY PETER VON BUOL

Chicago may be experiencing a particularly cold winter, but flower shows at two local cultural institutions are providing an opportunity to escape to a warmer climate on the cheap.

"Sunny Side Up" is the theme of the annual spring flower show at the Lincoln Park Conservatory, 2391 N. Stockton Dr. This year's all-ages free Spring Show displays a rainbow of flowering bulbs, annuals, trees, and shrubs. The Show House is a flood of fragrance from camellias, azaleas, daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, hydrangea, geraniums, and many more.

The show features a stunning display of flowering bulbs, annuals, trees, and shrubs. Inside the conservatory's Show House, visitors will be able to experience 3,000 fragrant spring favorites in bloom, including camellias, azaleas (some descended from plants from the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition), daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, hydrangeas. Immersed in the sights and smells of a Chicago spring, in the dead of winter, now through May 13.

Located just between the Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum and Lincoln Park Zoo, this historic conservatory has been lifting visitors' spirits during harsh winters with the force of flowers since 1895. For more information call 312-742-7736.

If you have a car and a bit more time, head north to the Chicago Botanic Gardens' annual orchid show in suburban Glencoe, which is providing a vicarious opportunity to escape to the South Pacific.

"In Tropics: The Orchid Show" features a display of 10,000 orchids in bloom. Continuing through March 24, the gardens' greenhouses and parts of its Regenstein Center have been transformed into a tropical oasis, complete with tropical orchids and other species of tropical flowers. In addition, the show also includes palm trees, tropical ferns and a life-size replica of a Polynesian canoe. The show is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. On People steal the vanilla beans and the cocoa pods from these plants.

Thursday evenings, the show remains until 8 p.m.

This year's show emphasizes the importance of water throughout the tropics. One of the show's unique features is a walk-through "curtain" of falling water. The aquatic theme continues throughout the show and includes a "waterfall" of Vanda orchids as well as small islands blooming with tall palm trees and orchids.

During the evening hours, visitors will be able to purchase tiki cocktails and tropical-inspired appetizers and desserts. Non-alcoholic versions of the cocktails are also available, as well as soda, iced tea, water and bottled beer and wine by the glass.

At the botanical garden, visitors will be able to easily imagine they have entered a tropical setting when they find themselves in the colorful and fragrant displays. Some cascade from unique structures, such as an interpretation of a traditional Polynesian structure built by the garden's staff. Of all the many species of orchids found throughout the world, only one is edible, Vanilla (Vanilla planifolia). Originally from Mexico, Vanilla is now grown as a commercial crop in Tahiti and Hawai'i. Vanilla is also an important crop for Madagascar, an island nation in the Indian Ocean.

Teacher not guilty of force-feeding sleep aid to kids

A north suburban elementary school teacher has been found not guilty of child endangerment and battery after being accused of force-feeding melatonin to three boys who came to her Rogers Park home for a sleep-over last summer.

Cheree Bertalan of Rogers Park was accused of forcing the supplement onto the 10- and 12-year-old boys so they would go to sleep during a two-night visit.

Prosecutors charged her with five misdemeanor counts of causing a child to be endangered and three misdemeanor counts of battery.

Judge Donald Panarese found Bertalan not guilty on all counts during a bench trial on Thursday.

Melatonin “is a natural hormone that plays a role in sleep,” according to the National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health website, which says “there have been no reports of significant side effects of melatonin in children.”

Robber dragging victims into alleys in River North, Old Town

A street robber is grabbing people from behind, dragging them into alleys or secluded places, and taking their valuables in the River North and Old Town neighborhoods, according to Chicago police.

The offender struck six times between Jan. 10 and Jan. 19, according to a newly-released community alert. Detectives typically issue alerts when they believe a series of crimes have been committed by a single offender.

Police said the attacks took place at the following locations including the 600 block of W. Elm at 6:25 p.m. on Jan. 10; 100 block of W. Kinzie at 1:57 a.m. Jan. 11; 800 block of N. Sedgwick at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 11; 1400 block of N. Wells at 2:40 a.m. Jan. 12; 100 block of W. Division at 10:30 p.m. Jan. 17, and 1500 block of N. Larrabee at 3:30 a.m. Jan. 19.

The offender is a black male in his 30’s who stands between 5’-8” and 6’ tall, according to the alert. He weighs 180 to 200 lbs. and has been seen wearing a black hooded sweatshirt.

Persons with information about these incidents may contact Area Central investigators at 312-747-8380 about case #P19-1-033.

Short prison stint for CTA train robber

A career criminal whose record includes a 25-year sentence for trying to shoot a city worker in 1999 is going back to prison for robbing a CTA Blue Line passenger on June 25, 2017. But he won’t be locked up for very long.

Donnie Fisher, 42, pleaded guilty to felony unlawful restraint in the case. Prosecutors dropped an armed robbery charge in exchange. Judge Earl Hoffenberg sentenced Fisher to 3-1/2 years in prison with 587 days credit for time served. Given the state’s automatic 50% discount for anticipated good behavior, Fisher can expect to be released in 51 days.

Prosecutors said Fisher sat down next to a 24-year-old Streeterville man on the Blue Line train at 2 a.m. and struck up a conversation as he concealed his left hand in his jacket pocket:

“Have you ever been shot? Can you imagine the pain?”

Standing up, Fisher leaned on the man with his forearm, according to the police account.

“Don’t do it. Don’t do it,” Fisher warned, grabbing away the man’s cellphone and then jumping off at the Damen station.

The victim followed him and reported the robbery to a station attendant. Cops say they found Fisher nearby with not one, not two, not three, but four phones in his pocket.

According to state records, Fisher has received the following prison sentences: six years for manufacture-delivery of cocaine in 2013; 25 years for aggravated discharge of a firearm in 1999; five years for being a felon in possession of a firearm in 1999; four years for violating the controlled substances act in 1993; 10 years for attempted murder in 1993, and 10 years for armed robbery in 1993.

Man sentenced for stealing cash registers from Uptown grocery store

A convicted burglar and robber is going back to prison for stealing cash registers and booze from an Uptown Jewel-Osco store. But he won’t be in prison for long.

Taveon White, 21, pleaded guilty to one count of theft and was sentenced to two years in prison by Judge

Taveon White

Hoffenberg. Given credit for 298 days time served awaiting trial, White will be paroled on April 3.

White was on parole for burglary on June 18, 2018, when Jewel employees saw him smash a glass liquor cabinet to steal a bottle of Jim Beam and then steal two coin dispensers and three cash drawers from registers inside the grocery store at 4355 N. Sheridan.

Police arrested White near the store minutes later.

State records show that White was sentenced to four years in prison after being convicted of two burglaries in 2015. Before that, he was sentenced to three years for armed robbery with a handgun in 2013.

Eight years for North Side serial burglar

A serial burglar has pleaded guilty to breaking into eight homes across the North Side and another in Oak Park during April and May of 2018. He’s been sentenced to eight 8-year terms and one 4-year term to be served concurrently.

Thomas French, 44, was arrested last spring by officers who responded to a call of a man pulling on front doors and turning doorknobs in the 1900 block of W. Cuyler. French was found nearby, and cops recognized him as the man that detectives wanted to speak with about a series of break-ins.

Police said French was carrying a backpack and two shopping bags when they stopped him for questioning. The bags contained an Xbox, Xbox games, a bag of loose change, an empty iPhone box, two watches, a wallet belonging to a different person, a bundle of gift cards, headphones, an Epiphone studio guitar, and pawn shop transaction receipts, according to court papers.

Prosecutors say French is responsible for taking much more from a series of victims across the North Side including a Chicago Bulls hat signed by Michael Jordan; a Yamaha guitar, a jewelry box, multiple tablets, and— from one lucky strike in Uptown— nearly $20,000 worth of designer watches.

French was charged with burglarizing homes in the 800 block of W. Oakdale; the 800 block of W. Altgeld; the 2600 block of N. Wilton; the 4000 block of N. Hermitage; the 4000 block of N. Kenmore; the 1500 block of N. Milwaukee; and the 1900 block of W. Cuyler in Chicago and one home in suburban Oak Park.

Judge William O’Brien handed down the eight-year sentences for the Chicago cases and gave French 273 days credit for time served.

Nine year sentence for shooting Truman College student in Uptown

Bryan Santos

A man has been sentenced to nine years in prison for shooting a fellow Truman College student near the school’s campus last March.

Bryan Santos, 18, pleaded guilty Feb. 6 to one Class X felony count of aggravated battery by firearm discharge. Prosecutors dropped four attempted murder counts and one other felony in the plea deal. Judge Catherine Haberkorn approved the agreement and gave Santos credit for 329 days time served while awaiting trial. He must serve 85% of his sentence.

Santos was found hiding under a porch near the shooting scene on the 4500 block of N. Magnolia shortly after he shot a 21-year-old rival gang member at 12:10 p.m. March 8, 2018.

Prosecutors said Santos approached the victim on the street with his face covered by a mask and hoodie. He initially pistol-whipped the victim, but when the man fought back with brass knuckles, Santos opened fire, prosecutors said.

Santos and the victim were both studying in a Truman program that helps young adults secure their high school diplomas. A police source said the victim and Santos belong to rival predominantly-Hispanic gangs from a different part of the city.

Robbery alert for Streeterville

A robbery crew is working in the Streeterville area, targeting people who are walking with phones in their hands, according to a community alert issued by Area Central detectives.

Community alerts are typically issued when investigators believe a series of crimes are the work of the same individual or group.

One or more robbers have approached people on the street, grabbed the victims’ phones, and then fled on foot or in a black four-door sedan, the alert said. At least six incidents were reported during January, all during evening hours.

The cases were reported including one in the 500 block of N. Rush on Jan. 5; In the first block of E. Huron on Jan. 9; In the 300 block of E. Illinois on Jan. 9; In the 300 block of E. Illinois on Jan. 10; In the 600 block of N. Wells on Monday, Jan. 21; In the first block of E. Ohio on Jan 28

The suspects are described as one to four black males between the ages of 15- and 21-years-old. They stand

Amtrak passenger busted with $240,000 worth of pot, state police say

A Pittsburgh valet attendant was busted at Chicago Union Station Feb. 2 as he traveled from California to the Steel City with more than 33 pounds of pot on an Amtrak train, according to Illinois State Police.

Kevin Reing

Kevin Reing, 31, bought a one-way train ticket from “an area in California known for cannabis growth and distribution” to Pittsburgh last week, a “tactic used by traffickers using Amtrak,” the ISP said. His last-minute purchase raised flags for the state police narcotics interception unit, which was waiting for Reing when the California Zephyr pulled into Union Station shortly before 5 p.m.

Police said that Reing—who had been assigned sleeper cabin #13—gave ISP investigators permission to search his luggage during a “consensual encounter.” According to court records, one of Reing’s suitcases contained 12 pounds of pot and the other held 21 pounds. Altogether, cops seized cannabis with a street value of $240,000, according to prosecutors.

Reing is charged with Class X felony cannabis trafficking and Class X felony manufacture-delivery of cannabis. Judge David Navarro set his bail at $5,000.

5’-6” to 5’-10” tall and weigh 120-170 lbs., police said.

Anyone with information about the suspects may contact Area Central detectives at 312-747-8380 about pattern #P19-1-015B.

Shooting grazes driver in Old Town

A 28-year-old motorist refused medical attention after suffering a graze wound when someone opened fire on an Old Town street early last Thursday. Police said no one is in custody.

The victim was driving in the 1500 block of N. Hudson Ave. when someone opened fire from a vehicle that was traveling in the opposite direction, according to witnesses. Police said one bullet pierced the man’s driver’s side door and grazed his abdomen. He pulled over on nearby North Ave. and spoke with arriving police officers.

Police said the shots were fired by a black male with dreadlocks who was in a silver Nissan Sentra that was last seen heading south on Hudson.

Career criminal now charged with four burglaries in Lincoln Park

A career burglar who was allegedly caught in the act by cops on patrol in Lincoln Park on Feb. 4 has been charged with committing four burglaries and damaging property at a fifth location that night.

Officers responding to a call of a burglary in progress reportedly saw Theodore McGill, 54, in the area with $1,200 bike and a power saw. Police soon learned that the bike and saw belonged to the 911 caller who had summoned them to the 2400 block of N. Southport just after 3 a.m.

Further investigation revealed that

Theodore McGill

McGill also stole a tent and inflatable mattress from another garage on the same block and property from two other residences in the 2400 block of N. Janssen, according to court records. Police also reported seeing McGill try to pry open a gate and fence as they arrived on-scene.

Prosecutors charged McGill with three felony counts of residential burglary; one count of attempted burglary; and criminal damage to property. Judge Michael Clancy set his bail at $80,000.

State and court records show that McGill was sentenced to serve 85% of two concurrent 9-year prison sentence for burglaries committed in 2012. Yet he managed to be released from prison in March 2017 after serving less than five years.

Prior to that sentence, the now-54-year-old was sentenced to eight years for burglary in 2007; three years for theft in 2005; six years for burglary in 2001; two years for theft in 2000; six years for burglary in 1997; six years for armed robbery in 1994; three years for burglary in 1991; and two concurrent three year terms for robbery and aggravated battery in 1989. McGill was released early each time.

Gunfire near CTA station earns man prison time

A man has reached a plea deal after being charged with shooting a gun outside the Wilson Red Line CTA station at 10 a.m. Jan. 26, 2018.

Trevon Smith, 22, pleaded guilty to one count of aggravated discharge of a firearm into an occupied vehicle and being a gang member in possession of a firearm. Judge Catherine Haberkorn sentenced him to two consecutive terms of 4 years, 10 months. Smith was given 272 days credit for time served and was fined $639.

Smith fired several shots outside the bustling CTA station, shattering a motorist’s rear window as she turned into a Truman College parking garage down the block, police said at the time. Witnesses reported that two other men were with Smith when he began firing shots. Those men were never charged.

Patrol officers heard the shots ring out and a probationary police officer suffered abrasions and cuts to his knees while tackling Smith in an alley behind the 1000 block of W. Wilson.

A police evidence technician recovered shell casings from a crosswalk outside the freshly-rehabbed historic entrance to the train station. Officers said two casings were found.

Smith is scheduled to be paroled on March 2, 2022.

Woman robbed at Sedgwick CTA station, suspect sought

Police are asking for the public’s help in locating the man who robbed a woman as she waited for a train at the Sedgwick Brown Line CTA station last week.

The woman was standing on the platform at 9:06 p.m. Feb. 4 when she was approached by the man who wrestled away her cell phone before running from the scene, according to a CPD community alert.

Police described the offender as a black man in his 20’s who stands 5’-7” to 5’-10” tall and weighs 160 to 190 lbs.

Anyone with information about the robbery may contact Area Central detectives at 312-747-8380 about case #JC140762.

Senior citizen sewer rebate renewal forms

The 2019 Senior Citizens Sewer $50 Refund Renewal Forms will be mailed out starting this month. This renewal form must be signed and returned to your local alderman's office.

If a resident has not received a renewal form and has not applied for this rebate in the previous years, they will need to fill out a Senior Citizens Annual Refund Application. For more information visit the Chicago Committee on Finance Sewer Rebate Website at www.committeefinance.org/claims/sewer.asp.

New applications must include the signed application and additional documentation such as an assessor's office senior homestead deduction printout, copy of approved senior citizen homestead deduction or a tax bill in order to be processed. For more information call 312-643-2299.

Don't let your pet become dinner

Coyotes are on the prowl in Chicago now - the real ones, not the human smugglers on our southern border. This is coyote mating season, when the male animals tend to be more aggressive. So don't let your beloved pet become dinner.

The best protection you can offer to your pets is to never leave them unattended in a yard (even with a fence, coyotes are excellent diggers and jumpers) and always keep dogs on a leash when walking them. Coyotes have been known to pluck small pets off the streets as their owners watch helplessly as they run off with their 'groceries.' It's also the law that your pets must be leashed in parks or on side-walks, with the exception of specially designated dog-friendly areas (DFAs).

My fashion philosophy is, if you're not covered in dog hair, your life is empty.

An odds-defying journey from an LCL injury back to the hardwood

Medill News Service

Seated senior point guard Rocky Viette extended his left leg on the baseline, reached for his foot and cracked a smile ahead of Lake View’s game against Marine Leadership Academy.

It was a welcoming sight for head coach Mike Davis. It was a relieving sight for senior guard Tyrek Warren. It was a familiar sight for the Wildcat faithful.

“Our season would have been a lot more different had he not gotten hurt” last Fall, Davis said. “That’s something we struggled with earlier in the year – our point guard position – because I would have both my backup point guards on the court at the same time.”

“It’s more relieving,” Warren said. “At first, point guard was his role, but then, once he got injured, I had to step up my game. I had to play his role.”

“If we get a lot of fans, they’re going to be really happy to see him play in his first home game since last season,” Davis said.

Senior Rocky Viette hurls an overhead pass during the first half of a home victory. Head coach Mike Davis (center left) watches in the distance.

Viette, a vocal leader for Lake View High School, suffered a left LCL injury playing football in the Fall. Since then, he has trekked on an arduous, four-month journey from a pool creating water resistance to countless sessions of physical therapy to agonizing days on the sidelines rather than the court.

But the Marine Leadership Academy game welcomed his return to the home court. He had played two away games in the weekend prior to that.

“I just never really thought I would go through an injury like this,” Viette said. “We all come to a point in life where we face obstacles or some type of adversity. And it’s on you for how you react to it. What are you going to do about it?”

“We all come to a point in life where we face obstacles or some type of adversity. And it’s on you for how you react to it. What are you going to do about it?,” said Rocky Viette.

There was still a spot for Viette on the bench throughout his team’s first 16 games. He could participate in non-contact shooting drills, but suited up in school clothes rather than a uniform once game day rolled around.

A formula of hard work, determination and grit fueled Viette’s odds-defying return

More taxes for your enjoyment

All our favorite taxing bodies want to remind us that the next property tax bill is due March 1, and that bill shows taxpayers the debt and pension payments of every local government that levies taxes on North Side homes and other real estate, helping explain why taxes are so high in Chicago.

On the front of every bill is a section called “Taxing District Debt and Financial Data,” which provides detailed information for each taxing district, including money owed by your taxing districts, pension and health care amounts promised by your taxing districts, amount of pension and health care shortage, and the percentage of pension and health care costs taxing districts can pay.

The First Installment is always 55% of the prior year’s total taxes. About 1.7 million property tax bills have been mailed to owners of homes, businesses and land. Property owners can download a copy of the new bill by going to cookcountytreasurer.com.

Letter to the Editor

If not you and now, then who and when?

Valentines Day gives everyone a chance to love. Who, what or how to love is up to you.

Certainly there have been loses in life, but one central thing remains crucial and consistently true: you.

Regardless of what losses or suffering you may be experiencing, the one most significant factor remains you.

Please remember that the most important person or thing to love is you.

Life is ephemeral. Don’t waste your chances to make the most of it.

Perhaps we should all learn from Beethoven’s reported last words when his publisher brought 12 bottles of his favorite wine to his bed: “Pity, pity — too late.” And he died.

Please let’s all try to learn from that master’s experience. Do it now! Love thyself and anything or anyone you choose. If not you and now, then who and when?

Happy Valentines Day

10 year sentence for beating, robbing 70-year-old at Red Line station

A Near West Side man has pleaded guilty to attacking and robbing a 70-year-old man outside the Sheridan Red Line CTA station in Aug. 2017. Karon Cannon, 25, was sentenced to seven years for robbery and a concurrent ten-years for aggravated battery causing great bodily harm to a victim over age 60 by Judge Nicholas Ford. Cannon will have to serve at least 85% of the robbery sentence.

Prosecutors alleged that Cannon punched the elderly man in the face, knocking him to the ground, and then began striking the man with an unknown object during the robbery around 6 p.m. on Aug. 7, 2017.

Cannon was free on electronic monitoring while fighting a domestic battery charge at the time of the attack.

Maserati joy ride ends with prison

A man who has spent most of his adult life in prison for stealing cars is going back to prison for stealing a Maserati in the Loop last November. Edwin Herrera, 38, pleaded guilty to stealing the $100,000 sports car after it was left running in front of an apartment building in the first block of East 9th St.

At the time of the Maserati heist, Herrera was on parole after serving half of an eight-year sentence for stealing an ambulance and leading police on a two-state vehicle pursuit in March 2014.

In a plea deal approved by Judge Kenneth Wadas, Herrera will serve at least 85% of a six-year sentence for taking the Maserati. Wadas gave him credit for 82 days time served while awaiting trial and fined Herrera $429.

According to Illinois state records, Herrera has been sent to prison repeatedly since 1999: Six years for aiding or abetting the possession of a stolen motor vehicle in 2009; Six years for aiding or abetting the possession of a stolen motor vehicle in 2006; Three years for aggravated battery of a police or fireman in 2001; Four years for receiving-possessing a stolen motor vehicle in 2001; Another four years for receiving-possessing a stolen motor vehicle in 2001, and five years for aggravated battery in a public place in 1999.

Probation for Loop restaurant hold-ups

A judge handed down two-years probation to a man who has pleaded guilty to robbing on Loop fast food restaurant and trying to rob a second one over the summer.

Devonte Gipson, 26, has pleaded guilty to robbing the Dunkin’ Donuts at 31 E. Adams with his hand under a newspaper in August and to the attempted robbery of a McDonalds at 144 S. Wabash minutes later.

Cops arrested Gipson just steps from the McDonald’s entrance.

Cook County Judge Charles Burns approved the plea deal.

to basketball.

“I really wish that I was actually playing all those games I missed,” Viette said. “That was obviously one of my biggest bumps on the road and somehow, someway I had to go through it and fight through it. Just keep going through the process and an injury like that is really mental. Just keeping my head up.”

It took four months and a week for Viette to step foot on the Chicago hardwood again. Medical staff cleared Viette for game activity on Jan. 18 before Davis inserted him into the rotation against Deerfield High School on Jan. 19.

When Viette toed the scarlet red logo at the center of Lake View’s court on Jan. 23 against Marine Leadership Academy — a feverish home crowd roared in anticipation.

“I was in his shoes before where I fractured my foot and I had to sit out for a long time,” said Davis, who played at John A. Logan College and the Univ. of Illinois Springfield. “It’s just like, ‘Man, is this depression? What is this?’”

The trials and tribulations Davis experienced through his foot injury helped him make a final decision on Viette, who was championing at the bit to play the sport he loved again.

“It’s just like, ‘Does the coach trust me anymore because I’m not the same player anymore?’” Davis said. “So, I didn’t want Rocky to feel that way with me, the way that I felt with my coach in college. So, the day after he was cleared, I said, ‘You know what? Get in the game. Let’s see what you got.’”

Viette would make an immediate impact, going coast-to-coast before floating the ball over a 6’-10” defender and into the waiting arms of the net. Two days later, he sunk a pair of three-pointers from the corner to seal a 68-61 overtime victory over Wauconda High School.

“He brought out a lot of energy like he always does,” said junior guard Kevin Delaney, who scored 30 points in the recent win. “He was just the type of guy to come on the court with a lot of energy, sacrificing his body.”

When Viette toed the scarlet red logo at the center of Lake View’s court on Jan. 23 against Marine Leadership Academy — a feverish home crowd roared in anticipation.

“I just told him, ‘Just make sure that you go out there and give it your all as if it’s the first game of the season,’” Davis said. “Try to erase the past.”

“His story’s been pretty incredible.”

Four months and a week are now gone and in the rearview mirror.

Rocky Viette’s eyes glance forward, as the final games of his high school basketball career — the moments he will cherish the rest of his life — still await him in the coming weeks.

“It’s a blessing. I got my opportunity to still play,” Viette said. “Obviously, my high school career is not over.”

Chicago-style, Fixed-Trunnion lift bridges, though neither bridge’s lift capabilities are functional anymore.

Repair and rehabilitation work for these two bridges will include repairs to the road deck, trusses, footings, walls and approaches, pedestrian handrails, sidewalks, and to the bridge houses. Lighting improvements along the bridges and along the bridge approaches will be made as well.

The Cortland Bridge was closed to traffic and repaired by the city in 2015, but apparently those repairs weren’t enough to stave off the coming rebuild.

Both projects are in the preliminary phases and are undergoing Engineering and Environmental studies, and public review. Construction is expected to begin on the Webster Ave. Bridge in 2020, and the Cortland St. Bridge in 2021.

For more information, email Charlene. Howell@CityOfChicago.org or call 312-744-3244.

World Trade Center and the Plaza Hotel in New York, stopping construction on a jail in Detroit due to $100 million in cost overruns, paying $201 million for fraud in Australia, and overcharging the U.S. government $4.2 million to provide support for the Iraqi Army.

In October, AECOM refunded Chicago almost $200,000 for work on the Washington and Wabash L station.

The city told the media this company is the “most qualified.” A more likely answer is that this company has the right friends to continue fleecing tax payers.

AECOM’s vice president for Chicago was the Commissioner of Planning and Development under Mayor Richard J. Daley. A former board member gave Emanuel $50,000, and its PAC has given $2,200 to Mayoral candidate Toni Preckwinkle and $1,500 to indicted Ald. Ed Burke [14th] and $4,500 to Metropolitan Water Reclamation District Commissioner Barbara McGowan.

The company has also given money to aldermen on the South Side where the police academy will be located, including $3,400 to Ald. Michelle Harris and her 8th Ward Democratic committee, and donated more than $25,000 to city and county committees, mostly the aldermanic black caucus. For minority compliance, AECOM hired a firm owned by the uncle of Ald. Roderick Sawyer [6th], and brother of former Mayor Eugene Sawyer, according to Chicago Reporter.

Some community activists have opposed building the police academy, saying the money can be better spent on increased social services and education.

The police and fire academy is opposed by mayoral candidates Amara Enyia, LaShawn Ford, Lori Lightfoot, Toni Preckwinkle and Willie Wilson, who all promised to stop the police academy if elected.

five homes down from where he was arrested in November.

On Dec. 20, the November case was thrown out due to lack of laboratory results. The next day, the Illinois Dept. of Corrections revoked his parole and Means went back to prison due to the December case.

Then, on Jan. 9, prosecutors were forced to drop the December case because (again) the crime lab had not returned tests.

Two days later, Means was released from prison because he was no longer considered to be in violation of his parole.

Late last week, Means was arrested on the West Side again. This time, police say they caught him with 35 grams of heroin and more than two grams of cocaine. Prosecutors on Saturday told Judge Sophia Atcherson that Means is a high ranking member of the Traveling Vice Lords and he’s a driving force of violence in the area of Chicago and Homan avenues.

The prosecution went on to say that they hope to have Means indicted by a Grand Jury this week for the November and December cases that had been thrown out due to “no labs” and they then displayed images from Means’ Facebook page showing Means and others throwing up gang signs, pointing guns, and displaying cash. In the end, the state asked Judge Atcherson to set a high bond.

After hearing all of that, Atcherson somehow decided to release Means on a recognizance bond.

Quarter Pounder

Police were driving in the 200 block of S. Keeler around 10 a.m. on Jan. 3 when they allegedly saw parolee Derrick McCampbell, 26, remove a baseball-sized object from a hidden compartment in the air vents of his car, according to a police report.

McCampbell was pulled over, and police reported finding 120 grams—more than a quarter pound—of suspected heroin divided into 183 baggies plus $5,855 cash in his car. Another $372 was found on McCampbell’s person, police said.

After being read the Miranda warning, McCampbell told officers, “I sell drugs to provide for my three kids and I have to do what I have to do to make money. I have never been caught with this much, though,” according to an arrest report.

McCampbell, who has been on parole since Dec. 5 after serving half of a three-year sentence for selling cocaine to an undercover cop near a school in 2015, was charged with Class X felony manufacture-delivery of heroin.

But, when the state’s narcotics tests had not been returned by McCampbell’s second appearance on the charges Friday, prosecutors were forced to drop the case.

And again

Then, there’s the case of Lamont Pitts, 26. Police say they found him in the 4000 block of W. Jackson with 75 grams of heroin worth $11,250 divided into 126 baggies on the morning of Jan. 5th. Cops said they also recovered $2,000 cash.

Prosecutors charged Pitts with Class X felony manufacture-delivery of heroin. But, once again, the state failed to return forensics testing on the suspect drugs in time for Pitt’s second court appearance last Friday. Charges were dropped.

Pitts is currently awaiting trial in a previous case that has him facing charges of manufacture-delivery of heroin in the 4300 block of W. Van Buren last August, according to court records.
