Infrastructure and development part of alderman's community meeting

BY ELAINE COORENS Our Urban Times

Infrastructure and development were the primary topics of the Greater Goethe Neighborhood Association's (GGNA) February meeting with Ald. Scott Waguespack [32nd] in Haas Park, 2402 N. Washtenaw Ave.

As Waguespack reviewed some projects, he explained that the $1.3 million given to each alderman this year is coming from sales tax revenue rather than bond monies. That, in fact, saves interest money that the city would have to pay on the bonds.

However despite promising to stop bad borrowing practices that push payments down the road for taxpayers, Mayor Rahm Emanuel continues scoop-and-toss borrowing, as pointed out in several stories in the Chicago Tribune.

In an $8 billion budget, the total for menu money is less than $70 million, which is supposed to be spent on roads and lights. Instead it needs to be spent on far more, said Ald. Waguespack. Schools, parks and now cultural affairs reach out for these dollars.

While $1.3 may sound like a lot of money per ward, the needs far exceed that amount of money. This year each ward must pay $10,000 to Cultural Affairs artwork, for according the alderman. It is unknown whether aldermen will have any say in the expenditure of the $10,000.

Ald. Scott Waguespack To put costs into perspective, redoing an alley could cost upwards of $300,000 while regular street repairs could cost around $50,000 per street.

Those numbers explain why Ald. Waguespack and his staff attempt to schedule such things as water main replacement before repaving a street. Without sched-

Stretching from Logan Blvd. north, beyond the former flyover bridge, to Roscoe, the repairs to Western Ave. should be completed by late summer, or early fall. During the tear-down, it was discovered that the structure was more deteriorated than originally believed.

Riverwalk finalist for national 'urban excellence' award

A gold medal and $50,000 could get the Riverwalk season off to a good start.

The 1.25 mile Riverwalk, now stretching from Lake Michigan to Lake St., is one of five finalists for the Rudy Bruner Award for Urban Excellence.

Named for the founder of The Bruner Foundation, a nonprofit organization located in Cambridge, MA, the national design award "recognizes transformative urban places distinguished by their economic and social contributions to America's cities," according to the foundation's website.

"The Riverwalk represents an extraordinary commitment from the City of Chicago to provide its citizens and visitors with a waterfront experience like nowhere else," said Gina Ford, a landscape architect and principal of Sasaki Associates, Inc., one of the designers of the Riverwalk.

It is awarded every other year. The 2015 Gold medal went to

The Chicago Riverwalk at full speed last August in front of Tiny Hatt.

Miller's Court, a renovated residential and office complex in Baltimore that was in a previous life a tin can manufacturer.

Other finalists include Bruce C. Bolling Municipal Building in Boston, renovation of 46 historic homes in New Orleans, La Kretz Innovation Campus + Arts District Park in Los Angeles, and Steel-Stacks Arts and Cultural Campus in Bethlehem, PA.

Four second-place winners will each gets $10,000. The money must be used to enhance the project.

A committee of design and development professionals - along with the mayor of Greenville, SC, - will select winners in June after reading award applications, visiting each site, interviewing project participants and community members. A detailed case study of the winning project will be published online and in a book.

The secret life of Fabulous Fred

In this Publicity Club of Chicago shot, Fred Strauss is circled above, located in the middle to the top row.

The World War Two hero nobody knew about, and the family he never got back

BY RONALD ROENIGK

First of a two-part series

Chicago had a World War II hero in its midst for nearly 40 years and never knew about it.

This hero had a family back in Germany he never met.

He may also have had a family fortune he did not live long enough to reclaim.

Fred Strauss was born in 1925 in Germany and died Feb. 5, 2016, in Skokie Hospital. He is now resting at Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery in Elwood, near Joliet.

From 1978 to 1988 Strauss was the Executive Director of the Lincoln Park Chamber of Commerce [LPCC]. He had moved to Chicago from Cleveland and took the position when the neighborhood was a lot less tony and the chamber was more like an old boys club, not the diverse, dynamic 400-plus member organization it is today.

Strauss also had stints with the Near North Business Assoc., the Streeterville Chamber of Commerce, the American Cancer Society, the Chicago Paint & Coatings Assoc., and while in Cleveland he promoted bands, a TV game show, night clubs and restaurants as a public relations professional.

His PR career was notable enough that he served as a past president of the Publicity Club of Chicago and received their Lifetime Achievement Award, their most prestigious award. It honors distinguished individual achievement in public relations and communications.

Last year some of his family in Germany came to Chicago to find Fred, or at least seek out more information on Strauss... they knew they had an ancestor in America but had only recently discovered that this man was actually Fred Strauss of Chicago.

Fred had moved to America for the second time -- in 1948, and for good reasons, the woman

Fred, in fact, first came to America in Jan., 1938, as a 12-year-old boy, when the Nazis were on the rise and just before all hell broke loose on the continent. He was fostered by two Chicago families in Rogers Park.

The information that has now come to light, and is in these two stories, was offered by his family in Germany. More of it came from the National Archives in Washington D.C., and also from post-war investigations in Germany.

This newspaper is a member of the LPCC, and was when Strauss was their executive director. This reporter worked on many events, promotions and projects with him during those days, enough so that even after Fred left the Chamber we remained friends. Those who

City needs plan for its Calder piece, but first go see it

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

It was a circus. Oct. 25, 1974 was Alexander Calder Day in Chicago. A rare happening for our metropolis to celebrate the artistry of our greatest "living" American sculptor. The day was autumnal, energy-filled and bursting with the atmosphere of the "Big Top," especially in downtown Chicago along Adams St. from Dearborn to Wacker.

Two rarified works by Calder, a former Ringling Brothers worker, ironically, were about to be unveiled, enriching the quality of Chicago's public art.

Since Aug. 15, 1967, when Pablo Picasso's "Tete du Femme" was first presented in what we now call Daley Plaza at Dearborn and Washington, the city had gone through a kind of artistic metamorphosis. Chicagoans were growing more comfortable with modern world-class art. With out of doors locations, Chicago public art could be enjoyed by all. It didn't take long for everyday Chicagoans to begin boasting about the works of famous artists the way they do about the Sox or the Cubs. Even if we don't understand them, we really do thrive on having the biggest, the best, the first, the largest and the most of anything. Give us something to brag about and we will gladly thump our chests no matter how artistic it sounds.

If you were not around that day this is what you missed: Crowds assembled at the Kluczynski Building in the Federal Plaza. There, across from where the post office now stands, Calder's 54'-tall sculpture called "Flamingo" was unveiled. A giant tomato red long-limbed bird reclining. Its still our finest outdoor public art, if you ask me.

When the ceremonies there concluded, the crowd and the large marching band that had been playing music throughout the event were all invited to march up Adams St. to Wacker Dr. to the newest, tallest and most modern skyscraper in Chicago and the world, the 103-story Sears Tower. Still brand new.

Alexander Calder (1898-1976)

So in what seemed a big top-like atmosphere the crowd paraded its way up a few blocks west led by Himself, Mayor Richard J. Daley. At Sears Tower the mayor was unveiling another Calder work, inside the spanking new lobby, called "Universe." A "mobile" of motion and movement covering an entire interior wall. It may be Calder's most splendid work. A singular piece of American modern design by an artist without equal. It was Chicago's link to the great art movements of the early days of 20th century Paris.

In 2017, 43 years later, a $500 million renovation of the Willis Tower (i.e., the Sear Tower) has recently been announced by Mayor Rahm Emanuel and the building's present New York owners, the Blackstone Group.

Bold designs include a complete reworking of the outer area of the ground floor of the building and lobby. Multi-use commercial street level shops, stores and restaurants will refashion the current space. However, no plans are underway to retain the Calder mobile in the reworked ground space. No details either about what plans, if any, have been made for the work.

When Chicago Tribune architectural columnist Blair Kamin reported that news, it sent a chill through fans of both art and architecture. It raises questions that reach into the very depth of the Philistine soul, until we are offered some acceptable, worthy plan for the future for this exquisite work.

What do the New Yorkers know? Does the Blackstone Group share Chicago's love for Calder's work? Or are they completely detached from Chicago's passion for his work that is so reflective of our muscular, quirky urban beauty?

These questions must be asked.

Flamingo by Clader

Upfront, a clear and purposeful plan must be in place. No repeats, here, of the Aby Rosen travesty surrounding New York's Seagram's Building's removal and disregard of Picasso's rare lobby mural. Such idiocy cannot be endured again, especially here.

If you think about it, even the 2009 renaming of the Sears Tower was ridiculous and hard for many Chicagoans to swallow. The tower has been so iconic. Its construction cements the city to the age of massive modern design and fearless construction.

Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, the firm who first designed Sears Tower, was adventurous to "bundle" all that glass and steel upward to the skies back in 1973. The great Skidmore engineer, the late Fazlur Rahman Kahn, had the genius to figure out how to physically accomplish the project. And the "bundling" that produced the world's tallest skyscraper at the time. Can anyone not present for "Calder Day" back in 1974 really appreciate how the mobile fits into our urban character and history?

As a young man, Calder (1898-1976) emerged as a constructionist sculptor in Paris when it was at its most electric and edgy before World War II. His relationship to the great artists of the era, especially Pablo Picasso, Marcel Duchamp, Jean Arp and Piet Mondrian was legendary.

When Picasso painted his controversial work "Guernica" that so galvanized the world in the aftermath of the slaughter of the Spanish Civil War, Calder's artistic significance was already profound. When the Republican government of Spain sought to open a pavilion to feature the work at the 1937 World's Fair in Paris, Calder became the only non-Spaniard chosen to exhibit an important work. Designed to showcase Spain's greatest artists, the Spanish government reached out to Calder to fashion a fountain that would display one the country's greatest natural resources, Mercury.

Cortland Bridge closed for construction

The Cortland St. bridge westbound lane and north sidewalk snow closed until Friday, Feb. 24 for utility tunnel repair work. The Dept. of Transportation will also be detouring traffic as follows:

- Westbound car traffic is being detoured to Webster Ave. via Clybourn, Ashland and Elston avenues
- Westbound trucks are being detoured to North Ave. via Clybourn, Ashland and Elston avenues
- Westbound bicycle riders may walk their bikes on the southern sidewalk, taking care to give pedestrians the right-of-way.

These changes will also impact the westbound #73 Armitage bus through March 3 because Cortland will be closed between Southport and Racine (westbound only) to all vehicular traffic. Therefore buses will reroute as follows:

- Operate regular route to Clybourn/Cortland, (continue)
- Southeast on Clybourn to Sheffield, (turn right)
- South on Sheffield to North Ave, (turn right)
- West on North Ave to Elston, (turn right)
- Northwest on Elston to Cortland, (turn left)
- West on Cortland over regular route

Eastbound buses will not be affected.

Rent control? Uncel Sam allowed 15% apartment rent hikes in 1947

The Home Front

By Don DeBat

Tenant advocacy groups may always be on the war-path about rising rents and gentrification, but the truth is Chicago apartment renters have infinitely more rights and consumer protection now than decades ago.

Now, State Rep. Will Guzzardi (39th) is urging repeal of the state's Rent Control Preemption Act, a law passed by the Illinois Legislature in 1997 that prohibits local governments from enacting rent-control ordinances.

Since there are no limitations on landlords demanding excessive or unfair residential and commercial rent increases, Rep. Guzzardi says this has led to "skyrocketing rents and encroaching gentrification of once stable neighborhoods" in Chicago and throughout Illinois.

However, apartment owners and managers argue that Mayor Rahm Emanuel's aggressive 2015 property tax hike combined with sharply higher water and sewer charges, plus new garbage fees are forcing landlords to raise rents to maintain thin profit margins.

Faced with a 28% real estate tax increase and substantially higher city "utility fees last year, one Lincoln Park 4-flat owner was forced to raise rents four percent to 5.5%, or about $100 a month.

Because of the post-World War II housing shortage, many larger three-flats in Chicago were split into six-flats. If an apartment building had six units, it was split into 12 units.

Did you know that when federal rent control was still in effect after World War II, it was perfectly legal for a landlord to slap a tenant with a 15% rent hike?

In a 1947 lease filed in this writer's archives, the federal Housing Expediter Office of Rent Control allowed the landlord of a vintage Old Town apartment building to hike rents a whopping 15%—the maximum allowed under the law.

The rent on the two-bedroom unit rose to $23 a month from $20. Sounds like a pittance today, but in the late 1940s a good weekly wage was $40, or about $2,080 a year.

The federal agency attached a two-page notice to the skimpy two-page "Registration of Lease." The notice said that the lease may not contain an escalator clause, an option for the landlord to terminate the lease at will, and it can't include "conditions or covenants which exact penalties, or decrease services."

Today, the tenant friendly 2017 Chicago Assoc. of Realtors' lease is 19 pages long. Only four pages are dedicated to the actual rental agreement. The remaining 15 pages of administrative boiler plate cover an outline of the Chicago Landlord Tenant Ordinance, allowable interest charges on security deposits, lead-based paint and radon disclosures, and information on bed bugs.

In 1947, 70 years ago, if the apartment was furnished prior to rent control, the agency ordered the landlord to maintain the required furnishings and equipment to the same level regulated by the prior lease.

In those post-Depression days, Old Town was a blue-collar neighborhood where bath houses were in vogue. Bathrooms in worker's cottages and frame three-flats built immediately after the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 often had a toilet and washbowl, but no bath tub.

Turn-of-the-century apartment amenities might only include a bare electric light bulb hanging from the ceiling and a coal burning pot-belly stove for heat. Kitchens were equipped with a wall-hung cold water sink on legs. If the apartment had hot water, a ringer-type washing machine—a luxury—sometimes sat in the corner of the kitchen.

Because of the post-World War II housing shortage, many larger three-flats in Chicago were split into six-flats. If an apartment building had six units, it was split into 12 units.

After the war, the U.S. Congress was heavily lobbied by real estate interests, so the 15% "catch-up" rent increase was allowed after legislators enacted the Rent Act of 1947. The act moved administration of the federal rent control program to the Office of the Housing Expediter, an agency established in 1946 to oversee veterans' mortgage assistance programs.

The Rent Act created new local advisory boards that had power to recommend across-the-board rent increases in entire neighborhoods or types of buildings, noted historian Wendy Plotkin, who wrote about post World War II rent control. That's how Chicago's 15% rent hike was allowed in 1947.

The advisory board, headed by Henry Spaulding, an African American Realtor from the South Side, was the main advocate for landlords. The new board dealt with a wide assortment of rent control violations, from bonus payments ("side payments" above the maximum rents set by the board), illegal evictions and unauthorized subleasing, according to Plotkin.

The need for federally imposed rent control as GIs returned home from World War II was rooted in pressures on the housing supply shortage. Nationwide, it was estimated that the nation had a shortage of four million to five million units at the beginning of the war.

The U.S. government attempted to use voluntary rent-control boards at the beginning of the war, but many landlords ignored "appeals to patriotism, reason, civic pride, and a sense of fair play," Plotkin wrote in 1998, in "Rent Control in Chicago After World War II: Politics, People, & Controversy."

Although rent control officially ended in Chicago in 1953 after the end of the Korean War, the city was subject to federally mandated rent controls between Aug. of 1971 and Jan. of 1973 under the Nixon administration's wage and price guidelines.

Throughout the 1980s, Chicago's strong real-estate lobby fought rent control. However, in 1987, the city council adopted a Tenants Bill of Rights, the forerunner to the current Landlord Tenants Ordinance.

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN Loop North News

Chanting "Hands too small, can't build a wall," about 50 to 100 protesters dropped trou along the Chicago River on Sunday afternoon and aimed their angst at Trump International Hotel & Tower.

Closer to 200 people watched the "mooning" of Trump Tower, organized by Columbia College student Bailey Austin Davis, including police officers from both the Loop and Near North police districts.

The goal of the event, according to Davis, who studies theatre directing, was to get President Donald Trump to publicly release his income tax returns.

"We want to see his taxes and we will bare our asses," Davis told the crowd, encouraging them to tweet photos of their butts directly to Trump. "Today we shall stand together as one nation and say, 'Hey, Mr. President, this is what our butt looks like.""

Following a brief countdown, the protesters, standing on the south bank, bared bottoms for about a minute in the direction of Trump Tower on the other side of the river.

The crowd was egged on by Jason, a megaphone-wielding man dressed as Donald Trump. Jason told a reporter he was a legitimate Trump voter attending the event in support of a friend, the woman at right, owner of a small business in Chicago.

The woman dropped her pants, too, revealing to the crowd the words, drawn onto her buttocks, "YOU LOST."

Why not be a Mariano Park dreamer?

Mariano Park, 1021 N. State St., our North Side's miniscule treasure of an international mecca, for locals and visitors alike, is up for grabs again. The issues and people involved in this continuing, pathetic land grab are well known.

Maya Angelou taught us that when someone shows you who they are, believe them the first time. How apt in this scenario.

Myriad solutions and propositions for that tiny space have been proffered, and new entrepreneurs are now being sought. Who is going to operate the concession there is anyone's guess. Regardless, what represents an optimal, honest outcome for this beloved, beleaguered speck of land, you decide.

I maintain the hope that Mariano Park may yet reclaim much of the stature that it has lost and become again an island of sanity in a sea of insanity. But then again, I've always been a bit of a dreamer.

Those who knew Strauss back then knew he was a bit particular, preferring to work behind the scenes, never wanting to be out front as the face of the LPCC or the Lincoln Park community. He was always the guy behind the camera, telling those in front of it where to stand or suggesting what to say to an audience.

While working for the LPCC, "Fred drove a big, old Ford Fairlane which we affectionately called his 'office,'" said Lino Darchun, who is today a local realtor, and like this reporter, an old friend of Strauss and long time

"Fred was called "Fabulous Fred" by many who knew him simply because he had a way of making miracles happen for the Chamber, primarily because of his perseverance," said Lino Darchun.

LPCC member. The car was the chamber's 'office' in that most of their records, documents, notes and paperwork were stored by Fred in that Ford.

"Fred was called "Fabulous Fred" by many who knew him simply because he had a way of making miracles happen for the Chamber, primarily because of his perseverance," said Darchun.

His professional life was so 'behind the scenes' that we could only locate one photo of him today to run with this story, a photo taken by the Publicity Club of Chicago for a special club program book in 2001. An online search for Strauss provided only a few of his quotes in print on the mere one-page of Intentional or not, for a man with such a large history, Strauss left behind a very small digital Strauss was born in Bielefeld in Westfalen, Germany. As a child he and his family were discriminated against in many ways because they were Jewish.

His father owned an electrical fixers store and after the Reichskristallnacht [Night of the Broken Glass] the people in town boycotted the store and the family fell into poverty. They were forced to leave their home and moved into a small apartment where they had to rent out rooms to strangers to make ends meet.

Although he was an excellent student, Strauss was thrown out of school because he was Jewish. His family, like many of their fellow Jews at that time, faced repression, overt threats and broad, institutionalized discrimination.

Fred's mother Fanny was from the Westfalen branch of the wealthy and well-known Wertheim family. This family created the first chain of modern department stores in Germany, the Wertheim Department Store chain, but they were stripped of their assets by the Nazis when they were subjected to the Nazi Aryanization policies in the late 1930s. Those stores were to Berlin then what Macy's or Bloomingdale's is to New York City today. And they were located on prime real estate that today remains extremely valuable.

The Jewish families who ran and owned the store were forced out by government mandate in 1939, forced to sell all their assets for well below their true value. According to an investigation by the Shoah Resource Center at The International School for Holocaust Studies, the parties involved in the takeovers were motivated less by ideology than by profits. The redistribution of the closely held company stock and assets benefited only a limited number of private persons, not to mention the creditor banks.

Today the Karstadt Group, which owns many German department stores, is the successor of the Wertheim Department Stores. In March, 2005, the German Courts awarded $17 million in reparations to two heirs in New Jersey for some of their families loses.

Strauss may have also been considered a surviving heir through his mother, but he never received any reparations while he was alive. The department store shares of stock were tightly held by a small group of family members and it is not known if Fred's mother had rights to any of this stolen fortune. The process of proving a

Fred Strauss's descendants are seeking any information from his friends and associates, especially any photos that might be available. No detail is too mundane or obscure, whether from his school years, work or the neighborhood. The family has established the following e-mail address to take information and receive queries:

fred.strauss.legacy@ gmail.com legitimate claim for reparations is complex, bureaucratic and, ironically, in some ways made more difficult for those who escaped and survived.

As the fate of Jews in Germany spiraled out of control, Fred's mother fought to get him on the Kindertransport (Children's Transport) in 1938. It was not easy but it saved his life. At the same time it no doubt also left deep emotional scars and traumatic stress on a young boy fleeing terror, leaving his family behind and heading off into an unknown future in a strange land.

The Kindertransport operation brought more than 10,000 children out of Nazi Germany 78 years ago in a passage from hell to freedom. Kristallnacht and the pogroms impoverished and killed many Jews, burned hundreds of synagogues, and resulted in the imprisonment of tens of thousands of people in concentration camps. Many historians see these actions as the start of Hitler's Final Solution.

Amid the horror, England agreed to take in most of those children threatened by the Nazi's. Those children, most but not all Jewish, would escape Germany in the months to come - until the outbreak of war in Sept., 1939, when the borders were closed. By then the USA had taken in only 1,100 children, so Fred's arrival in Chicago was a rarity.

Strauss arrived in America all alone as a 12-year old boy and came first to the Edison Family home on N. Bosworth Ave. in Rogers Park as a foster son, then moved in with the Lederman Family at 1713 W. Wallen Ave. as a second foster home on the North Side.

Strauss never saw his German family again... Fred's parents were killed in Auschwitz in March, 1943. The one small suitcase he was allowed to take with him is today in the collection of the Skokie Holocaust Museum.

"The rest of his family didn't survive the Holocaust, they were killed in concentration camps,' said Tanja Appel, one of Strauss' descendants, in an email she sent to Darchun asking him for any details he may have had on Fred. Appel and her husband visited Chicago in Sept., 2016, to seek out information on Strauss.

The family had only discovered the actual identification and location of their Fred Strauss in April of 2016, nine weeks after his death. The September trip was made to try and find out more information on their newly discovered - and now deceased ancestor. "We knew Fred existed but did not know it was this Fred Strauss," she said.

While they were here they called the Publicity Club of Chicago and talked to its executive director David Brinn, and also stopped in at the Chamber office to see what information they might have to offer about Strauss.

And thus is how Fred's secret past at once became known to his old friends.

They are still seeking out information on Strauss and are hoping this publicity will bring more to reach out to them. The family has established the following email address to take information and receive queries: fred.strauss. legacy@gmail.com.

"When she called I was so hoping something would come of the search, that other people would find out what I had just heard about Fred's war years," said Brinn, who also considered Fred a personal friend. In the first conversation this reporter had with Brinn, he referred to "Fabulous Fred" so his notable nickname was not strictly a LPCC thing.

What Appel discovered about Fred's war years, and has now shared, is what surprised most of his old friends in America. That will be covered in part two of this Fabulous Fred part 2 will run next week, in the Feb. 22 edition.

Hawaiian slack key masters return to Old Town School Friday

George Kahumoku Jr. and Nathan Aweau, masters of Hawaiian slack key guitar, will be returning Friday to perform at the Old Town School of Folk Music, 4544 N. Lincoln Ave. Joining them this year onstage will be slack-key guitarist Kawika Kahiapo.

On Maui, the three musicians frequently perform together at the Napili Kai Beach Resort's weekly Slack Key Show hosted by Kahumoku. In Chicago, the three will be performing at the Gary and Laura Maurer Concert Hall at 8 p.m. Tickets for the show are $26 for the general public and $24 for Old Town School members.

Slack-key guitar, known as kiho`alu in the Hawaiian language, uses guitar-tunings modified from standard guitar tunings. By either raising or lowering the tunings of the individual strings, slack-key guitarists achieve a sound recognizable as distinctly Hawaiian. The style originated during the 1830s among native Hawaiian cowboys (paniolo in Hawaiian). Until recently, many of these tunings were considered family secrets and were not shared with others.

The Hawaiians had been trained in cattleranching techniques by Spanish-speaking cowboys from Mexico (Vaqueros). The visitors, many of whom were skilled musicians, enjoyed performing for their Hawaiian hosts. Upon their departure, many gave their guitars to the Hawaiians.

According to Kahumoku, the Mexican vaqueros had played three types of guitars and had usually performed as a trio. These trios consisted of a four-string bass guitar; a six-string rhythm guitar; and a 4-string tenor lead guitar.

"Hawaiians combined the sound of these three into one. They slackened or loosened the strings, picking bass, rhythm and lead all at once, and the art of slack key guitar was born. Families developed their own tunings and incorporated old Hawaiian-language chants into modern songs with melodies," Kahumoku says.

Last year, Kahumoku completed his latest recording, the eponymous Kahumoku: Priest of the Land. The songs on the album were written by Kahumoku over a span of 40 years. The title is an homage to his family. For decades, his ancestors were farmers and ranchers. As such, they were connected to the land and considered themselves to be stewards of the land.

"The songs were written for loved ones, hoaloha (dear friends) wahi pana (special places) and family events, such as weddings and baby parties. These songs are a reflection of 'aina aloha (love for the land) that has been a theme for my entire life," Kahumoku said.

In addition to his illustrious career in Hawaiian music, Kahumoku has also spent decades in education, both as an administrator and as a classroom instructor. While he is proud of his work in the classroom, he also appreciates the education he received from his parents, grandparents and ancestors.

"My father, George Kahumoku, Sr. quit school after eighth-grade and broke horses for McCandless Ranch in South Kona (on the Big Island of Hawaii). My great-grandfather, Willy Kahumoku, was instrumental in building the stone walls that contained the cattle [on the Big Island] from Kona, all the way to Waimea. My parents, grandparents, great grandparents all played Kih'olu guitar. I've been playing and performing slack key guitar farming, and ranching all of my life," Kahumoku said.

For most of the 20th century, slack-key guitar had been overshadowed by Hawaiian steel-guitar music. By the late 1960s, interest in traditional Hawaiian folk music was revived during a movement that became known as the Hawaiian Renaissance. Among those in the forefront in this revival was The Sons of Hawaii, a now legendary band which featured the late Gabby Pahinui on slack key guitar.

Growing up on the windward side of Oahu, Kawika Kahiapo considers himself lucky to have heard Pahinui perform on a regular basis with his father in garage jam sessions. Those performances served as an inspiration to Kahiapo. Quietly, he spent countless hours alone with his guitar to duplicate what he had heard and at age 17, he embarked on a career as a professional Joining Kahiapo and Kahumoku will be Nathan Aweau, one of Hawaii's most recognized vocal performers. Prior to his career as a solo artist, Aweau has been a member of two of Hawaii's most well-known bands The Ali`i (the house band of the legendary Don Ho) and HAPA. He spent 16 years as the bass player of The Ali`i. Afterwards, he joined HAPA, with whom Aweau received critical acclaim as their primary vocalist. It was as a member of HAPA that Aweau first performed on the Old Town stage. Last year, Aweau returned as a solo performer.

Deaf theater co. plans first show

Chicago D(ART), or Deaf ART, will launch of its inaugural season with David Rush's "Police Deaf Near Far."

Rush has been a professional dramatist and educator for more than 20 years. He currently heads the playwriting program at Southern Illinois University Carbondale. Loosely based on actual events, his show follows the parallel stories of a young deaf rights activist and two police officers as their worlds tragically collide.

The inaugural production will run July 25 through Aug. 9 at Steep Theatre Company's Edgewater theatre, 1115 W. Berwyn Ave. Shows will be at 7:30 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. General admission is $15; the student price is $12.

Auditions for "Police Deaf Near Far" will be held Feb. 24-25 at the Cuckoo's Theatre Project, 7077 N. Ashland Blvd.

D(ART)'s vision is to be recognized as a home for art and culture for deaf artists in the city. The group intends to create quality works in a variety of mediums that reflect the underserved deaf and hard of hearing communities in Chicago. For more information call 904-703-5940.

Nate Beuscher

Is the Blackstone Group willing to be respectful of the Calder work currently in their lobby here? In light of their announcement there are things I propose:

The first thing you should do is to go visit it. You will be glad you did. I hope you are overwhelmed.

You can also write the Blackstone Group and express your concern that this important work could be taken out of Chicago. They're at 345 Park Ave., New York, New York 10154. Stephen Schwarzman is the CEO.

I think Mayor Emanuel might also investigate a strategy to keep the Calder here. Perhaps the wonderful staff at the Art Institute will make some major play for it.

Maybe the Blackstone Group are in a generous mood and might consider giving it to the Art Institute of Chicago or the Museum of Contemporary Art. On loan to Chicago in perpetuity, like the Chagall windows.

Chicago holds some of America's choicest artistic treasures. The Calder would be a handsome and noble gift infusing Chicago's self-understanding with refreshed whimsy and soul. It's not just a massive mechanical toy. It is the very story of modern American art.

It's all freshly padlocked. Double Door hopes for a Logan Square site soon. Fans are despondent.

ESCALATING CRIME: Mayor Emanuel had to have the "606" high line project pushed ahead through Bucktown's unused rail line, but now that crime there soars residents are told there is no longer sufficient Chicago Police to adequately patrol the dangerous geography. Are the crime stats even true? And what do we make of Cook County who continues to let dangerous criminals back out on the streets to rob and pillage? # Hold-ups continue on North Side

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

A woman told police that she was robbed on a CTA Red Line train at the Sheridan station on Saturday.

The victim stated that a black male wearing a patterned face mask and a puffy red NorthFace jacket robbed her at gunpoint around 11:15 p.m. Police searched the area for the offender but came up empty-handed.

The hold-up was the latest in a string of robberies across Lakeview and Lincoln Park:

- An elderly woman was knocked to the ground and robbed of her purse in the 2900 block of N.Commonwealth around 6:50 p.m. on Monday. A passer-by found the woman lying on the ground and bleeding, police said. The victim was not able to offer descriptions of her attackers because they jumped her from behind.
- Two Center on Halsted clients were beaten and robbed at the Addison CTA Red Line station around 3:15 p.m. on Monday. The victims told police that three women and four men attacked and robbed them as they stood on the platform. The victims told police that they believed the offenders may have fled back to the Center on Halsted, but cops did not find anyone matching the offenders de-

Last meeting for North Branch planning Feb. 21

The Chicago Dept. of Planning and Development (DPD) will be hosting the last public meeting for the North Branch Industrial Corridor from 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21, at UI Labs, 1415 N. Cherry Ave.

Neighbors are encouraged to attend this meeting and see what the city has planned for this North Side riverfront zone and express your support or opposition for commercial, residential and public recreational uses. The meeting's purpose is to review proposed new land use and redevelopment guidelines for the corridor, as well as implementation strategies. The meeting will involve presentations by City staff and consultants with time for comments, questions and answers. Those who cannot the attend the meeting are encouraged to email comments on uses for this real estate to DPD@ cityofchicago.org.

Some of the themes the city has discussed with the public during the planning process include efforts to protect and grow jobs and maintain the North Branch as an economic engine and vital job center; Provide better access for people, and build upon the area's unique natural and built assets.

An RSVP is recommended due to facility requirements, visit www.eventbrite.com/e/mayor-emanuels-industrial-corridor-initiative-north-branch-tickets-31882059097.

After this meeting, DPD will post the draft land use and development framework on the North Branch section of the department web site. Public comments will be accepted for 30 days and incorporated into a final framework to be posted in early spring.

scriptions there.

The victims lost a large tan purse and eyeglasses to the offenders, who were only described as black. One of the men was wearing a shower cap, the victims said.

- · Another woman also reported being robbed by a group of men and women in Boystown this week. The victim said that she was near Halsted and Melrose when a group of six men and women beat her up and stole her phone around 9:15 p.m. on Sunday. The primary offender is described as a 25-yearold black man who stands about 5'-10" tall and has short dreadlocks. Another man with a similar description wore a bright red bomber jacket. According to the victim, the entire group fled eastbound on Melrose.
- A Lakeview man told police that three men punched him in the face and body, then stole his wallet as he walked near Roscoe and Marshfield around 6:10 a.m. on Sunday. The offenders cruised up in a car with its lights off, then jumped out and attacked the victim. They are described as black men between 16- and 25-years-old who all wore dark clothing.
- Three women were robbed at gunpoint Sunday afternoon in the 2500 block of N. Burling in Lincoln Park. Two men each brandished a firearm and took the women's belongings around 12:30 p.m., police said. The offenders were last seen running toward Lincoln Ave. Both offenders were described as black male teenagers. One of them has short braids.

According to a source, one of the women's credit cards was used at a BP station in the 1200 block of S. Wabash about 90 minutes after the hold-up.

- Two men wearing ski masks robbed a victim at gunpoint in the 1200 block of W. Draper near DePaul Univ. around 2:20 a.m. Wednesday. The victim told police that the offenders may have fled in a black sedan with tinted windows. Both men were black, with one dressed in all red clothing who stands about 6' tall. The other man is shorter and wore all black, the victim said.
- Two men robbed a dry cleaning store in the 2300 block of N. Clark St. at 11:50 a.m. on Feb. 8. The offenders are described as three black men including one who has dreads and another who wore an olive coat. They were last seen heading southbound on Clark St. near the former Walgreens store.

Man assaults children at Ogden School

Tasewell Dugger, 46, of the 9200 block of Ellision Dr., St.Louis, has been charged with four felony counts including aggravated battery to children under 13, great bodily harm and criminal trespass to state land when he was arrested after being positively identified as the offender who illegally entered a restricted CPS playground 11 a.m. on Feb. 7 and struck four children between the ages of six and seven, as well as a 45-year-old female school administrator.

The incident occurred at the Odgen School on W. Walton St. Officers from the 18th District responded to the scene and placed Dugger in custody.

The victims suffered minor injuries and were treated on scene.

Man shot by girlfriend's ex-boyfriend in Old Town

A man was shot by his girl-friend's ex-boyfriend early Sunday in the Old Town neighborhood. The 24-year-old man was with his girlfriend about 2:50 a.m. inside a home in the 400 block of W. Evergreen, when the female's ex-boyfriend came in and got into a fight with the man, according to Police.

During the fight, the ex-boyfriend pulled out a gun and fired. The man suffered a graze wound to the head and was taken to Northwestern Memorial Hospital, where his condition was stabilized.

The ex-boyfriend ran away after the shooting, but police recovered the weapon. No one is in custody as of deadline.

Police Beat....

Juveniles charged in North Side robbery spree

Two teenagers have been charged in connection with a series of armed robberies across the North Side last weekend.

The boys, ages 16 and 14, were taken into custody after being identified as the offenders who robbed victims from Streeterville to Rogers Park early on Saturday.

The two teenagers committed seven armed robberies early Saturday morning and stole an SUV before being chased and arrested by police.

Police say that the two teens approached two women and five men between 2:15 a.m. and 4 a.m. with a gun and robbed them. In one case they stole a woman's SUV.

Later that night officers saw two people who matched the robbers' description get out of a dark-colored SUV like the one reported stolen from the woman, police said.

When officers approached the two, the teens ran. Officers captured and arrested them.

Each was charged with seven felony counts of armed robbery and one count of attempted robbery with a firearm.

The robberies occurred in the 5200 block of N. Wolcott Ave.; the 5900 block of N. Campbell Ave.; the 5500 block of N. Lincoln Ave.; 1900 block of W. Foster Ave.; 1900 block of W. Norwood Ave.; the 6200 block of N. Western Ave., and the 5300 block of North Virginia Ave.

One of the robbery victims wrote a letter to 20th District Commander Sean Loughran to thank officers for their efforts.

"I appreciate the job CPD does on both the street and in the station. In this case, the officers... exuded the highest level of professionalism and duty," the woman wrote.

Armed woman fatally shot by police after taser fails to drop her

Two veteran 19th District police officers shot and killed a woman who was armed with a large knife in North Center on Friday evening, according to a department spokesman.

The woman lunged at officers with the knife repeatedly and she was shot after an officer's Taser failed to bring her down, the spokesman said.

Seconds before the woman was shot, an officer's Taser could be heard crackling on police radio traffic secured by this newspaper:

[Sound of Taser] Male Officer: [Expletive]!

[More Taser sound]

Male Officer: We got [unintelligible] with a knife. Taser deployed. Nothing happened. Dispatcher: 1922, is that you on Western? 1922?

[Unintelligble]

Male Officer: Shots fired.

At 5:47 p.m., the male officer and a female officer—both with more than a decade on the force—responded to calls of a woman with a knife inside CVS Pharmacy at 3944 N. Western.

The woman, identified by authorities as Michele Robey, 55, left the store before cops arrived, but the officers soon encountered her nearby. Robey had been damaging story property and threatening CVS customers before exiting the store.

Robey failed to drop the knife and repeatedly threatened cops with it, according to police. At least one officer deployed a Taser and a witness reported seeing Taser wires dangling from Robey's back moments before police fired.

Tasers can be ineffective if the target is wearing thick clothing such as a winter coat.

Robey was pronounced dead at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center about an hour after the shooting.

The officers involved have been placed on routine administrative duties for a period of 30 days, per department regulations. The matter remains under investigation by the Independent Police Review Authority.

Demons

Robey's family and friends recently expressed concerns about her well-being after they saw unsettling social media posts.

On Jan. 17, Robey posted a photo of the Interstate Blood Bank in Albany Park and circled two areas of the facade that she titled "Angels and Demons," prompting two concerned reactions.

Five days earlier, Robey posted a note to a young woman's page. "Hi. I'm sorry I hurt you," Robey said. The woman's response: "I suggest you leave me alone."

And in early January, a friend wrote, "If you are friends with [Michele]... please, please do what you can to check on her... she is in trouble... if I was in Chicago I would be at her door but I'm in Oregon... please help."

Thirteen years for man who posed as Near North shrink

A federal judge sentenced an Indiana man to more than 13 years in prison for posing as a psychiatrist and prescribing medications to more than 50 people from Sept. 2015 to Feb. 2016 out of his Near North Side office.

The purported patients included a nine-yearold child, for whom Scott Redman prescribed a 30-day supply of Vyvanse, a medication that treats attention deficit hyperactivity disorder.

A jury in November convicted Redman on three counts of wire fraud, one count of aggravated identity theft, one count of furnishing false information to the Drug Enforcement Administration, and five counts of distributing a controlled substance.

In addition to the Vyvanse, Redman prescribed other controlled substances to his supposed patients, including Adderall, Clonazepam and Xanax, prosecutors said.

Gunman threatens women on North Center street; "Oh my god! I'm gonna die!"

A Lakeview woman and her friend ran for their lives after a man emerged from a North Center alley, pointed a handgun at their faces, and racked the gun's slide early Sunday.

Several 911 callers reported hearing one of the women scream, "Oh my God! I'm gonna die!" and "He has a gun!"

Other callers saw a man running from the scene as the women ran in the opposite direction.

The victims, who sought help inside a nearby bar, said they were walking in the 1800 block of W. Grace near Lincoln Ave. when the man emerged from the alley around 12:20 a.m.

The women ran away despite the offender's threat to shoot them if they did not stop, police said.

Police are unsure of the man's motive because the women did not stick around long enough to hear what the man wanted.

They describe the gunman as a white male wearing a black or gray hoodie who stands about 5'-8" tall.

Robbed on Ravenswood

Two offenders mugged a man in the 4400 block of N. Ravenswood on Saturday evening.

The victim told police that the robbers pulled out a handgun, took his wallet and phone, and then fled northbound on Ravenswood.

He described the offenders as two black men in their late teens or early 20's. Both wore black hoodies, and one may have worn a backpack.

Lakeview: armed robbery crew mugs woman, carjacks man Friday evening

Chicago police are investigating after a robbery crew mugged a Lakeview woman at gunpoint Friday evening and then carjacked a man who lives nearby. No one is in custody.

Shortly after 8 p.m., two teenagers demanded valuables while pointing a gun at a woman on the street near Kenmore and School. The woman went home and her husband called for police.

About 10 minutes later, four teenagers armed with a gun carjacked a man behind his home in the 3200 block of N. Southport.

The victim was getting ready to pick up carryout dinner when the four offenders approached, placed a gun to his head, and commandeered his 2006 Volvo.

Police believe both robberies were committed by the same offenders, according to a source.

Contents of the man's vehicle were found in an alley about a block from his home.

About an hour after the carjacking, one of the man's credit cards was used at a Mobil gas station in the 6700 block of S. Jeffrey in the South Shore neighborhood, according to a source.

The offenders are described as black male teenagers armed with one small black handgun. One stands about 6' tall and is very skinny. Another is about 5'-10" tall and wore a gray and black jacket with jeans.

Man pistol-whipped, girlfriend robbed

A Lakeview man was pistol-whipped by a robber who also mugged his girlfriend Sunday night near Roscoe and Seminary, according to police.

The couple was walking around 11 p.m. when the man was struck in the back of the head by an offender who took his wallet and cellphone as well as the woman's purse. An ambulance was summoned to treat the man's head injury.

Police later recovered the phone outside of a liquor store in the 3200 block of W. Montrose.

According to the couple, the offender was a tall black man with short facial hair. He stood about 6'-3" tall, weighs about 240 lbs., and he wore a black knit cap and a black jacket.

This attack played out about a block from where a Lakeview woman was robbed at gunpoint on Friday evening. Friday's victim lives about 10 doors down from the couple who was mugged Sunday night, according to a source.

Robbers surprise Psychic Salon

A Lincoln Park psychic salon reported losing over $1,500 to a pair of robbers on Sunday afternoon, police said.

Officers went to the shop in the 2800 block of N. Lincoln Ave. after a caller reported seeing the robbers trying to force their way into an attached apartment.

When cops arrived, they learned that the salon itself had been robbed of cash.

The offenders are described as a heavy-set white man in his 30's who stands about 5'-8" tall and a white female who stands about 5'-2" tall.

An ambulance was called to assist the apartment's occupant, who reportedly suffers from a serious medical condition.

Craigslist deal turns sour

A Craigslist meet-up turned sour in Uptown Sunday when a woman who hoped to buy a PlayStation 3 wound up being robbed instead.

The woman told police that she went to the 900 block of W. Montrose to purchase the entertainment system after agreeing to a deal online.

Once she arrived in Uptown, she was met by about five men in their late teens, the woman said. When she pulled out her phone to check on the details of the transaction, one of the men whipped out a gun and another man took her cellphone.

The entire group then ran into a nearby residential building and fled out its back door.

According to the woman, the gunman had short dreadlocks and carried a black semi-automatic. All of the offenders were male, black, and stood between 5'-10" and 6' tall, she said.

Only misdemeanors for Near North gun violations

Chicago police say they found two stolen handguns and several loaded magazine when they stopped a south suburban Lansing man near Clark and Elm streets.

But, according to a police source, the Cook County State's Attorney's Office refused to pursue felony charges against the man, citing "insufficient evidence" that he knew the firearms in his car were stolen.

Police stopped Tarik D. Coleman, 23, outside of Table 52 restaurant around 3:40 a.m. on Jan. 26 because the Mercedes he was riding in had expired plates, according to court records.

Cops say Coleman removed a Glock 27 .40caliber handgun from under his seat during the stop.

Coleman was detained and police reportedly found a 9-millimeter handgun in the vehicle's glove compartment.

"Those guns are mine. The Glock and the nine. I bought them at Cabela's in Indiana," Coleman allegedly told police. "Don't put them on anyone."

An investigation found that the the 9-millimeter had been reported stolen from Moreseville, IN. Coleman changed his story to say that he bought the stolen gun "on the street from some guy in Chicago Heights," police said.

The vehicle search also turned up six magazines for the guns; five 9-mm rounds; 63 .40-caliber rounds; 26 .45-caliber rounds; two 20-gauge shotguns shells, according to police inventory records.

After felony charges were declined, Coleman was charged with two counts of unlawful possession of a firearm and released on a $1,500 recognizance bond.

According to court records, Coleman has a valid Firearms Owner Identification Card, but he does not have a concealed carry license.

Man harassed by art gallery owner

Police are investigating a Feb. 6 police report made by a 23-year-old man that claims the owner of an art gallery harassed him after inviting him to the gallery under the suggestion it would lead to a job.

The victim said the gallery owner had hailed him in the 1300 block of W. Devon Ave. while he waited for a west-bound CTA bus and began making conversation. The alleged offender spoke about his art gallery, which was down the street, and persuaded him to take a look around, saying he needed someone for administrative work.

Inside the gallery, the owner began smoking marijuana and continued drinking, something the victim believes had been going on before their conversation began. He then grew "agitated" and "belligerent" and began aggressively asking the victim what he seemed to be so scared of.

"Are you afraid? Are you afraid of me?" he repeatedly asked, according to the victim.

The victim said he had successfully changed the subject when the gallery owner said he wanted the victim to see his Jaguar automobile. As the gallery owner began leading the way to the car the victim turned and ran out of the gallery. The owner shouted at him as he ran from the shop but the victim did not turn around and was able to escape, according to his statement to police.

According to police, the owner of the gallery had a separate report taken out on him by the victim's brother, who claims he was grabbed by the man at the same bus stop at an unspecified earlier date. Police are investigating the reports.

Man robbed by house guest who blames it on towed car

Police are investigating the armed robbery of a 41-year-old man who said an acquaintance he had allowed to stay at his house returned with a second man armed with handguns and took more than $20,000 worth of electronics after blaming him for his vehicle being towed.

Officers responded about 11:45 a.m. on Feb. 7 to a battery call in the 7400 block of N. Ridge Blvd. They met the uninjured victim who stated that two men, one an admitted Latin King and the second a man he had allowed to crash at his apartment, had stormed his apartment with .45 and .40 caliber semi-automatic guns and robbed him.

The victim said that electronics including two computers, two digital cameras, headphones, and multiple other high-end equipment totaling more than $20,000 had been taken during the robbery. He had not been hurt by the men but had been warned that if he called the police they would return and "kill him," according to the report of the incident.

The victim said that the instigator of the robbery blamed him for getting his car towed from in front of the UNO Charter School in West Ridge, where he had parked over night. The victim said that he had warned the acquaintance not to park there because of the high likelihood of that happening to his vehicle, but that the man had not taken his advice.

Police have the names of the men alleged to have committed the robbery and are investigating, according to a police official.

Beware of women offering rides at night

A Seattle man has claimed that an unknown woman whom he accepted a ride from drove him right into an armed-robbery ambush Feb. 7 in Rogers Park.

The 33-year-old victim said he took a 1:30 a.m. ride from a woman he did not know in the 7400 block of N. Clark St. near Ridge Blvd. According to his statement, the woman was supposed to drive him to a gas station, but stopped the car on Clark St. and claimed she had to use the restroom. When she got out of the car, three men armed with guns surrounded the vehicle and told the man he was being robbed.

The victim said he was hit once in the face with the butt of the handgun before he gave up $150 cash and a cell-phone before the men threw him out of the vehicle. The reporting officer noted that there were no marks on the man's face where he said he had been hit, per the report of the incident.

The woman returned and left with the men in the car. The victim could not describe the vehicle or give any detailed descriptions of the woman or the men who allegedly had robbed him.

The Germania Club of Chicago: A history and some curiosities

For almost a century, the Germania Club of Chicago served as the leading social club for Chicago's German-American community. Designed by German architects in 1888, the historic Germania Club building on the corner of Clark St. and Germania Place in Old Town was designated a Chicago landmark in 2011.

Based on research in the DANK archives, the Newberry Library and the Chicago Historical Society, Reinhard Andress (Director of German Studies, Loyola Univ. Chicago) will trace the history of the Germania Club, from its beginnings through its many twists and turns, at 2 p.m. Saturday at DANK Haus, 4740 N. Western Ave. Andress also hopes to entertain guests with some curiosities about the Germania Club.

It was Lincoln's tragic assassination on April 15, 1865 that oddly led to the founding of what was to become the Germania Club of Chicago. The club had a considerable run as one of the main German-American cultural institutions in Chicago until 1985.

Following his presentation, Prof. Andress will allow ample time for questions and further discussion.

Great Rivers workshop Thursday

Great Rivers Chicago, an initiative of the City of Chicago in partnership with the Metropolitan Planning Council, Friends of the Chicago River and others, presents a workshop for organizations, groups and individuals who have ideas about activating a stretch of the rivers, and want support in moving their plan forward.

The workshop will be held Thursday, Feb. 16 at the Chicago Maritime Museum, 1200 W. 35th Street

This workshop will consist of presentations and case studies that will give you information about placemaking, physical improvements, programming, permitting, grant opportunities and proposal support. The event includes the opportunity to workshop your idea with experts such as architects, engineers, community organization leaders and arts and cultural programming professionals.

Admission is free, but registration is required. For more information, visit http:// greatriverschicago.com/index.html.

of the crane had the material crumbled to dust," said Ald. Waguespack. Dedicated in 1961, it was used by customers or the former amusement park called Riverview.

Removing the overpass is resulting in more development around Belmont and Western and is making passage for Lane Tech students safer.

At the Logan and Western intersection, the area is shared with the 1st Ward. "When we're in an area that we share with another aldermen, we generally both give the Chicago Dept. of Transportation our thoughts about the project and ask them to come up with solutions. I literally have about a 60 by six foot strip at that intersection."

"What are they doing about lighting there," asked Vicky Schmidt. He explained that rather than use menu monies, he wants to wait for the city's LED smart light project or to use TIF (Tax Increment Financing) money. Though for quicker solutions, he has been suggesting the use of things like new types of paint used to lighten up areas.

Other underpasses including Fullerton, Armitage and North are other locations for the LED lighting. Safety of those spaces is a concern that also includes cleaning and fencing off space as well as addressing the issue of homelessness. "We are working to deal with all those factors," said Waguespack.

Development

On the issue of development, the discussion went from specific projects to philosophy of density.

Ald. Waguespack handed out a sheet that was a reminder about construction site requirements. This lists the contractor regulations and the hours that they are permitted

Several residents were interested in the availability of a grocery store along Milwaukee from Western to Logan. At this point, the walking distance is too great they explained.

A Jewel Food Store appears to be the grocery chain going into the space in the new building go up on the former Mega Mall site. Ald. Waguespack explained that they are into very specific details of the site's build-out, thus it appears that they will be going into that location.

Waguespack indicated that his philosophy is different than some other alderman. "I have gone for moderation in the 32nd Ward and you will see that along Milwaukee Ave. For example, we drove the Mega Mall from what could have been over 300 units, as-ofright zoning, down to 220 units."

He pointed out that his predecessor was the biggest spot-zoner in the city. "The Ward was a mess. So I started by going to about 14 different community organizations to see if we could find agreement on process and vision. That resulted in a zoning and development guideline and checklist.

Concerns about the future

Frustrated residents who moved to the area several years ago are concerned about gentrification and wanted to know what they can do to not be pushed out.

The alderman pointed out that growth is good and you can't stop gentrification. But planning can help it not be so rapid, he pointed out. However, in Chicago there is no citywide planning. It is all market driven. Many people at the meeting expressed concern over the potential of large rental projects failing and end up being a blight on the neighborhood.

Waguespack said that he has spoken with the Chicagoland Apartment Assoc. "While the market has tightened, one would expect at least a temporary dip in prices but that has not happened as yet. Interest rates are another factor for developers. So far, that has not affected them."

For the moment, everyone is hoping that projects do not fail.
