Neighbors rebel over proposed 60-story high-rise in Cathedral District

300-plus show up on snowy night to say "no"

Noting that "the cheerleaders usually don't come out to support a project everybody already wants" Ald. Brendan Riley [42nd] told a packed March 13 community meeting at the Sofitel Hotel, 20 E. Chestnut, "this is not going to be a slam-dunk. This is only the first of several meetings. There's going to be a lot of conversation around this subject" before any decisions are made.

Ald. Reilly said he assumed most of the estimated 300-plus neighbors who turned out to hear the controversial plans oppose putting a 60-story high-rise hotel/ condo at Superior St. and Wabash Ave. – a block east of Holy Name Cathedral.

"My job is to listen to the people who hired me as alderman and make decisions," Reilly said. "If those decisions aren't in the interest of the people who live here. They'll replace me. I get that."

And Ald. Riley's bosses - the voters - weren't shy about voicing concerns ranging from traffic congestion in nearby alleys to incessant noise during the three years it's expected to take to build the 725'-tall tower containing 216 hotel rooms, 246 high-end condo units, 120 timeshare apartments, 30,000-square-feet of retail space, and 325 parking spaces.

Symmetry development's planning team led by architect Brian Lee and traffic engineer Peter Lemmon listened as history-conscious advocates like Preservation Chicago's Ward Miller said putting up a building like the one planned by Symmetry Development would mean one more step away from keeping with the neighborhood's Victorian architectural heritage.

A Rush St. resident who works for the city said that in the alley behind where the new hotel would be built he's seen delivery trucks packed three deep in the morning and warned that the noise alone "is going to be a real problem for a lot of people."

Another opponent of the project said she's a teacher at a nearby university who is "very concerned" about how difficult it would be for her to plan classes and teach students in the face of nearly three years of construction noise.

"The Cathedral District is one of the city's most unique and charming neighborhoods," said River North resident Lynette Mischel. "It's densely populated as you would expect in a big city, but it's not choked yet. In fact, it's 'baby stroller friendly' with pedestrian right-of-way at four-way stops arched by old-fashioned street lamps at night.

City to double down on program to provide Downtown homeless with day labor opportunities

On March 9 the Mayor's Office announced that the City will make the Day for Change pilot a permanent fixture this year in its ongoing efforts to address homelessness, and bring the service downtown.

Over the course of less than three months, the pilot has helped 225 individuals, either homeless or panhandling, to earn roughly $12,000-15,000 combined in wages. This, in turn, has helped city officials to understand the issues and needs of this hard to reach population in their attempts to reduce homelessness.

By doubling the program's capacity, the city is seeking to reach more homeless individuals through a program that provides an opportunity to engage in day labor and wraparound services. The Day for Change pilot served twice as many people as it was intended to, and will now seek to serve at least 550 unique individuals by expanding the program's reach to cover more areas of the city.

Based on this experience the city will expand the geographic footprint of the program to serve the Central Business District. While the pilot focused on daily recruitment of homeless and panhandler populations primarily at the viaducts on the North Side along Lake Shore Dr., the program will expand its focus to the Michigan and State St. corridors. This will deliver landscaping, cleaning, and other improvements to these hightrafficked corridors through the assignment of participants to temporary work opportunities.

Funded by the new house sharing tax enacted last year by Mayor Rahm Emanuel, the pilot program was created to serve 100 individuals through an opportunity to earn a modest wage.

Over the course of less than three months, the pilot has helped 225 individuals, either homeless or panhandling, to earn roughly $12,000-15,000 combined in wages.

"Expanding the footprint of the program helps homeless residents get not only a paycheck and services, but the chance to get their lives back on track," said Mayor

The program is operated through a city partnership with A Safe Haven Foundation, which operates two work vans to do daily work recruitment at the viaducts and underpasses on Chicago's

North Lakefront, where a concentrated population of homeless and panhandlers reside. Program participants will be eligible to earn up to $600 annually, and will receive meals, transportation, behavioral health services, job preparedness training, healthcare screenings, hygiene care, and interim hous-

"We are working to create a system where cases of homelessness are rare, brief, and non-recurring," said Lisa Morrison Butler, Commissioner of the Dept. of Family and Support Services. "The program provides us an opportunity to better gauge the needs of our most hard to reach residents, and we will apply these lessons to improve our broader citywide homeless strategy."

A Day for Change, which began in Sept. 2016, is modeled after a similar program in Albuquerque. Since the program launched in Chicago, the city has helped a handful of individuals to gain housing, and several more with taking the first steps to being a workforce development program. The engagement provided by the pilot enabled the city to add more individuals to its One List-which supports planning for service delivery, and ultimately helps this population find permanent housing.

More luxury space coming to River North

River North continues to see high density development coming to the community. LMC, a subsidiary of Lennar Corp., has announced plans to develop a new luxury apartment building at 675 N. Wells St. Designed by Antunovich Associates, the Marlowe will include 176 apartments within a 15-story tower, and 11,000 square feet of retail activating the first floor. Additional amenities include a private rooftop deck with fitness center, yoga studio, club rooms, outdoor grilling, lounges and a rooftop pool.

This is an as-of-right development that complies with all applicable zoning regulations and does not require any discretionary changes since it is designed within the existing constraints of the DX-5 zoning criteria outlined in the zoning code.

The exterior of Marlowe will contain varied facades with undulations and setbacks that respond to the different functions and apartment unit-types on the interior of the building. The building will be designed with composite metal paneling and aluminum and glass operable/fixed windows. Terraces, glass railings and balconies will punctuate the facades.

The Irish in Chicago: The Greening of the Prairie

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

Out of Ireland we have come, Great hatred, little room Maimed us from the start, I carry from my mother's womb A fanatic heart.

Those words of William Butler Yeats, the Irish poet, are both a warning and an explanation of who we Irish are.

In the larger scope of history, eight centuries of occupation and treachery by the English did a great deal to shape our Irish interaction with the world.

We became a nation of exiles, ransacked by the cruel politics of bitter religious persecution, the victims of pogroms, persecutions and starvation. We searched for homes on other shores, making our presence there felt.

As we journey toward the feast of Ireland's patron, St. Patrick, it's time to say a word about the history of Chicago. And the way in which the Irish became an indelible and sustaining part of its life.

The intention is not to merely sentimentally congratulate the Irish on their achievements. History is a two-way street.

There's an old Irish saying that Abe Lincoln was fond of quoting - "You have to do your own growing, no matter how tall your grandfather was."

This was the real secret behind the success of the Irish in America and especially Chicago.

It is critical to see the achievements of the Irish as a part of the larger growth of our metropolis.

But there is clear evidence that the assimilation of the Irish as an immigrant group, and their ability to organize and govern, gave Chicago a powerful population for achievement and success. Not least of which were Mayors Dunne, Kelly, Kennelly, Daley, Byrne and Daley.

The Irish arrived speaking the language of power, developing a social and political cohesion unlike any other immigrant population. They had the numbers. They came for work and swelled the population.

Ironically, the arrival of large numbers of Irish came about just as Chicago itself began a meteoric rise towards municipal achievement between 1850 and 1900.

Chicago was a young city, two centuries younger than Boston, New York or Philadelphia. Its fresh modernity seemed to suit the Irish. And the ample proportions of the Prairie had the geographical space for the Irish to make their home and succeed.

In 1803, following the Treaty of Greenview that ended the Great Ohio Indian Wars, Secretary of War Henry Dearborn ordered a stockade fort built at what was the farthest edge of the American territory at the bottom of the Great Michigan Lake.

The fort, named for Dearborn, was built by Captain John Whistler, from Dublin. He would become Fort Dearborn's first commander. He was the father of George Washington Whistler, a General who was the father of the great expatriate American painter James Abbott McNeill Whistler. Thus making the Captain the father-in-law of Whistler's mother,

The fort would be burned and rebuilt following the War of 1812.

Chicago remained a frontier landscape for another 30 years.

It was not established as a town until 1833. But within four years, March 1837, it was able to incorporate as a city, on its way to becoming the fastest growing city in the U.S. over the next 60 years.

Among the first projects for City leaders to plan was to find a way to connect the Illinois River to Lake Michigan, opening up river commerce all the way to the Mississippi and the Gulf.

That was to be a 90-mile long trench from Lasalle to Chicago. The dig began when the Irish had completed their work digging the Erie Canal in New York State. The Irish came in large numbers armed with tools of their trade: the pick and the shovel. Irish-born Thomas O'Shaughnessy was a managing engineer for the project. His son, Thomas, a fine artist, would create the textured interior of Celtic design at Old St. Patrick's Church.

Over the decade-long dig, filled with every conceivable disaster possible, the Irish continued to settle in Chicago. It would be the making of both Chicago and the Irish. Many diggers took payment for their work in land at the south end of the canal where a bridge spanned the river's port. Settling there, they called it Bridgeport, give five mayors to the city. Kelly, Kennelly, Daley, Bilandic and Da-and urban achievement. It empowered the Irish to go on to transform political leadership in America because no job was beneath us or too high above us to attain. The neighborhoods of America were reinvented by the urban engagement of the Irish who surprisingly took to city living, excelling at the very thing we were denied in the old country - ruling ourselves. It was no accident that we fine-tuned our political instincts.

The Irish also arrived in America as Roman Catholics, a faith for which they had already forfeited full citizenship at home and any chance at fair success. In America Catholic immigrants would discover a religious system around them that assisted them in assimilation and finding themselves as never before. The parochial school system, mandated by the American hierarchy, brought the American dream near enough to touch. Catholic education was the way up the ladder of citizenship and success.

Here in America, on the streets of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, the Irish learned that life is a mix-up; most of it is unplanned if it is working right. Real life, they discovered, must be augmented with human acts of sharing, understanding and sacrifice.

Once the Irish had America in their nostrils, they saw only that open window and not the locked door. Within one generation the immigrant Irish were telescoping the distance between the past and the future.

are carrying out some incredible feats. Here are a couple of impressive gals and their stories, with more to come.

The

Healing Center -- set to open by June 1 inside a YWCA on the city's South Side -- will provide a space for women impacted by violence and other life-changing events to access counseling, support and other necessary services. Ms. Dee, who lives on the Gold Coast, plans on regularly visiting and speaking to the women, and the YWCA will host ongoing programming in the Center focused on helping women heal, nurture, recover and overcome challenges.

Earlier this month, I was invited to an event at the Metropolitan Club of Chicago celebrating this wonderful honor that I was unable to attend. Therefore I thank Andrew Hayes, vice president of public relations for Fifth Third Bank and a dear friend of Ms. Dee's, for telling you the story of his and Merri's story of friendship, and of the upcoming Center.

We wish the Center great success! The following was written by Andrew Hayes:

"It was 1993 and I was a volunteer member of the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse, Chicago Chapter board. In addition to incredible advocacy and programming, this national organization, based in Chicago, was well known for its popular (and fun) annual black-tie gala, The Gold & Silver Ball.

"As the head of the board's public relations, it was my responsibility to get ink for the event and its honorees. That year, Angel Harvey was to receive the "Distinguished Friend Award" and broadcaster Merri Dee was to receive the special "Voice" award for her commitment and work on behalf of children's issues.

"I scheduled time to interview both honorees so that I could craft a press release and pitch them to local media. When I phoned Merri Dee, then director of Community Relations for WGN-TV and head of the Robert McCormick Tribune Children's Charity, she responded "I'm busy. I'll give you 15 minutes." Within a week we were meeting in the cafeteria of WGN-Television; a meeting that lasted for nearly three hours.

"Our connection, looking back, seemed almost immediate. We found deeply-rooted, common interests stemming from childhood related events; but more so, I believe, because we are inherently, deeply both passionate about our life's purpose of serving community, being a voice for those disenfranchised, and having positive impact in the world.

"Since then, we've enjoyed nearly 25 years of incredible moments, occasions, celebrations and, of course, serious conversations about life, work, family, friends, media, and each other. I even had the good fortune to spend a week vacationing in Anguilla with Merri and work for a TV station (WSNS-TV, Ch. 44) where Merri years earlier was the star of one of the first talk shows, the "Merri Dee Show." Merri is also well known for having survived being stalked, kidnapped and almost murdered. If you don't know that story, I strongly recommend you buy her book "Life Lessons on Faith, Forgiveness & Grace," available online at MerriDee.com or Amazon.

"On March 1, I hosted a reception on the first day of Women's History Month to honor Merri's 50 years in broadcasting. Leading up to this, I've had years of occasions where women in media and other positions of leadership have shared their thoughts and gratitude with me about Merri having opened doors for them to realize their success today. Over the years, Merri has shared many stories of the early days, incredible obstacles put before her because she was a woman and more because, she is an African-American woman. As a gay man, I was personally familiar with prejudice, stereotyping and name-calling; but that which Merri Dee endured was even more stifling as she was without mentors and examples of others who had come before. She was, and is, a trailblazer for so many.

"At the Women's History Month reception, the YWCA of Metropolitan Chicago announced that it will name a center in its facility at 63rd and Woodlawn, the Merri Dee Healing Center. There isn't a more befitting legacy for

A breath of fresh air... is North Sider Anna Ramirez, who on March 5 participated in the Fight for Air Climb for the American Lung Assoc. Having lost my mother to lung cancer, I thank Anna for taking part in this event, which raises imperative funds for the organization.

Ramirez, 29, completed oneand-a-half out of four towers at Presidential Towers downtown during the Climb. Each tower consisted of 50 flights of stairs.

"Since I had never done anything like this before, accomplishing even one tower was a big deal for me," she said.

There were a few reasons Ramirez decided to join the climb and this cause. It first caught her eye when the taste testing company she works for, the Northwest Side-based Peryam & Kroll Research, had a sponsor from association come into its office and speak about what individuals and the company could do to help. Peryam & Kroll then signed up as a team. Each employee however had the choice whether or not they wanted to participate and Ramirez jumped at the opportunity.

"I try often to volunteer helping different causes such as Feed Our Starving Children, and I spent some time volunteering for the Center for Enriched Living," said Ramirez. "This however was the first physically-active volunteer work I had ever signed up for.

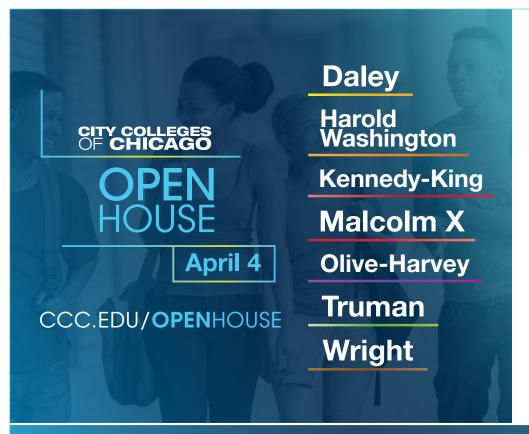

"I had never done a marathon, race or anything of this sort before," said Ramirez. "So I decided I wanted to challenge myself while helping those people who are and or may become affected by any sort of lung cancer or lung disease -- people such as my grandfather and family members of a few other friends of mine who I know were directly affected."

Ramirez had no recollection that her grandfather had suffered from lung cancer since she was

Spring home and condo hunters better hurry, mortgage rates on the rise

The Home Front By Don DeBat

Mortgage rates are on the rise, so if you are planning to buy a home or condominium this spring, or are thinking of refinancing an existing loan, better hurry, experts advise.

Benchmark 30-year fixed mortgage rates hit 4.21% on March 9, the highest mark of 2017, reported Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey.

And, because the nation's job market is improving and inflation is on the rise, experts say there is little doubt the Federal Reserve Board (Fed) will raise interest rates this week.

On March 10th the nation's unemployment rate dropped to 4.7% with the addition of 235,000 jobs in February.

"The 10-year Treasury yield rose about 10 basis points last week, and for the first time in weeks, the 30-year mortgage rate moved with treasury yields and jumped 11 basis points to 4.21% from 4.10%," noted Sean Becketti, chief economist of Freddie Mac. A year ago at this time, 30-year fixed-rate loans averaged 3.68%.

With interest rates on the rise, homeowners seized the opportunity to refinance their mortgages at the end of 2016, locking in fixedrate loans.

Some 883,836 refinanced loans totaling $246 billion were originated in the fourth quarter of 2016, reported ATTOM Data Solutions' U.S. Residential Property Loan Origination Report. That's a 20% increase in loans, and a 27% hike in dollar volume from the previ-

More than 3.3 million refinances and over 2.7 million home purchases were originated in all of 2016, according to the report.

Fed policymakers last raised the federal-funds interest rate in mid-December. Another is expected when the Fed meets today. Economists say at least two more upward rate adjustments are forecast this year, and four hikes are likely in 2018.

As inflation moves steadily toward the Fed's annual two percent target, Fed Chair Janet Yellen said rate hikes will probably come at a faster pace in 2017 and 2018.

President Donald Trump's plan to cut taxes and regulation while boosting military and infrastructure spending nationwide is expected to spark business confidence, a rising stock market and more inflation.

The good news for borrowers this spring is the effects of a heavy Congressional spending package will not affect the economy until 2018. "Which course inflation takes over the next year will have important implications for housing and mortgage markets," Becketti said.

Economists are predicting home-loan rates of 4.5% by the end of 2017. However, if inflation heats up, rates could exceed that level. Benchmark 30-year fixed rates could hit or surpass five percent in 2018, some analysts say.

Long-term home-loan rates are not set by the Fed. They are tied to the yield on 10-year U.S. Treasury bonds. Ten-year Treasury bond yields have risen sharply to 2.61% on March 10 from 1.6% in the third quarter of 2016, pushing loan rates higher.

Because lenders expect the Fed to raise interest rates this week, the hike may already be priced into the current yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury bonds, so mortgage rates may not jump much in mid-March. A likely scenario is that rates will trend gradually higher during the spring home-buying

If you are planning to buy a home or condo before higher rates price you out of the market, there are a few facts you should know:

• History is on your side. On the positive side, home-loan rates still are historically low. The annual average rate from 1972 through 2011 was higher than current rates. In 1999, benchmark 30-year mortgage rates were 8.15%. In June of 2003, lenders were charging an average of 5.21%. That's an interest rate borrowers may see again in 2018 if forecasters are on Lower down payments available. New programs at Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae allow the secondary mortgage market gurus to purchase loans from lenders with lower three-percent to fivepercent down payments, opening the homeownership door to more young, first-time buyers.

 More lenient credit scores. The average FICO score for home buyers obtaining mortgages backed by Freddie Mac currently is 750, a relatively high score. However, if a borrower is approved for a Federal Housing Administrationinsured (FHA) loan, the score averages only 700.

Post Office finally delivers

The mail is late but finally arriving, permits recently issued by the city means that that work is set to commence inside the massive Old Main Post Office just southwest of the Loop. Facade work began last October after the site stood vacant for over 20 years and suffered through multiple fires and the neglect.

What was once one of the key components to Chicago's prominent mail order and merchandising industry -- along with the likes of Sears Robuck & Co. and Montgomery Wards -- this site hopes to become a new outpost for our booming downtown workforce. The overhaul of the building is projected to be a $500 million undertaking. At one point the city was moving to seize the building through eminent domain to get the project moving.

Always considered to have great redevelopment potential, the the 2.5 million-square-foot river front Art Deco behemoth was acquired by developer 601W Companies early last year. Drawings from global architecture firm Gensler show that the developer plans new office space and new amenities like a large three-acre rooftop park and a fitness center for the building. In addition, the building's prominent river frontage will see the addition of outdoor cafes and a landscaped riverwalk.

"Affordable" housing goes mainstream

Look what $300 per month gets you in Old Town

BY MINDY TAN Medill News Service

From the outside, Evergreen Tower 1 looks no different from any other apartment building. Located in the high-rent Old Town neighborhood, it is within easy walking distance of groceries and other amenities.

Inside, a bank of computers and a couple of exercise machines line one wall of a sprawling community area which can easily seat 30 people; other rooms house a laundry area and a TV room. Staff members know the residents by name, and call to them cheerily, sometimes stopping to talk.

Yet the rents in this attractive residence are only $615 to $935 for a one-bedroom apartment.

Edith Burns has been a resident at Evergreen Tower 1, 1333 N. Cleveland, for five years. She said: "I know just about everybody here. I love the neighborhood; I lived right across the street for 30 years."

Could this be "affordable" housing?

Evergreen Tower 1 is one of 13 housing projects built by UP Development LLC [UPD], an affordable-housing developer based in Chicago. The company's portfolio includes eight affordable multifamily housing projects and five affordable supportive housing for individuals and families in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

The scope of work on the tower included rehabilitation of apartment interiors, new appliances, cabinetry and plumbing fixtures. A solar thermal system for hot water, high-efficiency lighting in common areas and a photovoltaic system on the roof were also installed. Building amenities include a community room, kitchen, conference and computer center, library, laundry room, media room, service coordinator and property management offices, outdoor patio and controlled main entry system.

More than $20 million in financing for Evergreen Towers I was provided through the Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA) using the following resources: Illinois' Preservation Now program, which preserves project-based rental subsidies by supporting the acquisition and rehabilitation of properties by owners agreeing to extend rental subsidy contracts; Low Income Housing Tax Credit (Housing Credit) equity syndicated by Enterprise Community Investment, Inc. (the Housing Credit is America's main tool for creating and preserving affordable housing); tax-exempt bonds collateralized by an IHDA Risk Share loan and; HOME funds.

UDP's PhilHaven, in Wheeling, is an example of affordable supportive housing for individuals with disabilities. The 50-unit development has on-site support staff, which includes one live-in resident support specialist and three to four case managers who are scheduled based on the caseload and needs of individual residents.

The market-rate rent for a one-bedroom apartment at the project is between $920 and $1,400, said Alex Pereira, a project analyst at UP Development. In the case of PhilHaven, 34 of the units are subsidized through Section 8 vouchers from the Housing Authority of Cook County, three vouchers are from the Regional Housing Initiative, and 12 vouchers were originally subsidized by the Division of Mental Health but were recently replaced by 811 subsidies from the Illinois Housing Development Authority.

"So if you make $1,000 a month, you're only paying $300 per month. And if your rent is $1,400 a month, the subsidies will cover that difference, which is $1,100 in this case," said Pereira. "That helps us too because we are able to charge a rent figure that is near market value and that increases our revenue for property maintenance and other services. But from the residents' perspective, it is still affordable housing."

Evergreen Tower 1 is not considered supportive housing. But on-site service coordinators plan activities, such as bingo, African drums and Zumba dancing for residents.

These service coordinators, who have been trained by the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, also link residents with service providers who can provide information or services related to their needs, including Medicare benefits and writing a will. A bus provides transportation for grocery store visits and other outings.

"When I started in affordable housing I quickly realized that within the deep sea of need, I wanted to fight for the most vulnerable of all households, hence my commitment to supportive housing," said Jessica Berzac, one of the founders of UPD.

UPD was started in 2014. Berzac was working for the other co-founder, Cullen Davis, at Daveri Development for several years before they started UPD. The six-person team has a portfolio of over 400 multifamily housing units and about 300 affordable supportive housing units.

One of the larger challenges faced by affordable housing developers is the 'not in my back yard' position of residents, particularly in affluent suburbs. When PhilHaven was first proposed in 2012, the Wheeling village board voted against it, citing concerns about zoning, flooding, safety, and the number of upset neighbors. The board later changed its position after the developer, then Daveri Development, filed a lawsuit.

"If you look at our mixed income housing, you can't tell it's affordable housing," Pereira said. "So if you are a regular professional in Arlington Heights, and you are looking for a nice apartment downtown, you might walk past our project and think 'oh, that's a pretty nice building and the rent is decent."

A lot of concerns stem from the views of long-time neighborhood residents who are worried that affordable housing residents might be dangerous or have mental issues, he said.

"Usually once people move in, these problems go away because they realize they are just regular people like everybody else," Pereira said.

SAMA art show: inside the world of medical art

Advances in computer graphics and imaging are generating new opportunities to aid in understanding the rapidly evolving discoveries in both science and healthcare.

The International Museum of Surgical Sciences, 1524 N. Lake Shore Dr., will be hosting an art exhibit showing detailed digital images of medical art from April 1 through May 7. A free Public Reception will be held 6-9 p.m. Friday, March 31. This reception is and Open to the Public.

Masters students in the Univ. of Illinois at Chicago Biomedical Visualization Program (BVIS) strive to harness these advancements through visual communication. The Student Association of Medical Artists (SAMA) organizes and curates the work for the SAMA Art Exhibition each year.

This exhibition is an opportunity for first and second year BVIS students to display their current works of art that are both beautiful and accurate in scientific detail. These pieces feature a wide array of scientific and medical subjects targeting audiences diverse in education, age, and occupation.

Oftentimes, these works begin on paper and are then taken into digital media to become professional illustrations, graphic designs, animations, or interactive applications. The broad range of work that BVIS graduate students create is an integral part in communicating new discoveries in science and medicine.

The BVIS program at the Univ. of Illinois at Chicago is the second oldest accredited school of its kind.

family and Irish husband would join us. KK was the widow of the celebrated NewYorker Douglas Auchincloss who died in 2000. In her youth she was a gal pal of John Fitzgerald Kennedy. She owned two grand "cottages" on the island and had tons of servants. She flew over island roads in a red Jaguar. She had no airs. No silly ways about her.

She was who she was. Grand. Elegant. A beauty in old age. Always sharp. Curious. Filled with stories. She'd come to our gallery openings. And would never pass the door without stopping.

So KK was a welcome visitor everyday to our gaggle of island gossipers sitting on the porch of the old Summer Shop having wine and canapés. She was fond of my Irish pals Desmond Guinness and the late Desmond FitzGerald, the Knight of Glin. Though she spoke in a fabulous mid-Atlantic accent, she was American through and through. It seemed she and Douglas had residences in all the great spots from Paris to Hobe Sound. Her knowledge was infectious and she had the inside scoop on everyone. But was always tasteful.

The residents of the island, summer and year-rounders, all adored her and mourn her loss. She was the end of an era and among the great charmers of the world. She came into my life with many lessons to share. And pew space and faith were just the beginning. Requiescat in pace, my friend.

VICTORIA: What a splendid production. Have watched over and over and delight in the telling of Queen Victoria's story. History as it should be. Duke of Cumberland/King of Hanover seems like a James Bond villain. And loved the way and manner in which Her Majesty blurts out the most mythic line of her reign. HOLY COMMUNION ANYONE? WOW. I imagine the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops thought they would get some peace with V.P. Joe Biden exiting office. Little did they know that there were sex-

And apparently her father (a huge cheese) insisted that it be high enough just in case of slippage if she did the jitterbug or can-can. All the public could comment on was how "modest" she was in the high frontal, rack covering gown.

SAINT PATRICK'S DAY: March 17th is still ahead, a Friday, usually more low key than parade day. So I am inviting you to come to Luxbar where I will be featuring my Irish paintings all day. KIR ROYALE: Who is the most precious older lady about town who carries a generous flagon of Cassis with her in her purse wherever she goes? At the WAC, the Casino, the Fortnightly, and as far away as the Onwentsia Club, she just orders her white wine and then turns it into a Kir by adding the Cassis. She gets it just the way she likes it. I'd say that's one plucky social Queen. (I had an aunt that used to do that in Palm Beach in the 1960s and 1970s. She always had enough for us all. Remember when Kirs were the rage?

A DOG'S LIFE: Are residents of a Lake Shore Dr. building concerned that a dog's death from apparent poisoning came just after the children in the family headed out to college and the parents were getting set for an extended European trip that was both business and pleasure? It seems that the parents were running out of options for their long absence, or at least the wife was. She was considered by many neighbors to be pet unfriendly. So when the dog turned up dead, neighbors got suspicious. But the trail of clues grew too cold to make any accurate charges stick for cruelty or other crime. Some residents want the whole issue to cease and say that it's being propagated by other jealous neighbors. "There's no use in being Irish unless you know it will break your heart one day."

O'Leary cow cleared of setting fire to Chicago

Local historian credits English language skills for quick rise to power by Irish

BY PATRICK BUTLER

What was the biggest difference between the Irish and everyone else who came here during the 19th century's immigration tidal wave?

They spoke English and knew good opportunities when they saw them, historian Thomas O'Gorman told a March 8 pre-St. Patrick's Day program sponsored by the Ravenswood/Lake View Historical Association at the Sulzer Library, 4455 N. Lincoln Ave.

"Ditch diggers from the canal projects saw their children filling cavities (as dentists) and operating on people (as doctors) thanks to the educations they got at places like St. Ignatius (high school) and Loyola Univ.," said O'Gorman.

In fact, the engineer in charge of building the canal linking Lake Michigan to the Illinois River was himself an Irishman, he added.

The Irish also knew how to bide their time and wait for their chance, even when then-newly-elected Mayor Levi Boone was firing every city worker not born in the U.S., said O'Gorman, an artist, author of 14 books and columnist for Inside Publications' Skyline, Inside-Booster and News-Star.

A staunch member of the antiimmigrant and especially anti-Catholic Know Nothing Party, this grand-nephew of frontiersman Daniel Boone urged repealing naturalization, which would have meant only those born here could be U.S. citizens, O'Gorman said.

Mayor Boone even started Chicago's first major riot when he tried to close the taverns on Sunday and during the Civil War was arrested and jailed on suspicion of helping a Confederate escape from Camp Douglas, a notorious Chicago POW camp.

But with 20,000 Irish-born Chicagoans by 1860, it soon became impossible to continue treating the Irish as second-class citizens, O'Gorman noted.

Once the shooting started, and the newspapers began reporting stories of heroes like Chicago Irish Brigade Col. John Mulligan, "the dominant culture had to recognize that the Irish were as patriotic as anyone else."

While they were at it, O'Gorman added, "the Irish discovered a natural bent for political leadership," thanks in part to their mastery of the English language and the fact "they did not 'ghettoize.' They lived all over the city so other immigrants with problems would go to their Irish neighbors for advice."

"In time, they became the ombudsmen between their neighbors and City Hall," he said, adding that soon the Irish were City Hall, producing leaders like North Sider Edward Fitzsimmons Dunne, the only person ever to become mayor of Chicago and move on to be Illinois governor.

He might even have gotten a seat on the U.S. Supreme Court if he hadn't been blackballed by President Woodrow Wilson for leading a delegation to Versailles asking that Irish independence be included in the treaty ending World War I.

"Wilson wanted Britain to support his efforts to create a League of Nations and knew the British would never support that if the treaty included independence for Ireland," O'Gorman said.

But it wasn't just the political realm of the Daleys, Kellys, Burkes and so many others that marked the Irish presence in Chicago, he said, adding that by the early 20th century, a majority of both the priests and policemen were also Irish.

Even the father of Tennesseeborn Cardinal Samuel Stritch, Chicago's archbishop from 1940 to 1958, was an Irish rebel, O'Gorman said.

In fact, "Pat Collins, onetime chief of detectives, was the older brother of Michael Collins, who some call "the man who made modern Ireland." Pat was always writing letters to his brother promising a job on the police force if he came to Chicago," O'Gorman said.

Some of "the Big Fellow's" relatives, incidentally, are still living here in Chicago.

Another noted Chicago police officer – Chief Francis O'Neal, who headed the police department from 1901 to 1905, is credited with saving literally thousands of Irish folk songs that would have been lost forever, said O'Gorman.

O'Neil is remembered on both sides of the Atlantic, including his namesake pub at 3471 N. Elston Ave.

With the passage of time, even Mrs. O'Leary's cow is no longer blamed for starting the Chicago Fire, said O'Gorman, a onetime aide to Ald. Edward Burke (14th), chairman of the Police and Fire Committee which in 1997 ruled that neither Catherine O'Leary nor her cow did anything to cause the fire that engulfed about a third of the city.

The likeliest suspect, he added, is an inebriated neighbor who may have dropped his pipe on the straw when he went into the barn to get some milk, O'Gorman added.

"To me it seemed almost like a weird act of fate that out of all the things I could have found myself signing up for, it was the American Lung Assoc. that ended up being my first but not last physical active act of charity," she said.

On climb day, Ramirez became "very nervous." Not being in the best shape, she wasn't sure what to expect.

"To my surprise though, it was a lot easier than I think most people would have thought. It was not a race at all," said Ramirez. "We could all each take our time up the towers and everybody around me was very encouraging and motivating while I tried making my way up the first tower and even more encouraging once I made my way toward the second.

"[I felt a great sense of accomplishment] in knowing that someone somewhere would be helped out by my chubby self getting out of bed early on a Sunday morning and making it up some flights of stairs," said Ramirez.

Thanks to its employees, her company raised nearly $3,000 and finished 11th in funds contributed by more than 50 corporate teams. "Something we are all very proud of," Ramirez said.

"I found that this was something that anyone could really do to help out a great cause," said Ramirez. "I felt so proud of myself, not only because I pushed myself out of my physical comfort level but because I think that it is so important for anyone and everyone to complete acts of kindness and selflessness. It is the only way that the world will slowly learn to become a better place."

A way back home: art as recovery for rape victims

At first, the photographs seem unremarkable—a pair of wellworn shoes, a flannel shirt, gray sweatpants.

Floating on a black background, hung on a clean white wall, these 12 photographs show what 12 rape victims were at the time of their assault.

The series, titled "Well, What Were You Wearing?" by Katherine Cambareri, offers a simple yet poignant look into the realities of rape.

"I was worried that when you first see the images you don't know what they are and what they represent just by looking at them," Cambareri said. "But I really like that aspect of it now, that you don't know what it's about because you can't tell anything just by looking at the clothes."

According to the U.S. Dept. of Justice's National Crime Victimization Survey, an average of 293,066 sexual assault cases occur each year—that's an assault nearly every two minutes. In 2014 only 33.6% of incidents were reported to police.

Chicago makes the top five list for all types of violent crime, including rape: in 2014 (1,343 reported cases), and from January to June 2015, there were 622. As troubling as these statistics are, the actual numbers are likely much higher— for fear of being blamed for the crime themselves, most sexual assault victims never report their experiences.

"Victim blaming is such a big issue in society," Cambareri said. "A lot of survivors of sexual assault do not necessarily want to tell their stories because they're afraid of what people are going to say, so it was important to me to give them a voice."

Many of the survivors who donated clothing to the project thanked her afterward, Cambareri added, saying they were grateful to "use their negative energy in a positive way... and do something anonymously but still feel like they were helping other people."

Cambareri's photographs arrived at the Awakenings Foundation, 4001 N. Ravenswood Ave., in Ravenswood last month and will be displayed through May 31. Awakenings was established in 2010 by Jean Cozier to create a permanent space for the artwork of sexual assault survivors.

Laura Kinter, marketing and communications coordinator, said this was Awakenings' first photography exhibit.

"It is so much more powerful when you're looking at it here," Kinter said of the photographs. "You can see a picture online and it can affect you, but if you see the show... that represents 12 people [who] went through this horrible thing and their clothing is just right in front of your face."

In addition to the attention the series received online, Kinter said many have been "galvanized" after the 2016 election.

"Rape is now trendy, unfortunately," Kinter said, though she noted rape should never be politicized. "It's good that it's getting media attention and sexual assault is being validated in a way it's never been before... We had an opening reception for this exhibit and we had people coming in off the street that just saw the post online. I was able to engage with complete strangers, women bringing their boyfriends to the gallery and talking about art and healing. That's really powerful."

Many of the survivors who donated clothing to the project thanked her afterward, Cambareri added, saying they were grateful to "use their negative energy in a positive way... and do something anonymously but still feel like they were helping other people."

Art Therapy was defined in the 1940s as the therapeutic use of art in healing and is still is a common method of working through traumatic experiences.

The American Art Therapy Assoc. currently represents over 5,000 therapists across the country. The American Journal of Public Health published a study in 2010 that looked at visual, musical, and written art forms in hospitals in the U.S. and United Kingdom. The study found that in all these forms "there are clear indications that artistic engagement has significantly positive effects on health."

Barbara Fish, Ph.D., has worked with art throughout her career as a professor at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, an author and art therapist.

"I think art making and finding meaning in creativity is a human strength," Fish said. "There's a lot of new research with pattern sensory involvement calming the traumatized brain. I use imagination and creativity to weather and hang in there with my clients when it's difficult... They have such hard experiences and difficult lives. Therapy gives [them] a chance to start to learn how to be in a relationship and trust someone else."

At Rape Victims Advocates, 180 N. Michigan Ave., art therapy sessions can include crafting, painting, drawing, and poetry to work through the trauma of sexual assault. Last month, art therapist Jordan Ferranto organized a poetry workshop with Maggie Queeney, library coordinator at the Poetry Foundation.

"I think that words are so powerful," Ferranto said. "Words are something that we're really used to relating to and we're used to using words to describe how we

Lincoln Park woman raped, robbed at knifepoint, say police

Chicago police have issued yet another community alert after a Lincoln Park woman was sexually assaulted and robbed at her home early Sunday. It's the third community alert about armed sexual assaults on the North Side since Feb. 28.

Around midnight Saturday, an attacker approached a woman as she tried to open the door to her apartment in the 1900 block of N. Orchard St., police said.

The offender, who was armed with a knife, sexually assaulted and robbed the woman before fleeing the scene.

Police had few details about the attacker other than he may have been Hispanic.

The woman was treated at Presence St. Mary's Hospital in West Town.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Area Central Detectives at 312-747-8380.

The latest case does not appear to be related to two recent rapes of women in Lakeview, according to a source.

Green Ach-ers: Five arrested, 21 hauled off by ambulance during Wrigleyville's St. Patrick bacchanal

Community pressure on businesses and the city to rein in Wrigleyville's wild St. Patrick's celebrations seems to be paying off—at least by some measures.

Officials estimate that "only" five people were arrested in connection with yesterday's Green Invasion of the Clark St. bar strip.

That's down sharply from 21 arrests in 2014 and 17 arrests in 2015. Seven people were arrested last year.

An estimated 21 people were scooped up and hauled out of Wrigleyville by ambulance crews during last weekend's revelry. That's also down from past years.

at gunpoint by a man who raped her and then drove to the Far South Side with the victim locked in the trunk, police said. That happened in the 3700 block of N. Fremont St.

And on Feb. 28, another woman sexually assaulted at gunpoint after a man forced her into her car at gunpoint in the 1200 block of W. Barry.

Police have said that the two Lakeview cases may be related. (see below)

Wrigleyville woman raped in car, abducted; connections to Feb. 28 case eyed

A Wrigleyville woman was forced into her trunk at gunpoint, sexually assaulted, and then driven to the city's Far South Side by a carjacker on March 8, police said. The abduction and attack played out less than two blocks from Wrigley Field. No one is in custody.

The woman managed to escape from the trunk of her car after the offender crashed at 11516 S. Throop, more than 23 miles from where she was kidnapped.

She said the man forced her into the trunk of her Mazda around 8:30 p.m. in the 3700 block of N. Fremont, according to police.

The gunman then drove around the city for more than 90 minutes with the woman trapped in the vehicle's trunk. He stopped at least twice along the way, the woman said.

Finally, around 10 p.m., the man crashed the car in the West Pullman neighborhood and fled the scene. After the impact, the slightly-injured woman was able to free herself and seek help.

The woman was being treated for minor injuries at Advocate Christ Medical Center in Oak Lawn.

Detectives announced that the attack is "similar and may [involve] the same offender" as a Feb. 28 sexual assault of a woman in nearby Lakeview.

In that case, a woman was walking to her vehicle in the 1200 block of W. Barry around midnight when an unknown man raped her at gunpoint after forcing her into her vehicle.

The Feb. 28 attacker is described as a black man between 25- and 30-years-old, 5'-9" tall, about 160 lbs, with short black hair, and a medium complexion. He had a short beard or scruff on his chin and a mole on his face. He was wearing a brown or green colored vest, a black button-downed shirt with white markings on the bottom and dark colored pants.

Saturday night's gunman is described as a black man between 25- and 35-years-old, 5'-10" tall, who weighs 160 to 200 lbs. He has short black hair, a medium complexion, and a scruffy goatee with a thin mustache. The man was wearing a red colored zip-up style jacket with brown khaki pants, police said.

CPS asks courts to force proof of how charter school spent $25M

The Chicago Public Schools [CPS] is accusing

a former charter school operator of withholding financial documents that would reveal whether it mismanaged $25 million in public funds, according to a complaint filed March 3 in Cook County Circuit Court.

In the complaint, the Chicago Board of Education's Law Department details the CPS's struggles with Prologue Inc., a Chicago nonprofit agency that operated several schools and programs in the city - notably Winnie Mandela Alternative Learning Opportunity Program, as of Aug. 2013; W.E.B. Du Bois Early College High School, as of July 2011; and Joshua Johnston Charter School for Fine Art and Design, as of July 2010.

Though the board authorized a two-year renewal agreement for Johnston on June 24, 2015, Prologue did not execute the deal, the complaint said. On Aug. 24, 2016, CPS rescinded authority to renew the agreement. On May 19, 2016, CPS told Prologue it would not renew the Mandela or Du Bois programs.

CPS cited contract language detailing that Prologue was required to provide, without limitation, financial information such as inventory of assets, audited financial statements, bank records, contracts, general ledgers and payroll records. The board seeks this information "to determine whether Prologue properly used public funds and to account for assets that should be returned."

The complaint also noted it took nearly a year since a final request in May, for Prologue to provide requested student records like transcripts, enrollment documents, state test scores and discipline records. CPS representatives purportedly spoke with Prologue CEO Nancy Jackson on June 17, scheduling a facility walkthrough on June 21 and an in-person meeting June 22. But before the walkthrough, Prologue officials allegedly told CPS no one from the company would attend the meeting or allow CPS to conduct its own walkthrough.

CPS gave Prologue more than $25 million from 2012 through 2016, a total which included five annual outlays for Du Bois and Johnston, and three for Mandela. The state's charter school laws stipulate that when charter schools don't "expend or obligate all federal grant funds prior to the end of each fiscal year, the board may recapture any unspent grant funds."

Formal allegations in the complaint are breach of contract — one count for each other three schools — as well as a count asking the court to order an accounting determining what Prologue owes and whether it may capture any assets or inventory Prologue bought with state money.

Cops seeking theft suspect told "Get a warrant" by Center on Halsted staff

Tipped off that a theft suspect had fled into the Center on Halsted on Monday evening, two Chicago police officers entered the sprawling LGBTQ community center at 3656 N. Halsted to investigate.

Inside, they were met by two people who identified themselves as Center on Halsted staff. The staff had a message for the cops: "Get a warrant."

That's according a Chicago Police Dept. case report that this newspaper acquired via a Freedom Of Information Act request.

The alleged incident raises more questions about the Center on Halsted's relationships with police and neighbors. It also indicates that Center staff members tried to thwart legitimate police efforts with the same tactics that were once used by the Broadway Youth Center—until that agency's conduct was laid out in a series of 2013 reports by our investigative team.

Shortly after 4 p.m. on March 6, a man dressed as a woman entered the 7-Eleven store at 3700 N. Broadway and stole a stack of merchandise. A store employee watched as he walked a half block west and entered the Center on Halsted lobby.

It's "typical," according to a former store employee who says the location is frequently targeted by individuals who steal and then return to the Center.

Two police officers entered the Center on Monday to look for the latest theft suspect—a 6' tall black man in his 20's who was wearing a long auburn-colored wig.

They saw no one matching that description in the Center's lobby, so the officers made their way up the stairs to the second floor.

That's where they were met by a man and a woman who identified themselves as Center on Halsted employees. The two individuals refused to give their names, police said.

But, they told police that they refused to cooperate any further unless the police had a warrant. The staff further claimed—erroneously—that federal health provider confidentiality laws (HIPAA) prohibit police from being there.

Officers told the staff members the obvious: The cops didn't want health records or anything that would involve HIPAA. They only wanted to know if a theft offender was hiding on the premises.

"It was further explained that if the offender was on scene, the Center was, in effect harboring a fugitive," police said in their report.

But, the Center on Halsted staff "repeatedly cited medical privacy laws as the reason the Center on Halsted would refuse to assist the police in any way regarding the apprehension of a criminal," according to the report.

As the officers continued their discussions with Center staff, a security guard approached and said that the person they were looking for had left the building.

Given that information, the report says, "no further issue was made of the Center on Halsted's refusal to cooperate with law enforcement at the time."

Policy of Truth?

HIPPA, which addresses patient paperwork privacy, specifically allows for accommodations when law enforcement is involved in a time-critical effort.

Those exceptions are cited in the Center on Halsted's own privacy statement, according to a copy that was reviewed by this newspaper.

Flashback to BYC

The Center staff are hardly the first social service agency workers to try to use the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act to deflect officers in pursuit of known criminals.

This newspaper revealed in a detailed 2013 report that the Broadway Youth Center repeatedly blocked police efforts by erroneously citing the law.

Those cases, which involved violent offenders, were called "obstructions of justice" by police.

Before our report, BYC representatives claimed to have healthy relationships with the police, and they boasted about that "strong" relationship at community meetings.

But police officers of all ranks told very different stories in private, leading to our investigation, which was aided by members of the community.

Enjoy the silence

We contacted COH Chief Executive Officer Modesto "Tico" Valle and Director of Public Relations Peter Johnson about Monday's incident twice via email—once on Tuesday and again late yesterday afternoon. They did not respond.

Also, we have contacted Ald. Tom Tunney [44th], his Chief of Staff Bennett Lawson, and his Director of Public Safety and Community Affairs Chris Jessup about this case and other Center on Halsted matters three times since Jan. 9. None of them has responded.

Sexist claims fired against Uber

BY BRITTANY KING

Since its conception in 2009, Uber has routinely been under fire for multiple controversies. These controversies include, but are certainly not limited to: poaching Lyft drivers, disrupting established taxi services, weapons charges and even high-profile criminal offenses like abduction and sexual assaults.

In addition to these nightmarish claims, Uber has been no stranger to sexist allegations within their company. It seems that as they roll into the second quarter of 2017, the allegations continue to stack up against them. Recently, several women have come out with allegations against the company.

Former Uber engineer Susan Fowler Rigetti published a blog post last month detailing a string of sexist incidents she endured over her tenure at the company, lasting from Nov. 2015 through this January. Rigetti states that this consistent behavior was reported to her authorities, yet nothing ever came about as a result of her reports. In fact, no one was ever punished for their inappropriate behavior towards her at Uber.

Rigetti claims that on her first day of the job, her boss proposed sex to her via company chat. When she declined and reported the incident to HR, her manager was not punished. Apparently it was explained to Rigetti that the man was not terminated because of his high performance in the company, and also due to the fact that he was a "first time offender." Rigetti later learned this claim was not true and that other women had, in fact, reported the same manager to HR for fairly similar offenses.

According to Vox.com, Rigetti also experienced more of these sexist incidents and continued to report them to HR. She once pointed out to the company that there were very few women engineers. An HR representative responded with "a story about how sometimes certain people of certain genders and ethnic backgrounds were better suited for some jobs than others, so I shouldn't be surprised by the gender ratios in engineering." In essence, Uber was being clear and transparent about their unequal gender ratios to their own employees.

This isn't the first time Uber has come under fire with these types of allegations. BuzzFeed reported in 2016 that Uber's internal database had thousands of messages from customers using the phrases "sexual assault" and "rape." Uber disputed these claims by saying there were fewer than 170 incidents of sexual assault and five rape claims between Dec. 2012 and Aug. 2015. Regardless of the number of these claims, Uber cannot deny that these claims are very real. Whether in the hundreds or thousands, these are circulating claims, nonetheless.

Rigetti also detailed a different type of encounter, where a senior manager ordered leather jackets for site reliability engineers. However, he later informed the women of the department they would not be getting one because there were not enough women to justify the purchase. Fowler said 120 men had leather jackets purchased for them, while the six women in that department did not receive one.

Fowler also claimed that at the time she joined Uber, 25% of the company was made up of women, while that number had fallen to just three percent upon her departure. Fowler's blog post clearly outlines the horrific inner-workings of Uber.

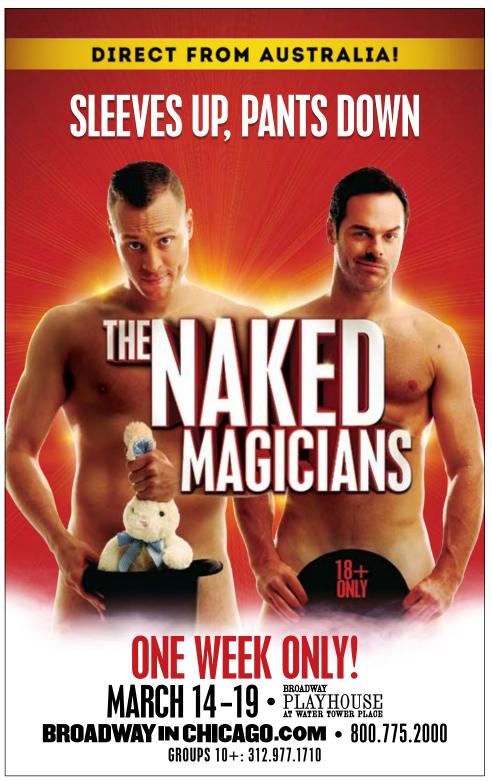

But the sexist claims don't start and end with Rigetti's. Similarly, Keala Lusk came forward with allegations of harassment from her female manager. Lusk's superior has been accused of refusing feedback from her employees, not permitting Lusk to work from anywhere but her desk, and even going so far as to critique Lusk's attire, telling her that she will never advance in her career if she continues wearing tank tops.

Similar to Rigetti's story, Fortune reported that Lusk's consistent meetings with HR did not help her cause, and the allegations were continuously brushed off and ignored. Lusk's allegations show that the deep-rooted sexist practices run deep within Uber, and that even female higher-ups can encourage that kind of biased behavior.

Shortly after Rigetti spoke out about her own harassment, CEO Travis Kalanick announced he had hired former US Attorney General Eric Holder to investigate these claims against his company. While former employees like Fowler and Lusk await justice for themselves and others that have experienced harassment from Uber, it seems that Kalanick and his company have a lot to confront.

Neighbor questions, why shoot her?

I wish to express how shocked and saddened I am by the incident that took place Feb. 17 at Western and Irving Park, where a mentally unstable woman armed with a knife was eventually shot to death by two policemen. I cannot understand nor accept how such a tragic outcome happened. Allegedly, the policemen tried twice to subdue her with stun guns without success. They then resorted to shooting her in the chest. Why?

Do Chicago policemen train on how to disarm their opponents? If they felt they needed to shoot, couldn't they have shot her in the leg, which would certainly have stopped her but spared her life? Did they lose their cool and react in fear? They could have called for more police if they didn't think they could handle the situation safely. In any case, this is totally unacceptable. It is a profound disgrace. I mourn the loss of this poor woman, I feel grief for her family and even for the two policemen who have to live with a senseless killing on their conscience. And I feel outrage!

She was killed at a busy intersection, at a busy time of the day. Such actions by the police put us all at risk in more than one way. A stray bullet of course but also, if I am confronted by someone, maybe mentally ill but it could be any other reason, will I call the police and trust that they can handle the situation without killing someone? I'll think twice and that obviously puts me at risk in a violent situation.

Chicago police need to be trained to deescalate conflicts, to use non-lethal force, preferably no gun, to resolve the inevitable confrontations that take place in our stressed out societies. It is a matter of survival for all of us.

Those rat cats also eat lots of native birds

About the City's rat problem ... the City is working with Tree House's Cats at Work program [and that's a] bad idea.

Experts have found that feral cats don't do much to reduce the rat problem - rather, they just encourage the rats to go somewhere else where the cats aren't.

Tree House says their cats "are very effective at getting rid of rats." This is only if you're looking at a very small, local patch of land. Meanwhile, outdoor cats eat lots of native birds, especially the baby birds whose flying abilities are, at best, nascent. Domestic cats are alien and invasive [species] and belong inside the homes of loving owners. It's okay to let them outside, as long as they're supervised closely so they don't eat birds.

free and open to the public.

Soto will talk with art historian Daniel R. Quiles about her work. Expanding on her interest in architectural interventions, Soto will explain Screenhouse, a freestanding social structure influenced by traditional garden gazebo models and decorative patterns.

An estimated 300-plus people packed the ballroom at the Sofitel Hotel for a two-hour discussion on a proposed 60-story high rise in the Cathedral District. Ald. Brendan Reilly promised his constituents it won't be the last.

19th century architecture. But the scale of this new building and the shadow from the canyon effect it will create, along with the historic buildings they intend to take down will dramatically change this desirable neighborhood forever."

Symmetry needs the approval of Ald. Rielly and the City Council before it can go ahead with the project - the third one proposed for that site.

The Golum Co. proposed putting a hotel with 112 rooms, 150 apartments and 215 parking stalls, while Symmetry suggested 199 hotel rooms 102 time share units and 11,000 square feet of retail space.

Neither of the three plans has gained much traction.

One of some 30 residents stepped up to voice concerns on everything from congestion in the alleys around the proposed high-rise to an expected three years of construction noise.
