New downtown police commander was defendant in federal lawsuit over strip-search

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

The new commander of Chicago Police Department's 18th district has a master's degree in psychology and comes from a police district on the city's South Side.

He was also a defendant in a federal lawsuit over an invasive strip-search of a mother of five.

Daniel O'Shea replaces Paul Bauer, who was killed on while on duty Feb.13.

O'Shea was executive officer in the 6th police district located in the Auburn Gresham neighborhood. Before that, he was a lieutenant and a sergeant in the narcotics unit of the Bureau of Organized Crime. He also worked on tactical units on the city's West Side.

In 2014, O'Shea was one of 15 Chicago police officers named in a police misconduct lawsuit that was settled, according to The Chicago Reporter, for $55,000.

Sabrina Harrison alleged that on the afternoon of Jan. 10, 2014, without knocking, warning, or consent, police entered her apartment on South Kedzie Ave. west of the Loop, looking for illegal drugs.

They claimed to have a search

The City Council Committee on Pedestrian and Traffic Safety held a hearing Monday on changes to the law that would increase the fine for double parking from $100 to $300.

City approves ordinance increasing fines for double parking

Beer truck drivers beware!

In response to chronic complaints regarding traffic and congestion downtown, Ald. Brendan Reilly [42nd] introduced an ordinance that would triple the fines for parking or standing a vehicle alongside properly parked vehicles within the Central Business District. The ordinance, which was introduced at the February City Council meeting, was passed Monday at the Committee on Pedestrian and Traffic Safety meeting, and will go before the full City Council today. If approved it would increase the fine for double parking from $100 to $300.

The ordinance is intended to help alleviate severe traffic congestion downtown caused by delivery trucks illegally parking in a lane of traffic to load and unload materials and products.

The alderman says he is prepared to "continue to raise the fine for double parking until delivery companies instruct their drivers to park in a lawful manner."

In 2017, the City of Chicago established a Downtown Loading Zone program. The program converted business-paid commercial loading zones to user-paid loading zones in the central business district, including the Loop. Commercial vehicles using these loading zones pay $14 hourly to park their vehicles. The program is designed to shift the cost of loading zones to the users of the parking, rather than a single business receiving goods.

In addition to raising tax revenue, the program hopes to reduce parking congestion by addressing several of its causes. The existing system causes confusion about what a loading zone is, causing non-commercial vehicles to use them and reduce necessary loading areas for commercial vehicles.

Presently, business owners pay for a loading zone even though the use of the space is not limited to their business needs. Misuse of loading zones creates unsafe road conditions, leading to double-parking and traffic congestion when commercial vehicles cannot find a space. Indeed a great deal of the congestion in the City's central business district is caused by frustrated drivers circling the block looking for that elusive legal parking space. These conditions also increase delivery times and negatively affect movement of goods through the city.

There are now three basic types of loading zones in Chicago: commercial loading zones, standing zones, and valet loading zones.

Commercial loading zones are only for commercial vehicles or those with a Non-Commercial Loading Zone Permit engaged in the process of loading or unloading goods. Many people think that if they are loading or unloading something, they can use a general

Robbery pattern identified in River North

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

A series of muggings in River North has prompted Chicago police to issue a community alert for the neighborhood. Community alerts typically indicate that detectives have determined that certain crimes were committed by the same individual or group of offenders.

Four robberies between March 18 and March 30 are listed in the alert, which states that the victims were approached by two or three men who launched a physical attack and then took valuables. The robbers have either fled on foot or in a waiting vehicle, police said.

The four cases in the pattern were reported in the 100 block of W. Kinzie early on March 18; in the 200 block of W. Ontario early on March 24; in the first block of W. Illinois late on March 25; and in the 500 block of W. Ontario early on March 30.

Police described the suspects as two or three African American males between the ages of 20 and 25.

The alert suggests that people in the River North area always be aware of their surroundings, remain calm if confronted, try to remember unique physical characteristics of suspects such as scars and tattoos, and call 911 immediately with description details.

Anyone with information is asked to call Area Central detectives at 312-747-8380.

Lawsuit claims false arrest of man photographing fire standpipes

A 15-year resident of the New Eastside neighborhood – who is a Chicago Fire Dept. volunteer – says he was falsely arrested while documenting deteriorated fire standpipes – pipes into which water is pumped in case of fire.

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

A volunteer for Chicago Fire Dept. [CFD] says he was falsely arrested while documenting deteriorated fire standpipes in the Loop.

David Sudler has filed a lawsuit in Cook County Circuit Court against Hyatt Hotels Corp., The Habitat Co., and United Security Services – three companies based in Chicago – along with two police officers, a police lieutenant, a retired deputy police chief, and the property manager of his apartment building.

On March 12, 2016, Sudler says he was standing on public property below Wacker Dr., inspecting and photographing fire standpipe fittings – to which fire-fighters attach hoses – outside Columbus Plaza, where he lives, and adjoining property belonging to Hyatt Regency Chicago.

"I'm looking in there with a flashlight and taking pictures of the pipes," recalled Sudler. When two police officers approached and asked what he was doing, Sudler explained he was a volunteer with CFD and had been asked to photograph standpipes in bad condition by John McNicholas, who was still a deputy commissioner for CFD at the time.

Sudler says McNicholas was particularly interested in standpipes that had coat hangers stuffed into them. Sudler believes coat hangers were being used by an employee of a nearby building to scrape debris out the standpipes.

"You go down and take those pictures," Sudler says McNicholas told him, "we want you to keep doing what you're doing."

The area that day had more than the usual police presence due to St. Patrick's Day celebrations downtown.

"I didn't care about there being 30 or 40 cops around because I'm doing a legitimate thing," said Sudler.

He says the officers, Javier Alonso and Lawrence Kerr, asked him for a work order. He says one of the officers also asked him, mockingly, "When did you get out of the hospital?"

Two ball teams make baseball Chicago's coin of the realm

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

What side of the Chicago River do you live on? Yes, we know, if you're reading this newspaper you likely live on the North Side.

But to put another way, are you a Cubs fan or do you follow the Sox?

Your side of the river once decided what major league baseball team was yours.

Is Addison and Clark streets your holy ground? Or is it 35th and Shields? Wrigley Field or Comiskey Park (sorry, Guaranteed Rate Field)? The National or the American League?

At one time that was enough to start a holy war in whatever part of town you were in, or in whatever tavern you found yourself.

In the age before GPS, Lite beer, gluten free hot dogs, lactose free mustard, you could not understand the real psyche of Chicago until you grasped that concept of local neighborhood and geographical community sports. Geography and baseball are very personally connected in Chicago. That geography is as intimate as peek-a-boo lingerie. You can measure it with a tape.

Exceptions to such rules were always complicated. Family by family those exceptions were found in historical stories of where people first lived upon their arrival in Chicago, often as immigrants. How they established their baseball allegiance was an important part of the assimilation process. Most stayed steady and firm after that no matter where they relocated and lived. I always found these tales like stories of wandering Russians who could not be moved from their courageous oneness with the earth in new places.

Back in the 1950s, growing up in one of the nation's few cities with two MLB teams came with its own peculiar set of rights and obligations. Its own unique vernacular, customs and protocols. Just image, a city so powerful, so important that we had two baseball teams. Half the city followed one team and half the city, the other. That's pure urban American grandeur. Look out Paris. Watch out Rome. Move over London. Step aside Madrid. You may have had fancy tennis, the ancient gladiators, aristocratic cricket and colorful bullfights. But in Chicago we have two baseball teams slugging it out.

There was a bond between the teams and the neighborhoods that were aligned with them that could not be broken. Think of the Cubs and their legions from Wrigleyville, Lakeview, Ravenswood, Rogers Park, Ukrainian Village, Lincoln Park and Uptown.

Think of the Sox and their generations of tried and true from Bridgeport, Canaryville, Back of the Yards, Englewood, Bronzeville and South Shore. Two ball teams make baseball Chicago's coin of the realm.

Old Mayor Daley said years ago, "Chicago is a City of neighborhoods." Of course he was as spot on as a sociologist at Harvard or a savvy U. of C. psychiatrist. He knew what made people tick. Their neighborhood. Their local team.

It's fair to say that years ago, if you were out of your neighborhood for too long, nothing could go right. Away from your tribe, your camp, your folk you started to wilt. And if anyone crossed the great divide of the Chicago River for too long, well, they should just expect catastrophe.

The South Side of Chicago prided itself on the Union Stockyards. It is said that they used every part of the pig there but the oink. Hundreds of thousands of animals were slaughtered there, and meat became an everyday part of American life. All that rough, bloody business was built on the backs of immigrants who worked the shifts 'round the clock. The vast majority came to Chicago because the Stock Yards and the meat-packing industry offered unparalleled employment.

Where did these workers go when they could have a moment of free time? To a White Sox game. The same is true for all the steel workers and those who manned heavy industry further out south. For their families, passionate loyalty began in childhood. A sense of allegiance that would last a whole lifetime.

North of the river life didn't appear quite as rough, especially along the lakefront and the leafy environs of Lincoln Park, Edgewater and Andersonville with its large numbers of civilized Scandinavians. The Irish were everywhere, as the Germans were becoming a sturdy part of the expanding landscape. Poles filled large swatches of neighborhoods on both sides of town. Baseball appeared to be a universal experience for them all. It channeled the American experience in powerful, but enjoyable ways.

Of course Chicago politics was a force of dynamic power and solidifying energy. It often accomplished the impossible. But it was baseball that held Chicago's heart.

All Chicagoans know the lore of the Cubs playing in three World Series in a row in 1906, 1907 and 1908. Winning the last two. And then once again in 2016. We get it. A drought for 108 years. But what times fans had in that drought. World class.

I remember watching the White Sox play in the 2005 World Series. We were at Schaller's Pump on 37th and Halsted eating steak sandwiches and hash browns. Better than box seats at Comiskey. They won.

They won in 1906, too, when they were known as the "Hitless Wonders," and again in 1917 with Shoeless Joe Jackson. As a child I remember their winning the American League Pennant in 1959. My grandmother was babysitting us at the time. When Fire Commissioner Bob Quinn blew the air raid warning system at the win, my grandmother had my sister and I go under the dining room table. I was no genius, but I was pretty sure that you'd need lead furniture to survive an A-bomb even from the Ruskies.

When the Dodgers beat the Sox in the series, it was just like the Russians bombed us. 2005 would be a long way off.

But the Chicago River is not what it used to be, not quite the emphatic barrier to being a fan that it once symbolized. Fan loyalty equivocates. I suspect first the yuppies, and now the millennials, have a more North Side character and suburban sense of baseball. So they seem more heavily invested in the Cubs. But the Sox still get the embrace of generations of loyal families for whom there is no other team in town.

Sitting on the edge of a snowy opening day, Chicago remains a baseball town, not of split allegiances, but of double loyalties and springtime hearts.

Chicago Blackhawks #10, Patrick Sharp.

SHARP AS THEY COME: The Chicago Blackhawks #10, Patrick Sharp, has retired. As fans will attest, Sharp had been a powerful force in the rebuilding of the Blackhawks organization. It got emotional when he skated solo for the last time on home ice at the United Center. He has become a real Chicagoan.

A Cinderella story

Special ed teacher transforming students for graduation

Heart of the 'Hood
By Felicia Dechter

Everybody could use a Fairy Godmother at some point in their life, and for the graduating young ladies at Mozart Elementary School, that time has come. That's because Onalee Smola, a special education teacher at the school, 2200 N. Hamlin Ave. in Logan Square, is collecting fancy dresses, spiffy shoes, and accessories such as jewelry, lip gloss and nail polish for the girls who are graduating. Smola has dubbed her project Cinderella's Closet, and her plan is to transform the graduates, one dress at a time.

"These kids are great," said Smola, who teaches at Mozart's middle school and has two graduating girls, Rocio and Wendy, in her special education class. "I think it makes them feel important. It's self-esteem."

Her student Rocio was the real reason that Smola started this truly impressive project. Rocio had come to school one day, excited about a dress she'd seen while shopping with her mom.

"The next day, I asked if she'd taken a photo," said Smola. "She said, 'No, no, mommy said no.'"

"It was too expensive," Smola said of the dress. "I knew it wasn't gonna happen."

That day while driving home, Smola realized that Rocio would not attend graduation if she didn't have a party dress to wear. "My daughter lives in Glenview and they're paying $200 to $300 a dress," she said. "These people in Logan Square can't afford that. She doesn't even have a jacket."

The graduating girls actually need two outfits each, said Smola, as they will be attending two functions. One is graduation -- the fancier of the two events -- and the other is their pre-grad luncheon, which will be held at a restaurant. There are about 70 female graduates, and as we all know, "No one wants to wear the same dress twice," laughed Smola.

Mozart Elementary is a 97.8% low income, primarily Hispanic community school, recognized for its academics and parental involvement. The school partners with DePaul Univ., Changing Worlds, and the Logan Square Neighborhood Assoc. to enhance the curriculum for its 626 students.

The kids -- inner city from low income, hard-working families -- are fed breakfast, lunch and a real meal after school, Smola told me. Their moms are maids, cooks, babysitters, and money is tight, she said.

"Not everybody needs them," she said of the dresses. "But the girls really got excited when they found out I was doing it."

Sizes needed vary -- everything from a two to a 16 would be useful for girls ranging in age from 13 to 15. When I spoke to Smola about a week ago, she had already collected about 20 dresses between donations and thrift shop shopping.

"I need every dress," said Ms. Smola, who was born and raised in East Rogers Park. "What I don't use will definitely go to other schools."

The young ladies at Mozart will be led into Cinderella's Closet, where they will shop among all the goodies. Smola will transform part of her classroom into a dressing room where dresses will be sized and color-coded. She has already brought in mirrors, and lamps. There will be colorful vases of flowers and fresh curtains on the windows.

"When they come in, they'll think they're somewhere," said Smola. "I'm going to make it like a boutique. It'll look fancy. It's going to be real pretty."

Parents will have to sign a waiver saying they approved their daughter's dress. And if you have any shirts or ties for young men, Smola will take those too. "I'll take any sizes," she said. "Nothing will be unused."

Smola has already enlisted the help of some of the school's other teachers. Mozart Principal Sonia Caban called the Cinderella's Closet project, "a wonderful way to help the eighth grade graduating girls."

"Helping the girls make the day even more special by providing them the opportunity to select a dress, a pair of shoes, a purse or accessories is a blessing for the girls," Principal Caban said. "I'm beyond happy and grateful to Ms. Smola's effort and kindness. Ms. Smola has also reached out to other staff members that are also excited about the project and will be donating what they can to support the cause."

Meanwhile, already feeling like a princess was Rocio, who quickly spotted a shimmering, silvery, long dress for her big day.

"Rocio was beaming and she's so excited, that's the gratifying part," said Smola. "They feel like Cinderella."

"It feels great to watch them smile," she said. "This kind of stuff can change a life."

For more information or to make a donation contact Smola at oas-mola@cps.edu.

Many Baby Boomers, Gen-X renters say they will never own a home

The Home Front By Don DeBat

The American Dream of homeownership is not only fading among the young Millennial generation.

Apparently, an increasing number of people in the Baby Boomer and Generation-X age groups have a preference for renting, and do not anticipate buying a home, according to a new research study by Freddie Mac.

“Profile of Today’s Renter,” a new survey by Freddie Mac Multifamily, found that growing segments of the population—Baby Boomers and Generation-Xers in particular—are showing less interest in owning a home.

And, the new research revealed that despite growing economic confidence among renters, affordability remains dominant in driving renter behavior. Here is a summary of the survey:

- 67% of apartment and home renters view renting as more affordable than owning a home, including 73% of baby boomers (aged 53-71).

- Similarly, 67% of renters who plan to continue leasing their housing say they will do so for financial reasons—up from 59% just two years ago.

- 50% of Baby Boomers currently renting do not anticipate buying a home in the future, up eight percent from six months ago. Of that half, 35% have no interest in owning, and 15% believe they will never be able to afford it.

- Similarly, 31% of Gen-Xers (aged 38-52) expressed that sentiment, up from 28% from the previous Freddie Mac renters survey. Of those Gen-Xers surveyed, 19% lack interest and 12% believe they will never be able to afford the American Dream.

The 2018 Renter Profile is based on a survey conducted online early this year among 4,115 adults aged 18 years and older, including 1,209 renters. The survey was conducted by Harris Poll, on behalf of Freddie Mac.

“Perceptions of affordability and cost continue to play an outsized role in the choices of America’s renters, as they overwhelmingly see renting as more affordable and the right choice for them—right now,” said David Brickman, executive vice president and head of Freddie Mac Multifamily.

“Remarkably, half of Baby Boomers who rent do not anticipate owning a home in the future, with a growing number of Generation-Xers following suit,” Brickman said. “Indeed, we are witnessing an historic shift in preference among older Americans, as they increasingly are choosing the size, convenience and affordability that renting offers over ownership.”

Although the research found that a growing number of renters believe their economic situation has improved compared to last year, it also finds that cost is increasingly driving rental decisions. While 67% of renters stated they will continue renting for financial reasons, that number is significantly higher for Millennials (aged 21-37), jumping 15% from 59% in 2016 to 74% today.

Multifamily renters (versus single-family renters) expressing this view jumped 11%—from 57% in 2016 to 68% today. And although this increase takes place in all geographic areas, urban renters are increasingly likely to continue renting for financial reasons, Freddie Mac reported.

As part of the Renter Profile research, a companion survey conducted by GfK Custom Research found that cost concerns play a major role in mobility and housing choices.

Post 710 of Jewish War Veterans a busy bunch

BY PATRICK BUTLER

The Jewish War Veterans [JWV] may not be the biggest outfit of its kind, but its estimated 10,000 to 15,000 members scattered around the country may well be among the busiest.

Take JWV Post 710 at Temple Shalom, 3480 N. Lake Shore Dr., for example.

While Post Commander Jerry Field has never been averse to a little R&R, you won't find him with too much idling time these days.

"Post 710 doesn't participate in any of the four B's – Beer, Bingo, BS and lagging behind times," he explained.

His real priority these days is building up membership at a time when nobody seems to be joining any kind of community service groups these days.

But if you're after hard work helping all kinds of people – and you're a Jewish veteran – the JWV might just be what you've been looking for, Field and Illinois JWV commander Robert Nussbaum agreed.

There's clothing that needs to be collected for needy vets at the Jesse Brown medical center at Ashland and Taylor on the Near South Side; working with Hillel (an international Jewish campus life foundation) to provide outreach programs for high school and college-level ROTC programs and awards.

"And you don't need to be Jewish to win these recognitions for citizenship, responsibility and leadership," said Field, adding that Post 710 also helps with high school level STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) teacher training programs and even a special legal program in association with John Marshall Law School: and supporting patriotic programs working with the Boy Scouts and a new "School to Space" project from elementary schools through community colleges.

In a new initiative undertaken just last year, the JWV now supports the PAWS Act of 2017, that directs the VA to carry out a five-year pilot program under which it provides grants to eligible non-profit organizations to provide service dogs to veterans who suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder.

JWV also helps run programs designed to help returning GIs re-acclimate to civilian life and connect active and former Jewish soldiers with opportunities to take part in High Holiday services, Commanders Field and Nussbaum said.

But it doesn't even end there, they added, noting that Post 710 goes beyond here to hereafter, even helping to provide gravesites for Jewish veterans in need at cemeteries like Oak Ridge and Shalom Memorial Park.

Korean War Veteran Field and Vietnam vet Nussbaum say they also spend a lot of their time educating the public on the need for service even in the less-popular, little-known wars.

Robert Nussbaum, commander of the Illinois Jewish War Veterans Illinois Department (left) and Lake View resident Jerry Field, commander of JWV Post No. 710 share a moment at Temple Shalom, where North Side Jewish War Veterans meet. "This post doesn't participate in the Four B's - beer, bingo, B.S., and being behind the times," Field told a visiting reporter.

In the late 1920s, the JWV was able to get Stars of David markers on the graves of Jewish soldiers killed in France during World War II.

During the week of July 16th, Field said JWV posts like 710 will be marking the 65th anniversary of the truce ending the Korean War, at least officially, said Field, noting "there's still shooting" along the truce line.

Technically, the war never ended, Field and Nussbaum said.

"There'll be medals, pictures and artifacts from that war on display at the Jesse Brown Veterans Medical Center" – and a chance to explain why it all happened.

But then, the JWV itself was founded to explain a few myths, said Field.

Back in 1896, 63 Jewish Civil War veterans organized the Hebrew Union Veterans to clear up complaints that Jews didn't carry their weight when the shooting started.

Of course, even Col. Teddy Roosevelt knew better, having organized a Jewish contingent of his Rough Riders (officially known as the 1st United States Volunteer Cavalry), with TR himself named an honorary member.

In the late 1920s, the JWV was able to get Stars of David markers on the graves of Jewish soldiers killed in France during World War II.

The JWV, Field noted, was the first organization of any size to launch a boycott of German goods after Hitler took power, and helped resettle German refugees arriving here.

More recently, the JWV became the only veterans' organization to join forces with Rev. Martin Luther King during the Civil Rights struggles of the 1960s.

It seems the need for good work just never ends, Field and Nussbaum agreed.

Toast of Uptown, Buena Park wine walk Sunday

The first ever Toast of Uptown will be 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. this Sunday and will offer an afternoon of strolling and sipping wine in the historic Buena Park district.

This self-guided stroll will take visitors on a tour through the many businesses that call Buena Park home. All attendees will receive a wine tasting glass which serves as a ticket to this event—simply present it at each stop along the route for wine samples. Small bites from local eateries will be provided along the route as well.

Tucked between Lake Michigan and Graceland Cemetery, Buena Park is a tight-knit community and nationally recognized historic district. Popular for its many tree-lined blocks and Prairie-style historic mansions, Buena Park faces Montrose Beach and Harbor—both popular destinations for tens of thousands of Chicagoans.

Tickets are $35 per person and the event check-in location is IRPINO Real Estate, 4234 N. Broadway. For more information call 773-878-1184.

This study shows a significant majority—64% of renters—cite price as the most important factor when considering their next home, a theme consistent across all three generations. Only 36% cited location as the most important factor in choosing a home.

In addition, the companion survey found that across the three generations, renters are more likely to perceive homeownership as less accessible than it was three years ago—40% of respondents shared that view.

anticipate it would be difficult for them to buy a home, as compared to 38% who believe renting a home is difficult. Plans to continue renting remain relatively constant, with a majority (55%) of renters indicating they plan to continue doing so.

Rental Satisfaction

The Freddie Mac survey found that a significant and growing majority of renters—a solid 66%—are satisfied with the overall rental experience, up from 60% in Aug. 2017.

Even among renters who have experienced a rent increase in the past two years, a growing number—64%—stated they do not plan to move, up from 49% in Aug. 2017. This includes a noteworthy 70% of Baby Boomers.

The findings are consistent with Freddie Mac's 2016 study of the 55-plus population, which found 63% of Boomers prefer to age in place. In addition, a majority of renters—54%—continue to believe that renting is a good choice for them now, including 71% of Millennials.

In addition to Boomers and Gen-Xers, 31% of urban renters do not see homeownership in their future, up from 27% in Aug. 2017.

"Renter satisfaction remains high, but the continued shortage of supply and growing demand means more renters are looking at cost than ever before," Brickman said. "Although it's clear that the demand for rental housing will continue for the foreseeable future, this survey is also a reminder of the important role Freddie Mac plays in financing low-income and workforce housing across the United States."

Exhibition celebrates women photographers' 12 neighborhoods in 12 months

Over 12 months in 12 neighborhoods, thousands of images were captured by Women In Focus Chicago (WIF) photographers. Seventy-four of those impressions celebrated at the "Neighborhood Project" exhibition that opened April 13 in the Hairpin Arts Center Gallery, 2810 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Representing the people, sights and culture of Bronzeville, Chinatown, Downtown, Historic Pullman, Hyde Park, Lincoln Park and the Lakefront, Logan Square, Pilsen, Rogers Park, Uptown, the West Loop, and Wicker Park, the images in the exhibition are like small windows, enticing viewers to more neighborhood exploration of their own.

Guided by neighborhood, faux "Chicago street signs," visitors can meander from neighborhood to neighborhood viewing pieces by Adeline Sides, Deborah Poulin, Annette Nieves, Wendy Love, Kirsten Fenton, Anne Evans, Elaine Coorens, Kristin Cass, Barbara Calabrese and Susan Au-risko.

The exhibition was curated by two well-known experts on both photography and Chicago neighborhoods, Richard Cahan and Charles Osgood. This show in Hairpin marks the debut of the full project, following a preview exhibit at Café Selmarie in Lincoln Square last summer and the inclusion of select works in Jackson Junge Gallery's "In the 'Hood" show in Wicker Park.

The show will continue at Hairpin through Sunday, Apr. 29.

Letters to the Editor

There are wiser ways to address housing situation

There has been a lot of media coverage about the referendum in the March 20 primary election to repeal the Illinois state ban on passing rent control laws. Some 100 precincts allowed nearly 17,000 people to vote on the issue. That's out of 2000 precincts in the city, and 1.8 million registered voters. Maybe this represents momentum. But I would hold back on my enthusiasm.

In a flat city like Chicago, with hundreds of thousands of ordinary people across every ward who own rental property, the idea that we would ever approve rent control is very hard indeed for me to imagine. And whenever I have encountered rent-control advocates my first question is, have you people ever heard of that era in history known as the 20th century? Rent control was a disaster in New York City, and New York has been working diligently to throw rent control away for several decades.

I guess it worked better elsewhere, but the reasons for the scarcity of affordable housing in Chicago and elsewhere are complex. Simply passing laws to limit the ability of landlords to raise rents seems unlikely to help much in the long run if the same restrictions severely limit the ability of developers to earn a profit on their properties, or even cover their costs, and thus discourage investment.

Airbnb is taking units off the market in many major cities, and we are seeing real estate developments in places like New York and London that are financed with foreign capital, and are intended to serve as private investments, doing nothing to increase the amount of rental units available. Vast and growing demand for housing in central California, New York City, and elsewhere tends to overwhelm new construction, and complex zoning and building regulations make building new housing in many American municipalities far more expensive than it needs to be, if these same regulations are not intended (thanks to NIMBY sentiments) to limit new construction entirely.

We need to improve the housing situation in Chicago, though we have it easy compared to much of California and the Northeast. Maybe a movement toward rent control will compel us to think of wiser ways to address the problem.

The Great Foster Ave. War Zone

Is anybody out there with a money counter and binoculars?

What in the world is happening to the taxpayer $50 million deep tunnel excavation project at the River and Foster Ave.? It looks like a war zone. The Aug. 2017 promise to rebuild the popular tennis courts are on "indefinite hold," the River Park Advisory Council is not registered with the CPD and no one seems to know when the projects will ever end, whether extra taxpayer dollars will be needed, and when, if ever, we can play tennis and swim in peace without fumes this year!

Fair Magazine named Chicago Art Dealer Rhona Hoffman one of America's 14 most important female art dealers. Her impact over Chicago art has been substantive for decades. Last week she opened her new West Town gallery space at 1711 W. Chicago Ave. with a dramatic exhibition of Judy Legerwood's work. Carrie Lannon reports that this is a not to be missed solo show.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA NEWS:

A flawless endowed concert followed by a reception in the Grainger Ballroom honoring the celebrated orchestra, marked a splendid evening arranged by the CSOA, the League of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra Assoc. Mimi Duginger, League president, and Ariana Strahl, Donor Engagement Coordinator, were on hand with Chair of the Endowed Concerts, the fabulous Bonnie McGrath, who made sure everything ran smoothly.

WRITE CITY: The current edition of Write City Magazine is focused on the superb writing of Chicagoan Maureen Connolly in her chapter, "A Million Miles from Yesterday." It tied for second place in CWA's First Chapter contest. And it's also the name of her latest novel. Ms. Connolly is an a Ragdale Alum.

MORNIN' BUN: The Wicker Park eatery Milk & Honey has introduced the incredible Allison Cates as its new pastry chef. Overnight she has seemingly reinvented the world of "haute patisserie" at 1920 W. Division. What creations she is fashioning. How about an open face lemon curd and fresh blueberry croissant; or a beehive shaped croissant with roasted honey and almonds; or her version of a heavenly "morning bun," as she calls her crunchy frosted cinnamon roll. Anyway Chef Cates is fast becoming the talk of the town. The best buttery baked goods this side of Paris. "O Mon Dieu! Un tel dieu beurré, croustillant, fond dans la bouche."

REQUIEM: I've enjoyed Alfred O'Malley for more than 40 years. He died last week surrounded by his family. He was an Irish prince. And he knew it. Smart, handsome, wealthy, a great golfer, superb host, banker, man of Chicago mercantilism and a great dad. I liked him for it all, but especially because he was a parent of quality and wisdom. He knew what battles were worth fighting, and expending the energy they required. With his kids and with me. He and I once went "mano a mano" when he mistakenly thought I had misspoken about one of his offspring. Only ending when we were both in tears. C'mon, we're Irish. O'Malleys are the descendants of Gracie O'Malley, Gráinne Ní Mhaille, the pirate queen of Ireland. And over the Al had all the gifts of the Irish in abundance. I will miss all those encounters with him at Beverly Country Club and at his nephews' family celebrations. Al's charm will live on long after him. And his faith will light the way for him. No empty pews at his funeral. SRO. Safe home, my friend.

I.D. PLEASE: What's the drinking age at Kitty O'Shea's, the Irish saloon in the Chicago Hilton and Towers? It seems that during all the hooplah of St. Patrick's Day many underage drinkers were permitted bar service once they paid their cover charge. Definitely a liberty not enjoyed elsewhere in town where scrupulous age checks seemed to be well underway.

PITY PATTERN IN THE HOLY WATER: What very handsome usher at Holy Name Cathedral has been known to assist late arrivals at the State St. doors by personally dipping his hand into the Holy Water as they rush in? It's enough to make Sean Thornton blush. But it is kind.

MORE THAN CHEESE: Looking for a sensational getaway? Try the LaCrosse Symphony Orchestra's driftless Chamber Concert on Saturday, April 14th, 8 p.m., in Viroqua, WI. The program will feature works by Antonio Vivaldi, Luigi Boccherini, Sir William Walton and Pyotr Illych Tchaikovsky, with new principal cellist, Kyle Price, featured in the Boccherini. It's Preckwinkle racks up more speeding, red light tickets, owes city $500... and counting

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

To borrow a popular phrase these days, Cook County Board President Toni Preckwinkle's assurance that traffic tickets issued to her official county vehicles are paid looks like it 'lacks candor.'

In fact, some might change her new nickname from "Speedwinkle" to "Bullwinkle."

Since our March report on an unpaid speed camera violation issued to Preckwinkle, the county's top politician has demanded a hearing to protest the ticket as well as two other parking violations.

Preckwinkle has also racked up a brand new red light camera violation and a fresh speeding violation.

In her latest alleged offense, Preckwinkle's car was caught cruising through a solid red light in the 200 block of W. Garfield Blvd. on March 18. Video of the infraction begins with the signal already solid red before Preckwinkle's SUV glides into the frame and slips on through the intersection without even slowing down.

As in many of her traffic snafus, the emergency lights on Preckwinkle's car are activated.

As of press time, the ticket remains unpaid.

On March 2, a speed camera in the 500 block of E. Morgan Dr. caught Preckwinkle's car going 40 MPH in a 30 MPH zone. That ticket has been paid.

But the Feb. 25 violation that we re-

Preckwinkle's car moseys on through a red light as if it's not even there.

Image courtesy City Of Chicago

ported on last month—the one showing her car tooling through the Austin neighborhood at 45 MPH in a 30 MPH zone—is now in protest mode. A hearing has been requested for that one. Hearings have also been sought for two parking violations that Preckwinkle collected since our report. Yet another parking violation, issued April 7, remains unpaid.

Altogether, "Preckwinkle's car" owes the city of Chicago $500 in unpaid violations tallied since Oct. 12, enough to qualify for a booting.

In Oct. 2016, Preckwinkle said, "I don't condone speeding. Any tickets issued are paid." Then, she protested the exact speeding ticket we had inquired about.

Police Beat....

Two of four adults charged with River North mob attack have already skipped bail

Two of the four adults charged with beating and stealing money from a man in River North on April 6 have already gone AWOL by skipping court dates, according to Cook County court records. And they are just the tip of the iceberg. Of the 232 ongoing criminal cases being monitored by our reporters, 36 defendants were AWOL as of Friday afternoon.

Other recipients of "affordable bails" who are in the wind include a man charged with receiving a $66,000 methamphetamine delivery; a man charged with 10 burglaries in Lakeview; and a man accused of having a sawed-off shotgun in a car.

• Dylan Sanders and Jeremy Wilson, both 18, were charged after a 21-year-old man had his cash and phone stolen and was then beaten by a mob when he pursued the thief in the 700 block of N. Rush St. April 6. Sanders was charged with the theft, Wilson was charged with battery, and both were released on recognizance bonds. Neither man showed up in court last week and warrants have been issued for their arrests. This was Sanders' fifth arrest since Feb. 17. • Nerray Canoy, 21, a waiter from West Ridge, was charged with Class X felony possession of 100 to 400 grams of

Two shot in Uptown strip mall Thursday, for one victim his second shooting since December

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

Two known gang members were shot in an Uptown parking lot on Thursday afternoon, police said. It's the second time one of the men has been shot since December. Witnesses said seven to 10 shots were fired from a black Toyota Corolla just before 4:30 p.m., striking the two men as they stood in a strip mall parking lot at 4554 N. Magnolia. The car was last seen heading northbound on Magnolia.

A 19-year-old man who suffered gunshot wounds to his groin and leg was in critical condition at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center, police said. A 21-year-old who was shot in the buttocks was also taken to Masonic, but police did not release his condition.

This was the second time that the 21-year-old has been shot in Uptown since Dec. 17 when he methamphetamine after a mailman allegedly delivered $63,360 worth of speed to a residence. He was freed on a recognizance bond with electronic monitoring. On Feb. 23, he failed to show up in court.

• Mark Walker, 48, was charged with 16 criminal counts including burglary and bank fraud for allegedly breaking into at least eight cars and condos in Lakeview on Dec. 21, 2017. Cops caught up with him on Jan. 10, but Judge Stephanie Miller released him on a recognizance bond with electronic monitoring. He hasn't been seen since he skipped court on March 27.

• Lapre Apple was arrested March 3 after police allegedly saw a gun sticking out of his waistband as he stood in front of them in line at a West Loop Portillo's. Apple, of Indianapolis, was carrying 350 ecstasy pills, the loaded handgun, and $3,202 cash, prosecutors said. He was charged with three felonies, and Judge Michael Clancy set bail at $20,000. Considering that Apple had $3,202 in his pocket, raising the $2,000 downpayment to go free was a snap. He skipped court on Friday, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

• Eriberto Orozco, charged with burglarizing six apartments in the Edgewater residential complex where he worked. He posted $1,000 of the $10,000 bail set by Judge Sophia Atcherson and skipped court last Monday.

• Marius Manolache, missing since March 12, is accused of possessing 17 fraudulently-made ATM cards that are believed to be linked to a skimming operation. He had $3,040 in $20 bills in his pocket when cops arrested him. Judge Sophia Atcherson set bail at $5,000, so it was easy for him to come up with the $500 needed to go free.

• Aziz Muhammad, accused of having a 14" sawed-off shotgun in a gym bag in a car on the South Side in late January, skipped bail on April 2. He was freed on a recognizance bond courtesy of Judge Miller.

Eleven-time convicted felon charged with T-Mobile robbery; second suspect remains at large

An eleven-time convicted felon helped rob a North Center T-Mobile store on Friday evening and was arrested when he bailed out of the getaway car near Boystown in the midst of a six-mile police chase, according to a CPD spokesperson. Police said Tyree Ruth, 46, was positively identified as one of two men who robbed the store at 1958 W. Irving Park at gunpoint shortly after 6 p.m. Friday. Ruth was seen entering the store with a handgun displayed and he then demanded money and property from store employees, according to police.

Acting on information gathered from two previous robberies, police searched the area for a white Chrysler 300 with front end damage and a Tennessee license plate. They found it as the car entered Lake Shore Dr. with two occupants.

A pursuit broke out on Lake Shore Dr., exiting at Belmont, and heading west on Barry. Ruth bailed out of the Chrysler in the 3100 block of N. Broadway, but police caught up with him after a short foot chase. He is charged with one felony count of armed robbery with a firearm.

State records show that Ruth was discharged from parole on March 11. He had been sentenced to two concurrent terms of five-years each for narcotics in 2013.

Prior to his most recent prison stint, Ruth was sentenced to one year in prison for theft from a school or house of worship in 2011; six years for burglary in 2005; one year for retail theft in 2003; seven years for robbery in 2000; 15 years for armed robbery in 1991; a concurrent term of 15 years for armed robbery in 1991; yet another concurrent term of 15 years for armed robbery in 1991; a fourth concurrent term of 15 years for armed robbery in 1991; and a seven year concurrent term for burglary in 1991. He is due in bond court on Sunday afternoon.

After Ruth bailed out of the car, his co-offender continued to lead police on a chase through Lakeview, Lincoln Park, and then into River North. Cops lost the car in heavy traffic near LaSalle and Kinzie.

Police later found a handgun lying in the street at Wacker Dr. and State St. that they believe belongs to the Chrysler's driver, according to a department spokesperson.

Investigators believe Ruth and the other man may also be responsible for robbing an Uptown Boost Mobile store on Thursday afternoon and a Lakeview Metro PCS April 7.

Investigators believe the suspect, who remains at large, is career criminal John Hummons, 50, according to an internal CPD communication. Hummons is 6'-1" tall and weighs about 190 lbs. He has two teardrop tattoos on his right cheek.

Court records show that he was sentenced to 9-1/2 years in prison for Class X felony armed robbery in 2007; 15 years for Class X armed robbery in 1997; a second term of 15 years for Class X armed robbery in 1997; three years for being a felon in possession of a firearm in 1996; and three years for being a felon in possession of a firearm in 1994.

Milwaukee man charged with Lakeview home invasion

Police have confirmed that a Wisconsin man turned himself in to Chicago police this week and admitted to being responsible for a Feb. 25 home invasion in Lakeview. Police said that around 4:30 p.m. Feb. 25, Antjuon Caver, 44, kicked in the rear door of a residence in the 900 block of W. George St. Inside, he allegedly confronted a 28-year-old woman who lives there and demanded her property. Caver collected a cell phone, laptop, and car keys before tying the woman with duct tape and cord. He then fled to the nearby Wellington Brown Line CTA station where his escape was captured on surveillance footage, according to police. Caver has been charged with one count of felony home invasion. He listed a home address in the 10200 block of West Fond du Lac in Milwaukee.

Asked directly about social media speculation that the victim knew the home invader, a police spokesman stated, "there is no report of there being any relation or indication the victim knew the offender."

Police said Caver surrendered to Area North detectives at 2352 W. Belmont on Wednesday.

North Center Child Luring alert issued; aging man possibly suffering from early dementia

Chicago police have issued a community alert about a man who has approached children near the Alexander Graham Bell Elementary School this week. The alert notes that the man may "have mental health concerns and is possibly suffering from early dementia."

Around 2:15 p.m. on Thursday, the man approached the Bell schoolyard fence in the 3700 block of N. Oakley and made hand gestures, motioning for a 10-year-old student to come closer, police said. He then reached through the wrought iron fence to touch the child on the shoulder, according to the alert. Police said the man said something to the child, but his words were not coherent.

The student ran from the man and informed school personnel.

Police said the man is Asian or Hispanic, 60- to 70-years-old. He was last seen wearing a tan baseball cap, tan jacket, blue jeans, and black shoes.

Anyone with information about the man is asked to call Area North detectives at 312-744-8261.

Burglar strikes popular Lakeview brunch spot, ATM gutted

A favorite Lakeview brunch spot has become one of the latest North Side businesses to be targeted by after-hours burglars who've been the subject of two warnings from Chicago police.

Kanela Breakfast Club, 3231 N. Clark St., was struck sometime between 6 p.m. on Thursday and 6 a.m. Friday, police said. Forced entry was made through the front door, according to police.

The burglar pried open the restaurant's ATM and took its contents along with a DVR.

At least three more businesses were broken into between the close of business on Saturday and opening time on Sunday. Struck in the latest wave: a Thai restaurant in the 2400 block of N. Halsted; a nail salon in the 2500 block of N. Sheffield; and an unidentified business directly next door to the nail salon.

More than a dozen businesses in the 19th (Town Hall) District have fallen victim to overnight burglars since January, according to two alerts issued by Chicago police. On April 4, a store employee interrupted the burglary of a house-keeping service in the 2900 block of N. Sheffield at 5:20 a.m. The burglar broke the shop's front door

20-years for home invasion, beating of 77-year-old woman

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

Justice is finally being served in one of Lakeview's most sickening crimes.

At 6 a.m. on Jan. 9, 2016, three men forced their way into a 77-year-old woman's home near Wrigley Field and savagely beat her and burglarized her residence.

Eli Ruff, Tracie Towbridge, and Lilearl Taylor were arrested after they crashed the victim's car on the Dan Ryan Expy. after the crime, police said. All were charged with attempted murder, robbery of a senior citizen, aggravated battery of a senior citizen, and more.

This week Taylor, 21, became the first to see justice served when he pleaded guilty Wednesday to one count of home invasion. He was sentenced to 20 years in prison and will be required to serve at least 85% of the time. Several other felonies including attempted murder, burglary, robbery, and aggravated battery were dropped in the deal. Judge James Obbish approved the deal.

In exchange for his plea, pros-

Eli Ruff

Lilearl Taylor

Tracie Towbridge

ecutors dropped another robbery case in which a woman suffered a concussion after Taylor pushed her to the ground near the Belmont Red Line CTA station. That robbery took place just hours before the home invasion.

Another charge of aggravated battery of a sheriff was also dropped.

Police said Taylor, Towbridge, and Ruff decided to burglarize 77-year-old Joanne Signa's home in the 3600 block of N. Magnolia at random. It was just one of several burglaries the crew is suspected of committing in Wrigleyville and nearby Lakeview during the winter of 2015-2016.

After kicking in her rear door, the three confronted Signa in her bedroom and beat her until she lost consciousness, police said. Then they allegedly loaded her car with stolen goods and drove away.

Towbridge was on parole at the time for a weapons violation.

Illinois State Police took the three men into custody after they allegedly left Signa's older model Honda crashed on the Dan Ryan Expy. about an hour after the home invasion.

Towbridge and Ruff remain in custody. Their cases continue to work their way through the court system.

Signa lost vision in her left eye as the result of the attack and never resumed living in her longtime home on Magnolia, according to a neighbor. She resides now in an assisted-living facility.

Saks whacked, thieves steal $39K worth of jewelry from Mag Mile dept. store

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

Thieves escaped with nearly $40,000 worth of diamond jewelry Sunday in another high-profile retail theft along the Magnificent Mile, police said. No one is in custody.

Around 8 p.m., a crew of three or four offenders made its way to the jewelry department at Saks Fifth Avenue, 700 N. Michigan Ave. Within moments, the team was running for the Michigan Ave. exit with two diamond necklaces: one valued at $9,000 and the other at $30,000, according to police.

Police said all three thieves are black males in their early 20's. The following clothing descriptions were given: black skull cap with a black hoodie and jeans; camel baseball cap with red and white-striped Adidas sweatpants and a dark hoodie, and blue baseball cap, black sweatshirt, blue jeans.

On March 30, a group of six thieves walked into Barney's of New York, 15 W. Oak, and ran out with armloads of high-end purses worth at least $25,000. The crew then stole a Lexus that was idling nearby and headed for the hills.

A police source told this newspaper that the Barney's crew is the same team that crashed a car into an Indianapolis Saks Fifth Avenue to steal merchandise in late March. Police believe the crew operates out of the 7th (Englewood) Police District.

Another Saks Fifth Avenue shoplifter did not fare as well as last night's thieves when he allegedly tried to steal $3,050 worth of coats last Saturday morning.

Ryan D. Rodgers, 26, was arrested about two blocks from the store after police noticed him walking down the street wearing two Moncler coats with price tags hanging from the sleeves, according to a police report.

An investigation revealed that the coats had been stolen from Saks moments earlier, prosecutors said.

Rodgers is charged with theft of lost or mislaid property. Judge Sophia Atcherson released him on a recognizance bond.

State records show that Rodgers was sentenced to six years in prison in 2011 for armed robbery. He is currently on parole with a discharge date set for next Saturday. Police said in his arrest report that Rodgers is a member of the Black P Stones street gang.

Felon charged with burglarizing Lakeview cars

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

A three-time convicted burglar is in custody, accused of breaking into parked cars near Boystown.

Police say they stopped Timothy Smith, 51, of the Auburn Gresham neighborhood, in the 3500 block of N. Pine Grove after receiving a call of a man breaking into cars around 1 a.m. April 8. When cops asked Smith to approach their patrol car, he threw a screwdriver on the ground and then walked over, according to police.

"I just left my girl's place," Smith said.

During a protective pat-down, an officer found the faceplate of a JVC car stereo in Smith's back pocket. Smith said he didn't know anything about it.

Before long, cops found a car with its window broken out and its stereo missing. They also found the JVC stereo itself and another screwdriver lying on the ground about 20' from where they first saw Smith standing, they said.

Smith was taken into custody and has been charged with felony burglary and felony possession of burglary tools. Judge Mary Marubio set bail at $25,000 and ordered him to go onto electronic monitoring if he is able to post bond.

Smith is on supervised release after completing parole in Oct.

2017 for a crime that bears an uncanny resemblance to what he's accused of doing in Lakeview:

In Oct. 2014, cops patrolling the Grand Boulevard neighborhood stopped Smith after seeing him lurking near cars in an alley with a bag in his hand. Inside the bag was a JVC car stereo along with a Magellan GPS system, some cement rocks, and specks of broken glass. He was on parole at the time and received a new four-year sentence for burglary.

Smith's previous burglary convictions were in 2011 (a six-year sentence) and 2007 (a seven-year term).

speakers and many more surprises.

PARIS RITZ AUCTION: Heming-way’s bar stools, Proust’s sofas and more. The sale, to take place until April 21, is be- ing held by Artcurial, an auction house that has previously sold off the contents of the Hotel de Crillon and Plaza Athenee in Par- is. “Collectors and enthusiasts of 15 Place Vendome will have the unique opportunity to return home with a piece of the Ritz leg- end during the sale,” Artcurial said in its brochure.

HOPE IS ALIVE: Yes, that was Shelly MacArthur Farley and pianist Dean Ron- aldo and City Lights Orchestra’s Maestro Rich Daniels who joined with Cardinal Cupich for the “Keep Hope Alive” benefit concert at Holy Family Church.

NAZI ART RESTITUTION: Have you seen Dame Helen Mirren and Ryan Reynolds in “Woman in Gold,” the heroic story of Maria Altmann, the octogenarian Jewish refugee in Los Angeles who sets out after half a century to force the Aus- trian government to return five of her fam- ily’s paintings by Gustave Klimt? They were stolen by the Nazis and housed in the famed Belvedere Museum Gallery in Vi- enna, and now so famous they are fridge magnets? Her aunt is the famous “Woman in Gold,” Adele Block Bauer, painted for her uncle by Klimt. The film is on Netflix and it’s amazing. Last week in New York Judge Charles Ramos ordered that two drawings by famed Austrian artist Egon Schiele be returned to the family who still legally retain ownership. “Woman in a Black Pinafore,” 1911; and “Woman Hid- ing Her Face,” 1912. These are museum worthy pieces and had been part of a larger collection of over 400 pieces, including 81 Schieles, all owned by the famed Austrian Jewish entertainer, Fritz Grumbaum, who died in Dachau. The ruling is important be- cause it is one of the first successful recov- eries of war art under the Holocaust Expro- priated Recovery Act of 2016. Though art dealer Richard Nagy of Nagy’s in London plans an appeal, he has been stymied in selling the works, ironically in the 100th year of Schiele’s tragic death from the In- fluenza. The court’s action is a real glim- mer of hope for works stolen by the Nazis. PREPPY GOLF: Has a Chicago pol become the talk of a swanky hotel in Palm Beach? The scratch golfer goes to great lengths to ensure his golf score stays low. Which is the reason they say he had so many young men crowding around him teeing off, playing the fairway, chipping out of the sand and rolling on the soft car- pet of the cup. Some say his many young men obscure the sight line of onlookers attempting to keep score, bedazzled by so many hunks. That gave them all something to chat about during their long dinners.

What a hell of a league this is. I hit .387, .408 and .395 the last three years and I ain’t won nothin’ yet.

No one injured in Lincoln Square afternoon shooting incident

Police are investigating a shooting incident in Lincoln Square on Thursday afternoon. No one was injured.

Just after 2 p.m., witnesses around the area of Lawrence and Damen reported seeing occupants of a gray Nissan Maxima shooting at another vehicle. Between eight and 10 shots were heard.

Other callers reported seeing the cars race through the area's streets and alleys. And construction workers reported seeing a man shooting at a black Monte Carlo near Eastwood and Hamilton. The shooter's car was last seen heading southbound on Hamilton and the driver of the Monte Carlo soon called police to file a report.

Witnesses said the offender's car was occupied by at least one male and one female, but further descriptive details varied widely.

Video of Lincoln Park knife attacker released

Chicago police released residential surveillance video that shows the suspect double-parking a dark blue or black Cadillac SRX in the 2200 block of Wayne St. moments before the attack at 10:53 p.m. April 10.

The man is seen sitting on a landscaping fence as the video ends. Shortly after that, police say he grabbed the victim in a chokehold from behind as she walked on Webster Ave. He “immediately stabbed the victim numerous times in the neck and back” then fled back to his car, said police.

The offender was previously described as a male of unknown race who stands about 5′-9″ tall and was wearing all black clothing including a black hoodie and baggy black pants.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Area Central detectives at 312-747-8380 about case JB-219041.

Community meeting on proposed North Branch Park Preserve moved to April 23

A meeting over community desires for a new park along the North Branch of the Chicago River has been moved to April 23.

In the face of the coming massive redevelopment of the riverfront, a city-wide coalition of open space advocates and North Side community groups is hosting the community meeting at 6 p.m. at Little Sisters of the Poor, 2325 N Lakewood Ave. The group is advocating for a real public park on the east side of the Chicago River called The North Branch Park Preserve.

Many activists feel that this is the last opportunity to create true public open space in the former Industrial Corridor projected to gain 50,000 new residents in the next few years.

loading zone. This obviously creates problems when commercial loading vehicles cannot find a parking space.

Enforcement of loading zones is difficult. Dept. of Revenue meter enforcement officers do not ticket loading zone violations, and limited police are available to enforce commercial loading zone requirements. These combined factors lead to limited enforcement and increased violations of loading zone rules. The City believes that the new meter system will provide enhanced enforcement and increase turnover of trucks in downtown loading zones.

While Chicago's new Downtown Loading Zone program may not be appropriate for all parts of the city at the $14 hourly rate, this type of system may assist many communities that face issues with traffic congestion, double parking and deliveries, particularly on many of the North Side's tight commercial corridors.

The current rules governing the parking of special types of vehicles on city streets are set forth under Section 9-64-170 of the city's Municipal Code.

Current city law prohibits the parking of any truck, van, tractor, truck tractor, semi-trailer, trailer, recreational vehicle more than 22' in length, self-contained motor home, bus, taxicab, commercial vehicle or livery vehicle on any residential street at any time, except in the following situations:

- Expeditious loading and unloading of vehicles.
- Business Use. Vehicles actively conducting business must display the business name and license number on the vehicle. Business use means that the vehicle is being used to perform deliveries, service or repairs.
- Personal Use. Pick-up trucks and vans displaying a special parking permit obtained through the local alderman's office may park on any residential street in the City. Personal use means any use that is not a business use.
- Buses parked or standing in a designated bus stand.
- Areas Designated by Ordinance.
- Taxicabs displaying a special parking permit obtained through their local alderman may park on a residential street adjacent to the owner's residence in authorizing wards.

Additionally, the law prohibits the standing or parking of any vehicle six feet or greater in height within 20' of any crosswalk, alley, commercial driveway or fire lane at any time.

Any commercial vehicle found to be in violation may be subject to immobilization and impoundment by the city without prior notice.

warrant but, she said, did not show her the warrant. They "demanded to know where the drugs were" but Harrison denied having drugs in her home.

She was handcuffed, wearing only a t-shirt and underwear. A female officer, Kyleen Cowie, allegedly grabbed Harrison's arm, forcibly walked her to the bathroom, and with the door partially open, strip-searched her. According to the lawsuit, Cowie pulled Harrison's underwear down to her ankles and ordered her to bend over and cough, four times.

They did not find any drugs, according to the lawsuit, but still took her to a police station, where she was charged with possession of a controlled substance. The charge was later dropped.

O'Shea specifically was accused in the lawsuit of failing to intervene. Harrison says he made no effort to prevent the strip-search and ignored her complaints about how she was being treated. As a supervisor, said Harrison, he "bore direct responsibility for the manner in which the other defendant officers were behaving."

The case, filed in U. S. District Court on March 25, 2014, was settled without a trial.

"Through their respective records of capable leadership, our new district commanders will honor the legacy of Commander Bauer by serving with honor, building lasting partnerships with the community, and helping us continue to reduce crime throughout the city," said Johnson while announcing O'Shea's new post.
