Party Vibes on Cedar St. Worry Residents

NO RULES. NO
REGULATIONS about parties, noise, vacation rentals have residents of swank Cedar St. concerned and determined to "save our community," as buildings are converted. At the May 15 zoning board hearing the "party vibes" will be examined. The new owner of the 67 E. Cedar wants a permit to operate the building as a vacation rental as some nearby sites are already enjoying, and neighbors are irate.

A BED AND BREAKFAST or vacation rentals can draw tourists and college kids looking for maximum beds at a lower cost. These are not the quality visitors that belong here, said one condo resident.

CHICAGO IS A HOT TRAVEL

of old buildings move mattresses trend. Rentals lure a party crowd that can drink and dance and cavort all night, say detractors. Who needs that "party vibe," protest neighbors.

"If only I had married one of the superrich suitors who proposed when I was young and at the top of my mating game, I wouldn't be broke and unloved today." Her goal was to marry one of our wealthiest but his wife would never give him up and he didn't want to split the family fortune in a divorce settlement. (What's love got to do with it?)... He died suddenly and she had nothing in writing. Today memories just don't pay he bills. However, we were privy to one golden day. Kinzie bike lane closure part of Wolf Point deal

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN Loop North News

The Chicago organization trying to make bicycling "safe, convenient, and fun" is not yielding to a plan to close a popular bicycle lane on W. Kinzie St. in River North Active Transportation Alliance [ATA], a primarily government-funded public transportation and bicycling special interest group, has started an online campaign to persuade the Chicago City Council to oppose an order introduced by Ald. Brendan Reilly [42nd] to close the lane from Dearborn St. west to the north branch of the Chicago River.

The order was introduced on April 15 and referred to a committee for discussion.

Jim Merrel, who is campaign director for the ATA, says protected bike lanes reduce risk of injury to people riding bikes by 89%.

"Removing the first protected bike lane in the city just four short years after it was installed will be a national embarrassment and set us back in our efforts to make our city more livable and economically vibrant."

Ald. Reilly says removing the lane would be temporary and part of an agreement with Hines Interests Limited Partnership, which is building three mixed-use towers on Wolf Point one block south of Kinzie St. Hines would pay for temporary bike lanes on Illinois St., two blocks north of Kinzie, and Grand Ave., three blocks north, along with Wells St. This would get the Kinzie bike lane out of the way of construction on Wolf Point.

Ald. Reilly says he filed the order because Chicago Dept. of Transportation Commissioner Rebekah Scheinfeld was considering ignoring the agreement with Hines, which was signed by the previous CDOT commissioner, Gabe Klein.

"The removal of the Kinzie protected bike lane would be a setback for Chicago," said Merrel last Friday. "Putting more people at risk of injury while doing nothing to alleviate congestion or move people more efficiently around downtown."

ATA, however, does not want the Kinzie bike lane moved to Grand. Says Merrel, "The fact is that with or without a protected bike lane, people will continue to bike on Kinzie because this route provides one of the only lower-traffic connections to downtown over the river. That's why the protected bike lane was put there in the first place."

A spokesperson for CDOT says they, too, have concerns about removing the Kinzie lane.

"The protected bike lane is in place to reduce conflicts and the risk of accidents between bicyclists, motor vehicles, and pedestrians," says Mike Claffey, director of public affairs. "We have been in discussions with the alderman about these concerns and will continue to work with him on this issue."

If anything, ATA's Merrel says the Kinzie bike line should be improved, not closed.

"The city has made some safety improvements to the lane in recent years but others have been put on hold due to the stalemate between Ald. Reilly and [CDOT]. An ad-

Illinois Criminal Justice in for dramatic changes

Gov. wants to reduce prison population by 25% in next decade

Where you live and what you look like will no longer determine whether you get arrested or ticketed for possession of small amounts of marijuana under a bill sponsored by State Rep. Kelly Cassidy (14th) that just passed the House 62-53.

"We currently have a patchwork of local ordinances where it's an open question whether you're going to get arrested or get a ticket. It depends on where you live and what you look like," State Rep. Kelly Cassidy said.

The proposal must now be voted on by the State Senate, where the North Side lawmaker expects smooth passage.

Under Cassidy's law, those caught with 15 grams of pot would be ticketed and get a maximum fine of $125 and avoid a criminal conviction.

Right now, police in more than 100 Illinois towns and cities have the discretion of either writing a ticket or making an arrest for possession, Rep. Cassidy told about 35 local residents at an April 25 town meeting at Willye White Park Fieldhouse, 1610 W. Howard

"It's a fairer, more logical, more thoughtful approach people told me would never get passed," said Rep. Cassidy, who admitted being surprised by who ended up supporting the measure.

Backers not only included groups like the ACLU, but Sheriff Tom Dart and even the Illinois Policy Institute, which is a conservative think tank. "They were very instrumental. I don't think this would have passed without a coalition with conservative input," she said.

"While they were frankly looking through a fiscal lens, I don't care why they come to my party as long as they dance. I don't care if they want to get on board for fiscal reasons than human rights concerns. As long as they're dancing at my party, it's all good with me," she said.

Pride Parade not heading downtown

BY CRIME IN WRIGLEYVILLE BOYSTOWN

The 2015 Chicago Pride Parade will once again be held in Uptown and Lakeview, not downtown, according to multiple city sources who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

How organizers will address concerns of overcrowding, brawls, medical response difficulties, and persistent post-parade quality life crimes remains to be seen. Parade organizers and local politicians had been surveying the community and a variety of city departments about a proposal to move the parade downtown.

But sources who spoke with reporters from Crime in Wrigleyville Boystown [CWB] stated unequivocally that virtually every city department involved in the parade, including all emergency services, have expressed their beliefs that the parade should be moved to a more manageable location.

As first reported on March 31, the city's Office of Emergency Management and Communications cited fears of "terrorism" in denying a Freedom Of Information Act request seeking Pride Parade related documents. The Chicago Police Dept. is in violation of state law for failing to respond to a similar request. Both departments' handling of the document requests are now under review by the Illinois Attorney General's Office.

While those issues play out, CWB has secured hundreds of pages of Pride Parade documents from city sources that offer many interesting tidbits including a couple documents titled "Parade Marshal Plan"

According to those documents, filed with the city each year by parade leader Richard Pfeiffer, organizers have actually reduced the number of safety marshals and monitors they've promised to provide in recent years. That despite the fact that the parade has drawn increasingly large record-setting crowds

The Pride Parade's troubles seemed to grow after large crowds packed Halsted St. to watch the event in 2011. According to reports on ABC News "... It was really bad, packed, too crowded," said Val Tompkins. "We couldn't see it, there were 10 rows of people."

Tompkins and and Trisha George drove to Chicago from Coldwater, MI, to see the parade. They said that they thought some areas were dangerous. "There were kids getting pushed," George said.

In 2011 this newspaper also reported that things got out of hand when a combination of large rowdy crowds and lack of crowd control led to a series of mishaps including the diversion of an estimated 50 floats off the parade route.

The tires on 51 floats had been slashed hours before the parade that year and streets become overly jammed with people. Some parade goers fainted and/or passed out from drugs and alcohol abuse. Even

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to two of the classiest, most popular Chicagoans, brilliant trader Jeff Silverman (married to Mary Kay Touhy) and philanthropic Jannie Pearlman, movie-star gorgeous with a big heart, wed to Elliott Pearlman.

GROUNDHOG DAY is coming back to haunt us. The fine Bill Murray movie will become a Broadway musical in 2017. We all loved the '93 film starring our hero Bill as a man forced to live the same 24 hours over and over. Scott Rudin is producing. The cast has not been chosen and there's only one Bill Murray. He was ideal as the narcissistic weatherman Phil Connors. The songs could be a lot of fun. The movie script was penned by Harold Ramis with Danny Rubin. Weatherman Phil Conners is our zany hero. Who will play him and who will play the groundhog?

THERE WERE A ZILLION LAUGHS when Rita Wilson and husband Tom Hanks bankrolled the movie "My Big Fat Greek Wedding." It made millions. Today Rita Wilson is in the news revealing she has breast cancer and recovering after undergoing a bilateral mastectomy and reconstruction after a diagnosis of invasive lobular carcinoma. Rita, 58, was appearing on Broadway in Larry David's Comedy "Fish in the Dark." Tom and daughter Elizabeth are by her side. Rita expects to make a full recovery and will go back to the play shortly. (Photo by Linda Matlow/Pix Int)

C4 to close at end of May

Mental health services in Chicago take another hit

A large provider of mental health services on the North Side and throughout Chicago says it will have to close its doors at the end

Community Counseling Centers of Chicago [C4] served over 10,000 people each year, many from the Uptown and Edgewater neighborhoods and many of then children. The organization's president, Eileen Durkin, blames the closing on the botched implementation of a new billing system at the organization, as first reported by WBEZ. They are headquartered at 4740 N. Clark St. on the border of Uptown and Ravenswood.

The threatened closing came to light in a letter sent to state legislators which was leaked to the media. In it C4 asks for an additional $1 million in order to continue operations. Reportedly they will not be able to meet payroll this Friday without it.

The Illinois Dept. of Human Services says that the state's budget crisis has nothing to do with the closing of C4, claiming it has to do with internal matters. The state has proposed an $82 million cut in mental health services, a 15% reduction from last Multiple staff have suggested the organization has been mismanaged under Durkin. They point to poor communication and financial choices as the reason for the crisis.

Counselor Max Beshers told WBEZ that he suspects the closure will have a ripple effect in the community. Indeed they may have already started transferring their patients to other service providers.

"It's going to lead to more substance abuse, more conflict and violence in families, definitely more people going to the emergency rooms that are already overloaded and unfortunately more people being arrested and incarcerated."

Durkin says the staff will be working hard to place all their current clients in new services at other organizations. But the closing happens as the Chicago mental health infrastructure is already in crisis.

Last week WBEZ reported skyrocketing ER visits by the mentally ill over the last six years. According to state records, from 2009 to 2013, 37% more patients were discharged from emergency rooms for psychiatric treatment. The biggest jump came in 2012, the same year the city of Chicago closed half of its mental health clinics.

The emergency room spike has already forced some emergency departments to make big, costly changes, just so they can keep these patients safe. Including literally rebuilding parts of their hospitals.

Sheri Richardt is the manager of Crisis and Behavioral Health at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center, 836 W. Wellington, where construction is underway on a new behavioral health unit.

State's fiscal mess taking its toll

Years of mismanagement finally paying 'dividends'

BY PATRICK BUTLER

Everyone's playing "a very dangerous game of Chicken" that has Gov. Bruce Rauner refusing to raise any kind of taxes, forcing beneficiaries of various state programs to go after one another "like hungry dogs fighting over scraps," State Rep. Kelly Cassidy (14th) told local residents

Social services agencies across the state are now seeing the dividends that decades of mismanagement and malfeasance by the state's political leaders has wrought.

But what everyone seems to forget, Rep. Cassidy warned, is that "you can cut, but you pay elsewhere. When we made the Medicaid cuts earlier and we eliminated adult dental, there was an increase elsewhere. People just went to the emergency rooms for dental care."

One obvious source of additional revenue would be a progressive income tax instead of the current flat rate, Rep. Cassidy said, noting that Illinois is not only one of the few states that still has a flat rate, but one of even fewer to mandate it in our constitu-

"To change that would require a super majority (two thirds instead of 51%) in the General Assembly to get it on the ballot and another super majority of voters to approve it," she added.

"But that's unlikely in the current political climate," she said, adding there are even a few Democrats in the legislature who won't vote for any kind of tax increases under any circumstances.

Also unlikely in the current political climate is House Speaker Michael Madigan's suggested surcharge on annual incomes over $1 million.

As a result of Gov. Rauner's budget cutting proposals, funds for autistic children were cut - on World Autism Day yet. And the Teen Reach program at the Howard Area Community Center, 7646 N. Paulina, was ordered to shut down immediately, staying open only one day longer to allow the staff and the kids to at least say goodbye to one another, Rep. Cassidy said.

"On Good Friday, the governor's office pulled $200 million in grants from programs statewide, yet a few days later magically found $100 million (to cover) corporate tax breaks. The governor used his budgetary authority to use some of that money (saved by the cuts) to create those tax breaks," she explained.

Even well-established agencies considered "too big to fail" - like the Community Counseling Center of Chicago, 4740 N. Clark St. - recently announced plans to shut down at the end of May, though most reports show that the closure had more to do with poor management than state funding cuts.

Perhaps the one bright spot is that the state Senate is holding human services budget hearings all over the state and getting a fantastic response. "We've never really done that before, making the budget a living human document. They're bringing agency heads to those hearings, making them show up to defend their budgets in front of the people they serve," Rep. Cassidy said.

In the meantime, she added, time is running out for everyone. July 1 is the beginning of the State's new fiscal year and Illinois has to have a budget by May 31. "Anything approved after that would require a super majority for passage."

Dunn done at 18th

New police commander has fought organized crime, found stolen art

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN Loop North News

Two and a half years ago, when he took the job, William Dunn said police commanders are rotated for various reasons but it is "the natural course."

Over the weekend, Dunn himself was among 19 high-level transfers at Chicago Police Dept. [CPD]. He is now North Area Commander in CPD's Bureau of Detectives, reporting to the bureau's chief and deputy chief. He will oversee a property crimes section and a violent crimes section.

Dunn, who has been with CPD for 30 years, was promoted to 18th District police commander in Sept. 2012, replacing Kenneth Angarone, who had been commander since Sept. 2009. Headquartered at 1160 N. Larrabee Ave., the district stretches from the main branch of the Chicago River north to Fullerton Ave. in Lincoln Park, and from the north branch east to Lake Michigan.

In December, Dunn said River North is "one of the safest neighborhoods in the city," with total number of crime incidents down last year from the previous year.

Before that, he was a lieutenant in the narcotics division of CPD's Bureau of Organized Crime.

In 2008, Devereux was investigating gun trafficking by Chicago-area gangs when his team found a van on the South Side that contained eight stolen paintings worth $100,000.

Sneak attack on the lakefront

It is deeply troubling that Mayor Emanuel and state public officials are trying to use the Obama Library as a shield to sneak the Lucas Museum on to Lake Michi-

In any case, HB 373 will not solve the legal problem for Lucas museum or the Presidential library. Placing either of them on public trust land will remain just as illegal, with or without HB 373. Under the leading case of Illinois Central v. Illinois - which is still good law - even the General Assembly of Illinois cannot convey a property interest in land recovered from Lake Michigan - such as a 99 year lease - if that land is to all intents and purposes in the exclusive control of a private individual.

This Bill not only authorizes the Park District to build the Lucas museum or a Presidential library but any other building that anyone might call a museum. It allows the virtual "malling" of the Lake and is inconsistent with the fiduciary obligation of the State to weigh a specific use of public trust land against the value of keeping it free and clear for the public. It basically authorizes the City to run a mall up and down the Lake so long as they call it a museum. It is a complete blank check to abdicate the legal duty of protecting the Lake for the people of this State and for generations to come.

We note that this bill was introduced on Earth Day of all times hardly the occasion to make sure that there is not a blade of grass left on the Lake front. Apparently it is the idea of some to pull in the President to defend the Lucas Museum. We hope that the President makes clear to Springfield that he has no intention of doing so.

BRING YOUR FLASHLIGHT OR LANTERN! May 23 • (3PM-12AM)/$7 Lake County Fairgrounds v.zurkopromotions.com OFF w/this AD Awards party 5:30 p.m. Friday at Architectural Artifacts, 4325 N. Ravenswood Ave.

The free event features kitchen remodeling projects, home additions, architectural design objects, weekend retreats and office renovations by Chicago-area architects. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet area architects who specialize in residential architecture and small-scale commercial projects.

"With the improved economy, home and business owners are getting back to expansions, or thinking about tackling improvement projects— and it pays to hire an architect," AIA Chicago executive vice president Zurich Esposito said.

For homeowners in particular, an increasing desire to incorporate sustainable measures promoting energy-efficiency and water conservation-as evidenced by findings in the AIA's latest home design trends survey—can be accommodated most successfully by using the services of a licensed architect, Esposito says.

Rep. Cassidy now expects easy passage through the Senate. "The Senate has always been more progressive than the house. The heavy lifting on this bill was in the house," she noted.

But from a progressive standpoint, that wasn't the only good news in criminal justice reform in the past week or so, Cassidy noted.

A bill currently working its way through the General Assembly would resolve the dilemma of what to do about hundreds of juveniles who may not be covered by a Supreme Court prohibition against life without parole for juveniles.

That ruling only applied to future cases, "but what about those who are already in the system right now, serving life sentences?," she

Rep. Cassidy added that her bill "doesn't mandate they can't be held for life. It just means the possibility of parole has to be back in the thought process."

Gov. Bruce Rauner wants to reduce the population in Illinois prisons by 25% over the next 10 years, she noted. "That can't happen without changes in our sentencing laws."

Another bill that passed the House lifting lifetime bars to employment in schools, health care the Chicago Park District and even mass transit and "has a pretty good prospect in the Senate," she

That doesn't mean anyone has to hire an ex-convict, she explained, but just puts the decision in the hands of the prospective employer rather than flatly prohibiting hiring someone just because of their criminal record.

Rep. Cassidy said she knows one prisoner who is going to graduate in June with a master's degree in social work. "His dream is to help keep other kids from making the same mistakes he did. Absent passage of this bill, this dream is impossible. I plan on being at his graduation, hopefully with a signed bill."

Palcohol may be available for sale in Chicago this summer

BY BLANCA MARTINEZ Columbia Chronicle

While powdered alcohol could conceivably be sold in Chicago this summer, legislators, mirroring the concerns of health professionals, are working to keep this from happening. The state legislature is considering a bill that would make its use a crime.

Palcohol—powdered alcohol—was created by Mark Phillips, founder of Winetasting.org and owner of the company Lipsmark, which owns Palcohol. It was invented for convenience in medicine, travel, hospitality, manufacturing and for commercial and individual use, according to the Palcohol. Phillips originally came up with the idea to create Palcohol when he would go on camping trips and wanted to enjoy an alcoholic beverage but did not want to lug around bottles of alcohol.

William Aitchison, director of clinical operations at the Chicago Treatment & Counseling Center, a center that treats people with alcohol and drug addiction, said people could possibly overdose on the product by adding Palcohol to an already alcoholic drink or exceeding the recommended serving size.

"People would put in a greater amount than what they are supposed to be mixing, adding up to four times the safe amount," Aitchison said.

Days after powdered alcohol gained regulatory approval from the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau [TTB], Ald. Edward Burke (14th) pushed to ban the sale of powdered alcohol in Chicago with an ordinance he proposed March 18.

The TTB accidentally approved Palcohol's label in March, said Tom Hogue, spokesman for the U.S. Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau.

"What has changed now is that we have labels in front of us that are approved," Hogue said.

The TTB has authority over the packaging and labeling of the product, according to Hogue. Any time the TTB questions a product's ingredients, how the ingredients are going to be used and the combination of those ingredients with alcohol would determine whether or not Palcohol is a safety and health concern or if it is suitable for human consumption. The TTB turns to the FDA for guidance on these product questions. He said the TTB relies on the FDA in regards to determining health concerns products may pose, a process that takes place before label approval.

"If the FDA does not come back to us with a determination that this combination of ingredients in this product will represent a threat, then we are strictly restricted to looking at the labeling of the packaging and making sure the label on the product meets the requirements we administer," Hogue said.

From a federal standpoint, Palcohol could potentially enter the marketplace, according to Hogue. However, the product has to comply with the laws of each state where it will be distributed. There are many factors a state must consider before the product can be sold, Hogue said.

Days after powdered alcohol gained regulatory approval from the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau [TTB], Ald. Edward Burke (14th) pushed to ban the sale of powdered alcohol in Chicago with an ordinance he proposed March 18.

Ald. Burke's proposed penalties on businesses for possessing or selling powdered alcohol is a series of fines from $2,000 to $5,000 per offense.

"Some state issues would be whether or not the state will distribute it themselves or will they have to run through a wholesaler, questions of access and where can it be sold such as a grocery store or liquor store," Hogue said.

Palcohol has already been banned in Alaska, Delaware, Louisiana, South Carolina, Massachusettes and Vermont.

"The risks so clearly outweigh the benefits," said Paul Getzendanner, program director for the Gateway Foundation, an alcohol and drug treatment center in Chicago. "The creator of Palcohol says that you can take it camping because it is lighter, which is a limited need and catered to a very specific audience."

Getzendanner said the sale and invention of Palcohol is another way for distributors to profit off of an idea and that the product is targeted to underage drinkers.

"It will be marketed and sold over the Internet," Getzendanner said. "I can get prescription drugs sold and delivered to my home without seeing a doctor to show proof of age or medical necessity. The same would hold true for powdered alcohol."

Schubas, Lincoln Hall sold

Two of the North Side most noted music venues – Lincoln Hall, 2424 N. Lincoln Ave. and Schubas, 3159 N. Southport – changed hands last week, sold to Audioleaf / Audiotree and a Michigan business called the Greenleaf Companies. The sale price was not disclosed, but as profitable going concern with highly desirable locations in LincolnPark and Lakeview, the transaction was surely in the millions.

The clubs' management will retain their names, says former co-owner Mike Schuba, who will remain as chief operating officer for the two venues. His brother and partner Chris Schuba will be debarring the business entirely.

Mike and Chris Schuba bought Schubas in 1988 and Lincoln Hall in 2009 and quickly established both as some of the most desirable music venues on the North Side.

Located at Belmont and Southport, most locals see Schuba's as more than just an upscale bar in a Yuppie neighborhood. It is considered one of the best small rooms in town and has been a destination for rising acts. But long before it was a popular music venue Schubas was a Schlitz "tied house" [a brewery-owned bar where it exclusively sold its own drinks]. In a nod to the past, they still serve Schlitz on tap.

The building itself is a designated city historical landmark. It is one of 44 remaining Schlitz "tied house" taverns remaining in town.

Mike and Chris Schuba say that they both felt that it was a good time to sell the two properties. They say that the new ownership group plans to retain most of the 70 employees now working at the two clubs.

Bucktown-based Audiotree began operating in Chicago in 2011. They claim to be an artist-centric music company, best known for their in-studio concert series, Audiotree Live. They also provide artist management, concert promotion, concert filming/recording, and various à la carte music industry services. "We love music, and want to use that love to positively impact the lives of as many people as possible," notes their web site.

It is also involved in artist management and promotion, and in the last two years has staged a festival in Kalamazoo, MI. Founders, Michael Johnston and Adam Thurston, grew up in Kalamazoo, and Johnston's father, William, is president of Kalamazoobased Greenleaf Companies, which owns restaurants, hotels and a minor-league hockey team. They also do financial planning and offer asset management for trusts, estate settlement, and comprehensive trust administration services. They act as sole trustee, co-trustee, agent for trustee, or successor trustee for virtually every type of personal trust.

Michael Johnston and his father are reportedly partners in the Schubas and Lincoln Hall new ownership.

Chicago minority businesses creating surge in job growth

STORY AND PHOTOS BY YINMENG LIU Medill News Service

The doorbell rang as customers buried under woolly overcoats shuffled in. Chicago's chilly February air swept into the bakery with them, instantly diluted by the warm smells of sweet potato pudding and fresh-baked hardough breads. Michael Hume regarded the newcomers quietly through thin silver spectacles. He is an American-born Jamaican of medium build with a gentle smile.

Hume owns The Caribbean American Bakery, 1539 W. Howard St., a quaint and homey place that sells Jamaican style baked products to retailers and the wholesale market. His father started the business in 1982 when no Jamaican bakery existed in Rogers Park. Over the years, Hume established a solid customer base in the neighborhood.

Right now "a lot of the food I make goes to the South Side. So will I be better off going to the South Side? Maybe, but I don't know. I am comfortable here in Rogers Park, simply because it's established and a lot of people know where it is," Hume said.

Hume's bakery employs six people, and is a minority-owned business. In business circles, minority-owned business means an individual belonging to a minority group owns at least 51% of a business.

"We used to help a lot of businesses, which have became big corporations" that generated business and jobs for smaller minority enterprises, said Hans W. Bonner, the executive director of Chicago MBDA, referring to the growth of older clients.

The U.S. Census Bureau counted 5.8 million minority-owned enterprises for 2007 in America, a 46% increase over the four million operating in 2002. The growth in minority business dramatically outpaced the 17.9% increase in all U.S. businesses during the same period. The U.S. Census Bureau conducts the survey of business owners every five year. The latest data, collected in 2012, is scheduled for release starting in this

The number of minority-owned firms in the U.S. is still expanding, according to MBDA, a federal agency financed by the U.S. Dept. of Commerce that connects companies to grants and contracts and also provides consulting services to minority business enterprise.

"In FY 2013, our Agency's performance has led to the creation and retention of over 25,000 American jobs. These results build on the amazing accomplishments of FY 2009-12 and represent the highest performance in MBDA's 44 year history," wrote Alejandra Y. Castillo, director of MBDA national, in the 2013 Annual Performance Report.

Compared to fiscal year 2012, jobs created and retained by MBDA members nationally in 2013 increased by 8,982. If MB-DA's performance in 2013 is compared to a running race, then Chicago is probably the fastest runner among the organization's 44 national business centers.

Chicago MBDA's FY 2013 Performance at a Glance Chart shows that the total number of jobs created and retained by the clients in the agency reached 5,471 in 2013, adding 1,381 new jobs over the previous year.

Bonner attributed the spike in the job creation mainly to the development of large minorityowned corporations in the region and the career opportunities these successful clients have fostered as they grow. Bonner said the number of clients in the organization has been increasing steadily as "We see new clients every year and we stop seeing others," said Bonner, "but in general, yes our client base has grown."

An organization Bonner said contributed significantly to the job creation was Flying Food Group LLC, a Chicago-based minority business that caters food for airlines and retail brands. The company has generated 2,000 jobs alone in 2013.

Sue Gin, who was born to Chinese immigrants in Aurora, founded Flying Food Group in 1983. Gin passed away last year at age 73. She grew her company to the No. 2 spot on Crain's list of Chicago's biggest minorityowned from 2011 to 2013. It was one of the top five businesses for a decade before that.

Bill Morton, president of the Rogers Park Chamber of Commerce, said he has witnessed a consistent increase in minority businesses in his district since he started the organization to represent and connect business owners in the Rogers Park community.

"We formed the Chamber of Commerce on April 14, 2009, and we noticed the increase since we did the original survey," said Mor-

Hume said he feels the business environment of his neighborhood has became more diverse and that the recession of 2009 was a factor in driving people to pursue entrepreneurship as a more secure way of earning money.

"It's probably the situation where the economy has gotten so bad people have lost their job, so they need something to do," Hume said.

By contrast, Nav Singh, whose family started Sonia Selections on Devon Ave. in 2001, said he believes the number of minorityowned businesses in his neighborhood decreased in 2013. His shop specializes in fabric and accesso-

"It really depends on the area," Singh said. "We've been here for a lot of years now. I don't know any store that would open up [now]. I can only think of one store that was opened this year, and I can think of two or three stores that had shut down."

Sari-draped mannequins pose in the front of the trendy Indian boutique owned by Singh and his family. Inside, one will find glistening bangles, earrings, and rolls of fabrics in a rainbow of shades and textures.

Singh said the recession has slowed the sales at many stores around his neighborhood and that many businesses have resorted to selling things online. But the merchandise the store carries saves his family.

"The main reason we are surviving is because of our fabric," Singh said. "Most people in this area here are looking for ready-made clothing, which they can find anywhere online. But the fabrics, they are pretty unique. We have more diverse customers because anyone would buy fabrics."

As part of MBDA's operational change in 2013, Chicago received a portion of the $1.425 million in supplemental investment funds that the national agency awarded to nine business centers to expand their services, in addition to another grant the Chicago center already shares with Detroit's business center. Bonner said Chicago MBDA was one of the biggest centers when the national agency

The organization helps "create wealth, job and economic growth in the district" through leveraging business opportunities for minority firms, said Philip Barreda, executive vice president of the Chicago MSDC.

The City of Chicago Dept. of Procurement Services offers certifications to business that are owned by minorities or women. The certifications allow businesses to be contracted by government agencies and some private agencies.

"It's all about knowing what your resources are, but a lot of people don't," Morton said.

Hume said he didn't know about MBDA before but he would usually go to Rogers Parks Business

'Most of the businesses in Rogers Parks are more familiar with the local business alliance," said Hume.

"I am doing well, I don't need any help," said Fawzi Saleiman, A Palestinian immigrant who has owned Farm Supermarket, a grocery on Devon Ave., for 30 years.

Singh said he was very young when his family opened Sonia Selections but he doesn't recall his parents trying to obtain funding from nonprofit organizations.

Hume said he doesn't see any advantage in applying for certification when he sells most of his products in his store to individual customers or to Jamaican restaurants.

Jurisdiction must be settled before showdown with unions can begin

Unfunded pension liability at $111 billion, governor says

BY COOK COUNTY RECORD

SPRINGFIELD – Before the great contest between Gov. Bruce Rauner and state employee unions can begin, judges must settle a great contest over jurisdiction.

A suit Rauner filed against the unions remains active in federal court at Chicago, and a suit the unions filed against Rauner remains active in St. Clair County circuit court.

Both suits pertain to an executive order that would prohibit unions from deducting payments from checks of state employees who do not belong to the unions.

Senior District Judge Robert Gettleman of the Northern District of Illinois presides over the federal suit.

As of April 7, no one presided over the St. Clair County suit. Circuit Judge Robert LeChien recused himself on that date, after Rauner moved for substitution.

In Illinois, any party can exercise a right of substitution once, if the judge has not made a substantive ruling.

Under current collective bargaining agreements, a state employee who chooses not to belong to a union must pay a "fair share" of union dues.

According to Rauner, 6,582 of 46,573 state employees choose fair share payments. That roughly equals one of every seven. Rauner also claims that deductions for some fair share employees amount to 99% of what regular union dues

While Rauner and the unions litigate in public view, they separately negotiate bargaining agreements that all expire on June 30.

Former governor Pat Quinn and the unions reached those agreements in 2012, when the prospect of Quinn losing to a Republican may have appeared remote.

Rauner defeated Quinn last November, after promising voters he would improve the state's perilous financial condition.

He signed the order relieving state employees of fair share payments on Feb. 9, and petitioned the federal court in Chicago to court in Chicago to declare the payments unconstitutional.

Ravenswood Manor resident and Attorney General Lisa Madigan opposed Rauner's order, so Dennis Murashko of the governor's office filed the suit. He wrote that according to the U.S. Supreme Court, compelling support for a union impinged on First Amendment rights of free speech and association.

Murashko wrote that the unions must certify that fair share deductions do not exceed membership dues.

"The unions do not, however, provide an accounting of how these fees are calculated," said Murashko.

Since 2004, the unions have negotiated wage increases of 80%. Over the same period of time inflation was 26%, and private sector wages increased 31%.

retirement, he said.

Joel D'Alba of Chicago wrote. "It is outside the governor's authority under the Illinois Constitution."

D'Alba wrote that more than 1,200 state employees work or live in St. Clair County.

Rauner asked state comptroller Leslie Munger to create an escrow account for fair share payments, and she refused. "Rauner then announced that the agencies in the executive branch would take action without the comptroller to implement the executive order," said D'Alba.

"The express purpose of the executive order is to deprive the plaintiff unions of resources that they need for effective collective bargaining."

St. Clair County Chief Judge John Baricevic assigned the suit to Circuit Judge Stephen McGlynn, but the unions moved for substitution and McGlynn granted it.

On March 10, Rauner removed the suit to federal court in East St. Louis.

Chief Judge Michael Reagan at U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Illinois assigned it to District Judge Phil Gilbert, but Gilbert recused himself on March

The suit bounced to District Judge Nancy Rosenstengel by random draw.

On March 17, the unions moved to remand the suit to St. Clair County. They also moved to accelerate the briefing schedule.

Rauner counsel Matthew Ford of Chicago opposed acceleration on March 20, asking for the normal 30 days to respond to the motion for remand. Ford wrote that Rauner intended to move for transfer.

Rosenstengel recused herself on March 23, and the suit bounced to District Judge Staci Yandle by random draw.

Yandle didn't accelerate the briefing. She ended it.

On the day she took the case, without giving Rauner a chance to respond to the motion for remand, she remanded the suit to St. Clair County.

Baricevic assigned LeChien. Rauner moved for substitution on March 31, and LeChien granted it a week later.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, Madigan intervened on the side of the unions and moved to dismiss Rauner's suit. She said that federal court lacked jurisdiction and Rauner lacked standing.

Rauner did not oppose her intervention, and Gettleman granted it at a hearing on March 10. Gettleman asked for briefs on jurisdiction and standing. He set a hearing May 14.

with police and parade marshals present many verbal altercations turned into physical ones.

On the west side of Halsted St. that year the crowd grew so thick that some onlookers were being smashed against barricades that some people began to yell for help.

Despite attempts by police to hold off crowds, the sheer number of people pushing from behind forced many to jump the fence barricades and stand in the streets along the parade route. Police continued to add barricades to create a divide between fence-jumpers and the parade itself, but eventually the crowd overtook the route, and officials with the Office of Emergency Management and Communications re-directed about 50 floats off the scheduled route, south on Clark toward Diversey.

After the dust settled from that 2011 parade, Pfeiffer told the Windy City Times newspaper that the parade had tripled the number of marshals leading up to 2011 and had "produced 120 marshals for this year's event." But Pfeiffer had assured the city that there would be 135 marshals that year, but even those 120 marshals didn't appear to be enough.

Despite the crowding and safety concerns in 2011, the parade inexplicably slashed the number of parade marshals it promised in 2012 to "at least 60." And only 60 marshals were promised again as the parade continued to grow in 2013. Information on the parade's 2014 marshaling plan was not provided to reporters.

The number of parade moni-

The Chicago Dept. of Streets and Sanitation alone has seen its Pride Parade expenses double in recent years. Parade organizers paid a "city services" invoice of $20,000 in 2011; $35,000 in 2012; and $40,000 in 2013 and 2014.

tors—responsible for keeping parade entries moving and orderly—has also been reduced since 2011, according to Pfeiffer's letters to the city. After promising "at least 650 monitors" in 2011, the number of monitors promised has been reduced to 450.

Pfeiffer did not responded to an email last week questioning the apparent reduction in marshals and monitors.

Organizers and the city responded to 2011 mess by lengthening and changing the route in 2012, hoping that spectators would spread out.

"We are asking people to come

But most people still wanted to watch the parade in the heart of Boystown section of the parade route.

During the 2013 parade, observers in a Chicago police helicopter repeatedly warned resources on the ground that overwhelming crowds were about to break through the barricades at Addison and Halsted.

"It's bulging out. You might be losing it," the airborne officer said in a recording secured by CWB. The helicopter went on to warn of more potentially dangerous overcrowding along barricades at Roscoe and Halsted.

Ultimately, the police lines held.

Police became concerned about Pride Parade crowds last year, too, according to other recordings:

"You got a problem at Halsted and Aldine. They're coming in off the side streets," the pilot says in audio reviewed by CWB. "You got at least 100 people smashed in that area and they're still coming."

That crowd eventually swelled and crushed a Chicago police squad car. "Every [CTA] train brings another 100 people" to the Belmont station, the helicopter crew reported. Thirty minutes later, CTA closed the Belmont terminal by police order—for the fourth year in a row.

Sources within Chicago's emergency services who've spoken with us about the parade are hardly surprised by the decision to ignore pleas to move the parade.

"What can [you] do?" one source shrugged. "We can only do so much."

National Runaway Safeline recognizes 2015 Volunteer of the Year

The National Runaway Safeline (NRS), a Lakeview-based organization that helps keep America's runaway, homeless and at-risk youth safe and off the streets, is honoring Carolyn Smigla as its 2015 Volunteer of the Year. Smigla will be recognized for exceeding her commitment to assisting youth and their families across the country at NRS' Volunteer and Community Recognition Event taking place on April 22 at Blackfinn Ameripub, 65 W. "Volunteers like Carolyn are the lifeblood of our organization. Without them we wouldn't be as effective in providing the prevention and crisis intervention resources needed by youth, families and community members today," said Maureen Blaha, NRS executive director. "We congratulate Carolyn on this honor, and sincerely thank her for giving self-lessly of her time and talents."

"I'm honored to have been chosen as this year's Volunteer of the Year," said Smigla, a resident of the South Loop. "I stand in awe of our brave callers and sincerely admire the compassionate, dedicated and selfless volunteers I serve with."

More than 120 NRS volunteers handle crisis calls in the 24-hour call center, as well as help plan activities. Approximately 495 Street Team members promote NRS services across the states.

The NRS makes more than 250,000 connections to help and hope through hotline, online, texting and offline resources. NRS provides crisis intervention, referrals to local resources, and education and prevention services to vouth, families and community members throughout the country 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Law firm, financiers sued for racketeering

The president of a company specializing in underwriting workers compensation coverage has filed a federal racketeering suit against Chicago-based international law firm Seyfarth Shaw, Chicago-based financial services firm Northern Trust Co. and trust, tax and investment services company Christiana Bank, arguing the companies should be held responsible for the acts of a former Seyfarth lawyer and representatives of the financial firms, who allegedly deceived the executive into setting up an abusive tax shelter, for which he lost millions of dollars when it was uncovered by the IRS.

On April 17, Steven Menzies, co-founder, president and chief operating officer of San Francisco-based Applied Underwriters Inc.

(AUI), filed suit in federal court in Chicago against the law firm and financial services companies.

In the nine-count complaint, Menzies alleges the companies and their representatives violated the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization (RICO) Act when they, in the early 2000s, "targeted" and induced Menzies into participating in a complicated scheme to shield a large stock transaction from federal capital gains taxes.

The complaint centers on money Menzies earned when his company was purchased by Berkshire Hathaway in 2006. As part of that transaction, Menzies sold stock in AUI to Berkshire Hathaway for more than $64 million and did not fully report the income as taxable on his federal income tax return. When the IRS audited Menzies' tax returns they determined he owed unpaid taxes on more than $44 million in capital gains.

In a settlement deal, Menzies agreed to pay $10.4 million in taxes, penalties and interest. Menzies' complaint alleges the firms engaged in a pattern of racketeering, as demonstrated by their use of "a common plan and system to market and promote the tax shelters to participants such as Menzies."

In his complaint, Menzies accuses the firms of violations of RICO, fraud, conspiracy, breach of fiduciary duty and unjust enrichment, among other counts.

Free guided wildflower walks at the North Pond Nature Sanctuary

The Lincoln Park Conservancy [LPC] will be offering free Wildflower Walks at the North Pond Nature Sanctuary 10 a.m. on May 2, June 6, July 11, August 1 and September 5. The Sanctuary is located in Lincoln Park between Fullerton, Stockton, Diversey, and Cannon Dr.

Guests will enjoy the beauty of wildflowers while learning their stories and why they are important to the environment and wildlife. The LPC says that the one-hour walks are easy and great for beginners, and are geared toward adults. Each month visitors will enjoy different species in bloom.

The wildflowers and grasses found at the Sanctuary today pay homage to Illinois' heritage as "The Prairie State." Around the pond, you'll find plants that once dominated Chicago's landscape before European settlement including plants common to prairies, savannas, woodlands, and wetlands.

The Sanctuary is a 15-acre natural area with over 100 species of native Midwestern wildflowers and grasses. Once a Victorian era man-made lake used for leisure activities, the North Pond was rehabilitated in 1999 by the Chicago Park District [CPD] and the LPC. What was once a landscape that consisted of Kentucky blue grass and lilac bushes became a thriving natural ecosystem built around a diverse palette (over 150 species) of plants native to the Chicago region that provide food, shelter and breeding habitat to wildlife.

The LPC has been the steward and co-manager of the Sanctuary since 1998 when it underwent a $1.45 million rehabilitation to become one of Chicago's first nature construction.

Advance registration is required by emailing info@lincolnparkconservancy.org or calling 773-883-7275

For those who can't wait, the Sanctuary is open everyday from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. and admission is free.

The LPC is a not-for-profit organization that picks up where the CPD leaves off, taking on projects that are important to Lincoln Park, but do not fit into the city budget. It identifies park sites, historic buildings, and monuments in need of restoration, fundraises in the private sector for the improvements, and then co-manages the donor-restored park sites to protect the financial and emotional investments of its donors and members. Other LPC projects include the Lincoln Park Conservatory and Gardens, the Alfred Caldwell Lily Pool and the Lincoln Monument and Gardens.

Birdhouse Show rocks the roost in Roscoe Village

STORY AND PHOTOS BY JIM MATUSIK

Birds of a feather came together Friday night at August House Studio, 2113 W. Roscoe, in Roscoe Village to celebrate "Birds I Have Known," - The Birdhouse Show.

Artists, writers, teachers, hair dressers, caterers, real estate agents and more all re-interpreted a common and venerable object and created a gallery full of 'not your everyday birdhouses.' Also in attendance at this amazing avian experience were members of The Chicago Bird Collision Monitors. They are the vigilant guardians of the city's migrating bird population as they fly through our precarious skyline.

Well known artist Paul Sierra's sky blue birdhouse, Las Plumas had exquisitely painted bird portraits around its bottom and small holes drilled into the top from which he stuck dozens of brightly colored feathers, making it look like the house itself was ready to fly off the shelf.

CPS Teacher Charlie Heinrich repurposed a guitar body and called it Magic Fingers Motel. He festooned it with unusual three-dimensional objects like the devil and a skeleton and created a wild and wonderful one of a kind birdhouse.

Dave Hoekstra, Chicago author and producer made a birdhouse that was collaged with newspaper stories from his 30-years of reporting for the Sun Times. The house became an intriguing template of his journalistic journeys.

Marya Veeck, the daughter of late baseball icon Bill Veeck, has owned and operated her art gallery for 28 years in Roscoe Village, but for this show the daughter of the noted baseball promoter has gone to the birds.

keep the day job," says Veeck. "He told me that he was proud of me for being a peddler." At that time she was in sales, but bought her gallery and gave up the day job after her father died, and has been painting and exhibiting artists ever since.

Bill Veeck first became owner of The Chicago White Sox in 1959 and that was the year that they went on to win their first pennant in 40 years. He was just warming up when he introduced his exploding scoreboard with sound effects and fireworks. In 1961, due to poor health, he sold the team.

"I remember in 1975 when Mayor [Richard J.] Daley and his entourage visited my father and pleaded with him to buy the team again because they were about to be sold and moved to Seattle, relates Marya. The city and especially the South Siders were going crazy over possibility that they were going to loose the Sox. We began to get little envelopes with $2 or $5 from the fans who hoped that Bill would save the team, and he did."

But today is one for the birds. and Roscoe village is feeling the been experiencing the wrecking ball of gentrification for the last couple of decades and "grandma" houses are dropping like flies in summer. But the community has managed to maintain an unpretentious quality unlike the creeping slickness of nearby Southport Ave. and Veeck's gallery, August House Studio, is always a great place for friends and artists to stop by and call home.

"This Birdhouse Show is like a microcosm community that brings everyone together," says artists rep and birdhouse builder Diane Soubly. "People from all walks of life are getting to know each other and are bonding with a common creative goal in mind."

Birds of a feather are flocking together in Roscoe Village and Marya Veeck and her recent PAWS Beagle Quincy, would like you to join them for this incredible exhibit. Quincy, the mascot of the gallery, came up from a shelter in Louisiana and loves the city except for winter.

You can see the show Wednesday through Saturday from Noon to 5 p.m. until Saturday, May 23. For more information call 773-327-5644, or email inquiries to Augusthouse@sbcglobal.net.

Before the Boomers

Eight reasons "war babies" were crucial in remaking America

Everyone is familiar with Tom Brokaw's "greatest generation," whose grit and determination saw them through the Depression and World War II.

People also are familiar with the baby boomers, who are credited with "remaking" postwar America.

But what about the generation born in the middle, between 1939 and 1945?

As far as the history books and documentaries are concerned, this generation has slipped through the cracks—and wrongfully so, according to 20th century American cultural historian Richard Pells.

"As it turns out, this 'lost' generation is actually responsible for shaping the United States as we know it—far more than the boomers," says Pells, author of the new book "War Babies: The Generation That Changed America." "In fact, it is difficult to conceive of a generation that had a greater effect on America's music, movies, journalism and politics than those born during World War II and the early postwar years."

In his book, Pells (a war baby himself) looks closely at this generation, focusing on individuals who were instrumental in shaping the country's culture and politics during the past half-century. Readers will recognize names including Bob Dylan, Joan Baez, Martin Scorsese, Faye Dunaway, Tom Brokaw, Jesse Jackson, John Kerry and Nancy Pelosi, among others. In particular, Pells shows how elements of American life influenced these figures as they were growing up in the 1940s and 1950s and explains how they used those influences to change America once they reached adulthood.

Here, Pells spotlights eight ways in which war babies were instrumental in creating the America we live in today:

-They led the civil rights movement.

Through the lens of hindsight, the civil rights movement seems right, moral and necessary. For some younger Americans, it's difficult to imagine living with segregation and Jim Crow laws. Pells says the war babies—not the boomers—are to thank for initially championing equality, and for making America a different kind of nation than it was when the 1960s began.

"The boomers were too young to organize and speak at the March on Washington in 1963," Pells said. "Boomers were also too young to endanger their lives in the summer of 1964 traveling to Mississippi to register African American voters. And it's certain that the civil rights movement could not have prevailed without the efforts, oratory and bravery of war babies like John Lewis and Jesse Jackson, each of whom drew on their exclusion from the public institutions of a segregated America."

They sparked educational and social reform

Prior to the mid-1960s, American universities operated as "training grounds" to produce students who excelled in science, technology, government, and more—whatever America's current needs and policies required. That didn't sit well with war babies like Mario Savio, who led protests at Berkeley.

"This discontent with the bureaucratic model of university education, and the need to intervene to challenge the notion that universities were merely servants of the government, the corporations and the military, led to social reform, too," Pells said. "For instance, Tom Hayden's Port Huron Statement convinced many war babies of the need to personally undermine the apparatus of racism and war. While boomers certainly rode and prolonged these societal waves, they didn't start them."

They transformed popular music

Almost all of the music associated with the 1960s and early 1970s was created not by baby boomers but by war babies: Bob Dylan, Paul Simon, Art Garfunkel, Joan Baez, Judy Collins, Barbra Streisand, Janis Joplin, Carole King, Jim Morrison, Jerry Garcia, Grace Slick and many more.

"What was remarkable about war babies' music was how much it differed from the classic American songbook of the 1920s, '30s and '40s," Pells pointed out. "War babies' tunes were more dissonant, more complex, and less melodious—both in sound and substance. Many singers and songwriters used music to deal with private tensions and pain and, in doing so, were able to connect intimately with a mass audience who often felt similarly. Their songs continued to give meaning to boomers' lives as they, in turn, struggled to comprehend the upheavals in 1960s and 1970s society."

They created a new Hollywood

It's no coincidence that a renaissance in American filmmaking coincided with the political and cultural upheavals of the 1960s and '70s. While movies did not always deal directly with such issues, the characters in these films often seemed ambivalent and morose, and the movies themselves were ambiguous and confusing, as if they were commenting on a country whose people could no longer agree on a definition of a good life. This was in contrast to films of the 1940s and '50s, which were designed to appeal to entire families, not just segments of the audience.

"Thanks to war baby directors and actors, movies became more personal and idiosyncratic," Pells said. "Directors like Francis Ford Coppola, Martin Scorsese and George Lucas, and actors Faye Dunaway, Al Pacino and Robert De Niro helped convert films from mass entertainment to personal works of art. Think of movies like 'Bonnie and Clyde,' 'The Graduate,' 'Easy Rider,' 'The Godfather,' 'Taxi Driver,' 'Raging Bull,' 'The Deer Hunter' and 'Apocalypse Now.' These were films people argued about and remembered, that spoke directly to their social concerns and private predicaments."

They changed the way America related to the rest of the world

As they faced an unpredictable, rapidly changing world, war babies determined how America related—and still relates—to the international community. For instance, opposition to the Vietnam War might have been more fragile had it not been for the efforts of Tom Hayden to challenge the configuration of power in America. Nor would Richard Holbrooke's own encounter with the failures of American strategy in Vietnam have persuaded him in later wars like Iraq and Afghanistan to question Washington's efforts to remake other societies in America's image.

"And, of course, we can't overlook the role of journalists in informing Americans about what was happening abroad, and often, shaping public opinion about what America should and shouldn't do," Pells said. "Figures like Tom Brokaw, who was the first American television journalist to broadcast live in front of the Berlin Wall when it began to fall, and George Will, who was skeptical of America's desire to spread its brand of values, democracy and freedom with the rest of the world (particularly the Middle East) come to mind."

They were (and continue to be) instrumental in America's political destiny

Pells points out that no boomer—even one graduating from college in the early 1970s—had the opportunity, like Bob Wood-

Renaissance Saint Luke celebrates 10 years of 'elegant' senior housing opened its doors 10 years ago, offering a new choice to Chicago seniors. No longer did seniors have to live in substandard housing in order to buy food and other essentials, or stay in difficult familial situations because they couldn't afford to move.

RSL represented a significant departure for Lakeview by making luxury senior housing available at affordable rents. The group also marked the pioneer venture of The Renaissance Companies [TRC] continuum of care, offering an elegant yet comfortable lifestyle allowing aging in place with Greenview Place (Lakeview) and Saint Paul's House (California & Grace).

Fifteen years ago, there was a dearth of affordable senior housing in Lakeview. Developers Nancy and Jeanmarie Kapp were connected with Lakeview pastor David Abrahamson by then-alderman Ted Matlak, bringing together thought leaders and decision makers to solve Lakeview's challenge: Where did its seniors go when they could no longer afford the rising costs associated with the high-end neighborhood? With the changing economy, many area seniors found if financially difficult to stay in their homes.

"We wanted a place for seniors who were being forced out of Lakeview," said Abrahamson, a neighborhood activist who has been the pastor at the church since

With the church and Abrahamson acting as sponsors, and Matlak providing leadership for the city of Chicago, TRC embarked on a 16-month construction project to build 90 rental units.

The layered financing crafted to develop this project included $7 million in housing revenue bonds issued by the city of Chicago, along with $2.4 million in low income housing tax credits, plus $750,000 in trust fund dollars from the Illinois Housing Development Authority. RSL now sits on the north third of a city parking lot; that section was sold to the project by the city for $1.

"If we would have had to go out and purchase the land in that neighborhood, the project would have been financially prohibitive," said Richard Monocchio, first deputy commissioner at the De-

6 tips to get mentally ready to retire

According to an Ameriprise Financial survey of the first wave of baby boomers, some common concerns among retirees include:

- Missing out on daily social interaction with colleagues (37%)
- Getting used to new routines (32%)
- Finding ways to give meaning and purpose to the days (22%)

Many retirees know that the change from a full-time job to a life with less structure and purpose can be challenging, especially emotionally.

Six tips to get mentally ready to retire:

1. Celebrate with a party

There's been a celebration for every other milestone in life - new home, birthdays, weddings and so on. Why not celebrate retirement? It's achievement, especially for those who have saved enough to live comfortably.

2. Realize you don't have to be anywhere

Gone are the days of waking up early, sitting in traffic and drinking bad cafeteria coffee. Retirees are free to lounge in their pajamas and take their time with errands. They can seize the day and focus on doing what they love, whenever they want.

3. Enjoy aging gracefully

Want to be 18 again? Probably not. With age comes wisdom, self-realization and satisfaction. Enjoy every age. Check out the Advanced Style blog for inspiration and proof "from the wise and silverhaired set that personal style advances with age."

4. Spend more time with family and friends

Retired or not, this is the No. 1 wish for most people. Who doesn't want to spend more time with the people they love? See children and grandchildren more often. Plan a trip!

5. Adopt a dog

Share life with a dog in exchange for unconditional, tailwagging love. Besides the emotional benefits, research shows that dog-owners also need fewer doctor visits, have lower cholesterol and blood pressure, and have a lower risk of heart attack compared to those who don't.

6. Stop obsessing about retirement

Many people are anxious about retirement. Once they achieve retirement, they should stop worrying and instead learn to live for the moment and enjoy being the master of their own schedules.

Even if retirement seems a long way off, start on some of these ideas to prepare for an easier transition. When it's time to retire, embrace the newfound freedom and make the most of it.

Bethany Retirement Community

Our Mission: Called to care, The Bethany Methodist Family provides faith-based, exceptional health and housing programs that serve the physical, social and spiritual needs of our neighbors.

Our Vision: To be the leader in faith-based, compassionate and wholistic care for our diverse communities

SHARING OUR STORIES AND OUR SONGS: THE NEXT 125

A Capital Campaign for Bethany Retirement Community

Bethany Methodist Communities' mission to provide faith-based exceptional health and housing programs began 125 years ago when we opened our first Bethany Home - Bethany Retirement Community (BRC).

In faithfulness to our history and to expand our mission in this community, we have initiated a capital campaign: "Sharing our Stories and Our Songs: The Next 125."

Contributions to this campaign will support renovations at BRC, allowing us to serve a growing number of our neighbors with affordable, accessible senior living in the heart of a great neighborhood.

Our commitment is ongoing for providing the kind of home that nurtures a sense of belonging, as well as expanding our role as a neighborhood center for hospitality and learning in the Ravenswood/Andersonville area. We need your help to do this.

Phase I of the BRC renovations is anticipated to begin in early spring 2015, thanks to the generous donations of early campaign supporters. We will initially focus on the community's first floor common areas.

Creating "a place to call home" an atmosphere where residents and neighbors can thrive in a family setting for years to come will require updates to the following

- · A new entryway and lobby
- · Enhanced open spaces for community gatherings
- · A chapel for people of all traditions
- Improved handicap accessibility
- Technological upgrades for entertainment, media and internet

We are very excited to begin these renovations and look forward to expanding our Call To Care mission for everyone that comes through our doors.

Duplicate Bridge Group Scores High

"We really started thinking about creating a duplicate bridge group when Mr. and Mrs. Chinn moved into The Clare. He would play eight hours a day if he could!" Chris Lyon, Clare resident and bridge organizer, laughed when she talked about Mr. Chinn's passion for the game.

"You have to have at least 12 people for a sanctioned duplicate game, and we were concerned we wouldn't have enough interested people. Were we ever wrong to worry about that; we had 32 players last week." Duplicate bridge at The Clare began only four months ago in January 2015.

Mrs. Lyon, who currently heads the Bridge Society at the University Club, had been a social bridge player for about 45 years when she was introduced to duplicate while on a cruise ship. "My husband and I showed up to play social bridge and that was not what we found. There we were with these very nice men willing to explain duplicate to us. It was baptism by fire," she said.

Larry Cohen, who directs sanctioned duplicate games at the Chicago Cultural Center, also runs The Clare's Friday afternoon duplicate bridge sessions, which run about three hours.

"Duplicate bridge calls for super strategic thinking," said Lyon, "and requires more skill and less luck than most card games. That's what makes it so fun. And it makes good brain exercise too.'

In duplicate bridge, every table is playing the same cards, and players are competing not only against the people at their own table, but also trying to keep all other opponents from scoring high. Every week, scores are posted online at the Chicago Bridge Center web site so everyone can evaluate their success...or their less-thancompetitive performance.

"We have about a 50/50 mix of Clare residents and non-residents participate in our bridge game. Most of the non-residents are friends, colleagues, and acquaintances of our Clare residents. It's become a really popular weekly event that everyone looks forward to. I think we'll continue to grow until we run out of room for tables!"

Susan Merdinger

Food for the Soul

Every week, Clare residents enjoy top caliber music performances in the building's public spaces.

One of the area's most sought after and versatile entertainers, Rob Cunningham, appeared at The Clare in April, upon his return from the Broadway production of Stephen Sondehim's Company. Another special treat in March was a preview of the 2015 Rush Hour Concert series, which featured violist Anthony Devroye, pianist Kuang-Hao Huang, and cellist Brant Taylor, all of whom also contribute to the artistic direction of the renowned series.

Susan Merdinger, a visiting artist of the Chicago Symphony for the past three years, made her debut at The Clare April 27, performing Saxon Variations, a composition by Elbio Barilari. The piece, named in honor of Clare resident Joyce Saxon, was recently broadcast live on WFMT. Merdinger related that she has spent her life in pursuit of "Lux et Veritas" - "Light and Truth" - as a concert pianist, striving to discover the meaning of music to transform lives.

Resident Engagement Creates Community

Residents of The Clare have unique and engaging stories to tell, and oftentimes programs will be developed by residents them-

At an April meeting of the Friars, The Clare's men's organization, resident Jay Tunney told his tale of ice cream entrepreneurial adventures in Korea during the 1980s. At that time, Tunney had observed the recent rise in ice cream popularity in Japan, and he thought he could promote the same idea in Korea.

He started selling Hobson's ice cream from a kiosk at the 1988 Seoul Olympics, and it was an immediate hit. With the close of the games, Jay moved his business into an elaborate ice cream parlor outside of a U.S. military base and in the "red light" district of Seoul, where, according to Tunney, soldiers and their girlfriends, Western tourists, Korean civilians, and Western expats would go shopping for food, clothing, and other things...like ice cream. The locals seemed to take to the cold treat until winter set in. Business fell off but he carried on developing several business relationships that helped grow his business, including a partnership with "Uncle Joe," a Korean businessman who owned a very popular 'hole in the wall' hamburger place in the diplomatic area of Seoul. Tunney Jay added Hobson's ice cream to Uncle Joe's menu and the syn-

And it is unlikely that any boomer would have spent enough time in Congress to emerge as the first woman Speaker of the House (like Nancy Pelosi), or served as the most powerful vice president in American history (like Dick Cheney).

"And just as was the case with foreign policy, war babies also used the media to transform both American culture and American politics—mostly by bringing their own personalities to bear on the issues they were probing," Pells noted. "Pundits and news executives—none more so than George Will and Roger Ailes—employed their personal allegiances to shape political debate in America."

They shook up gender roles

Not all the war babies who influenced modern America were men. Besides the female singers and actresses of the 1960s and 1970s, Pells points to two specific women who changed the way gender roles were perceived.

"Billie Jean King maximized her individuality, and not just as a tennis player, to bring about more financial and athletic equality for women," he said. "And Nancy Pelosi took advantage of her background and instincts as the daughter of a politician to become Speaker of the House, and thus a model for other women with leadership ambitions. Pelosi has been as influential a politician as her male contemporaries like Dick Cheney, Joe Biden and Barney Frank."

They introduced an enduring skepticism about political and social institutions

The war babies' parents believed in the beneficence and honesty of the American government, as well as in the virtues of other pillars in American life. The Great Depression and World War II had taught them the advantages of working together for communal ideals—building labor unions in the 1930s, cooperating on the home front to help win the war and remaining loyal to the postwar organizations that gave them employment, affluence and a sense of collective identity.

"The war babies, however, saw the world much differently," Pells said. "They were entertained by satirical comedy. They watched movies like 'Rebel Without a Cause' that dramatized a mistrust of authority figures of all types. And they were reading novels like J. D. Salinger's 'The Catcher in the Rye,' or works of social criticism like David Riesman's 'The Lonely Crowd.' As a result of these influences, the war babies lacked their parents' faith in the integrity and intelligence of the American government. This view was reinforced by the Vietnam War and Watergate, and later Iraq and Afghanistan. This disillusion with the wisdom of people in power was the most notable contribution the war babies made to the overhaul of modern America."

As a generation, Pells says the war babies experienced and accomplished "quite a bit" for which they aren't credited.

"They played crucial roles in the liberation of African Americans from a century of segregation, the opposition to the Vietnam War, Watergate and the destruction of a presidential administration, and later American wars in Iraq and Afghanistan," he said. "Along the way, they revolutionized America's music and its movies. And they invented a culture and politics that were more personal and individualistic than those of their parents. So while the greatest generation and baby boomers shouldn't be dismissed, it's only fair to recognize that war babies are a special generation whose contributions to American life we have all come to share.'

Pells earned his bachelor's degree from Rutgers University in 1963 and his doctorate in history from Harvard in 1969, where he taught for three years. Subsequently, he was awarded fellowships from the Rockefeller Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars and the Guggenheim Foundation, as well as six Fulbright chairs and lectureships for teaching abroad, particularly in Europe and Asia. Currently, he is professor of history emeritus at The University of Texas at

Retirement isn't a curse

Seven fulfilling activities to stay active, healthy

BY KIMBERLY AARDAL

When people talk about senior citizens, they may use words like "retiree," "middle aged," "empty nester" and "baby boomer."

All of the phrases are used to describe people who have moved from the working portion of their lives into a more sedentary, relaxed lifestyle.

This phase of life means the retirees can choose for themselves what they would like to do each morning, instead of getting up and tending to obligations like family and work.

Retirement, for some people, may seem like a curse, but it doesn't have to be that way. Anyone who sees retirement as "the end" will be glad to know that there are at least seven activities available to get life moving again.

Seven activities to avoid boredom in retirement

Many retirees have dreamed of the day they could actually relax on vacation without the hassle of having to go back to work. Well, the time has arrived for baby boomers. It's time to explore the world and all it has to offer. Whether it's close by or halfway around the world, traveling is a grand way to stay active in both mind and body.

Expand the mind

Travelers have the opportunity to explore new surroundings, see new sights and understand different cultures. It's important to learn as much as possible through the experience, bearing in mind that traveling isn't the only way to learn new things - an interest in a new language or instrument also can be explored. New activities keep the mind sharp, and keep people from getting bored.

Whether it's close by or halfway around the world, traveling is a grand way to stay active in both mind and body.

Mingle

When working, it can be difficult to stay in touch with friends and loved ones. But in retirement it's time to get into touch with these folks and reconnect with them. Mingling can do a world of good; take this opportunity to go meet new folks, whether in a cooking club or an art class. Consider hosting a party and bring together old and new friends and neighbors.

Bring a pet home

Another wonderful way to stay active is to get a pet. Regardless of what kind of animal (bird, cat, dog, hamster, lizard), nothing is better than taking care of something living that offers unconditional love. Unable to bring home a pet but still want to be around animals? Then volunteer at a local animal shelter. There are all kinds of cats and dogs waiting to be adopted, and while they wait they need love and care. Retirees also can take care of a neighbor's pet if the neighbor is ill or out of town.

Good cause

Get involved with a good cause. Many people are involved with causes that include children's rights, eco-friendly movements, animal rights and so much more. Work with people who share the same vision about how the world should be. Being involved with a good cause gives life a purpose.

Take up mentoring

Baby boomers have a lot to say and show the younger generation. Share this information with grandkids, be surrogate grandparent to neighborhood kids, or sign up with a mentoring program to make an impact on children's lives. Why not coach a team full of kids? There are many things to do with children to be a positive influence on their lives.

Keep moving

Stay active. Join a gym that has state of the art equipment, swim in a pool or join a dance class. Or, consider taking a walk around the block or riding a bike. It's always best to speak with a doctor before beginning an exercise program. Other activities involving motion include planting a garden or doing some home improvements. There is something out there for every-

Remember, this is the time in life not to worry about the issues that consume people in their 20s, 30s, 40s and 50s. So, take time out to enjoy what life has to offer. Do any one of these activities, enjoy the experience and feel energetic about life.

SPECIAL TO INSIDE

The 750 Club Apartment Adoption Project, a new Chicago effort launched in December to provide private apartments for youth moving out of transitional housing, has announced the first apartment adoption. The project was initiated at the LGBTQ Homeless Youth Summit hosted in 2014 by Windy City Times newspaper.

The 750 Club is named for the average monthly rental amount utilized by homeless-serving agencies. In this first success story, a young lesbian couple are the beneficiaries of donations from two dozen people and a foundation supporting the project.

Keonza, 20, and Khanija, 21, have been a couple since 2011, when they met as students at Percy L. Julian High School on the Far South Side.

"This apartment will keep us safe," Keonza said. "It will provide consistency and stability." Khanija added that it will help them both be able to work on their education and hold down jobs. They have been navigating living on the streets and in the shelter

Keonza said her family does not support her relationship with Khanija, and Khanija's family is unable to provide any financial support. "We don't have other people," said Keonza, who at one point was also in the foster care system in Illinois. "All of our other options would keep us apart."

Funds were raised through The 750 Club, with AIDS Foundation of Chicago as fiscal agent. The funds are distributed to an existing youth homeless agency that Keonza also would like to study psychology and cosmology, and Khanija, who works in hospitality, would like to work in sports administration.

"It was wonderful to meet Keonza and Khanija," said Tracy Baim, publisher of Windy City Times. Baim is overseeing the project, women don't have the family and social network of support many of us rely on. I especially enjoyed discussing their dreams of being writers. We need to help our youth with aspirational thinking, not just survival skills."

"There is a huge need for more resources for youth experiencing homelessness," said Sol Flores, executive director of La Casa Norte. "Unfortunately, numbers continue to rise across our region. In addition to emergency responses, such as shelters, youth also need longer-term housing options that will allow them to focus on education, employment, and building the skills they will need to succeed in adulthood. They need a stable support system that will allow them to take risks and try new things in a health and safe environment. The 750 Club is a really exciting opportunity because it allows interested individuals across our city to come together and make a difference, here is one clear example of ending youth homelessness-this is how the work gets done."

The 750 Club aims to provide additional scattered-site housing to unstably housed youth who are in school or working at least parttime. There is a special focus on LGBTQ youth, but the program is not exclusive. The long term goal of The 750 Club is to take that same amount per month and put that toward building tiny homes in Richardt told WBEZ that when a psychiatric patients come in to the emergency department they need special examination rooms. She pointed out how the pipes under the sink and toilet are covered.

As visits climbed Advocate needed more spaces like this. The new rooms will be designed for safety, but also to give the patients a more quiet and private space, away from the rest of the ER.

"There is nothing on the walls you could hang yourself with or hurt yourself with," she said.

Richardt told WBEZ she would see the same patients rotate in over and over again. So she pulled one patient's files and found that woman had visited their ER 750 times over the course of about 10

She said the patient was picked up by an ambulance or police officer almost daily. Sometimes the ER would discharge her, only to have her appear back a few hours

"The cost of that for us was $2.5 million," said Richardt. "And that's only at our hospital. This an individual who went between multiple hospitals and so we don't have the true cost."

C4's Rebecca Lorentzen said transitions are particularly hard for mental health services. She works with youth at C4. "We may be one of the only stable, consistent adults in their lives, and now for reasons out of our control we are saying we have to end that," she said.

Lorentzen said it will be difficult to connect clients immediately with community services, "I'm not hopeful. That's what's frustrating."

Brother stands by ex-Gov

Still holds ill will for former U.S. Attorney Fitzgerald

Robert Blagojevich, brother of the impeached and imprisoned former Illinois Governor.

Robert Blagojevich, brother of the impeached and imprisoned former Illinois governor, has two pieces of advice to anyone who expects a fair trial in a federal

"Even if you're innocent, that doesn't mean you're going to be acquitted. Justice at the federal level is a crap shoot with loaded dice in favor of the house," Blagojevich told an overflow audience at an April 13, City Club of Chicago luncheon at Maggiano's Restaurant, 111 W. Grand Ave.

Robert Blagojevich had been a Republican businessman with no intention of ever getting involved in politics until his brother asked him to become his chief fundraiser. He agreed and as a result he was indicted, along with the governor, on federal corruption charges.

One of the things he learned the hard way is that if the feds ever get their hands on you, their conviction rate is 96%, said one of the few men to beat those odds - and details his experiences in his recently released book, "Fundraiser A: My Fight for Freedom and Justice." (NIU Press)

In Fundraiser A, Robert Blagojevich details how he ended up as "G-Rod's" most trusted and the reluctant star of a "David and Goliath" epic in which found himself as a modern-day David facing "the full might of the United States government."

fundraiser

Actually, it was more like hotshot U.S. District Attorney Patrick Fitzgerald's willingness to use any means at hand to bring down his second sitting Illinois governor in five years. Even if it meant using Robert Blagojevich for leverage. Robert Blagojevich has insisted throughout the entire case that the feds charged him in order to put pressure on brother Rod.

Not surprisingly, the usually polished Robert Blagojevich makes no attempt to conceal his profound "disrespect" for Fitzger-

Asked about rumors he blames his brother Rod for the nightmare of the past few years, Robert Blagojevich says it for what seems like the 1000th time.

"I don't blame my brother for what happened to me. I blame Patrick Fitzgerald."

Before it was over, Congressman Jesse Jackson Jr. would be under investigation for trying to buy the U.S. Senate seat left vacant when Barack Obama got an even better federal job. Along the way, the character of Chicago

During his trial,

"the judge was on average 40 minutes late morning and afternoon. I did the math.

He cost me an additional

a federal judge would know time and ready to do our best,"

Robert Blagojevich said.

Mayor Rahm Emanuel, former linois Attorney General Roland Burris, and even President $15,000 in legal fees. I thought Obama himself would briefly be better. We were always there on called question.

As Rod's

chief fundraiser, brother Rob often had to tell prospective donors that giving money - no matter how much would not lead to state contracts or a senate seat.

Jesse Jackson Jr. apparently didn't get the message, Robert Blagojevich recalled, although Jackson (who did 30 months in prison on other, unrelated charges) denies he ever offered any money in exchange for Obama's old job.

During his talk at the City Club, Robert Blagojevich dared Jesse Jackson Jr. to "man up" for trying to buy that senate seat, but conceded, "I don't think that's ever going to happen."

And now that it's all over, what's Robert Blagojevich's other piece of advice?

"Be careful what you say on the telephone. And watch what you text. Unfortunately, it might be the U.S. government" who ends up hearing and seeing it.
