Jenner-Odgen school merger a go, said to be a first for CPS

The deal is back on to merge two Near North Side public grade schools. The Chicago Public Schools announced Monday that is will go ahead with long debated plans to combine the Ogden and Jenner elementary schools.

The CPS has closed and consolidated schools in the past, but claims it has never before merged and maintained two existing schools at the behest of parents and school activists.

Ogden, 24 W. Walton St., is considered to be a top flight school but over-crowded with over 850 students mostly drawn from nearby affluent communities; while Jenner, 1119 N. Cleveland St., is considered "underused" with only 244 students, a majority of whom are low-income minority students. Indeed nearly 98% of Jenner's students are black and live in low-income households.

Ogden also offers a middle school and high school serving grades 6-12 at its West Town Campus, 1250 W. Erie St.

The Jenner School campus can serve over 1,000 students but was once considered a target for closing after the demolition of the Cabrini-Green CHA housing complex, from which it drew many of it students.

At a press conference Monday, Forrest Claypool, CPS CEO, announced the plans to move ahead with the plan saying, "The communities that these schools serve approached CPS with a unique proposal to combine their efforts, not just to better use their existing space but also to integrate their student bodies. We are looking forward to taking the next step toward making this merger happen, and will provide the community with a draft transition plan this Rendering by DLR Group of a combination office building and fire station that would replace the existing fire station on W. Illinois St.

City considers deal to build office tower over River North fire station

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN Loop North News

A new fire station at no cost to the city is being considered for River North.

Friedman Properties, Ltd., owner of 31 commercial properties in River North, is proposing to buy the fire station at Illinois & Dearborn streets for $5 million, demolish it, and then build a new, state-of-the-art fire station at the same location along with a 614,000 square foot office tower.

The tower would cost Friedman an additional $20.2 million. The city estimates it would generate $4.4 million per year in real estate taxes.

The existing fire station, built in 1968, also houses Chicago

Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau. The new station would include a training room for the bureau, a "community room to engage residents," and other modern amenities, according to the city.

"This project has the potential to be a unique partnership that could enhance a prime development location while providing a new home for Chicago's bravest," said Ald. Brendan Reilly [42nd]. "I look forward to working through the community engagement process to see if we can make this concept a reality at no cost to our taxpayers."

The city will still look at any alternative bids for the property. Any proposal would still need to be approved by Chicago Plan Commission and City Council.

City proposes McClurg Court changes to improve Streeterville traffic mess

Ald. Reilly's 42nd Ward office has been peppered by frequent complaints by residents of traffic congestion issues in Streeter-ville, including traffic congestion on E. Ontario and Illinois streets, vehicles that speed down alleys in order to access westbound and southbound streets, and general traffic and safety issues in the area.

The boom in high rise development in the area has created a number of bottlenecks and road closures throughout the tony Near North Side neighborhoods and many neighbors are getting fed up.

In response, Ald. Reilly requested that the Chicago Dept. of Transportation (CDOT) conduct a traffic study and provide their recommendations to reduce congestion in Streeterville. CDOT has recommended that McClurg Court, from Ohio to Ontario, be reconfigured from a one-way northbound, to a two-way street, and work is already underway.

It is hoped that this change will reduce circuitous traffic in the neighborhood and improve residential and business access in Streeterville.

The work will include traffic signal modifications, ADA Ramp construction, revised pavement markings and signage modifications CDOT has recommended that McClurg Court, from Ohio to Ontario, be reconfigured.

During the reconfiguration process, McClurg will remain open to vehicular traffic. Localized sidewalk closures will be necessary to accommodate the traffic signal work and ADA ramp construction; however, pedestrian access will be maintained to properties along the corridor.

The city hopes that the changes will provide improved, more direct access to residences and businesses in the area, while also increasing safety and reducing traffic congestion in the area. For more information call 312-744-3600 or 312-642-4242.

UPDATE: Alexander Hamilton statue set to return

STORY BY PETER VON BUOL

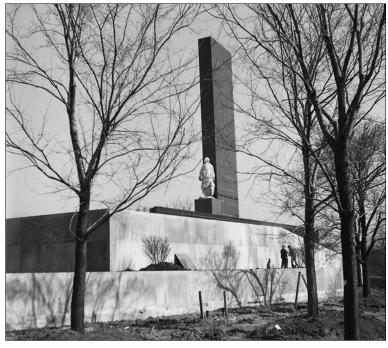

Lincoln Park's gilded statue of Alexander Hamilton will be returning to its pedestal in the park by the end of the month and, after two decades facing south, will once again face north, according to Jessica Maxey-Faulkner, spokesperson for the Chicago Park District [CPD].

Although Hamilton's statue had originally been slated to return by the end of last year, Maxey-Faulkner told Inside Publications the statue's return has been dictated by the conservation process, not a calendar timetable.

"The application of new gilding (microscopically-thin sheets of hammered gold) was completed late last fall, at the onset of winter. The sculpture conservator noted that the performance of the newly gilded finish would be enhanced by the longest possible period of sheltered protection prior to exterior exposure. The Art Institute of Chicago and the CPD agreed to extend the reinstallation date to Spring 2017, and the statue has remained protected in a dry warm environment," said Maxey-Faulkner.

Interest in Hamilton has increased due to the popular musical biography of Hamilton by Lin-Manuel Miranda. A member of General George Washington's staff during the American Revolution and later, the nation's first secretary of the treasury, Hamilton (1757-1804) has been described by some as the "forgotten Founding Father" of the nation.

Among those pleased the statue will be reinstalled to face north, its original position, is Ward Miller, executive director of Preservation

The Lincoln Park statue is not the only Hamilton statue which

Sundays are for celebrating with tolerance, friendship and pride

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

These photos from frozen moments in the Eisenhower era always get me juiced up. At this stage they are almost like laboratory slides. An intense swatch of DNA. Happy portraits of familial genetic instructions.

Where do I begin?

These Brownie snaps are shot in front of my O'Gorman grandparent's home, just three houses away from my family home at 56th and Peoria on the South Side. Our neighbor, Ald. Paul Sheridan, lived next door to my grandparents. He was lord of the manor. We got to see lots of political celebrities and carrying-on. It's the 16th Ward.

Just one block away (visible in the upper part of the photo) is the huge campus of Visitation Parish spread out on the six-lane Garfield Blvd. Three school buildings: kindergarten, elementary and girls high school. There is also a huge convent for the Sinsinawa Dominican Nuns, over 100 of whom staffed this complex. A well proportioned Neo-gothic church sits there. Cathedral-size. A very comfortable priests' house as well.

Visitation is Irish Catholicism at its finest. One of America's largest and in the 1950s, the stuff that Catholics were proud to brag

In the photograph are my grandparents, James and Rebecca O'Gorman, who were active members of the Irish Republican Army. My grandfather was an important and popular military leader in his youth. He was a Che Guevara to General Michael Collins' Fidel Castro. My parents, Moss and Eileen, are there smiling. It's Moth-

The events of that day were American Catholicism at its fullest and most muscular. My grandparents would not have seen anything like this growing up in their Irish Village. Catholicism had a more for unlanded aristocrats trying to learn how to spell.

It's like the perfect world. Everyone works hard and contributes to the common good, exactly like presidents Madison and Jefferson expected they would. The schools here were jammed thanks to the young G.I.'s like my father who fought for their country and returned home to raise families. Their lives were forever changed by military life and living half way around the world for five years. This is before Tom Brokaw gave us the sobriquet, "The Greatest Generation." We always knew they were great. Especially my

Pop. He had a box of medals.

My grandfather left Ireland with his wife and three tiny sons during the Irish Civil War in the 1920s to protect his family from the insanity of Irishmen killing Irishmen. They ended their journey in Chicago when my grandmother refused to go on farther to Australia. Thank God. I can't abide the

The O'Gormans had three sons in military service in World War II. David landed at Normandy, while my father was storming beaches in the South Pacific. And then in the waning days of war, just before the allies made their way into Germany, my 18-year-old uncle, Seamus, was killed at Bastogne, in Belgium, in the Battle of the Bulge. So much for keeping your family safe.

The war sucked everyone into the violence. Immigration and assimilation had a huge price tag on it for my grandparents. They never moved far from the sadness of their son's sacrifice. They had been used to shedding blood for freedom in Ireland. But this one, for America, caught them off guard. It is very Shakespearean. All grief and tragedy just beneath the surface of the wave. Redefining meaning by teenage humanity and nobility a la Graham Greene.

This is what I see when I look at this photo. Parents celebrating the ongoing assimilation of their family into the promise of America. But holding a heart, shattered and slashed by the cruelty of the day. Perhaps they felt they made an error in crossing to America. Maybe they felt they were mistaken at the sacrifice. I never heard any regrets. They went to Mass everyday.

They embraced what was before them on that Mother's Day in 1954. A precocious grandson festooned in blue adding to the religious theater of victorious America. With our Irish monsignor praying for soldiers that never got back alive. And me thinking how close Hitler had gotten to us all. My grandfather clinging to his IRA stoicism and the lost Michael Collins. But my grandmother allowing the poetry of being Irish the chance to speak for her and her broken heart. Knowing that her son was safe none the less and that the mysteries of our faith could revive us again. Rosary by rosary.

And so we marched in solemn procession along the spring greenery of the boulevard. One head behind the other. Like it was the Catholic West Point. We moved

of the 'Hood By Felicia Dechter

It's wedding season, and if you haven't been invited to have some fun anyone watching getting hitched yet, you might want to think about crashing "Tony n' Tina's Wedding," an amusing, interactive show that definitely makes guests -- and crashers -- feel like they're friends and family of the bride and groom.

The evening starts with the wedding of Anthony Angelo Nunzio Jr., (Tony) and Valentina Lynne Vitale (Tina) at Resurrection Church, 3309 N. Seminary Ave. Played by actor Mitchell Conti and actress Concetta Rose, these two are pretty funny as they make getting married seem like, well, a piece of cake, sort of. There's some decent humor as their wedding ceremony occurs, with a cast of characters that include a pregnant bridesmaid, a flame of a photographer, and in-laws and groomsmen who make things entertaining.

Immediately following the ceremony, guests are invited to Vinnie Black's Coliseum (Chicago Theater Works), 1113 W. Belmont Ave, for a flashback, high-energy '80s reception, and to me that was really where the best part began. I thought all the actors did a good job, but stealing the show was actor Micah Spayer, who played wedding singer Donny Dulce. Spayer's character was in fine form the night I attended, and he added a hilarious touch to the entire reception.

There are some new cast members who joined the play at the end of April, including Concetta Rose as "Tina," who has been a member of the Tony n' Tina's family for the past 12 years, both in New York City as well as on the national tour.

Save the date, too, as next month, Tony n'

Tina's Wedding will celebrate 25 years as a beloved theatrical Windy City show. To honor occasion, the Tony and Tina are welcoming back members of the original 1992 Chicago cast to the performance June 16. During its original 16 year run in Chicago, Tony n' Tina's

Wedding entertained more than one million audience members of all ages. The new, retro/flashback version of the show opened in September and is now in an open-ended

DON'T LET GOVERNMENT ANSPARENCY

Public notices -- important information about what is happening in our government -would become a thing of the past in Illinois under Senate Bill 2032.

So would important transparency about the decisions being made that impact us and how our money is being spent.

Instead of requiring governmental entities large and small to print these notices in newspapers, they could post them solely online on their own website -- and there are more than 750 statewide. Such a move would affect many people, including the elderly, minorities and those in rural areas. In fact, AARP has opposed similar legislation nationwide.

Only one state has tried this approach and it repealed the decision after two years becaus it was a failure.

Illinois should be pushing more transparency, not giving the government another way to hide our business.

LET LT. GOV. EVELYN SANGUINETTI AND OUR SENATORS KNOW THIS IS NOT ACCEPTABLE.

Home sales of $1 million-plus fueled by city's new construction boom

The Home Front By Don DeBat

The market for $1-million-plus homes and condominiums exploded in the city of Chicago in early 2017, a comprehensive new Realtor sales report revealed.

Sales of luxury homes in Chicago rose 33% to 242 units in the first quarter of 2017, up from 182 units in the same period last year, reported the RE/MAX Luxury Report on Metro Chicago Real Estate.

However, the median sales price slipped 5.6% to $1,305,000 in the first quarter, compared with the same period last year. The luxury inventory in the city expanded by 37.7% to 1,030 units. Much of the gain represents new-construction homes and condos.

"The ample supply of luxury properties on the market clearly had an impact on prices, but at the same time, lower prices are helping boost sales activity and should bring supply into better balance with demand over the course of this year," said Jack Kreider, ex-

"If the second quarter of 2017 continues this trend, I think we'll see luxury-home prices stabilize after a couple of years when the overall trend has been slightly down," Kreider said.

Sales activity was especially strong in the attached-home market segment, which includes condominium apartments, townhomes and cooperative units, RE/MAX noted.

Total attached home sales rose 69% to 120 units, compared with the January-March quarter of 2016. However, the median sales price was fell 7.4% to $1,227,500. And average market time also declined sharply to 136 days this year from 178 days a year ago.

Four neighborhoods that dominate Chicago's luxury attached market registered strong sales-activity increases. Lincoln Park posted a 200% gain in $1-million-plus sales with 21 units sold. The Near South Side recorded a hefty gain of 150% accounting for the sale of 10 million-dollar-plus units.

The Near North Side, which has by far the heaviest concentration of luxury attached homes, had a sales gain of 32% to 62 units.

The detached segment of the city luxury market experienced a more modest increase in activity, RE/MAX reported. Sales totaled 122 units, up 10% from the first quarter of 2016, and the median price fell 2.9% to $1,345,000. Average market time rose to 173 days from 155 days a year earlier.

North Center saw the largest number of luxury detached home sales in the quarter, with 25 units selling at a median price of $1,270,000. Those results represented a 47% increase in sales and a 2.8% gain in the median price.

The number of luxury detached sales also rose in Lincoln Square, Logan Square, Lake View and West Town but fell in Lincoln Park, Edgewater and Near North.

The Lincoln Park detachedhome market was notably soft in the first quarter of 2017, with sales down 25.8% to 23 units. The median sales price fell 40% to $1,501,000.

Suburban Luxury Sales

Luxury home sales in the metropolitan Chicago area also got off to a strong start in 2017, with first-quarter activity up 31.1% from the same quarter of 2016, according to the RE/MAX Luxury Report. The results represent the highest level of first-quarter $1-million-plus sales in the Chicago market since RE/MAX began tracking that activity in 2011.

A total of 455 million-dollar-plus homes were sold in the first quarter of 2017. The median price was $1.28 million, down 6.4% from same quarter last year.

Average market time rose to 189 days, five days more than last year, and the inventory of luxury homes for sale was 2,905 units, an 8.9% increase.

The RE/MAX report is a quarterly analysis of $1 million-plus home sales in Cook, DuPage, Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry and Will counties from data compiled by Midwest Real Estate Data (MRED). Some 213 suburban luxury homes were sold in the first quarter, a gain of 29.1% over the same period a year ago. However, the median sales ago. However, the median sales price fell 5.9% to $1.27 million. Average market time rose to 228 days from 206 days a year earlier.

The suburban luxury home inventory was 1,875 units, 2.3% lower than a year ago. However, the total still represented a two-year supply based on the sales pace in the first quarter. Many of the suburban towns where luxury homes are most common saw notable gains in sales activity during the first quarter.

North suburban Winnetka was number one in sales for the quarter with a total of 28 units sold, up 47.4% over the first quarter in 2016. The median sales price was $1,487,500, down 1.3% from the same quarter of 2016.

Other communities seeing more luxury sales in the quarter include Wilmette, Glenview, Glencoe, Evanston, Highland Park, the Barrington area, Northbrook and Naperville. In each case, with the exception of Northbrook and Naperville, the median sales price declined.

The number of luxury detached sales also rose in Lincoln Square, Logan Square, Lake View and West Town but fell in Lincoln Park, Edgewater and Near North.
The Lincoln Park detached-home market was notably soft in the first quarter of 2017, with sales down 25.8% to 23 units. The median sales price fell 40% to $1,501,000.

Hinsdale, one of the leading luxury-home markets in the suburbs, was the major exception to those trends. Quarterly results in Hinsdale showed sales down 14% to 25 units but the median sales price rose 12.6% to $1,575,000.

We caught up with one of the local storytellers, Shaily Hakimian of Lakeview, to find out a bit more.

Q. What can people expect at he event?

Lots of people sharing a bit of their soul on stage.

Q. What sort of stories will you be telling? What is your background?

The stories will be about my adventures in Israel. Background - my parents are immigrants. My mom was born in Israel and raised in Morocco. My dad was born in Iran and came to Chicago when he was 18.

Q. I understand you do hospital magic?

I am a hospital magician with Open Heart Magic. We went through a tough magic bootcamp filled with magical exams once we were selected from hundreds of other applicants.

Q. You currently live in Lakeview? Where did you grow up?

Near Buffalo Grove and I moved to Lakeview in Oct., 2015.

Most of the time I was away was for travel or college. I went to Indiana University.

Q. Why is this event important and will it just be of interest to Jewish people?

I think the fact that we are all real everyday people sharing a bit of ourselves is magical. We don't have an agenda. It's just us and the audience. There is something very real about it. I think it's nice to see people who don't necessarily work in the Jewish professional bubble speak their truths. I think it will be of interest because it gets people a window into our souls.

Our View: Oberweis' bill imperils public's right to know

Editorial

Legislation to allow the dissemination of public notices only on the internet in Illinois is a radical departure from the proven public notice system that all other states use. As a result, the public's right to know in Illinois and Chicago would suffer. The bill should be defeated.

Dissemination of information to citizens through publication of public notices protects the public's right to know.

Do you want to know about new or higher taxes? Capital spending on libraries, police or fire departments?

Government contracting, new liquor licenses, new schools or the sale of public

Through public notices, units of government inform the public about what they are doing or proposing which, in turn, helps the public effectively engage in the democratic process. The cost for public notices is minimal to each unit of government, usually less than a 10th of one percent of the budget.

Legislation that took effect five years ago goes further. The Illinois Legislature unanimously approved a bill requiring newspapers to post all public notices they print on a public, free-access centralized website at no additional cost to government. That website is PublicNoticeIllinois.com.

The system works well. Newspapers disseminate public notices and then certify that governments have complied with public notice laws. The public is served efficiently, in print and online.

However, some people want to change it... the people who are making the decisions about what taxes you pay and how websites or on a state-run website.

State Sen. Jim Oberweis introduced the bill in February; a Senate committee is re-

Lt. Gov. Evelyn Sanguinetti is a strong supporter; a task force she headed issued a report in Dec. 2015 that favors the concept of "modernizing public notices."

Frankly, we are appalled by their cavalier attitude toward public notices and government transparency.

Sadly, we are also not surprised.

As a respected, independent third party, newspapers reliably transmit this information in print and online.

Newspapers for centuries have played a key role in the legal process of public notices by publishing, certifying and archiving them. It's a long proven process.

By contrast, government is unreliable. And that brand of government found in Illinois is especially unreliable.

The Citizens Advocacy Center reviewed Illinois local governments' track record for posting notices online in three basic areas public meeting notices, public meeting agendas and approved minutes from public meetings - as required by law through the Open Meetings Act.

Of more than 750 websites surveyed, only 73% of governments complied with posting meeting notices, 57% complied with posting an agenda and a mere 48% complied with posting approved meeting minutes.

That's unacceptable.

What can the public expect if local governments bypass newspapers and post public notices online?

The same dismal record of noncompliance and lawbreaking. That would be a terrible blow to transparency.

We are unconvinced that public notices, if placed only on government-controlled websites, would have anything close to the same readership they have now. And frankly, who would even know if they were in fact published at all?

Newspapers for centuries have played a key role in the legal process of public notices by publishing, certifying and archiving them. It's a long proven process. By contrast, government is unreliable. And that brand of government found in Illinois is especially unreliable.

Senate Bill 2032 is a radical departure from the proven public notice system that all other states use.

Government would inevitably become less transparent, especially for people who aren't online.

And the public's right to know, rather than being protected, would be diminished.

Politicians like Oberweis and Sanguinetti ought to know better. They should realize that public notices in Illinois were "modernized" more than five years ago through legislation establishing the centralized website. This bill should be defeated.

Students escape baseball bat attack near Lake View High

BY CWBCHICAGO.COM

A baseball bat attack by suspected gang members left several students shaken, but largely uninjured Monday morning near Lake View High School, 4015 N. Ashland.

School security called police after a carload of suspected gangbangers clambered out of a car and charged toward the students near Ashland and Belle Plaine around 8:25

One of the attackers swung a baseball bat that grazed a boy's head, security reported. The student, who was not seriously injured, received treatment in the school's medical

"Four of our students were confronted by occupants of an unidentified vehicle in an intimidating manner," LVHS Principal Paul Karafiol said in a letter to parents. "One student was physically assaulted during the incident and sustained minor injuries."

A source stated that the offenders were four or five Hispanic males who got out of a gray Toyota Camry with tinted windows. The car had been seen circling campus around the time of the incident, the source

The student who was grazed declined to sign a complaint, and no police report was immediately filed.

Extra police resources were on-hand for this afternoon's dismissal, according to a paper. An increased police presence is also expected on Tuesday.

Karafiol asked parents to speak with their children "and remind them to be vigilant at all times and to report any suspicious behavior to a trusted adult."

Designer Lincoln Park toy shop adjusts to changing market

BY JIEFEI LIU

"Things come in and out of style," said Whitney Kerr, president of Rotofugi Inc., a designer toy shop in Lincoln Park, 2780 N. Lincoln Ave.

The store features imported artsy toys from around the globe, ranging from $500 vinyl toys by Otto Bjornik to $4 Pokemon figure strap capsules. A gallery space is now occupied by a pop-up shop of Yummy World by Kidrobot, an art toy retailer.

It will have been 13 years this summer since Whitney Kerr and her husband Kirby Kerr opened the store, and will be the ninth year since they have struggled to recover from the 2008 financial

The revenue of the shop steadied around $1 million, but costs have gone up, Whitney Kerr said. Gross margin went down to 38% in 2016, compared with 44% in 2015, she added.

The Kerrs started the store as a super collectors' business where these collectors would spend several hundred dollars on collectables, such as limited toys by various artists from California, New York or Hong Kong, Kerr said, but there are fewer and fewer of

There's an upside of the business though, Kerr said, it's less stressful. They used to receive hate emails from people who couldn't

"My son loves the toys and I'd like to see everything in person," said Carolos Argueta, who came in with his six-year-old son holding a Despicable Me bobblehead.

get a certain limited toy or had to pay higher fees to prevent their website from crashing due to traffic overload, Kerr paused, "but I miss it."

"Their stuff is cute and you cannot get them anywhere else," said Sarah Labarbera, who has been to the store several times. "However, it's a little expensive although this is natural since it's imported."

Maybe people find their collections are full or maybe collecting is out of date, Kerr said, but she is not sure.

"Have you heard of a book called the Magic of Tidying up?' she asks. It talks about how to tidy things up and live without unnecessary items, she said, so probably it's good that people don't buy too much.

Producing designer toys isn't a good business for factories, Kerr said, because those toys are usually produced in limited numbers, while factories want large orders.

The store augments revenue by renting out its gallery space for parties and events, but that results in a dilemma. Kerr said they were hesitant to schedule events, though they produce revenue, because she feels the store has a mission to "help artists promote what they do and cultivate people to patron art. You don't want people to come in on Saturday for the art and see there's still a birthday party going all day," she explained.

Kerr said they had shifted their focus and fashioned the store more like a gift shop, catering more to the general public, and planning to rent the gallery space out not only for birthday parties, but classes and pop-up shops, like the Yummy World shop there last week.

"We come especially for Yummy World," said Amanda Cyrkiel, who came with her husband and child, "my son loves it." Coming to the store is a personal experience and supporting a local business, Cyrkiel said.

Nancy Brehm, a traveling grandma, said she walked into the store hoping to find inexpensive souvenirs for her grandchildren and ended up buying four $2 stick markers, a fancy cinnamon gum and a bar of "luxury" soap.

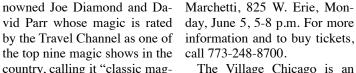

As to their increasing expenses, yes it is more expensive to operate a commercial enterprise in Chicago than every before but it is also partly because of her child, Kerr said. Before having a child, they could work 80 hours a week, she said, but once you have one, you have to cut working hours and hire more people to help. The store has two full time employees and two part-time workers.

"The in-store sales are as awesome as always, but the online business... am I bad at Google Ad words?" Kerr said. "I think we should run the store on service."

"My son loves the toys and I'd ike to see everything in person,' said Carolos Argueta, who came in with his six-year-old son holding a Despicable Me bobblehead.

Another reason why the business is struggling, said Kerr, is that neither she nor her husband have a business background. "I have a degree in chemistry and my husband has one in design."

Kerr said she is excited about all the changes they are going to make, trying to have both the art gallery and birthday parties, to rearrange the place and to set up a salon style gallery, having flat art and exhibiting showpieces on the wall from top to bottom. However, as to future prospects, she said, "ask me in a year. Maybe I will quit."

Chicago's only professional Ultimate Disc team (formerly known as Ultimate Frisbee), Chicago Wildfire have just begun their fifth season in the Midwest Division of the American Ultimate Disc League. They play their home games at Lane Tech Stadium, 2601 W. Addison St.

Their first home game of the season against the Minnesota Wind Chill will take place 7 p.m. Saturday. They will hold a total of seven home games throughout the 2017 season ending on Saturday, July 22.

For those unfamiliar, Ultimate Disc is a fast-paced, non-contact seven-on-seven game played in four 12-minute quarters on a rectangular field with end zones, similar to soccer or football. The object being to score the most points by throwing the disc to a teammate caught in the end zone to score a point.

This season, the Chicago Wildfire have partnered with DeVry Univ., Great Lakes Ultimate Events, and Riverview Tavern to provide a more interactive experience at each home game with youth clinics, contests, and tailgating with beer and food concessions in the DeVry parking lot, just outside of the stadium.

"We're excited to see the growing interest in Ultimate Disc within the community," said CJ O'Brien, owner of the Chicago Wildfire. "While we're glad adults will finally have the ability to enjoy a beer before the game, we're even more thrilled at the social opportunity this creates for people of all ages by expanding the gameday event, bringing fans in early to observe our pregame youth clinics, and just generally allowing people to engage with the sport we've all come to love for the core values it emulates.'

Youth Clinics will take place two hours prior to each home game for one hour. The tailgate party will occur one and a half hours prior to game time and concessions will stay open until the end of the third quarter. Tailgating will include music, contests, and other activities for both kids and adults. Tickets for Chicago Wildfire games are only $10 per ticket per game.

with an ocean rock of faith and splendor, like the ebb and flow of water, spilling out where there was room, a public display of religious procession evolved from a sense of belonging. People were proud to celebrate their identities with tolerance, friendship and pride.

They also flowed out of a feeling of safety and belonging. A sense of oneness with the secular landscape and political environment.

Maybe that Mother's Day was more of an American Fourth of July than we realized? Apple pies, Irish soda bread and big, rare roasts of beef. We were not lost in its vast proportions as a nation at all. We knew right where we should be, warming by that stove of hope and hospitality. History brought us close to the center core of values that first changed colonists into patriots. And Yankee yeomanry into Americans.

Taxes, housing costs and crimes still driving some to leave town

The third largest city in the U.S., Chicago is now seeing negative population growth due to high tax rates and living expenses and a lack of well-paying middle class jobs.

According to the census data by the U.S. Census Bureau, the population of Chicago grew 0.9% to 2.7 million in the five years from 2010 to 2015, much slower than the growth rate of 2.2% in New York and 4.7% in Los Angeles.

It is even likely to be surpassed by Houston, the fourth largest city, where the population in the same period grew 8.9% to 2.3 million, just 400,000 behind Chicago.

More recently, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, of the nation's 10 largest cities, the Chicago metropolitan statistical area was the only one to drop in population between 2015 and 2016. And the Census data points to Chicago and Cook County as being the heart of the population loss. In 2016 alone Cook County lost 21,324 residents.

To top it off, for the third year in a row, Illinois has lost more residents in 2016 than any other state in the nation, losing 37,508 people. And data suggest that this trend may continue on this way for years to come.

One need only look at where population growth is coming from to see why City Hall is fighting so hard to remain a sanctuary city. For decades Chicago has depended on Mexican immigrants to balance the out-migration of its own native-born population. During the 1990s, immigration accounted for most of city's population growth.

Former residents have cited a variety of reasons for leaving including high taxes, the state budget stalemate, crime, poor schools, corruption, the unemployment rate and weather.

According to the Census Bureau the metropolitan area as a whole lost 19,570 residents last year, which was the greatest loss of any metropolitan area in the country. It's the second consecutive year of population loss for Chicago: In 2015, we saw our first decline since at least 1990, losing 11,324

"Everything here is about tax," said Joseph Ramirez, who lives on the South Side but is looking for a house outside of Chicago, to get out of the packed city and have more space.

According to the data, the greatest number of departing residents have ended up moving to Texas, and then Florida, Indiana, California and Arizona in defending Taxes have been the biggest concern of Chicagoans. With a 6.25% sales tax rate in Illinois, plus a 1.75% tax in Cook County, 1.25% in the city and a special tax of one percent, the sales tax rate in Chicago is 10.25 percent, the highest in the country.

The tax rate climbed previously to 10.25%, in 2008, when Cook Country raised its tax by one percentage point. In 2010 the total dropped for a time to 9.25%, but bounced back up in 2016.

Add in the myriad of other hidden taxes and fees buried in just about every activity and service in Chicago and it has become quite a burden.

High housing prices and property taxes also discourage some middle class residents, who will spend more time in a commute to seek lower costs, though that doesn't necessarily mean moving to the suburbs. "I'd never think about living in the Loop. It's too expensive to live here," said Sam Battia, a search engine strategist at a marketing agency in downtown Chicago. Living in a house in the Edgewater neighborhood, Battia spends more than half an hour on the CTA Red Line every day to and from work.

Chicago's population is only three-fourths of the size it was in 1950 when it reached its highest population of 3.6 million. The population started to drop in the 1960s, following the anti-urbanism trend of the mid-20th cenanother anti-city trend, said Anne Dodge, executive director of UChicago Urban, an urban study program at the Univ. of Chicago. Dodge said that the current demographical change is mostly due to economic reasons like job change.

But what ties some people to Chicago is also a job's location, evidenced by a move downtown from Oak Brook by McDonald's Corp. and other big corporations. Job convenience at least partly offsets the drawbacks of living in a city. "There are taxes to consider, but there are opportunities here," said Mary Cutler, an Illinois agent at Redfin, a real estate company headquartered in Seattle.

While some people abandon downtown, some neighborhoods in Chicago are still "hot," especially among young people, who are looking for a location convenient for both work and living, Cutler said.

Death investigation: Political operative commits suicide inside van plastered with 1st Ward alderman's signs Chicago police are conducting a death investigation after a long-time 1st Ward political operative was found shot to death Sunday inside a van plastered with the signage of Chicago Ald. Proco "Joe" Moreno. Suicide is suspected.

Around 4:15 p.m. on Sunday, May 14, a witness near the Elks National Memorial at 2710 N. Lakeview reported hearing a single gunshot come from the van, which has "Proco Joe Moreno" signs affixed to its sides.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Logan Square resident Joseph Muntaner, the registered owner of the van and a long-time member of Moreno's campaign organization and ward operation, according to a city government source who requested anonymity.

Moreno in 2014 said "my guy Muntaner... takes [his van] around to shovel snow, fill potholes, random odd jobs that need to get done. He's a 'unique' guy but a huge asset to the ward, albeit a bit rough around the edges at times. His methods are unorthodox...".

Munater's "roughness" may stem from the years he served in prison for robbery, being a felon in possession of a firearm, and narcotics, before he got into politics.

But he found his niche with Ald.

Moreno, pocketing $34,511.20 of the alderman's campaign fund cash between late Oct. 2011 and Dec. 2015 for "field work, cleaning services, and graffiti removal," according to state

Moreno even recognized Muntaner as a "life contributor" to the ward during a 2015 ceremony in Wicker Park

While the alderman called Muntaner's tactics "unique" and "unorthodox," some folks found them to be "thuggish" during the 2016 city election cycle.

At least two people reported that Muntaner told them that "there will be repercussions" for their decisions to wear stickers in support of Moreno's opponent.

Muntaner's van is now in a police impound lot. A revolver was found on the floor of the vehicle, according to a source. One shot had been fired.

Subway robbed at gunpoint early Saturday

A gunman robbed the Subway restaurant at 3952 N. Sheridan early Saturday—and he took a moment to rob the overnight worker, too.
The offender entered the store around 2:45 a.m., pulled out a handgun, took the store's cash and then demanded the female clerk's iPhone, too.

It all took place just a few steps south of the Sheridan CTA Red Line station

Police describe the offender as a heavyset white man who was wearing a black hoodie, a black hat, a black coat, and black jeans.

Police are looking for a man who held up the Byline Bank branch at 1401 W. Belmont in Lakeview on Saturday morning.

Cops responded to bank alarms around 9:50 a.m. after the offender handed a demand note to a teller. The man fled after receiving $1,352. The robber is described as a white male between 25- and 35-years old with tattoos on his neck and hands. He's about 5'-9" tall, weighs about 155 lbs. and he has a blond or reddish-blond mustache, a witness said.

Another witness said that the man wore a Chicago Blackhawks baseball cap and a gray sweatshirt with the word "CHICAGO" on the front.

Anyone with information about the man is asked to call the Chicago FBI office at 312-421-6700.

Man detained after fondling teen on Red Line; disturbing tweets and FB posts preceded assault

Minutes after posting a string of disturbing Facebook and Twitter messages, an Evanston man grabbed a 15-year-old girl's breasts as they rode a CTA Red Line train last week, prompting other passengers to rise up and hold him for police at the North and Clybourn station, according to court records and online accounts. A series of troubling posts leading up to the incident appear to show the alleged offender making repeated comments about sex and girls -- even citing a recent case in which another man molested a teen girl on a CTA bus.

A teen girl was seated with her mother on the Red Line around 9:45 p.m. on May 2 when Gibran Nawaz, 25, walked up next to her and fondled her breasts through her sweater, witnesses told police.

Three male passengers confronted Nawaz with one announcing "you just can't do that," according to a police report.

Nawaz exited the train at North and Clybourn, followed quickly by a Chicago man and two tourists from Los Angeles who detained him for authorities.

Prosecutors charged Nawaz with felony aggravated battery in a public place and a judge set bail at $100,000. He is due back in court on June 2.

Bizarre Posts

There are disturbing signs on Facebook and Twitter that Nawaz was struggling with sex-related thoughts for hours before he allegedly fondled

On the morning of the assault, a new Facebook account for "Gibran Nawaz" launched with a long, graphic post about sex, rape, and hidden messages. "Please arrest all threat makers, rapists, and molestors [sic]," Nawaz wrote about 12 hours before being arrested. Nawaz identifies himself in the post as a college student who is living in a hotel near the Belmont Red Line CTA

"They do arrest rapists, just call 911. Here is a recent arrest," he wrote before linking to a Chicago Tribune story about a 79-year-old man who allegedly fondled a 14-year-old girl onboard a CTA bus days earlier. Unlike the 79-year-old man, who escaped when a fellow passenger showed him how to operate the bus' emergency exit, Nawaz was detained by Good Samaritans who decided to step in.

Gunman robs work crew in North Center; may be connected to Lakeview incident

Detectives are investigating the armed robbery of a work crew in North Center on Thursday afternoon which may be connected to a similar incident that targeted plumbing contractors in Lakeview last week. Yesterday's victims were working on a project near Lincoln and Grace around 11:30 a.m. when a white Chrysler 200 pulled up, a man got out, threatened them with a handgun, and took the workers' chain saw.

The offender tossed the saw into his car and then sped off with an accomplice

Cops say the case is very similar to an attempted theft of plumbing supplies from a contractor's van in Lakeview one week earlier.

In that case, a man got out of a white Chrysler 200 in the 1400 block of W. Henderson around 11 a.m. on May 4 and tried to cut the lock on a plumbing company van that contained tools and pipe.

The offenders fled before accessing the van's interior, police said. Witnesses described the gunman in North Center as being an 18-year-old black male with short hair who stands about 5'-9" tall and weighs about 160 lbs. He was wearing a blue sweater. The second offender who remained in the car was described as a young black male with long braids.

Last Thursday's attempted theft was carried out by similarly-described offenders

Cops arriving at Boystown robbery in progress call see two familiar faces—and arrest 'em

It's the darnedest of coincidences. Police from the 19th District responded to a call of a man being robbed at an ATM inside of MB Bank, 3179 N. Clark St., early Sunday morning. When officers arrived, they couldn't find a victim, but they did recognize two of the five people who were standing near the ATM.

Turns out those two guys looked exactly like a couple of fellas who were seen on video using credit and debit cards that had been taken in a Lakeview robbery the day before. The guys even had the same clothes that the suspects in the surveillance photo were wearing. Now charged with misdemeanor theft of lost or mislaid property are Jonathan Stokes and Antonio King. Cook County prosecutors refused to pursue felony charges.

Police say Stokes and King were both captured on surveillance video using credit cards taken from four men during a robbery in the 1400 block of W. Warner around 5 a.m. on Saturday. Images from the Target store at 1346 East 53rd Street showed Stokes wearing a black North Face zip-up jacket—the exact same jacket that he was wearing when cops stopped him at MB Bank on Sunday morning, officers said.

And King just happened to be wearing the same blue Cubs baseball hat and navy blue jacket with a white collar and patches that he wore at Target, according to court records.

"I hang out in front of Sluggers," King allegedly blurted out. "All the cops know me!" And now, a few more cops do.

Two offenders who used the other two robbery victims' credit cards have yet to be charged. Also not yet recovered is one of the victims' blue 2011 Jeep Cherokee with Minnesota license plates.

Stokes, 22, and King, 25, both list the same home address in the South Shore neighborhood.

They were set free after posting $1,500 I-Bonds.

Masked gunmen rob Lakeview woman

Two masked and armed men robbed a woman at gunpoint in southeast Lakeview the afternoon of May 9 and then fled the area in a vehicle that was reported taken in an armed carjacking days earlier, police said.

The woman was walking in the 500 block of W. Oakdale when two offenders approached her, displayed a handgun, and took her purse around 3:15 p.m.

Both offenders then jumped into a gray four-door Toyota Camry with a license plate of E957467 and sped off toward Clark St.

That vehicle was reported taken in a carjacking in Chinatown on May 1, according to police records. Witnesses described the primary offenders as two black men wearing masks. The gunman had long dreadlocks, stood about 5'-7" tall, and weighed about 140 lbs. He is believed to be in his early- to mid-20's, police said.

Armed carjacker strikes in North Center man's garage

A North Center man told police that an armed man stole his car at gunpoint in the 1800 block of W. Oakdale the evening May 9.

The man had just pulled his silver 2015 Infinity Q50 into his garage when the gunman walked in behind him and stuck a semi-automatic handgun in his side around 8:10 p.m.

The offender jumped into the car and drove off eastbound in the alley, the victim said

Police describe the offender as a 5'-8" tall black man with short hair who weighs about 140 lbs. and was wearing a black tracksuit with a white stripe on it.

Investigators believe a second car may have been involved in the incident, but no further details were available about that vehicle or its occupants. Tuesday's incident is the latest in a series of armed carjackings that have been reported across our area over the past two weeks.

Other recently reported carjacking incidents include:

- The 3600 block of N. Recreation Dr. around 4 a.m. on Saturday, May 6
- Clark and Sheffield around 10:15 p.m. on Monday, May 1
- At the intersection of Cornelia and Pine Grove at 9:15 p.m. on April 30 Chicago police also issued an alert about a carjacking and auto theft spree in which six cars were taken within 12 hours on Friday, April 28.

West Lakeview gunfire was warning to local drug dealer, cops conclude Bullet casings found at Melrose Ave. and School St.

A burst of six gunshots near Melrose and Ashland early on May 8 was likely someone's way of issuing a warning to a neighborhood drug dealer, cops have concluded.

The shots rang out in an alley between the 1500 blocks of Melrose and School around 1 a.m.

One neighbor found two large-caliber shell casings lying in the alley at sunrise and video footage provided to this newspaper showed a male figure walking in the alley, followed moments later by six gunshots and muzzle flashes that danced off a nearby garage. The apparent gunman then fled back west, the direction from which he came.

Detectives this week concluded that the shooter was likely providing a warning to a nearby resident who is engaged in the narcotics trade, according to a source.

Lakeview residents weren't the only ones to be awakened by gunfire. Around 3:15 a.m. on May 7, folks who live near the 2900 block of N. Damen lit up 911 switchboards with reports of gunfire.

Once again, police responded and found nothing.

And once again neighbors found

And, once again, neighbors found plenty of evidence when daylight arrived, bullet casings were recovered on George St. on Sunday morning.

Around 9:20 a.m., a resident called police back to the area after he found shell casings and a Nissan Murano with fresh bullet holes in the 2000 block of W. George.
No one is in custody for either incident and no one is known to have been shot.

Officers being stalked by biker they arrested

A Chicago Police beat officer and his partner believe they are being stalked for unknown purposes by an 18-year-old male who lives in West Ridge, according to police reports detailing multiple incidents.

The officers had arrested the teenager April 28 in the 1700 block of W. Jarvis Ave. after stopping him for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk.

Police say the teen had been riding his bicycle on the sidewalk while talking on his cell-phone. He then hopped the bike down from the curb and rode into oncoming traffic while continuing to talk on the phone. He had pedaled through a red light at Clark St. and W. Touhy Ave. when the officer, who also was on a bicycle, ordered him off the bike, according to police.

The stop, which was made round 2:50 p.m., was meant to end with a citation, but became an aggravated battery to a police officer after the teenager swung at the officer and began wrestling with him, according both to the report and two witnesses at the scene.

The teen had been aggressive with the officer from the beginning, allegedly asking, "You don't have anything better to do? Why are you stopping me?" according to police.

He was then ordered to the station to receive his tickets after telling the officer he did not have an identification card, which is when he threw the punch and began resisting the arrest, police said. He was eventually taken to the 24th District and charged with battery in addition to the citations.

Four days later, on May 2, the officer and his partner were eating lunch at a taqueria in the 7100 block of N. California Ave. when they saw the teen standing outside and looking at them through the window, according to a follow up report made by the officers.

The teen mouthed the phrase, "F— you b—," through the window before riding his bicycle across the street and getting off in the parking lot of a 7-Eleven where he continued to stare at the pair through the window. He made two additional passes in front of the window before leaving the area, police said.

Robber pepper sprays victim

A robbery victim took a blast of pepper spray to the face May 1 in the 1400 block of W. Granville Ave. in Edgewater, police said.

The victim, a 54-year-old security officer, told police he had been walking west from the lakefront around midnight when the man jumped out from behind some bushes holding a knife.

While menacing the victim with the knife, the man had said, "This is a robbery mother-f—ker, give me your money"

But the victim was not carrying any cash and instead handed over his work bag and wallet which held several identification cards, some clothing, and no cash or cards, according to police.

The robber took the bags and directed a stream of pepper spray into the man's face before running away. Officers responding to the call had the man treated at the scene by CFD paramedics. He was later released in good condition, police said.

POLICE BEAT from p. 10

Police help man get rid of squatting gang members

Police officers recovered a handgun and a box of ammunition April 28 while attempting to help a military veteran living in Rogers Park clear his apartment of gang members.

The 57-year-old Army veteran had called police claiming he was the victim of a criminal trespass to his apartment in the 7700 block of N. Ashland Ave., just south of Cavalry Cemetery in

According to a Police report, the man said several gang members had taken over his apartment. After telling them to leave, one of the men had cocked a semi-automatic handgun and pointed it at his head, telling him. "You can't live here anymore. I'm going to shoot you," the report stated.

The victim gave officers a key to the unit and while one man stood at the rear entrance, the second officer walked in through the front door, but no one was there, according to the report.

The officers did find a 9mm handgun loaded with four rounds and a box of 50 bullets on a shelf inside a kitchen cabinet. The victim said that was the gun that had been pointed at his head, according to police.

Officers found a man hiding in a storage room but the victim said that he was not one of the gang members and officers released him. The victim was told to call police again if any of the men returned to his apartment. The gun was sent to evidence technicians to check for prints.

Smokes crack with friends, then stabs and robs them

Police on April 26 arrested a man who openly admitted to punching and stabbing a man in West Ridge because he felt he needed to in order to rob him, according to a Chicago Police report.

Russell Campbell, 48, of West Ridge was charged with aggravated battery with a knife after police took him into custody around 8 a.m. in the 2500 block of W. Fitch Blvd. The knife used in the attack was recovered in the grass in front of the building.

The 34-year-old victim who police found bleeding from wounds to the head, neck, and chest, said Campbell had attacked him in the front vestibule of his building and attempted to steal

But police said there was a twist to the case, because each of the attacker, victim, and the victim's wife had been up all night together smoking crack rocks in the victim's apartment.

The victim was taken to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston for emergency surgery for the stab wound to the chest, which had punctured one of his lungs, according to emergency room doctors. He had additional stab wounds to the forearm and head that required minor treatments, the report stated.

Peeper arrested

Police were able to arrest a man who allegedly sat crouched outside the Rogers Park apartment of two female roommates before later attempting to crawl inside through an open window.

The women had called police from their apartment in the 6500 block of N. Lakewood Ave. around 1:30 a.m. on April 26 to report the man, according to Chicago Police. In their call they stated they had seen a man crouched outside their building near a window and about an hour later the same man had attempted to pull himself up into their unit through a window left

The man had dropped down from the window ledge and ran from the scene after one of the roommates saw him trying to crawl inside and screamed, according to the report.

Officers stopped a man matching the victims' descriptions about 15 minutes later in the 1300 block of W. Loyola Ave. Both victims confirmed his identity to officers, who charged the 50-year-old with criminal trespass to a residence.

Woman robbed in front of her apartment

A West Ridge woman told police she was punched in back of the head and robbed in her apartment building the night of May 1.

The 50-year-old victim said she had gone home to her apartment in the 6400 block of N. Washtenaw Ave. about 8:30 p.m. and was struck in back of the head in the hallway leading to her apartment. The unidentified robber took her purse and wallet with around $45 cash inside, according to the report.

The victim never got a good look at the man because he was running down the hallway with his back to her by the time she recovered her senses and looked up, according to police.

Purse snatched at the CTA

A woman was the victim of a purse snatching the morning of April 26.

According to police, the 66-year-old victim was at a CTA bus stop in the 7500 block of N. Western Ave. near the border with Evanston around 10 a.m. when she was targeted.

An unidentified man had approached her without being seen and grabbed her purse out of her hand as he ran past her. The woman lost $5 cash as a result of the robbery, police said. No arrests were made.

Medical Examiner reports 44 deaths caused by powerful opioid through April

The Cook County Medical Examiner's Office [CCME] has confirmed more than 40 deaths in 2017 due to a powerful, new opi-

The office has confirmed that from January through April 8, 44 deaths were attributed to acrylfentanyl, a new fentanyl analog whose potency is still being studied.

The data for 2017 is not a real time number, as toxicology testing can take several weeks.

In 2016, seven deaths were attributed to acrylfentanyl.

Fentanyl is a narcotic. A very powerful synthetic opioid that's properly used as a pain medication. It works quickly and has a relatively short duration of action in the body. Most often, it's used to alleviate pain after surgery and with late-stage cancer patients.

For the past few years, there has been increasing evidence of heroin being cut with fentanyl. Perhaps most alarming, a lethal fentanyl dose is only about two milligrams-that's a very small

Today heroin bought on the street is no longer just heroin. A toxicologist with the CCME said that fentanyl analog called carfentanil - elephant tranquilizer - was in every overdose death the Coroner's Office was currently inves-

The magazine, Science, reports that Chinese internet sites advertising fentanyl, carfentanil, and other variants, are labeled as "research chemicals," and sold through the mail to the U.S. On one website, carfentanil sold for $361 for 50 grams would could add up to tens of thousands of lethal doses.

The CCME's office has seen a marked increase in deaths from fentanyl and fentanyl analogs since 2015. The office has determined its recent findings require notice to the general public and to first responders.

"Fentanyl and fentanyl analogues are very powerful drugs that are likely to be lethal," said Dr. Ponni Arunkumar, Cook County's Chief Medical Examiner. "Just one dose can easily stop a person from breathing, causing immediate death."

"These high-potency opioids and opioid analogs are thousands of times stronger than street opioids like heroin and are far more likely to cause death," said Dr. Steve Aks, emergency medicine physician and toxicologist at the Cook County Health & Hospitals System's Stroger Hospital.

In 2016 the City Council approve a measure that required Chicago pharmaceutical representatives to be licensed in an effort to end what officials believe is an epidemic of deaths from heroin and other opiates.

"In many cases, one dose of naloxone, the heroin antidote, will revive a person who has overdosed on heroin. But we are seeing people in our emergency department who need increased doses of naloxone – in some cases as many as four doses – for the patient to be stabilized after ingesting fentanyl, or a heroin/fentanyl combination. The EMS and emergency medicine community needs to be aware of the potential need for additional naloxone in such cases."

Outlaw laboratories in China have been creating new, unregulated variants of fentanyl, some of them even more potent than the original. China's chemical and pharmaceutical labs have few regulations and operate with the cooperation of corrupt government officials. The Chinese fentanyl variants make it easier for drug traffickers to elude law enforcement and create new challenges for both public health and law enforcement officials.

Mexican drug cartels continue to grow and harvest poppies, but now, like the Chinese, they can also get their hands on precursor chemicals and create fentanyl in their own labs.

In 2016, a total of 1,091 people in Cook County died, at least in part, because of an opiate-related overdose. In 2015, 649 people in Cook County died, at least in part, because of an opiate-related over-

Of the opiate-related overdoses in 2016, 562 people died, at least in part, after using fentanyl or fentanyl analogs, which are illicit versions of fentanyl, a powerful drug used by physicians to treat severe

The most common fentanyl analogs in Cook County include furanyl fentanyl and a precursor/ metabolite of fentanyl called despropionyl fentanyl or 4-ANPP. Toxicology tests show decedents have used fentanyl and analogs alone, as well as with heroin and with other drugs such as cocaine.

According to the CDC, the U.S. consumes 85% of all the world's natural and synthetic opiates. Opioid overdoses have quintupled since 1999.

Standing room only as Chicago mariners learn perils of illegal operation

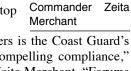

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN Loop North News

The U.S. Coast Guard is hoping education and occasional boardings will reverse a "growing number" of illegal charter operations - such as a commercial vessel not operated by a Coast Guard licensed captain on the southern tip of Lake Michigan and in the Chicago Area Waterway System.

Yes, the Uber ride-sharing model has now reached the waters off Chicago's North Lakefront.

Over 120 people attended a recent workshop at Chicago Yacht Club that was hosted by the Coast Guard and Chicago Harbor Safety Committee.

The commanding officer of Marine Safety Unit Chicago says safe and legal operation of passenger vessels is her top priority.

"Educating boaters is the Coast Guard's primary tool for compelling compliance," said Commander Zeita Merchant. "Forums such as this workshop and the unity of effort from our partnering agencies are critical to preserving the safety of passengers, promoting safe and legal boating practices, and facilitating commerce."

Some of those agencies include Chicago Police Dept., Chicago Fire Dept., Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources, and Westrec Marinas, a marina management company.

In addition to workshops, the Coast Guard will board vessels to make sure they are legally carrying paying passengers and have the required safety equipment on board. In the past year, Marine Safety Unit Chicago has investigated 22 reports of illegal passenger vessel operations. A vessel proven to be operating illegally is subject to a fine as high as $42,750 per day.

Indeed there are reportedly new Ubertype boat ride services populating Chicago this summer that have spread like wildfire among interested weekenders and tourists. Typically these water-taxi-type services are uninspected passenger vessels. Legitimate water-taxis are operated by US Coast Guard-licensed captains who undergo a training and certification process in order to comply with federal law for passenger vessels established as safety measures to try to ensure knowledgeable operators and safety equipment. This concern should be especially relevant for passengers who book transportation services from a smartphone app, including water taxis, fishing, sightseeing, water sports, sunset/dinner cruises and special events.

Safety requirements related to operating as a charter for hire include things like licensing, a mandatory drug testing regime, navigation lights and sound signals, life saving and firefighting equipment, safety orientation and instruction, pollution prevention and more.

Anyone aware of an illegal passenger vessel operation should call the Coast Guard Marine Safety Unit at 630-986-2155.

The Lincoln Park statue had been removed to undergo cleaning and re-gilding. While the statue had previously been cleaned and re-gilded, this was the first time the statue had been cleaned through the process of laser-cleaning. This process does not harm the surface of the bronze statue. Previous cleanings had been through the process of sand-blasting, the standard procedure for cleaning bronze statues but which is not entirely safe for bronze surfaces.

Funding for the statue itself and its maintenance has been provided through a fund set up by the late Kate Sturges Buckingham (1858-1937) and administered by the Art Institute. Buckingham also donated the prominent Grant Park landmark, the Clarence Buckingham Memorial Fountain, to honor her late brother.

CPS announced it's plans after hosting three community meetings earlier this year to debate the proposal. They claim to be going forward with the merger in response to formal requests by community groups. They plan to implement the merger in the 2018-19 school year. Supporters view a merger as an attempt to integrate Chicago's de facto segregated schools, while opponents are skeptical that a merger would do anything to solve Ogden's overcrowding problem as the school is located in a fast-growing community that sees developers now building many new high-rises within the school's boundaries.

By August the CPS hopes to have a draft "transition plan" in place for the merger. It would have to be presented to the Board of Education by Dec. 1, with additional public meetings and hearings set before a final board vote on the issue is taken, most likely in Feb., 2018.
