Can a new Aon observation deck attract two million annually?

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN Loop North News

The latest idea of what to do with the old Chicago Spire site is to build two slender towers, including the fifth tallest in Chicago.

400 Lake Shore Drive would include a 1,100' tower containing 300 condominium units and a 175-room hotel, and an 850' tower with 550 rental units.

Despite a decline in 2016, Chicago and Illinois' reputations for public corruption remain intact

AN INSIDE PUBLICATIONS NEWSPAPER

Nice try Louisiana, but Chicago continues to be the most corrupt city in the country and Illinois remains the third most corrupt state, according to a recent report released by the Political Science Dept. of the Univ. of Illinois at Chicago.

Chicago's continuing corruption is expected to be a major issue in both the gubernatorial elections in 2018 and the Chicago mayoral and aldermanic elections in 2019.

During 2016, the latest year for which U.S. Dept. of Justice figures are available, there were 30 public corruption convictions in the Northern District of Illinois, which includes all of Chicago and the northern third of Illinois. The rest of the state had five public corruption convictions that year for a state total of 35, which is a significant drop off from 69 in 2013 and a decline from an average of 44.8 such convictions per year during the past decade.

"Despite the decline, public corruption remains unacceptably high in our city and state," said Dick Simpson, a political science professor at UIC, former twoterm 44th Ward alderman, and lead author of the report. "Our undesirable reputation for corruption -- unfortunately -- is still intact," Simpson said.

Statistics from DOJ's Public Integrity Section show that from 1976 through 2016, a total of 1,706 individuals have been convicted of public corruption in the federal court in Chicago. The entire state has had more than 2,000 corruption convictions during the same time period.

"Few city agencies or state government offices have been free of scandal and public corruption," said Simpson.

It's been a wild holiday weekend in Chicago, especially in River North and the Magnificent Mile. An estimated minimum of 19 arrests were made between noon on Saturday and 4 p.m. on Sunday related to mob activity, battery, and weapons possession. A number of Mag Mile fight videos from the weekend were sent to this reporter. The mayhem comes less than a month after similar mob actions were reported on the famed retail strip. Our team has identified four confirmed cases of shots fired in the Near North area this weekend-in the 500 block of N. Wells; at LaSalle and Erie, and in the 800 block of N. Lake Shore Dr. Police are still working to determine exactly where the fourth incident occurred. In a low-water mark, an on-duty undercover cop even lost his phone to a pickpocket on Michigan Ave. Sunday. Police grappled with large groups of teenagers in the Water Tower area on Saturday and Sunday nights. Their efforts were snarled when the CTA apparently fumbled plans to send trainloads of kids out of downtown on express runs down to the 35th St. station.

Orders were issued to give the hooligans free CTA admission through the turnstiles, put them on trains that won't stop until they get to Sox Park. The general orders were that the youths [were] "not to go east. They are not to go west. They are to go on the Red Line" south.

2 • MAY 30 - JUNE 5, 2018 INSIDE PUBLICATIONS On being Gainer in the Summer

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

How do five sisters spread out across Chicago's neighborhoods and in different states thriving with creatively high-powered careers, maintain a balance to life during the summer to connect? And enjoy their cultural roots, as well as their place in the world and position in the family? What keeps them grounded?

When all five sisters are in the same room, the energy level is boiling, the humor erudite and hilarious. And the food and drink first rate. All clues to how they succeed in "sistering."

Labor organizer sister, Sheila Gainer, is the youngest. She has two Patricks in her life. A husband and a young son. In the Gainer sisterhood, husbands and children are like wampum. Very valuable. A comforting necessity around the fireside. And always enjoyable.

Sheila and her Patricks are on the move. "We're just moving back from Miami," she almost sings. "We're so excited. We bought a home next door to my sister and can't wait until we're settled. We are just three blocks from the house we grew up in. The very first thing we did is tear down the fence between Mau-reen's house and ours. I'd say we are off to the start of a great summer. No walls between us."

Middle sister Maureen Gainer. Board President of the Beverly Area Planning Assoc., says "When asked about how my family stays in touch over the summer I had to laugh as my husband would assure you that being out of touch is something the Gainers girls have never really mastered. All our lives we have been held by the ties of invisible threads. We couldn't get away if we wanted to. But then we also love each other so much."

Such harmony is real, you can feel it.

So Sheila's move back to Chicago has given the family new excitement. And wider geography.

"We took down the old chain link fence between Sheila's house and ours," said Maureen. "So now our combined yard is such that you can hit a home run without going into the alley or a neighbor's yard. This ensures there are an average of 15 kids in the backyard at any given time. Some are mine, some are cousins and the rest are neighbors. It's a paradise glass of cold prosecco."

Creating the right environments is what it's all about. No matter where you live. No one disputes the relevance of Gainer Girl hospitality, it's legendary.

Oldest Gainer girl, Cook County Cmsr. Bridget Gainer [10th], knows its value in family life. "Summer is finally here, and that means three things: drinks on my sister Maureen's deck; a Gainer caravan to West Virginia for 4th of July; and a cousin takeover at Camp Lawrence in Valpo." She sees shaping the comfortable environment as essential and evolving. "This summer is extra special as Sheila is back in town. She and Maureen [created] a combined "super yard" -- two lots, a swing set, a trampoline and a huge deck -- making it the ideal spot for kids to play and for sisters to make sure Town Liquor stays busy."

The West Virginia trips are a big deal. They make it possible to see the fourth of the sisters, Dr. Mary Gainer. A physician married to a physician, with her own pile of children. Living in a rural region of America, in a place that rarely knows doctors. Mary and husband, Peter, have been transforming the lives of their coal mining neighbors with good medicine. But their large farm home enables the sisters to gather in remote America and enjoy each other's company in a whole new environment.

"My gracious mother-in-law, Viola, was kind enough to buy up neighboring farms and create a homestead out here in the mountains of Appalachia," Mary acknowledges. "Cell service is skimpy (even the Commish is sometimes unreachable!) and the kids can swim and fetch eggs from the chicken house and get re-acquainted with nature while the sisters drink chilled rosé on the porch." Mary and her sisters relish the time spent on the farm, isolated with each other and the bold conversation for which they are known. She is also committed to reciprocating the 12-hour drive, making trips with her family back to Chicago each summer. "I am now the only Gainer Girl living outside of Chicago, we always make a trip home in the summer" when her parents rent a cottage in Long Beach, IN. "That way, my kids get to play with their cousins and I can catch up on all of the Chicago gossip with my family as well as friends and neighbors."

Second oldest, the Art Institute of Chicago's Nora Gainer, has a husband who is Irish born with a large family back in Ireland. Family journeys have always been an established tradition for them. In Chicago, while they operate three very successful restaurants, she focuses on their three children and why they thrive so well on their special road trips. "Fourth of July will find us in the hills of West Virginia where the larger clan (cousins from Sweden, LA and busy Chicago sisters) descends for old school fireworks, cookouts, bluegrass music and cocktails at noon. Kids take their shoes off for a week and adults have no cell service in the mountains. Closest we can get to the majestic and remote hills of Donegal. Pure bliss!"

There is a strong sense of family hierarchy, but it seems natural and soft. Though your place in the family order is all about experience and life events. Summer has always been a time of power and magic for them, enlightened travel and exotic employments over the years.

But Sheila still thinks Chicagoans are conditioned to loving summer because our climate is so changeable. "Nothing beats the excitement of warm weather in a city that has eight months of winter. People are visibly excited in a way that is impossible to get when "cold" is 68 degrees. And that excitement makes everyone want to hang out and have fun and enjoy every minute before hibernation starts again."

Family summer camp energizes Bridget. She feels the deep connection that being away with close family brings. "Camp Lawrence will have a combined 6 Gainer cousins for a week -- allowing even more time for their mothers to enjoy the fact that it's always 5 p.m. somewhere."

blocks to Grandma and Papa's, our house is typically the cousin hangout and sleepover headquarters."

Sheila Gainer sees such family transference this way: "My best memories of summer will always be running like a maniac down the block in a marathon game of hide and seek, playing with the neighbor kids and loving the warm night and the fact that my parents didn't care what time it was." That energy is still palpable.

Careers and geography don't always make for a great summer recipe for familial glue. Some people do use the summer months to get even closer to their kin folk, but these ladies seem to have the edge on sustaining connections with their siblings, their in-laws, children, aunts and uncles, cousins and their parents. Helping others understand better the choices you can make while in the crosshairs of a busy summer. Staying well and Canada.

But these amazing folks aren't the only angels around here, because it's thanks to Paget that this is happening. She is the angelic creator of Cancer Survivor Beauty and Support Day (CSBSD), an international, annual event taking place every year on the first Tuesday in June.

It's a much-needed day of rest for the weary -- those whose bodies and minds have somehow survived the destruction of cancer treatments. Next Tuesday, a whole lot of people in the beauty industry will spend their time offering complimentary pampering services to men, women and children who are fighting -- and surviving. It doesn't matter what kind of cancer you have or when you were diagnosed, if you're here to talk about it, go and get some TLC at a participating spa or salon near you. (There are many on the North Side).

"I am overwhelmed by the people who donate their services all over the country and they've never met me," said Paget, who established CSBSD in 2003 and was honored for her efforts in 2009 by the U.S. House of Representatives. "People have given me their private cell numbers and they tell me they've been waiting for my call.

"Dozens of volunteers give of themselves and they don't even know me but they believe in the event," said Paget, 73. "They believe it's a good thing they do."

Having been involved with both charities and volunteering since she was a teenager, Paget was inspired to have a spa day in her hometown of Highland Park, never imagining that one desire to do something started back in 1995, after her father died that February and her mother died the following month. "I'm superstitious, I believe deaths come in three," said Paget.

Six months later, a routine mammogram showed a spot on one of Paget's breasts, which after a nerve-wracking wait for test results turned out to be a benign fibroid cyst.

"It was five days of an experience," recalled Paget. It was then she decided: "I will devote my life to doing something."

That opportunity came later, while Paget was working as a volunteer in a coffee bar at Highland Park Hospital and heard about a spa offering services to cancer survivors. "I thought it was a nice thing to do in my community," said Paget, who first called Great Clips and spoke to the company's president. Soon, she got all of Great Clips Illinois involved "and it just grew from there."

"I made a chart with A to Z and I crossed off every state," said Paget, who also chaired Saks Fifth Avenue's Key to the Cure for many years. "You'd think that I was running for president."

These days, the day of beauty is Paget's proud legacy, to her children, and her grandchildren. Her goal is to make sure every cancer survivor out there knows that this event, the only one of its kind, is there for them. So help spread the word about this really great day for cancer survivors.

"The real beauty of the day is the support it gives to those in need," Paget said.

No Barbara, the real beauty of the day is that someone with a heart of gold created it.

Thank you, from the bottom of mine.

⁴ • MAY 30 - JUNE 5, 2018 INSIDE PUBLICATIONS Chicago landlords lobby hard against rent control

The Home Front By Don DeBat

Chicago's landlords and property managers are lobbying hard in Springfield to fight repeal of the state's Rent Control Preemption Act, a law passed by the Illinois Legislature in 1997 which prohibits local governments from enacting rent-control ordinances.

Since there are no limitations on landlords demanding excessive or unfair residential and commercial rent increases, State Rep. Will Guzzardi (39th) says this has led to "skyrocketing rents and encroaching gentrification of once stable neighborhoods" in Chicago and throughout Illinois. Rep. Guzzardi is the sponsor of HB2430 that would repeal the act. Three bills dealing with rent control—SB2310, SB3512, and SB3542—also are pending in the Illinois Senate.

However, apartment owners and managers argue that Mayor Rahm Emanuel's and Cook County Board President Toni Preckwinkle's aggressive property tax hikes combined with sharply higher water and sewer taxes, plus new garbage taxes are forcing landlords to raise rents to cover higher costs.

According to a poll, a resounding 93% of economists agree that a ceiling on rents reduces the quantity and quality of housing availability. That's why 37 states currently have some form of rent control pre-emption statute in place and others are pursuing it.

Faced with a 28% real estate tax increase and substantially higher city utility taxes last year, one Lincoln Park 4-flat owner was forced to raise rents 4% to 5.5%, or about $100 a month per unit.

More and dramatically higher real estate tax hikes are expected to follow the reassessment in the city during 2018. Illinois currently has the second highest property taxes in the nation, and a pensionfunding gap of between $129 and $265 billion, including the city and counties deficiencies.

A trio of Federal Reserve economists recently predicted that real estate taxes would have to be increased by 40% for the next three decades to pay off pension debt in Illinois. The owner of a $500,000 home on Chicago's North Side could face $5,000 per year in additional property tax hikes for 30 years to help pay off the still-growing debt. Big apartment owners would have to pay much more.

Rent control 'flawed'

Early in May, Michael J. Mini, executive vice president of the Chicagoland Apartment Assoc. (CAA), attended a Senate hearing and expressed the apartment industry's opposition to rent control, labeling it "flawed public policy."

The CAA is an affiliate of the National Apartment Assoc. and represents owners and managers of more than 1,100 apartment properties and 190,000 rental units in the Chicagoland region and throughout the state.

Rent control or rent regulation was first introduced in Chicago during and after World War II to address a wartime housing shortage. After the war, many larger 3-flats in Chicago were split into 6-flats. If an apartment building had 6 units, it was split into 12 to 18 units. Rent control ended in 1953 after the end of the Korean War.

While the intent of rent control was to ensure an adequate supply of affordable housing existed, Mini said it has been shown in both academic research and practice to have the opposite effect.

"Housing policy experts and economists from across the political spectrum overwhelmingly oppose the concept of rent control as means to create and maintain affordable housing," Mini testified.

A trio of Federal Reserve economists recently predicted that real estate taxes would have to be increased by 40% for the next three decades to pay off pension debt in Illinois.

37 states oppose rent control

According to a poll by the American Economic Review, a resounding 93% of economists agree that a ceiling on rents reduces the quantity and quality of housing availability, Mini said. That's why 37 states currently have some form of rent control pre-emption statute in place and others are pursuing it.

"Price controls on rent negatively impact the housing market by discouraging maintenance of existing housing and construction of new housing," Mini testified.

"Owners of rent controlled units are unable to adequately maintain and upkeep properties, expediting the deterioration and diminishing value, causing disinvestment, conversion to condominiums or other uses," Mini said. "When this decrease in rental housing stock coincides with increased demand, it leads to increased costs for all renters."

Mini cited a 2017 study which concluded that rent control in San Francisco is responsible for rent increases of 5.1% over natural market growth. "Rent control discourages investment and development of new rental apartments, leading to housing shortages, and makes attracting new businesses and jobs more difficult," he said.

Indeed San Francisco now has a growing band of well-paid workers who are forced to live in mobile homes and campers parked street side.

"It also places a burden on local governments. The reduction in property values that results from rent control leads to a decline in property tax revenue," Mini said.

The revenue decrease occurs while government expenditures increase as large bureaucracies are needed to administer and enforce rent control regulations, he noted.

"Rent control typically fails to protect those residents it was intended to help," Mini said. "Since rent controlled apartments are not distributed by need, its effects are poorly targeted."

Rent control discourages residents from moving despite their economic situation, he said. "A better solution to aid low-income renters is to provide rental assistance directly to the consumer, which would allow prospective residents to choose housing that fits their needs," Mini suggested.

The CAA urged the Illinois General Assembly to reject efforts to overturn the Rent Control Pre-Emption Act and any other legislation to enact rent control or rent regulation schemes. "We are committed to working with state and local policymakers on alternative approaches to provide affordable housing such as providing direct rental assistance to residents, and enact policies that streamline, incentivize, and reduce impediments to apartment development," Mini said.

Studs Terkel Radio Archive opens at history museum

BY PATRICK BUTLER

Before his death at 96, 10 years ago, author and home-grown talk radio legend Studs Terkel often worried about what would happen to the tapes of his more than 5600 interviews at WFMT between 1952 and 1997.

He needn't have worried. On May 16, Terkel fans and old friends like Chicago Tribune reporter, WGN radio personality and the official "Mayor of Bughouse Square" paid homage to their hero at a party at the Chicago History Museum [CHM], kicking off the Studs Terkel Radio Archives.

"Here was a man who loved to talk about anything, yet he was such a good listener. He didn't let people off the hook," said Alex Kotlowitz.

This digital platform serves as the cornerstone of the CHM's work to make Studs's legacy accessible to students, teachers, and curious minds of all ages through education initiatives, licensed re-use, and Bughouse Square with Eve Ewing—a new WFMT Radio Network original podcast.

Terkel died in October 2008 in his home on the North Side. An institution in early television, a radio staple for decades, a literary lion since 1967 when he wrote his first best-selling book at age 55, Terkel was born in New York City on May 16, 1912. Terkel worked on radio soap operas, in stage plays, as a sportscaster and a disc jockey. His first radio program was called "The Wax Museum," an eclectic selection of whatever sort of music struck his fancy.

When the unique facility officially opens later this year, visitors will be able to listen to Terkel tapes much like library patrons now peruse stacks of books, said Eve Ewing, another WFMT personality. Offerings will include interviews with global luminaries ranging from Chicago's own Lorraine Hansberry, academician Mortimer Adler, and boxer Muhammed Ali to Irish statesman Conor Cruse O'Brien, oceanographer Jacques Cousteau, civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. and folksinger Pete Seeger... just to name a few.

"Here was a man who loved to talk about anything, yet he was such a good listener. He didn't let people off the hook. He helped people make sense of their lives," said Alex Kotlowitz, author of "There Are No Children Here."

Today's talk radio has its roots in Studs, Kotlowitz said, adding that while he "inspired local writers like Stuart Dybek he also celebrated the uncelebrated. We all wanted to claim a piece of him," he added.

"Studs was able to get to the heart of people" in ways he never imagined, said Eve Ewing, who described herself as "a lifelong fan of Studs," who as a Chicago public school teacher got her sixth-graders to listen to Studs, then go home and interview their parents or grandparents.

Among other things, those kids learned that "everyone, whether they're famous or ordinary, has a story worth telling," Ewing said.

Other tributes came from Mark Kelly,

Chicago's commissioner of cultural affairs and special events, Chicago History Museum President Gary Johnson, and a performance by jazz vocalist Dee Alexander.

As far as admirers like Kotlowitz are concerned, Chicago can never get enough of Studs Terkel – "especially in these dark times, we all need a bit of Studs."

The magnetic tapes on which these interviews have begun to be digitized and the result is the Studs Terkel Radio Archive which represents the efforts of individuals and organizations in Chicago and around the country.

Not only are Studs' radio interviews in process of complete digitization, but so is the entirety of his oral histories with people from the walks of life in and around Chicago from the latter half of the 20th Century (1952-1997). The whole audio archive will be available soon, but already the website is up and being used in the most creative ways.

is one of our tenets," said Jeremy Lewno, founder of Bobby's Kayaks and Bobby's Bike Hike, the tour company he created in 2002 and named for his late father who inspired his passion for travel, community, health, and service. "We hired a general manager to run the kayak division who has more than five years of experience in adaptive sports and activity. He has been working with people with disabilities for years to get them integrated. And our proposed ADA accessible launch dock will finally offer people with disabilities, as well as seniors who want to stay active, an opportunity to access the Chicago River," said Lewno.

The tour company has recently created a new division that acquired 50 kayaks and access to a boat launch in order to add kayak tours to their offerings for the first time this year.

The regular kayak tours will be available to the public starting at $45 per person for a guided, twohour adventure or $30 per hour to rent on your own.

People with disabilities who bring a non-disabled partner to ride with them in a tandem kayak can enjoy a kayak tour for free; the non-disabled partner pays a nominal fee to cover the cost of staff needed to supervise the trip. The kayak rental fee will be

Lewno is offering the kayaks to groups serving the disabled community every weekday morning starting June 16. Bobby's Kayaks has 25 tandem kayaks available to be used by one disabled group per weekday this summer.

"Our Streeterville dock will be one of the only ADA accessible kayak launches in the city," said Lewno of their slip located at 465 N. McClurg Court which will have special mechanisms for people with disabilities.

Lewno said he has already received interest from Special Olympics, Chicago Veterans and Access Chicago. He is also working with the Chicago Park District [CPD] and actively seeking to connect with other organizations that would like to provide a fun and exhilarating adventure to people with disabilities.

"We have been seeing a ton of interest. The CPD is working on how they want to make this successful. With that success, then the word will get out, and we expect to get calls from other groups. We'll be able to handle 50 people with disabilities and their partners per day. As we grow, we'll double that number," said Lewno. "We want to get people of all abilities out there."

Meanwhile, below is his take on the challenge. Sign up at www.chicagoclean20challenge.com and join the Facebook support group: TheClean20. Good luck!

O. Who can take the 20-day challenge?

A. EVERYONE can take the Clean 20 Challenge. The foods on the Clean 20 list are very flexible and accommodating. You can be a vegan, vegetarian, pescatarian, carnivore, omnivore, diabetic, gluten-free-it doesn't matter. The plan allows you to customize your Clean 20 list so that it fits your needs. We started this plan with a group of 1,000 plus people in our Facebook group: TheClean20. The average weight loss in 20 days was 10 lbs. This is a major number. Beyond the weight loss, people reported increased energy levels, better sleep, decreased blood sugar levels, lower blood pressure, and drops in their cholesterol levels. You also don't need to lose weight to do The Clean 20. People who have no extra weight to lose, but who just want to be healthier, eat better, look better, and free their body of all of the processed ingredients we consume, can take the Clean 20 Challenge.

We have 20 gym locations where people will be able to workout for free for 20 days starting June 4. People can sign up easily on our website Chicago-Clean20Challenge.com and find the gyms opening their doors for free. We encourage thousands of people to sign up and take advantage of this opportunity.

Q. Why is clean eating so important?

A. Clean eating is important because so many of our foods are loaded with processed ingredients that can disrupt our hormonal system. One of these ingredients, for example, azodicarbonamide, which is a dough conditioner, is the same ingredient used to make the foam in yoga mats and the soles of shoes. Some of the ingredients we eat are used in cleaning solvents, and some have been shown to cause tumors in animals. Clean eating is a way to avoid overloading the body's immune and hormonal system, something that is happening in most of us every day that we consume these overly processed foods, and most of us don't even realize it. People who feel sluggish or can't seem to lose weight, or their skin isn't clear, likely can find part of the cause in their diet.

We have 20 gym locations where people will be able to workout for free for 20 days starting June 4.

tion can a body undergo in just 20 days?

A. The Clean 20 transformations have been awe-inspiring. Beyond the average of 10 pounds being lost in 20 days, people have reported all types of physical and mental improvements. Lower blood sugars, lower cholesterol levels, and lower blood pressure are just some of the transformative results. People have truly lauded how different they feel and how determined they are to continue eating this way, because they don't want to go back to how they previously felt.

INSIDE PUBLICATIONS Facebook says Cook County data mining lawsuit designed to benefit only county and lawyers

BY JONATHAN BILYK Cook County Record

Saying only the county and its hired trial lawyers would stand to benefit from any settlement or judgment, Facebook [FB] has pushed back against the Cook County State's Attorney's [CCSA] attempt to send back to more friendly legal turf the pending legal fight over how much blame FB should shoulder for data mining conducted by another firm, ostensibly to benefit the 2016 election campaign of President Donald Trump.

On May 9, FB asked a federal judge to reject the county's request to send Cook County's lawsuit back to Cook County Circuit Court, as the social media giant argued against the county lawyers' assertions that, because the lawsuit was filed by a county state's attorney, it should be considered to have been filed on behalf of the entire state of Illinois, and not just for the gain of the county government and the lawyers to whom the county has promised 20% of whatever the county wins from its lawsuit.

"Although it is unclear who would receive penalties imposed at the conclusion of this case (if any), one thing is certain: A group of six private attorneys employed by Edelson P.C. would receive 20% of any such recovery," FB's attorneys wrote in its May 9 brief. "That arrangement - which gives private attorneys a direct and substantial financial interest in this ... action - destroys any pretense that the State is to be the exclusive beneficiary of the recovery, and thus destroys any argument that the State is the real party in interest."

In late March, CCSA's Kim Foxx, in partnership with a group of trial lawyers hired from the Chicago-based Edelson firm and deputized as "special state's attorneys," had filed suit against FB and data firm Cambridge Analytica [CA], ostensibly on behalf of millions of Illinoisans, alleging the companies violated state consumer fraud laws. Specifically, the lawsuit alleges CA mined data from FB users, and then distributed it with the goal of manipulating voting behavior of Illinois residents, and millions of other voters throughout the country during the 2016 U.S. presidential election. While the lawsuit accuses CA had harvested and misused the data, the county's lawsuit accuses the FB of knowing what the other firm was doing and turning a blind eye, or agreeing to allow CA to continue to operate under the purported guise of "academic research, granting the firm the ability to violate "mandatory user privacy protections" and access "Facebook user data under false pretenses." The lawsuit asks the court to order FB and CA to pay at least $50,000 per violation, plus attorney fees.

While not replying to the allegations yet, FB in April removed the case to federal court, and asked the judge to place the proceedings on hold, to allow time for a federal judicial panel to dethe state of Illinois, legal precedents dictate the case belongs in a state court, and not in federal jurisdiction.

FB asserted this represented a ridiculous assertion, arguing the CCSA is a county official, and cide if the county's claims should be combined with those of dozens of other class action lawsuits over the same claims brought against FB and CA in federal courts across the country.

However, the county, through the Edelson attorneys, responded to that request with a motion to remand, arguing the case should be returned to Cook County court because cases brought by a state or on behalf of state defeat what is known as "diversity" - or the requirement that cases brought in federal court include litigants from different parts of the country.

In this case, FB had asserted the case should belong in federal court because Cook County is the only litigant from Illinois.

Cook County, however, said because the CCSA brought the case on behalf of the "people of only the Illinois Attorney General is empowered under state law, the Illinois state constitution and legal precedents from the Illinois Supreme Court and U.S. Supreme Court to bring such actions on behalf of the entire state.

FB noted the duties of the CCSA dictate the state's attorney represents and advises county officials, not state officials, and the office is established by state law and the constitution as autonomous and distinct from the state government.

"... The fact that an Illinois statute authorizes the State's Attorney to bring suit to enforce state law does not mean that the State is the plaintiff," FB wrote.

Further, FB noted there is no guarantee any money paid by FB or CA as a result of the lawsuit would even make its way to the Illinois state treasury, for the benefit of anyone outside Cook County.

Rather, according to the agreement between Cook County and the Edelson firm, the county would be the beneficiary of any settlement or judgment the Edelson attorneys secure on its behalf, and the Edelson firm would then get 20% of the county's take.

"... This case was not brought by the State of Illinois; it was brought by the CCSA, a locally elected official who is 'separate and distinct from the state' and therefore a citizen of Illinois for diversity purposes," FB wrote. "Indeed, the case is being directed and financed by private attorneys with no accountability to the State or Illinois voters, pursuant to a contract of questionable validity that awards them a significant contingent interest in any recovery."

Each of the sisters identified the great dividend of staying well connected with their siblings. It is the secret of their sturdy lives.

"My plans for my first summer back in Chicago will involve sitting on my front porch with my neighbors and watching my little Patrick run up and down the block and have the time of his life -- although I may upgrade from Miller Lite to rosé. And lucky for me that my next door neighbor is my sister and brother-in-law and four nieces and nephews, who have wrapped my three year-old up in their cousin magic."

These are sisters who really love each other as friends. That's the essential step. I am grateful they have allowed us to pry into their summer plans.

Police Beat Two mugged in 30 minutes

in Old Town

Two robberies were reported in the Old Town neighborhood between 7 and 7:30 May 23, police said. No one is in custody.

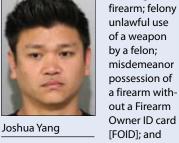

Just after 7 o'clock, a 40-year-old woman was walking in the 1300 block of N. Wells when two men approached her from behind, struck her, and took her valuables, according to a police spokesman. The offenders then ran from the scene. Police said the suspects are two black males between 17- and 20-years-old who were wearing dark shirts and jeans. They were last seen heading westbound from Wells St.

Then, around 7:25 p.m., a 26-yearold woman was mugged by two offenders who displayed a handgun and took her Apple Watch in the 1500 block of N. Orleans, according to a police report. Police said the offenders were two black men between 17- and 20-years-old who are thin and about 6' tall. One wore an olive-colored hoodie and the other wore a black zip-up hoodie. A witness said the men fled eastbound and got into a dark sedan, possibly an older four-door Pontiac.

Man fired shots from Marina City balcony

A man who opened fire on the downtown neighborhood from a condo balcony at Marina City early Thursday is in custody, charged with multiple felonies and weapons violations, police said. No one was injured in the incident. Joshua Yang, 32, was arrested on the 37th floor of the west tower at the iconic "corn cob buildings" at 300 N. State around 3:30 a.m. Sporadic reports of shots fired were made by police and citizens in the Loop and River North over the course of about 10 minutes before officers found a witness who pinpointed the balcony where the gunfire was originating, police said. Cops relocated to the suspected apartment and found Yang, holding a handgun, along with a second man, police said. Police ordered Yang to drop the weapon and lay on the floor. He complied and officers took him and the second man into custody. Yang is charged with felony reckless discharge of a misdemeanor possession of ammunition without a FOID. Yang has been released on electronic monitoring, according to a sheriff's office source. The second man was released without being charged, police said. According to a former resident of the west tower and images included in a rental listing, Yang's apartment balcony faces almost due west over the Westin Hotel and down the Chicago River.

Teen beaten by "15-20" offenders, another robbed near Lane Tech Carnival

Extra police presence was generated for the final two nights of Lane Tech High School's Memorial Day Carnival after a series of violent incidents broke out on Saturday evening. One teen was beaten by more than a dozen offenders and another was punched in the face and robbed, according to police reports. Around 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, a police officer reported seeing a group of 40 people fighting in a grassy area next to the carnival grounds at 2501 W. Addison. When the crowd broke, officers found a 15-year-old boy had been beaten in the attack. A police spokesman said that the victim apparently intervened when a group of 15 to 20 teenagers tried to take his friend's bike. The boy was surrounded by the group of offenders who struck the victim repeatedly while he was on the ground, police said. The victim was transported to Lurie Children's Hospital. No one is in police arrived. Keith Williams Both were taken to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center by ambulance for treatment of their injuries. Williams, who allegedly slipped away, was arrested when she was spotted in the same area last week. She's charged with two counts of battery. Judge Peter Gonzalez set bail at $5,000.

Back on April 24, Williams was arrested at a Target store after a store security guard recognized him as the person wanted for attacking an employee and stealing from the chain's Uptown store days earlier, according to court records. Prosecutors say Williams tried to steal merchandise, bit a security guard who intervened and brandished a weapon during the incident.

Despite the two fresh charges against Williams, the Illinois Dept. of Corrections has not moved to revoke her parole.

Williams first came onto the radar of Town Hall District police officers in Oct. 2014 when—in the course of just seven days—she managed to get arrested twice and beaten up once on Halsted St. in Boystown. A longtime patron of the Boystown social service agency circuit, Williams pleaded guilty to burning down a 126-yearold Lakeview East home in May 2016. She received probation for that case. Williams' co-defendant in the house fire, Ryan Handzel, is currently in jail awaiting trial for allegedly robbing a man at knifepoint near the Belmont

Witnesses said the shots were fired from a gray Nissan Sentra that was occupied by three men.

Gun and drug charges filed against driver who fled cops near Wrigleyville

There are no robbery charges filed yet, but a man who allegedly crashed a Jeep and ran from police in Lakeview early Friday morning is facing plenty of other problems. Around 3:15 a.m. yesterday, cops tried to pull over a red Jeep that they thought could be connected to a series of recent North Side robberies. The driver crashed into two parked cars in the 1100 block of W. Roscoe and ran from the scene, police said.

Luis Miguel Rodriguez, a 23-year-old parolee from the Irving Park neighborhood, was taken into custody by cops who found him hiding in a yard in the 3300 block of N. Racine.

Luis Miguel

Rodriguez

Cops said they found a handgun on the floorboard of Rodriguez's car. He's charged with felony unlawful use of a weapon by a felon; felony possession of cocaine; felony manufacture-delivery of cannabis; and multiple traffic violations.

Rodriguez was wanted for questioning in connection with at least one robbery, according to a police source who spoke on condition of anonymity. Detectives continue to look into any links he may have with recent hold-ups.

On May 21, police issued a community alert after a series of eight armed robberies across the North Side was connected to a group of offenders. The alert said that the suspects were seen leaving one of the robberies in a dark-colored Jeep. At least one offender had displayed a handgun in his waistband or put a gun to the victim's head while demanding valuables in each hold-up.

The robberies were reported in Lincoln Park, Lakeview, Roscoe Village, and North Center on May 14 and May 17, according to police. State records show that Rodriguez was paroled in January after serving about half of a one-year sentence for narcotics.

Daytime armed robbery near Sheridan CTA Station

Detectives are investigating a daylight armed robbery near the Sheridan Red Line station May 22. Police said a 23-year-old man was walking in the 900 block of W. Dakin around 10:40 a.m. when he was approached by two men, one of whom displayed a blue steel snub nose revolver and announced the robbery. The offenders took the man's wallet, phone, and a messenger bag that contained a laptop, according to the victim.

After the hold-up, both offenders took her Apple Watch in the 1500 block of N. Orleans, according to a police report. Police said the offenders were two black men between 17- and 20-years-old who are thin and about 6' tall. One wore an olive-colored hoodie and the other wore a black zip-up hoodie. A witness said the men fled eastbound and got into a dark sedan, possibly an older four-door Pontiac. Less than 30 minutes before the woman was robbed at gunpoint, another woman was mugged a couple of blocks away in Old Town. That incident also involved two offenders, but no gun was displayed.

Cops celebrate "robbery" arrest, but prosecutors only pursue misdemeanors

The 19th District Town Hall Police called the incident a robberv, but prosecutors in the Cook County State's Attorney's office only charged the accused man with a couple of misdemeanors. Around 2 a.m. May 26, a group of people was standing outside a theater at 851 W. Belmont when Caleb Motsinger, 28, of downstate Christopher, IL, began punching a man, according to court records. A 35-year-old Albany Park man told police that Motsinger struck him repeatedly in the face and body until bystanders intervened. Then, Motsinger grabbed the man again, removed the victim's sweatshirt and hat, and ran away with the clothing. Cops and bystanders caught up with Motsinger and he was arrested nearby in the 800 block of W. Fletcher. Police said the victim suffered a cut in his mouth, a stiff neck and bruises to his jaw and knee. The day the local police district celebrated the arrest on Twitter: "After a man was beaten and robbed in the 800 block of Belmont early Saturday morning, community members who witnessed the incident held the offender until police arrived. We don't want anyone getting hurt doing so, but a shout out is in order for getting involved." But prosecutors decided not to charge Motsinger with robbery. He's only charged with misdemeanor counts of battery and theft. He was released on a recognizance bond without even appearing before a judge, according to court records.

Under Illinois law, robbery is a felony that is defined as taking something from another person by force or threat of force. But instead of charging Motsinger with robbery, prosecutors filed separate, lesser charges of battery (striking another person) and theft (taking property from another without force).

The decision to file the lesser charges could indicate that prosecutors believe the theft was a separate act from the battery. Another possibility is that they filed the lesser charges to get the court case started while planning to seek robbery charges from a grand jury. Either way, the Cook County State's Attorney's Office did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

No injuries

after shots fired in Lakeview

Police are investigating a report of shots being fired near the 1000 block of W. Belmont early Saturday morning. No one was struck by the gunfire. Private security officers reported hearing three shots fired from a vehicle that sped northbound on Kenmore around 2:20 a.m. Other witnesses confirmed the incident when police arrived.

Officers questioned a man who had been detained by the private security patrol. The man, who is on parole and has a history of narcotics convictions, was subsequently released.

walked westbound on Dakin and then turned south on Sheridan, the victim said.

He described the offenders as two black men between the ages of 18 and 22 who stood about 6' tall and had short hair. The robber with the gun was wearing a blue hooded sweatshirt with a white stripe across the front and dark pants. His accomplice wore a dark green nylon exercise jacket with dark pants. Similar suspect descriptions were given by a woman who was robbed at gunpoint in the Old Town neighborhood the evening of May 22. Around 7:25 p.m., the 26-year-old woman was mugged by two offenders who displayed a handgun and

Meetings stress safety, vigilance in face of expected summer crime wave

STORY AND PHOTOS BY BOB KITSOS

In the face of rising crime at Summers' arrival, and fears over repeat offenders being freed daily from Cook County Jail, two North Side aldermen recently hosted public safety meetings.

In Lincoln Park, Ald. Michele Smith [43rd] said change is needed in Springfield to balance victims rights with juvenile right.

She noted that in 2017, 42% of vehicular hijackings (that is, with a weapon) were committed by juveniles.

In 2016, there were 600 carjackings, and in 2017, there were 1000 carjackings.

"Until July 1, 2017, carjackings with a gun were automatically treated as an adult offense," she said. "Now, they are handled as juvenile crimes with shorter detentions and, in some cases, erasure of the offense from the offender's record. Currently the policy allows juveniles who commit a violent offense to be immediately released - which is totally unacceptable."

She is demanding that Cook County prosecute "gateway" crimes. "Often, adults and juveniles commit the crime of Possession of Stolen Vehicles before they are emboldened to hi-jack a vehicle. These early crimes are not properly prosecuted due to a unique glitch in Illinois law."

Indeed SB 2339, currently before the Illinois House, allows possession of stolen motor vehicles to be prosecuted like other stolen property crimes. It also allows some juveniles who are arrested for committing an armed carjacking to be detained pretrial. Roberto Nieves [24th].

"Public safety is our numberone priority. Together, with the police, we have made strides to reduce violence in our neighborhood," Ald. Osterman said. "This has been a collective community effort, involving residents, police, business owners, property owners and schools. Communication and collaboration among stakeholders has been critical in improving safety in our community."

The commanders said approximately 20 to 30% of neighborhood crime can be reduced by simply looking out for your neighbors. They urged residents to get to know your neighbors and their cars and not to hesitate to call the police if they notice any suspicious activity; don't become complacent.

Cmdr. Nieves acknowledged concerns raised by some residents about crime on or near CTA stations. "The Red Line is a constant source of angst and we're working closely with the CTA police in this area," he said.

Property crime is a category that includes, among other crimes, burglary, larceny, theft, motor vehicle theft, arson, shoplifting and vandalism and is a frequent source of calls in the 20th and 24th districts.

Cmdr. Loughran said that cell phones, catalytic converters and packages left on porches are the most sought-after items for thieves. Some recent car thefts resulted from the carelessness of owners who left their car keys in the vehicle.

Ald. Osterman said, "As the summer approaches, we must stay vigilant as a community to ensure the safety of ourselves and our neighbors." A brief Q/A session followed the presentations.

another passenger on a southbound Red Line train near the Bryn Mawr stop around 1:55 a.m. After stabbing the victim in the stomach, the suspect announced a robbery but he fled to another car and then exited the train before getting any of the victim's property. The victim previously told police that the offender fled at the Morse CTA station.

Cops were summoned when the train reached the Argyle stop, 1118 W. Argyle. An ambulance crew transported the victim to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center where his condition was stabilized.

The police bulletin describes the suspect as a black male who's about 25-years-old. He was wearing a dark hat with white letters, a black hoodie, a black jacket, and black jeans. He may have a cut near his right cheek, police said.

Anyone with information about the suspect is asked to call Area North detectives at 312-744-8263.

Front Door

The current policy that is sometimes called "catch and release" isn't working, according to CPD Supt. Eddie Johnson.

Meanwhile up in Edgewater, "If you see something, say something," was the main focus of a Town Hall meeting at the Broadway Armory May 17, chaired by Ald. Harry Osterman [48th]. The meeting allowed residents to discuss public safety initiatives and issues with Police Cmdr. Sean Loughran [20th] and Police Cmdr.

have been convicted of crimes such as bribery, extortion, fraud, ghost payrolling, conspiracy, and income tax evasion, and three others were indicted but died before going to trial," he said. "And today, Ald. Willie Cochran (20th) stands indicted and under investigation for allegedly shaking down a local business owner and for stealing $30,000," he added. On a per capita basis, Illinois remains the third most corrupt state compared to all 50 states and the District of Columbia. While New York, California, Texas, and Florida each have more public corruption convictions than Illinois, their populations are much larger than Illinois' and thus they rank lower than Illinois on a per capita basis.

Washington D. C. has the most public corruption convictions per capita, primarily because the population in the District is comparably so low, but also because it is the center of the national government where the Dept. of Justice is headquartered.

Louisiana, which also has a much lower population than Illinois, ranks second on a per capita basis. Louisiana, like Illinois, has a long history of corrupt politics. It has been dominated by a corrupt machine back to the days before Huey Long.

Chicago's public corruption highlights in 2016 include bribery, rigged multi-million dollar contracts and double billing.

In January of that year, John Bills, Assistant Commissioner of the Chicago Dept. of Transportation, was convicted of 20 counts of fraud, extortion, bribery, and other crimes for his part in steering a $131 million contract for red-light traffic cameras to Redflex Traffic Systems Inc. Redflex rewarded Bills with $560,000 in cash; paid him $18,000 for entertainment expenses, and allowed him to use a $177,000 condo in Arizona. The Feds also prosecuted three co-conspirators: Redflex CEO, Karen Finley, Redflex Vice-President, Aaron Rosenberg, and Bills' friend, Martin O'Malley. Redflex agreed to pay $20 million in restitution to the city. In 2013, after the scheme was reported in the media, Mayor Rahm Emanuel cancelled Redflex's contract. In March, George E. Smith, a Chicago businessman, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to defrauding the state of Illinois when he convinced two state agencies to grant him separate six-figure government contracts for the same service. Smith received two grants from the state - one, totaling $400,000 and the other totaling 550,000 -for the same program. He was sentenced to serve two years in prison and ordered to pay $480,000 in restitution. In April, Barbara Byrd Bennett, CEO of Chicago Public Schools, pled guilty to one count of wire fraud. She arranged to receive $2 million in bribes and kickbacks for steering a $23 million no-bid contract to SUPES Academy and Synesi Associates.

To be honest, we couldn't figure out any other way to convey the craziness that emergency workers tried their best to contain.

The videos were taken on and near the Magnificent Mile this weekend, the language is strong. The visuals are upsetting and disappointing.

In December, Chicago Ald. Cochran was indicated on 15 counts of wire fraud, bribery, and extortion. Cochran was charged with soliciting a $1,500 bribe from an attorney who represented developers in his ward. He was also charged with taking $30,000 from the ward's charitable fund and using it to pay for personal expenses.

Then in October, the owners of the companies, Gary Solomon and Thomas Vranas, pleaded guilty to wire fraud and bribery for their involvement in the scheme.

In December, Chicago Ald. Cochran was indicated on 15 counts of wire fraud, bribery, and extortion. Cochran was charged with soliciting a $1,500 bribe from an attorney who represented developers in his ward. He was also charged with taking $30,000 from the ward's charitable fund and using it to pay for personal expenses. Cochran's case has not yet been scheduled for trial. Cochran has announced that he will not seek re-election in 2019.

owners of Aon Center, 200 E. Randolph, in the Loop think they can bring two million people per year to the 82nd and 83rd floors of their commercial office tower.

A glass-enclosed elevator would take visitors 1,136' up the northwest corner of the building to an observatory and restaurant. To get to the elevator, they would cross over from a new pavilion in the southeast corner of the ground floor. Representatives of The 601W Companies unveiled their proposal on May 14 at a community meeting hosted by Ald. Brendan Reilly [42nd]. The observation deck, says the company, "will provide the city with a new and spectacular family activity and experience." The project requires zoning approval by the Chicago City Council but if built it would be the city's third observation deck. 360 Chicago is located on the 94th floor of John Hancock Center. Skydeck Chicago is on the 103rd floor of Willis Tower.
