Then just captain, Paul Bauer (at left) inspects police officers at an outdoor roll call on E. Hubbard St. in 2016.

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN

Arrests are up from last year but what happens after an arrest is what frustrates the commander of downtown Chicago's 18th Police District.

Cmdr. Paul Bauer says there is a "high bar to prosecution" in Cook County, requiring Chicago police to get approval from the Cook County State's Attorney's Office before a suspect can be charged. "Sometimes they want to come out and... talk to the victim," said Bauer at the annual meeting of River North Residents Assoc. Nov. 14. "If you think about it, we're sometimes victimizing this person twice. You just got your phone snatched from you. You got knocked down. Now you're going to be in the station. You got to stay here for another couple hours until the State's Attorney gets out here."

Stretching from the Chicago River north to Fullerton Ave. in Lincoln Park, the 18th District had 13,185 reported crimes last year, according to City of Chicago data, and there was an arrest in 1,897 of those cases or about 14%. So far this year, 12,777 crimes have been reported and an arrest made in 1,932 cases or about 15%.

According to Bauer, 75% of the crime in the district are theft-related, whether it's a theft from a

A turkey of a tax arrives early

Just as North Siders were preparing Thanksgiving dinner last week the Chicago Park District [CPD] swooped in to help themselves to a slice of property owner's turkey with the announcement of a property tax hike.

The CPD announced the new taxes late Wednesday afternoon ahead of the long holiday weekend, as part of a plan officials claim will expand special recreation activities, including pilot programs for adaptive sports, cultural and social opportunities across the city.

The surprise announcement comes on the heels of the tax-happy city's plans to tap Chicagoans's purses with new taxes on their telephones, water, garbage and sewer bills, in addition to ride sharing fee increases and higher ticket taxes on shows and concerts, as well as new taxes on plastic shopping bags enacted earlier this year.

Even the CTA got in on the tax madness upping one-way fares by .25¢ per ride starting in 2018.

Earlier this year the Chicago Board of Education was also given special permission from the Statehouse to raise property taxes higher than the previous legal limit, adding an additional $125 million to the tab by hiking property taxes about 2.5%. And who can forget this year's dramatic corporate and personal state income tax hikes which Gov. Rauner vetoed, a veto which was overturned by the State House and Senate.

All of these looming tax hikes comes two years after the City Council increased property taxes by $588 million over a four year period, the largest jump in the city's history, to foot the bill for city pensions.

The CPD reports that an extra $6.48 would be tacked onto the average Chicago homeowner's property tax bill under their proposed $462.3 million budget for 2018. Park district commissioners plan to vote on the budget Dec. 13. A public hearing will be held Dec. 6 at the district's main office at 541 N. Fairbanks.

While fees for CPD recreational services have steadily climbed year after year, this would be their first property tax hike in four years. The District has also increased the amount of park space they're leasing out for private uses such as for restaurants, theaters, concerts, special events and sporting social clubs.

An Amazon campus at Lincoln Yards is being pitched to include two connected high-rises straddling the river. The proposed soccer stadium would be nearby.

New 20,000-seat soccer stadium, concert venue for Lincoln Park?

Well the 2nd, 32nd 43rd wards may be getting their riverfront recreational space after all, but not from the City or Chicago Park District, and users may have to pay extra to enjoy it.

Last week developer Sterling Bay announced their intentions to bring a large sporting and special events venue to the riverfront -- either as a part of or, adjacent to, the Finkl Steel site they purchased earlier this year.

Now called Lincoln Yards, the developers vision for the site is coming into focus following their announced plans to try and bring a United Soccer League team to this proposed new sporting stadium into the community. According to

Talk of the new stadium on the river rekindled questions with some neighbors as to why DePaul decided to move their basketball team to McCormick Place on the South Side rather than making a play for the Finkl site.

Sterling Bay, the arena and special events center could seat 20,000 and might open as soon as 2020.

Situated at the border of Chicago's Lincoln Park and Bucktown neighborhoods, it may serve as the recreational space neighbors and two local aldermen have been seeking as a part of the re-development along the river.

Sterling Bay says that the facility will feature a retractable roof for year-round programming and could provide competition to Wrigley Field by hosting major concerts. The stadium will reportedly be joined by publicly-accessible recreation fields nearby that may be available for use by neighbors, social clubs and recreational organizations, perhaps at a cost.

Lincoln Park Ald. Michele Smith [43rd] in particular has strongly advocated for more con-

Amazon team in town looking over Lincoln Yards site

BY PATRICK BUTLER

Executives from Amazon were in town last week and have reportedly been taking a hard look at the former Finkl steel plant site -- now known as the Lincoln Yards.

According to reports by several sources including the Chicago Sun-Times, the visitors who have been here for weeks, taking notes and pictures of the 28-acres on the east side of the Chicago River on the border between the Lincoln Park and Bucktown neighborhoods.

Both the city and the state have been offering generous inducements to get the online mega-merchant to locate their second headquarters here in Chicago.

The state has been offering inducements including $1.4 billion in state tax credits if the online mega-merchant were to choose one of several possible sites, including the Lincoln Yards, while the city's bait reportedly includes $65 million in property tax breaks and $100 million worth of free land if Amazon were to build on the old Michael Reese Hospital property on the South Side.

Developer Sterling Bay, which bought the former Finkl site about two years ago, believes Amazon would make a good anchor tenant for its rechristened Lincoln Yards.

Lincoln Yards was one of 10 locations suggested to Amazon by city and state officials. Eight are in Chicago, including the downtown Thompson Center and the "Downtown Gateway District" which includes Union Station, the long-empty Main Post Office and parts of the Willis Tower.

More than 600 Chicago business leaders have formed a committee to get Amazon to move here, with its $5 billion in initial investments and 50,000 jobs.

If Amazon were to choose the old Finkl site it would change the composition and nature of the adjoining neighborhoods for decades into the future, and could eventually take up 100 acres of land along the Lincoln Park and Bucktown riverside, cost up to $10 billion, and take 10 years to finish, Sterling Bay tiguous park space in the corridor, arguing that 10-15 acres are needed to fit the recreational needs of the community.

Talk of the new stadium on the river rekindled questions with some neighbors as to why DePaul decided to move their basketball team to McCormick Place on the South Side rather than making a play for the Finkl site and building an arena that would be within walking distance of their Lincoln Park main campus.

The Lincoln Yards site has been pitched as a potential home for the second Amazon.com headquarters. But whether Amazon comes to the river or not, neighbors can expect to see as much as eight million square feet of mixed-use space land along the river under a master plans that calls for a mix of offices, retail, residential units, a new water taxi station, riverwalk, expanded Metra station and an eastern extension of the 606 trail.

Wreathing of the Lions part of balanced, tasteful festivities

By Thomas J. O’Gorman

Are you comforted by a favorite holiday? Or do you dread the anxiety and expectations that some holidays seem to unleash? Are you a holiday purist or are you OK with some of the cheesier celebrations of the season? Are you persnickety about Christmas, for instance, or can you handle the plastic and fake traditions of holiday marketing? Well, not me!

For the record I am a Christmas person. I have always cherished the traditions that focus on the true value of the feast. Advent seems to bring me to life with its aesthetic and spirituality. I also like goose filled with flavorful stuffing roasted inside the bird. I like spicy berries, creamed cabbage and crunchy game chips. The smoked Irish salmon and fresh oysters as the starter courses for our yule meal. And treasured sherry trifle and Buche de Noel for Christmas dessert.

And that’s just the the dinner.

Cold champagnes from small French vineyards and musty red French Gigondas. Every aspect touches some long established cherished tradition.

Give me a real tree, irregular and with gaping holes, its fragrance wafting through the house. And big silver vases of myrtle, juniper, pine and holly to further intoxicate the air. And low lights and candles burning softly everywhere giving warmth as well as light. I like reading “A Child’s Christmas in Wales,” after dinner as people snooze or cuddle.

Large cups of Barry’s Red Label tea from Dublin with cream and sugar bring childhood back in an instance. No amount of ice and snow can penetrate after steaming, strong cups of Barry’s.

In the buildup to Christmas, I truly love the start of Advent and the beginning of the purple season. My favorite post- Thanksgiving / Christmas-start is, of course, the Wreathing of the Lions at the Art Institute. That’s when the two massive Kings of the Jungle, by sculptor Edward Kemey, are encircled in their evergreen wreaths for the season. The north lion is known as “Defiance,” and the south beast is “On the Prowl.” The ceremony reverences of these great pieces of art have adorned the Art Institute since 1893. They are woven into the artistic character of Chicago and their festive decoration is simple yet sophisticated. It is a poetic doorway into the season.

Going inside after the event to visit the extraordinary Neapolitan Creche is, perhaps, the finest example of the theatrical embellishment of Christ’s Nativity anywhere from the early 18th century. Each year the Creche is exhibited and adds an incredible Italian flavor to Christmas preparations. The exhaustive aesthetic of the creche is boundless and has few comparisons. It is wondrous to have this grand piece of high art be a part of our sensory perceptions of the season.

Treasured friends who are really family come from Annapolis for Christmas. Their presence for dinners, especially Christmas Day, is among the great events of the year. My piano gets a work out and is always tuned for our celebrations. My brother-in-law, Steve, always plays the French accordion and accompanies the pianist, Ben, for a sound that would rival any Parisienne cafe. There are always carols of the English hymnody, and lots a Chopin and Bach. It fits with all the bubbly and chocolates that we feast on through the evening’s entertainments. There is always contentment and reverity that is filled with peace and generous love. I am always grateful because I know that very often holiday tables are not always so jolly for all families.

Sadly many families assemble with unfinished business and long established bitterness that is hard to disguise. Often people return to their roles in their family which they had as they grew up. Somehow our little celebrations have been spared those conflicts. From start to finish we enjoy each other’s company, the many gifts that make us who we are and the genuine sense of sweet companionship that brings us all together. It is all the work of our efforts to create a sense of festivity that is balanced, tasteful and delicious. All shaped by an easiness and courtesy, and certainly a strong sense of simplicity that keeps us focused on what is of value and holy in the season.

People should have enjoyment and love at Christmas. They should be well fed and cherished. People need peace, familiar touches, traditions from the past and traditions from the present that rejuvenate them and make then whole. Maybe that can be done with oysters, or turkeys, or grandma’s stuffing or chilled Champagne or a butter cream cake. Maybe it’s finding new friends among the family who seem to appear when judgments are held back. When interests are shared. And when beauty abounds. Don’t try to do too much. It’s not a race. It’s an encounter. Smell the air. Make sure its pungent with flavorful botanicals. And the savory fragrance of abiding love. A savory fish pie never hurts. And remember, brandy butter will sweeten any dish. There you may find what you are looking for, perhaps, even, your heart.

It is elegant, commanding, state-of-the art, historic and majestic, that’s just some of the comments overheard at John Wrenn and Susan Nichol’s refurbished and year-round Theater on the Lake, at Fullerton and the water’s edge. In addition to blowing the cobwebs off the shuttered lakefront’s venerable old summer theater, they have refined and built-out a 21st century food and theater showcase. Boasting top-of-the line food in two restaurants and bar, the performance center will house continuous theatrical productions and events at a freshly reconfigured and expanded shoreline with breathtaking views of the skyline and North Lakefront. Crime and violence are on the upswing. Five violent robberies recently in broad daylight on downtown streets by gangs that rough up and beat their victims as they rob them. Christmas shopping isn’t safe!

Changing a life is something to smile about

Heart of the 'Hood

By Felicia Dechter

What do you think it would be like for someone with either no front teeth or extremely messed up ones to have a new set of pearly whites for the holidays? Imagine how life changing that would be?

For a few very lucky folks who have long been singing, "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth," it's about to really become the most wonderful time of the year. SpiralTech, a downtown-based dental implant company, is about to make it a very Merry Christmas. And they're seeking to spread the word about their generous offer.

The company is sponsoring a Holiday Smile Donation event, and they are giving away --for free -- restorative dental care with an implant-driven new smile that they hope will change life for three qualifying people in need. Those who receive the work -- valued at about $10,000 per person -- will be able to flash their beautiful new smiles, just in time for Christmas.

Giving back to the community is an important part of what SpiralTech stands for, said Zach Person, the company's spokesman. "Giving someone a new smile can change a life. This is the kind of goodwill we would like to associate with our brand."

So how does this generous give-away work? Call 312-440-7777 to schedule a dental screening, which will be held between 7:30 and 11:30 a.m. Nov. 30 at the Chicago Smile Center, 875 N. Michigan Ave. (Suite 3250). That day, the doctor will do a quick oral exam to screen for minimum bone mass,

American Writers Museum features two authors

A special event at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 4, in the Preston Bradley Auditorium at the Chicago Cultural Center, 78 E. Washington St., features an evening with Walter Isaacson speaking about his new biography on Leonardo da Vinci. The talk will be followed by a book signing.

Caroline Fraser's book Prairie Fires: The American Dreams of Laura Ingalls Wilder will be the subject of an event at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, in Readers Hall, 180 N. Michigan Ave. Books will be sold after the event.

Dr. Jonathan Yahav will be giving out new smiles to three lucky people this holiday season.

gum health, etc.

Anyone can take part in the screening, but optimally, SpiralTech is looking for patients with missing front teeth. Preferably, the person should be low income.

"If a new smile can help someone down on their luck pick themselves up and improve their lives, this is a great win-win story," said Person.

Those who are chosen have to have existing bone and oral health at a level that can support the implant procedure. After three people are selected, surgery will be provided on Dec. 20. All stages of dental care will be provided absolutely free of charge. That includes all dental implant(s), abutment(s) and crown(s) necessary to reconstruct someone's smile.

The work will be done by Dr. Jonathan Yahav, a dentist who's a graduate in Biomedical Engineering, Computer Science and Mechanical Engineering from Northwestern Univ. Following his degree, Dr. Yahav helped develop an Infrared Controlled IV solution pump, as well as development of portable computers. He also created a software scanning program for the head and neck. After earning his dental degree he focused more on oral surgery and implant dentistry.

"I've been practicing dentistry for a quarter century, and one thing I've learned is that I have received because I have given," said Dr. Yahav. "And giving someone a new smile can change a life... and this, makes me smile."

Person said he hopes the people's new smiles will drive a positive story for them personally and professionally. How does it feel to be able to provide a new and fabulous look to someone for free and in time to show them off in holiday pix? His answer: "Priceless."

Making beautiful music... every Monday, at Petterino's Monday Night Live (MNL), 150 N. Dearborn St., is the wonderful and impromptu musical showcase hosted by the immensely-talented gals Denise McGowan Tracy and Beckie Menzie. Hard to believe the time has flown by so quickly, but MNL is celebrating its 10th Anniversary of holiday spectacle with a special Songs of the Season Series.

The series kicks off Dec. 4 with cast members from the immersive comedy show "Tony N' Tina's Wedding." The fun and holiday spirit continues the following weeks of Dec. 11 and 18. Each evening of open mic cabaret will feature naughty and nice holiday classics, carols, and sing-a-alongs.

Monday Night Live began a decade ago with a simple concept - provide a unique entertainment option in Chicago's theater district on a typically "dark night." If you've never been you should go, as it is not only fun, but the talented people it attracts is amazing.

"We've blended a sophisticated setting, professional atmosphere and appreciative audience for established and emerging singers to try out new work or simply have some fun," said MNL founder, producer and co-host Denise McGowan Tracy. "We're thrilled that it caught on and that the unique combination of talent, supper club setting and location has made MNL one of the longest-running open mic concepts in Chicago."

Nearly 800 singers have stepped onto the stage throughout the years. Cast members from dozens of touring and local productions from theaters including The Goodman, The Lyric Opera, Porchlight Music Theatre, Kokandy Productions, Broadway in Chicago, and many others have popped up in MNL's audience. Jazz artists, cabaret performers, opera singers, pop vocalists have also shared their musical talents.

"We never know who we might see grace the stage at MNL," said co-host, pianist and award-winning cabaret performer Beckie Menzie. "From Jeff Award winners to Tony Award winner Jesse Mueller; and legends like Marv Levy, Marilyn Maye, and Bill Kurtis -- our guest performers have delighted us through the years."

That's a wrap... bring a present, wrap it up, and have some Christmas cheer at the North Dearborn Association's annual Joy of Toys holiday wrap party from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Dec. 2. Toys are collected and wrapped for the kids at George Manierre School and the Catherine Ferguson Child Parent Center.

Once again, just as he has done for the last 22 years, Mario Stefanini, owner of Mario's Table, 21 W. Goethe St., will provide complimentary food and drink for all. Since 1993, the event has provided more than 7,300 local kids with a gift during the holidays.

Admission is free but you have to bring a new, unwrapped toy valued at $20 for a child three to 10-years-old.

Clean out your closets!... and bring any gently-used or new winter clothing items -- any size -- to Leona's Restaurant, 6935 N. Sheridan Rd. There's a huge box just waiting to be filled up for the holidays. They will be distributed to needy community members.

And through Dec. 11, bring gently-used coats to benefit local families in need to the 2nd Ward Service Office, 1400 N. Ashland Ave., where Ald. Brian Hopkins also has a coat drive going on. For more info call 312-643-2299 or email ward02@cityofchicago.org.

The Home Front

By Don DeBat

Thousands of Chicago homeowners and prospective home and condominium buyers are likely squeezing their wallets and holding their breath as proposed tax reform legislation inches its way through the U.S. Congress.

Tax reform legislation proposed by the U.S. House takes a historic step in directly revising the mortgage-interest deduction—a $70-billion annual tax expenditure.

While the House version of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act would let homeowners keep their existing mortgage interest deductions, future home purchase mortgage deductions will be capped at up to $500,000.

In contrast, the Senate version of the tax reform bill retains the current $1-million ceiling on home-mortgage amounts that are eligible for interest deductions. The Senate bill also leaves intact mortgage-interest deductions on second homes, which would be eliminated under the House bill.

Any change in the coveted home-mortgage interest deduction will directly have a negative effect on the average American homeowner, stressed lobbyists for the National Assoc. of Realtors and National Assoc. of Home Builders. According to the Internal Revenue Service, half of the 32 million households claiming the home mortgage deduction earned less than $100,000 annually.

Generally, Americans view the $1.5-billion tax reform bill as benefiting the wealthy and corporations, according to opinion polls. People are skeptical tax reform will do much for middle-class taxpayers.

Write-offs for property taxes are yet another target of both the House and Senate bills. The so-called SALT (State And Local Tax) write-offs—deductions of state and local property taxes, sales taxes and income taxes—takes a heavy hit. Under the Senate bill, SALT is killed outright. The House version limits the real estate-tax write off to $10,000.

However, under the Senate version of the bill, million-dollar homeowners in the Loop, Gold 1418 N. Lake Shore Dr.

Coast, Lincoln Park, Lake View, Edgewater and other upscale lakefront Chicago neighborhoods with property tax bills of $20,000 to $25,000-plus would completely lose these huge tax write-offs.

Even if the real estate tax deduction was cut to $10,000 under the House bill, it would mean the loss of $15,000 or more in write offs for owners of a $1-million Chicago home or condo, experts said.

With Chicago property taxes expected to spiral dramatically higher over the next decade to pay for government pension liabilities, North Siders can expect this financial hit to get worse every year.

Both the Senate and House bills also make a major change in one of the most valuable current tax benefits of homeownership—the right to pocket capital gains on home sales without paying federal income taxes.

Under current tax laws, married home sellers filing joint federal tax returns can exclude up to $500,000 of capital gains from the sale tax free if they have resided in and used the property as a principal residence for two out of the preceding five years. For single homeowners, the tax write off for capital gains is $250,000.

To cut homeownership tax write-offs and rein-in house flippers, both the Senate and House bills also tinker with the capital-gains formula. To qualify, sellers would have to live in their homes for five of the previous eight years to use this benefit, and could only use the tax-free provision once every five years.

“If eligibility rules for excluding the sale of a home from capital gains taxes are changed from requiring living in your home for two of the past five years, to five of the past eight, selling the median U.S. home after four years of ownership would mean paying $2,363 in federal taxes, up from zero currently,” said Skylar Olsen, Zillow Senior Economist.

Changes in the capital gains rules also could create tax issues for transferee homeowners and young married couples starting a family who are trying to move up from a starter home in less than five years.

The Senate bill also makes changes in write-offs for home equity loans. The Senate erases the entire category known as “home equity indebtedness” from the tax code, which now allows write offs for up to $100,000 in debt. Homeowners with existing first mortgages might still be allowed to borrow against their equity, but could be limited to using the money only for improvements to a principal residence.

There is one bright spot in the Senate version of the tax reform bill. It preserves the federal historic-tax credit which provides a 20% credit for developers who do historic rehab of income-producing properties.

Unfortunately, the historic-tax credit doesn't affect the average American homeowner or taxpayer.

Why I voted “no” on city budget

BY SCOTT WAGUESPACK
Alderman, 32nd Ward

Every year at this time, the City Council votes on the city budget and this 2018 budget passed 47-3. This year both the City and County had tough votes to take on the financial direction of the governing bodies.

As usual budget hearings are contentious, at times sparking controversial debate. One would think it would be a difficult one to pass. But as is often the case, this budget sailed through with a high vote total.

I voted “no” on Mayor Rahm Emanuel’s proposed 2018 budget because it falls far short of what the working families need and deserve. I thought about voting yes—but elements of this budget are simply unacceptable for residents and small businesses.

The City remains in a fiscal crisis that this administration has helped to create through years of irresponsible, high interest borrowing that profits big banks and financial firms at the disproportionate expense of low-income Chicagoans.

The Mayor would like us to believe that the City’s finances are back on track. The scenes in Chicago’s neighborhoods and our public school classrooms tell a different story.

Ald. Scott Waguespack

Chicago taxpayers have recently been hit with an increase in property taxes, water and sewer fees, a new garbage tax and a phone tax.

Public employee retirees have had to pick up thousands of dollars in health care costs that were previously covered by the City. And yet, again through this year’s budget, the Emanuel administration adds to the load of regressive fines, fees and taxes that working families must bear.

By 2020, Chicago will need more than $600 million to meet actuarial costs for all four city pension funds. Within five years, we will have to come up with up to $1.3 billion in new revenue and spending reductions to meet scheduled contributions to the City’s four pension funds and make rising debt payments.

I could not in good conscience vote to advance this irresponsible approach.

I was disturbed by the apparent sabotage of two budget amendments that would have given the CTA and CPS carte blanche with millions from the City coffers, with zero Council oversight. This is simply irresponsible and sets a dangerous precedent.

Despite aldermanic concerns about continued recycling failures and hemorrhaging of tax dollars, more blank checks of city-levied taxes to Chicago Public Schools and the CTA, underfunding for the Civilian Office of Police Accountability [COPA], with a twist of political chicanery, financial smoke and mirrors and police overtime that is still completely out of whack, the budget passed 47-3.

The council spent additional time during the budget vote meeting confirming a mayoral candidate for the police board and passing some other resolutions.

The discussion about the CTA vote pertained to their budget and lack of oversight by the Council for tax dollars they will receive. We questioned mayoral staff and CTA officials regarding the funding as well as the reasoning behind RTA fare increases. As we found out only last week that the CTA will be raising fares .25¢, which was completely contrary to what they said in hearings.

This budget will increase funding for new garbage cans after being behind for several months (about 18,000 cans short) and adds additional funding to the service fee that brought in about $60 million/year. There is an increase of $1 million for rodent controls efforts, and over $80 million to CPS for security and after school programs. I think many of these issues are important to manage, and require this type of commitment to funding the basics of running a city.

Where I took issue with the budget was around the broken promise of COPA funding, the fifth year of police overtime mismanagement while crime issues remain at the top of the problem list, the blocking of amendments on CTA and CPS funding, cuts to the already disastrous mental health safety net, recycling, and using one time financial hits to get short term gains. We’ve sold more important City assets and have created more Tax Increment Financing Districts, with others to come in areas of the City that do not need it-further burdening taxpayers and moving backwards on TIF reforms.

Other aldermen pushed back on the 911 fee and amusement taxes as well as the mayors backroom changes to the city billboard deal that would allow for normally illegal video on highway and neighborhood facing billboards.

No budget is perfect, and I don’t expect one, but there are other options and Chicago can do better.

Supporters come to the aid of Senn wrestling program

Students at Senn High School, 5900 N. Ridge Rd., needed wrestling singlets in order to compete this season. The school located in Edgewater had the highest numbers turn out this season to join the wrestling program ever and the coaches and teachers did not want to turn kids away because of uniforms.

Word quickly spread and the fund raising goal of $2,235 was quickly met last week with the help of matching donations made by the DICK’S Sporting Goods Foundation.

“Hard work beats talent when talent doesn’t work hard!” This is the motto my wrestlers live by. These are some of the hardest working athletes I’ve ever met. My wrestlers are not what you would expect; they haven’t been wrestling since they were old enough to walk. They are a unique bunch of athletes who, despite the odds being against them, did exceedingly well last season.

Senn Bulldogs wrestling has a record-high 62 participants for the 2017-18 season so far - 16 of them female wrestlers.

The coaching staff truly believes that sports are a vital part of high school culture and essential to preparing our student-athletes as leaders. We are building our program and our student leaders are very much a part of this process. Our high school boasts one of the most diverse student bodies in our city, if not in the entire state of Illinois. Our students work hard and deserve every opportunity to succeed. The student-athletes on our wrestling team are humble and dignified, talented beyond our expectations, and natural born leaders. Please help us help them.

Having new team singlets means an increased opportunity for students to participate in wrestling this season. Our goal is for all of our participants to have properly fitting uniforms so they can compete.

Our wrestling program provides students with a structured, safe environment after school from November through February and an opportunity to challenge themselves both mentally and physically, while building life skills such as endurance and humility.

We don’t believe that anyone should be turned away from our program. This project helps us ensure more student-athletes get the opportunity to compete. On behalf of our team, my coaching staff and I want to thank you for your generosity and support of our program. Without you, none of this would have been possible.

AMERICA’S GANGSTER

Presented by John Russick
Vice President for Interpretation and Education
Chicago History Museum

Chicago’s legendary association with organized crime is mostly due to the meteoric rise, violent reign, and humiliating fall of Al Capone, America’s most famous gangster.

John Russick will contextualize the Prohibition Era in Chicago and Lincoln Park and explain Capone’s impact on the city’s identity. Russick will use—and share with the audience—a new virtual reality app that explores the city’s and Lincoln Park’s most notorious unsolved crime.

the cops that the building did not like them loitering in the building. He said some tenants did not want them hanging around inside. Hope no one needs a 911 anytime soon! They should just cross that building off their list. Go to the 900 N. Michigan building or the Drake Hotel across the street. Now that the season for Michigan Ave. street crime has arrived and muggings are back in vogue, I hope the tenants at 950 have another number to dial should they be threatened or abused while walking down Boul Mich. There’s some nasty folk in this world.

So expect those demographics to start to alter quickly.

Honors Chicago icon, music great Ramsey Lewis

“Let’s Make The Cure Contagious,” a first-time fundraiser for CeaseFire held at the Arts Club, drew some big time movers and shakers who found the concept of treating violence as a disease to be totally compelling.

Honoree and internationally-respected music icon Ramsey Lewis was recognized for his 50-year career and his commitment to community. He gave a very touching account of how his mother kept him off the streets by insisting he practice his music, and heralded the work being done by CeaseFire in Chicago’s at-risk communities.

More than $200,000 was raised through the work of gala co-chair and Lakeview resident Jeremy Kaufman. “It was great to see people so interested in effecting change,” said Kaufman. “Many who previously thought of violence in our communities as being intractable with no solution to an impossible problem, now see hope because of the message that violence is a preventable epidemic, and because of the proof that it’s not just an idea – but a concept (developed by Chicago’s Dr. Gary Slutkin) that is working in 23 cities and 13 countries.”

The response was so great that there will be a subsequent conversation on CeaseFire at the Standard Club on Dec. 7. You could have heard a pin drop during the eloquent account given by long-time CeaseFire worker Jalon Arthur, who had lived a violent life for which he’d served time in jail, and who talked about his turn-around and his commitment to help cure violence. Wintrust Bank upped its commitment and offered its facility for future CeaseFire events.

And the dad promising vengeance and the curse of hell upon the driver. Some critical phone calls were made towards the State Department, it is said. And daughter dear actually lost her phone privileges. She is strictly a CTA girl now.

Columbia College teachers go on strike

The Part Time Faculty Union [P-fac] at Columbia College has voted to authorize a strike. The vote passed with an 88% approval rate.

The P-fac Steering Committee has called for a walk out, and has set the strike dates for Wednesday and Thursday, between 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

The strike march begins in front of the school building at 600 S. Michigan Ave., and union members and other supporters are expected to be at an 11 a.m. press conference today.

According to a memo sent to union members, staff grievances include budget cutbacks, mergers, curriculum changes and new work rules.

The union has asked working teachers to "announce to [their] classes that [the] faculty union has voted to strike and that you must honor the picket line. If you teach later in the day you can inform your students ahead of time and provide them information on the coalition."

The union is also asking members to commit to making a donation to cover the faculty who are walking out and may lose pay. The teachers presently have a no strike clause in their contracts, although P-fac claims that the no strike clause is no longer in place.

"At the end of August our Collective Bargaining Agreement expired and we began bargaining for a new contract. P-fac decided not to extend the contract," states the unions memo. "This is due to the College not honoring our collective bargaining agreement and making unilateral changes throughout the College."

The union says they will be meeting with the college Dec. 1 to resume bargaining.

At the Chicago School of Shoemaking and Leather Arts, 3717 N. Ravenswood, over 8,000 students have learned the art of hand-making shoes and other leather goods, and many have gone on to launch their own leather-working businesses.

School of Shoemaking and Leather Arts launches 12-week leather technician program

Chicago School of Shoemaking and Leather Arts, 3717 N. Ravenswood, has launched a new Leather Technician Certification program. This one-of-a-kind program equips students with highly sought-after skills and knowledge that will open the doors to a variety of fields and employment.

The program focuses on four comprehensive areas: leather knowledge, construction and artisan techniques, equipment and machines, and design and patterns. Upon completion, graduates will be ready to utilize their expertise in many high-demand industries including furniture and upholstery, fashion, theater and costume design, as well as the automotive industry.

The school touts itself as the premier leather working school in the country. They teach the art of hand-making shoes and other leather goods to promote self-sufficiency and sustainability, and provides their graduates a viable means to make a living. "With more than 240 hours of hands-on professional training, students acquire expertise that you can't find anywhere else," said Jonathan Eisler, the school's Executive Director. "Our students walk out the door equipped and ready to start their new profitable leather working careers on day one."

Since its founding in 2011, the school has provided life-changing skills to more than 8,000 students, many who have gone on to launch businesses of their own.

Police Beat....

Gunmen rob two delivery drivers Sunday, crash stolen car

A pair of armed men robbed two delivery drivers then crashed a stolen car two blocks from Mayor Rahm Emanuel's home and slipped away Sunday evening. It all played out in about an hour around Lakeview, Uptown, and North Center. Around 8:30 p.m., a driver for Chicago's Pizza was robbed at gunpoint by two men in the 4200 block of N. Winchester. The offenders took the man's money and food, then fled westbound on Berteau from Damen, police said. About 30 minutes later, the same men used a handgun to rob another delivery driver in the 4400 block of N. Greenview. The pair escaped with the victim's food delivery, $120, wallet, and phone. Both victims said the robbers were black men in their 20's who wore black clothing and masks. One of the offenders had dreadlocks. Finally, at 9:30, two men fled the scene after crashing their stolen Jeep into another car at Berteau and Ashland, just down the street from the mayor's family home. The two men were last seen running eastbound on Berteau. Proceeds taken in at least one of the delivery driver robberies was found in the Jeep, police said. The car was stolen Friday in the 1200 block of W. Wilson. No one was injured in last night's robberies or in the car crash. Police are following several leads in the cases.

On parole for package theft, North Side man is charged with 7 more package thefts

A Rogers Park man, on parole for package theft, has been arrested again, authorities say. For package theft.

Surveillance video showed Angel Marquez, 39, repeatedly entering apartment buildings on the North Side to steal packages from mail rooms, police said. He is charged with seven felony counts of burglary, seven felony counts of theft with a prior conviction and felony possession of heroin. Marquez was paroled in January after serving half of two concurrent three-year sentences that he received for package theft in Evanston. The packages he went to prison for in 2015 contained camera film and a $40 umbrella. After his latest arrest, Cook County Judge Stephanie Miller decided to let Marquez go on a $50,000 I-Bond. State officials last week had a different idea: They revoked Marquez's parole, so he's sitting in Stateville prison, serving out the balance of his previous conviction. He's scheduled to be released in Jan. 2019.

Identity thief had 18 credit cards, drivers licenses in various names

Say hello to convicted felon and parolee Andrew Haussler. Or maybe he's Sara Ching Yee Seng. Or possibly Katie Michaud. Or... Well, we'll get to that in a second. Haussler, 29, was arrested earlier this month after police responded to a domestic disturbance in the 1500 block of N. Kingsbury in Lincoln Park. Officers say Haussler gave them a temporary Illinois driver's license bearing the name Steven Orzech. But a search of state records showed no match for the ID's information, police said. When cops searched Haussler, they allegedly found 15 credit cards issued to various names and two more temporary Illinois drivers licensees—one in the name of Christopher Sturtevant and the other in Haussler's name. All of the IDs had Haussler's photo on them, police said.

Among the credit cards were VISAs bearing the names of Katie Michaud and Sara Ching Yee Seng, according to court records. Haussler is charged with two felony counts of possessing a fictitious ID card; three felony counts of possessing a counterfeit credit card; and obstructing identification. But that's not all. Hausler was paroled on Feb. 1 after serving a fraction of three concurrent one-year sentences for narcotics, driving on a DUI-revoked license, and aggravated fleeing police. In May, he was charged with three felony counts of aggravated ID theft of a person over age 60 after he allegedly purchased $1400 worth of merchandise using a woman's Nordstrom account in River North, prosecutors said. For the May incident, bail was set at $1 million. He skipped bail, failing to appear in court during the summer. Authorities lost track of him until he was arrested this month. Records show Haussler has been sentenced to a total of 17 years in prison since 2011, but he keeps going free thanks to the system's generous parole and concurrent sentencing allowances. His previous prison sentences include two years for narcotics in 2013; two years for theft in 2011; a concurrent two years for retail theft in 2011; another concurrent four-year term for ecstasy manufacturing in 2011; and yet another four-year term for amphetamines in 2011. The state still hasn't revoked Haussler's parole, despite the fact that he has been charged with eight felonies since being released from prison in February. He is currently being held without bail.

Thanks but no thanks

The Thanksgiving holiday got off to a rough start last Wednesday afternoon for a man who was robbed at knife-point near the Diversey Brown Line CTA station. Two offenders mugged the man of his black book bag in the 2600 block of N. Wilton around 3 p.m., police said. Both robbers were Hispanic men—one wearing a white hoodie and the other a dark blue hoodie. They were last seen running southbound on Wilton.

Armed man robs stores in Lakeview, Old Town

Police are looking for an armed man who robbed small businesses in Lakeview and Old Town Saturday morning. Around 11:20 a.m., a man walked into The Vitamin Shoppe, 3325 N. Ashland, and demanded money while pressing a kitchen knife against a female worker's skin, police said. The man collected cash from the store's register and safe before running away toward Roscoe St. Police said the suspect is black and has a beard. He's in his mid-30's, stands about 5'-9" tall, and weighs approximately 180 lbs. He was last seen wearing a tan hat with a black coat while carrying a large black backpack. Investigators believe the same man used a kitchen knife to rob the Best Price Cleaners, 1212 N. Wells around 10:50 a.m. on Saturday. As in the Lakeview robbery, the offender displayed a knife and told a female worker that she was being robbed. He took money from the

Police still seeking help in June 18 hit and run death of promising graduate

At 1:30 a.m. Sunday, June 18, Eric Judge, 23, was struck by a vehicle on the 2000 block of W. Division St. The vehicle, unknown in color, sustained significant damage to the hood, front bumper, front quarter panel and front passenger-side windshield. Judge died immediately from deadly impact so intense that he was thrown onto a parked vehicle. Currently, police do not have any person(s) in custody. Cook County Crime Stoppers is now pleading for help solving this tragic loss for Judge's family and friends, and is asking anyone in the community with information to come forward. Those who may have something to tell are asked to call Crime Stoppers where there is no need to leave a name. Anonymous tips can be called into the tip hotline 800-535-7867 and you will be given a code. If your call is the tip that helps solve this crime, you will receive up to $1,000 in a cash reward. Judge, a native of New York City, overcame life-long learning disabilities and obtained his college degree in Environmental Engineering from Northwestern McCormick School of Engineering in Chicago. Judge was the youngest of three siblings known as the 'Irish Triplets' and he was fondly register and is believed to have fled southbound. The suspect's description resembles that of the Lakeview offender: a bearded black man between 40- and 50-years-old wearing a light brown skull cap and a black jacket. Both victims said the man was armed with a steak or cooking knife with a wooden handle.

$500 Bond for allegedly armed shoplifter

An Englewood man who was allegedly armed with a handgun when he tried to shoplift from a Michigan Ave. store last Friday morning is free after posting bail of just $500. H&M security said they saw Ronnel Spencer, 27, using wire cutters to remove sensor tags from clothing that he proceeded to put into a backpack at the Magnificent Mile shop, 840 N. Michigan Ave. Spencer ran out the door, but was captured nearby. Police said they were escorting Spencer to H&M's loss prevention office when he tossed a loaded .38 caliber handgun as they walked through the accessories department. Prosecutors charged him with felony aggravated unlawful use of a weapon—concealed and misdemeanor shoplifting. In court, Cook County Judge Anthony Calabrese set Spencer's bail at just $500.

Shoplifting mob hits Southport store on Black Friday

About eight thieves mobbed a Southport sporting goods store on Black Friday, then fled with pricey winter coats. The crew entered Uncle Dan's at 3551 N. Southport around 2:30 p.m., witnesses said. Four Canadian Goose brand coats were quickly scooped up and the entire team fled. Canadian Goose's website shows coat prices starting at about $500 and going as high as $1,700. Police believe two get-away cars were involved. One was a blue Taurus with a temporary license tag that begins with 567T. It was last seen speeding northbound on Southport. Descriptions of four primary offenders were available: a male, black, early 20's, 5'-10" to 6-feet tall, 160 lbs., jeans; female, black, early 20's, 5'-6" tall, 120 called Mudge (Mini-Judge) because he was so close in age to his siblings. "My son, at an early age, learned to be his true self, demonstrating a strong foundation of ethics and family values that he embodied throughout his brief life. Eric also was an avid believer in organ donation. It devastates us to know the accident that took Eric's life was so horrific that it prevented us from donating his major organs in accordance with his wishes. Not only did our family lose Eric that night, he died just one week before his 24th birthday; instead of celebrating his birthday, we held his memorial service that day. If I can express one thing to my son as his mother, I would like to say thank you for always letting your loving friends, family and colleagues know how much you cherished us, as we cherished you." "My family and I, along with some of Eric's friends, co-workers, and those who have been working tirelessly and selflessly on our behalf. We ask the Chicago community to help us in finding those people who can help us solve this crime to prevent this immense tragedy from happening to other families," said Eric's mother, Mary Ann.

Lakeview: men targeted in separate robberies on holiday weekend

Two men were robbed in separate attacks early on Black Friday, one in Wrigleyville and another near the Belmont Red Line CTA station. No one is in custody. Here are the early details: • A 49-year-old man was found lying in an alley and bleeding from his mouth in the 3100 block of N. Sheffield around 3:15 a.m., police said. The victim was walking down the street when an unknown offender displayed a knife and punched him in the face, according to the police news affairs office. The robber took $15 from the victim and fled. No offender description is available. The victim is being treated at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center. • Another man flagged down police and reported that he had just been targeted in a robbery attempt in the 1200 block of W. Addison shortly after 4 a.m. Residents had also called 911 after hearing the man yell for help in the alley. The victim was only able to describe the offender as a Hispanic man who was last seen running north.

Lincoln Park, West Town home invasions connected; alert issued

Two armed home invasions, one in Lincoln Park and the other in West Town, have been connected to the same offenders, police say. Now, a community alert has been issued. On Nov. 18, two men approached a Lincoln Park man on the side of his residence in the 900 block of W. Wrightwood around 2:45 p.m. and forced him into his apartment. Once inside the unit, the robbers bound the victim's hands and feet before searching his home for valuables. An iPhone, $300 cash, and a silver ring were taken. Two days earlier, the same men posed as delivery drivers to gain access to a woman's apartment in the 1400 block of N. Bosworth, the alert said. As in Lincoln Park, the men reportedly walked along the side of the West Town victim's home and approached her as she stood outside with a dog around 7:15 p.m. At the victim's door, the two turned violent, pushing the woman into the apartment at gunpoint. One of the men pistol-whipped and punched her in the face, police said. The two then demanded money from the woman and searched the apartment for valuables before leaving. Police said one offender is a 20- to 25-year-old Hispanic man who stands about 5'-8" tall and weighs about 150 lbs. The other suspect is male, black, about 5'-10" tall and 160 lbs. Both robbers covered their mouths with black scarves during the home invasions. In West Town, the Hispanic man wore a neon green reflective vest and carried an empty box that he claimed was a delivery. That man wore a tie-dyed t-shirt in the Lincoln Park incident. Anyone with information about the cases is asked to call Area North investigators at 312-744-8263.

Charges filed in Sunday gunfire near Clark/Diversey

A suburban man opened fire in an alley near Clark and Diversey on Sunday afternoon, shooting out two condominium windows, but causing no injuries, said Chicago police. Brandon Ortiz, 23, of west suburban Hillside is charged with felony unlawful use of a weapon—concealed; felony aggravated discharge of a weapon into an occupied building; and two misdemeanor counts of criminal damage to property, a department spokesperson said. Witnesses said a gunman opened fire during what they believed to be a drug transaction in an alley in the 2800 block of N. Orchard shortly before 3 p.m. on Sunday. Passers-by reported hearing eight to 10 shots fired and police later found shell casings in an alley behind the Half Shell restaurant across from the usually-bustling Trader Joe's. At least one person reported seeing two men engaged in what appeared to be a drug transaction with a third man in or near the alley, a source said. At some point, the third man pulled out a weapon and fired repeatedly. No one has come forward to complain about being shot at or robbed. Ortiz is not charged with any drug-related crimes. Ortiz was arrested about 20 minutes after the shooting when a resident reported seeing a man hiding a gun in his clothing near the intersection of Clark and Orchard. A handgun was recovered, police said. Two windows in the 2800 N. Orchard condo building were shot out in the incident—one on the sixth floor and the other on the eighth floor. No one in the building was injured, police said. A judge set bail for Ortiz at $10,000 this afternoon.

Women mugged in Lakeview, Lincoln Park

A Lakeview woman was robbed around 9:20 p.m. on Nov. 20 near Roscoe and Seminary, according to police. A lone offender approached the woman on the street and took her large black leather purse before running away northbound on Seminary, a report said. The robber was described as male, black, in his 30's or 40's and about 6' tall. He was reportedly wearing either a hat or a hoodie. • Four bold offenders pushed a woman to the ground, choked her, and ripped away her purse in Lincoln Park on Nov. 19. The woman was in the 2500 block of N. Bosworth when the robbers attacked her around 4:45 p.m. The four were described as black men in their late teens or early 20's. The primary offender wore a large brown jacket with a hoodie.

Night Out in the Parks seeks to continue to uncover partners that find creative ways to celebrate nature and the great outdoors, highlight the parks’ historic and natural assets through site inspired pieces, and engage youth in the arts through their incredible programming and community engagement.

“[The program] has provided a platform for more than 120 arts and community organizations each year to showcase their work as part of this successful year-round, city-wide initiative,” said CPD CEO Michael P. Kelly. “In 2018, we aim to continue to foster creativity and cultural celebration in Chicago’s 77 community areas by hosting over 1,000 varied, free cultural events in our neighborhood parks.”

Fear crawls out for the holiday season with Gingerbread Grindhouse

Ghostlight Ensemble continues its holiday horror tradition this December, returning Gingerbread Grindhouse to the Greenhouse Theatre Center, 2257 N. Lincoln Ave.

In a nod to the lurid, violent films popular in the 1930s through 1970s, Gingerbread Grindhouse will feature a series of live trailers for grindhouse-style plays yet to be, before continuing on to the feature production, Nutcracker Nightmare – a holiday tale of children, the toys they love and the toys that try to kill everyone they love.

“There’s only so much joy and peace on Earth and A Christmas Carol people can take during the holidays. Sometimes you just need to see folks get stabbed with comically large scissors to make it through the season,” said Director Chad Wise. “We’re documentaries, and short film proposals to be screened for a citywide audience in Chicago’s parks from Aug. 25 to Sept. 2, 2018. The 2017 film festival lineup featured 18 movie selections during the week-long showcase.

This film festival does not require a submission fee; granting all local filmmakers equal access to this worthwhile opportunity. All selected films are screened multiple times during the week-long series, awarded a small honorarium of up to $500 and promoted as part of the extremely popular Movies in the Parks series and as a Night Out in the Parks event.

New sanitarians fill hole in inspector-starved city

Restaurants to pay the costs

BY BLAISE MESA
Columbia Chronicle

Chicago is strengthening its fight for safer food sanitation methods with new measures to catch unhealthy restaurants.

Twenty-two more food inspectors, or sanitarians, will be added to the city’s current total of 38 in the next two years, according to a mayoral press release.

The cost for the new inspectors will be passed on to larger restaurants through a three-tier licensing tax. Only establishments larger than 10,000 square feet will be subject to a $225 licensing tax increase from the original $1,100 tax. Food venues—such as taverns, diners, grocery stores and restaurants—will also be subject to an increased mandatory re-inspection fee of $50–$100, but the initial inspection will remain free.

“When we are hearing about more and more rats in the city, we need to make sure we [are] hold[ing] our restaurants and groceries up to a pretty high health standard,” said Daniel Block, a professor of Geography at Chicago State Univ. and member of the Chicago Policy Food Action Council.

Chicago has more than 13,500 food establishments, which include restaurants, taverns, grocery stores, bakeries and convenience stores. All institutions are inspected by the current 38 health inspectors at different rates year round.

Places with riskier food-handling practices can be subject to two inspections per year, while others may be inspected once every two years. Inspectors must also follow up on customer complaints throughout the year.

From Nov. 1–14, 58 restaurants, taverns and other eateries failed inspections from the Chicago Dept. of Health, according to the Chicago Data Portal.

“I have noticed some sub-par cleanliness standards in some [Chicago] restaurants, but nothing that’s turned me off from them,” said John Villarreal, who spent seven months as a line cook for Mexican-chain-restaurant Qdoba. However, if people took a deeper look into some kitchens, they would see some health code violations, he added.

Chicago has lacked sufficient health inspectors since it showed a need for more sanitarians in a 2016 audit by the city’s inspector general. The audit revealed the city was about 56 inspectors short to adequately inspect all its food service businesses, according to a 2016 investigation by The Chronicle.

Although 22 new inspectors are only half of the amount recommended by the inspector general’s audit, the increase will help bridge the gap, primarily by inspecting smaller establishments, according to Block.

“I don’t think they are meeting the mandated frequency, at least for many of the small grocery [stores], and I assume that’s true for restaurants as well,” he said.

Yasmin Gonzalez, general manager of Pauly’s Pizza, 719 S. State St., said she supports the increase in health inspectors and is ready for an inspection at any time, adding that the restaurant has never failed an inspection. The restaurant has nightly cleaning, and employees are up to date with the health code certifications and requirements, she added.

The increased number of inspectors will also help Chicago better meet the state and federal requirements for inspector staffing.

“If you can make [health inspections] a more regular thing, people won’t try and get around [the health code] as much,” Block said.

Commish Gainer kicks off annual toiletry drive for women in jail

With the Holiday Season upon us, Cook County Commissioner Bridget Gainer [10th] is launching her annual toiletry drive for women at the Cook County jail.

Gainer, who’s district runs up the North Lakefront from Lincoln Park to Rogers Park, has partnered with over 20 local Chambers of Commerce and community organizations and local elected officials to collect toiletries for the Cook County’s Women’s Justice Programs during Christmastime and Mother’s Day 2018. She has advocated for women at the jail system since her first day at the Cook County board as many of them are mothers.

Items available for donation include travel sized shampoos, conditioners, bars of soap, small combs, white socks, composition books and cards with stamped envelopes. Currently women in the Cook County Jail receive a bar of soap upon arrival, so she thinks that gifting them during the holidays with luxury small toiletries is a great way to spread some holiday cheer.

“It is important to remember there are many ways to help right now,” Gainer said. “We have all this stuff sitting in our bathroom drawers, it may not mean anything to us, but could bring some comfort to a woman during the holidays. There is no reason to delay even small acts of kindness.”

An interactive map with a full list of drop off locations can be found at www.bridgetgainer.com/toiletrydrive. For more information call 312-603-4210 or email office@bridgetgainer.com.

'Nap studio' offers power naps to sleepy Chicagoans and visitors

BY STEVEN DAHLMAN
Loop North News

Sleepy shoppers are in luck. A “nap studio” has opened on Michigan Ave. across from Millennium Park, offering a bed, blanket, and pillow to the sleep-deprived. Peace Power Napping says its service is for exhausted professionals, students, and travelers. Thirty minutes of naptime costs $20.

Using a mobile app, nappers can reserve a small space complete with eye mask, eye pillow, ear plugs, silk pillowcases, and aromatherapy. Wi-Fi, USB ports, and outlet are available, too, if you can’t completely unplug. When your time is up, lights and music fade in.

Founder Jennifer Thomas calls it “on-demand napping.” She says the goal of Peace Power Napping is to “make it as easy as possible for city dwellers to grab a restorative midday power nap.”

According to a 2016 study by Centers for Disease Control, 35% of adults in the United States do not get at least seven hours of sleep per day on a regular basis. Seven hours is the minimum recommended by American Academy of Sleep Medicine and Beds at Peace Power Napping.

Sleep Research Society for adults aged 18 to 60 “to promote optimal health and well-being.”

“Sleep isn’t a luxury,” says Thomas, “it’s the foundation on which every aspect of our being rests upon. Our physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual wellness, our ability to be actively engaged in our work and our relationships, and our likelihood to fulfill our life’s true potential is all contingent upon how rested we are.”

an Amazon site.

The project would still need to get the city’s OK, after public meetings with Ald. Brian Hopkins (2nd) and Ald. Michele Smith (43rd) and neighborhood organizations. Amazon’s search for a second headquarters is nationwide with reportedly over 260 proposals now before them. Factors working against Amazon coming to Chicago are the high cost of living, high taxes, uncertain public schools and the city/county/state’s dire financial situation.

building or theft from a person, including a suspect who, while riding a bicycle, recently swiped mobile phones from people in River North.

“We caught that guy,” recalled Bauer. “And we figured he did about 30 [robberies] over the course of a couple months. We were only able to charge him with one felony theft [because] victim identification was a little hazy.”

Another man, named Willie, previously convicted for numerous burglaries, was caught but allowed back on the street three days later, electronically monitored, such as an ankle monitor, while waiting for court dates.

“Even when we catch somebody,” says Bauer, “there’s still a long way to go to get them off the street.” In August, Chief Judge Timothy Evans replaced all the judges who presided over bond hearings in Cook County and directed new judges to set bail in amounts more affordable to defendants. This is at odds with Chicago police, who would prefer to see higher bail amounts for career criminals.

“That guy, Willie, he’s a case in point. He needs a high bond,” said Cmdr. Bauer. “We got him for a number of burglaries. He’s on parole for burglary. He needs to sit. We got to get him off the street. It’s just like if you have kids, if there’s no consequences to your action, those actions are going to repeat.”

And when they do go to jail, they need to stay there longer.

“The Sherriff of Cook County, for whatever reason, is very proud of the fact he has

Advice for condo residents: Lock your door, be suspicious

Cmdr. Bauer says many burglaries in downtown Chicago involve unlawful entry of condo units.

If you leave your unit door open and someone walks in, claiming it was a mistake, Bauer advises skepticism.

“We all know what condo we’re going to. Call 911 and just give a description. You don’t even have to yell at the guy. As soon as he leaves, pick up the phone, lock your door, and say what you saw.”

Bauer has advice for business owners, too – improve lighting, upgrade surveillance cameras, and call 911 if you spot something suspicious.

“If you have cameras that are three, four years old, you need to upgrade them,” says Bauer, calling today’s camera technology “unbelievable.”

reduced the population of the county jail. Maybe I’m jaded, I don’t think that’s anything to be proud of.”

Cmdr. Bauer would like to see more career criminals in jail. “You can say, we don’t know if that’s going to reduce recidivism. This is how I look at it, I want them off the street. We’re not talking about the guy that stole a loaf of bread from the store to feed his family. We’re talking about career robbers, burglars, drug dealers. These are all crimes against the community. They need to be off the street.”

It is frustration police deal with every day as they try to make communities safe, says Bauer.

“This has been going on for quite some time but it’s getting worse.”
